Police Raid On Car Of Local Girls Nets Half Doz. Bottles "Uncle Jo"

The arrest of six of Cisco's popular young women, all members of leading families of the city, and all recent high school graduates and young ladies of impeccable character and reputation, caused general indignation here Tuesday morning when the fact became known on the streets. The girls were victims of police vigilance, who are determined that none of the federal 3.2 beverage may be dispensed nor imbibed in Cisco till it has so been decreed at the ballot box.

Cisco's police force are perfectly familiar with the containers used by local bootleggers, and as the beverage the young ladies were enjoying, were bottled in containers similar in appearance, the zealous minions of the law jumped at conclusions—without ascertaining the names, antecedents or characters of their victims.

The girls were drinking from bottles "that looked like beer bottles," Chief Daniels was reported to have said, which was sufficient to inspire them to do their duty. Nor would the chief allow them to explain, nor would he taste of the beverage and be convinced that it was harmless as that used at W. C. T. U. receptions. But after being escorted to police headquarters they were unloaded from their car and marched into the city hall for booking, and had not their identity been established, probably held "in durance vile" till some member of their family learned of their detention and incarceration, and caused their release. One of the girls attempted to use the phone to get some one to come and prove their innocence, but was prevented, the Citizen was told, and the demeanor of the chief of police, who took the matter in hand after the patrolman escorted the young women to police headquarters, was none any too courteous, the girls reported. Their statements were verified by others who witnessed the unloading.

Stubblefield Identified Them

However, all were released when Day Sergeant Stubblefield is alleged to have recognized some of the party, tasted the beverage, and told the chief that he had better not proceed any further with his raid. That he had "gone rabbit hunting and jumped a panther."

Tuesday was one of the warmest days of the summer, when a car containing the young ladies drove to the Lee Motor Co. for gasoline, and while there engaged in conversation with Edward Lee and Frank Morehart, station attendants and friends of the girls.

As said the day was warm, and the young men suggested a cooling drink, which the girls accepted. The drink was all right, very palatable and cooling, but it was bottled in the ill-fated brown container, similar to that used by local bootleggers for their home brew, so familiar to the Cisco constabulary.

After tasting the soft drink the girls decided to drive around town for the benefit of the breeze that was blowing. As they were all healthy, normal young women, naturally all were jolly, and were laughing, and talking as they drove through the streets, sipping their beverage as they proceeded.

When near the First National Bank building they were stopped by Night Sergeant Mitchell Perdue, then on duty as a guard at the bank, who escorted them to the city hall without trying to determine what was in the bottles, where Chief of Police Grant Daniels took them in hand and made them get out of the car and escorted the bevy, and their bottles, into police headquarters.

One of the girls, the Citizen was informed, attempted to phone Edward Lee, she said, but was informed to stay away from the phone by the police chief. Mr. Stubblefield, we were told, had handed her the phone to call up her party when the chief told her

Water Delinquents Swear To Pay Back Dues After Aug. 1

Secretary Grantham read, and the commission approved an affidavit that those behind in their water rentals will be required to make on and after August 1 if water service is continued. This affidavit recites that the patron who is unable to pay his back dues, will take care of current bills and pay arrears as soon as he is able to do so. A failure to comply with this arrangement will cause the delinquent consumer to have his water service automatically discontinued. Henderson objected to the immediate enforcement of this order, as there had been no publicity, and the secretary was ordered to prepare a notice to be published in the Marsh-Fentress newspaper, the official organ, giving formal notice that it would take effect on August 1. Commissioner Burnett, mayor pro-tem, presided at the meeting Tuesday night in the absence of Mayor Berry.

Seven Births, One Death

Dr. W. P. Lee, city health physician, in his monthly report, stated that the general health of the city was good; few flies and mosquitoes now infest the city, due largely to the sanitary work and cessation of rains.

"There had been seven births and only one death in the city during the month of June," the report said. "There were still calls from charity patients, which have been treated, but I have tried to impress upon them the importance of paying their doctor bills at the earliest practical moment. A member of the state board of health was here recently and inspected the stores, dairies and other places where food is handled. He approved the methods we are pursuing, and in the main gave the city a clean bill of health. There have been complaints of failure to obtain health certificates, and I have urged all to comply with this ordinance, but many do not have the money to procure them. The places which we found were not up to sanitary requirements have promised to make indicated corrections," the report concluded.

J. R. Torrance, of Waco, was granted permission to wreck and remove a building on West Broadway, which he owns, with a consideration that the old cistern on the lot be filled.

The matter of adopting the budget was deferred till the next regular meeting of the commission. The city attorney stated that the budget had been prepared and a copy left in the secretary's office, another posted on the city bill board (where nobody ever sees it, nor was it stated that anyone had called to see the copy in the secretary's office.) Tuesday night was the time set for a hearing on the budget, but as no questions were asked it was presumed that few, if any, knew that the hearing was to be held.

The commission appropriated a sum not to exceed $100 for opening a connecting highway from 23, near the Green Lantern to the scenic road around the lake, after E. P. Crawford had pointed out the convenience of such a road. The commissioners believed this road would increase the sale of fishing permits, besides enable people to find the way to the western waters of the lake. Mr. Crawford is chairman of the chamber of commerce highway committee, and the $100 will be used to fence the road where needed. Owners had agreed to donate the right of way, Mr. Crawford said. Crawford's suggestion that the commission top the road leading from the highway to the swimming pool was not acted upon, as it was estimated the cost would be prohibitive at this time.

Street Supt. Clements was instructed to put in 115 feet of guttering on Avenue E, just east of the federal building. He estimated the cost to be $35.

Request of C. O. Pass, fire chief, that the city send two members of the fire department to College Station to attend the fireman's school, was acted upon favorably with the appropriation of $50 to cover expenses. This school begins Monday.

COLLINS RETURNS FROM TRIP TO EAST CITIES

J. J. Collins, president of the Cisco Rotarians, has returned from an extended trip to Boston, New York, Washington, Chicago, Cleveland and other cities East. He went as a representative of the Cisco club to the Rotary International, which convened in Boston. "I had the best trip of my life," Mr. Collins said on his return. "I saw many interesting things, and learned a great deal while away. Prosperity seems to be returning in the East, according to indications, but has not arrived in force yet. While there are many things those people have that we do not have, yet I am glad to be back home, and happy to live in the country instead of the crowded marts of the nation. We people do not appreciate the blessing nature has bestowed on us, but if all could take the trip I did, and see the things I saw, they would be more appreciative of the privileges we have. Yes, a trip like mine is worth the price, but I am more contented with Cisco than ever," he concluded. He had a fund of interesting stories to relate to we of the wide open spaces.

O. K. LINDER SUFFERS

BROKEN ARM IN CRASH

While on his vacation at Kennedy and Corpus Christi, O. K. Linder, who presides over the front chair at the Nu Way Beauty and Barber shop, suffered a broken arm and painfully cut arm when his car turned over between Corpus and Kennedy while returning to the latter place July 5.

In the car with Mr. Linder were Mrs. Linder, his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Byars, and his younger brother, Roy Linder, of Kennedy. Mr. and Mrs. Linder will remain at the home of his parents in Kennedy till he recovers, which the surgeon said would be about the first of August. Mr. and Mrs. Byars have returned to Cisco.

Mrs. Byars stated it required 20 stitches to close the wounds in Mr. Linder's arm.

W. E. Spencer was in Austin the first of the week on business in connection with welfare work.

Leadership Essential Factor in Building a Progressive Community

(The following is the first of three articles submitted to the Citizen on "Community Building," which will be published weekly. Possibly others may follow, should the prosperity bug bite other citizens who would like to see Cisco prosperous under an united citizenship—Editor.)

(Contributed)

In the building of a community there is no principle involved that is different from the building of a private business. The development of a community in all its various ramifications must be brought about by the combined initiative efforts of the citizenship.

In the very beginning leadership is of prime importance. Along with leadership must come definite plans which must be worked out through this leadership with the various groups of individuals who are willing to apply themselves to the task of bringing about definite results. In order to do this it is necessary to develop a community spirit so that the various groups who are willing to apply themselves to the working out of these desirable ends may have a common view point with the leaders to the end that whatever is done will contribute toward a completed project in the future.

Initiative Essential

The leadership in a program of this kind must not only be able to map out definite plans, but must be able to sell them to the leaders of the various groups interested in the development of the community. This, in the first place, calls for initiative, which is the painful road to accomplishment. It means much work to those giving direction to the public interests. Because, without the coordination of the forces which we have, any undertaking must of necessity fail.

Whatever program is developed must be sufficiently definite that all may understand, and at the same time, it should be flexible enough so that it may be contracted or expanded to meet with an avalanche of criticism which will be inspired by politics, ignorance or a sincere desire to help. In dealing with the first it will be necessary for the leaders to develop a program which they can justify, and which will be so clear to those opposing it for political or personal reasons, 'will not be able to mislead the patriotic citizenship of the community. In dealing with the critic who, on account of ignorance or misconception of facts, it will be necessary to exercise a great deal of patience in bringing them around to a view point which can be justified by facts and conditions. The third course of criticism only needs direction to become an active and helpful force in developing the most beneficial type of community spirit and cooperation in working out our destiny.

This program should begin with the chamber of commerce, with the approval of the city commission, and as fast as possible, the efforts of the civic and social organizations should be enlisted in bringing about the ends sought.

Question of Means

The question of means is very largely one for the leader to determine, and in this part of the program a great deal of tact and skill is necessary in order to enlist the support of all the forces at our command. The coordinating of the various forces in the activities necessary to the developing of any plan is one of the things necessary at the very beginning. There are a great many fallacious ideas that must be eliminated before we can get down to work with any degree of hope for success. One of the most prevalent of these ideas is that the developing of the community happens without any particular effort on the part of the leader. This idea contributes probably more than any other to the inactivity of the citizenship in its working out of any program.

Building is always a slow process and requires courage and energy. One of the reasons why people criticize and obstruct is that it is the way of the least resistance. It takes a great many men a long time to construct a building—one or two may destroy it in a few minutes. If we expect to develop our community to the highest degree possibly it is going to mean a great deal of work for a great many people over a period of considerable time.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Where there is no vision, the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.---Prov. 29:18.

The promise is, I will not thee forsake. "Lo, I am with you alway." to the end; Then hasten his acquaintance now to make. And know him as thy never failing friend. The love that doth the humblest floweret heed In every hour supplies all human need. ---Edith L. Perkins.

Whenever nations forgot God, whenever individuals turned their backs on God, they inevitably invited their own destruction. On the other hand, whenever men and nations turned to God and took a new grip on the things of God, blessings came to the race. So today, many statesmen, and all the real thinkers of the nations, are recognizing the fact that the only remedy for the ills of the world is a return to God.--- Bishop Clement C. Hoyler.

FIRING SQUAD DAMAGE TREES

The city firing squad has been busy during the past week. Results: much dead grass and weeds, which should have been cut in the spring, has been burned, likewise a number of trees, shrubs and other ornamental growing things have been ruthlessly destroyed. Nature requires 20 years to grow a tree, but it takes the firing squad only 15 minutes to kill it.

If the city must wait until the grass and weeds become dry—after the flies and mosquitoes have hatched their disease-propagating broods—to clear off vacant lots, and then by firing the dead vegetation, some provision should be devised to protect growing trees and shrubs. God knows it is difficult enough to grow them under most favorable conditions. This could be done by chopping away the combustible matter around the growing things before setting the lot on fire. A rather promising hedge of china, mesquite and other young sprouts, that came after the parent trees were frozen last winter behind the Gude hotel, were badly scorched when the Luce lot was fired. A walnut tree in the 300 block on W. Seventh street, was burned. This old trunk, partially killed by frost, was putting up a strong fight for life that it might live again in the off-shoots it had thrown out, which were bearing nuts as large as guinea eggs, was belted by the flames of the firing squad. Other damage might be cited if a survey of the city should be made.

Trees and shrubs are a city's chief ornamentation, but they are difficult to have when wantonly destroyed by city authority.

As stated above, it takes nature

20 years to grow a tree, but the firing squad can kill it in 15 minutes.

SPIRIT OF LOYALTY

Some time ago the Citizen had some criticism of Cisco firms displaying a huge colored sign, on the screen to their front doors, advertising Fort Worth bread. At the time these signs were allowed to desecrate the fronts of Cisco stores we do not believe the proprietors realized that it was a slap at local industry, but it was, nevertheless. However, it seems that one firm, that of Gabbert & Scarbrough, has taken a more serious view of the matter and recanted, for that sign no longer offends loyal Cisco citizens, those people who believe the only way to build Cisco is to patronize Cisco industries.

The Fort Worth bread sign is no longer on the front of the G. & S. store, and this firm wants the people of Cisco to know that it is not boosting Fort Worth products any longer. They will keep a small supply of the Fort Worth bread on hand to serve those citizens who do not care whether Cisco industries thrive or perish, even though the very money they spend for Fort Worth bread was earned in Cisco, from Cisco industries.

The editor was present when the wife of a Cisco man came into a grocery store—and by the way, it was the G. & S. grocery—and called for Fort Worth bread. This lady's husband has lived in Cisco for many years, owns property here, every dollar he earns comes from Cisco people. Yet, she failed to manifest enough local loyalty to help build up her town, her own property, or increase the earnings of her husband by calling for Cisco made products.

Such is not that local loyalty that builds communities. Bread is a small matter, but if you spend a nickle for bread, be sure that nickle stays in Cisco. It will pay dollars in debts if it remains here. It just buys a nickle's worth of bread if taken out of local circulation, so far as Cisco is concerned, but serves to grow into dollars for the city where the bread was made.

WHY ADVERTISE GISCO

Cisco is being called upon to raise a modest sum to advertise this city and its resources in literature and other devices at the Century of Progress fair at Chicago, which the West Texas chamber of commerce is fostering. Naturally all will conclude that the proposition is worth while, at first blush. The cost is infinitesimal, the publicity is voluminous, whose effects is unlimited. But, why advertise Cisco? The objective in placing the resources of a city or section before the public is to cause more people to come here to enjoy our splendid climate, develop our natural resources, etc. But what will we do with them when they come? If they go out to visit our great lake resort they will find hazardous transportation after leaving the highway to get to the grounds. If they plan to engage in some factory or local enterprise, signs will confront them advising them to buy products made in another town. So why advertise? The new comers, or prospective new citizen, will conclude that we do not patronize those institutions we have, so what inducement do we offer him to invest his money in Cisco?

The Citizen would much prefer to join in and advise that all subscribe to this bit of proposed publicity, but the above reasons are cold-blooded facts of our own making, and new people brought here under claims of loyalty to home institutions would be false promises, and act as a boomerang to the community. Let's get right ourselves, sell Cisco to Ciscoans, then advertise our natural advantages to the outside world, and when an industry is started here, let's give it our patriotic and loyal support. You will then have a better town and a more prosperous people. This, we know, means a loss of a few dollars in isolated instances, as the outside man will give you some better prices on articles of local manufacture, but the additional saving will be more than offset by spending your money at home, with home people.

This applies not only to local industries, but on merchandise, as well. We occasionally hear of local people going to other towns to buy their furniture and other merchandise. Some leader is advertised at apparently cheaper prices than that offered by local stores, but when the two articles are compared it will be found that the home store is probably a better bargain than the chain store merchandise. The Home Furniture Co., Cisco's leading house furnishing store, carries a well selected stock of all kinds of new and used furniture and furnishings at prices that cannot be beat by the big chain stores. Make it a point to "Try Cisco First," before you burn gasoline in hiking off to another town for your merchandise, especially furniture.

Morris Infant Died Here Of Hemorrhage

Ellsworth, the 20 days old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morris, living on Route 4, out of Cisco, passed away of hemorrhage at a local sanitarium June 5. A little bud has been transplanted to bloom in the garden of the innocents. Rev. R. N. Balderee conducted religious services at the grave Thursday of last week, when interment was in the Mitchell cemetery. Besides his parents, a brother and sister, Udell and Maxine, and a host of near relatives survive.

During the 'baby's illness everything possible, including several transfusions of blood, was done to save its little life, but to no avail. The great father just needed another bright little flower to blossom in his celestial realm.

6,700 ACRES COTTON PLEDGED FOR PLOWING IN EASTLAND COUNTY

Saturday was the last day to sign up cotton acreage for plowing, under the federal industrial recovery act, and committees taking applications and filling out contracts had not completed their jobs at noon today. There had been signed at the closing of business last Monday in Eastland county approximately 6,700 acres of cotton, the tentative amount of acreage allotted to the county under the United States agricultural department plan to reduce cotton acreage. The committees, however, are still at work and contracts were to be signed up to July 8.

County Agent Patterson, on July 1, issued the following bulletin: To cotton growers who have signed contracts to plow up cotton:

Contrary to statements made in public meetings:

You will please proceed at once to select, measure and stake the cotton which you will plow up. To freshen your memory there are 4840 square yards per acre. To calculate acreage: divide the 4840 by length of rows in yards to determine the width for an acre. Multiply this by the number of acres to be plowed up in that field. This gives width of strip to be plowed up. Include in this calculation only land actually growing cotton . . . no turning rows.

You do your own measuring on the land you want plowed up. Then a committeeman inspects the crop to satisfy himself as to accuracy of measurements . . . that cotton should produce what you estimated . . . and that it is an average of all of your cotton. Later federal men inspect fields selected at random to check us.

Committeemen will begin Monday afternoon inspecting on this basis. Please have the stakes up by then if possible although it will require several days to inspect all fields.

You will not plow up any of this contracted cotton until notified from Washington that your contract is accepted."

"Life" is the Subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 16, including the First Church at Eastland.

The Golden Text is from John 17: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself" (John 5:26).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes citations from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one of which is as follows (p. 76): "When being is understood, Life will be recognized as neither material nor finite, but as infinite, as God, universal good; and the belief that life, or mind, was ever in a finite form, or good in evil, will be destroyed. . . . Suffering sinning, dying beliefs are unreal. When divine Science is universally understood, they will have no power over man, for man is immortal and lives by divine authority."

that he was "chief of police," and she could not use the phone. It was then that Mr. Stubblefield is said to have recognized some of the girls and ascertained that the beverage was a harmless, cooling drink, and so informed his chief.

While the incident is regretted, yet it seems to be inexcusable. One who occupies the position of chief of police should have some acquaintance with members of the leading families of Cisco, and in addition, it appears, is reasonable to suppose, that he should have some conception of people. Had this been true a rule of reason would have prompted him to ascertain the nature of the beverage, and who his victims were, before humiliating respectable young women by placing them under arrest before informing himself whether or not they had been guilty of the misdemeanor.

The soft drink that caused all the excitement is rather new in Cisco, and is sold under the name of "Uncle Jo," but little known here—rather was little known until Tuesday, but now well advertised. In fact the company manufacturing the beverage could not have chosen a better method of publicity had he tried to popularize "Uncle Jo" locally, not even had he advertised its merits in the Cisco Citizen—and everybody reads the Citizen.

Edward Lee reported a big increase in "Uncle Jo" sales Tuesday afternoon. And the "Uncle Jo" representative was kind enough to leave the chief 6 ice-cold bottles for his own benefit.

The incident occurred Tuesday, yet the Marsh-Fentress newspaper has been as silent as a tomb.

Those who witnessed most of the incident said the girls stood the ordeal remarkably well as they were laughing and trying to talk the police chief into smelling the bottles or even tastethem, which he refused to do. The witnesses said he commanded them to "shut up," in no gentle manner.

Others said the officer was told that a "bunch of women were boisterously driving through the streets, drinking beer, and disturbing the peace," which spurred the officer to do his duty.

We commend the officers on their zeal in guarding the welfare and peace of the city, and even acclaim their vigilance in keeping Cisco free of intoxicants—on the streets—but we think they acted without the proper judgment in not first ascertaining his premises before placing young women under arrest.

Some of the girls are said to have suffered considerably from nervousness after the excitement was over, when they reached their homes.

Naturally the parents of the girls are a bit sore, though the entire matter is still held in abeyance awaiting the arrival of Mayor Berry, who was out of the city at the time. Just what will be the finale the Citizen is not informed, and simply gives the above facts as learned by those who witnessed the episode.

Held For Cross Plains

Roy Spicer was taken into custody in Eastland Tuesday morning by Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill and held by the sheriff department for the officers at Cross Plains. Spicer is charged with having stolen four automobile casing belonging to Ed Henderson of Cross Plains.

Frank Sparks and Grady Owen, of Eastland, were here Wednesday on legal matters.

Foundation Laid For Mayhew Brick on Old Broadway Hotel Lot

With the completion of pouring the concrete for the foundation of the Mayhew brick building, on the lot formerly occupied by the old Broadway Hotel, workmen are ready to begin the construction of the walls at once. This building adjoins that occupied by the Palace Cafe, also a Mayhew building.

W. H. and Charles Mayhew are the owners of the new structure, and is being erected as an ice and ice cream depot, and cold storage plant. Ice and cream will be handled by wholesale and retail. Charles Mayhew and Clyde Wilkerson will be in charge of the new business, as W. H. Mayhew will continue to operate the Mayhew Trading Co., at West Eleventh Street and Avenue E, where he is building up a substantial business in buying and selling everything used and new. Or he will trade, worth the money, for anything you have.

This new brick is the first substantial construction to be started in Cisco since the depression, except the federal building and library.

WHEAT AND COTTON REACH NEW HIGH SEASON PRICES

Responding to the federal recovery plan, and a reason of buying, wheat and cotton reached new season's high levels Wednesday when cotton advanced $4.50 per bale, with March and May futures quoted at 12.10 and 12.25 cents per pound. Wheat was quoted on the Chicago exchange at $1.04 to $1.07.

BOND COMMITTEE SAYS CITY CAN PAY $484,350

The committee named by the city commission to outline a plan to submit to the bond holders committee, regarding the settlement of Cisco's bonded indebtedness, met with the city commission Thursday night of last week, and adopted a plan similar to that which the Citizen had previously suggested, of issuing refunding bonds to the extent of Cisco ability, and maintain the city government. This amount was set at $484,350. However, this was only tentative, as the committee will work out the details to be submitted to the New York committee.

ANOTHER LANDMARK TO BE REPLACED BY A MODERN BUILDING

Another Cisco landmark is disappearing to make place for a more modern structure with the razing of the old Clark box store room at the corner of Avenue D and Ninth Street. R. B. Gustafson is erecting a stucco building on this location, which will be a Humble Service Station, and will place a service station on each of the four corners of that square.

The lot is jointly owned by J. Q. Clark and his sister, Miss Tommie Clark, who executed a lease early this week to Gustafson.

Settlement Ordered By Court of Claims Stubblefield Estate

EASTLAND, July 13.—This week, being non-jury week, both of the Eastland county district courts have considered and disposed of some important civil cases, among which were claims against the estate of the late J. R. Stubblefield, in which Judge Davenport authorized settlement of claims at 50 per cent of the original value where such settlement can be made by agreement between the receivers and claimants.

On Monday decision was rendered by Judge B. W. Patterson in the 88th district court in the case of R. L. Myers vs. the Stamford State bank. This was a garnishment proceeding in which Myers was seeking to collect a claim of $1,000 from the Central West Texas Insurance association. Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff.

On Tuesday a decision was reached in the case of James Shaw, banking commissioner of Texas, vs. Scott Key, in which judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. The suit was in the interest of the liquidation of the Texas State bank and was for the purpose of collecting an account due the bank.

In the 91st district court Judge George L. Devenport rendered a decision Tuesday in the case of Mrs. M. J. Rust vs. Walter H. Wilson et al. In this suit the settlement of the J. R. Stubblefield estate is involved and the decision allowed the receivers to settle certain claims held by Mrs. Rust at 50 per cent of the original value under agreement.

OKLAHOMA LEGALIZES BEER

Oklahoma Tuesday, by a majority of 94,718, legalized the sale of 3.2 beer in the Sooner State, and Governor Murray has announced the state is ready to issue license and collect the tax. Pussy Foot Johnson, one of the dryest of the anti-repeal leaders, has given up hope of staying the tide against repeal of the 18th amendment, and says the country is due for a five-year drunk.

The Central Super Service Station in Carroll Old Stand

The Central Super Service Station is the business name of a new firm recently organized in Cisco for the purpose of serving the motor trade. The Super Service has taken over the old Carroll Auto Supply stand, and instead of handling products of the oil trust—the major companies—the Super Service will be a White Star station in the future. The change was formally made July 10, though the manager of the Super Service has been doing business at the old stand for about three weeks. The lease held by the Gulf Company had not expired until the above date.

The Super Service is owned by Cisco people, with Lee Smith, former manager of the Gulf station at D and W. Ninth Street, in charge as manager. Mr. Smith announces that the Super Service will be strictly a White Star station, handling White Star Refinery products exclusively, gasoline and oils, home products, made and refined in Cisco. In addition to White Star products the Super Service will handle a full line of General tires and tubes, also Quaker State lubricants.

Mr. Smith stated the Super Service will maintain a day and night service to take care of the trade at all hours.
