MAYOR COCKRELL BOOSTS THE COLLEGE

EXPENDITURES OF U. S. GOVERNMENT FOR 1922 WILL SHOW REDUCTION OF MORE THAN BILLION AND HALF DOLLARS FROM THE PRECEDING YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Government expenditures for the fiscal year 1922 will show a reduction of more than $1,600,000,000 from the actual expenditures for the preceding fiscal year, 1921, congress was informed today by President Harding in transmitting the report of Director Dawes of the budget on economics and savings in government business.

Director Dawes presented in detail with accompanying tables and statements the comparative expenditures for the past and present fiscal years divided into items representing those which were charged to executive control and others such as public debt and similar accounts which were considered as apart from the subject of routine government expenditure. He also submitted exhaustive reports of the government's savings accomplished through inter-departmental transfers of surplus supplies and other economy methods put into effect by the budget bureau, itemizing thousands of transactions involving ships, shoes, sealing wax and all the many articles and commodities utilized by the government together with the amount of saving realized in each case.

The budget director further reported that the savings reserve against current appropriations of $112,000,000 set up by the departments and establishments in August, 1921, in response to executive request, had been increased, notwithstanding reappropriations by congress of more than $7,000,000 of this reserve to other purposes, to the approximate sum of $136,000,000. Only such part of these reductions as are real savings and not postponed expenditures were included in the general estimate of savings he added.

Kirvin is Quiet Following Rumors of Mob of Negroes

KIRVIN, May 8.—Kirvin was quiet today following rumors last night that armed bands of negroes were marching toward the town to avenge the burning of three negroes here Saturday who were accused of attacking and murdering 17-year-old Eula Awsley, a white girl. The city marshal said he expected no further trouble.

TWO THOUSAND ATTEND REVIVAL SUNDAY NIGHT

Even the big Bennett revival tent 80 x100, overflowed last night. It was estimated that 2000 people were present. Of these 1500 got seats. Many stood just outside the tent, besides all those who sat in their cars. One hundred voices were represented in the choir. Many others would have sung but the 100 chairs were taken. The singing was exceptionally good, according to the comments received.

TEXACO STARS DEFEAT ALBANY

PARKS, May 8.—The Texaco Stars of Parks Camp had an easy victory over Albany Sunday afternoon, winning a fast played game of ball by the score of 7 to 1. Albany never had a look-in except in the second and ninth innings, scoring one run in the second, after which they were sent back to their dug-out in one, two three order until the ninth inning when they managed to get two men on base, but Purvis then tightened up and had the next three batters doubling up like a jack-knife trying to hit the ball. He had so much smoke on the ball the batters couldn't see it except when the catcher was returning the ball to the pitcher.

FORT WORTH EXECUTIVE SAYS CITY GAINS MORE FROM LOCATION OF ANY SCHOOL THAN FROM ANY FACTORY

Citizens Are Advised to Jar Themselves Loose From Individualistic Ideas and to Get Together on What Will Do the Community the Most Good—"Power of Any City Is in Minds and Grit of Its Citizens, Their Visions, Their Ideals and Purposes," Says the Mayor.

Getting away from the individualistic idea and the acquisition of a community spirit was the advice given to the citizens of Cisco Sunday afternoon by Hon. E. R. Cockrell, mayor of Fort Worth, speaking to a small-sized audience at the First Methodist church.

"Any city that loses the opportunity to secure a college loses more than if it had lost the opportunity of obtaining a factory. A college is a factory—a character-creating factory. It is a factory in which people are taught to get common ideas. We are all too individualistic."

EVANGELIST GEO. L. SNIVELY ADDRESSES MORNING

The union church service at the Methodist church Sunday morning was largely attended. Evangelist L. Snively, who is conducting a campaign in Cisco for funds with which to finance the location in this Midland Christian College, delivered a scholarly sermon on "The Fundamentals of Christian Faith," discussing fatherhood of God, the divinity of Christ, the inspiration of the scriptures and the immortality of the soul.

APPEAL TO RUSSIA TO ACCEPT TERMS

GENOA, May 8.—Lloyd George of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy addressed today a strong appeal to Russian representatives at the conference, here urging them to accept the allied memorandum in its main points and promising Russia an international loan.

CISCO'S COLLEGE?

Whether or not Midland College is brought to Cisco depends up on the procedures of our citizens within the next very few days. The propaganda stage is past. Now is the hour of "the dotted line." In fulfillment of our covenant with the college our people MUST subscribe $50,000. We should have $60,000. Saturday night we had $5,500. It is not a theory but a condition confronting us. It was hoped that $60,000 would be subscribed at the mass meetings yesterday, but it was deemed advisable to make these services informative and inspirational rather than occasions for taking subscriptions. Had the money been subscribed yesterday, Evangelist Snively could have devoted this week to going elsewhere in quest of needed endowment funds.

UPHOLDING WILSON'S POLICY.

Among those that thought that the republican victory in this country in 1920 would mean abandonment of all Wilson's policies were the Russian bolsheviks, Lenin and Trotsky. Soon after the inauguration of the Harding administration, Lenin, in a communication to the president and congress of the United States, expressed the hope that American would not continue "to follow obdurately" the course taken by President Wilson, adding mendaciously that the latter, one of the best friends Russia ever had, attacked that country "without cause and without any declaration of war" and had shown "during his whole administration a growing hostility toward the Russian republic."

The world knew that the Wilson administration, instead of being hostile to the Russian republic, was the first to recognize it and to send it aid toward the solution of its problems. The world knew that Wilson, in fighting the Brest-Litovsk treaty, was fighting for the Russian people while Lenin and Trotsky were bent on selling them out for German gold. The world knew that when some of the entente allies were suspected of a plan to dismember Russia that it was Wilson who called a halt on anything in that direction.

So Secretary Hughes promptly impressed upon the Soviet government that it was in no position to talk to the United States on trade, declaring to the world that this country regarded soviet Russia as a gigantic economic vacuum and adding significantly that "no evidence exists that the unfortunate situation is likely to be alleviated so long as the present political economic system continues."

Despite this position set forth by Secretary Hughes and the emphasis of it again, by implication, in an invitation to the States to participate in the conference at Genoa, lest attendance along with the representatives of the soviet government suggest recognition of the same, President Harding, a few days before the conference, recognized the bolsheviks in the interest of trade. The situation is cleared again by Secretary Hughes, in an address bearing a petition for recognition of the soviet regime as other than a legal obstacle to trade with Russia by Americans, and obstacles as exist are due to Russia herself, he declared again that the Russian case must be set in order before the United States can recognize the same.

The Wilson administration, refraining from interfering in the affairs of Russia, refused to recognize the soviet regime as other than a legal obstacle to trade with Russia by Americans, and obstacles as exist are due to Russia herself, he declared again that the Russian case must be set in order before the United States can recognize the same.

Secretary Hughes in upholding Wilson's policy in regard to the soviet government, is showing soundness of view and fidelity to the American record in the past.

RUSSIA'S OPPORTUNITY.

About the time Secretary Hughes was making his statement touching the conditions of American recognition of the Russian government, the fire-eater, Trotsky, was swaggering before his red troops at Moscow and declaring Russia "will resist any attempt of the capitalist governments to enslave her." His soldiers applauded Trotsky because he signs their meal tickets. For supporting the red government with their blood they are getting the best food that Russia can afford and more of it than is doled to their compatriots who do not wear the Trotsky uniform. When Trotsky tells them capitalist governments are trying to enslave them they believe him because they are not permitted to receive information from any other source. If they were told of the trend of proposals at Genoa it is not believable that they would be so enthusiastic in support of Trotsky.

Neither the Hughes policy nor the program finding favor with responsible statesmen at Genoa contemplates enslavement of Russia. There is no hint of interference with the government of that country. There is no thought of demanding from the Russians guarantees of anything but honorable fulfillment of contracts that may be entered into.

Mr. Hughes, like Mr. Wilson before him, says the basis of recognition must be laid before Russia itself and the Genoa conference specify the form of an acceptable basis. There is in the Genoa program recognition of the impossibility of collecting all or a part of what Russia owes and this doubly warrants precautions for safeguarding new investments that must be made if the country is to be recognized economically. Not even restitution of private property stolen by the soviets is to be called for. There is nothing in the Genoa plan that could humiliate any sane element in Russia.

Necessarily acceptance would constitute a tacit admission of bankruptcy of the soviet system as it has been practiced. But this would be merely acknowledging the obvious. Probably it would be the best for Russia as well as the rest of the world to enslave that country, but it is not practical to do so. The opportunity that is Russia's now is as favorable as Lenin and his murder crew can hope for.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT IS LAW.

The anti-shaving ordinance enacted by the Sacramento council is an example of sumptuary legislation raised to the nth power. If the council has power to prohibit the use of the razor until after the "Days of '49" celebration it has power to make the ordinance permanent as far as moral effect goes—provided public sentiment in Sacramento supports it.

Of course the idea back of this act is well understood. It is the desire to have folks in hirsute adornment give some resemblance to the men who infested that locality when the rush for gold was on. In those days whiskers were in style. Besides, safety razors had not been invented. However, it seems that the Sacramento council is rather laggard in acting in case it really wants all men wearing whiskers. The celebration is this month and two or three weeks is not sufficient time in which to turn out something in the line which has brought fame to J. Ham Lewis.

No doubt there were sticklers for personal liberty and constitutional rights in Sacramento who said it couldn't be done, that one had a right to shave when, where and how pleased, but it was. And it is good law if the people of Sacramento will it. Perhaps one who disobeys may not be punished through process of law, but by ostracism and by weight of public opinion, the ordinance can be enforced fully as well as the average ordinance, sumptuary and illegal though it be. It is implied that the mass of people are supporters of the ordinance.

The instance shows that what public sentiment demands it can have. It may be absurd and may infringe on what are called individual rights, but if enough are thoroughly in favor of a proposition supposed inalienable and innate rights and privileges cut no figure. Those who disobey the will of the majority may be punished in a different way but as effectively and completely as though at the hands of sworn officers of the law. Public sentiment is law, even if not in constitutional form.

EGYPTIAN COTTON SHIPMENTS.

Some months ago quite a sharp dispute broke out between the United States shipping board and the Liverpool cotton conference concerning the contracts entered into by the Alexandria Produce association for the transport of cotton from Egypt to the United States. The shipping board declared that the contracts made by the produce association were calculated to give an unfair advantage to British shipping concerns. So sharp did the dispute become that the shipping board at one moment threatened to embark on a war of rates.

It declared that it would do so unless the American shippers were assured of an equal share in the cotton cargoes. It demanded that an equal number of bales should be accorded to the British and American vessels each season. To this the British replied with a counter proposal, which was that British and American vessels should be given equal and alternating periods in the docks. At first the American shippers were inclined to demur at the proposal, as they feared that under this arrangement the British would obtain a larger share of the carrying trade. As the British, however insisted, the offer was finally accepted.

The result has shown that the fears of the American shippers were unjustified. From the returns just issued at Cairo it is seen that American vessels in the past season obtained 70 per cent of the carrying trade and the British vessels only 30 per cent. Fears, however, are now expressed by American cotton interests in Egypt that this success may be jeopardized by the proposal to impose a duty on long-staple cotton. It is argued that the revenues from the duty would be insignificant, but that it might have the result of diverting to other markets the cotton now carried to the United States. The loss to American shipping, it is asserted, would far outweigh any gain resulting from the imposition of this duty.

Expenditures of U. S. Government for 1922 Will Show Reduction of More Than Billion And Half Dollars from the Preceding Year

THE ADMINISTRATION REBUKED.

Signs that the country is not much overjoyed with the Harding brand of "normalcy" have been piling up rather fast of late. First a republican congressman was elected in Maine with a greatly reduced plurality. Followed a congressional election in New York state in a district that went republican by 30,000 in 1920. The republican candidate was elected with a majority of less than 3,000 over his democratic opponent. But this was nothing, said the republican wisecracks. Both of these congressmen were elected at special elections, at which the vote is always light, and therefore there was nothing significant in the fact that they pulled through by the skin of their teeth in districts that are normally overwhelmingly republican.

But here now comes Indiana with a "clinch." Republicans at a primary to nominate a republican candidate for United States senator, select Albert J. Beveridge, bull mooser of the bull moosers, and defeat Senator New, pet of Harding and an avowed "regular organization man." Bitter pill for the administration, but it is nothing compared to what it will have to swallow when it contemplates the democratic side in the house at Washington after January 1 next.

Every Indiana republican who voted for Beveridge knew that his vote was a vote against the administration at Washington. Harding has plausibly announced a "hands off" policy in the congressional primaries and elections, but no effort was made to hide the fact that Harding was for New, one of his closest political cronies, and even republican organs announced before the ballots were cast that a vote for Beveridge would be an interparty slap at the Washington regime.

Noseprints of Cattle May Supplant Painful Old Branding System

CHICAGO, May 8.—"Noseprints" of cattle as a means of identification soon will supplant the painful and troublesome old branding system, says Al Dunlap, chairman of the International Association of Identification, just returned from a western tour. The cowboys laughed at the idea but it is working out effectively in Minnesota where more than 2,000 nose prints already are on file with the state. Mr. Dunlap says the impression of cows' noses differ as widely as those of the human fingers.

termine what the real savings of the government had been during the current fiscal year. "The bureau of the budget is an impersonal, and non partisan business agent," said Mr. Dawes. "In this particular report where its estimates may become a basis of contention in an approaching political contest, its figures should be conservative and meet the test of examination, not only in the present but in the future when existing partisan differences are forgotten and the record for impartiality and non-partisanship of the budget bureau is considered in retrospect by the unprejudiced mind of the government economist and student.

"It will be noted that the director of the budget, out of total estimated expenditures of $3,922,372,030 for 1922, classifies only $1,765,875,672 as being generally subject to executive control in the operation of the routine business of government. These figures compare with actual expenditures under the same categories in 1921 of $2,673,435,079, segregated out of a total annual expenditure for 1921 of $5,538,040,689. The reduction in the ordinary expenditures for the operation of the routine business of government generally subject to executive control in 1922 as compared with 1921 will be, therefore, in the neighborhood of $907,500,000.

"As against this enormous total reduction the estimate of economies and savings incident to the new imposition of executive control over governmental expenditures in 1922 is estimated by the director of the budget in this report at the lesser sum of $250,134,835. He feels reasonably assured that this estimate of economies and savings attributable to the new system is an underestimate, but that if effort has been made in this regard the savings and economies are still so large as to vindicate it, and will at the same time emphasize the indispensable policy of the budget bureau to have its estimates conformable to the principles of business conservatism.

"In these figures the director of the budget has found it impossible to make any reliable estimate of some indefinite general savings, such as these incident to the correct system of purchasing which has been established in the government, by which competition between departments and the overlapping and acquiring of unnecessary surplus has been avoided. On the basis of the original estimates made by the different departments and establishments there have been eliminated, after due consideration of the facts involved in the neighborhood of $150,000,000 claimed economies."

Director Dawes tabulated the estimated $250,000,000 estimated economies and savings in governmental business for the fiscal year 1922 as follows:

Transfers of property—the war department, $11,597,594; navy department, $3,629,687; shipping board, $275,854; ship transfers, $11,151,461; marine corps, $65,494; public road bureau, $489,375.

Other economies, coordinators reports, $1,209,466; state department, $228,931; treasury, $2,526,448; war, $41,022,001; navy, $41,791,740; interior, $2,162,955; agriculture, $35,160; labor, $481,227; justice, $250,000; postoffice, $13,040,014; library of congress, $542,000; office of superintendent, buildings and grounds, library of congress, $2,020; government printing office, $1,478,000; civil service commission, $7,500; executive office, $21,953; office of superintendent, state, war and navy department building, $151,805; Interstate commerce commission, $88,265; veterans bureau, $18,797,700; national advisory committee for aeronautics, $40,930; shipping board $96,407,509; railroad administration, $56,584; Panama canal, $1,858,372; employees compensation commission, $2,897, and Columbia Institution for the Deaf, $6,000.

Mr. Dawes paid his respects to the present "archaic system of governmental accounting," declaring that the public can never be fully informed as to the business operation of the government until it is reformed. He criticised particularly "the present system of governmental accounting, which calls the loan of money to the railroads an 'expense,' and the return of money loaned a 'receipt.' Such operations, he said, almost upset the estimated figures for this year to the extent of about $393,000,000.

"An accounting situation like this," he asserted, "might be regarded as humorous in a small business. It is something short of a calamity in governmental accounting."

The budget director explained in detail the relaxation of deficiency and supplemental appropriations to the budget estimates and said that the total deficiency estimates submitted by the budget bureau, amounting to $507,764,452, contain a number of resubmissions—items which have been submitted in one estimate and not provided for by appropriation, were again submitted in a later estimate.

These resubmissions amounted to $75,958,001, which reduced the net amount of the estimates submitted by the bureau to $431,806,451, he asserted.

The appropriations made by congress during the period covered by the report—from July 20, 1921, to March 20, 1922, are shown to total $374,691,040, of which, $6,842,431 is payable from the postal revenues, and consequently does not represent withdrawal of money from the treasury.

"This reduces the total expenditures from the treasury authorized by congress in deficiency appropriations during the period to $367,848,609," said Mr. Dawes. "The expenditures so authorized by congress do not, however, request a corresponding increase in the expenditures as estimated by the bureau of the budget in the December budget, since of the amount so authorized $264,633,769 was included by the bureau of the budget in the estimate of expenditures for the fiscal year 1922, as shown in the December budget.

"This leaves a total of authorized expenditures from the treasury in excess of those estimated in the budget of $103,214,812. Of this amount $60,000,000 of the $80,000,000 provided in the highway act of November 9, 1921, is expected to remain unexpended at the beginning of the next fiscal year, according to statements made by the department of agriculture, and deducting this from the $103,214,812 leaves the sum of $43,214,812, which represents the possible amount by which supplements and deficiency appropriations granted by congress during this period may increase the expenditures from the general fund in the treasury during the fiscal year 1922 over the budget estimate of $3,967,322,366, an amount more than offset by reductions in expenditures under other appropriations."

THE WEEKLY GUSHER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF CISCO HIGH SCHOOL

VOL. III.

CISCO, TEXAS, MONDAY, MAY 8, 1922.

NUMBER 31.

LUNCH ROOM HAS NEW MANAGEMENT

The Juniors took over the lunch room Tuesday noon. The seniors voted for turning it over to the junior class after they had successfully conducted it this year.

The juniors showed great enthusiasm when they voted to take the lunch room over. The whole class is full of pep and is going to try to make it a thorough success by giving the students and teachers the best service to be had.

At the class meeting Tuesday the purchasing agent was announced and committees appointed to arrange the schedule of duty.

Gilbert Glasscock is reported as getting along excellently. It is hoped that he will soon be with us again.

THE TENNIS CLUB AGAIN

There has been considerable interest shown in tennis the last year, but mostly in the individual courts. There should be more interest shown in the school tennis and the tennis club. The tennis club should be re-organized, for the school is being deprived of one of its chief games if it does not have tennis.

BREVITIES

Pearl Barker was absent from school Tuesday because of sickness. Mildred Roberts was absent from school Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

ECHOES FROM BASEBALL GAMES

The feature of the Breckenridge game was Barto Erwin's steal of the home plate in the last of the ninth inning. Harry Hampton made a good coach while Claud Turner played. Harry also helped W. Moore take care of the gate receipts.

Before the grandstand at Graham knew who Claud Turner was they said he was the best high school pitcher they ever had seen.

The Cisco high school team had to sleep on the chairs in the Miller hotel at Breckenridge on account of lack of funds.

GOOD GAME AT PARKS. PARKS, May 8.—In a game that ran into extra innings Friday afternoon at Parks Camp, the Engineers trimmed the Accountants with a score of 10 to 9. Parker for the Accountants pitched masterful ball and received airtight support until the last half of the seventh when the support blew up and the Engineers tied the count by a five run rally. Bobby Landrum hurled a very good game for the Engineers. The winning run by Mike Kelly of the Engineers ended a perfectly good ball game.

RETIRED ARMY MAN VISITING CISCO KINFOLK

Richard E. Short, master sergeant, retired, is visiting relatives in Cisco and at Dothan. Mr. Short is related to almost all the Shorts in the vicinity of Cisco and in Callahan county, and is also a relative of the Kiles and Dunaway families near Cisco.

Sergeant Short once lived a few miles out of this city on the old Short estate, near the Central school house. Years ago he resided in Callahan county, near Putnam, and not far from Dothan. A number of his kindred still live in those vicinities.

This retired soldier had 30 years and some days of service in the army to his credit, which enabled him to retire on the highest pay any soldier can retire upon in the grade of a non-commissioned officer, and from the finance department (the accounting branch) of the army.

Mr. Short has lectured some this winter and spring since his retirement in December, and is able to talk very well upon most any subject that has in the past several years connected up with so wide an experience in so many queer and strange places. He also speaks more or less fluently the various dialects and tongues of the strange folk and peoples with whom he has come in touch while soldiering for his country.

This retired soldier has served with the following organizations: First 10th infantry (regulars), 44th U. S. Volunteers, 4th infantry (regulars), 7th infantry (regulars), 19th infantry (regulars), National army while in the world war, also two different times with the general recruiting service (infantry) and spent exactly eight years and two months and seven days in the Philippines and other foreign lands, for which double time was allowed on retirement time.

Mr. Short intends to go to California some time this summer after he has visited all his people in Texas and make that state his future home.

QUIET CHELSEA TO BE STIRRED BY BALL GAMES

LONDON, May 8.—(By the Associated Press).—Sundays during the coming summer are likely to be days of torment for the residents of Quiet Chelsea, which is London's counterpart to New York's Greenwich village—the abode of the artistic and retiring.

Such cries as "atta boy" and similar ejaculations of baseball parlance will probably break the sabbath stillness in the precincts of the Stamford Bridge football grounds, which the organizers of a base ball league have contracted for use on 12 Sundays beginning May 21.

Teams are being formed among London Americans, London Canadians, students of Oxford and Cambridge and other English lovers of the game. These organizing activities have brought to light the existence of at least two English baseball clubs which have been playing several years. One of these is the Chipping Norton Club, a very enterprising organization.

This club not only could give many American amateur teams a hard nine innings but it holds the distinction of being the only organization of its kind to distribute to fans printed diagrams of the diamond and a glossary of baseball slang. The glossary defines "a smoke" as a fast ball that sets fire to the air and defines "skull practice" as a conference of the captain and his team before play begins.

The organizers are planning an elaborate celebration on the fourth of July when it is hoped a team may be brought from Paris.

Friends will be glad to know that Mrs. Albert Gracey, who has been quite sick, is much improved.
