House Makes Another Effort to Get Bonus Army Home

EXTENDS TIME LIMIT UPON

WASHINGTON, July 14. — The house today made another effort to induce the "bonus marchers" to return to their native states, passing a bill extending the time limit dur-ing which free government transportation will be available.

The original bill appropriated $100,000 for the veterans transportation and subsistence with an expiration date of July 15. The new resolution extends this limit by

BONUS ARMY IN MARATHON PARADE.

WASHINGTON, July 14.— Weary veterans who kept up a shuffling march about the capitol through night of frayed nerves and tense situations gave way today to comrades who promised to keep the bonus demonstration going until adjournment of congress.

Many of the men in the stumbling ragged line had been without sleep for 36 hours. Some of them fired by a determination to keep on their feet until they dropped stayed in the ranks. Coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches were passed around at intervals. Forbidden to sleep on the capitol lawn where the sprinklers were wetting the grass, the men who could keep marching no longer sought out near by places where they could sleep undisturbed.

Farmer Forced to Give Bandits Ride

LUFKIN, July 14. — Charley Deease, a Houston country resident living 30 miles west of here, today told officers that four men who said they robbed the Farmers and Merchants bank at Grapeland awoke him last night at midnight and forced him to drive them here.

Seven miles south of here he was forced from the car and the quartet drove southward. Delease said the men gave him two ten-dollar gold pieces and seven dollars in currency after forcing him at gun point to change clothes with one of the four.

Responding to numerous complaints occasioned by an unsavory odor to the city water city officials today announced that Helman Rosenthall, chemist of the Dallas laboratories, would be here tomorrow to take charge of remedial measures. Cause of the unpleasant ures. Causé smell was unknown but believed due to algae, a fungus-growth, in the water.

Mr. Rosenthall for many years had been retained by the city to provide for the purity of the city water. A few months ago his services were dispensed with and the services of the state department of heaith, which are free, were used The Dallas laboratories had been retained until that time at a cost $50 per month.

Rosenthall telephoned this mornng in response to a telegram, that he could not be here until tomorrow morning because of other engagements. He directed that the city have a quantity of the chemicals used in treating the condition on hand when he arrives and also directed that water from Lake Bernie be used until the treatment at Lake Cisco is completed.

Although the condition at the lake is expected to be cleared up within a few hours it will require some time to rid the city distribution system of the unpleasant water public declaration. ADJOURNMENT RELIEF.

Congress today was putting the final touches upon the huge relief bill, a substitute for the bill that President Hoover vetoed and a substitute that meets the objections upon which the president based his veto. The house and senate, each passed redrafts of the bill differing in certain points which a conference was named to reconcile. Passage of the measure this week is assured and approval by Hoover is

The bill is the last big task of congress and its passage an assurance that the congress will adjourn this week-end. Provisions of the bills in common include an increase of $1,-500,000,000 in the capitalization of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and a $322,000,000 public works program to be put under way when the secretary of the treasury certifies that the funds are available without interfering with the normal financing operations of the department.

Hoover's principal objection to the original bill concerned Speaker Garner's stubbornly included provision for relief loans to individuals. Hoover characterized this provision as "pork barrel" without precedent in American history and sent the bill back to congress with the injunction to substitute another incorporating recommendations he had previously made to the congress. The president has had his way but the issue between him and Garner will have reverberations throughout the weeks of the presidential campaign.

Congress for seven continuous months has been struggling with a gigantic task of legislating for a depression ridden country. Outside of its economic influences the depression was never more politically inopportune. Not only the nation but the entire world has been watching the acts of the American congress and the American administration as never before. Legislation of innumerable character has been proposed to deal with a situation that is not merely puzzling but in some phases desperate, a situation for which nobody seems to know the cause. Some of the legislation has been passed. Other has been turned back into campaign issues. Meanwhile the business world sitting upon the divide of uncertainty has watched the actions of the legislators and the administration with mingled emotions.

The adjournment of congress this week will prove a to judge of his fitness for office. The great piece of relief work within itself. It will at least pass from the distraught national picture one of those variable influences that have contributed so much during past year to the indefinite character of the period. Uncertainty of influential action from one source will at least have been taken away and certain known values will have been estab- in question. It is primarily concern-lished to guide the economic judgment.

Just what effect upon the national campaign the Garner ple resistance to Hoover's demands for elimination of the individual loan feature will have is a matter of conjecture. Since the bill has been reshaped to conform with Hoover's recommendations the prestige of the victor appears to favor the president. Possibility that the feature of the senate bill providing for loans of the character through the normal banking channels of the federal reserve system will be included in the compromise measure appears to meet at least partially any issue that the democrats may fashion out of the disagreement.

A SPLENDID PROGRAM.

The Cisco Lions club is to be congratulated upon its program for a business men's get-together tomorrow evening. Such conventions of citizens who have interests in common is a step toward consolidation of civic ideals upon a common ground, a necessary precedent to any constructive community action. Interchange of opinions in the congeniality of such a gathering tends to harmonize men, to distill an atmosphere of cooperation through mutual understanding, and Cisco in times that are admittedly trying, if not discouraging, can do with much of this.

As this paper has pointed out on previous occasions one of our most serious troubles, not only in Cisco, but elsewhere over the nation at large, is a lack of capable leadership. The leadership we need does exist potentially. There was never a crisis in history but what competent generalship arose to lead humanity in its efforts to cope with it. The same is true locally. Such leadership cannot be found, however, until we have searched our human resources—the major equation in any crisis.

A large prospect exists before this gathering of Cisco business men. If the possibilities of that meeting are projected into a permanent and consistent program we have good reason to look forward to fine results.

Speciacles has been besieged from all corners to say something about he peculiar odor that emanates from the water upon which Cisco has sen so long accustomed to pride itself. One irate reader telephoned me that if I didn't publicly demand that something be done about it I hould resign my position and admit I'm not competent to edit a newscaper that is devoted to the common good. Others have insinuated, and not very abstrusely either, that I am derelict in my duty. I am informed that the city water department is as concerned over the condition as anyone and is endeavoring to get rid of the smell. So far ts efforts have been unsuccessful. It has been unable to locate the cause of the stench and today wired postaste for Helman Rosenthal, of the Dallas laboratories to come out and diagnose the condition and provide a remedy. Mr Rosenthal is the hemist who was regularly employed by the city to look after the condiion of the city water until the presnt commission dispensed with his services as a matter of economy

Since his dismissal the state health lepartment has been testing the war. In view of the present situation he anticipated economy is proving o be anything but that. His service est the department $50 per month whereas the state health departme charges nothing for its services. The purpose in saving the expense was should. Most of us are prone to do look as if I myself am to blame for dollars a month to keep water pure and guard against epidemics of waterborne diseases is a mighty good in the position of the unfortunate would cost more than that. Don't get being who found himself located the idea that the state health department is inefficient. But it cannot fill the place of an organization that specializes in one particular thing. The Dallas Laboratories is an stablished institution primarily devoted to the purification of water supplies whereas the state health department is an administrative oregulation of healthful conditions

From what I can learn from authoritative sources and from experience ir other cities where similar conditions arose with respect to the water supply the present odorous state of the city's water is due to a transparent, fungus-like growth known as algae. Shreds of this growth resembling diaphanous spiderwebs in the sunlight may often be etected floating about in a clean glass of the water when the growths have reached an advanced stage. TEXAS RAILROADS PAY SUBSTANTIAL PART OF STATE'S TAX BURDEN

Taxes is one of the large fixed charges connected with the operation of Texas railroads. From the standpoint of the welfare of state, counties and communities, railroad taxes are of much importance. This annual obligation must be met from the earning capacity of the rail carriers.

In 1931 the railroads of Texas paid a total of $8,303,108.47 in federal, state, county, municipal and miscellaneous taxes. The distribution of this amount to the various tax funds is shown below:

	Amount Paid	Per Cent of Total Tax Paid
U. S. Government	$ 61,270.13	.74
State	1,954,435.47	23.54
County	1,146,669.97	13.81
Roads	1,699,764.15	20.47
Improvement Districts		2.12
Schools	1,437,152.74	17.31
Cities	1,792,994.61	21.59
Miscellaneous	35,214.59	.42
Total	$8,303,108.47	100.00

It can thus be seen that railroad taxes represent an important and indispensable factor in the economic life of our state. They help in a large measure to pay the expense of our state, county and municipal government, build and maintain highways, pay the cost of drainage and other improvements, and support our schools and educational institutions.

It is the desire of Texas railroads to extend this helpfulness to Texas counties and communities in carrying this heavy burden. However, their ability to meet these obligations as they become due depends upon their ability to earn sufficient revenue with which to pay this and other heavy expenses connected with their operation.

• RAILROADS HAVE ALWAYS SHOULDERED THEIR SHARE OF RESPONSIBILITIES TO THE NATION, THE STATE, AND THE CITIES AND COMMUNITIES THEY SERVE, AND WILL CONTINUE TO DO SO TO THE EXTENT OF THEIR ABILITY.

Canning 1931 was a banner year when we think of canning in the homes in Eastland county, but it will have nothing on 1932 with the start we have in the food preservation at present. With the canning in the homes, rural and town, the community canneries and all organizations working to preserve all food possible, the number of containers this year will far exceed that of last. Canning is the application of heat to food in air tight containers to preserve it as nearly as possible in | ferred to when buying cans for difa condition similar to that of the freshly cooked product. Successful canning depends upon applying a sufficiently high temperature for a period of time long enough to desroy the enzymes, yeasts, molds and bacteria. It is important that the products be canned as early as possible after gathering.

Fruits, tomatoes, pimientos and pickled beets may be canned by heating for a definite period of time in boiling water. This method s known as the water bath.

Non acid vegetables such as asparagus, string beans, snap peas, shelled fresh peas and beans, corn, greens Round table discussion of canning | okra, pumpkins, beets, squash, carperiod for heating. For this reason the pressure cooker or steam pressure method is recommended.

Centainers Whatever the canning method either tin cans or glass jars may be used. Cans heat through quickly and may be plunged into cold water immediately after processing. Rapid cooling checks the cooking, lessens the possibility of overcooking, and produces a more desirable product The large opening in the newer type of cans makes it easier to pack some products in tin than in glass jars. When tin cans are used, those with special enamel lining are recommended for canning certain products. Use the enamel cans only when recipe calls for them. The jars and cans should be selected in sizes to serve the family; for families of two, half pint jars or No. 1 cans: for families four or five, pint jars or No. 2 cans; for six to eight, quart jars or No. 3 cans. There are some exceptions to this rule. Corn and greens are recommended canned in No. 1 and No. 2 cans or in half pint and pint jars only. Tomatoes for a family of five should be in No. 3 cans or quart jars. Many people prefer string beans and snap eas in No. 3 cans or quart jars. Canning Corn

Use either plain tin cans or "Corn Enamel' cans for the corn. The letter "C" in the bottom of the can is not the mark of the corn enamal but the mark of the company who makes the cans. The difference in the enamel C and the Standard enamel, is the cramel C is a dull finish and the Standard enamel a bright finish. The standard enamel s some heavier than the C.

The following method should be used for canning corn: Shuck, silk, clean carefully. Cut the corn from the ccb with or without precooking. better not to precook or blanch. If precooked or blanched (only 3 to 5 minutes in boiling water). If not precooked, add half as much water as corn, water to be boiling, heat to

A word of explanation in connection with the criticisms that are being urged by my opponent will suffice to clarify his charges.

Mr. Dabney charges that both Civil and Criminal Dockets are badly congested and nothing being done in the Court. He is in error in this and everyone in Eastland, except Mr. Dabney, is familiar with the conditions. The dockets are so well in hand that new cases on either dockets are promptly tried when the parties are ready. That has been true for more than a year, and in order to keep busy and earn the salary paid by the State I have devoted much time to the trial of cases in East Texas where the court dockets are congested.

I am criticised for issuing writs of habeas corpus. Our Statutes provide that the writ of habeas corpus is the remedy to be used when any person is restrained in his liberty. It is an order issued by a court or judge or competent jurisdiction directed to anyone having a person in his custody or under his restraint, commanding him to produce such person at a time and place named in the writ, and show why he is held in custody or under restraint. Such a writ cannot be issued upon the application of the State of Texas, or any attorney representing the State; hence every application for writ of habeas corpus is made by the accused or someone for him, properly verified by affidavit. When such application is presented it is mandatory on the court to whom it is submitted to grant the same, and direct any such person to be brought before him for an investigation.

Section 12 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the State of Texas provides, "The writ of habeas corpus is a writ of right and shall not be suspended. The legislature shall enact laws to render the remedy speedy and Article 6 of the Code of Criminal Procedure of the State of Texas provides, "The writ of habeas corpus is a writ of right and shall not be sus-

If, in observing and carrying out the provisions of this law, the interest of the State is jeopardized, the Constitution and laws of the State shall be changed, but so long as this remains the law no court should be criticised for observing this constitutional and statutory provision.

The courts of our State are so constituted that they are separate and distinct from all other governmental departments, and the judges of your courts are charged with certain duties and responsibilities imposed by law; and when this duty is faithfully and efficiently performed it is unfair to undertake to impose additional duties and responsibilities upon them.

Mr. Dabney is not consistent in this charge as the records reveal that in the two cases of State of Texas vs. Frank Bida, pending in the 88th. District Court, he personally made application for and was granted writ of habeas corpus in each of the cases by Judge Been.

Mr. Dabney finds fault with the court in not disposing of more business during the past two months. He is unfair in this as in other charges. If he were willing to deal fairly with you this charge would not have been made, as it is a fact well known to Allen Dabney that during the period complained of the Judge of the 91st. District Court was engaged in the duties of his office outside of his own district, rendering valuable services to the State. No one living in Eastland was in a better position to know the truth than Allen Dabney. If he is willing to mis-lead the public in this respect, is he, in your opinion, a proper person to select for this high of-

If you believe from my long experience and training I am qualified and fitted for this position, I will appreciate your vote and influence.

Congressman at Large

Throckmorton County

TO THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS This announces my candidacy for the office of Congressman at Large, Place Number 3.

I am a farmer and have been all my life. I have served several years in the Texas Legislature. Among the laws introduced and passed by me I mention the following: The law placing the Highway Department under the control of the Legislature as to salaries and budget. The law providing for state payment of tuition for country boys and girls through high school. This law has and will hlep thousands get a high school education who otherwise would have gone farther than the eighth

IF ELECTED I SHALL ADVOCATE: The immediate payment of the soldier's bonus. This would be real relief measure as it would mildly inflate the currency and make money more plentiful and materially help the small business man. Regulation of the public utilities in order that the stock-holder may get a fair return on their investments and that the people may no be hijacked by unreasonable charges.

 Making it unlawful to sell grain or cotton unless actually owned.
 This would prevent the bear raids and drastic decline in prices. 4. Requiring all banks to protect their depositors by a fair system of This would not cost the sound banks any big sum and the people who deposit money want no other kind. This would mean fewer and better banks and the business would be better for the bankers. Runs and busted banks with all the resultant distress would be a thing of the tin cans, fruit jars, pockets and safety deposit boxes and go into banks. Confidence would be restored and business would rapidly become normal 5. Making it unlawful to collect more than eight per cent interest on any note or debt. The time has come when no farmer or business past. If this were done millions of money would come out of the ground, man can live and pay more. 6. As there are now many millions of men unemployed. I favor a shorter work day and a shorter week in order that more families may be

7. The immediate repeal of the two cent tax on checks and the 1 cent tax on gasoline recently levied by Congress. The tax on checks will cause thousands of people to withdraw their money from banks and some may have to close on this account.

8. The reduction of Federal salaries, including members of Congress, in proportion to the decline in the cost of living during the last three years. The common sense way to balance a budget is to cut expenses.

9. The door should be closed to European immigration and the key

10. I say to the farmers: Organized we eat, unorganized we hunger. Organize for protection, information and better prices.
11. The people have a right to know what the candidates for Con-VITH MISS BRYANT.

Miss Pearl Bryant was hostess on uesday afterneon to Circle H of the velvet-footed candidates for Congressman at Large who have done nothing in the past and promise nothing constructive for the future.
