Nudist Charge Hurlled at Beaumont School Stirs Citizens

AUTHORITIES CLAIM PHOTOS CORRECTIONAL

BEAUMONT, Dec. 12 — Charges of the Rev. A. C. Maxwell that Beaumont high school girls posed in the nude for photographs in the physical training department were investigated today by the Jefferson county grand jury.

"A miniature nudist colony exists in our high school," the Baptist minister shouted at a citizens' meeting here last night, repeating the charge he had made in his Sunday School addresses.

A few photographs were made of girls' spines as an aid in the correction of defects in posture, Supt. Moore said. They were made in privacy by a woman nurse and the girls wore bloomers and their faces were veiled, the superintendent said.

Photographs taken at the school will be viewed by a committee of the Christian Laymen's League, organized at the meeting last night. C. M. Ellis, grand jury member, is chairman of the league. He appointed the committee of men to view the controversial pictures.

Suggestions that the committee be composed of women was voted down. Fathers of high school girls announced they would withdraw their daughters from school rather than permit them being photographed in any state of undress.

"LEAK" PROBE CENTERS ABOUT U. S. BROKERS

LONDON, Dec. 12 — Investigation of the rapidity with which certain private financial concerns receive the daily Washington gold price in advance of official announcement of the figure was understood today to center around one or more American brokerage houses.

The earliest flash on the Washington gold price, officially announced at 9:45 a. m. EST, arrived at a private financial house at 9:46:15 a. m. EST, beating the official messages by approximately 30 seconds.

Previously it had been as much as five minutes ahead.

Cyrus B. Frost, attorney of Abilene, en route to Eastland this morning, had no comment here upon rumors that he would oppose Cong. Tom Blanton in the 1934 democratic primaries, except to say that he had not given the prospect any serious consideration.

There have been frequent reports that the former Eastland attorney would contest the veteran Blanton for his seat in the house from the 17th Texas district.

Frost, however, said that he is not doing so badly at law, and that he still thinks a lot of Eastland county which he has not yet grown out of considering his home.

Don Juan of the Sky Ride --- That Was Wynekoop

Heart breaker of the Sky Ride was Earle Wynekoop, the man of 50 loves, whose amorous entanglements were bared by the murder of his wife, Rheta, in Chicago. So numerous were his affairs that he kept a diary of smitten maidens, listing their characteristics by code. In typical pose as he tried his "line" on Mary Gerken, World's Fair cashier, Wynekoop is shown resting on a bench in all his uniformed splendor during a lull in his day's work as Sky Ride attendant. At right is Flo Conley, another girl friend, who worked in one of the Fair's electrical exhibits, listed in the diary as "2-4-9-10," translated as "blond, pretty, exhibit, sentimental."

CALL TO FIGHT FOR RIGHTS OF WOMEN ISSUED

By HENRY T. RUSSELL, United Press Staff Correspondent. LONDON, Dec. 12 — A revival of the suffragette movement, with its accompanying scenes of struggling women chained to public buildings, may be one result of a world conference to defend endangered rights for women to be called shortly here by Sylvia Pankhurst.

The veteran votes-for-women advocate said that she thought rights which women acquired after years of hard campaigning were in serious danger. She added that she thought the occasional dinners given by the remainder of the suffragette movement "at which speeches are made of the past" were insufficient to avert new dangers. She said action of the militant kind was urgently needed.

"You can't fight for rights merely by making speeches about the past," she said, "nor do you have to go to the other extreme and cause bloodshed. But vigorous action is certainly needed quickly to prevent the continued encroachment upon hard earned rights which is going on in many parts of the world today."

It is to attempt to solve this problem that Sylvia Pankhurst is planning to call a conference of women's organizations from all over the world in the belief that they should be "stirred into action."

"What the women of today need is the same spirit which enabled the suffragettes to win what rights they have today. Precisely the same set of circumstances never arises again. But I believe that the same spirit and the same courage not only can, but will arise again if needs be. The chief thing in the original suffragette movement was the spirit which animated it."

Mediation Board Demands Agreement

HOUSTON, Dec. 12 — President Roosevelt's emergency strike mediation board today threatened to resume its hearings unless Southern Pacific railroad employees and officials showed decided progress in their closed deliberations by tonight.

Chairman Frank Douglass, of the board, insisted that the hearing closed not later than Saturday, pushed for an agreement.

CLAIMS IMMUNITY. EL PASO, Dec. 12 — Louis Bond Cherry, scientist who says he expects to live 1000 years offered to prove his theory that disease is due to hyperacidity, by permitting doctors to inject germs into his blood. Physicians refused his offer.

Cherry asserts he is immune from diseases through use of an "alkaline protein food which the skin will absorb."

NRA Violators Face Prosecution Threat

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 12 — The government today threatened criminal prosecution of cleaners and dyers who violate Blue Eagle price fixing regulations. Out of 100 summoned to a compliance hearing one man, owner of a shop in Indiana, promised to raise his prices high enough to meet NRA regulations.

William Davis, national compliance director, called the others "crazy." He said they were "fools" and promised to turn their cases over immediately to the federal trade commission for investigation, leading to prosecution.

Nearly Million Is Raised by Church

ABILENE, Dec. 12 — Addition of 5,981 new members and a total offering of $56,877 was the progress made by the First Baptist church here during the last 18 years under the direction of Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor, according to a report submitted to the congregation.

Included in the report were figures for last year. It showed 302 new members received and $24,510.56 contributed. The congregation now totals 3,290.

Cowboy Takes Deer With Rope and Knife

FORT DAVIS, Dec. 12 — Charley Webster, cowboy on the J. W. Merrill & Son ranch, ended the open season on blacktail deer by roping an 11-point buck. He killed the deer with his pocket knife.

With the aid of a fellow cowboy, Merrill ran the fleet animal down, and with an expert twist of his lasso, settled his rope over the horns.

TAX PROBLEMS

COLORADO, Dec. 12 — Tax officials of Mitchell county were worried with the problem of delinquent tax accounts 21 years ago as much, if not more, than they are today.

ITALY PLANS CONFERENCE TO SAVE LEAGUE

PARIS, Dec. 12 — Europe is preparing another world conference. With further postponement of the Disarmament conference's general commission until Jan. 20, the departure of Germany and Japan, certain European nations, particularly France and Italy, have become apprehensive that the League may lose completely all authority.

The General Disarmament conference, long has been on the rocks, and Chancellor Hitler's move gave the conference the final push.

As much as the main conflict in the Disarmament conference is the identical question which is worrying the cancellers of Europe; that is, control of armaments, the only apparent way of saving the situation appears to have occurred to Premier Mussolini, who has begun to sound out the main European powers for a conference in Italy.

Suggested Place. San Remo, where one of the original pre-reparations conferences was held and where the coal supply of Europe was divided up, has been suggested as the meeting place.

The conference would be a conference within a conference, since the main object would be to arrive at an accord between a few powers on those border questions, which are impossible to settle in a conference room of 60 delegations.

Under the Four Power Pact, sponsored by Mussolini and in which Italy, France, Britain and Germany have certain commitments to keep the peace of Europe and to confer with one another, a new conference could be called. It is inferred that the Petite Entente, Poland, Soviet Russia and even the United States would be invited so that the question of control and limitations of armaments could be adjusted with some authority.

France, through its Foreign Minister P. Paul-Boncour already has given assent to the idea, and it is believed Mussolini already has begun tentative conversations with various statesmen at Geneva for the projected parity.

Nine Men Buried by Cave-in, 6 Rescued

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 12 — The wall of a ditch being dug by road workers for construction of a retaining wall on a highway in Great Smoky Mountains national park, caved in today, burying nine men, three of whom were believed to have perished.

"There is no hope at all for them being alive," said Supt. Eakin, of the park, who reported that the other six men were dug out of the 15-foot fall of earth which buried them to a depth of more than five feet.

PAVEMENT OF ZOO ROAD TO BEGIN FRIDAY

A car of asphalt for the "zoo road" at Lake Cisco arrived this morning and paving of the road will start Friday morning, Joe Clements, city street superintendent, announced. A crew of CWA workmen, averaging 50 men per week, has been at work upon this project—one of the first in Cisco under the new CWA re-employment policy of the federal government.

The road has been widened where possible and its drainage features improved to prevent the washing that has frequently damaged the base. Over half of the crushed stone needed for the topping has been placed on the site.

The caliche base for the road was built by the city some time ago. CWA crews have repaired it. Washing of the road in the past has been caused largely, Mr. Clements said, because of the sloughing of a steep bluff, detritus blocking the drainage ditch. This has been eliminated and the ditch along the side of the road enlarged to take care of floodwaters.

The road, when paved, will give all-weather access to the swimming pool and city parks below the dam as well to the zoo.

The city has purchased the asphalt at a cost of $623 and furnishing the crushed stone for the project. The CWA is spending more than $3,500 for the labor so that, for the $623 outlay and the stone crushed in the city crusher, more than $4,000, in wages is released locally.

A CWA crew is also at work constructing curbs and gutters on the 800-foot stretch on East Sixth street between the brick pavement of the Leary, road, now under reconstruction. When completed, the state highway department will pave between the curbs, Mr. Clements said, thus making continuous the pavement of the Leary road, now a state highway, unto the business district. The city is furnishing the materials for this construction.

Streets projects upon which approval of the CWA authority is awaited were announced by Mr. Clements as follows:

1—Graveling of Second street from Highway 1 to Front street, beside Oakwood cemetery, and graveling of Front street from that intersection to its pavement beginning at Sixth street.

2—Graveling of two blocks on Fourth street beside the Chesley athletic field.

"If anyone has a project suggestion which will provide more employment, we are eager to hear of it," said Mr. Clements.

WOOLLEY WAS CALM, STATE WITNESS SAYS

DALLAS, Dec. 12 — State counsel in the trial of Toy Woolley, charged with the slaying of his wife, Dorothy today struck a blow at the defense through introduction of Dr. J. H. Marshall as a rebuttal witness.

Marshall's testimony was in direct conflict with that of dense witnesses who said Woolley was "broke down with genuine grief" after his wife was shot in the bedroom of their home.

"When I called at the Woolley home about 10:30 o'clock on the morning Mrs. Woolley was shot, I particularly noted the calmness with which Woolley accepted the situation," Dr. Marshall said.

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 12 — Death which he had escaped three times before by last minute reprieves, today claimed Pantaleon Ortiz, 34, of the Refugio county slaying of his 18-year-old sweetheart and a youth with whom he had seen her. He was electrocuted shortly after midnight.

BULLITT TYPIFIES "NEW DEAL" IN SPHERE OF U. S. DIPLOMACY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 — William Christian Bullitt, United States ambassador to Soviet Russia, in the minds of his countrymen typifies the "New Deal" in its diplomatic sphere.

Since wartime, American opinion has been groping for some exponent of a "New School" of diplomacy, who would break some of the fetters that bind diplomats to medievalism, and give a modern semblance to the business of international representation and negotiation.

Thoroughly Equipped. Bullitt, 43, widely-traveled, a skilled reporter, an adventurous investigator, an economist familiar with graphs and indexes, a publicist acquainted with trans-oceanic telephones and cable systems, appears better equipped for the role of a "new school" ambassador than any personality yet nominated by President Roosevelt to represent the country abroad.

Bullitt's appointment was attributed by his friends to his intimate and thorough acquaintance with all post-Czarist phases of relations between the United States and the Soviet, but the extraordinary popular interest in the appointment probably was due to a belief that he represented "something new" in diplomacy. Barely a year ago his unrevealed missions in Europe gave him the character of "mystery man" and senatorial criticism of his announced errands (then commonly presumed to relate to war debts) attracted national attention.

As a reporter of international events, Bullitt already has an extraordinary reputation, having been the first American student of the soviet revolution to predict officially its permanence and its compatibility with the temperment and necessities of the Russian people. This occurred at the time of the peace conference when the plans of Woodrow Wilson and Lloyd George were

RADIO CASE IS CONSIDERED BY FEDERAL JURY

FORT WORTH, Dec. 12 — The trial of Dr. H. C. Allison, Ft. Worth chiropractor, charged with operating a radio station without a license, went to a federal court jury at noon today, after a heated plea by the defense counsel.

Allison's attorney, Clarence Farmer, former state representative, said that when a government attempted to regulate a station it was infringing on the freedom of the air.

The radio commission summed up its case in three points. It charged that signals from Allison's station, KYRO, had been heard in Oklahoma, that the station interfered with a Nebraska and a Kansas City station, and that Allison was operating without license.

Solon Says Relative Asked for His Vote

AUSTIN, Dec. 12 — Rep. George Butler, of Bryan, told the legislative committee meeting here today to investigate nepotism, that a distant relative of his by marriage told him during the regular session of the legislature that his job depended on Butler's vote on a bill.

Butler said the relative had been employed under the state railroad commission. While so employed he came to Austin during the legislative session to request Butler to vote against the bill to create a separate oil and gas regulatory body. Butler voted for the bill.

His relative later was dismissed, Butler said, but the dismissal occurred when many other railroad commission workers were "let out" for lack of funds.

Fear of Mob Halts Wisdom Trial Plans

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Dec. 12 — Plans for a swift trial of Jack Wisdom, cowboy who confessed to slaying a Wichita couple, were cut short today, apparently by orders of Gov. Landon, who feared a mob would seize the prisoner.

Authorities had planned to take the prisoner to Wichita from the state reformatory here for a trial before daybreak. When an attempt was made to remove Wisdom, officials said they had been ordered to hold him. It was believed the governor inspired or gave the orders.

CWA Business School Classes Organized

Enrollment is heavy but the classes are not yet closed, said Mr. Kelly.

They will meet from 8 to 12 each morning and from 7 to 9 each evening in the classrooms in the manual training quarters, he said, doing their laboratory work as well as receiving classroom instruction.

The three classes are in book-keeping, typewriting and shorthand. Typewriters are needed for the classes, Mr. Kelly said, and appealed for the loan of standard keyboard machines.

Supt. E. N. Cluck, who received approval of his application for the school yesterday morning, has applications pending for three other CWA educational units here.

GANGSTER WAS SAID TO HAVE FACTOR MONEY

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 12 — A two-gun gangster who shot his way out of a police trap, wounding two San Antonio detectives was believed by officers today to have been en route to Mexico with part of the John Factor kidnap ransom money.

While the two wounded detectives, H. C. Ferron and Alfred Hartman, were in a hospital today, three alleged members of the gunman's band were being held in jail for questioning. One of them had $1,400 in his possession when arrested after the gun battle last night.

Police Chief Kilday said he believed the gun intended to exchange the alleged ransom money for Mexican gold, or then later to convert that back into American currency.

Condition of Detective Ferron remained critical. He was shot in the temple when the gunman refused to heed orders to drop his weapon after the detective had covered him with a riot gun. Hartman, shot in the arm, was not in serious condition.

Those held in jail include a woman with whom the gunman left a house guarded by the detectives. Immediately after the gun battle, San Antonio authorities sent telegraphic descriptions of the man who shot the detectives to cities throughout the state and today he was the object of a concerted search.

HEMPSTEAD CAN NOT LIVE DOWN EARLY HISTORY

HEMPSTEAD, Dec. 12 — Parking lanes have replaced hitching posts and old saloons have given way to drug stores, but Hempstead cannot outlive the fame it achieved when known by its sobriquet of "Six Shooter Junction" and knew the cosmopolitan air of a European sculptress whose blonde bobbed hair and men's trousers started staid 19th century maidens.

Articles have been written minimizing the town's wild reputation in days when it was a recreation center for cattle kings and plantation owners of South Texas. Orations have defended it as a village of peace-loving citizens and decried mistaken conceptions of Hempstead.

But nothing obscures the testimony of old timers who recall days when conductors on the Houston & Texas Central railroad called out—"The next station is Hempstead—prepare to meet thy God."

The killing of Congressman J. M. Pinckney, his brother and two others at a prohibition rally in 1905 is another difficulty the defenders of Hempstead's history encounter. The fight started when R. E. Tompkins, who was speaking, was struck by a wet leader.

Six shooters flashed and when the accounting was taken as the smoke cleared the "law and order" meeting had taken its toll of four dead and several wounded.

Colorful Era

The most colorful era in the town's history is that in which the beautiful and talented Elizabeth Ney lived as mistress of a colonial mansion near Hempstead. A grand niece of Field Marshal Ney, close friend and aid of Napoleon Bonaparte, Miss Ney was educated in Berlin and attained continental prominence with her sculpturing.

At Berlin she married E. L. Montgomery, but even after they moved to their palatial home near here she insisted on being called by her maiden name.

Clad in men's attire, she would gallop a lathering horse in front of a saloon and call for a stein of beer. She was stranger to none and her flying blonde bobbed hair was a familiar sight as she raced her mounts through the streets.

Occasionally Miss Ney would show friends the gorgeous gowns she had worn in European courts but she was never seen in them here.

Her sculpturing for which princes of Europe had sat, continued here and now her statues are exhibited in the rotunda of the state capitol and in the national capitol's Hall of Fame.

The talented artist and the six shooters, widely divergent to be sure are part of Hempstead's history as much as the cattle barons who made the town a trading and social center of South Texas.

HATCHED CHICKEN

VERMILION, S. D., Dec. 12.—It may be "far fetched," but Charles Danielson's tomcat hatched a chicken. Anyway, that's the story the Clay county farmer has vouched for. He said he had tossed a hen's egg into a nest usually occupied by his cat and three weeks later found that a chick had been hatched by the father-cat.

NAZI RUBBER GUN MOVIE IS PROPAGANDA

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—German movie audiences have been growing alternately hilarious or indignant at a one-reel feature contrasting the Reich's (literally) rubber guns with the howitzers of other powers.

No attempt is made to hide the purpose of the film. From the title, "The Others Re-arm" through its entire length, it is frankly propaganda for German arms equality.

For half the film the audience is treated to a pyrotechnic display such as never figured in Hollywood's wildest dreams. The warships, tanks, bombing, torpedo and combat planes infantry and artillery of all heavily armed nations are put through their paces.

Then comes the climax. A very efficient light tank rolls into view, comes to a halt and disgorges a squad of Reichswehr men. An officer strikes the muzzle of the two-inch gun protruding from the turret, and the illusion vanishes.

Gun Wobbles

The gun wobbles like a stalk of fresh-cooked spaghetti. The soldiers complete the comedy by removing the cardboard sides of the machine and disclosing a peaceable everybody roadster.

There is something very amusing about that tank, and the audience invariably responds. Just as inevitably a voice somewhere in the theatre shouts "Rhue" (quiet) and the chucklers shamefacedly subside. For the average German the nation's deepest shame is the meager armament of 1933 compared with the tremendous prewar military machine.

The film continues with the antics of a ridiculous little cardboard airplane, drawn through the air dangling on a string as a substitute for the combat planes which the peace treaties forbade Germany. There is no laughter at this. A natural fear of air attack has been carefully fostered by the government in its campaign for bomb defense.

For months shops have displayed post-cord maps picturing a helpless Germany completely ringed by fortresses, regiments and air squadrons of unfriendly neighbors.

COST HIM JOB

REEDLEY, Cal., Dec. 12.—Reedley had a new postmaster today because the former postmaster placed a picture of former President Hoover in the postoffice window. W. F. Boyer, the former postmaster, admitted he placed the picture in the building during the last presidential campaign.

POWERFUL RUSSIAN AND GERMAN RADIO PLANTS BLANKET EUROPE

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Russia and Germany, through their powerful broadcasting stations, one at Noginsk, and the other opposite Strasbourg, are waging a bloodless war in the air against the weaker propaganda stations of France and Britain, and incidentally against any other nation that tries to get on the air with national propaganda programs.

The Russian soviet station RW1 is the most powerful in Europe, and is five times stronger than the limit imposed by the Lucerne agreement, and when functioning it reduces the French and British stations to screeches.

Soviet Commissar of Posts Hirschfeld has answered critics to the effect that Soviet Russia requires the strongest station in Europe because of the difficulty of reaching all parts of the republic. They declare they soon will move the station farther inland to get the full coverage.

The French post office station has been in difficulties for some time with the heavy battering of the German stations and the powerful station of the Russians and has been rendered almost helpless at times. The Daventry national long wave station has been reduced to calls by the soviet station, and the ministers of posts of France and Britain are wondering what can be done about it.

Soviet Russia is going to give one program a week, probably on Sunday. Their English speaking announcer soon will start with an entirely new program, which, of course, will be propaganda.

The German stations won their victory over French stations long ago and it was not until the recent Austrian trouble that it was discovered that Germany virtually was rolling in propaganda destined for the peasants of Austria. Although the competition in national radio stations is acute, Germany and Russia have the strongest. It is believed, due to their alleged needs, their stations have lengths superior to others, although the conference at Lucerne forbade the giving of nationalistic, or propaganda, programs in anything but native language.

BOOM IN GOLD PRICE INJURES SOUND MINING

BOULDER, Colo., Dec. 12.—The higher price of gold is tending to destroy the increasing wholesome interest in mining in Colorado. Dr. R. D. George, head of the department of geology, University of Colorado, and for many years state geologist, said today.

"The increased price, the free sale of gold and the new government purchasing policy have cooperated to produce a very undesirable result. The tendency is to produce foolish, wildcat exploitation on the part of visionary promoters, and to hinder a healthy development of the gold mining industry by causing an undue boosting of the prices of mines. Any old prospect hole, full of water, has, in the eyes of its claimant, been transformed overnight into a valuable mine."

Holds For $15,000

Dr. George told of a Boulder county mining property which had been held at $4,000, whose owner now holds it for $15,000.

"Prospects, whose owners a few weeks ago begged prospective buyers to take an interest at a nominal sum, now are held at thousands of dollars," Dr. George said, "and for one most part have been put absolutely out of the market by exaggerated ideas of the effect of the new freedom in the sale of gold, and the government purchase of gold."

"On the other hand bona fide investors still are in serious doubt as to whether any permanent benefit is likely to come from changed conditions. Gold has become a commodity and will be subject to price fluctuations as other commodities. Sane investors in mines are not in the least degree likely to assume that the value of a mine has increased in the same ratio as the present temporary increase in the per ounce price of gold."

Bible Sets New Big 6 Record at Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 12.—Dana X. Bible, head football coach and director of athletics at the University of Nebraska, has the most impressive Big Six record attained since origin of the conference.

He is serving his fifth season with the Cornhuskers, during which they have won three out of four Big Six championship titles. Including 1933 games, Bible's teams have a conference record of 22 victories, three ties and two defeats.

Bible's first coaching was as freshman mentor at Texas A. and M. college in 1916 immediately after he graduated from Carson-Newman college in Tennessee. Following this, he was head coach at the University of Mississippi for three years and at Louisiana State university for one year.

Later he returned to Texas to serve 11 years as head coach of the Aggies. His teams won five Southwest conference titles.

Bible is a member of the football rules committee and is considered a foremost authority on the game.

HOSIERY MILLS WORKERS MAKE HOUSING PLANS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.-The first community housing project in the United States, built solely for the benefit of workers, has been started here.

It will contain 272 individual apartments in four main buildings, each three stories in height, covering a block 500 feet. The estimated cost is $1,000,000, of which the Public Works Administration will provide $845,000.

Construction is expected to take from nine to ten months and provide employment for hundreds of workmen. The project was conceived by hosiery workers. It will be constructed near the hosiery plants and will serve as a community center. Under present plans, the enterprise will be self-liquidating and profits are to be limited to six per cent of the investment.

The project will be named "The Carl Mackley Houses" in honor of Carl Mackley, a hosiery worker, who was shot in the strike of 1931. Oscar G. Stonorov, one of the architects, explained the plans. "The project," he said, "is designed to answer the needs of the younger members of the hosiery trade. This is because it is very uneconomical for a young couple to get housing in the one form available now in that district within their price range, namely, a row house. "Other housing facilities, like small apartments, are much too high in cost." The structures will be divided into two and one-half room apartments; four-room suites, and five-room apartments.

There will be a community hall where groups may produce theatrical plays and where members of the community may gather for dancing and other recreation, according to Stonorov.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON-Fighting profiteering in the face of an official policy of price-raising is a tough job. The hamstrung staff of the NRA Consumers' Advisory Board is discouraged. It has wrecked some monopolistic proposals in NRA codes, but failed to stop many others. Some members think the staff should walk out in a body-in protest on behalf of the consumers, similar to that of Dr. Bill Ogburn and his associates weeks ago. Another plan secretly discussed would defy the official censorship imposed on the CAB by permitting nationally known figures to affiliate themselves and then express their sentiments with loud roars. A mingled consolation and discouragement is the antagonistic attitude of most NRA administrators and deputy administrators toward the CAB. The staff at least knows it has a nuisance value, even though its demands are unheeded. Chairman Mary Rumsey and Prof. Paul Douglas are working on a plan to establish consumers' councils over the country to protect consumer interests locally. Mrs. Roosevelt was sounded and approved the general idea. But inherent difficulties remain. One bad feature of the secret plans involves a tieup with leading Democrats in the separate communities. DR. FRED HOWE'S Consumers' Counsel staff of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is having better luck, thanks to sympathy from Secretary Wallace and

Assistant Secretary Tugwell. Manufacturers dominate NRA, but not AAA. Howe's office has the support of other factions in a joint effort to aid farmers and protect consumers while restraining middlemen. Countrywide demand for copies of its consumers' guide have exceeded the Department of Agriculture's capacity to produce them. FRIENDS of Ambassador Sumner Welles say his dislike for the Grau government in Cuba isn't due to failure of his hand-picked De Cespedes setup to stay on top. Welles, they insist, has an inherent hatred of dictatorships and doesn't believe this government should support the present one in Havana after its disapproval of the Machado dictatorship. Practical politics, however, will lead us to support the Grau regime if it lasts. QUIET snooping reveals Stephen M. DeBrul as responsible for NRA's failure to require full, frank statistics from codified industries. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and government statisticians have been waging undercover battle on this issue. DeBrul, former sales manager for General Motors, replaced Dr. Alexander Sachs, a real economist, as chief of NRA's division of planning and research. Sachs and the Central Statistical Board had agreed on a full, searching questionnaire form for industries to collect economic data. But DeBrul came in and it was ruled out. He objected to "meddling in business." (Copyright 1933, NEA Service, Inc.)

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

This is the fourth of a series of six articles by Sister Mary providing choice food, candy and cake recipes, besides helpful suggestions, for your Christmas dinner.

BY SISTER MARY

PLUM pudding seems almost as much a part of Christmas as holly and carol singers and is one of the viands which dates back to the days of the Normans. The housewife who likes to follow traditions would have her plum puddings made ready for "Stir-up Sunday." According to tradition, mince meat and plum pudding should be stirred by each member of the family so that they may share in the good luck allotted to the household for the coming year.

Few women of today make plum pudding so long in advance of the time when it will be wanted. A week or so before Christmas allows time for ripening and presents no problem of storing.

The very rich plum pudding is full of fruit and spices and many calories. Only small servings should be given at the end of a "big" Christmas dinner.

The molds must be well oiled so that the puddings will slip out easily, because the pudding must be served very hot.

Rich Plum Pudding

Two cups cleaned currents, 2 cups seeded raisins, 1 cup shredded citron, 1-2 cup each candied orange and lemon peels, 1 cup (one-half pound) chopped suet, 1-2 cup flour, 3 cups stale bread crumbs, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup blanched and shredded almonds, 1-4 cup molasses, 1-2 cup milk, 1-4 cup each brandy and sherry or 4 tablespoons currant jelly and 1-4 cup strong cold coffee infusion, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon soda.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, baked French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Vegetable soup, savory codfish sandwiches, orange doughnuts, milk, tea.

DINNER: Veal pot pie, creamed Jerusalem artichokes, spinach and horseradish salad, chocolate bread pudding, milk, coffee.

thick and lemon colored and add to mixture. Add spices, salt, sugar, molasses, milk and either the brandy and sherry or the jelly and coffee infusion. Add soda dissolved in a little cold water. Mix thoroughly and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into buttered mold, cover and steam six hours. When ready to serve, steam one hour, turn out and serve as wanted.

Individual molds will steam in three hours.

"Flaming" Plum Pudding

A "flaming" plum pudding adds much interest to the Christmas dinner and may be accomplished in several ways. Cut a hole in the top of the large mold and fit in a box made of stiff, well-buttered writing paper. Trim the edges even with the pudding and fill the paper box with brandy, set on fire and send to the table.

Another way is to pour brandy over the pudding just before sending to the table and lighting it just as it leaves the kitchen. The hostess spoons the blue flaming liquid up over the pudding to distribute the flavor.

Hard sauce is often served with plum puddings or a combination of hard sauce and liquid sauce flavored with lemon juice and brandy is good. Lemon juice can be used alone without the brandy if preferred.

Margie will give a dance number on a benefit program at the high school

Miss Fern Warren was in Cleburne during the week-end, where she was the guest of the B. T. S. of that district, Miss Warren, who won second place in the state B. T. S. oratorical contest, was invited there to deliver the oration which she gave in the state contest.

Mrs. Bertha Reimer is expected home today from a visit in Ft. Worth.

FROG PROSPECT FOR CAGE TITLE IS NOT BRIGHT

By W. WINSTON COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
FORT WORTH, Dec. 12 — As basketball practice gets into full swing at Texas Christian university the prospects of grabbing the Southwest conference title appear none too sparkling.

The Frogs, however, are hoping that, as in football, the team will develop into a title contender as the season progresses.

Five freshmen, three of them regulars from last year's runner-up team, form the nucleus for Coach Schmidt's 1933-34 basketball edition.

But absent from this assemblage is Buster Brannon, sparkplug of last year's team, the only outfit in the conference to defeat the Texas university champions, and Doc Sumner, one of the flashiest players in the conference in recent years. Both were graduated.

At one forward will be Elbert (Flash) Walker, a regular from last year and a capable player. Two other lettermen, Robert Chappell and Dick Allison, both forwards, are available.

Serious Blow

A serious blow to Texas Christian's championship aspirations was delivered when Adolph Dietzel, scoring ace of two years ago withdrew from school this fall to play with a Kansas amateur team. Hershel Kinzy, lanky center, will attempt to fill Dietzel's shoes again this year. He played center last year due to Dietzel's ineligibility.

Darrel Lester, six-foot-four sophomore who starred on the gridiron, may be exactly what Schmidt seeks at center, however. He was the leading Freshman scorer last year. Should he be able to hold down the center post, Schmidt probably would shift Kinzy to forward, thus giving the team additional height.

Wallace Myers, captain, will hold down one of the guard berths. Melvin Diggs, towering football end and Wilson Groseclose, a football tackle, are the outstanding products from the Freshman squad for the other guard position. Each stand above the six-foot mark.

While on paper the Texas Christian team appears to be fairly strong it is the increased strength of the other teams that worries Schmidt. A stronger team will be needed this year, he believes, to finish in second place.

Texas university is in a favorable position to win the title for the second consecutive year while Rice Institute, Southern Methodist and Texas A. & M. promise greatly improved teams.

Anthropologists Finding Cimarron County Of Oklahoma Fertile Field of Work

AMARILLO, Dec. 12.—Anthropologists are finding Cimarron county in the western section of the Oklahoma panhandle a fertile field for their work.

The theory rapidly is growing that some 2,000 years ago the district was populated by a highly civilized race of Indians of Mongoloid extraction. A mummy discovered May 13 by W. E. Baker, county agent of Cimarron county, has done much to advance this theory. The mummy has engaged the attention of archaeologists and anthropologists in various sections of the southwest and the nation.

Baker discovered the mummy, apparently that of a nine or 10 year old child, while searching caves along the Cimarron river. The mummy measured 41 inches in height and was in splendid state of preservation.

The head of the skull then replaced, moved, the brain taken out, and the top of the skull then replaced.

There were incisions in the arms and thighs, where flesh had been removed and embalming fluids used. The vital organs had been removed and the space filled with spices, similar to the Egyptian method of mummification.

Recently another mummy, a larger one, was found near the first. Enthusiastic but unexperienced workmen damaged it in their zeal to bring it from its burial place.

Evidence unearthed to date indicates the tribe that lived in that section was similar in appearance and mannerisms to the tribe of picture drawing Indians known to have lived in South Dakota.

Bullitt---

largely predicted upon the expectation of the restoration of a non-Bolshevik regime.

Bullitt previously had been Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and later the secretary of state, where he had developed his extraordinary skill for reporting. He was an expert with the American delegation to the peace conference. Woodrow Wilson and Robert Lansing sent him to Russia for a first-hand report.

Bullitt's recommendations to Wilson and Lansing, based on his mission to Moscow, did not find acceptance. He broke relations with the peace delegation. Later appearing before the senate foreign relations committee, his revelations of Wilson-Lansing differences and other "inside" events of the peace conference were a considerable factor in the rally fight against the Versailles peace treaty.

Quiet Decade

During the quiet decade, Bullitt attracted little public attention, although his views on United States-Soviet relations were familiar to all students of the recognition question. He was engaged in private life as managing editor for a large motion picture concern.

Temporarily and politically attracted by Roosevelt's "New Deal" presidential campaign, Bullitt soon swung into the public limelight after the national elections. His movements in European capitals, contemporaneously explained as due to his writing activities, were frequently reported in the newspapers.

On April 21, six weeks after President Roosevelt's inauguration, Bullitt was named as special assistant to the secretary of state, where he quietly proceeded to the study of Russian and western European questions. Rumors soon circulated among diplomats here that Bullitt was slated for the embassy at Moscow, but this speculation was sidetracked when John Van A. MacMurray was chosen minister to the Baltic republics.

Sat In On Parleys

When the Roosevelt-Litvinov negotiations were at their height, Bullitt "sat in" at the white house parleys. Well-informed circles said that it was his extraordinary knowledge and accurate insight that inspired Roosevelt to his appointment.

President Roosevelt was so certain that Bullitt would be highly acceptable to Soviet Russia that he allowed journalists to know of the impending appointment without awaiting receipt of the customary reply regarding acceptability.

Bullitt was born at Philadelphia on Jan. 25, 1891. He graduated at Yale in 1912, and later attended Harvard law school one year. In addition to the study of law, he left school to take a $15 per week job as a "cub reporter" on a Philadelphia newspaper.

His journalistic career included an assignment to accompany Henry Ford's peace ship, which went to Sweden in 1915. Later he became associate foreign editor and then Washington correspondent of his paper.

Gathering war-clouds brought him into service of the state department where his accurate and systematic reports on western Euro-
