WAR PREPARATIONS MADE IN ETHIOPIA

Two School Buses Are Ordered by Board

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Getting up programs is one of the biggest problems that even a newspaperman ever got into. I fell down on the Rotary club last week and I have been given another chance and threatened with expulsion this week unless I deliver. The search for something new and interesting is a real job. It takes time and thought and leisure, something that most of us haven't got.

Putting on programs is getting to be so important and universal that there is room for another profession. We ought to have professional programs putter-ons so that the busy man who is called on to provide some entertainment for a meeting can simply put in an order and have it delivered at the place of presentation at the proper time.

The other day a good farmer friend of ours came into the Cisco Daily Press office and traded a load of watermelons for a subscription to the paper. Now Leonard Hudson is planning to feed you folks these melons at the election party next Saturday night. He doesn't know how far the melons he has will go but he's trying to round up another load to add to what he has so that there will be slices enough to go around.

J. C. McAfee who owns the Oil Belt Advertising service, is preparing a big board to be erected in front of the Press building. It will be marked off so that the returns may be posted properly for the benefit of the folks who are interested.

These returns will come to us direct from the Texas Election bureau so you can be assured of their accuracy. There is more interest in the forthcoming election on constitutional amendments than has been the case in most other such elections, and most of the folks will be eager to get the returns at the earliest possible moment.

There will be some music by Harry Schaefer, Ernest Hittson, Spurgeon Parks and Dick Thomas. The street will be roped off in front and things made as comfortable and convenient as possible for those who wish to attend. You are welcome.

Shrimp Fisherman's Alibi Is Sustained

GALVESTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—County Attorney Ralph Crawford said today that an investigation revealed that Louis Scala, League City shrimp fisherman, was innocent of charges he drowned his nine-month-old daughter. Crawford checked Scala's alibi and found it true.

Scala's wife told officers her husband drowned the infant in Clear Creek several days ago after a family quarrel.

Series of Services To Begin at Romney

A series of evangelistic services will start at Romney Friday night with preaching at 8:15 by the Rev. W. R. Thompson, evangelist of the Church of Christ, it was announced today. The public was cordially invited to attend.

Weather

East Texas—Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday; probably local showers on the east coast.

West Texas—Fair tonight and Thursday.

WILL CARRY TRANSFERS TO CISCO HIGH

Two Vehicles, Bought on Bid, Will Cost About $3,500

The Cisco public school board today ordered two school buses for delivery about September 7 to be used in the transportation of students being transferred from outlying common school districts to Cisco for high school purposes this fall.

International buses with a capacity of 50 students were ordered through the Grist Hardware company, local dealers. Three bids were submitted. Cost of the two vehicles, bought on terms, will be about $3,500 the school board office reported.

Each is built on a one and a half ton truck chassis with dual wheels and Wayne all-steel bodies. Each is equipped with shatterproof glass, hydraulic brakes, with cross section center seats, a safety door that opens in front and an extra safety door in the rear for emergency use.

One of the buses will serve a circuit to the south of Cisco carrying high school students to Cisco from the Pleasant Hill, Shady Grove, Word and Grapevine districts, and the other will serve a similar circuit to the north. Each route will be about 30 to 33 miles in length, and will send 30 to 35 pupils to Cisco as now indicated. Transportation costs are paid by the state as will also be the tuition charges.

"The board gave very careful consideration to all bids, all of which were made by local merchants," President R. L. Ponsler of the board said this afternoon. "It took into consideration comparative costs and methods of financing and selected what, to its mind, was the best proposition for the schools."

Mrs. Charles Fleming of El Paso who is visiting in the M. H. Fleming home has gone to Cross Plains today to visit her mother, Mrs. Lillian Peoples.

Today's Livestock Market

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21 (AP)—Close: Hogs 1400 including 284 directs. Market truck hogs opened 25c to 30c lower. Later sales 35c to 40c lower. Four loads rail hogs unsold late. Early top 1135 paid by packers. Bulk good to choice 180 to 280 pounds. Butchers on late rounds $11.20 to $11.25. Few good light lights down to $10.00. Feeder pigs mostly $9.00. Packers sows 25c lower. Mostly $9.50, few $9.50, light lights $9.20 to $11.10; lights $10.75 to $11.35. Medium $11.25 to $11.35. Heavy $10.90 to $11.35. Packing sows $9 to $9.75.

Cattle—3500. Calves 1200. Market fed steers steady. Undertone weak on grassers. Yearlings scarce and about steady. She stock weak, most bids 15c to 25c lower. Bulls steady. Slaughter calves steady to strong. Stockers firm. Four loads 1133 pound steers $8.50. Few sales $7.50 to $8.00 with grassers largely $4.75 to $5.75. Good fat cows $4.25 to $4.75. Low cutters and cutters $2.50 to $3.25. Most weanling bulls $4.00 to $4.25. Few head $4.50. Bulk slaughter calves $4.50 to $5.30. Few weanling stock calves $7.50 down.

Sheep—Receipts 1,800. Market on all classes steady to strong. Fat lambs $6.50 to $7.50; fat yearlings $5.00 to $5.25; 2 year old fat wethers $4; aged fat wethers $3 to $3.50; feeder lambs $6 down. Few feeder yearlings $4.75.

Advance estimates for August 22—Cattle and calves, 4,000; hogs, 1,000; sheep, 1,500.

stream in the pontoon-equipped plane to ask directions to Point Barrow. In taking off again, according to natives' reports, the craft plunged into the stream from a low altitude. (Copyright, 1935, The Associated Press).

SHELTERS FOR TROOPS BUILT BY BRITISH

Large Secret Defense Fund Reported Held by Selassie

ADDIS, ABABA, Aug. 21 (AP)—The British legation today took steps to construct bomb proof shelters for the British troops which protect the legation in the event Italy attacks Ethiopia.

British diplomats purchased 6,000 square yards of heavy corrugated sheet iron for the shelters. These will also provide quarters for British civilians.

Dispatch of a detachment of native Indian troops to reinforce the British legation guards to Addis Ababa was announced at Simla today.

Reliable sources said that Emperor Haile Selassie has a large secret fund of gold and silver to be used in fighting Italy in the event of hostilities. The money, amounting to several million dollars, was left by the late Emperor Menelik for the defense of the country.

SENATE ADOPTS NEUTRALITY PLEDGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—A seven-point resolution designed to safeguard American neutrality in the event of a foreign war was adopted by the senate.

President Roosevelt was reported in favor of the neutrality move coming at a time when the Italian-Ethiopian situation was presenting grave questions for the European governments.

The resolution provides a mandatory embargo on munitions to all belligerents in foreign conflict, a system of licensing munitions manufacture and export, authority for the president to prohibit American citizens travelling on ships of belligerent nations except at their own risk and other measures designed to prevent entanglement in foreign troubles.

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Seven leaders of the British cabinet today tentatively approved a policy of demanding financial and economic action against Italy if that country attacks Ethiopia.

GENEVA, Aug. 21 (AP)—League of Nations officials advanced the suggestion today that the league council itself might attempt to settle the Italo-Ethiopian dispute by conciliation should other methods fail.

Governor Would Name Arbiter in Garment Strike

AUSTIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—Gov. Allred today agreed to appoint an arbiter in the Dallas garment strike if the manufacturers promised to accept the decision of an impartial third party.

The governor advised Lester B. Lorch, spokesman for the garment manufacturers, of an offer of the union workers to submit the proposition to arbitration by an impartial third party selected by the governor.

The strike has been going on for months, with picketing and outbreaks of violence. Recently several women were stripped nude in the streets by the strikers.

Highway 89 Situation Is Clearer, Delegates Report

E. P. Crawford, chairman of the road committee of the Cisco chamber of commerce, and City Atty R. E. Grantham returned at noon today from Austin gratified over a much clarified prospect for the paving of Highway 89, the Weatherford to Strawn "cut-off" on Highway No. One.

"The commission assured us, and I am confident they are sincere," said Mr. Crawford, "that they want to pave this 40-mile stretch of road as early as possible. Chairman Hines pointed out, however, that the funds for such work are exhausted and that the commission is going to have to seek money somewhere, possibly through the WPA, for this work. In the event that application to the WPA is contemplated, he explained, it would be necessary to make a survey to determine what relief labor is available in each of the counties through which the road passes and to do the work in sections by counties.

"He asked us in the event the paving should be undertaken by this route and done in about 15-mile sections, where it would be best to start. It was agreed the start should be made on the Weatherford end, because if a 15-mile stretch were paved from the east it would doubtless attract many motorists to use the road."

He reported the commission, and particularly Chairman Hines, to seem very much in earnest about the completion, and that assurances were given that the work would be done as quickly as funds can be found for it.

Milburn McCarty of Eastland, was chairman of the Eastland county delegation, representing about 15. Mr. Crawford and Mr. Grantham also called on the state park board officials where they learned that Engineer George Bringhurst, due to be here this week, had already left Austin to go by Kerrville to do a small amount of engineering work necessary in connection with making up field notes on land acquired there by the park board. He would arrive in Cisco by Saturday or Monday, the Cisco men were told.

CCC Camp Delay
"We were also told quite frankly," said Mr. Crawford, "that the board has known for several months that Cisco would not receive a CCC camp this fall, because of the delay that had been caused by the tardiness of congress in appropriating necessary funds. The schedule for the location of these camps has been dislocated by this delay, we were told. That was the reason that the board has not been in a hurry to make the engineering survey that is necessary for planning the park, we were told.

"However, this survey is being made now and plans will be drawn in the prospect that a camp may become available from some source before next spring," we were told.

Committees on Lions Minstrel Are Appointed

Charles H. Kleiner spoke for ten minutes on the Cisco Lions club program today, pointing out the dangers of adoption of the free-text book amendment to the state constitution. He declared that to adopt this amendment would threaten destruction of the public school system that it has taken years to build. He also opposed adoption of the old age pension amendment because no distinction is fixed between destitute aged and those who do not need the assistance.

Chairman and committeemen for the Lions club minstrel to be presented the first week in September were announced by President E. L. Smith as follows:

Committees
Talent committee—Lloyd Hughes, chairman; W. J. Leach, A. D. Anderson, J. Lee Moore and Dr. C. C. Jones.

Ticket committee—H. L. Dyer, chairman; Joe Burnam, S. H. Nance, J. W. Thomas, A. Sandhoffer.

Arrangements committee—R. C. Giles, chairman; Geo. W. Foster, Clyde Van Sickle, J. C. King, Dexter Shelley.

Program committee—Jack Anderson, chairman; Mitt Williams, Horace Conley, W. E. Brown, J. T. Eggen, J. B. Pratt.

Publicity committee—W. H. LaRoque, chairman; Leonard Hudson, Hiram Brandon, T. C. Williams, I. Moldave, Dr. H. Seale.

General committee in charge—J. A. Bearman, chairman; Chas. Sandler, Chas. Kleiner, H. L. Dyer, Horace Conley, R. E. Grantham.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

"... I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil; and the God of peace shall subdue Satan under your feet shortly.—Rom. 16:19, 20.

"Though the wind be fierce and contrary,
 Though currents adverse roll,
 A stronger power than man's shall make for me
 The haven of my soul."

It is the cross that makes peace so sweet amid the tears of grief. Peace keeps her silent place like the rainbow upon the spray of the cataract.—Bonar.

A One-Man Holding Company

THERE IS a great deal to be argued for the value of the holding company, but the possible iniquities of the system are glaringly displayed in the congressional investigation of the activities of Mr. Howard C. Hopson who owns most of the stock in the Associated Gas and Electric company and without official position or title rules the company with the absolutism of a monarch. Mr. Hopson is a holding company all his own. He sits behind the scenes, the actual owner and holder of the stock, playing the strings that run to puppets on the stage before the curtain. As such he was quite too large and formidable, or much too well and conveniently organized, perhaps, for local and state regulatory powers to handle. Congress, however, as clumsy and inefficient as much of its investigatory activities sometimes are, is an agency which Mr. Hopson cannot successfully buck. He was forced to admit that he and his family took profits exceeding three millions of dollars out of the Associated Gas and Electric system although for at least half of the period covered the company was not paying dividends on its stock.

It did not bother Mr. Hopson, of course, that other people's money had been put into system and that the "profits" he and members of his family were drawing out of the utility system represented money that belonged in part to these investors. It did not bother him that he was deliberately robbing stockholders by the use of his superior voting power in the corporation. The "services" he performed were the services of happening to own a majority of the stock. It is evident from the profit-taking that his testimony before the congressional investigating committee revealed that no heart for the public interest, including the interest of the rest of the stockholders unfortunate enough to be in the minority, is present in the bosom of Mr. Hopson. He is interested solely and selfishly in profits for Mr. Hopson. That sort of an interest produces nothing more praiseworthy than a cunning delight in clever manipulations, and Mr. Hopson is evidently entitled to what praise is forthcoming for that ability.

More Water, Please

THERE DEAD end of the summer season is here with its dry and browning heat that turns green lawns to cheerless sod and flowers and hedges into unsightly brush. This is the drouthy interval between the early summer and the beginning of the fall season with its usual moisture. During this interval vegetation presents its most unattractive appearance unless care is taken to water it and guard it against the heat. A community that is made attractive with flowers and green lawns and shrubs and trees is a stand-out during such seasons as this and our own community with all the water in the world, should certainly avail itself of its opportunity to dress itself in the best.

DURING the early summer season there was little need, if any, for irrigation, because of the unusual amount of rain. But there is need now, and for the duration of this month and next it appears to the Press that it would be a good plan for the city to raise the water minimum from the present amount of 5,000 gallons per month to 10,000 or more. The parkways which the residents are required to maintain belong to the city and it is nothing but right that the city should assist the residents in providing for their upkeep.

Rogers A Symbol

WITH ALL America deeply moved by his tragic passing in an airplane crash on an Alaskan tundra, Will Rogers will be buried tomorrow in a sepulchre near the Wee Kirk, the Heather in a Los Angeles cemetery. The famous humorist and his friend Wiley Post, like him an international figure because of his great deeds in the field of aviation, died together. Post will be buried at Okiahoma City.

A THOUGHT, prompted by his passing and the great demonstration of love that welled up out of grieved America, suggests that the affection that this nation felt for Will Rogers is one of the most assuring realities of the times. Rogers represented the strong and simple virtues of the traditional American character. There was none of the tinsel and sham about him. He cared nothing for title and little for wealth. A man who thought more of what was under the coat than on it, he had a contempt for pretense. He loved the land and the open, a love implanted with his origin in the southwest. But it was not this fact, but the fact that he represented as no other popular figure, the essential qualities of the real American that won him so much affection.

AND THE fact that modern America, almost as a mass, embracing every nationality and origin of people, should hold him in such affection and esteem, is a saving testimony to the high regard which the country feels for the things he represented. There is now, in the high grief of the man's passing, an inclination to deify him, which would destroy the very essence of his memory. But he is a symbol and it is encouraging to note that the homely virtues he practiced can yet attract so much of universal admiration and respect. America has not altogether forgotten its origins.

Mussolini Seeks Support

AWAY over here in Cisco, Texas, we wonder what will happen when Italy and Ethiopia go to war on the other side of the earth. The conflicting interests of almost every nation in the world somehow wind into the skein of difficulties that is the Italo-Ethiopian problem. Will the apparent determination of Italy to expand in eastern Africa and colonize a great undeveloped area of rich plateau land plunge the whole world into another conflict. Japan is said to be resolved to Ethiopia's assistance, covertly if not openly.

MUSSOLINI, angling for the sympathy of the Caucasian races, plants a crucial significance upon the prospect of conflict. He says it would be the beginning of a titanic struggle between European and Asiatic peoples for world mastery. The opinion is calculated to arouse the concern of the white races for an Italian victory.

THE hundreds of thousands of soldiers and the vast war machine that Il Duce is amassing for no more apparent purpose than the crushing of the little African nation testify to the seriousness of the dictator's mind on this subject.

BUT it cannot be forgotten that Mussolini is in the role of an aggressor in this case and it is difficult to find sympathy for such an appeal at the expense of the underdog.

To Curb Militia

AT LEAST one state, Kentucky, has frowned on the appearance of the National Guards at elections. The grand jury of Harlan county, Ky., has returned indictments against 30 members of the National Guard and the adjutant general, who ordered out the troops in violation of the election laws. Those indicated are charged with stopping elections in some cases and handling the election boxes without legal authority. Elections should be held in the freest manner possible without military supervision, and these indictments are seen as a salutary move.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

Out of all that has been said on all sides we may conclude that a condition of less drinking, less waste of money and time on account of drink, less perversion of human nature through the indulgence of intoxicants, less dangerous driving by drink influenced individuals, and less of any other evil results of liquor consumption is desired by all, unless it be some who profit by making or selling intoxicants, or some who may have a selfish eye to some other advantage. Nearly all will agree that our present Texas law aims at securing that good condition. But we disagree as to whether it is securing such results.

It is not, and cannot be, enforced, some say; it is a useless law and creates a condition worse than would exist without it; therefore, repeal it. This assertion implies that if the law were enforced it would produce a better situation. No one would argue that there has not been some enforcement, for one of the complaints against prohibition laws is the cost of enforcement. Then if a law aims at public good it is not usual to repeal it because it has come short of its aim. In most other laws we try to agitate for a better enforcement and to educate for a better sentiment in favor of the condition sought by the law. I hear no one advocating an unrestrained liberty for the liquor traffic. Since there must be regulation then a higher degree of regulation even to the extent of limiting the sale of alcohol to a few non-beverage uses is no violation of human liberty if it works for social good. Instead of removing the restraint represented by our present amendment we should retain it for its needed aid in securing social happiness and then undertake a process of education that will bring the people to a voluntary self-denial that will neither need nor feel the restraint of a law.

Revenue Small

Again it is said that since we cannot enforce let us have liquor for the revenue it will bring. The effect of liquor revenue upon taxation would undoubtedly be small. But even if it displaced all other taxes, who would dare give revenue production as a good reason for the existence of anything? There are a number of sources of prolific revenue which we would not want turned loose upon us. Such assets to civilization as human life, good health and morals, clear thinking and neighborly living which would all find the use of intoxicants to any great extent a hindrance are all values any one of which would far outweigh all the revenue that could be hoped for from the use of liquor. Furthermore, the loss sustained in damage to property, the diversion of raw materials into harmful products, and the diversion of money from expenditure for necessities and other helpful commodities would more than balance any gain in revenue. The amendment for repeal that we are voting upon is so worded that one would appear to be voting down a good measure, the prohibition of the open saloon, at the same time that he is voting down repeal. But if he votes down repeal he is allowing to remain as law a much more stringent prohibition of the open saloon. The provision in the proposed amendment against the open saloon is an appeal to the general sentiment against the old saloon because of all its attendant evils. The fact that these evils found a common meeting place in the saloon would prove the use of alcohol to be a promoter of vice and crime. What is to hinder these same evils congregating about other places of sale when they are opened under a new system?

Reasons, Pro And Con

After all then the vote on August 24 when it comes to this amendment is going to divide, whatever may appear on the surface, along one line. Or I want more liquor made and sold than under present conditions because I like to drink it, or like the business of making or handling or selling it, or like some job that has to do with the liquor traffic? Or, do I want no more liquor, and prefer less, than we have at present because I think the stuff is not good for any one to drink, because I think the business is a bad business to engage in, and any job connected with it is not a useful job, because I think it costs more than any possible gain from it, and that it has a bad effect upon the thinking and acting of people both mental and moral, and is therefore a better riddance than presence?

Talks to Parents

Ensemble Playing
 By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
 Mrs. X had longed always for a private orchestra or at least a string quartet of her own. She thought with envy of the princess of the 18th century who had the means to gratify such a taste.

It was only as her children began to grow up that she saw her chance to fulfill the dream. There were three children, all, as a result of environment, inclined to be musical. As a matter of course they learned to read music as they learned to read words, and played duets with their mother at an early age.

It was when the last one at the age of eight began to demand violin lessons that Mrs. X realized her dream. Here was her quartet to hand. The children fell in with the plan, and though the results were not the conventional quartet, they were quite satisfactory to the performers.

Two children played the violin, Mrs. X and the third child gave the needed volume by playing the piano, and in time talented friends would add their bit with viola or cello. Mr. X was the enthusiastic audience and the carping critic combined.

There is no better training for music or for life than ensemble playing. The members of the group came to know fine shades of tone and harmony as no solo player or keen listener can hope to. Furthermore, what one has helped to create one loves, and the performer of music recreates it every time he plays it.

The child who has learned to subordinate his contribution and his personality to the end that harmony and beauty may be attained has learned a valuable lesson in living. The only way to organize and hold together such a volunteer group is by self-control and serenity on the part of the organizer.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—No question so intriguing Washington politicians and political observers quite so much, as the 74th congress drew to a close, as that of why red-headed, Irish O'Connor fought so hard to keep the senate from questioning Howard C. Hopson, Associated Gas & Electric company executive.

The answer, as best can be learned from the inside, revolves around two points.

In the first place, the New Yorker, one of the three "bosses" of the house, has had anything but a feeling of kindness for the senate lobby investigating committee, from the start. He has made no attempt to hide his feelings either publicly or privately.

As chairman of the rules committee of the house he was ordered to investigate lobbying on the utility holding company bill. About the same time the senate set up a similar committee, headed by Black of Alabama.

The Black committee was given $50,000. The O'Connor committee, by virtue of the fact it is a standing committee of the house, received no such grant.

Senate Group Stole Show
 The Black committee could devote as much time as it pleased to its job. O'Connor's committee, one of the most powerful in the house, had to carry on without interfering with its usual course of duties—and they are of tremendous importance during the closing days of a session.

To add to these difficulties, the senate committee began to steal the show. When luck came his way in the person of the rotund and much sought-after Hopson, O'Connor realized he had gotten a break and made the most of it. Attempts of the senate to capture his "prize" caused him to clamp down.

At last he could, and he did, accuse the senate of "racing after us, trying to catch up" and, incidentally, adding that in so far as he was concerned they could just keep on running.

Guards Prerogative

As for the second point, O'Connor—and his intimates say this has had much to do with the way he has acted in the Hopson affair—is tremendously jealous of the prerogatives of the house. He is always among the first to come to the defense of the house in a scrap with the senate.

SURGERY PROLONGS THE LIFE OF SHADE TREES

One thing that is badly needed in Cisco is a tree surgeon. We have a large number of beautiful trees—or they would be if properly cared for—but they are allowed to grow about in the same manner that the owners of the vacant lots of the town permit the weeds to grow.

But speaking of weeds, Cisco is full of them, and just why there are no more flies and mosquitoes here than there are is beyond my ken. Certainly it is not because they have no places in which to propagate, for there are acres where these pests could grow and breed and come out from the dense weeds and grass and feast on choice human blood until the sun rises in the morning.

But I was talking of trees and got sidetracked when the weeds came into my mind.

SURGERY LIKE A TONIC

But why should we let our shade trees grow without care? Get some tree surgeon to give them a dressing once every year, and you will be surprised at the difference it will make, both in health and ornamentation. If a shade tree is pruned once a year much of the strength that goes to support straggling limbs and undeveloped foliage will go into the trunk of the tree and rejuvenate it like a tonic will a sick person.

This subject was suggested to me after seeing some of the trees around the postoffice building. Last spring they were fresh and green, with heavy foliage. Today some are dying.

No, it was not the lack of water that is causing their demise, for Frank Leach has run thousands of gallons of water on the trees and grass on the postoffice lawn. But the trees have never been pruned or properly trimmed.

I spoke to Bill Craddock about that late in the year, but he said the government was rather particular about its trees. I am convinced of that now, for those officials who have the say about such matters have just allowed them to grow like trees in the forest, without care of pruning. Now, they are dying.

PRUNED EVERY YEAR

If you do not believe that pruning trees adds to their longevity and vitality go out some day and look at the sycamore on the lawn at 507 West Fifth street. That tree has been pruned nearly every year, and has leaves on it as large as a breakfast plate and the foliage is dense.

But longevity is not the only reason why shade trees should be pruned. Other reasons are the tree is more beautiful, and the limbs never break and mar the tree. Then, too, some of the trees overhanging the sidewalks are allowed to grow so long that pedestrians have to stoop when passing that way.

Cisco streets are lined with shade trees that could be made an ornament to the city, but as they are neglected they are really an eyesore.

I appreciate the fact that now is not the time to talk tree surgery, that the fall and early spring is the time for such tree beautification, but it will take until next fall for this admonition to find lodgment in the minds of some people who would have beautiful trees if they were given proper care, and I am starting thus early in the hope of convincing them that pruning and tree surgery is a beautifying agency, as well as a tonic for shade and fruit trees.

No, I am no tree surgeon.

rogatives of the house. He is always among the first to come to the defense of the house in a scrap with the senate.

He knows that the house is a sentimental body and that any appeal to their rights and dignity invariably goes over in a big way. He has seen it demonstrated time after time during the present session. Only recently he won an important victory by arguing:

"We may take pride in the fact that we can legislate orderly and expeditiously... I for one am willing to match the procedure of this body as against another body... I will not match demagoguery against demagoguery..."

Ranger and Rising Star Golfers Will Play Here Sunday

MATCH WILL DECIDE TWO ASS'NS TITLE

The Cisco Country Club golf links will be the scene of a play-off between the champions of two golf associations Sunday afternoon. The Ranger golf team, winners of the Oil Belt Golf association title, and the Rising Star team, winners of the Heart O' Texas association title, will play for the championship of both associations.

The matches will begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Some of the leading golfers of the section will participate, including J. T. Hammett, repeat winner of the Phil-pe-co tournament last month, Jimmy Phillips and Jimmy Smith.

The Cisco course was selected as the most convenient neutral play-off course for both clubs.

SPORT SLANTS

By PAP

Promoter Mike Jacobs has just about decided to abandon the plan he had in mind of signing Art Lasky for the role of understudy to Max Baer in his coming fight with Joe Louis. Mike took a flying trip up to Max Baer's training camp at Speculator, N. Y., and saw enough to convince him that the former heavyweight champion's hands are in such good shape that there is hardly any likelihood he will need Lasky to pinch-hit for him against the Brown Bomber.

Jacobs was very much impressed by the way Baer tore into the 200-pound punching bag with no thought of sparing either hand.

Baer is really putting in some hard licks to get in shape for the match with Louis. He hops out of bed at six in the morning to take a five-mile jaunt through the woods. Plenty of wood-chopping and rowing to put him in shape for the ring work ahead fills a good part of the day.

Will Need Those Hands

It seems strange that Max's hands, which a few short weeks ago were reported to be in bad shape, should suddenly become the iron fists of old, but manager Ancil Hoffman insists that the miraculous cure was effected by a series of treatments at the Baltimore hospital. Let's hope his hands are in shape, for he's going to need all the dynamite he ever packed when he faces the Detroit Negro.

Baer is counting rather heavily on a little ace-in-the-hole which he feels he holds over the Bomber. Max feels that the impression he made on Louis last winter when the pair met in the dressing room prior to one of Max's exhibition matches was a lasting one. He was champion of the world at the time. He made the most of the opportunity to impress the young negro with his greatness and is satisfied that he succeeded.

Sharkey Was Felled By Idol

The former champion feels that it will prove another Jack Sharkey-Jack Dempsey case. Dempsey had long been Sharkey's idol, so when it came to their battle Sharkey simply could not overcome that inferior feeling and suffered a knock-out when he should have beaten a Dempsey who was far past his prime.

Baer had better not bank too heavily on that angle. In the first place Louis and Sharkey are as different as night and day in temperament. Can you imagine the cold, emotionless Louis going into one of those Sharkey crying spells? Or turning around to talk

Ex-Peanut Vendar Prexie

Booms Atlanta's Cracker

By KENNETH GREGORY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
ATLANTA, Aug. 21. (AP)—From peanut and program vendor to club president. . .

That is the big step in the advancement of 30-year-old Otic Earl Mann, head of the Atlanta Baseball corporation.

Like all success stories this one has a foundation laid in years of hard, conscientious work. As a youngster, Mann 'hustled' peanuts and programs in the ball park. Later he was made a ticket seller and it wasn't long before he was promoted to secretary, the major "break" in the rise from the ranks.

The Winning Habit

Success seems to go hand-in-hand with the young president. Every club with which he has been connected has won a pennant with the referee as Jack did just before Dempsey almost tore his head off with a left hook? Hardly! At least not on what he has shown in his bouts to date.

When Joe Humphries raised Max Baer's right hand after he had been declared the winner over Primo Carnera he was announcing his last world's heavyweight champion.

The veteran announcer was too ill to act as master of ceremonies when Jimmy Braddock upset the dope and took the crown from Baer.

Humphries and his good natured bantering with the fight crowds who loved him has for years been a part of the picture at ring shows in the east and will be sadly missed.

First it was the "Crackers" of 1925, then Rocky Mount, N. C., which won the Eastern Carolina league championship in 1929. Then Mann went to Macon, Ga., on the recommendation of his close friend, Nap Rucker, former star hurler for Brooklyn. Macon won the last half South Atlantic league flag in 1930 with Mann in the head office, and the following season, when Brooklyn transferred the Macon club to Hartford, Conn., in the Eastern league, Hartford won the title.

Again, in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1933 he was associated with the club that Manager Jack Sheehan

Atlanta Has Hopes

Now "Cracker" fans are hoping Mann's luck will linger, for it has been ten years since Atlanta won a pennant.

Mann attended Oglethorpe University, where he became familiar with the game from a player's standpoint.

After serving as dispenser of refreshments and score cards here, he rose from secretary, to business manager, to vice-president and finally, after the roving spell, to president of one of the most prosperous franchises in minor league ball.

Atlanta's club, after winning a pennant in 1925, rocked along inharmoniously for nine years. Late last fall the directors effected a drastic shakeup that saw Mann placed in the chair of vice-president and business manager, with Eddie Moore, veteran major leaguer, as manager.

With the guidance of the directorate, these two comparative youngsters combined to bring order out of chaos and give Atlanta fans a winning team. The "Crackers" have been out in front most of the season and all attendance records for the city have been shattered.

Briton's 'Shark-Mouth Speedster In Record Try With Famed Bluebird

By Gayle Talbot

LONDON, Aug 21 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell's famous record-breaking Bluebird will have a rival for public interest when it returns to America late in August for another attempt at the mystic 300-mile-an-hour mark on Utah's great salt plains.

Traveling in the same liner with the famous Campbell-Bluebird combination will be another noted British speed merchant, Capt. George Eyston, and a new super-racer that in design is almost as startling as was Bluebird on its first public appearance.

In the new 200-mile-an-hour creation Capt. Eyston intends to smash practically every record that his distinguished countryman doesn't want, from 20 miles to 24 hours. He anticipated little difficulty in bettering all the 21 records recently set on the same Utah course by another Briton, John Cobb.

Front Drive Simplifies Task Eyston's machine, 23 feet in length and tapering down to a wind aperture in front that looks like a shark's mouth, bristles with points. It has a 12-cylinder aviation power unit and no sign of a clutch. A four-speed, self-changing gear box takes its place.

It is the first big machine of the type to have front-wheel drive. Further, each wheel is independent of the other. Fuel is carried in two 23-gallon tanks and pumped to the carburetors by a mechanical engine device.

Adoption of front-wheel drive has greatly simplified the layout of the cockpit, since there is no mechanism in it with the driver.

Quick Fueling

The body, held on a light alloy framework, is shaped as half a true streamline section, the underside, naturally, being flat. Extensions at each side cover the gas tanks and partly enclose the wheels. Inside the tail is a compartment for spare tires and tools, in accordance with the international rules for distance runs.

The lighting system for the long night runs is novel, two headlights being carried close together inside the nose of the car and throwing their beams through portholes in the streamlined cover.

Captain Eyston and Albert Denly, who will "spell" him at the wheel, have evolved a scheme which they believe will save much time in refueling the giant. They plan to install a big reservoir on a tower with two hoses, one for each tank.

Since the car weighs nearly two tons, special pads are fitted for two huge compound jacks which will hoist both front and both rear wheels off the ground in one movement for tire changes.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—Some real political fireworks are scheduled to be set off in Texas soon after adjournment of congress, when a house investigating committee from Washington will hold a hearing in Dallas in connection with the congressional probe of lobbying. At that time the committee plans to go thoroughly into the matter of lobbying to death of bills introduced in the Texas legislature's last session to tax chain stores. Already, in Washington, the committee has brought out letters from former State Sen. George Purl of Dallas, chief lobbyist for the chain group in the southwest, which are likely to cause sleepless nights for some political figures in Texas, who are mentioned by name. The chain state tax was one of Gov. Allred's platform demands, and he sent the question up to the 44th legislature soon after it convened. Both the administration bill, and another similar bill offered from the floor of the house, died in the legislative jam. Purl wrote boastful letters to the head of the national chain-store lobby, telling what purported to be the inside story of how the bills were defeated. His letters may embarrass some of his friends, and ought to give the people some idea of how certain politicians spend their time during sessions of the legislature.

The current congressional lobby investigation is due to have reverberations in at least two Texas congressional districts, possibly more. Rep. Sam Rayburn, sponsor of much new deal legislation, including the utilities bill, in the national house, and representative of the Bonham district, has informed Texas friends here, they say, that he will accept the challenge of utility interests of Texas to defeat him and will return to his home district immediately after congress adjourns, to begin campaigning. Rayburn is a fine campaigner, and if the utility people offer a candidate against him, as has been rumored for weeks, that candidate is going to take on a man's size job.

Rep. Nat Patton, self-styled "dumbest man in the United States," central figure in the cigar-box angle of the national lobby probe, is going to have opposition as a result of that incident, reports here. The grapevine into Austin says that Gordon Burns of Huntsville, is studying the reaction to Patton's recent national publicity, in his home district, and is not unwilling for the lightning to strike him. If he should run against "Cousin Nat," Rep. "Slow" Daniel, of Crockett, is probably not averse to moving up to Burns' senate seat. Daniel is a popular member of the house, and is regarded by his colleagues here as a competent and level-headed legislator.

Political observers here claim to see the beginnings of a political rift between the governor and the attorney general here, as a result of recent developments. The action of the governor in taking the initiative in the battle on book-makers, by obtaining an injunction against the wire services supplying them with racing information, was regarded as significant, as was the announcement that Gov. Allred had retained special counsel out of his law enforcement fund, to push these injunction cases. Observers recalled that Atty. Gen. McCraw, while district attorney of Dallas-co, pioneered the injunction method of enforcement of criminal laws, and they profess to be astonished that his office did not move against the bookies without waiting for the governor to take the initiative.

McCraw's department has been none too happy over the way his enforcement of the oil confiscation law has worked out. Major oil companies claim the seizure of oil by the state is of doubtful constitutionality, leaving the buyer with a clouded title, and subject to a possible heavy liability in the future. Because of this, in act-

Lawrence Tibbett, Back in Pictures, Finds Song "Lip Service" Is Difficult

By Robbin Coons
HOLLYWOOD — When Lawrence Tibbett came to Hollywood in 1929 to make his big screen success in "Rogue Song" they used to let a singer sing and photograph him singing.

Now Tibbett comes to the studio in any costume he pleases, goes to a recording stage and sings. They make records of the singing, and then, maybe two or three days later Tibbett is called in appropriate costume for the picture, to do his acting. They play the record, and the singer must appear to sing, moving his lips exactly so as to synchronize his "action" with the recorded tones. He finds it a difficult job, and he would prefer to do the whole business at once as in the old days. He thinks the results would be more natural on the screen.

Compensations
But there are compensations. "On 'The New Moon' I sang 'Lover, Come Back to Me' 17 times in one day. If something did not go wrong with the camera," he says, "something was wrong with me or with the orchestra, and we would have to do it again. It was expensive, too, keeping the full orchestra at work all that time. This new way saves thousands of dollars on that item alone." Tibbett, making his return to pictures for Twentieth Century-Fox in "Metropolitan," a story that vaguely parallels in some respects his own rise to fame, has recorded virtually all the well known compositions for baritone, from the "I Pagliacci" prologue to "Glory Road" and "The Road to Mandalay." Most of these will be included in the completed picture, and they recorded the others "just in case."

Carol's Contended
"Metropolitan" is a solo assignment in pictures for the star this season. He returns east for further concert work and opera. He has a farm in Connecticut, a hundred acres, where he raises crops and some livestock, and spends week-ends. Incidentally, one of his neighbors there is a former film star who left the screen at the height of her promise. She is Carol Dempster, the slim Griffith heroine of the silent days, now happily married and perfectly content, according to Neighbor Tibbett, to have left the film world behind her.

Henry Fonda's pet is a cat. It walked on the stage in New York while the actor was doing his last play there. He took it home for luck—and three days later got his film contract. So the cat came to Hollywood too.

ual practice, nobody bids on seized oil, usually, except the original owner from whom it is seized. With no real competitive bidding this oil has been going for 40 cents a barrel.

This simply means a hot oil operator can fill his earth tanks with illegally run oil. McCraw seizes and confiscates it for the state. A public auction is held. Nobody bids but the original owner. He bids 40 cents a barrel. The state then issues a tender for this oil, now blessed with a legal status. The operator sells the oil in competition with $1 legal crude. The thing has been editorially criticized by Texas newspapers as a "racket" whereby the hot oil operator

James Leave; Nephew Is Reported Dying

The Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the First Baptist church here, hurriedly closed a revival meeting in which he had been engaged at Moran for almost two weeks, and left with Mrs. James for Clinton, Okla., in response to a message from his brother, Sam James, that his nephew, Bobbie, was dying. The youth was near death Sunday following an operation, but revived. Nature of the operation was not learned.

pays 40 cents a barrel for the right to violate the proration laws.

Still more grief was dumped on the attorney general's doorstep by the governor's state industrial commission, which reported on the Dallas strike of garment workers, recommending that the attorney investigate the Dallas Open Shop association. McCraw promptly announced he would conduct the investigation "if the legislature will provide funds." Some labor representatives, who strongly supported McCraw, privately expressed bitter disappointment. They pointed to his staff of nearly 50 assistants and contended he could have flown his famous airplane to Dallas, made an investigation and befriended labor throughout the state, without spending any more than he spends anyway on his weekly trip to Dallas to talk on the radio.

Rogers Gave Politics a Sense of Humor; He Made Important People Laugh at Selves

By Jack Stinnett
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Will Rogers gave politics a sense of humor. He taught politicians to laugh at themselves.

He entered the political stage through the side-door of public entertainment, but more than one politician has attested to the influence Will Rogers exerted through his witty writings and speeches.

When the United States was knocking on the door of the World War, Will Rogers was playing in Baltimore.

President Wilson had come over from Washington to see the show. It was Rogers' first experience "kidding a president." Cautiously he threw a few quips at the President's box. It was at the time of troubles with Mexico. The government was being severely criticized for its failure to capture Villa, for unpreparedness of the army.

The President Laughed

"There is some talk of getting a machine gun if we can borrow one," Rogers said, twirling his rope. "The one we have now they are using to train our army with in Plattsburg. If we go to war, we will just have to go to the trouble of getting another gun."

The President was laughing heartily.

"President Wilson is getting along fine now to what he was a few months ago," Rogers went on. "Do you realize, people, that at one time in our negotiations with Germany he was five notes behind?"

President Wilson almost roared with laughter. And Rogers had one of his most successful nights on the stage.

His barbs had an underlying good sense which made the man respected as a commentator on the changing scene. Never any respecter of persons, he took delight in poking fun at those who sat in high places.

"Political self-starters" he dubbed those who are caught up in a whirlwind of pre-convention enthusiasm, and the name stuck.

Hurley a Close Friend

His reporting on that long, drabby Democratic convention of 1924 made his comments the daily talk of Main Street.

$100,000 IS OIL COMPANY LOBBY COST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The expenses of the Cities Service company in opposing the Wheeler-Rayburn bill were listed at $100,000 before the senate lobby investigating committee today. Large additional items were disclosed.

W. B. S. Winans, comptroller of the company, gave the total. Under questioning, he agreed that it did not include large legal fees to John W. Davis and others.

The committee called him to warn that the files of the holding company and its subsidiaries would be subpoenaed to Washington, if necessary. Chairman Black said that the investigators had been refused access to some of the records.

Winans reported the company willing to cooperate, so that the subpoena would be unnecessary.

Nu-Way Shop Is Now Exclusive Women's Parlors

The Nu Way Beauty parlor is now an exclusive women and children's retreat. Mere man is taboo, as this beauty shop has discontinued its barber service to men.

The committee called him to warn that the files of the holding company and its subsidiaries would be subpoenaed to Washington, if necessary. Chairman Black said that the investigators had been refused access to some of the records.

Winans reported the company willing to cooperate, so that the subpoena would be unnecessary.

The interior of the Nu Way has been remodeled and rearranged in accordance with the new policy. The new arrangement adds much to the attractiveness of the place. Near the front is the large three-chair compartment where those desiring hair-cutting, shampoos and other beauty work will be served. In the rear are the private facial, hair dyeing and large drying salons, giving absolutely private service.

One of the most modern and effective cooling systems has been installed, completely changing the air every four minutes, Lewis Linder said. The stale air is forced out by an exhaust fan, leaving the interior cool and pleasant at all hours.

The patrons of this beauty shop are served by experts in their respective lines, the latest addition to the working personnel being Mrs. Druilla Johnson, an experienced beauty operator. Others are Lewis Linder, the owner, who knows the business thoroughly; Mrs. Linder, who is an expert permanent wave operator; Mrs. Gladys Byars, facial and manicurist operator, and Tom Linder, who is an expert hair dresser and tinter. All these, while specializing in their respective departments, are experienced beauty operators, and capable of working in any department.

"There are no long waits," Mrs. Linder said, "as our shop is furnished with the most modern equipment, which enables us to serve our patrons quickly, and in the best possible manner. So, you are 'next' at all times at the Nu Way, and that means now."

$33.50 Raised for Premium by Noon

Nance Company Is Host to 80 For Fish Fry Tuesday

Members of the Nance soft ball team and their families and employees of the Nance Motor company and their families and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spears of Cisco, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ford Taylor of Brady and J. S. Nance and son and friends of DeLeon were the guests of the company at a fish fry in the Lions-Rotary park at Lake Cisco last night when 75 pounds of Gulf fish were cooked. Total attendance numbered about 80.

The fish were caught by Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nance and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor in the Gulf during their recent vacation. Mr. Nance, who is president of the company, and Mrs. Nance and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor reached Cisco at 5:30 yesterday afternoon from Bastrop, La., where they had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John W. Spier after their trip to the coast. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Spier are daughters of the Nances.

Adult Education Teachers Given Fine Training

By MRS. MAUD BAILEY (Special to The Cisco Daily Press)
Teachers of adult education now attending the teacher training classes in Texas Tech, Lubbock, Texas, met and organized the Eastland County club. This club meets three days each week to study ways and means of how to meet the needs of adult education in our county. We are getting some splendid training here and every teacher from our county is doing his best to get the most out of every recitation.

The morale of our group is good, despite the fact that most all of us have had to forsake our families and break away from the routine of home life to spend thirty days in dormitories, attending classes from 8 a. m. till 5 p. m.

But here I want to say we have some of the best instructors the state can afford, such as Dr. F. H. Shelby, Miss Laura Murry, Texas University; Dean C. H. Winkler of A. and M.; Dr. J. U. Yarbrough of S. M. U., and Dr. W. A. Jackson, Texas Tech.

The teachers from Eastland county are: Frank Fleming, vocational agriculture. Pioneer; Mrs. Elizabeth Speegle, rural rehabilitation, Dan Horn; Mrs. Ruby Ezell, home canning in Atwell; Mrs. Mable Patterson and Mrs. Blanche McGlary, home making, Rising Star, and Mrs. C. E. Roundtree, commercial. J. F. Connell, music, Roy Holliday, mathematics, Ranger. Those attending from Cisco are: Mrs. Muriel Shook, Miss Gladys Tomlinson, Mrs. Essie Roberts, Mrs. Greta McDonald, Mrs. Bessie Pass, Misses Doliah Surlis, Ruth Endicott, Glenn Fowler, Neva Dean Dill, Olga Fay Ford, Mrs. Mary

Gold Rush Was Cause of Fame for Jack London

When Jack London returned from the Klondike in 1898, he was a disappointed and penniless young man. Others had made their fortunes in the gold-rush, but London had failed to strike "pay dirt."

Little did he dream, then, that the Klondike had yielded him a greater fortune than any other man had found there. No, it wasn't a fortune in gold. But it was the inspiration to write one of the greatest stories in American literature, the story that made him famous. This story was "Call of the Wild," the epic of the Yukon gold-rush, which 20th Century has turned into a stirring motion picture. The film, which stars Clark Gable and presents Loretta Young and Jack Oakie in supporting roles, is released through United Artists and comes to the Palace Theatre today.

Long, Hard Road
The road had not been easy. London was born in San Francisco in 1876 and once said that he couldn't remember the time when he wasn't burdened with responsibilities. He was a ranch-boy when he was eight and his schooling was of the most fragmentary nature, but he was an omnivorous reader. Thirsting for adventure, he left home and joined the "oyster-pirates." He later shipped as a sailor on a schooner, was a salmon fisherman and even joined a fish patrol. After a seal-hunting expedition to Japan, he came back to California and took jobs as a coal-shoveller, a longshoreman and anything else that turned up.

Tramped Across America
He tramped the width of the country and even served a term in jail for vagrancy. After spending a year at the High School in Oakland he left and by cramming completed the three years' work in three months. Then he entered the University of California, working in a laundry and writing to support himself. The strain was too much, however, so he very reluctantly quit college in his freshman year.

After three months of constant writing, he gave it up, considering himself a failure, and went off on that fateful trek to the Klondike to prospect for gold. "It was in the Klondike," he said, "that I found myself."

It was his urgent need for money that prompted London to write a sequel to a dog story called "Bartard," which had received favorable comment. That "sequel" turned out to be his masterpiece, "Call of the Wild."

Jellied Chicken (8.)
4 pounds of chicken
6 cups of water
2 onion slices
1-4 cup chopped green pepper
1-4 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
4 hard cooked eggs
2 tablespoons chopped pimientos

Carefully wash, clean and cut up chicken. Add water and seasonings. Cover and cook slowly 1 2-3 hours or until the chicken falls from bones. Remove chicken. Cool stock, remove fat from top and pour chicken stock into mold, allow to chill until little thick. Add eggs, pimientos and chicken cut from bones. Chill for several hours or over night.

Butterhorns
1 cake compressed yeast
1-3 cup sugar
2 eggs
1-2 cup fat, melted
1 cup milk
4 1-2 cups flour

Add 1 tablespoon sugar to yeast and let stand 5 minutes. Heat milk and cool to lukewarm, add with remaining sugar and eggs to yeast, add fat and 2 cups flour. Beat 2 minutes. Add remaining flour and mix well. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. This will require about 4 hours. Roll out soft dough on floured board. When dough is 1-4 inch thick, cut into triangles 1 1-2 by 3 inches. Beginning at wide ends, roll up each triangle and place next each other on doubled in size. This will require about 3
