FIRST "BIG MONEY" FOR NEW OIL AREA

Cities Service Concern Buys Lathrop Discovery Well

LONGVIEW, Feb. 7.—Purchase of the W. A. Moncrief and associates interest in the J. K. Lathrop No. 1 discovery well for $3,500,000 by the Arkansas Fuel and Oil company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service company, today clinched a week of feverish activity in east Texas oil fields. Oil men credited the transaction with bringing the first "big money" into the new oil field. Potential flush production estimates of the wildcat have varied from 10,000 to 15,000. Tested Friday on a pinched outlet the well flowed 440 barrels per hour. The Lathrop test is located 12 miles from any other producer.

Gang Leader Slain at Back Door

DETROIT, Feb. 7.—Chester Lamare, 47, said by police to be a gang leader, was killed today when he opened the back door of his home, expecting to admit his wife and was met by a volley of bullets instead. Police said Lamare had been "hiding out" from rival gangsters for three months. In his home they found six pistols, a tear gas gun, a repeating rifle, an automatic rifle, a shotgun and a hand grenade. All the guns were loaded and 4,000 rounds of extra ammunition also were found.

AUSTIN, Feb. 7.—State Treasurer Charles Lockhart took steps today to cut the state deficiency to $949,742 when he called $2,300,000 worth of general revenue warrants for payment. The warrants now payable run up to and include, No. 53600, Lockhart said. If present tax payment receipts continue the state may be on a cash basis by the end of the coming week, Lockhart said. He feels sure that a cash basis will be reached by March 1.

Cisco Cadet Makes Academy Swim Team

The sound of the breaking glass awakened H. G. Aldridge, of the Powell tailor shop, who was asleep in his room over the shop. Investigating he saw a car disappear south on D avenue and shortly afterward heard another go through the alley in the direction of the police station. He concluded the latter to be the police car and that the officers had already been to the scene and made no further efforts to notify the station.

5 CISCOANS ESCAPE HURT IN ACCIDENT

Party of Joy-Riders Sideswipe Car on Breck Highway

Tragedy was narrowly averted on the Cisco-Breckenridge highway about 10:30 Friday night when a small roadster, containing six youthful merry-makers en route from DeLeon and Desdemona to Breckenridge sideswiped a car driven by O. L. Stamey, turning both vehicles over. None of the five people in the Stamey car, a coach, was injured seriously although Mrs. Stamey received a painful shoulder hurt, which required treatment at the Graham sanitarium Saturday morning. Mr. Stamey was bruised and three members of the Cisco high school girls basket ball team, Christine Walters, Bessie Penn and Miss Surles, who were riding with Mr. and Mrs. Stamey, were also bruised.

Two of the six young people in the small coupe were reported injured severely. One boy was said to have received a broken leg and a girl's back was injured. They and assistance from other Cisco cars which were returning from Breckenridge at the same time, were necessary before its occupants could be released.

He did not indicate whether or not he would accept the call and members of his family here could give no assurance upon this point. In the event he does accept, he will be located at Indianapolis, the national headquarters of the educational board. Dr. Roberts is already a member of the board.

Dr. Roberts is in his sixth year as president of the local institution. He came to Cisco from Phillips university, at Enid, where he was financial

GAS BILLS ARE PROTESTED BY WEST TEXANS

AMARILLO, Feb. 7.—West Texas cities from Amarillo to Midland are up in arms since receiving their gas bills for the month of January.

Although January was one of the warmest winter months ever known generally throughout west Texas, householders are complaining that gas bills were the highest they have paid during the period of from three to five years they have burned natural gas.

A petition that is being circulated in Lubbock requesting the city commission to investigate allegedly "exorbitant prices we are now paying for gas" has been signed by more than 400 customers of the West Texas gas company. Although city officials have declined to comment on the protest, they have ordered a calorimeter installed to test the heat quality of the gas.

At Midland yesterday an agreement was reached whereby penalties will be delayed on bills until an investigation is made. A petition presented to the city council at Memphis was signed by 400. These towns are served by Northern Texas Utilities company, and the rate to domestic users of 75¢ per thousand feet.

Reports reaching Amarillo say that protests have been entered at Hereford, Friona, Plainview, Wellington, Quanah, Vernon, Electra, Chillicothe, Midland and others.

High officials of the gas companies have called on to investigate. They have announced that meter readings will be checked and the mains examined for defects.

Spanish King Calls Elections

MADRID, Feb. 7.—King Alfonso XIII has signed a decree calling general elections in March, the United Press learned today, although the decree probably will not be published until Sunday.

The elections will be the first held in Spain since 1923, when a dictatorship was established by the late Gen. Primo de Rivera. The present government, headed by Gen. Damaso Berenguer, announced its intention to hold elections despite the decision of several important political groups to boycott elections until a constitutional convention is called and a new constitution framed.

ABILENE, Feb. 7.—A new low record in bread prices here was set today with the announcement that one pound loaves were retailing three for a dime. Country eggs were selling for 12 cents a dozen.

Ice Floe Bearing 11 Fishermen Is Forced Out to Sea

ATHOL SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 7.—High winds shifted east tonight in the wake of a blinding snowstorm and carried an ice floe which had broken away from Woodlawn beach with 11 fishermen aboard toward the open lake.

Rescue crews worked unceasingly to break through the numerous ice jams but made little progress because of the thickness of the ice, the extreme cold and the unfavorable weather.

Many of the rescuers were suffering from the severe weather.

31 HURT IN LOS ANGELES STREET BLAST

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—An underground explosion in front of the Orpheum theater here last night injured 31 persons, two seriously, in a crowd straining police lines at the Los Angeles showing of a talking picture starring Richard Dix.

The film "Cimarron" had just been completed and Fred Niblo, Hollywood director, was introducing members of the cast from the stage when the theater and nearby buildings on Broadway were rocked.

The explosion was believed by authorities to have been caused by faulty electric wiring.

A huge section of pavement shot into the air hurling a taxicab skyward and throwing men, women and children to the street.

Two men, William Urquhart, 28 and Dave Freedman, 21, were seriously injured.

George Delk, 28, driver of the demolished taxicab, miraculously escaped death. He was found to be only cut and bruised when police pulled him from the wreckage of his car.

The blast created a panic among the hundreds of spectators outside the theater and a near panic in the crowds viewing the performance.

Many Aliens Are Facing Deportations

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Several hundred aliens caught by federal and local officials in the New York area within the past two weeks will be deported to relieve the unemployment crisis, Benjamin M. Day, New York commissioner of education, said today.

"There is no 'Red angle' to our enterprise," said Day.

Deportation proceedings will be taken against the aliens as rapidly as they are picked up, Day continued.

Authorities pointed out that many aliens are themselves unemployed, while, if they are occupying positions, their departure will open up jobs for unemployed citizens.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Thirty persons were injured, three seriously today when a south-bound train in the east side subway crashed into the rear end of an empty train which was moving onto a siding in the Bronx.

MEASURE IS DENOUNCED AS 'FACE-SAVING'

Arkansas Democrats Support $20,000,000 Relief Project

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Rebellion against the $20,000,000 compromise drought relief bill project agreed on by President Hoover and house and senate leaders broke out among progressive republicans and a small group of democrats today.

Minority Leader Robinson and Senator Caraway, his colleague from Arkansas, are battling as hard for the president as they fought against him earlier in the week. They accept the $20,000,000 project as a satisfactory means of providing food and all other relief to needy until next harvest.

But the compromise was denounced on both sides of the party aisle today as a "face-saving measure." Senator B. K. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, said it was not satisfactory to him and he would oppose it.

CONFEREES CALLED TO WRITE BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Senate and house conferees were called into session today to write the $20,000,000 rehabilitation relief compromise into the interior department appropriation bill.

The meeting was scheduled for this afternoon with prospect that the proposal would be embodied in the bill quickly.

HOOVER AND LEADERS AGREE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Hoover and Congressional leaders have composed their differences on further drought relief, and $20,000,000 is to be appropriated from the public treasury for that purpose. The text of the compromise agreement has been made public.

Minority Leader Robinson and Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, who led the relief fight, told questioners the compromise language was sufficiently broad to permit food loans to distressed farmers. Majority Leader Watson said he was satisfied. He said President Hoover would agree to a $20,000,000 solution of the drought relief problem.

Insurgents Opposed

Disturbing opposition developed, however, in the insurgent republican group. Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, said the compromise would not satisfy him.

But the leaders were in line today on the issue which has contributed more than any other this session to legislative turmoil and the prospect of an extra session. Speaker Longworth and House Majority Leader Tilson approved the new agreement. Watson said it had been accepted by the President as a satisfactory plan of meeting distress.

Back-bench democrats, meanwhile, appeared to be suspicious of the compromise. It does not mention the word "food" which the president told republican leaders he would not accept under any circumstances.

The agreement, made public yesterday by Watson, is in two parts. It modifies the $45,000,000 feed, seed and fertilizer loan appropriated some time ago. That bill permitted loans to feed work-stock but not cattle, hogs or other farm animals. The $45,000,000 is to be made available for feeding all farm animals.

How It Is Spread

The additional $20,000,000 appropriation is to be disposed of as loans or advances for the following purposes:

1. Assisting the formation of local agricultural-credit corporations, livestock loan companies or similar organizations.
2. Increasing the capital stock of such companies or corporations.
3. Loaning to individuals on the security of capital stock of such corporations.
4. Loaning or advancing to farmers.

GENERAL PAROLES.

AUSTIN, Feb. 7.—General paroles were issued today from the governor's office for Arthur Angleton and J. J. Ballou. Angleton was serving a seven-year sentence for forgery and passing imposed in Nacogdoches county and Ballou a two-year parole their sentence from a Palo Pinto county.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

GLADNESS IN SERVICE—Serve the Lord with gladness. Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful unto him, and bless his name. For the Lord is good.—Psalm 100:2,4.

PRAYER—Father, as the birds and flowers respond to Thy creative work, help us to do likewise.

POOREST PROFESSORS GIVE WORST GRADES.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university is on record as having said "The lowest grades are given by the poorest professors." He had investigated the grades of his best and poorest instructors. By best he said those who were chosen to receive the largest increase in salary this year and the poorest, those who on recommendation of the heads of the departments were not reemployed. His verdict: "This group of poorest instructors gave seven times as many low grades that semester as the group of the best instructors."

His contention is the function of the professor is to develop intellectual interest rather than to provide difficult hurdles; to reward success rather than to punish failures. Pres. Walter Dill Scott appears to be a very level headed individual.

ATTENTION, MR. CAPONE OF CHICAGO.

A new island has been discovered in the Pacific ocean. Prior to the discovery the sea along that section of the west coast of Mexico had been reported covered with oil. An ideal home for Mr. Capone of Chicago and his close satellites. This would give the American reading public a long needed rest.

SCOPE OF THE STATE LIBEL LAW.

Representative Clarence E. Farmer of Tarrant county knows where to find his legislative hat. He has introduced a bill providing for the extension of the scope of the state libel and slander law to include radio broadcasting. His bill provides a penalty of a maximum fine of $2000 or jail sentence for violation of the law. Not only the owner or the operator of the radio station will be held liable but the act also applies to the person broadcasting slanderous or libelous statements or any person who may have induced the making of such statements. Enactment of the measure would compel a malicious liar to place a curb on his tongue and in time perhaps it would place a professional slanderer behind the bars.

This, however, should not be taken as a boost for the Farmer bill. It is unthinkable to believe that malicious liars or professional slanderers are abroad in the land under the skies of Texas.

ANOTHER GREAT DAM FOR TEXAS.

It is said the Hamilton dam in Burnet county will be 9000 feet in length, 137 feet high and the entire project will cost $6,000,000, involving two and one-half years work and the crew reaching 800 men at its peak. It will form a lake extending back beyond the present Bluffton highway bridge. A new highway will be built around the lower end of the lake and the new bridge will be placed across the Colorado—the big Chicago Development company participating in the cost of the bridge. Let loose the millions. There are unemployed men clamoring for jobs for the jobless.

MEXICAN ORANGES TO WORLD MARKETS.

Former President Plutarco Calles of Mexico and many of the leading orange growers of the republic have perfected an organization for the marketing of the Mexican orange crop this season in Canada and England. They will ship the oranges by steamer to New York there to be diverted to the Canadian and English markets. "Mexico for the Mexicans and all the world for the products of Mexico" is a dream of the former president.

HANDSOMEST MAN OF VIRGINIA EDUCATORS.

Governor John Garland Pollard of Virginia journeyed to Florida for a brief vacation. St. Petersburg, an everglades resort, held a handsomest man contest and Governor Pollard won first prize. He was a university professor when drafted as successor of Harry Byrd by the regular democratic leaders of old Virginia. He is a scholar in politics as well "as handsomest man." Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is said to be the handsomest governor of all the states but he was in Maryland when the St. Petersburg function pushed the governor of Virginia into the American beauty picture. Was it a "Bathing Man's Revue?"

OTHER OPINIONS

APPOINTING THE JUDGE

The president and attorney general appear ready to do battle with the Senate over whether President Hoover or Senator Schall is to appoint the Federal Judge in Senator Schall's state. The constitution is very clear on the point. But the Senate has in spirit violated that part of the Constitution and President Hoover has acquiesced in the violation.

Mr. Hoover has waited until the immediate issue is larger than one of prerogative. We are told that the nominee of the Senator in this case is unacceptable to the law advisers of the administration, for professional reasons. It is alleged that the nominee (whose name is mercifully unmentioned—is not the man to make the sort of Judge adequate to maintain the prestige of the Federal bench. Yet Senator Schall refuses to budge in his recommendation.

The Senator has no legal authority to make any recommendation; still less has he the right to stipulate that his suggestion be nominated. He has only the power to threaten that if anybody else is nominated, he, Senator Schall, will call on the Senate to reject that nomination. Against this the President has the rather effective weapon of leaving the post with nobody at all in it. And that weapon he proposes now to use. He asks public approval and the chances are he will get it. The United States Senate has been a marplot and a usurper of constitutional power for a long time. It ought to be brought to book.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS, THE WORLD'S TEACHER

Text: Luke 6:27-42

But I say unto you which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you.

Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.

And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; and from him that taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.

Give to every man that asketh thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.

And as ye would that man should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

For if ye love them which love you, what thank have ye? for even sinners also love those that love them.

And if ye do good to them which do good to you, what thank have ye? for even sinners also do even the same.

And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again.

But love your enemies and do them good and lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great and ye shall be the children of the Highest; for he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.

Be ye therefore merciful, even as your Father is merciful.

on unimportant things. His teaching and preaching moved in the realm of the deep realities of the soul, and he taught men to distinguish between the things that were of moral and spiritual value and the things that were of only temporary and passing importance.

Here in the passage chosen for our lesson he plunges at once into the very depths of the meaning of love. Love is something that must be exercised toward one's enemies as well as toward one's friends, or it is not love. If we allow hateful and bitter feelings to lodge in our hearts, even toward those who have wronged us, it is manifestly true that we are not practicing love. If we curse those who curse us, and show vengeful attitudes and actions to those who treat us unkindly and unfairly, we are not adding anything to the world's store of moral and spiritual values or to its progress.

Simple, Yet Difficult It is only when righteousness triumphs over unrighteousness, when love conquers hate, that we find any indication of improvement in the world, so far as our conduct is concerned, or that we add in any way to the world's store of goodness.

All this seems very elemental and simple and yet in all the centuries of human life it has been the hardest thing for men to perceive and put in practice. Even those who profess faith in Jesus of Nazareth and adoration of his name and teaching are often quite as vengeful in their attitude toward their enemies as are the most complete unbelievers.

So also in our judgments of one another. The good man is considerate and regards others as he would wish to be regarded himself. It is only through such attitudes of consideration and kindness and mercy that the world advances to higher planes of moral and spiritual living.

Nor is this rule of the good life simply a matter of morals. It is religion as well, for it is in the practice of such ideals of love and kindness that men most display their nearness to God, the father of mercy, and their advancement in love to him. Morals and religion are one in their highest expression; and we cannot be Godly without being God like. To learn to regard and treat our fellowmen with the love and mercy that Jesus proclaimed as the very essence of his gospel is to attain the highest art of living and the way to the best that religion can be.

all the work on the farm. Now it is different. "A Father and the Boys" seeing the world on wheels have been hiring others to do the work while they skim along the modern highways burning gas and permitting the packers and the cannery and other preparers of refrigerated food to supply the home table.

A very interesting individual is Banker Scott. He hammered his own road to the top. He believes the farm problem is the most important today before the American people. He believes the machine has revolutionized farming. He believes that the successful farmer of the future will feed himself. That he will return to the program of "Father and the Boys" which prevailed in the days of his youth when the farmer furnished the supplies for his own table and his smokehouse and corncrib and canning utensils were boys in evidence. Of all the problems of the new civilization he insists that the agricultural problem is the one that will be the hardest to solve and he predicts that "Back to the Farm" will be a resurrected slogan some day and that scientific farming with "Father and the Boys" doing the bulk of the work will restore prosperity to the rural regions and that the advantages of the new civilization will be sufficient to hold the boys and girls on "THE OLD HOMESTEAD."

All Texans, all the people of the southwest, should be interested in the University of Texas and other institutions of higher learning. They should do their best and give of their best to the public schools of the commonwealth. Education should come first in every land under every clime and all the children of all the people should be given educational advantages that will develop the brain as well as train the hand.

A reminder that new blood has been placed in the board of regents by the successor of Dan Moody. During Moody's reign of four years he named the following: Judge R. L. Batts of Austin; Edward Crane of Dallas; Robert J. Holliday of El Paso; and Buford Jester of Corsicana. While holding the reins Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson named Meo E. Foster of Houston; Sam Nethery of McKinney; and Sam city attorney of Houston; and H. J. Lutchter of Orange. These three for a term of six years. They stepped down and cut Monday. Their successors named by Gov. Ross Sterling are John T. Scott of Houston; Leslie Waggoner of Dallas; M. Frank Yount of Beaumont. There was a reorganization Monday and the new members qualified.

John T. Scott is one of the best known bankers of the southwest. Leslie Waggoner is prominent among Dallas bankers and the son of a former president of the state university. Frank Yount is a success in the petroleum world and is said to know the ins and outs of the oil and gas game from all its angles. He has been close to the Sterlings from early boyhood. John T. Scott and the governor are said to be almost as close as brothers and have been neighbors and pals for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott arrived in Austin Sunday and in the evening the South Texas banker chatted with Regents Crane and Holliday of the University leasing board as well as other friends of years. He was drafted for the place by the governor and Regents Crane and Holliday were delighted with the naming of Messrs. Scott and Waggoner for the reason that the investment side of the royalty and lease money is going to be a big problem and bankers who are high authorities on the subject are welcome to the board and its deliberations.

A warning that Regents Scott and Waggoner are not going to escape the heavy load that was placed upon their shoulders when they were picked to serve six years by their governor. It goes without contradiction that Regent Yount will not be an ornamental member of the board. He has played the oil and gas game for years. He is said to be an authority and it is no secret that he was selected because of his acquired knowledge, which is valuable to his fellow regents in the university handling of natural wealth of Texas which should fill the coffers of this institution of higher learning founded by the fathers of Texas.

John T. Scott after years in the banking game as the head of one of the great banks of the southwest some time ago, indeed before the crash came in Wall Street, decided to play a bit so Vice Pres. Law was elected president and the retiring president was named chairman of the board. He frankly admits that since his change of office he has been as busy as in any year of his eventful and successful life as a financier and he expects to be just as busy in the future.

He is the son of a farmer, he was born on a farm and in his youth "Father and the Boys" did all the work on the farm. Now it is different. A reminder that new blood has been placed in the board of regents by the successor of Dan Moody. During Moody's reign of four years he named the following: Judge R. L. Batts of Austin; Edward Crane of Dallas; Robert J. Holliday of El Paso; and Buford Jester of Corsicana. While holding the reins Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson named Meo E. Foster of Houston; Sam Nethery of McKinney; and Sam city attorney of Houston; and H. J. Lutchter of Orange. These three for a term of six years. They stepped down and cut Monday. Their successors named by Gov. Ross Sterling are John T. Scott of Houston; Leslie Waggoner of Dallas; M. Frank Yount of Beaumont. There was a reorganization Monday and the new members qualified.

John T. Scott is one of the best known bankers of the southwest. Leslie Waggoner is prominent among Dallas bankers and the son of a former president of the state university. Frank Yount is a success in the petroleum world and is said to know the ins and outs of the oil and gas game from all its angles. He has been close to the Sterlings from early boyhood. John T. Scott and the governor are said to be almost as close as brothers and have been neighbors and pals for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott arrived in Austin Sunday and in the evening the South Texas banker chatted with Regents Crane and Holliday of the University leasing board as well as other friends of years. He was drafted for the place by the governor and Regents Crane and Holliday were delighted with the naming of Messrs. Scott and Waggoner for the reason that the investment side of the royalty and lease money is going to be a big problem and bankers who are high authorities on the subject are welcome to the board and its deliberations.

A warning that Regents Scott and Waggoner are not going to escape the heavy load that was placed upon their shoulders when they were picked to serve six years by their governor. It goes without contradiction that Regent Yount will not be an ornamental member of the board. He has played the oil and gas game for years. He is said to be an authority and it is no secret that he was selected because of his acquired knowledge, which is valuable to his fellow regents in the university handling of natural wealth of Texas which should fill the coffers of this institution of higher learning founded by the fathers of Texas.

John T. Scott after years in the banking game as the head of one of the great banks of the southwest some time ago, indeed before the crash came in Wall Street, decided to play a bit so Vice Pres. Law was elected president and the retiring president was named chairman of the board. He frankly admits that since his change of office he has been as busy as in any year of his eventful and successful life as a financier and he expects to be just as busy in the future.

He is the son of a farmer, he was born on a farm and in his youth "Father and the Boys" did

WOULD YOU LIKE TO RETURN TO HORSE CAR DAYS?

The lady in the picture seems to be in a hurry. Imagine for a moment that you are back in the days of the Horse Car. No telephone. There is illness in the family and she is using the speediest means of transportation to call on the family physician.

Picture the change in conditions today. Your physician is equipped to serve you but a few moments after you call. Whereas in the old days the family physician was only prepared to give attention to the simple diseases, the physician's office of today must, to keep pace with the demands of the public, be completely stocked with not only all of the standard but most of the newest remedies of science.

He is not only prepared from a medical standpoint of knowledge to meet most any emergency but has the material at hand in the form of medicines and equipment with which to do it.

America has made the advancement that medical pay but slightly more for your physician's services the days of old horse drawn cars.

Randolph Kittens Leave Today on Tour of Arkansas

INVASION TO PREPARE TEAM FOR TOURNEY

Strong Clubs to Face Locals on Foreign Courts

The Randolph college Kittens leave this morning at 8 for a week's tour of Arkansas during which they will meet three and possibly four of the best girls basket ball teams in the state, among them the team which last year placed second in the national A. A. U. tournament at Wichita, Kansas. This is the Crescent college team, of Eureka Springs, the members of which last composed the Sparkman, Arkansas sextet.

The tour will be made by automobile and the first game will be with the Hartman team at Hartman, Arkansas, Monday evening. Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the Kittens play the Crescent college sextet and Thursday and Friday evenings they go to Montecello for games with the Arkansas A. and M. team. A game for Saturday night is expected to be arranged after which the girls will return home.

Practice Tour

The tour is purely for practice in preparation for the annual national tournament to be held at Dallas during the final week of March. The Kittens have made such a tour each year prior to the tournament season and each time they have lost more games than they have won. The experience gained, however, is more valuable than victories and Coach H. R. Garrett said before leaving that he is not counting on winning all of the scheduled contests, although the girls have improved materially since the visit to Oklahoma early in January. Many critics have stated that the team looks better now than it did at the same time last season while Coach S. P. Babb of the Oklahoma Presbyterian college team, which the Kittens defeated Thursday evening, declared that the Kittens are the best team his girls have ever seen.

"By cutting our taxes and utility costs last year we saved our people $785,000. Our taxes went from $1.35 to $1 with no increase in valuations. Our water went from 50c to 27c and the department made $108,000. Our gas went from 45c to 38c and our lights from 9c to 7c."

"I'm Not Bragging," Says Amarillo Mayor

DALLAS, Feb. 7.—"Excuse me but I don't like to brag," said Mayor Ernest Thompson of Amarillo Tuesday, stopping in Dallas between trains. He was on his way home from the Gridiron dinner at Houston; a private lawsuit at Orange and a Railroad commission hearing at Austin. He then launched into a tale of progress in Amarillo. "The city, he said, "is overnight from everywhere," which sounded in these days of depression, like a collaboration of Baron Munchausen and Paul Bunyan.

"Amarillo has grown steadily throughout the depression," declared its mayor. "And we're going right ahead. In 1931 we shall spend more than $1,000,000 in city improvements, $550,000 on new schools. We're spending $6,000,000 this year on road and highway work. The Santa Fe is spending $17,000,000 on new trackage and improvements. The Fort Worth & Denver is spending $4,000,000 on new construction.

The Burrus Mill & Elevator company is building a $1,000,000 elevator now and has plans for several millions more in elevator and mill construction. With the Rock Island and the Fort Worth & Denver we're spending $240,000 next week on an underpass, the city and the lines each paying a third.

"Our large ranches are being cut into small farms and we have more cattle in the aggregate than ever before."

"We had few failures in 1930 and our unemployment problem is no greater at this time than it ever has been.

"By cutting our taxes and utility costs last year we saved our people $785,000. Our taxes went from $1.35 to $1 with no increase in valuations. Our water went from 50c to 27c and the department made $108,000. Our gas went from 45c to 38c and our lights from 9c to 7c."

The tournament was conducted under the auspices of the Callahan county interscholastic league. R. F. Webb, superintendent of Putnam schools, was in direct charge as athletic director of the county league.

He expressed appreciation of the accommodations afforded the league by the Cisco school officials and complimented the local high school coaching staff, Coach W. B. Chapman and Assistant Coach Leonard Hill and Supt. R. N. Cluck and Principal H. Brandon, upon the generous and efficient manner in which they cooperated for the successful conduct of the tournament. "We appreciate the fine hospitality and cooperation very much and stand ready to repay the Cisco officials in any way that is possible for us to do," said Mr. Webb.

About 100 students of Callahan county schools took part in the tournament. These composed 15 teams, nine boys and six girl squads.

DEATH THREAT LETTER RENEWS KIDNAPER HUNT

TEXARKANA, Feb. 7.—A death threat received by E. T. Page, president of the Redwater State bank, 20 miles west of here, today had renewed the two months old search for the abductor and attempted murderer of R. W. Hanks, 55, cashier of the bank and son-in-law of Page.

Federal authorities are expected to begin an investigation into the death threat letter which came through the mails from Dallas.

"That the writer of the epistle has carried out the abduction and shooting of Hanks and that they 'got the wrong man last time' was indicated in the letter.

An advertisement appearing in Friday's Dallas News was a sign that $5,000 is awaiting the blackmailers, it was learned today. The letter received by Page instructed him, it became known, to insert an advertisement in the Dallas News offering a Bowie county farm for sale. The ad read: "Farm for sale cheap. Box 85, Redwater, Texas."

The life span of every French child would be divided into definite periods, the beginning of each being marked by a thorough medical examination.

The first examination would be made at birth, the child's physical defects and characteristics being carefully recorded. The second would be taken when the child enters primary school, and the

For GINGER'S SAKE

To keep life from growing too dull in Red Thrush, Iowa, Ginger Ella Tolliver organized a Junior Country Club. It was to be exclusive—no parents, no babies, just the "younger set." According to Ginger, whose step-mother, the former Phil Van Doorn, was both wealthy and indulgent, purchased the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old house, and remodeled it.

In to Red Thrush came Bard Holloway, a young artist who was hobnobbing around the country. Attracted by Ginger, he agreed to stay and paint portraits and decorate the new club house. The Tollivers made him their guest.

Bard thought "Joie de Vivre" would be a good name for the club. It was adopted. And he thought it would be splendid if they could import from Chicago one Nicolo Callesio. For Nicolo was handsome and he could cook and sing and strum a guitar. He would be a knockout on the opening night, for which an elaborate dinner dance was planned.

But on the morning of the opening there arrived at the Tollivers' not one Italian youth but what seemed an army. Little Angelo was a musician, and Pietro could cook. And Benito could sing. Nicolo, it seemed, could not come, so they had come in his place, to make themselves useful, glad to work for their board.

That night at the opening Bard realized he was falling in love with Ginger. The event was a great success. Pietro, Angelo and Benito added just the right touch of color, but Eddy Jackson began to think that Ginger would have her hands full with them, and Jenky Brooks, who with her husband, Benny, were chaperons of the club, began to have misgivings.

But the Italians soon won her over and they made plans to stay at the Joie de Vivre. Benito built bird houses and planted gardens and the others were equally useful. Meanwhile, though he had better leave Red Thrush, but Phil persuaded him to stay a little longer.

Benito shrugged his large shoulders. "You are just lost building birds' nests here in the woods, Benito. You should go in for diplomacy." The way you handle Jenky now! She says it is all right, does she? But how about all that money for fare?"

"Miss Ginger, I tell you what. You pay me to Chicago, and I'll pay me back."

"And do you promise faithfully that you will come back? Can we depend on you?"

Benito laid a large hand on the general direction of his heart. "Miss Ginger," he said solemnly, "I come. My heart she will bring me."

"It's too bad that she won't pay your railroad fare," interrupted Bard facetiously.

Since he had set his heart upon going there was nothing to do but acquiesce, and Ginger, half-fearing he would not return, held out as many inducements as she could.

"You know we're going to be making money here pretty soon," she said. "We've more than paid our expenses already, and it is largely due to you, Benito. You stand by us and we'll see that you don't lose by it."

Again and again he promised. He was so general about going away. He walked slowly through the grounds, filled all the bird bowls with fresh water, cleared the debris from the fountain, watered the flowers.

He took a look at every garden spot, rubbed down Mrs. Carter, the mare, and clucked jovially to the chickens. He pulled in his old boat, tightened up the bolts, shook out the rugs and blankets, and emptied the cans of bait.

"Benito, you are coming back, aren't you?" asked Ginger, tagging at his heels. "You wouldn't just say it to fool me?"

"Tomorrow I will come back—if not tomorrow, then Saturday. You be here on Saturday. You'll see. And Miss Jenky, too."

"He'll make it Saturday, I'll bet Mrs. Carter," said Bard. "He's dramatic enough to want the gang on hand to give him welcome."

Ginger drove him to the train, stopping at Ben and Jenky's for a fond adieu, and for the first time Miss Jenkins had the experience of having her hand kissed. It flustered that dear lady a great deal.

"Mr. Benito," she said, "now don't you forget to come back. Seems like we just couldn't stand that place without you."

"The real trouble with having him," thought Ginger, "is the slump that lies ahead of us when we lose him."

But she had many things on her mind—Bard's portraits, in particular, as she was torn between the desire to promote his professional success and to keep him away from the better-looking girls of the community.

In the end her better nature triumphed, but the days were not without their sadder moments. She had never before realized the utter shamelessness of the nicest girls of her acquaintance in forcing their attentions on entirely diffident and disinterested men.

It was after a particularly trying hour, when Miriam Updike had quite overstepped the proprieties for young ladies having their portraits painted by lighting with her own hands and at her own lips a cigarette for the encumbered artist, that Phil greeted her with deadly news, delivered it smiling, as though it were something to rejoice over.

"Oh, Ginger," she cried, "I have a surprise for you. Do you remember Speed Roney? He is coming out for a visit. He is in New York now, and will be here in a day or two. He's going to wire us."

"Cordially," "Phil Tolliver."

Ginger hung up the telephone receiver and returned to the breakfast table. She was laughing. "We must hurry right out to Mill Rush," she said to Bard. "Benito's got woodpeckers in his flappole and he wants us to come immediately."

"That Benito is positively too good to be true," said Phil. "I can't say much for Pietro except that his food means well, and Angelo is not the ultimate in artistry. But Benito is without peer."

"Does Benito mean the Blessed?" asked Ginger. "He is."

When they reached Mill Rush Benito was waiting for them and with eager cries of delight led them out to the flappole, which he had erected with his own hands and where, to his boundless and booming delight, a red-headed woodpecker was pounding vibrantly.

"You see," he cried, cavorting about on the green grass. "A woodpecker! A red-headed woodpecker! That is good luck for this house."

Ginger and Bard were eager in agreement. Certainly that house was the hiding place of rare good fortune!

"Look!" Benito went on, turning and pointing up to the corner of the house, the southeast corner of the house, which he called his. "You see that bird-house? Right outside my window?"

"Are there birds in it?" asked Ginger interestedly.

"Not yet. But wait. Birds will come. I sprinkle the floor with the finest seeds. I fill the bowl with fresh cold water twice, three times a day. Birds will come. Right outside my window. It's very lucky to have birds outside your window."

Ginger and Bard followed him about for a while from house to house, expressing interest and pleasure more to please him than anything else, and presently moved away. But it was not solely to admire the woodpeckers that Benito had enticed them forth, not entirely to display the smart new bird-house he had built outside his attic window. He followed them down to the landing.

"Miss Ginger," he said, "you take me in town and I go to Chicago tonight. To get my clothes and my money and to see my friends. Tomorrow I come back. Miss Jenky, she says all right. I go, I come."

"Oh, you asked her frist, did you?"

"I'll stay here at Doorn-dee?" asked Bard almost jealously. "Perhaps it would be more convenient for me to move to town—out of the way."

"Don't!" Ginger laid a detaining hand upon his arm. "The more the merrier. Always room for one more. Safety in numbers. The burned child dreads fire. All that sort of thing. Phil," she said suddenly, "let's ask Eddy Jackson to come too, to help liven things up—I'm so—bored." But she laughed strangely.

CHAPTER XX

But Phil was a woman of wide experience. She thought it all over that afternoon while Ginger had Bard out at Mill Rush working on the series of sketches. He was making of different views of the house and grounds. And suddenly she went to her desk and wrote a letter to Speed Roney, who had finished college and was in business with his father back in Massachusetts.

"Speed, my dear boy, you promised to do me a good turn whenever you had the opportunity. Here it is. We are all bored and stupid and tired of each other and just shriveling up with ennui—especially Ginger. Won't you come out for a week or 10 days, longer if you can, and cheer us up? It will be such a nice surprise for Ginger and Mr. Tolliver, who do not lend a man writing you. Please wire me at once that you are on your way, for this is the good turn you promised. And I shall try to see that you are a little amused and entertained while you are here."

"Ginger," she cried, "I have a surprise for you. Do you remember Speed Roney? He is coming out for a visit. He is in New York now, and will be here in a day or two. He's going to wire us."

Ginger gasped audibly. "Coming out? Coming here? Who's he going to visit?" she ejaculated.

"Why, us, of course, dear."

"Oh, us of course," repeated Ginger. "How—nice! Speed Roney—dear me!" She looked helplessly at her father, hopelessly at Phil, yearningly at Bard. "Couldn't we put him off a while?"

"Why, darling. You are so fond of Speed!"

"Yes, of course," she faintly assented. "But it is a very inopportune time—I'm pretty busy right now—what with Mill Rush—Bard's portraits—Benito gone—"

"Oh, dearest, I am so sorry. I Phil sounded most contrite. "I only asked him to come for your sake—because you were so bored."

"Oh," Ginger pulled herself together and gave a hoarse little laugh. "Dear me! So I was. Well," she added dryly, "I fancy I'm going to be a whole lot bored-er in the next 10 days."

"Will he stay here at Doorn-dee?" asked Bard almost jealously. "Perhaps it would be more convenient for me to move to town—out of the way."

"Don't!" Ginger laid a detaining hand upon his arm. "The more the merrier. Always room for one more. Safety in numbers. The burned child dreads fire. All that sort of thing. Look What They Found in Texas!

The pigen of T. W. Tidwell, above, rancher living near Dallas, has become a showplace following his discovery in the ground there of the fossil remains of a prehistoric monster. Dean E. W. Shuler of the School of Geology, Southern Methodist University has identified the skeleton as that of a plesiosaurus, which roamed Texas some 2,600,000 years ago.
