MORE ADVERTISING FOR CISCO THROUGH CHAMBER COMMERCE

Board of Directors Instructed the Secretary to Prepare and Have Printed Neat Folders to Be Mailed—Hilburn Road Again Discussed—All in Readiness for Breckenridge Excursion—Vote of Thanks to Williams.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce and production last night, the secretary was authorized to prepare and have printed a folder, setting forth Cisco's advantages. This is to be but a temporary provision, as some more elaborate advertising matter will be issued as soon as it can be carefully prepared.

The president was authorized to appoint a committee to raise money for the premium on the first bale of cotton reaching Cisco.

The building of the Hilburn road was again discussed. The contract was not awarded as it was expected would have been done more than a week ago, but Secretary Fowkes and the engineers of the Humble company are again going over the route today and the contract will be let soon.

Word was received from the representative of the American Cities Bureau that he would be here to confer with the board next Monday, September 6th.

The supplies ordered for the excursion to Breckenridge have been received and preparations for the trip are well in hand now, only awaiting the completion of the road.

A resolution was adopted extending Stuart L. Williams a vote of thanks for what he has done for the organization and for Cisco during his connection with the chamber as publicity manager. Mr. Williams goes to Ballinger, where he will be manager and secretary of the chamber of commerce of that place. He received the heartiest commendation of every member of the Cisco organization.

NEGRO ARRESTED AT FT. WORTH MAY BE MURDERER OF WOMAN

The negro wanted for the murder of a negro south of Breckenridge Monday night, and who was chased after leaving a train here a few hours later, has not been caught, unless he is the negro who is in jail at Ft. Worth. Deputy Sheriff Stubbfield went to Ft. Worth last night to see if he could identify a negro arrested there yesterday and believed to be the one wanted. The Star Telegram says:

Acting upon information from Ranger officers, the Fort Worth police arrested a negro on a Texas & Pacific freight train Wednesday.

Ranger police wired that a negro alleged to have killed and then robbed a woman in Breckenridge Monday night of $1,600 was seen to board the train as it left Ranger. The train was searched twice between Ranger and Fort Worth without results. The man is a Fort Worth negro and denies his guilt.

The negro does not tally in every detail with the description of the negro wanted for the Breckenridge crime. Officers have wired for a more detailed description. The police here express doubt that the correct negro has been arrested.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA CASE

RAILROAD AID FOR MONTH OF AUGUST IS HUNDRED MILLIONS

The figures were made public to show the redemption of approximately $2,500,000 worth of Liberty bonds during the last thirty days.

TEXAS BOOSTER IN FAR-OFF WYOMING HOLLERS FOR HELP

The Cisco Daily News is in receipt of a letter from W. E. Pulley at Carter, Wyoming, in which he asks that his paper be changed from Wahsatch, Utah, to the first named city, where he is now located.

Further along in the letter Mr. Pulley says: "I have gotten myself up a tree and want you to kindly help me out. Up here these little old watermelons cost 8 cents per pound, and down in Texas we used to throw better melons to the hogs. The people here refuse to believe that melons grow to mammoth size in Texas, and when I tell them that at Weatherford, Texas, they often raise melons that weigh 75 pounds, they wink and walk away, shaking their heads and laughing. Now, am I right, or not? If so, please drop me a line in substantiation of my claim."

In reply, the following letter was today mailed to Mr. Pulley:

"The writer is not much of an authority on watermelons, and does not know what the soil of Texas would accomplish in this direction if special attention should be given to the culture of same. As is generally understood, Texans devote the greater part of their time to raising cotton, corn, wheat, hogs and cattle—and voting the good old democratic ticket. However, it is a well known fact locally that at Weatherford the natives produce a pretty fair quality of watermelons, during their odd moments. As evidence of this it will probably be convincing to merely call attention to the following:

"At the St. Louis world's fair, Weatherford exhibited a watermelon weighing 116 pounds."

"During President Taft's occupancy of the white house, the Weatherford chamber of commerce presented that gentleman with a watermelon that tipped the scales at 108 pounds."

"During President Wilson's first term he received a watermelon from the same source that was said by the president's secretary to weigh 98 pounds."

Mr. Pulley, by the way, was born and reared in Cisco and his father and grandfather are still residents of this city.

CHARGE OF LOITERING IS PLACED AGAINST NEGRO WITH BIG ROLL

The negro with over $1,700, a $500 diamond and a gold watch, is still in the city jail. A charge of loitering has been placed against him. It was not a certified check he had, but a certificate of deposit for $1,000, issued by the Industrial Bank of Fresno, Calif. It is dated April 19, 1920, payable in one year from date with interest at the rate of four per cent. He had an immense roll of bills. The watch has a heavy solid gold case with an elaborate monogram on the back.

The city secretary wired the bank at Fresno for a description of Roy Price, to whom it had issued the certificate of deposit and received a reply that no person connected with the bank could remember him, but were willing to send his signature if desired.

SANDWICH MAN INTO THE FIGHT AGAINST HIGH LIVING COST

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Old fashioned sandwichman publicity has been chosen by Dr. Robert Grimshaw, efficiency engineer and faculty member of New York University, for an attack on the high cost of groceries in the Washington Heights section of this city. Dr. Grimshaw served notice that grocers would have to cut their prices, or hear from him. Quotations remaining virtually unchanged, the doctor's bill-boarded sandwich men paraded throughout Washington Heights main thoroughfares and market sections herding the wholesale prices for garden trucks, showing a wide margin below retail prices.

Washington Heights housewives generally have noted the Grimshaw sandwich men and their message, and "everybody is talking about it."

SOUTH TAYLOR COUNTY WILL BE PROSPECTED FOR OIL IN TWO WELLS

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS. OVALO, Sept. 2.—South Taylor county will be tested out for oil in the next few weeks, according to statements being given out by oil men who have recently acquired two large blocks of land in the Jim Ned valley, where two wells will be started in the next sixty days.

One of the wells has been located on the R. F. Cannon farm, six miles south of Ovalo, and will be drilled to the depth of 3,500 feet. Lumber and other material was hauled out this week to build cook shacks and the derrick.

The other well will be located in the Jim Ned community six miles east of Ovalo on the Oscar Lackey place, where several years ago, while drilling for water, oil was found at a depth of 200 feet and the well was abandoned.

PATTERSONS CELEBRATE FIFTIETH MILE STONE OF MATRIMONIAL LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Patterson on Wednesday passed the fiftieth milestone in their wedded life. No celebration was held, but they had with them some of their once large family.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson have lived in Cisco since August, 1881. Before coming here Mr. Patterson was a prosperous merchant in Eastland, but like many others he saw a greater future for Cisco, and the largest, most important city west of Fort Worth. Since their removal here this city has been their home continuously. Good citizens as they are and have ever been, their going away now would be greatly felt by their old-time friends.

Five times has death visited this home and borne away loved ones. Two in babyhood and three after had married and become settled in life. Mrs. Pearl Spencer, one of the most beautiful women Texas ever possessed, passed away with the coming of her first child. Mrs. Sallie Hague died in Eastland and left a daughter, who is cared for by the grandparents, and Richey Patterson, their youngest son, died two years ago and left a little son.

As an offset to these great sorrows, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson are blessed with six children to brighten their life in their declining years.

Now, with all the children married, Mrs. Belle fears he will never return, that he hasn't yet completed his "business."

But if he does he will not find her at home. She has filed suit for a divorce.

SCOFFS AT REPORT ENGLAND WILL GIVE FREEDOM TO EGYPT

By FLOYD MACGRIFF, International News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Great Britain's reported plans for freeing Egypt were scoffed at today by President Eamonn de Valera, of the Irish republic, who upon request, discussed exclusively for the International News Service the Egyptian and Irish situations.

President de Valera said he did not believe the report that Egypt's full sovereignty would be granted. If Egyptian "independence" is granted, he said, it would be in this form:

"You will be independent, but you must not do so and so, and so and so, and when all that Egypt must not do is subtracted from nominal independence not much would be left."

"Ireland, too, England might say, could be free but the British army of occupation must remain. Ireland, too, might be allowed to conduct her foreign affairs, but her conduct of them must be exactly as will suite Great Britain."

"This method of deceiving by words is an old one with the British. I do not believe the Egyptians will be deceived by it and certainly the Irish people will not be deceived in any such manner."

"We have for well over 700 years lived side by side with the British, and their ways are not strange to us."

"We know the British government's policy always has been imperialistic, that exploitation of other lands always has been England's purpose and that she has been influenced always by self-interest, not generosity or moral principles."

"In the case of Egypt let us await the full report of any agreement that may be made and then watch England's moves."

"If England has granted a measure of freedom to Egypt what effect do you have in the East as regards Britain's colonies?" Mr. de Valera was asked.

"I doubt whether anything but complete, unconditional independence will satisfy the Egyptian nationalists," Ireland's Sinn Fein replied.

"Temporary it may strengthen England's hand in Egypt, enabling her to carry on at this difficult time. If England retains veto power on all issues affecting Great Britain's interests, safeguarding the Suez Canal, and so forth, besides retaining economic advantages, that is all her imperial."

"I asked President de Valera if there was any likelihood of an "armistice" between Sinn Fein Ireland and the British Government.

"Never!" he replied, his eyes snapping. "There can be no talk of settlement until the British army of occupation is withdrawn."

"Then the present terrors in Ireland, with the British armed forces on one side and the forces of retaliation of the Irish republic on the other, will go on, you think?"

"As long as England is playing for hate from Ireland she will get hate," President de Valera said, measuring his words. "The Irish people have time after time shown their desire for amity. We aim for mutual understanding and good will between the peoples, on the basis of equality of right, but we shall never allow ourselves to be treated as a subject people, and we shall never permit ourselves willingly to be exploited for the benefit of English imperialism."

"When England uses force in Ireland, the reply will be force."

"When a citizen or soldier of the Irish nation has his rights outraged, and his freedom taken from him for no other reason than that he loves his country, do you think there will not be adequate reprisals?"

"You must understand that the Irish people are engaged in a struggle for their national freedom. There is in effect a state of war between Ireland and Britain."

DALLAS GAS RATE

The local gas company in Dallas has secured an increase in price for gas in that city, of from fifty cents to sixty-seven and one half cents. The ordinance making this increase has been passed by the city commission.

The ordinance is not to become effective, however, "until the completion of the Johnson junction line and the actual delivery of the new supply from the West Texas fields."

The Dallas News referring to the passage of the ordinance and when it shall take effect, says:

According to the provisions of the ordinance, the effective date set at Sept. 15 is wholly contingent upon the completion of the sixteen-inch trunk line from Johnson junction to a point on the Dallas-Fort Worth line and the delivery of the new supply through that line. Should the completion of the line be delayed the effective date of the new rate will be postponed until it is completed.

There is no question about the explicit terms of the agreement. The Dallas local company undertakes to supply that city with gas and until it does so, there is to be no increase in the rate. The increase granted is made contingent upon this.

The application for an increased rate in Dallas was made last spring. Following a winter in which the supply had been wholly inadequate and suffering followed during extreme weather. At that time the application was denied, by reason of the fact that the local company would not, or could not, guarantee an adequate supply of gas.

At that time the local company, in Dallas, claimed that it was at the mercy of the Lone Star Company, the organization from which it secured its supply, just as the local company in Cisco is supposed to be depending wholly on the Texas company for its supply.

The resignation of one commissioner in Dallas and the appointment of another man to fill the vacancy, made possible the further consideration of the increased rate. The local company filed another application August 23. Then the mayor and two of the commissioners conferred with the Lone Star company and in a short time the local company was in a position to give the guarantee demanded.

What can be done with one supply company can be done with another and there is no apparent reason why any one or more of such companies should hold a club over the heads of the gas consumers in Cisco.

There is always a way out and there is no reason why an increase in the price to be paid by consumers for gas in Cisco should be allowed until the people are assured of an adequate supply, even if it is justified then, although the law makes it imperative on the commission to increase the rate, if the distributing company shall make a showing that it is not earning 10 per cent on its investment.

No doubt the local company in Cisco will renew its application for the increase to seventy-five cents, for which it has heretofore asked and may make a showing of the value of its property, its receipts and operating expenses for the last year, such as to entitle it to the increase.

But there is no doubt but the commission, under the governing statute, has the right and power to make any increase in price contingent upon a guaranty, given the consumers, that they shall have an adequate supply of gas and be protected from suffering and being put to expense for other fuel.

The people of Cisco can but feel that being located right in the heart of the gas fields, they are entitled to a low rate for gas, but many of them, perhaps a majority, would be willing to pay at a higher rate if they could be assured they were not to suffer for the want of gas, as is many times the case.

TIP TO ALL PROS.

There is something new in the way of eliminating the drink traffic. This time it is not Mr. Volstead or his vicious law, or the men, or any one of them, seeking to enforce that act. It was the gentle words of an earnest minister of God who wrought the miracle so far as four "moonshiners" of Tennessee are concerned.

Four stills were found in the little church in the mountains and attached to them was a card, on which was written: "Brother moonshiners, follow our example, stack arms, deliver up your stills and serve God."

Four "moonshiners" converted to the Christian religion, through the pleas of an uneducated minister of the backwoods. There was something more than this humble preacher's ability to present the appeal of his Master, even the power of God to save. These "moonshiners," men of outlaws, so recognized, were Americans, men of daring, with no taint of cowardice in their make-up, Americans with real red blood in their veins.

They had long defied Mr. Volstead and other disciples of prohibition and the law of the land. They were of the class who believe that liberty is worth fighting for and when a prohibition was placed upon them, a prohibition which they believed was an attempt on their liberty, they resented it and, no doubt, extended their efforts toward law breaking.

But an appeal to their better manhood, the carrying to them of the religion of Jesus Christ, reached the best in them and they ceased to longer defy the law. It was not the severe penalties of that law, it was not a threat, it was an earnest appeal to them from an earnest man, one whom they were satisfied was not a hypocrite, who led them from their outlaw life to good citizenship.

There is a great lesson in this for all people, from the rich who sit in comfort and speak and write and argue for prohibition, the lawmakers who seek to force their ideas upon the people without the latter being given an opportunity to be heard, on down to the petty criminals and half ignorant whose first thought is to defy all laws not to their liking and particularly including a large class of men, generally small politicians or wards of the "big ones," who find positions as "pro" officers and themselves become lawbreakers, invading private homes in their zeal, without complying with the law in procuring search warrants, as has recently been reported from numerous cities, some of them in Texas, all should learn from this humble backwoods preacher, not only what might be accomplished by all obeying the spirit of the law, but that all might be brought to a better state through remembering the rights of others and appealing to the better nature of man, rather than resort to brute force and law defiance.

THE HARMONIZING PESO

(Boston Globe.)
Francisco Villa, who has been killed, shot or hung more often than any other man ever in Mexican public life, and who eluded the American military forces under General Pershing, has "surrendered" to the de facto government of Mexico. President Huerta appears to be sponsor for a new game across the border.

In Villa, the provisional government of Mexico, which is still unrecognized by the United States, had its most powerful enemy. Two months ago Villa told visitors to his camp that he had taken 40,000 lives in his fight against Mexico, and unless his terms were met he would double this number. In the recent revolution he offered his services to the De la Huerta-Oregon faction, but his proposition was not accepted.

According to the pact just announced, a pension is settled upon the idol of the Mexican peon, and the 1800 men under his command—outlaws—will be given a year's army salary and a plot of land.

While President Huerta is acquiring Villa by paying the price, he intends to show that he knows the endless ramifications of such procedure by taking energetic measures against lesser chiefs. The president of Mexico has learned the lesson of harmonizing the big ones by means best suited to the individual case, and of killing off the little ones who prove unruly.

There will be complications of course. Villa is now under an indictment in New Mexico for first degree murder, as one of the principals in the Columbus raid of March, 1916. His followers for years have menaced the border, and in North Mexico have for years wrecked trains and conducted raids, both on towns and on foreign industries. But in Mexico there seems to be rejoicing on account of his repatriation.

At any rate, it is a change in tactics in Mexico, in which the leading performer is the harmonizing peso.

HOW THE STATES SPEND MONEY

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)
The statistics of American states gathered by the census bureau are a certificate of their solvency but an indictment of their selection of objects upon which to spend tax money.

In the 48 states as a whole revenues exceeded expenditures by the tidy sum of nearly $5,000,000. The net indebtedness in one year increased 9 cents per capita, or 1.9 per cent, which is no great matter in post-war times. The average cost of state government is $6.43 per capita, or say $32 for each family.

Of the total revenues of $875,000,000, more than three-fourths come from taxes. The states have made little use of licenses, fees and privileges as sources of income. And of total expenditures of $640,000,000 only $71,145,422 went for permanent improvements, $48,900,000 of this going for new roads directly or through local channels.

It is not an impressive showing of far-sightedness—but if New York is removed from the computation the average of the other 47 states rises with a bound. New York's debt alone is just over one-third of the whole. Its expenditures, $60 to the family, at the time these figures were compiled, are leaping fast, are double the general average. The sum it devoted to good roads in 1919 fell behind Ohio and far behind California, and was only a little ahead of Oregon.

Possibly Albany may think nothing more benefits an Empire state than lavishly throwing its money about without much attention to details. There are voters and taxpayers who might like to know how they get along in other states with so much less taxation and relatively so much more productive expenditures.

A BUILDING TASK FOR THE NATION

(Kansas City Star.)
In the next five years this country will push forward some of the biggest construction schemes ever undertaken. Not only will building and rehabilitation have to be undertaken to make good the losses of the war period, but there will be the added task of construction work necessary for the normal development of the nation.

The building era that is now near at hand in America will include varied construction; but there are three lines of activity that are demanding immediate consideration. The railroads of the country will have to be extended, and in many instances virtually made over, millions of homes will have to be built along with thousands of related business structures, and systems of national and state highways, dreamed of for years, will have to become largely a reality.

The actual proportions of railroad development have not been indicated, but repair, equipment and extension needs have been emphasized, and the government has agreed to "match dollars" with the roads in a part of this undertaking. This agreement would involve a total sum of 250 million dollars, which is regarded as only a beginning of the requirements for an adequate rail transportation system.

What has already been undertaken in highway construction is a fair indication of operations in the next few years. For this year alone the estimated funds available for highways amount to $32 million dollars. A total of 29,319 miles of highway have been approved by the secretary of agriculture, enough for nine roads across the country from New York to San Francisco. Five years ago, the total expenditures for roads and bridges by all the states and local governments was only 267 million dollars.

In highway construction the federal government again has offered assistance and will match dollars with the states. The agreement of the government stipulates that only roads of superior quality shall be built, thus assuring construction of highways that will materially assist the railroads in handling the traffic of the country.

An official of the United States housing corporation has estimated the country's shortage of homes at 5 million. Other authorities have made the figure less, but none of them have made it small. The problem of adequate shelter for millions of the people will press hard for solution in the next five years. A revival of building of homes and other structures is expected next spring; it will be necessary some time soon.

The construction tasks now confronting America will require every ounce of the nation's energy and will afford a true test of the country's resources. Few real Americans can doubt that the work will be done. The task involves a patriotic duty, and the nation's spirit will be equal to the requirements.

SWEETWATER, Tex., Sept. 2.—In a game that required only one hour and eight minutes to play, the locals yesterday defeated Ranger 5 to 0.

Four hits, scattered throughout as many innings, was all the visitors could make from Baldrige's delivery. The fielding of the locals was fast, particularly that of Gressett and Harroll, the latter robbing Clapp of an extra base hit with a shoestring catch of his line drive in the eighth inning. Atkins was ineffective in the early innings.

Ranger — 000 100 000—1 4 1
Sweetwater — 300 200 000—5 7 1

AMUSEMENTS

Broadway.

"The Brat," a child in years loses her "job" in the chorus of a Broadway musical comedy because of her shabby appearance. As she is leaving the theater, downhearted and dispirited, her unusual beauty despite her shabby raiment attracts the attention of Stephen Forrester, a desolute young spendthrift who speaks with her and offers her new clothes, for a consideration. She slaps his face, a crowd gathers and she is arrested and brought before the night court.

The Lewis-Worth players will present "The Brat" at the Broadway Theater for three nights starting tonight. Miss Marcelia Hamilton the clever and dainty little leading lady of the company will be seen at her very best.

This company opened at Eastland Monday night and have been greeted nightly by capacity audiences and all declare it is the best stock organization ever seen in this part of the state. Seats are now selling.

Victory.

"If I Were King," is a wonderful photoplay, and for it William Farnum, the Fox star, has gathered a wonderful cast to support him. "If I Were King," which will be shown at this theater tomorrow and Saturday, is an adaptation of the great stage success and novel by Justin Huntly McCarthy. In the supporting company are Fritz Lieber, Walter Law, Betty Ross Clarke, Renita Johnson, Claude Payton, V. V. Cloug and Harold Clairmont—a strong aggregation for a powerful star in a powerful play.

Judia.

If one is to be a screen star these days one must learn also to cultivate Spartanlike qualities of self-denial, according to Helen Ferguson, the attractive young woman who is appearing in "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," which is being shown at the Judia Theater today. Miss Ferguson, who is efficient, enchanting and eighteen is a strong exponent of the simple life for every woman, whether for those desirous of a career on the screen, or for those who are merely wives.

The reason for this, she explains, is owing to the fact that to do anything these days successfully you have got to learn to do it better than the "other fellow." All manner of people are trying to do everything worth while doing, and those who succeed in the fame and fortune sense are those who are not afraid of buckling into good hard work and of denying themselves the luxuries that interfere with efficiency.

In the course of her screen career Miss Ferguson has essayed all manner of roles before the camera, and their various requirements have been such, she has found, to call out all of her reserve strength that she only possessed because of her simple manner of life. Cast in the roles of out-of-door girls, such as she portrayed in "Burning Daylight," and now enacts in "The Mutiny of the Elsinore." She has seen just how imperative a sound physical condition due to simple living can be.

HUSBAND FOR WEEK—END ONLY HER IDEAL

LONDON, Sept. 2. — "A husband should be a sort of a week-end institution—but a very short week-end. What I want is romance—and marriage just knocks that on the head."

So says Jane Burr, American novelist and poet, now visiting London, in explanation of her views on marriage and what a husband should be.

"I like men," she continued, "but I can't stand them around the house all ways—they interfere with one's work too much. I can't stand the responsibility for their socks, either."

"I wouldn't stand a man living as close as the garage—he'd have to be farther away than that."

"A husband is all right if he has his own home, where I could stay if I wanted to, and I wouldn't mind having him in the house occasionally as a guest, but always—never!"

Miss Burr has been married twice, the first time when she was eighteen, divorcing her husband six years later. She now has left her second husband. She said she liked England for its "freedom."

"And look at the way young men and girls kiss each other in the park here," she added. "It's perfectly charming, and I simply love to see it. In America they would be arrested straightaway for that."

JOHN ROBINSON'S JIM.

More or less fiction, with some truth, has from time to time appeared in newspapers regarding the different chimpanzees with circuses, but with it all, there was always a tendency to draw upon the press agent's imagination until it has become a recognized fact today that there are a number of chimpanzees with traveling circuses and shows claiming to be educated.

But it remains for Mlle Bertha De-Marce to fully demonstrate to the critic of all critics, "the public," that Jim is without doubt the nearest to the Missing Link in America today.

Mlle. De Marce has taught Jim all the well known tricks or stunts that you will see usually performed by the chimpanzee with other circuses, and then has perfected him in other little features so true to human life that you wonder for once that you are not looking at some small boy in the postures of the youth of today.

Jim's daily life is arising in the morning from a down couch at once to the bath tub, where he spends no less than fifteen to thirty minutes, and would spend longer if he were permitted, as it seems the height of his ambition to take daily dyes from the edge of the bath tub into it. After his bath and dressing, he partakes of his morning meal, which consists of some cereal, orange juice, nuts and bread and milk. After breakfast he is generally on the carpet for a roll with his chapman, and then for a lovely ride; by that time it is time for him to go to the circus lot. Once more he sits down to a table especially constructed for him and partakes of lunch; thence to the dressing room of the John Robinson circus, where he awaits his turn with other performers for his show on Friday, Sept. 10, at Cisco, with the John Robinson circus, at both afternoon and night performances.

THIRTY YEARS OLD, NEVER SAW BROTHER

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Sept. 2.—Ralph Russell, a local grain dealer, met his brother for the first time at a family reunion at Offerle, Kas., when some ten brothers and sisters from half a dozen states met at the old home.

"My oldest brother left home before I was born thirty years ago," said Mr. Russell. "He has been living in Mobile, Ala., and I had never seen him."

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—What is beauty? Do you possess it, crave it, admire its owner or envy her?

From far-off England an artist has come to see if he can select some American beauties to compare with five English beauties of his own choosing.

These are Lady Diana Duff-Cooper, Viscountess Massereene, Viscountess Curzon, whose mother was an American; Lady John Lavery, born in America, and Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland.

Authorities have disagreed as to the essential points of beauty and its meaning. Some of the ancient philosophers believed beauty and utility were closely related; that beauty is the measure connected with sight and hearing.

Our old standby, the dictionary, says: "Beauty, that quality of objects, whether in nature, art or man, that appeals to and gratifies the aesthetic feelings and forms the basis of aesthetic judgments—the most essential characteristic of this quality seems to be a perfection of form, physical and spiritual, resulting from the harmonious combination of diverse elements in unity."

From another source we learn that "the conditions or elements of beauty" may be considered as embracing:

1. Imagination or sensuous expression of unity in variety.
2. The presence and activity of rational or spiritual personality.

So far summing up what we have read, we may say that beauty is pretty much a matter of being "easy to look at."

America is noted for her lovely women. We fear that the British beauty judge who is now visiting us will be one of the world's busiest men while making his choice to match five of his countrywomen, one of who is as we have mentioned an American girl and another claiming an American mother.

At various times certain women have been proclaimed the "most beautiful in America." Prominent among these is Mrs. John Barrymore, formerly Mrs. Leonard Thomas, who was deemed by the artist, Paul Hellen as the fairest of her sex. Mrs. Cooper Bryce's blond beauty made her famous as a debutante when she was Angelica Brown, and more recently when the Prince of Wales upon his visit to New York paid her marked attention.

Another young woman to attract the eye of the young prince was Miss Millicent Rogers, whose engagement recently has been announced.

Lady Lavery, selected as one of the perfect types of "English beauty," was a Chicago girl, Hazel Martyn, an artist of unusual ability. The Viscountess Curzon is the daughter of the late Daisy Leiter, also of Chicago, who married Earl Curzon.

As for Lady Diana Duff-Cooper, better known as Lady Diana Manners, we concede the charm of her proud profile, but venture to say it could be many times matched on these shores, not to mention this island.

EXCELLENT MUSIC ONE OF THE FEATURES OF FIRST BAPTIST MEET

Much interest is being shown in the evangelistic and revival meeting now in progress at the First Baptist church. The messages brought by Rev. C. G. Howard, pastor, are an inspiration to all who hear them. Large crowds have been in attendance at both morning and evening services. Splendid music is furnished by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. C. W. Atkins, and the Boosters, a junior choir, composed of children. All singers and members of other choirs are invited to assist in the singing during the meeting.

The five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Looney swallowed a pin yesterday evening. No serious results are expected to follow the accident.
