Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

I, for one, will be darn glad when Bob Cluck gets through talking about his project for transferring high school pupils from outlying districts to the Cisco high schools. When that bird gets started on something he's like an eight-day clock. Every morning when we go swimming he has a new angle to tell me about. One would think there wasn't anything else taking place in the world. I've done my best to tell him about my own troubles and plans but he merely gives me the merry "umph umph" and off he goes on another flying account of the transfer program, its advantages, disadvantages and its problems.

That guy, really believes what he is saying!

K. H. Pittard, standing on the benches of the men's bathroom at the swimming pool this morning and rubbing himself with a towel was a tempting mark for my poprag but I withheld the attack out of respect for his advanced age. Once is enough. The other day I caught Pittard with his arms loaded with glassware in front of the Pigly-Wiggly store. Such an opportunity comes only once in a lifetime and he "who hesitates is lost; he who doubts is damned."

So I grappled him and gave him the boot, and "Pit," thinking more of his glassware than his pants, took it the best he could. He has never gotten over that indignity. Some sudden moment I may think the world has come to an end.

POPULATION HERE SHOWS 1,500 HIKE

New Directory Listings Reflect 7,200 Live in City of Cisco

An increase of more than 1,500 in the population of Cisco is reflected in the 1935 edition of the Cisco city directory, published by A. K. Wagner and Co., over the directory for 1934.

Listings in the new directory reveal a population of 7,200 persons, as compared to a population of 5,500 shown by the listings in the 1934 book.

The new directory was being delivered to subscribers today. In addition to the alphabetical listings of the residents and businesses, the book contained a street address directory, giving the names of the residents at each address; a telephone number directory, giving telephone subscribers in the order of their numbers; a business directory and many other valuable features.

Extreme care was used by the compilers in the preparation of this year's directory, and although mistakes were inevitable, the result is a vast improvement in the listings over the first directory issued last year.

The books are placed on sale in the Cisco Daily Press office.

CRUISER FIRE

"Thousands and Thousands" of Dollars Lost as New Ship Blazes

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 7.(P)—A fire in the engine room of the recently launched 10,000-ton United States cruiser Quincy was extinguished today after a five-hour battle. Harry Gould, general manager of the Fore River shipyards, where the cruiser was being prepared for a trial run, said the fire was believed to have started in the switchboard of the main cable room at the aft end of the engine room. Shipyard officials set the loss at "thousands and thousands of dollars."

3 New Members Are Welcomed Into Lions Club

The new members were formally received into the Cisco Lions club at its noon luncheon today. President E. L. Smith welcomed George W. Foster, Clyde Van Sickle and Leonard Hudson as members. He expressed the pleasure of the club at receiving the new members and admonished them to certain membership obligations.

Past-Dist. Gov. Horace Condey, talked in "Lionism", using as a text: "It is better to give than to receive". He read the Lions code of ethics, especially for the benefit of the new members.

John H. Harlow of Anaheim, Cal., was introduced as a guest who attended the luncheon to preserve a perfect record. Johnny Burke, president, and Wayne Jones, secretary of the Eastland club, were also spoke. Mr. Burke spoke briefly on his trip to the Mexico City convention.

Intercorporate Dividend Tax Is Urged by Jackson

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.(P)—Adoption of an intercorporate dividend tax to prevent corporations from "defeating the purpose" of the proposed graduated corporation income tax, was recommended today by an administration official.

"The house disregarded the president's suggestion in this respect," said Robert H. Jackson, counsel for the internal revenue bureau.

Jackson estimated that $39,700,000 could be raised by reducing to 85 per cent the present 100 per cent exemption of intercorporate dividends from the corporation income tax.

OIL MESSAGE

Roosevelt Expects to Report to Congress on Control of Production

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.(P)—President Roosevelt said today that he hoped to make an early report to congress on oil production control. He will transmit to congress the compacts that several states have ratified, and will probably recommend legislation to establish a fact-finding agency to report to the next congress.

TWO OIL BILLS INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.(P)—House and senate oil leaders tossed almost identical bills into the congressional mill Tuesday in speedy response to a presidential endorsement of oil legislation at this session.

To avoid a last-minute legislative snarl, oil state spokesmen at both ends of the capitol were seeking immediate, simultaneous action along these lines:

Senate consideration of a measure introduced by Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) as a substitute for one already on the calendar.

House interstate commerce committee approval, perhaps after a short hearing, of a bill put in by Chairman Cole (D-Md) of a special oil subcommittee.

There was one major difference between the two bills. Cole's would re-establish a federal petroleum administrative board as an independent agency with $12,000-a-year salaries for the five members. Thomas' would put the board under the interior department and give the members $10,000.

President Roosevelt, at a conference late Monday with congressional spokesmen, cleared the way for the legislation, which is intended partially to replace the petroleum code.

Bright Daylight Star May Prove To Be Balloon

Seeing stars in broad daylight was believed to be a literal fact here this afternoon until someone suggested that the bright star above the corner of the Leach store in the Masonic building was in reality a meteorological balloon released from some observation station to carry instruments high in the air.

All over the business area smoked glasses came into play as residents sought to identify the bright object. Fifteen or twenty gathered in from of the Leach store where the discovery was first made.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The senate Tuesday confirmed Cullen F. Thomas as United States commissioner general for the Texas centennial exposition within a few hours after the nomination was received from President Roosevelt.

400 REGISTER BY TODAY FOR FFA MEETING

Encampment to Begin at Lake Cisco Thursday at Noon

With registrations of boys from Future Farmer chapters over west and central Texas for the annual FFF tri-district encampment opening this morning, prospects were seen that the total attendance would climb to 600 for a record.

Thirty schools had been heard from, J. M. Bird, Cisco vocational teacher and encampment director, said, and registrations from all of them were running relatively higher.

500 Last Year

Last year there were 60 schools represented with an attendance of approximately 500 boys and their instructors.

The encampment will open at noon Thursday. It will close Saturday afternoon. Contests, a picture show at the Palace theater, and meetings at which Dean Davis of John Tarleton college and A. J. Spangler of the same school, will speak, will form major parts of the three days program. The boys will be fed and provided with sleeping quarters at the lake, where sections between the big dam have been floored for this purpose.

STRIP 4 NAKED

Striking Women Garment Workers at Dallas Battle Cops.

DALLAS, Aug. 7 (P)—Striking women garment workers in a riot here today stripped four women naked and injured two others. Forty policemen who were called to the scene arrested twenty-seven women and three men. The women fought the officers desperately, tearing the coat off of Patrolman George Cox, and scratching him pretty badly.

The windshields of two police automobiles were broken in the melee. The strike began six months ago, the women workers walking out of 13 dress manufacturing plants, demanding higher wages, shorter hours and union recognition.

The Garner's team defeated the Lobos in their soft ball league game last night by a score of 12 to 3.

While these two teams were carrying out their schedule obligations here, the Community Natural Gas team was defeating a Comyn team at Comyn and the Nance Motor company team was losing to a Stamford team at Stamford.

Business Holds Up Well During July, Report Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Business activity was reported by the commerce department Tuesday to have shown resistance to summer-slump influence in July.

"Reports on retail sales and construction activity," the department's monthly survey of current business said, "indicates improvement on a seasonally adjusted basis. Freight car loadings have declined, while the available data do not indicate much change in the adjusted index of industrial production."

"Outstanding among July developments was the sharp recovery in the steel industry. After moving downward from February to the first week in July, operations expanded steadily from 34 per cent of capacity to 45 per cent in the final week of the month. "Only part of the gain was attributed to the automobile industry which enjoyed a relatively large volume of sales during the month."

"The further increase in electric power production was also a favorable indication, although the movement of freight by the railroads has continued to lag."

"Lumber business has been better this month and building supplies generally have benefited from the modest improvement in private construction operations."

"The June improvement in retail sales has continued during the present month with gains in rural areas especially pronounced. Commodity prices have moved slightly lower since May but there has been practically no change in the index of finished products."

Sued for $150,000

Alleged to have broken up the home of Elizabeth Ross Kummer, her nephew's wife, Mary Boland, above, stake and screen star, was sued for $150,000 in a Los Angeles court by Mrs. Kummer, who charged the comedienne with interfering in the domestic affairs of the Kummers.

DENIES THAT HE LOBBIED AT ANY TIME

Accuses Committee of "Putting Words in my Mouth"

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.(P)—In a hearing punctuated by the last three years from the Associated Gas and Electric system, explaining that he represented the shareholders.

Hurley asserted, "I've never taken a case from any one that was incompatible with the public welfare."

The former war secretary denied that he ever lobbied, but he frequently accused committeemen of "putting words in my mouth."

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary of President Wilson and now an attorney here, said he was employed by a number of utility companies for advice in connection with the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, receiving a total of $33,500.

New Deal Loses Vote in Rhode Island Tuesday

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 7.(P)—Rhode Island's first congressional district today turned its back on the new deal by electing a republican to the national house of representatives. Complete returns of all voting districts gave Charles F. Risk, who campaigned to "repudiate the administration's acts," had 12,969 majority over Antonio Prince, democrat. The last regular election the democrats won the district by 21,000 plurality. The district embraces the bulk of the state's cotton mills.

The special congressional election in Rhode Island constituted the first popular test of the Roosevelt policies in 1935.

Clean Cut Test

In a district, whose constituency has been said to be representative of American life as any in the country, Prince, Woonsocket democrat, state treasurer and former newspaperman, matched strength with Risk, Saylesville republican, a former district judge.

Their attitudes toward the new deal were clean cut.

Demanding Prince in a recent campaign address:

"Shall it be back to Hoover or forward with Roosevelt?"

From Risk: "Repudiate the Roosevelt administration and its acts."

The seat for which they battled was that vacated by Francis B. Condon (D.), upon his resignation to accept appointment to the supreme court of the state.

Fashionable Newport, R. I., turned in a plurality for a republican mayor, with Henry S. Wheeler winning over Mortimer A. Sullivan, democrat, in a special election.

Being "For" Too Much

THE Brazos river project is being urged before administration agencies again, this time with the end in view of obtaining WPA approval and sponsorship of the program. The application will be urged by John A. Norris, chairman of the state board of water engineers, in an appearance before the Works Progress administration at Washington.

THE importance and ultimate value of the Brazos valley improvement project to the state of Texas and the entire southwest can be but feebly estimated in terms of actual cash return to the territory.

THE saving in soil values will be enormous. Annually millions of tons of rich earth, the richest soil because it is on top of the land where it is first to wash, go down the creeks and rivers of Texas into the gulf. That loss constitutes a criminal waste of state resources—criminal because it is within the knowledge and power of man to prevent it.

THE Brazos valley project is one of the most meritorious, if not the most meritorious in its value to the state and the nation of any that has been put before the administration. It will mean returns in increased land values, increased production, increased population and increased industrial wealth as a result, which will far outweigh in proportion to the investment incurred, the returns from the Tennessee Valley experiment or the Quassamoddy tide-water project in Maine.

part of the plan. As critical of utility operations as we wish to be, there is no appreciable saving to be had in the production of power. If the government is able, by its experimentation, to find cheaper means of distributing the power that is generated, it will have performed a great service to the public and the utility companies.

BUT the value of the Brazos valley project to Texas will lie in the conservation of the state's soil and water resources that it will make possible. This conservation will many times over pay the investment required, while it will bring about a population increase commensurate with increased natural values and increased production of the affected areas.

BUT the administration at Washington does not seem so concerned for the project. Perhaps it is too much concerned with what the public thinks of the power development issue. And, perhaps, Texas is already pretty much of a settled issue politically speaking.

The Lindy Hopeless Hope

REPUBLICAN efforts to develop a presidential boom for Lindbergh show the traits in which the party has found itself with respect to a suitable candidate. It is sadly in need of a popular idol to offset the popularity of the democratic leader.

School Fund Apportionment

THERE is reproduced on this page an editorial from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram regarding the proposed constitutional amendment which would make possible a distribution of state school maintenance funds on the basis of actual school attendance rather than on the basis of scholastic population.

The Judge's Corner By R. W. H. KENNON

ROOSEVELT GRADUALLY ROUNDING UP DEMOCRATS While the game is not yet won but there has been made some concessions to the president's plan of passing the bill eliminating unnecessary holding companies of utility concerns. However, Senator Burton K. Wheeler predicts the measure, pretty much as the president wished, will finally be passed. This is not certain according to the press dispatches from Washington, as the "death sentence"—that is, the mandatory elimination of "unnecessary" holding companies—still seems to be the bone of contention. Evidently the $800,000 spent by the lobbyists was not wasted. In the event of failure of the bill to become a law threats are being made to make this an issue in the next national election. If so, there will be lots of members hear certain things that will not be music to their ears. Probably not a few will be left at home, and that election will sound their political death knell. In other words, they will have saved the bill its "death sentence" only to hear their own, politically. Both Bills Opposed Roosevelt's two pet measures—the utility bill and his tax-the-rich measure—both are being opposed, the utility bill in the house, and the tax bill in the senate. But it is admitted that the tax bill has the better chance of passage than the utility measure. Borah and LaFollette both are threatening to offer riders to the tax bill. These are said to be the veterans bonus, by Borah, and the five billion dollar Frazier-Lempke farm refinancing bill through the issuance of new money. Reports say both will be promptly defeated. Just why the utility companies are insisting on retaining the unnecessary holding companies is not apparent. It would seem that no concern would want to burden their properties with extra financing expense. And, too, the utility concerns, if they could only realize it, are running rough shod over very dangerous ground. The losses sustained in the Mid-west debacle have not yet faded from the memory of those who lost their savings through unnecessary holding companies, despite the acquittal of the Insulls. Should the concerns insist on exploiting the public, and those who have invested in securities, there will be a day of reckoning that may pronounce the death sentence for all holding companies. Lobbyists Not in Favor Lobbyists are not particularly in favor with the public, and when such huge sums of nearly a million dollars is spent to defeat legislation that the public considers in the interest of the people, there is danger of the pendulum swinging too far in the wrong direction. But indications are that all big business executives are from Missouri, and will have to be shown. One reprisal, in miniature, has already been made in connection with the originator of the "whispering campaign." E. P. Cramer, advertising man for the Thomas

Human and Other Nature By W. F. BRUCE

"The ole swimmin' hole" on the upland prairies of Kansas, and likewise the skating pond, was no more than a shallow depression where water stood in the pasture. I have a snap-shot of one that is dry as it used to be when the tadpoles followed the vanishing water to the last cowtrack and finally gasped their last in the stagnant mud. Another snap-shot shows one filled with water where we used to skate on wintry days across the road from Prairie Home school house. They called these depressions "buffalo wallows," but to me then that was just a name for a source of a great sport, in a miniature way. It was later that I began to associate these peculiar marks on the surface of the western plains with the animals that once roamed here in great herds. The buffalo had almost disappeared before my memory begins. Hence many of these statements seemed traditional. I thought this explanation for these small ponds might be a mere guess at their origin. But this summer as I was passing the buffala enclosure in the city park at Denver I noticed one of the shaggy-maned males rolling and turning about in such a way that he had already rounded out a shallow depression in the dust. I could easily imagine this hollowed out spot abandoned and then grown up in buffalo grass as this (CONTINUED ON PAGE 5)

Amendments in Simple Language

Editor's Note: The Citizen-Free Press presents below summaries of the proposed amendments to the constitution of the State of Texas to be voted in August 24. The amendments, numbered this year for the first time, will be discussed in order. The briefs were written in the department of state, which like the Citizen-Free Press, in publishing them, has no desire to be placed in the position of endorsing any, but is actuated solely by a desire to acquaint the public with the contents of each.

A GOOD AMENDMENT One of the amendments which will appear on your ballot August 24 provides for correction of the method of apportioning of the school funds and for extension of free textbooks to all the school children of the state.

If adopted, the amendment will make it possible to put a stop to the system whereby some schools obtain from the state school fund all the money required to run them while others are forced to raise by their own taxes many times the amount received from the state.

It will enable the Legislature to stop a practice that is at best unequal treatment of citizens and which is, in the worst manifestations, special privilege nefariously maintained.

It will make possible a stay in the constantly rising expense of public education—which now accounts for the major part of our tax burden—by removing the excessive benefits of the public purse wrongfully enjoyed by many communities at the expense of other communities.

The amendment plainly points at an apportionment based on actual school attendance rather than a loosely arrived-at count of "scholastics" within a district.

That is the only proper form of apportionment. If a district is allowed to count up all the children of transient and seasonal labor families within its boundaries at some time in the year, and draw from the state fund as much for each of these children who never go to school as the amount of money drawn for an actual user of the school facilities, that district is getting more than its share of the fund in which all are entitled to an equal interest.

It is plain that if a district can count 1,000 children of school age, whereas only 50 are actually enrolled in its school, it is able to draw state money for 1,000 and provide school facilities and teachers for only 50.

That's good business for the

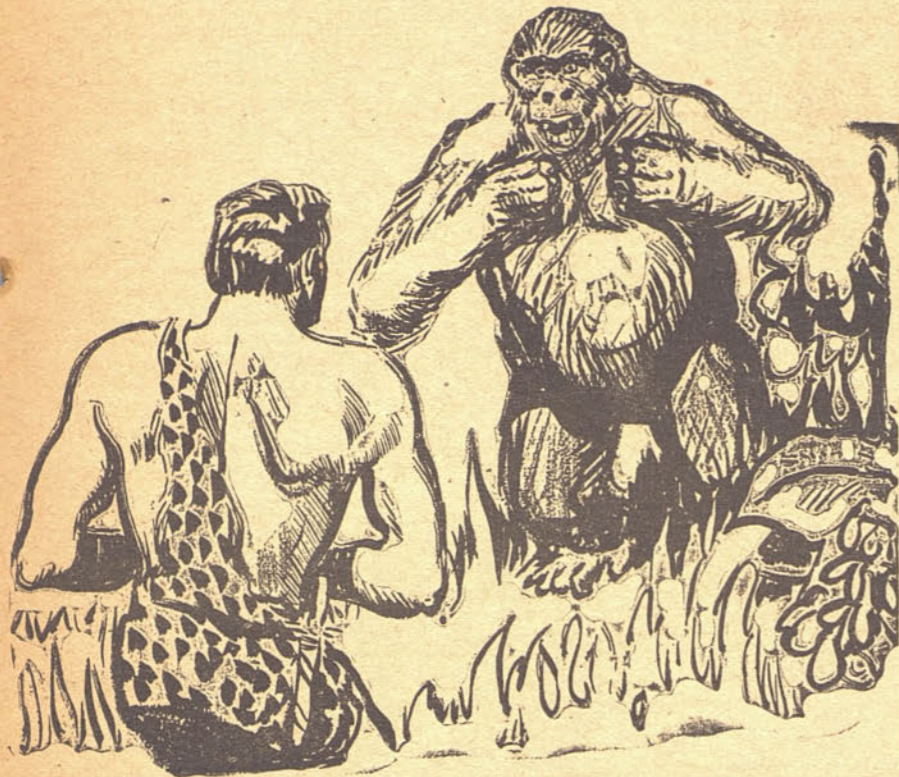

A. Edson, Inc., who rather boastfully admitted that he was the originator of the idea, has been fired from his job by the Edison concern. While this was not directly connected with the effort to defeat Roosevelt's plans, yet it was evidently intended to discredit the report that Roosevelt was slipping mentally and physically, and thus create public opinion against the soundness of his proposals. In the meantime the congressional probe of the campaign initiated by the lobbyists in defeating the utility bill is still in progress, and something ugly may develop that might hasten action and cause more drastic regulation than that which President Roosevelt proposes—maybe not in the immediate future, but at not such a distant day that the public will forget.

Another 75,000 Italians Called by Italian Duce

ROME, Aug. 7 (AP).—Premier Mussolini yesterday called 75,000 more men to arms "as a consequence of heavy Ethiopian mobilization of two regular army divisions, and one volunteer Fascist blackshirt division and two replacement divisions. This mobilization brought the number of divisions sent to East Africa or in training to seven divisions of the regular army, and six blackshirt militia. It is estimated this order will bring Italy's white forces in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland to 195,000.

FEAR GAMES LOSS Nazi Acts Against Writers Seen as Fear of Jew Campaign Effect

BERLIN, Germany, Aug. 7 (AP).—An authoritative source expressed the belief Tuesday that fear of losing next year's Olympic games on account of the campaign against the Jews and "political catholicism" lay behind the Nazi attempts to obstruct foreign correspondents. The loss of the games at Berlin would constitute a major setback for the Nazi regime, economically and politically.

OCTET OF FUN ARTISTS GIVE MERRY FROLIC

Spring's balmy breezes make balmy the characters of "Spring Tonic," the farical Fox Film comedy coming today to the Palace Theater.

The elements of this merry piling up of escapades are a tiger on the loose, a goopy newspaper reporter, a guitar-playing Romeo, a bored heiress who bolts her wedding rehearsal, and a conventional gilded youth ignorant of the first principles of love-making.

Lew Ayres plays the "inexpert sweetheart who accidentally gets a post-graduate course in courtship while watching Walter King, as the torrid troubadour, croon himself into a girl's heart.

Claire Trevor is the heiress hoofing it for romance. ZaSu Pitts is her maid-in-waiting—and trouble. Jack Haley, eccentric funster, enacts the scandal-sniffing reporter; exotic Tala Birdell the tiger tamer, Siegfried Rumann, a hotel guard, and the comedy team of Mitchell and Durant, a couple of moonshiners never still.

From the accounts, "Spring Tonic" is rollicking. It features, besides its excitement and fun, a song, "Tonight There's a Spell on the Moon," sung by Walter King.

It is reported that Claire Trevor, after a series of serious pictures, cuts loose in "Spring Tonic," blows off steam, and romps blithely through the laughable comedy.

This Robert T. Kane production, which Clyde Bruckman directed, is based on the successful stage farce by Ben Hecht and Rose Caylor.

President of West Texas Utilities Co. Gives His Views on Holding Bill

(Editor's Note: The following is a synopsis of a discussion of the holding company legislation in a talk by Price Campbell, president of the West Texas Utilities company, at a conference of the company officials recently.)

Many of you and other west Texas citizens are wondering what part the West Texas Utilities company played in any lobby against the holding company bill, the so-called Wheeler-Rayburn bill that was, however, not drafted by Wheeler or Rayburn, but by some of the administration New Dealers. While the constitution of the United States protects every one's right to protect and warn members of congress against proposed legislation and no one has a better right than the party who is to be affected, this company has taken very little action. We were advised by some in position to know, including a congressman from this section, that nothing at this time in Washington could stop the many socialistic bills being strong-armed through congress by New Dealers swarming around our democratic administration. It is really up to the people back home who nevertheless expect their representatives to act also as claim agents that their communities may get a share of the loot back from the increasing tax burdens to be imposed upon them.

Constitutionality
We, of course, are not concerned about the holding company bill except as it affects this operating company's interest, the interests of our communities, state, and the constitution of our national government. It is very doubtful legislation so we prefer to take our chances at this time on the constitutionality of the bill, should it pass as drawn, rather than spend a great deal of time, effort and money on advising the people and in turn our congressmen as to just what this trick measure really provides for and what the outcome could be should some bureaucratic administration see fit to take advantage of its many provisions.

While I have read the 293 pages of the senate bill and house bill report several times, it is hard to tell just how far reaching the measure might be and just how soon the government bureaus in Washington could take over the facilities of this company and operate them to the advantage of its political appointees. It took some of the best legal talent in Texas to interpret just how the government could, under the New Dealers' draft of the measure, use our lines or operate our property. While it is generally understood the bill was to be a regulatory measure for holding companies, it goes away beyond regulation or reform, all directly in opposition to any recovery measure as set up by the democratic platform. The New Dealers evidently do not want regulation but want the trick measure left as they have drafted it. There should be regulation of holding companies to prevent abuses of the past, but all holding companies in all business should be included. Holding company regulation is already provided for in the Securities Act, all of which I am very much in accord with as I do not believe in pyramiding of securities. This measure, however, is to pass a death sentence over all good and bad holding companies alike, should the commission decide that due to geographical location and several other means of excuses provided within the bill for the federal power bureau of Washington to assume that any holding company was "unnecessary"; then the Washington bureau itself could in fact be the holding company, thus placing our political federal government in business, if the courts in a future should tolerate such an act.

"Holding Company"
The bill defines "Holding Company" as anyone or any corporation holding as much as 10 per cent of the voting stock in any concern or in any other corporation. Holding company is generally thought of as being a company owning voting control of another corporation for financing or engineering and major consulting benefits. More than 80 per cent of all business in the United States is thus transacted under holding company procedure. There are considerably more holding companies in other businesses than in the utility business. Considerably more in transportation, petroleum industry, and even in newspapers, such as Scripps-Howard and Hearts papers where there is more pyramiding than in the average utility holding company. As said before, in our judgment there should never be more than one holding company. There are many instances where one holding company renders many benefits to certain sections of the country due to diversification of risks with more able financing benefits that can be brought in to many sections of the country where needed. The Middle West system is working and has been for two years to eliminate all but one holding company and this one operating principally as an investment trust and consulting agency. The holding company it not in reality costing this operating company one thin dime and they own all the common stock and are not receiving any common stock dividends from this company and have not in quite a number of years even though they brought in many millions of dollars of their cash which is invested in facilities to serve west Texans and for which the holding company only gets in return common stock. Part of this common stock was issued on some real appreciation in value of properties and some over-payments on actual physical value through purchase of some properties and land for water supply development, all of which was returned to this operating company in common stock and canceled out. This the federal trade commission or power commissions known to be a fact, the propaganda which continues to flow from those sources of their old reports notwithstanding. The public, that is, the bondholders and preferred stockholders of this company, have many millions of dollars more actual cash money in value of equipment and facilities to serve west Texans behind their security than is represented by the face value of their securities; that includes the sum total of all bonds and preferred stock outstanding.

Purely American Grounds
While we, of course, are interested in the situation from a selfish standpoint, I believe that it is every one's duty to fight this legislation on purely American grounds. This type of legislation concentrates too much power in the hands of the federal government, and if it should pass as is, unquestionably other businesses would be faced with similar attempts of federal control. For instance, if this bill should pass, there is just one other measure for them to get control of, newspapers, and that is to declare newspapers are vested with a public interest, such as the radio and they become a public utility. Then all who own 10 per cent control in any newspaper would immediately come under such a public utility act and be controlled from a bureau in Washington. The courts declared in 1931 and 1933 that the newspapers are not public utilities, but if the present socialistic tendencies should continue, the courts might

Group of Tables For Service Is New Idea

(Homemaking Help)

By ELEANOR ROSS
IF YOU do not wish to entertain informally with buffet meals, or to have your guests at one large table, there is a pleasing alternative. How pleasing and delightful this alternative is was demonstrated by the smart crowd of beautifully-dressed women who clustered around a table display shown by a smart store. And the tables used were card tables, set for everything from a formal appearing dinner to coffee and dessert service and a cocktail party. The possibilities of this type of service are endless and we believe that card table dining will become mighty popular.

Table for Buffet
Alongside was a card table set for a gay buffet with a cloth of buttercup yellow and quaintly-patterned cups and coffee service, with a great salad bowl and glass plate and chromium and glass accessories for serving.

For formal dining there was a table set with crystal and delicate china against a creamy satin cloth. The new idea of guests dropping in for coffee and dessert after dining at their own home, was shown in several charming card table settings, the price one of which was a table with a salmon pink damask cloth and napkins, cake plates and cups of deep crimson china and a silver coffee service.

There was also a gay little spring luncheon table, the cloth having a hand-blocked tulip design border with little glass tulips forming the centerpieces and yellow and white china adding just the right note.

Also included was an informal supper table gay with pottery and a tea table with delicate cloth of blue linen with fragile china. The breakfast tables were enchanting, including as they did a table for two, set with china with a gay floral pattern on a grass green cloth, and a table with flowered cloth. The china and glassware were adorned with green stripes.

held in 1936 that newspapers are, like the radio, vested with public interest.

It is not likely that this company will be called upon to testify in the lobby probe being staged in Washington at this time as we have spent less than $200 all together in informing our friends and in turn congressmen as to what this bill as drawn could really mean to this operating company and in turn the communities in this section of the state.

Lobby Probe
The lobby probe, I believe, was started to investigate both sides of the controversy. It would be very easy for the special probes to investigate the administration New Dealers' activities in strong-arm lobbying for their pet death sentence measure. New Dealer aids have been trying to sit in and lobby directly before the joint conference committees the past few weeks. Most of such lobbying evidence is already in book form, entitled "Handout" which discloses how the New Dealers connected with our democratic administration have employed a great number of press agents for control of propaganda through newspapers, radio, movies; that they have employed more detectives or snoopers in Washington and throughout the country (paid through NRA and other agencies) than ever has been done before, even during the war periods. "The Old Boat Rocker" in another book by a good democratic southern newspaperman which can be obtained from any book store and which discloses, in a humorous vein, just how these socialistic measures have been planned and how the plan is working out. David Lawrence in week before last Saturday Evening Post discloses how well the socialistic platform has been carried out and how well the stable platform of 1932 has been entirely sidetracked. There is a bright side, however, as Disraeli says: "The world is a wheel and it will all come around right." This nation, made up principally of Anglo-Saxons, can be trusted when awakened to protect their democratic party and their democracy that has been well maintained under the constitution which provides for state rights over and above bureaucratic control in Washington and provides for private initiative in our utility business, we have provided more electric service in this country than all the rest of the world put together enjoys and at rates way below that of all other countries. The electric service costs today to the average household are less than one-tenth of that he pays in various forms of taxes, yet the heavy taxes at this time are not even keeping up with the present political program of "sharing the loot." This country is going in the hole at the rate of hundreds of millions of dollars a month while the other major countries have practically balanced their budgets with England showing a surplus.

The matter is really up to us and others as individual citizens and taxpayers. There is little actual good this company can do by lobbying in Washington. History seems to be repeating itself there, but the wheel will pass on as it did nearly one hundred years ago when, on March 12, 1838, Daniel Webster delivered an address in the United States senate. Such address sounds as if it were delivered by some stable southern democrat today, yet it was nearly one hundred years ago when Daniel Webster made the following speech in the United States senate: "There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations, and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. "In a country of unbounded liberty, they clamor against oppression. In a country of perfect equality they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else, they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave.

"Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing, sir, but to enjoy the fruits of other men's labor. They can mean nothing but disturbances and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society."

Sketches of the lives and experiences of the Fathers of Eastland County and the Cisco Country. The Citizen-Free Press Welcomes anecdotes and stories concerning pioneer residents of this section.

R. H. Boon, Cisco Grocer Not Here So Long as Others, But a Thorough Citizen

Occasionally we select a subject for this department some citizen who, in point of residence, has not been a resident of Cisco or the Cisco country as long as some others, but who is and has been thoroughly identified with Cisco, and its development.

Believes in Fair Dealing

Mr. Boon believes in fair dealing has been a growing concernings with his customers, and that is one of the reasons why his business he moved to his present location.

Then, too, he is a quiet, unostentatious citizen, attending strictly to his own business, and believing in the other fellow running his own show, as he does, according to his own notion.

The farmers of Kimberly starved while their children played with diamonds. But what a difference it made after it was advertised.

Eastland County Cotton Income in 1934 Was Double 1932

$150,000 MORE MONEY IS IN CIRCULATION

Cotton income in Eastland county was more than double in 1934 what it was in 1932, and almost equal to that of 1933, a very favorable year, it was announced by C. Metz Heald, county agent, on the basis of complete official three-year county cotton figures just received from the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Eastland county farmers received for their cotton last year $254,731.64 compared to $107,606.60 in 1932 and $281,403.29 in 1934. The farm value of lint and seed last year was almost $125,000 more than it was in 1932, and added to this was $22,428.84 in benefit payments, he said.

Values were based upon yields and prices as furnished by the United States department of agriculture. The benefit payments include all those to April 30, 1935.

The value of unsold Bankhead certificates held by farmers was not included in the amount of benefit payments. Texas farmers have about nine million dollars' worth of these certificates on hand, according to the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

Commenting on this huge increase in Eastland county farmers' cotton income from 1932 to the present, J. D. Guy, Carbon, Texas, pointed out that there was almost 150,000 more dollars of cotton money in circulation in the county the last 12 months than two years ago. This increased farm income has been the means of helping farmers stay in business, maintain their farms and homes, add remain customers of merchants, he states.

LEAF WORM INFESTATION IS SERIOUS

Leaf worm infestation has become severe enough to threaten destruction of the cotton crop, County Agent C. Metz Heald said this week after an investigation of condition in the county. The pest, he said, is easily controlled, however, the best method being to use calcium arsenate, otherwise known as arsenate of lime. It is the same material, he explained that is ordinarily used for the control of the boll weevil.

"Under ordinary conditions," Heald explained, "and where dusting machinery is available, it is applied in dry form. It should be applied in an even dust cloud. Five pounds per acre will ordinarily be sufficient, although in cotton of large growth it may be necessary to apply 10 pounds per acre. It should be applied preferably in the early morning while there is dew on the plant, although it is quite effective when applied in midday provided there is no wind.

"Those who are equipped with some kind of spraying machinery insist that it is more conveniently applied with water as a spray. If this method is preferred, the poison should be mixed with water in the proportion of three pounds to 50 gallons of water. The poison will quickly settle out of this mixture, and while application is being made, the mixture should be kept agitated so as to keep the poison suspended in the water. It should be applied in sufficient quantity merely to get a reasonably even covering of the mixture on the foliage.

"There has been complaint of a shortage of calcium arsenate. If this cannot be obtained, Paris green may be used. For dusting, this should be thoroughly mixed with some three to five parts of hydrated lime or cheap flour to one part of the poison and applied in the same quantity as the calcium arsenate or possibly a little more heavily. If it is to be sprayed use three parts of lime to one part of Paris green and mix so that there will be one and a half pounds of Paris green in 50 gallons of water.

"Mixtures of white arsenate and sal soda or lye are very apt to injure the foliage, and we do not recommend their use."

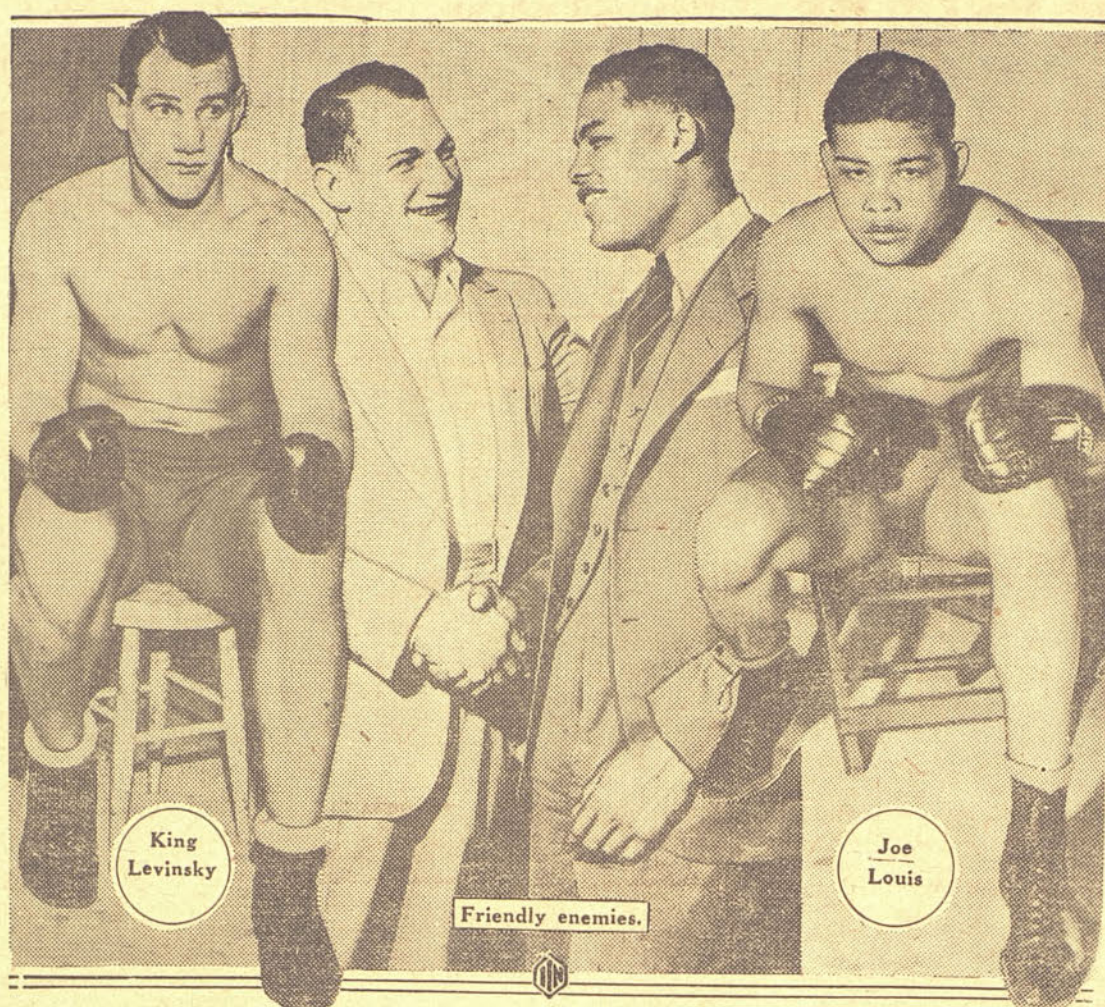

Harry, Curtis and Robert Sullivan and William Patterson of Norman, who have been the guests of Mrs. R. H. Love for the past week have returned home.

M. L. Leach and children and Mrs. Potter have returned to their home in Dallas after a week's visit in the W. W. Moore home.

PARKING METER

Public-on-Wheels Paying and Paying, But Appear to Be Liking It

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7.—The new-fangled parking meter, on trial here this month for the first time in America, has been given a great big hand—full of nickels.

"The public on wheels is paying and paying, and, as indicated to an ear-to-the-street today, is liking it.

In 12 days 200 of the little gadgets set on iron posts at 20-foot intervals along the curbing have taken in $745.09. It takes nickels to keep the police off, but people sometimes put pennies in, and the meters take them.

Orval Moiser, city manager, said all the merchants with whom he had talked about the meter were highly pleased.

Experimenter Finds Antagonist That Is More Than Match for Black Widow

Gene Lankford, of Gene's Tire shop, is having lots of fun these days demonstrating the deadly venom of the much-heralded black widow spider. First, he placed a rattler in the cage with the widow, but the spider failed to attack the snake. In fact, Gene said, the two seemed to get along as well as two congenial beings could. The snake finally overtook and killed the widow.

Gene secured another spider and placed it in the box. A worm was put in the widow's cage, but it was not pugnacious. However, the worm had other intentions than to furnish a breakfast for the widow, as had numbers of her consorts whom she had devoured, so, instead of putting up a fight for its life, the insect spun a web around itself, and the crimson-breasted widow could not penetrate his armor.

Receiving no thrills from this anticipated encounter Gene secured a stinging scorpion—one of those fellows who carry the hinder parts of his anatomy elevated at an angle of about 45 degrees, the better to deal its death-blow to an antagonist—and placed it with the spider. The widow evidently had had previous experience with this kind of opponent, so when the scorpion would strike she would side-step, and for a time avoided its thrusts. In fact it was a game of dodging with both. The scorpion, becoming enmeshed in the armor of the green worm, provided a handicap that threw the widow off her guard. She underestimated the reach of the scorpion, who led with his fighting arm; the widow was just a split second slow; the scorpion landed. The widow went down for the count and was deadlier than the proverbial door nail in less time than it takes to tee it.

Other crimson-breasted spiders were placed with the scorpion, but fared no better than the first. It dispatched the killer widows as fast as they were placed in the box with him.

Gene now believes he has discovered one insect that will exterminate the dreaded widow spider. Perhaps he is right.

New Design to Be in Operation at Sandwich Shop Thursday Morning

A new design in barbecue pits, so constructed that the fire will not touch the meat which is cooked by heat draft, will be in operation Thursday morning at the J. J. Litchfield Sandwich shop on East 16th street, the Eastland highway.

The pit, a copyrighted design, is said to be the latest word in barbecue cookery designing.
