EVANGELIST TO ADDRESS UNION LABOR

BACCALAUREATE SERMON GIVEN BY EVANGELIST CULPEPPER TO A LARGE CONGREGATION YESTERDAY

Before an audience that completely filled the Methodist church, Rev. Burke Culpepper, of Memphis, Tenn., one of the general evangelists of the Southern Methodist church, preached the commencement sermon for the graduates of the Cisco high school Sunday morning.

The platform was a scene of bewitchery and beauty, having been transformed into a garden of roses, twining ferns and green foliage. Around the chancel and choir rail the colors were used in profusion. While the center section was roped off with the colors—purple and gold.

As the first notes of the processional burst forth the entire class, robed in black gowns and caps, marched to the section reserved for them. The choir, under the direction of Mr. John U. Robinson, of Memphis, who is assisting in the meeting now in progress at the First Methodist church, rendered a program of song. A duet was sung by Mesdames McClintock and Journey. Rev. L. N. Stuckey pronounced the invocation and Prof. J. J. Godbey the benediction.

In a stirring and eloquent sermon Evangelist Culpepper, preached on "The Value of the Soul."

"The soul of man Jehovah's breath, it keeps two worlds of a strife. Hell moves beneath to work its death—Heaven stoops to give it life."

Mr. Culpepper paraded all the conquerors of history before his large audience to prove the value of his text, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" In dramatic apostrophe the evangelist summoned the famous characters before him and challenged them to answer the question.

The speaker said that he wanted to talk to the graduating class and the friends that had assembled for this service, about that part that would live after the stars were dead—the soul.

In discussing this important subject Mr. Culpepper said that he did not argue the immortality of the soul from the fact that people dream, or through fear of death, that everything wanted to live; there was life in the vegetable kingdom, in the animal world and in the realm of man, and there was a corresponding fear of death. Man can see what God thinks of life by the way he has provided for it—life in the air, in the ocean, in the sea—life everywhere.

The speaker made the significant statement that a person does not have to die to lose his soul; that he had seen many a soulless, towny, soulless people—bankers, lawyers, merchants and business men.

CISCO BUNCH IN PLAINVIEW

Special to the News
PLAINVIEW, Texas, May 22.—Thirty Cisco boosters arrived in Plainview at 8:30 this morning, and have established Cisco headquarters in an up-town department store, most centrally located. The Cisco bunch are not making as big a noise as some of the delegates of the contending towns, but are quietly working to secure the votes necessary to bring the convention of 1923 to Cisco. Brownwood, Amarillo, and Vernon are here in large numbers and are putting up a big noise with bands and drum corps, but prospects are looking favorable at this time for Cisco to take the next meeting.

The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning, and the original program as published is being carried out, and the delegates are being royally entertained. It is estimated that there are five thousand visitors here.

WIND DAMAGE AT WALNUT SPRINGS

By The Associated Press.
WACO, May 22.—It is reported here that a terrific storm passed over Walnut Springs last night. Communication is cut off from that place, and accurate estimate of the damage done could not be ascertained. It is reported that great havoc was wrought by the storm to property in that section. The report that Mrs. Hamilton had been injured could not be confirmed.

DEATH OF F. J. HUEY, JR., OCCASION MUCH SORROW

A most deplorable accident, which caused the immediate death of Frank Joyce Huey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Huey, of this city, occurred Sunday evening at the family residence on West Fifth street, when a .30 caliber rifle which he was packing away in his luggage was discharged and sent a steel-clad bullet ploughing through his body. The bullet entered the abdomen and ranged upward.

The young man had recently enlisted in the army and was packing his grip preparatory to going to Houston to report for duty. Frank Huey was born in Houston, November 21, 1898, was well known in Cisco and numbered his friends by the hundred. He possessed a wonderfully bright mind, an open heart and a cheerful disposition.

Before the great world war young Huey was a member of the Houston Light Guards. As soon as America entered the conflict he enlisted in the regular army and was sent to the Mexican border for duty.

CLOSING SERVICES OF BENNETT REVIVAL REACHES A GLORIOUS CLIMAX—2000 IN ATTENDANCE

The Bennett revival, which had an unpretentious beginning five weeks ago at the city hall, and which has gathered strength and increased in interest constantly in spite of rainy weather and many counter attractions, reached a glorious climax last night at the closing exercises, with over two thousand people in attendance.

The vast audience sat spellbound and astonished as this "stripling" of a boy, as he calls himself, gave utterance to the wonderful message—the pleading of the Holy Spirit to a lost world to come and partake freely of the water of life. No one present had any doubt of the fact that the speaker was under the direct influence of divine inspiration, and no one not present would give credence to the literal truth of things that happened as this farewell message came to a close.

Before opening his subject, Brother Bennett related some of his personal experiences which led him into the ministry. He related how after he was "raised by the Holy Spirit from a drunkard's grave" he began pleading with his evil associates to lead a better life and how he spent days and often nights in prayer and study of the Bible.

For a year and a half after his conversion he was absolutely absorbed with Bible study and personal work among those of his own community at his home, Bennett Springs, Mo.

He related how he preached his first sermon in the little school house where he had come to school: "I didn't say very much, for I didn't know what to say; but I just kept begging sinners to 'come' and be saved. Before I realized what was going on they started coming; first an old grey-headed hard-shell Baptist came trembling and kneeling for prayer and then came others, and before the meeting closed there were ten sinners saved. Amen! Glory to God! "We had driven three miles in a Springfield wagon to the meeting and as we returned home there were seven of us saved and one unsaved, the old hard-shell. All the way home we sang and prayed and prayed and sang. "We prayed for sinners; we prayed for more of God's power! we prayed for His mercy on a lost world—and we prayed for the old hard-shell. Suddenly he rose from his seat and shouted: 'Oh Lord, take it away! meaning his sins, and set down a saved soul.' "Do people get religion gradually? Do they just grow into it, little by little? Well this old man got it suddenly and he did more praying and more shouting from there on than all the rest of us. As we passed the mill where he worked he got out and roused the mill hands and told them of his salvation. Amen! We had a big revival right there.

"This first sermon turned into a revival and before it was over I had led over a hundred to Jesus. I had baptized the man who taught me to play cards, and the man who had influenced me to drink.

The only criticism Brother Bennett had for anyone was against the preachers of today for not preaching the whole Bible, and for not claiming for believers all that they had in the days of the Apostles.

THE FOUR-SQUARE MAN' SUBJECT OF SERMON TO MEN SUNDAY P. M. MAN CREATED IN GOD'S IMAGE

The feature of the services on Sunday at the First Methodist church was the meeting for men at 3 o'clock. A large crowd of representative men of Cisco heard Evangelist Culpepper on "The Four-Square Man." It was a manly message to red-blooded men, free from anything that was vile or suggestive.

The speaker traced the progress of man from the garden of Eden. There he was created in God's image and was given dominion over all things. He fell and his efforts to rise during the past seven thousand years were traced with interesting detail.

The presentation of the four-square man was based upon the text found in Ezekiel 1:16, "As for the likeness of their faces, the four had the face of a man, and the face of a lion, on the right side; and they had the face of an ox on the left side; the four had the face of an eagle."

In His greatness men should be able to conquer themselves. The lion-hearted man is not afraid to do the right thing, declared the speaker. The ox referred to in the text is a picture of service. The ox is slow but can climb to greater heights than any other domestic animal. The eagle soars high above the clouds, and in its loftiness is above earthly things. Many people soar high, but keep their eyes upon the earth, as a buzzard. Many a man who is made in God's image is a buzzard at heart.

Life does not end with the grave, concluded the speaker, and he appealed to his large audience to strive to lead the life of the four-square man in order that they may inherit life eternal.

At the conclusion of the sermon almost the entire audience gave the evangelist their hands in token of their desire for cleaner lives and more noble purposes.

Sunday Night—"Tekel."
Tonight will be delegation night for the labor unions at the meeting now in progress at the First Methodist church.

CISCO BOOSTERS OFF AFTER 1923 WEST TEXAS C. O.

Well, they are off. It was a bunch of confident boosters who boarded a special Pullman on the T. & P. Sunshine Special last evening for Plainview, where the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is now holding its 1922 convention. There are twenty-five in the bunch, there being four out of town boosters with them. The party was a merry one, as there was a feeling of optimism that they were going for a leveled purpose, which they all believed would be crowned with success—they are going for the purpose of bringing the 1923 convention to Cisco.

It was first the program for the party to leave here on the 2:15 afternoon train, but later arrangements put their Pullman on the Sunshine, thus eliminating a long delay at Sweetwater.

Cisco will be put on the map at Plainview while these boosters are there, for every man is thoroughly imbued with the Cisco spirit, and they went armed with a thousand copies of the Convention Edition of the Cisco Daily News, which tells in a convincing manner why the convention should come to the real convention city of West Texas, both in the descriptive matter and the large number of live wires who have placed their advertise-

CHILD LABOR DECISION. The decision that the child labor law is unconstitutional has a tendency to bring sadness and disappointment to many of those who worked many years for it, and to all those who dislike to see children exploited, stunted and deprived of childhood for the sake of greed. But no one questions the honesty, and few the wisdom of the decision itself. The child labor law as it stands never was a good law. The age who worked hardest for it called that it was only a makeshift, an indirect passage towards a goal which it seemed at the time impossible to reach directly. The decision of the supreme court will throw the whole matter open once more, and will give the whole matter publicity which it greatly needs. Undoubtedly an aroused and enlightened public opinion will now demand that congress be authorized explicitly, by direct constitutional amendment, to limit child labor. Children have as much right to their childhood as people of every age to their freedom, as women to the vote, as the nation to the benefits of sobriety. The abolition of American child labor by constitutional processes, more effective than any state procedure could possibly be, will undoubtedly be the next step. That is the obvious solution, towards which the present law has been only a bit of falsework, to be torn away as the true structure proceeds. FEDERAL AUTO LICENSING. Surely the federal government has enough to do already without

OUR SWAN SONG

This issue marks the end of the Gusher for this year, the most successful year of its existence. During the past the staff has depended on the faculty, on the students in general and on records of the school for material and filler. The Gusher sponsors had to drive the staff, make assignments and manage the paper.

received word that the boys were drowned. Shortly after this they re-appeared in excellent health much to the joy of the staff.

VACATION SUGGESTIONS

Summer used never be dull. Here are a few suggestions from the C. H. S. magazine rack. With this kind of entertainment at hand, there is no excuse for ennui.

exclaimed, "I had rather be shot than tickled to death."

Accidents will happen. During the second act of the play the terrible Turk (Otho) threw his knife and it went through part of the scenery into the audience.

Bravo! When Paul made the remark that he would kiss—if she didn't have that grease on her face she exclaimed, "If you can't kiss me now, you can't kiss me later!"

After the play one woman was heard to exclaim, "Wasn't that fine? I didn't know those kids could do that good."

Those mustaches surely gave Paul and Marion a lot of trouble.

One lady said of Marie, "That little red haired girl certainly did do well."

Paul said that his mother re-enforced some trousers for him to wear during the fighting scene in "Safety First."

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock the grammar school commencement exercises will be given. Rev. Holmes of the Christian church of this city will deliver the address. The rest of the program will consist chiefly of songs by the class.

We will see them next year at the high school, and won't we have fun? But the poor fish!

Soph—"I got one of those 14-inch exam papers, by jinks."

Miss McCarty said that the senior play "Safety First" was her "farewell to mirth!" This play is the tenth play that she has directed since she has been in Cisco.

Vera Hyatt—"Marion, how do you spell trousers?"
Marion Olson—"P-a-n-t-s."

Friday morning in assembly Rev. Stuckey, Rev. Culpepper and Mr. Robinson were present.

Rev. Culpepper made a very interesting talk on the reason why boys and girls should finish high school. He used some very interesting illustrations in bringing out this point. His speech was enjoyed by all the students.

Lula Bell (on Gusher picnic)—"Miss Robbins, is the water wet?"
Miss Robbins (who was in swimming)—"No, it's just a little damp."

Mrs. Keyes (in Civics)—"I broke my contract with a school."
Pupil—"Did it hurt?"

Marion—"Look at that duck out there in the water."
Elizabeth—"Why I thought that was a snake."

Who said the Gusher staff is lazy? They went on a surprise breakfast Tuesday morning at 5:30 and everybody was ready and on time. Oh well, Miss Robbins did have to be wakened but she got there anyway. The crowd went out to Lake Strickland, and some of them went in swimming—br-r-r, that water was cold!
Dibbon and Vera proved themselves to be great cooks, and Wade proved himself to be some eater. The time to come back to school approached and too soon to suit the picnickers, but Miss Robbins reminded them that she had a class the first period, so the merry crowd got in the cars and reluctantly came back to town.

After hearing Marion so glibly explaining a shipwreck, we should like to hear him explain how to meet (and conquer) a Ford truck. Another case of "mashed to the last!"

Miss St. John asked her English I class to write a paragraph illustrating comparison. This is one answer she got: "Boys and girls look enough alike to be brothers and sisters. The only difference is that girls wear dresses and boys wear pants."

This was one of Cecil McCord's answers on physiology examination: "Three digestive organs are the mouth, starch and intestines."
From an English examination, low sophomore: "Aliteration is the flow of line language, or the showing off of a writer."

"The barrel was insane."
"Charles Darnay was loving his wife when a policeman came in and arrested him."

COMING SOON—THE OCCIDENTAL

The Occidental was delayed this year because the covers did not reach the compositors on time. We do not know yet when they will get here, but when they arrive they will be advertised in the paper and sold in Mr. Wells' office. They will cost $2 each and there are only 100. The Occidental cost $340 this year. This is at the rate of $3.40 each that the seniors had to pay for them. The seniors pay for the Occidental by running the lunch room, having plays, and running stands at the track meet. Year before last the Occidental cost $1648, last year it cost $1350.

AFTERMATH OF THE "SLASH"

The recent cut in salaries has caused many of our teachers to resign. It is natural that we should want to know where they are going and what they will do. They are too good friends to lose without knowing where they are and without hearing from them.

It is not known where Mr. Williams, Mr. Turner and Mr. Herndon will be next year, but we hope to hear from them when they get located.

Mr. Wells hasn't decided definitely what he will do next year, but we sincerely hope he will remain with us.

Gusher reporters were sent to see different teachers to get their views on the lowering of salaries. The teachers' views were as follows: Mr. Williams: "The school board had no money to do differently. However, they may have wasted money at other times."

Miss Robbins: "I don't know anything about the school board's business, but I do know mine. Therefore, I leave. It might be added that this is a situation that might arise in any 'boom' town."
Miss McCarty: "The cut in salaries was such a shock to me that I am unable to think. I have no position, but I might keep house next year."
Miss St. John: "Don't bother me as I am interested in more important affairs."

Mr. Wells: "I have nothing to say that I can express in ordinary English."

Mr. Kelley was kind enough to give a full statement, which follows: "I am very sorry that the salaries have been reduced for the following reasons:

"1. Cisco is the best town in this section of the state and it should be able to pay as good, if not better salaries, than any other town in this section."
"2. The present salaries are lower than in other professions, regardless of the time and money that is spent in preparation for the profession."
"3. I believe in holding up salaries of teachers to encourage the more brilliant and intelligent people to follow teaching as a livelihood."

"4. The present reduction will cause the school to lose some of the most talented and best trained members of the faculty, and we have the situation well in hand. The re-arrangement of this organization will be confusing for next semester."

"In view of the fact that there are many reasons why the salaries should not be cut, I appreciate the conditions under which the school is laboring, and I am sure that the board has not cut the salaries of the teachers because they think they are not worth the price paid. They know the financial condition, and the expenses of the school will have to come within a certain limit."

"I am sure that there is not a teacher in the faculty, possibly, that could not get more money elsewhere, but personally I appreciate the offer that I have had for another year, as living conditions are much better here in Cisco than in any of the surrounding towns, and I also believe that the present low salaries will not be permanent and that as soon as certain adjustments are made, that Cisco can afford and will pay better salaries in the future. I have not lost faith in Cisco nor the Cisco high school, and I am willing to use my influence and efforts toward the betterment of Cisco high."

When asked by a representative of the Gusher what he thought of the "cut," Mr. Turner declared that he thought Cisco should have one first class high school and a second class college.

"I do not believe that Cisco can get proficient teachers at the salaries they intend to pay. As for myself, I could not think of coming back at a lower salary. After a person spends as much money as necessary to become an able teacher, he could not afford to accept the new rate. But, of course, I know the board had to do it because of the delinquent taxes."

GUSHER STAFF FORMS PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

As the close of school drew near and with it the time when the gusher staff would have to break up, never to meet as a unit again, there began to grow in the hearts of all staff members a desire that, some way, somehow, a way might be found whereby the group that is now on the staff could be associated longer in some organization of the journalistic nature. Miss Robbins, the planner, found a ready response from the staff when she proposed that a club be organized to be known as the Quill Club. This organization has not been perfected as yet, but it is rapidly being rotated into shape. The membership probably be limited to twelve or fifteen and a considerable period of work on the Gusher will probably be made one of the requirements for membership. At the first meeting a resolution was passed that the senior members of the staff be made charter members and that when they leave they be made honorary members. A committee is now at work on the constitution, by-laws, etc. It is not likely that many of this year's staff will work on the Gusher next year, but the Quill Club is planning something that will surprise everybody. It is new in Cisco high and will add much to its credit if carried out successfully. Watch for a big new undertaking next year. Miss Robbins and Mr. Gaither who helped to organize the club are going to leave, but the club will not die because of this. It is determined to do what Miss Robbins and Mr. Gaither planned for it to do, no matter what may be the handicaps.

SUMMER SCHOOL PROSPECTS

Summer session will begin next Monday, and, judging by rumor, an unusually large number will be enrolled. Miss Robbins reports that if all come who have stated that intentful, she will be forced to give her entire time to classes in English. Mathematics and history are also in strong demand. The coolness of the season, no doubt accounts in part for the number who have the courage necessary to enrolling for an extra session.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWSPAPER MAN SAYS EVANGELIST CULPEPPER IS THERE ON HOW TO HANDLE CRANK

W. O. Saunders, a newspaper man of Elizabeth City, N. C., in "Autobiography of a Crank," published in the June number of the American magazine, has the following to say of Burke Culpepper, the evangelist who is now engaged in a revival meeting at the First Methodist church in Cisco:

"Then came to town one Burke Culpepper, an evangelist of Memphis, Tennessee. A tent was pitched for him, and he began a series of union revival services. I stayed away from his meetings until it was necessary for me to attend at least one service to write about it intelligently. The evangelist captured me. He was different from the common run. There was no ranting, no bombast, no cant. The fellow was pleading for the church people to take Christ into their lives. He said a man who professed to be a Christian and who wasn't on speaking terms with every man in his town ought to get right with God or get out of the church. That sounded like honest-to-God religion to me. I went to hear Burke Culpepper again."

A SMASHING SUCCESS

An excellent affair was the senior play "Safety First" which was staged Friday night before a large crowd. The play went off with a snap and there were excellent entertainments between acts. The characters were well represented. Two young men, Jerry Arnold (Marion Olson) and Jack Montgomery, a young married man, (Rex Carrothers) got into an awful mix-up because they tried to prevent the marriage of Elmer Flannel, a young college man, Jack's cousin (Wesley Sanders) and Zuleika, a tender Turkish maiden (Vera Hyatt). While the boys were explaining, a policeman, Mr. McNutt (Paul McCarty) and Zuleika arrived. Jerry saved the day by saying that he and Jack were going to Florida to the Shriners' convention by steamboat. Then under this pretense they were jailed.

BREVITIES

Otho Stubblefield was much amused last week when so many people came up to him and asked, "How did you come out in the exams?" Otho you know, is a post grad who has taught two or three years.

The seniors had to do some tall explaining last week when people asked them "How's school coming on." The usual answer was, "I haven't been for a week."

It's nothing unusual now to see a senior strike a dignified position and say unconcernedly, "I finished my course last Thursday."

The caps and gowns are not as good as expected but the seniors have to wear them nevertheless.

Marion Olson has given some of the teachers nervous prostration over his commencement speech.

There were two new boys at the Gusher picnic Saturday—good-looking ones, too—curly-headed.

Bud's recent appeal for picnics seems to have brought results, at least in the Gusher staff. They have started but no one seems to follow.

Wade Cook wrote the answers to four of the Spanish questions on the final examination before he found out that they were II questions, instead of II'.

One day while practicing the senior play, Marie Winston instead of saying McNutt, called out, "Macbeth! Macbeth!"

I say Marion and Rex can make love.

What if the ladder had broken with Mary Ann (Marie Winston)?

Don't say Louise don't know how to paint, for she certainly looked natural. Experience?

While Rex was making love to Thelma in "Safety First" the feather on her hat found its way into his ear, he jumps. Under this arrangement the best talent in America can be given to the towns on the Premier circuit at about one-third the cost of independent bookings.

Then there is another angle, best appreciated by reading what Chas. F. Horner has to say in his booklet, a copy of which can be secured at the Chamber of Commerce: "You see a seven-day Chautauqua program, and then it is gone. Where did all these people come from, and where are they going? There lies the answer to what we call 'chautauqua spirit' of the long, long trail to give every audience their best; to get joy as well as to give it.

The Premier circuit started perhaps months before it reached you. It may be going on months after you see it. The 19th of May is the opening date this year. The first town is Carlsbad, New Mexico. Carlsbad is a garden in the middle of a big desert in southeast New Mexico. A land of wonderful artesian wells, delightful climate, stimulating air and sunshine. Several fine New Mexico towns, and then we go into West Texas, across the Empire state as far as Shreveport, Louisiana. Almost a month is spent in Texas, touching Arkansas at Texarkana, then splendid Oklahoma towns for a few more weeks. The Premier turns northward and we find our selves in Kansas, but only for a short time.

Westward ho! Across Kansas to Trinidad, Colorado, by easy stages and then New Mexico again as far west as Albuquerque.

Another turn and we find we are jumping the great divide over Tennessee Pass, nearly to the Utah line and back again to Pueblo, this time over Marshall Pass. A few weeks in Colorado and we are eastward bound through Nebraska and finally Kansas, winding up in Kansas City Missouri. Twelve thousand miles of travel, touching nine states is a trip not soon forgotten. Every day a new town, new faces, but always friendly smiles and warm hearts. Folk—chautauqua folk—are the same everywhere—the best in the world; the thinking people of America. To come in contact with so many people for months on end means real work, big nervous strain—but if they like you—that makes chautauqua spirit.

HOW CHAUTAUQUAS ARE MANAGED ON THE ROAD

"How can they give 14 entertainments for $2.50?" someone asked a reporter on the street this morning, referring to the price of season tickets for the Chautauqua which opens here May 30. The reporter checked it up to a Redpath-Horner representative, and this is the answer: "On the Premier circuit there are nine tents and nine crews operating every day. The musicians, lecturers, entertainers and players make a town each day. A tent stays at each place a week and then jumps to the seventh town ahead on the circuit. There are no open dates, no time lost in long
