THE PRECIOUSNESS OF LIVES.

Now that Senator Harding has been nominated by the republican party to run for president of the United States, he ceases to be an ordinary mortal. We read in a news dispatch that he has returned to his desk in Washington, "guarded by policemen and followed by an automobile filled with secret service men."

In other words, the life of Senator Harding has become sacred. It is the same life he had before he was nominated by the republican convention; the same life that needed no watching or safeguarding before that time; the same life that almost any of us have, but dominated by more intellect, perhaps.

No reflection upon Senator Harding is intended by this observation. He is a worthy man, but it is strange to note how a force of circumstances can lift a mortal life out of the commonplace and make that life worth protection at the risk of other lives.

The threatened break in the republican party only tends to prove whether a candidate for nomination has his own personal ambitions at heart or the welfare of his party. It's hard to see another man get the job you've fought for, much less help him get it.

LET'S STRAIGHTEN THE LINE.

It's about time that Cisco snap out of this skirmish formation and get back into company front. There are too many people waving their arms and crying: "Follow me!"

Let's touch elbows, push onward together, and heed those whose shoulders are touching ours on either side, rather than him who races forward to lead, breaks the line, and becomes a stumbling block.

The census shows that Los Angeles has outstripped San Francisco in the population race and is now the largest city of the Pacific coast. Which only goes to show what publicity will do for a city. It is said that Los Angeles has nothing but its climate to recommend it. If that is the case, then other cities that have more than that should be ashamed of themselves for making such poor use of their talents. But you can't get publicity for a city unless the people in it are doing something worth being talked about; unless, like Los Angeles, a city happens to have been favored by Nature beyond all others.

When a ship goes down at sea you read of the captain stoically standing with folded arms upon the deck of his vessel until it dips from sight beneath the waves. In a train wreck you find that "both engine crews jumped to safety."

PREMIER HEART BREAKER TELLS STORY OF LIFE

JACK DEW'S CAREER IS STREWN WITH STORIES OF LOVE ESCAPADES.

LAW PROVES HARD

Planned Marriage With Young Daughter of Wealthy California Family.

International News Service. LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 15.—This is the story of a "man of 100 or more wives," whose irresistible way with the women won him countless hearts, all of which he tossed away as he would a finished cigarette.

As the Barker in a circus would say, Dew is a "receding mountain." He has been loved from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes and the some.

His latest love affair, that is, the last before his affability failed to win over a detective, had as the principal Miss June Hunter, 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. L. C. Hunter, wealthy California woman.

Dew, in "receding mountain" style, won this girl's heart in a week, obtained the mother's consent to a wedding, borrowed a few hundred in cash and skipped.

June cried, and they waited. Dew never came back from his mission, which he told the mother was to settle a Canadian estate of quite a few thousand. They asked the police to institute a search.

Dew, when found was arrested in connection with numerous diamond embossments from wealthy women, whose hearts he captured, and then unwound a love story that sets a record for speed.

The debonair heart-breaker de luxe on a train from the East to Los Angeles, met three charming ladies—Mrs. J. W. Redmond, wife of a well-known attorney of Beverly, Cal.; her sister, Miss Margaret McCormick, and her sister-in-law, Miss Mary Redmond.

Jack, with his irresistible manner, engaged these ladies in conversation, had them won over before three stations were passed, and when the train stopped at a water tank was calling them by their first names. He was "Jack" to them.

Then came the story about the estate in Vancouver, B. C., which he must see a lawyer to have straightened out. The women all wore beautiful diamond rings.

If Jack had 'em he might make something of an appearance before the lawyer and get his money pronto. Would the ladies be kind enough to "lend" him the rings for a day or so?

Several days later, when Jack failed to return, detectives were notified. Jack was in the training camp at Campville, Ky., during the war. When mustered out he came to California with a friend. He stopped at the friend's home in Pomona. While in the city he laid siege to many feminine hearts.

Some he met in church, he said. Married not if they were married, he could easily find the husband. He would walk home with the man and his wife and in a few days the wife would be lured from her home.

When the police went through Dew's effects they found a mountainous mass of photographs of women and letters and telegrams to and from women all over the country. "That's not love letters," Dew told them. "There was a kid in every corner."

It seems that he met this wealthy girl in the East more than a year ago. She was to be married in three weeks. She had traveled much, living in Philadelphia, Europe and in Australia. He fell in love with her. She "fell" for him.

When the three weeks passed by she married the other fellow—but retained her love for Dew.

"But we had a quarrel a few months ago and she went to Sydney, Australia, where I suppose she still is. She was a lovely girl."

JACK Z. DEW, MISS MILDRED (JUNE) HUNTER.

Cisco Police Officer Gives Pickpockets a Run for Their Money

"You haven't lost your purse, have you?" asked Police Officer Jim Malone of a middle aged man, who, with his wife, was disembarking from an east-bound train yesterday morning.

"No, I don't think so," said the stranger. "You'd better look and see," responded Patrolman Malone.

The man reached into his pocket and found that his purse containing $15 was gone. "I thought that fellow was picking your pockets," said Officer Malone as he swung aboard the train.

On the way to Eastland he searched the coaches and found a man whom he claims to have seen block the path of the victim while a second man with a coat over his arm picked his pocket.

The alleged pickpocket could not be found, however, and having no evidence against the other man, Officer Malone released him from custody when the train reached Eastland.

"That's the fourth set of light fingered operations I've run out of here in the past two weeks," says Patrolman Malone, "and with that close call I don't suppose they'll be back for a long time to come."

Eastland Judges Beat Scouts in First Game of Series by 10 to 4

Special to The News.
EASTLAND, Texas, June 15.—The Eastland Judges easily took the first game of the series from the Scouts here Monday, 10 to 4.

Cruse, on the mound for Cisco, allowed 10 hits, and, coupled with errors by his team mates, made the sailing a cinch for the Judges.

In the third inning Cisco got busy on Darnell, knocked him out of the box and took the lead, 4 to 2. The Judges strengthened, however, as the game advanced. They added a couple in the sixth, one in the seventh, and in the eighth, tore loose by piling up five runs and clinching the game.

Double-Header Divided By Nitros and Eagles On Ranger Lot Monday

Special to The News.
RANGER, Texas, June 15.—The Nitros and the Eagles divided a double header here Monday, the first game going to the Eagles, 3 to 1, in 10 innings, and the second to the Ranger team, 4 to 1.

Lovelace lost the first game for the Rangers by dropping a fly ball, which let in the winning run. He later made up for the error, however, when he drove out a couple of triples in the second affair, which won for the locals. Score by innings:

Among young girls in Russia it is a favorite amusement to conceal their finger rings in small heaps of corn on the floor. A hen is brought in, which begins at once to peck at the tiny heaps of grain. The owner of the first ring exposed to view will, according to popular belief, be married before her companions in the experiment.

GIL'S GLEANINGS

When Lejeune of the Cincinnati Reds in 1916 threw a ball 416 feet and nine and one-half inches, he established the record for the longest throw ever made in the history of baseball.

Now that the Scouts are on the road again, the old jinx seems to have made his appearance. Every time a road trip comes around, accidents and injuries hit the local nine in bunches. Jack York is now having trouble with one of his dogs. He sprained it in a collision with a runner recently.

When Johnny Wilson, middleweight champ, meets Augie Ratner in Philadelphia tomorrow night, the new king of the middles will have a chance to show whether or not he is made of the real stuff. Augie is a two-fisted fighter and kicks like a young trip-hammer.

Fight fans will watch with interest the outcome of the Carpenter-Levinaky battle, which is scheduled for July 25. If the French champion disposes of the battler in ready fashion, he will have then proved some reason for wanting a bout with Dempsey.

Think of playing a full nine-inning game in 32 minutes! That is the feat the Mobile and Atlanta teams of the Southern Association accomplished in 1910. If a contest is finished in an hour and 32 minutes now-a-days, we think it's pretty fast time.

We talk about pitchers in our time as being iron men who work 25 or 30 games a season, but back in 1884, Radbourne, of the Providence club hurled 72 full games in one baseball year. That is at the rate of a game every other day for nearly five consecutive months. Each club would need only two pitchers like Radbourne on its staff and still go through the season without missing a day.

Now that Governor Smith of New York has signed the boxing bill, permitting 15-round decision bouts in the Empire State, we can look for a revival of the old times around Madison Square Garden this winter.

Hudspeth, the lanky Ranger pitcher, allowed the Eagles only one hit in the last game of yesterday's double-header. The hit came after two men were out in the final inning.

ALICE LAKE TO BE AT NEW JUDIA THEATRE TONIGHT

Justifying the claims made for her by the motion picture critics of the country, Alice Lake, Metro's newest star will be seen at the New Judia theatre tonight in the picturization of James A. Horn's immortal drama of New England, "Shore Acres." Miss Lake made a tremendous appeal in the role of the daughter of the stern old lighthouse keeper on the coast of Maine, who defied her father in eloping with the man she loved.

The story of the famous old comedy-drama is laid on the New England coast and concerns the family of Martin Berry, who keeps the lighthouse near Bar Harbor, Maine. Helen Berry, a sweet-natured but inspired girl of 20, is in love with Sam Warren and her stern old father, Martin, strives to force her into a match with Josiah Blake, the village promoter. Helen refuses to marry Blake, and her father, in a rage, forbids her to see Sam Warren again.

Meanwhile Martin has mortgaged the old farm, Shore Acres, to invest in oil securities of Blake's. His brother, Uncle Nat, opposes this move but is powerless to prevent it. And then Helen decides to run away with Sam, and to this end books passage on the "Liddy Ann," a vessel that is bound down the coast. Martin learns of Helen's departure, and he lets the light in the lighthouse go out. Uncle Nat tries to show a beacon but Martin prevents him, so that the "Liddy Ann" goes on the rocks of the harbor.

Supporting Miss Lake are such capable players as Edward Connelly, Joseph Kilgour, Frank Brownlee, Robert Walker, Margaret McWade, and Richard Hendrick. The picture is capably directed by Rex Ingram from a scenario by Arthur J. Zellner.

Mrs. Preston (formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland) is the only woman who has married a President in the White House also the only widow of a President who has remarried.

A record hard to beat is that of a Swiss, who with one lead-pencil copied the whole contents of five novels, or 400,000 words.

It is estimated that half the globe is composed of iron.

CISCO SCHOOLS RECEIVED THIRD LARGEST DONATION

125 Public Schools of Texas Were Assisted by Public Subscriptions During 1919-20 Term.

Special to The News.
DALLAS, Tex., June 15.—Donations ranging from $50 to $20,000 were required to keep open 125 Texas public schools for this year, according to an incomplete report of the Texas State Teachers' Association.

Port Arthur heads the list with $20,000.

Among other places where contributions were made, the following have been reported to association officials: Palestine, $17,500; Cisco, $15,000; Eastland, $10,000; Alto, $6,000; Lufkin, $5,000; Conroe, $4,000; Goose Creek, $3,000; Wadlington, $3,000; Whitney, $3,000; Comanche, $5,000; Carthage, $3,000; Fosteria, $2,500; Aransas Pass, $3,000; Sweetwater, $5,000; Paducah, $5,000.

"Citizens in these places were confronted with the alternative of supporting their schools by gifts or having their children suffer. They chose the former course," said G. O. Clough, of the teachers' association.

"Taxation is an infinitely better plan," he added, "but some schools will be compelled to use the donation scheme next year or suffer irremedial loss."

AS A WOMAN THINKS

THE OVER-DRESSED CO-ED.

By EDITH E. MORIARTY
It is hard to take sides with the "co-eds" of the Nebraska College of Agriculture who have been severely criticized by their instructors for wearing "silk underwear, petticoats and hose, expensive earrings and hair ornaments, fancy shoes, transparent blouses, jewelry and beads." In this day when everything is so costly that even the wealthiest are retrenching it is a sad thing to see young college girls dress in such a foolish manner. If we did not turn our college girls for some sensible views on all matters including dress, to whom may we look?

It is reported that several of the sorority girls have asked in the university paper what "business is it of the university professors how much they spend?" In reality it is not something for professors to worry about, but it does reflect on the college, and from that standpoint it does concern the faculty. One girl went so far as to complacently confess ownership of thirteen coats, two of them leather, and she reports she is in the market for any summer styles.

The girl herself can not be wholly to blame for such extravagance and useless expenditure in these days when money is needed for so many other things. Who would not have thirteen, or even thirty coats, if they could? What young girl would hesitate at buying thirteen or thirty anything if she had the money? It is only human nature to want pretty things and lots of attractive and fashionable clothes. It is foolish to go about looking dowdy and poorly dressed when one has the means to do otherwise. Yet there is a happy medium and there is something wrong in that Nebraska college, but perhaps the seat of the trouble is in homes far away from the campus and perhaps over-indulgent fathers and mothers should be approached by the frate instructors and not the girls themselves.

If one hasn't good common sense it will scarcely be acquired at college, but there is some hope of acquiring a little of it in proper home surroundings with proper training.

The first woman in Argentine Republic to take a university degree was Dr. Cecilia Grierson, now a successful physician in Buenos Aires and a leader in the woman's cause in the southern republic.

Miss E. F. Cunningham, who entered the business in a small way sixteen years ago, is now one of the largest and most successful real estate operators and rental agents in Columbus, Ohio.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO FIGHT EMBARGO

CAR SHORTAGE PROBLEM CAUSE TWO COMMISSIONERS ARE INVOLVED IN WRANGLE

Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 15.—The Texas state highway commission is preparing to make a fight upon the proposed embargo on road materials considered by the interstate commerce commission in its efforts to relieve the car shortage, according to a statement made public by the highway body, as follows:

"Among the first measures proposed for relieving the car shortage are releasing train crews for other service and the placing of an embargo on the use of all cars and equipment in the transportation of road materials. The state highway department, cooperating with highway departments of other states, immediately entered a protest against the issuance of so drastic an order.

"We have a large amount of data at hand to show that to put such an order into effect would bring road construction to a standstill, trying up millions of dollars in unfinished contracts with the losses of large sums of money to the state and counties. It is not desired by this department that road materials be given preference, but to put a stop to such shipments would mean a great loss."

Young Men of Baptist Church Organize Into Berean Club of Cisco

The young men's class of the Baptist church used its regular lesson hour Sunday morning in organizing the Berean Club.

A. I. Skiles was unanimously chosen teacher and the following officers were elected:

J. W. Cole, president.
 Don Evans, first vice president.
 Minor Womack, second vice president.
 John Ramsey, third vice president.
 J. O. Skiles, secretary.
 E. M. Clayton, class reporter.

The pastor, Dr. C. G. Howard, was chairman of the meeting. He gave the club information along various lines of work and helped it to outline its plans and policies for the future.

The first step taken by the new organization is to invite all young men of the city to become members of the men's class of the Baptist church and members of the club.

KATHERINE MacDONALD'S GREATEST TRIUMPH AT NEW JUDIA TOMORROW

KATHERINE MacDONALD
"PASSIONS PLAYGROUND"

Katherine MacDonald, popularly termed "the American beauty," and whose entrance into film stardom has been accorded unprecedented approval among local theatergoers, will be seen at the Judia theatre, commencing on Wednesday, in her latest First National picture, "Passions Playground," adapted from the famous novel, "The Count of Hercules," by C. N. and A. M. Williams.

"Passions Playground," is a stirring story of romance, losses and gains at the world-famous Monte Carlo, where titled persons from all lands stake their fortunes, good names and crowns on the roulette wheel and other numerous gambling devices here conducted.

An appealing strain releases the tense dramatic moments that follow in the disclosure of a unique plot to break the bank at Monte Carlo. As Mary Grant, a convent girl, just in receipt of her inheritance, Miss MacDonald plays the part of a girl who leaves the holy institution to find that the gambling blood that flowed in the veins of her father leads her on to winnings that become the gossip of the famous resort.

Wearing gowns that were especially designed for this production and appearing in her most famous characterization as the unsophisticated convent girl and later the winner of Monte Carlo's greatest prizes, Katherine MacDonald's role in "Passions Playground" bids fair to win her thousands of additional admirers.

EARN OVER $1800 WEEKLY IN HOVEL; PLANS TO RETIRE

Thermometer Maker of Prussian Birth Learned His Lucrative Trade as a Glass Blower.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 15.—One of the highest paid workmen in New York is a little, withered, foreign-born, foreign-speaking man, who works from daylight until nearly midnight, week after week, in his cheerless, dirty little dwelling, which serves as both home and workshop.

He makes between $1500 and $1800 a week.

When he retires, as he expects to do within the next few months, physicians, aviators and other users of high-priced thermometers may have more difficulty than ever in obtaining those instruments for he asserts he is one of the few men in the United States who knows how to construct them.

Of Prussian birth, this thermometer maker, who lives at the end of the Coney Island elevated line, learned his trade as a glass blower in the "old country" years ago when he was only a boy. He learned also to make delicate thermometers, from the blowing of the glass, painting on the lettering to filling it with the right amount of mercury and attaching it to its metal back.

He came to America a few years ago and began business for himself, although he experienced a few months of bitter poverty before a prominent physician recognized the value of the instruments the Prussian was producing when the war cut off supplies of this kind from Europe. Then he received more orders than he could supply.

Although the Prussian thermometer maker, a man of middle age, has wife and one child, live in the carefree, immemorial manner of the poorer peasant classes in Europe, they are extremely hospitable and entertain their guests always with Prussian cakes, sour wine and other foods of foreign name and taste.

Ex-Ciscoan Spending Visit Here Says Cisco Had Remarkable Growth

"Your Progressiveness and Spirit of 'Do It Now' Has Put You on Lips of Everybody."

Roy Carmichael of Healdton, Okla., is in Cisco, spending a few days with boyhood friends and business acquaintances.

Carmichael was reared in the immediate vicinity of Cisco, and left here 11 years ago to make his home in Oklahoma.

With him on this visit are his wife and four children, they having come down in an auto.

Carmichael's business interest at Healdton and in the oil fields throughout are large, and while in the News office Monday afternoon he related incidents of his activity in the Healdton field that were interesting if not amusing.

Requested by the writer to express an opinion as to the growth of Cisco since his departure some 11 years ago, Carmichael said "the growth of Cisco since my leaving here has been remarkable; and the teamwork of Cisco at this time is commendable and is having a good effect on outsiders.

"Cisco is on the lips of practically every oil and business man in my territory," he said. "They always mention the possibilities of Cisco, some way or another. The consensus of opinion among the people away from Cisco seems to be that Cisco is the liveliest city in this oil belt; and the teamwork that you Ciscoans are doing will further augment the sentiment that has gone abroad relative to Cisco's standing."

"Healdton is but two years old," Carmichael said, "and we have a fine bunch of progressive town builders. In these two years we have built Healdton into a population of some 5000, and the future is even brighter than the past for us."

"Cisco has the spirit that counts; her citizenship being fortified by that progressiveness and spirit of 'do it now' which has already put you on the lips of everybody in my country, and that spirit will put Cisco in the front ranks without doubt."

TOILED YEARS TO BUY RANCH—DIES SHORTLY AFTER

BAKER, Ore., June 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Johnathan Lee toiled for 20 years with one ambition—to buy a four or five acre ranch with their savings and to settle down in comfort to spend their declining years.

Last week they attained their goal. They loaded their household goods into a wagon at Huntington, where they had lived for the past 15 years and started for their new homestead.

Shortly after their arrival Mrs. Lee died from a complication of illnesses and old Johnathan Lee must share their ambition alone.

419,000 Children of Texas Participate in Health Crusade

Special to The News.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 15.—A health essay contest will be held in the six state normal colleges during the summer sessions of those institutions, under the direction of the Texas Public Health Association, that organization announced today. The prize competition will be established in the normals at Commerce, Denton, Alpine, Canyon, San Marcos, and Huntsville.

Two prizes will be awarded in each of the normal colleges—a first award of $15 and a second prize of $10—by local judges, while a state prize of $25 will be given for the best essay submitted from the six schools. A state committee of judges will award the state prize.

The subject of the essay is to be "The Modern Health Crusade—A Factor in Health Education," and the contest is being held to interest the teachers in health instruction in their schools, especially in the modern health crusade, directed by the Texas Public Health Association, in which movement over 419,000 Texas school children participated in 1919.

Miss Katherine Gray, assistant superintendent of the state department of education, chairman of the state award committee in the H. A. Wroe health essay, has endorsed this method of stimulating health work in the schools, and recommended the summer session contest.

Roll Officials Inspect

H. E. McGee, general manager of the M., K. & T. railroad, with headquarters in Dallas, passed through Cisco Monday on a tour of inspection of the Texas Central district.

McGee was accompanied by J. W. Evans, another official of the Katy lines, and was pleased with Cisco railroad conditions.

Watching Your Business

Simple records of vital industrial conditions enable you to keep your finger on the pulse of your business, and to prescribe remedies for its ailments.

If business shows a tendency to slump, or if any article in your line is not moving as rapidly as it should move, the reliable remedy for the ailment is, of course, more advertising.

Bring your line out in THE NEWS, and in direct advertising literature—let people know about it—stimulate desire for it. Vigorous advertising makes better business and assists in its development and growth.

If you haven't the time to prepare your copy, The Cisco Daily News Service Department will assist you satisfactorily. This department will plan your campaigns, write your copy, make your layouts and furnish the illustrations free of charge.
