

TEXAS RELIEF AIDS TEACHERS OF THE STATE

AUSTIN, July 25 — Checks for paying approximately 8,000 rural school teachers of Texas under the federal aid program which enabled nearly 1,500 schools this year to complete normal terms are being prepared and will be in the mails shortly, State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson has announced.

Unwilling to see rural school close two or three months short of a normal term at the penalty of the rural youth of Texas, the FERA early last spring agreed to pay a portion of teachers' salaries in towns and communities under 5,000 population which were unable to complete a full term on their own finances.

More than 1,500 school districts applied, and 1,493 projects were approved, enabling thousands of Texas school children to complete a normal term, F. A. Royle, engineer in charge, revealed. Exact number of children benefited is to be compiled later. In most cases schools were enabled to remain open an average of 30 months longer than could have been possible.

A total of 8,764 persons, chiefly teachers but including others connected with schools such as bus drivers will receive the checks being prepared by the relief commission. The total aid will be approximately $1,000,000.

Johnson announced that no more applications from schools can be received as all funds are allotted. Checks will be sent to superintendents in the various school districts for distribution.

Buffalo Gap Chosen For Maverick Camp

EASTLAND, July 25 — Buffalo Gap has been selected as the encampment site for the Eastland Mavericks, C. A. Hertig, school business manager, announced Wednesday, following his return from the camp.

Definite date has not been set for the encampment but it will be held the latter part of August, the school business manager indicated.

Hertig, with Rev. Charles W. Estes, inspected the site Tuesday and was accompanied by Rev. E. T. Surface of Abilene.

The first encampment of any Eastland football team, as far as could be recalled by school officials, was made possible by the Eastland Athletic association, the Chamber of Commerce, and football fans.

First assurance that the gridsters would have an encampment was seen Saturday when receipts of a benefit minstrel showed over $150 netted.

Thirty boys will go on the encampment with their coach, Johnny Kitchens, and stay from one week to 10 days.

Federal Aid For Schools Approved

BRECKENRIDGE, July 25 — The following applications for federal aid in rural schools have been approved for this county, according to a letter received by County Superintendent J. B. Dwiggin:

Necessity, $120; Oak Grove, $360; Crystal Falls, $210; Oakley, $330; Frankell, $375; Baker, $180; Wayland, $150; Copeland, $45.

These applications for rural teachers will make it possible for the above schools to have a complete normal term.

WOMEN BEST DRIVERS

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — California's state motor vehicle department has found that women are the most careful drivers. Only 15 per cent of accidents were attributed to women drivers, who constitute 28 per cent of the state's licensed operators.

GERMANY IS WORLD LEADER IN CHEMISTRY

WASHINGTON, July 25 — Germany has forced far ahead of the rest of the world in the number of Nobel prize winners in chemistry. Prof. Harrison Hale of the University of Arkansas said in an analysis published by the Division of History of Chemistry, American Chemical Society.

Twenty-nine prizes have been awarded to 32 chemists in eight countries since 1901, when the first awards were made under the will of Alfred Bernhard Nobel, "lover of peace and inventor of dynamite," Prof. Hale revealed.

Germany has been awarded 13 prizes. England is second with 4 1-2, and the United States and France, with three each, are tied for third. Sweden is next with 2 1-2, while Switzerland, Holland and Austria have one each.

Age Brought to Forefront

"The charge has been made," Prof. Hale observed, "that Nobel prizes have been in many cases tombstones, when they should be stepping stones — not so much as honor to those whose work is about complete, as incentive to those whose work is only well begun. However slight the basis of this charge, it at once focuses attention upon the age of the recipient."

"The average age of chemists at the time of the award was 51.4 years, as compared to 46.6 years for winners in physics; 54.4 years for winners in physiology and medicine; 59.8 years for winners of the peace prize; and 61.2 years for the winners of the literature prize. The chemists are therefore next to the lowest group in average age."

Five Countries Held Monopoly Omitting England, Prof. Hale pointed out, Germany has won more than all other nations combined. Since the World War, awards have gone to only five countries, Germany, England, United States, Sweden and Austria.

American chemists have received the last two awards, following a lapse of 17 years after Theodore William Richards of Harvard was named first American Nobel prize winner of chemistry.

The prize has been presented three times to two chemists. No award was made in 1916, 1917, 1919, 1924 and 1933.

MAJOR TELLS DAILY NEWS OF NEW FUNNIES

"Yes, sir, m'lud, it will be a pleasure, positively a pleasure, to be with you every week. And since you insist, I'll be more than happy to tell you some of my more interesting experiences. I've had a varied life and a full one, egad."

The speaker was Major Hoople, well known character of the comic strips and rival of Baron Munchausen for the title of—well, make it just improbable stories of his own life.

"Not at all, not at all," the Major continued, as his interviewer produced paper and pencil and prepared to take a few notes. "In fact, I rather like to have you reporter fellows take notes as I talk. It insures strict regard for the truth, and makes certain that my exact words—not yours—will appear in print."

"Egad, son, I used to be the best reporter on the London Times—never did take notes myself, but you cubs—pardon me—you younger and less experienced fellows ought to make a practice of it. Nothing like having the facts."

Shot Last Tiger

"Yes, I'll appear in your paper every Sunday, beginning this week. Of course you are arranging to let your readers know in advance that I'll be there with my best stories. I've had some hair-raising experiences in the Boer war—you know, of course, that that was where I was promoted to the rank of major?—and as a squire in Yorkshire—and hunting tigers in Africa."

"What's that you say? No tigers in Africa? I know that. You don't take me for an ignoramus, do you? I myself shot the last tiger on the whole African continent. Egad, he was a big fellow as he stood glaring at me, ready to spring. I took a careful bead on him, squarely between the eyes—it was my last shot, and my two gunbearers were depending on me to save their lives—and pulled the trigger."

"But, Major," his questioner said. "Don't you think you ought to save your stories for the comic strips? Tell the readers about them."

"Ah, my lad, you have hit a tender spot with me. Your paper will have the very finest set of characters offered in any one sheet."

The Line-Up

"You know, of course, that I will be there, along with Martha and 'Our Boarding House.' A fine set of fellows, undoubtedly, but lacking proper respect for their superiors. 'The Nut Brothers, Ches and Wal,' will appear on the same page with us, and lucky they are, too."

"Freckles, a fine type of American youth, and his friends, will be featured on another page. They will have 'This Curious World' as an added feature with them."

"The finest family in print will be on another page—you know them, Father and Mother Willet, Lil, and Willis—but they will be in colors now, and that will add a lot to their personalities. Otto Honk will finish the page."

Boots Is Coming

"I am a mild mannered man, but sometimes I almost rebel at the high-pressure methods used by Salesman Sam Howdy. But he shares a page with a fine lass you will want to get acquainted with, Flapper Fanny."

"You knew that these were coming, but did you know that there will be a special added attraction each week. Boots and Her Buddies are coming. The boys are all wild about her. Egad, if I weren't the man of dignity that I am, I might engage in a little flirtation myself."

"Yes, Martha, I'm coming. Drat it, why can't that woman let me alone just when I'm giving the newspaper a little interview?"

GENE AHERN BEGAN SKETCHING IN A MARKET; "OUR BOARDING HOUSE" MADE HIM FAMOUS Artist Almost Forgot Major Hoople, Egad!

Say "Egad" in almost any American gathering—and you'll be called a Major Hoople. That's how famous the leading character in Gene Ahern's comic strip "Our Boarding House" is.

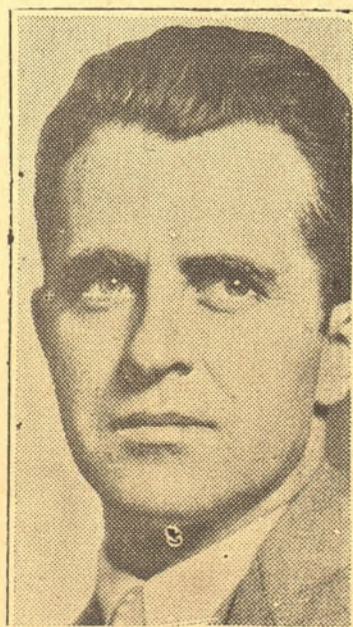

There's a story back of the magnificent Major—and it started back in 1912, when Mr. Ahern was working in a Cleveland, O., meat market.

Mr. Ahern—or Gene, as everybody calls him—was a good enough worker, but he preferred cartoons to meat cutting. There was plenty of brown wrapping paper to practice on.

It was just an accident, of course, that Gene should have wrapped up six pork chops in paper that had some of his sketches on it—and it was just an accident that the man who bought the pork chops and noticed the drawings, should have been able to recognize Gene's talent and also to offer him a job.

Accident? Some people would call it the Luck of the Irish.

Started as Fashion Artist Gene's first job as artist was in a fashion art department, where he certainly did not set the world on fire. But he was getting a lot of practice, which counts. In 1914, Gene became a cartoonist with the NEA service in Cleveland. He produced four different comics before he struck pay dirt with "Our Boarding House."

This was a new departure in the "funnies." A lot of people live—or have lived—in boarding houses, and Gene's slangy young men and the hardboiled, hardworking Mrs. Hoople made an immediate hit with readers.

"Our Boarding House" without Major Hoople seems like Hamlet without Hamlet—yet Mrs. Hoople's husband was an afterthought. He didn't exist when the comic first appeared.

Enter Major Hoople

At first a harmless and unimportant member of the Hoople household, the Major grew—in size, conceit, laziness and unbounded imagination—until he dominated "Our Boarding House" and became its most important member. Without a stroke of honest work to his credit, he is today the chief support of this comic.

Judged by conventional standards, Major Hoople is an indolent charlatan—yet there is about him a Falstaffian magnificence and a genius for fantasy that has made him one of the most popular and beloved characters in the comic pages.

Meet The— WILLETS OUT OUR WAY!

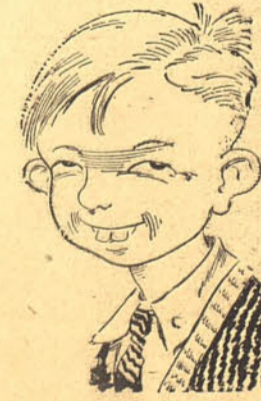

Here's Papa Willet himself—head of a famous family. Things often get pretty lively in his home, but Dad doesn't seem to care—usually.

This is a rare picture of Mrs. Willet—she's smiling! Her two youngsters may have hearts of gold, but how they worry the lady above!

So this is Lil! You know her kind: complaining, scrapping with her big brother and hating to do dishes.

All right, Willis, all right! We could tell a lots of things about you, but we know you are a good guy at heart.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OPPOSED TO FREE TEXT BOOK AMENDMENT

Assuming the stand of the Texas State Teachers association, C. S. Eldridge, county school superintendent, has expressed opposition to the proposed free text-book amendment to be voted on in the August 24 election.

The proposed amendment will read as follows on the ballots: "For or against the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas permitting the furnishing of free text-books to each child of scholastic age attending any school in this state."

County Superintendent Eldridge believes that:

1. It would compel the state to spend tax money for text-books to be used in schools over which the state has no control, either as to the subjects taught, standards of instruction, or as to the qualifications of teachers employed. The resolution reads "any" school.
2. If this amendment should carry, the funds used to purchase text-books for private and parochial schools would be taken out of

STERILIZATION MOLDS BITTER GERMAN ISSUE

By PAUL KECKEMETI

BERLIN, July 25. — Under-ground opposition against the sterilization law in Germany continues to be widespread.

Voluntary applications for sterilization are few. On the other hand, patients almost invariably resist compulsory sterilization.

Reasons for resistance are manifold. Roman Catholics resist sterilization on religious grounds. Others object to the violation of their personal rights. But even those who have no objection on principle are often afraid of the operation itself, or, at least, they resent the financial loss involved by it.

It is true that the state pays all expenses of the proceedings and of the operation. However, the patients get no compensation for lost wages.

Doctors Use Persuasion
In many cases, doctors are able to overcome the patients' resistance by persuasion. They reassure them as to the comparative harmlessness of the operation, and point out the advantages of the operation to the community and the patients themselves.

Certain categories of patients then reconcile themselves to the idea of sterilization. Many even express an intense feeling of relief—for instance, young feeble-minded girls who welcome freedom from the danger of pregnancy. Women who already have had several children, including such affected by hereditary ailments, usually do not object at all.

There are even cases on record where completely healthy women managed to obtain sterilization under false pretences.

Regarded As Disgrace
Often, however, attempts at persuasion are fruitless. Especially in higher social groups, sterilization proceedings are considered as a disgrace upon the whole family. Doctors who co-operate in sterilization proceedings in good faith, having nothing but the law and the "common interest" in mind, often are amazed by the amount of suffering and bitterness created.

An expert describes how, when trying to allay the objections of relatives of a patient threatened by sterilization, he received the reply: "You ought to go through all the sufferings we have had to endure since you started your procedure."

"Another doctor admitted that, upon personal contact with a sterilization candidate and her family, he was induced to change his opinion, which was firmly in favor of sterilization after he had read the written evidence before the eugenic court.

Theory Frequently Upset
The personal element is one which frequently upsets the calculations of doctors, based upon pure theory.

Many patients of high moral and intellectual standing become desperate when a sterilization verdict marks them as "useless" for society. Often the most difficult part of treatment is to relieve melancholia after the operation.

The sterilization operation itself does not involve any grave organic after-effects and does not interfere with sexual impulses, but its psychic consequences are not negligible.

In middle-class families, fear of a member of the family being sterilized is so intense that such families recently have ceased to send backward children to special schools. They prefer to send their children to normal private institutions where they may escape the attention of the authorities.

Families Admittedly Suffer
German doctors and eugenicists, who favor the law, admit that its application often involves suffering for entire families. They declare,
