

Sixth District Texas Federated Women's Clubs Will Meet Here in 1926; President Reagan's Address

The Cisco delegation to the tenth annual convention of the Sixth District Texas Federated Women's clubs which convened at the Sul Ross College in Alpine, April 20 to 22, are singing the praises of Alpine since their return home. In the Cisco party were Mrs. Wm. Reagan, president; Mesdames Phillip Pettit, J. J. Butts, J. H. Moyer, R. Q. Lee, M. D. Paschall and G. B. Kelly. In speaking of the convention Mrs. Kelly stated:

"Alpine is a beautiful little city with mountains for a background. A scenic drive to the Davis mountains, through winding canyons and beautiful ranches brought the delegates to the Kesie home where luncheon was served by the Davis Mountain Federation in a grove of stately poplars, which we reached after a stop at the community house in Marfa, where cooling drinks were served.

"The first official act of the convention was the planting of a pecan tree by the district president Monday followed by a well appointed dinner by the Sul Ross College, after which in the evening the Fine Arts display, portraying the Italian renaissance pictures with living models.

"Tuesday morning the delegates were welcomed by Mayor Gillett and J. E. Casner president of the chamber of commerce, and Mrs. C. A. Brown of the Alpine Study club. The response, on behalf of the Federation, was made by Mrs. Greenleaf Fisk. President Reagan then declared the convention formally opened. Some splendid addresses were made by the delegates present, including that of President Reagan. Every courtesy was shown us by the people of Alpine, and the train officials of the Orient were especially obliging. Cisco was voted as the convention city for 1926, when Cisco will be called upon to show the real Cisco hospitality. Following such royal entertainment given us by Alpine it will even tax Cisco to excel. The convention closed with a wonderful pageant 'The Home Makers.'

"Tuesday evening was president's evening and Mrs. Reagan delivered the following inspiring message:

choosing for her theme 'The American Home.'

Following is the address of President Reagan:

The subject that I have chosen for this evening should interest every man, woman and child. Lexicographers define home as a dwelling place, the place where character is formed, where education is inculcated and where its inmates are impressed for time and for eternity.

The Revolutionary fathers, with their blood and tears, conquered the vast wilderness of America to make homes where patriotism and religious freedom could reign supreme. The savage Indian and the wild beasts yielded to their brain and brawn until now, forty-eight states on our national flag symbolize the strength, power and unity of the greatest republic that this world has ever known.

The example set by our forefathers has never been improved upon, and so long as we emulate and cherish the history, so long as we glory in the inheritance of their blood and preserve the traditions of their valor in war and their virtue in peace, so long will America be the shrine of patriotism and the citadel of liberty.

The American home was established under these conditions and has been a mighty factor in the development of our lives, even though our home ideals have diminished at the present time. Friends, do you believe that the American home will continue to be a failure with such a setting as we have for a background? We know that the Christian hearthstone is the only foundation for a republic; that the safety of the state depends upon the character of the home and that the home, if it be the right kind of a home, is the foundation upon which rests the welfare of our state and national government. If our home ideals diminish or perish, the nation weakens and decays.

Many of our sacred traditions originated in a home where mother was the home maker, wherein mother reposed humanity's greatest love;

In whom rests the hope of mankind;
In whom lies the destiny of Nations;
By whom civilization either stands or falls.

By whom the cross is upheld and Christianity magnified."

Modern machinery and invention have replaced the drudgery of housekeeping, especially in our cities, and these industries are fast reaching the rural districts. It is no longer necessary for us to spend all our time within the four walls of our homes. We now have time for study and recreation and as citizens we have the happy privilege of raising our voices in all political, social and economic problems that confront our country today. We have the opportunity to look beyond our own environments and profit by the experience and inspiration of others.

Who are the leaders in our business and professional life? Who are the men financing the world, building the sky scrapers, making the laws governing the nation, making the earth and sky to quake, heave and roar with the tread of gigantic enterprises? For the most part they descend from Christian homes. The stalwart men and the influential women of today, in most cases, owe their greatness to the influence of their early home training.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, one of the largest and most influential organizations of women in the world, has sent out a message to the club women of our country urging them to take the initiative in the movement of re-establishing the American home. Mrs. Henry Redmond, our own dear Texas president, has sent a message to her Texas clubs, and the seven district presidents of the state federation are urging their members to heed these calls.

Mrs. Maggie Barry, a Texas woman whom we love and who has honored us with her presence, is Texas director for the American homes department in the General Federation of Women's clubs.

Our state and federal governments have expressed their faith in the home by establishing and giving aid to the departments of home economics. Here in your beautiful city of Alpine, you have a state school offering courses with credits on the American home, and other topics. I wonder how many clubs in this district have taken advantage of this splendid opportunity.

Who can better lead in this important movement than the club women who believe that home making is the biggest factor in American life today, and who have passed from practically exclusive attention to home duties to the larger sphere of home making, expressed in our civic, state and national life, and who are equally concerned with all fundamental, economic and social questions?

The thoughtful observer sees cause of anxiety in the lax conditions which are apparent today. The abandonment of the separate home; the acceptance of the apartment as a substitute and the dwindling families; when we add to these all the complexities which come from alien tongues and the traditions which naturally cling to this isolated group of new comers, we find in America, particularly the large cities, a marked decadence of the ideals which had their origin in the earlier homes of America.

These principles of home making should be promulgated by the fathers and mothers of our country, and the teachers in the universities, colleges and public schools, through an educational program; beginning in the home, continuing through school and on through life. The young girl about to be married; the young mother ignorant of what is required in feeding her children; the young father and husband who is trying to cover the family expenses without a budget; the intelligent fathers and mothers whose knowledge comes from inheritance alone, or from haphazard suggestions of neighbors; all these classes should be taught that every thing which concerns family responsibilities, such as sanitation in the home and the community, the great problem of food and its uses, the interest and welfare of child life and the adjustment of income to family necessities, belong to men and women alike.

Our problem today, club women friends, is the re-establishment of the old time Christian home, where love, thrift and economy go hand in hand, and where the Holy Bible is read and taught and extravagance and waste is a thing of the past.

None of us doubt the lowered standards of many American homes, the lowered morals of many of the younger generation, but we women, preeminently the guardians of the home, must again elevate its standard, and purify its atmosphere through a revival of that old fashioned religion which takes account of youths' frailties, yet disciplines with authority.

This appeal, friends, is to you and I, who have endless opportunities for effective service with our young people. We should strive to bring them back to their home ideals, and love their homes for the history they have made; for the statesmen they have produced; for the orators, poets and writers who have enriched the literature of the world; for the heroes whose names shall live forever in song and story, and for the Christ, who two thousand years ago, gave his life on the cross that we might have an eternal home. When we have re-established these homes as of old then our country will be safe for democracy and

"Home will be a refuge,
The spot in earth supremely blest,
The sacred refuge of our lives,
Where the poorest man may in his cottage
Bid defiance to all forces,
His home may be frail, the roof may shake, the wind may blow through, the storms may enter,
But be it ever so humble
There's no place like home."

ONE THOUSAND PRESENT AT EASTLAND SONG FEST
EASTLAND, April 28.—Fully one thousand attended any many of them participated in the monthly song fest held in the Methodist tabernacle at Eastland Sunday, when an excellent singing was had. Thurber was represented with a quartet which rendered some fine selections. A quartet was also present from Ranger while a number of other interesting features were given. The Rippetoe quartet failed to show up. Following the singing Mr. Hazelwood, who conducted it, organized an Eastland class with a large number of members to meet every fourth Sunday in this city. John Pope of Eastland, was elected president of the class.

After all else failed, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought sure relief from constipation

Thousands have cleansed their systems of constipation's poisons.

Constipation exacts a telling price. Its hideous poisons lead to over forty devastating diseases. But let Mrs. Rench, of Iowa, tell her story:

"Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the very best I ever used for chronic constipation. I have used all kinds of medicine and nothing helped me like ALL-BRAN. It has such a nice flavor and it is cheaper than paying out hundreds of dollars seeking relief."

Yours truly,
Mrs. A. E. RENCH,
Box 197, Marcus, Iowa.
Don't neglect constipation. Drive its terrible poisons out of your system. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, permanent relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal, natural action.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes given on the package. Results guaranteed or your grocer returns the purchase price. Made in Battle Creek, Mich. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

MRS. MARY JONES, RAIMONDE VON MALUSKI, JR. & ANNA LOGAN

Although no trace has been found of missing Raimonde von Maluski, Jr., three years old, who disappeared several days ago from his parents' home, in New York City, Mrs. Mary Jones has been positively identified by little Anna Logan, ten, as the woman she saw riding in a taxicab with the boy. Mrs. Jones was held in $100,000 bail. The police believe the child has been slain. Mrs. Jones was a friend of the boy's mother, but was said to have plotted revenge when Mrs. von Maluski had her arrested on a theft charge.

ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF PISTOL PREVENTS ROBBERY

STAMFORD, April 28.—There was an attempt at robbing the Peacock bank Monday morning at Peacock, about fifty miles northwest of here. Robbers entered the bank, broke down the counters, secured the safe and attempted to load it in a trailer they had for a car. There were three cars in all. In some way a pistol was discharged, and it is thought one of the robbers was hurt, as there was blood about the place where the car stopped. The report of the gun alarmed the residents, and the robbers made off without getting any money.

RAILROAD'S INTANGIBLE ASSETS CLAIM IGNORED

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A decision of possible sweeping importance was rendered Monday by the interstate commerce commission in affixing a value of $1,668,000 to the Gulf, Texas & Western railroad. In arriving at that sum the commission ignored the railroad's claim to an intangible asset of $170,000 as "going value." Similar items are included in the valuation claims set up by most of the larger railroads and if Monday's precedent is followed the result will be to cut down materially totals which have been claimed by carriers.

ENDEAVORERS OF 12 COUNTIES TO GATHER HERE

Two hundred Christian Endeavorers from twelve counties will assemble in Cisco Friday evening for their annual three day convention. Miss Tommie Ford, chairman of the registration committee, and Edwin Martin, Randolph College student, who is president of the local Christian Endeavor society, have called upon the people of Cisco to open their homes to furnish rooms for the young people.

The convention last year was held in Stamford and royal entertainment was given all visitors by the Stamford people. The best homes of the city were thrown open to the young people and Stamford made them feel at home. In extending the invitation to the convention to come to Cisco, the committee declared that Cisco would equal Stamford as a host, and Miss Ford urges that Cisco people back the committee in their efforts to make good.

BAPTISTS MAKE RECORD TIME IN RAISING BUDGET

More than half of the budget for the current year of the First Baptist church was subscribed in the record time of ten minutes at the close of the morning service at that church Sunday, and this, too, when only about one-fourth of the membership was present. The budget for the year is $8,000, and it was ascertained that $4,500 was listed in the pledges. Of this amount $3,100 is for current expenses, and $1,400 will be credited to the missionary program.

At 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon the committee met to check off the subscribers from the list of members and to divide the names of those not yet subscribing among the twenty-five workers who reported at 3 o'clock that afternoon and are canvassing the remaining membership to give each member an opportunity to have a part in the support of the year's work of the church. These workers will make their final report Wednesday evening, when it is confidentially believed the total budget will be subscribed.

ORDER RATE REDUCTION ON TEXAS RANGE CATTLE

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The interstate commerce commission ordered a reduction of 35 percent in the rate on feeder and range cattle, calves and sheep, in carloads, from points in New Mexico and Texas on the line of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe to California. The rate is to remain effective until June 1, next.

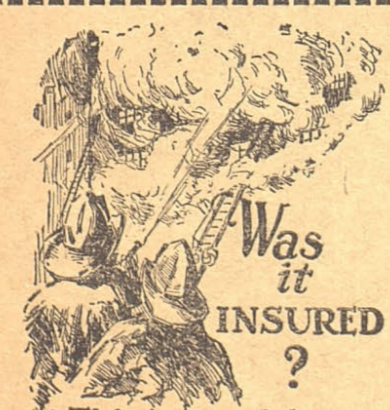

SHOT HIS STEP DAUGHTER

GERMAN EX-KAISER FAR FROM PAUPER

BERLIN, April 28.—Any illusions that have been harbored concerning the material advantage enjoyed by the ex-kaiser and the members of the Hohenzollern family have been dispelled by the publication of figures concerning their present financial position. The ex-kaiser, in spite of his own protests of poverty, was never believed to be a pauper, but it is not generally known that when he was deprived of his throne the German republic recognized the payment to him of a fortune of $4,500,000, representing his savings during his reign.
