SUPERVISION OF INTERSTATE SALES SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Roosevelt placed before congress today a program for the control of new issues of stocks and bonds as a safeguard for the investing public.

In a special message the president recommended federal supervision of interstate traffic in securities.

"In spite of the many state statutes the public in the past has sustained severe losses through practices neither ethical nor honest on the part of many persons and corporations selling securities," he declared.

The president said that the present program is "but one step in our broad purpose of protecting investors and depositors."

"What we seek," he said in his 300 word message, "is a return to a clearer understanding of the ancient truth that those who manage banks, corporations and other agencies handling or using other people's money are trustees acting for others."

It was the seventh message Mr. Roosevelt has sent to the special session of congress since it convened three weeks ago. Already three major pieces of legislation have been enacted into law—the emergency banking act, the economy act, and the Volstead act modification.

Farm relief and unemployment bills are pending in congress with prospects of early enactment.

YOUTH IS PUT ON TRIAL IN AIR MURDER

BROWNVILLE, March 29.—The state today brought to trial 17-year-old Earl Dodson, accused by indictment of murder in connection with the death of a flying instructor a 1,000 feet in the air.

Dodson, held in jail here since the death of Lehman Nelson, flying instructor of Harlingen, Texas, last February 23, entered the court room accompanied by guards.

He waved a friendly hand to those who had known him at San Benito where he and Erin McCall, his chum were constant companions. McCall was a pupil flying with Nelson at the time the latter was shot. After he landed the plane McCall stepped from the cockpit, looked at the prostrate form of the pilot and then shot himself to death.

Calls Undertaker Then Kills Self

BEAUMONT, March 29.—After telephoning for an undertaker John Ward, Jr., 45, member of a prominent family here, today laid down in his garage and shot himself through the heart.

CHAMBER WILL CONSIDER NEW ROAD TO LAKE

The need of a road connecting Highway 23 and the scenic road along the shores of Lake Cisco was brought before the chamber of commerce at its meeting last night.

Possibilities of constructing such a road, to leave the highway somewhere near the former Green Lantern tea room, were discussed, and a committee headed by W. W. Wallace was appointed to confer with the R. F. C. committee in regard to securing funds for the labor needed. Other members are S. H. Nance and E. P. Crawford.

CONFERENCE OF OIL LEADERS OKEHS PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 29.—State representatives and oil industry leaders meeting with Sec'y of Interior Ickes virtually gave final approval today to a drastic proposal for federal aid to stabilize the industry.

Sec'y Ickes believed the program's most important suggestion provided for appointment of a special government representative with broad powers to curtail oil production and prohibit interstate shipment of "bootleg or illicit" oil.

Wounds Girl and Commits Suicide

PALESTINE, March 29.—A coroner's verdict was expected this afternoon in the case of a 45-year-old church caretaker who shot and wounded a 15-year-old girl, then committed suicide.

As Elsie Misseldine stepped from a dance hall last night Matt Mahasey shot her in the abdomen. Interrupting the girl's scream, Mahasey offered an apology, "Pardon me, I didn't mean to shoot you. I intended to shoot the girl standing in the door." He then sent a bullet into his brain.

In Mahasey's pocket was found a letter saying "I hated to do this last act, but because of lies circulated on me and a girl I had to do it."

TWO TRUSTEE ELECTIONS TO BE HELD SAT.

Two school trustee elections are to be held in Cisco Saturday when vacancies on both the board of the Cisco Independent School district and the county school board are to be filled.

Two trustees are to be elected to the local board. In the case of the county board a trustee-at-large are to be voted upon here. Precinct No. 1 is the only other county precinct to elect a trustee to the county board this year.

R. L. Ponsler and W. W. Wallace are the members of the Cisco board whose terms expire. They are candidates for re-election. So far no other candidates have filed for the places.

R. L. Poe is the only candidate for precinct 4 placed on the ballot for the county school board election. Three names are offered for county trustee-at-large however. They are J. T. Poe, of Carbon; W. T. Roach, of Rising Star, and W. N. Compton, of Nimrod Ballois for this election have been printed and those to be used here sent to W. F. Walker, business secretary of the Cisco schools for inclusion in the local election, County Judge Clyde Garrett, said today.

R. W. Mancill will be judge of the election. C. W. Hartman and P. J. Connally will be assistant judges. The election will be held at the city hall.

Municipal Support Is Only Fair Way Citizens Say of Chamber of Commerce

"In my opinion," said W. F. Walker, business secretary of the Cisco Independent School district, the chamber of commerce is a most valuable asset to the city. Few people really appreciate its true worth.

"A municipally supported chamber of commerce is the only fair and equitable organization from the standpoint of the distribution of its cost of maintenance, for by taxation it is practicable to assess each person in the proportion that he or she receives benefit from the operations of the chamber.

"Likewise the zoo and band, which add so much to the attractiveness of Cisco, are well worth their cost of upkeep.

"I, therefore, shall heartily support the three amendments to be voted on April 4."

FORMER COMMISSIONER FAVORS AMENDMENTS.

"I am in favor of the proposed amendments to the city charter which have to do with the continued existence of the chamber of commerce, the band and the zoo as municipal institutions," said George D. Fee, a former city commissioner. "As long as these institutions are economically operated they are the best maintained by municipal appropriations and I am in favor of continuing them so just as long as the city can reasonably support them.

"I realize that a chamber of commerce is a necessity to any city which is trying to improve itself, while the band and the zoo add to our civic life things which make it distinctive and enhance the value of Cisco as a city of homes.

"I favor keeping these institutions as municipal agencies and shall support the three proposed amendments to the city charter April 4."

LET'S DON'T BURY OURSELVES, SAYS MCAFEE.

"If we are going to bury ourselves let's go out to Oakwood cemetery and have the process over with at once," said J. C. McAfee, Cisco advertising man and proprietor of the Oil Belt Advertising company. "I am certainly in favor of the chamber of commerce, the band and the zoo as they are now being operated under municipal appropriations.

"That is the only sensible way in which to maintain institutions that exist for the good of everybody and

TEXAS FIRMS PROTECTED IN WITHDRAWALS

AUSTIN, March 29.—The Texas legislature today passed a moratorium on insurance withdrawals.

Shortly after the house gave the measure a 113 to 21 vote the senate adopted it by a 21 to 10 vote. Both votes contained the necessary two-thirds to put the measure into effect as soon as signed by the governor.

Under it Texas insurance companies will be protected from withdrawals of the cash surrender value or loan value of life insurance policies until December 31, 1933. During that time the companies will be forbidden to declare dividends or pay any officer more than $1,000 a month.

Agreement on the bill ended a deadlock since the middle of last week. "Don't give the big fellow a moratorium unless the senate will give the little fellows one," had been the cry in the house.

Home foreclosure moratorium today were promised favorable senate action on those measures.

MISS BOUNDS SPEAKER FOR CISCO LIONS

Saying that what has been called the home economic department of high schools, has been given the more appropriate title of "Home Makers Department" and that this department of the Cisco high school was striving to live up to that name in every sense of the word, Miss Juanita Bounds, teacher entertained the Lions club today with an interesting talk along the line of her vocational work.

Miss Bounds said that 90 per cent of all girls marry and become homemakers and therefore emphasized the importance of training for their careers. She stressed the various phases of home making. It is not enough, she said, that one becomes a good cook, one must know how to provide balanced menus that provide health as well as prevent diseases. A woman must know how to buy as well as cook. She must know how to buy and make clothing as well as have culinary skill. A woman must be able to organize her home work so as to still have time for social recreation.

These courses should also extend to boys training in kindred ways, continued Miss Bounds. Men are the hosts in their homes and should know how to dress becomingly, and how to pick the accessories that match clothing. A well dressed man or woman is not necessarily an expensively dressed person, she pointed out. Dressing is an art just like other departments of home making and both boys and girls should be taught in such ways that the "Art of Living happily and comfortably" may be known, she told the club.

Miss Bounds told her story simply and clearly and the club voiced its approval by unusual applause. Lion Brandon, who was program chairman, spoke the club's appreciation and invited Miss Bounds to return at her convenience.

H. L. Dyer and W. J. Leach, chairmen of the major activities and public relations committee respectively, made reports of their activities during the past week.

Lady Lion Mrs. Charley Jones, appeared before the club and asked that all Lions complete the selling of their tickets to the "Prosperity Party" Friday night, March 31, promising all who attend a delightful evening of fun and entertainment.

The entertainment committee was asked to attend the Rotary club Thursday and ask for their cooperation in putting over the Prosperity Party.

Dead Pig Poisons Hungry Family

CHICAGO, March 29.—An impoverished father lying near death unfolded today a grim story of how his desperate struggle to feed his eleven children killed two of them and made four others critically ill.

Not until doctors told him he had only a few hours to live did Joseph Frapaselli, 51, reveal that poisoning of his entire family was caused by a dead pig he found in an alley and brought home for a feast, the first full meal his children had had in weeks.

EAST TEXAS SPECTRE.

It is but logical, in view of the highly unsatisfactory manner in which the east Texas oil situation has been handled, or attempted to be handled, that appeal should be made for the intervention of the federal government in what is primarily a state function. Entrance of federal supervision into this field, as necessary as it may be regarded among those most affected by the unstable state control of the problem, has serious implications from the standpoint of state rights, yet one wonders what defense the state can make of the constitutional doctrine in the light of the record of the present railroad commission's supervision.

It seems plain that statutes governing approach to the problem have been defined in their limitations clearly enough by court decisions to have enabled the commission to draft a substantial and workable order, but the fact remains that it has not done so. What explanation can be made of this the commission has not indicated. To all appearances it has acted with respect to the east Texas situation much in the manner of a person who has had a hot potato thrown into his hands and is bandying it about in some frantic effort to be rid of it.

It is not conclusive to those who are jealous in their care for the state's authority over its own resources that the problem is beyond the ability of the state to handle. It is conclusive, however, that there must be a more scrupulous concern on the part of the regulatory body for the character of orders that it promulgates.

As long as the east Texas situation remains as it is it will be a spectre over the entire oil industry. The spectre may be magnified far beyond its actual proportions but it will continue to exert a paralyzing effect upon the rest of the industry as long as attempts to deal with it are involved in such a mess of incompetence and indecision.

SECURITY REGULATION.

Federal regulation of new security issues to protect the investing public is the next step in President Roosevelt's "new deal" program. A bill to give the federal trade commission powers to force complete publicity of security transactions and to aid in the prevention of fraudulent and "unnecessary" security issues will shortly be laid before congress with a presidential message urging its enactment. None who contemplates the orgy of bond and stock selling which accompanied the so-called prosperity period of the immediate past will deny the importance of the proposed "blue sky" law. Millions of dollars of hard-earned savings have gone up in smoke as a result of the unrestrained speculation of that era. Such issues as the Peruvian bonds which one large New York investment and banking concern sold to an investing public under what literally amounts to false pretenses will be prevented under such supervision. Numerous similar incidents of questionable practices will likewise be checked if not prevented. It will give the government a larger opportunity to halt-bloated speculative booms by requiring that all securities offered on the public market be honestly presented and clearly understood in relation to the collateral upon which they are based.

Blind buying of gilt paper had a major role in economic crash from which we are just now beginning to recover. The only solution for such orgiastic speculation is the clear light of truthful publicity.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

(Copyright, 1933, NEA Service, Inc.)
WASHINGTON.—The veterans' lobby has been stopped—and thrown for a loss.

Since the war, right up until this year of the "New Deal," the American Legion and the smaller organizations of ex-service men had been getting nearly everything they went after. The legislation which the Legion lobbyists wrote for Congress to pass finally came to cost the country very nearly $1,000,000,000 a year. Now, with a power of attorney granted by a Congress which prefers his leadership to that of any minority group, President Roosevelt expects to slash some $400,000,000 from that annual bill in one fell swoop.

Congress has been so flooded with telegrams of protest from veterans and their posts that the telegraph companies here stopped trying to keep count of them. Probably the number was somewhere near 100,000. The veterans' lobby was at work in a supreme effort as Congress considered the new economy bill which empowered Roosevelt to cut more than half a billion dollars from veteran benefits and federal salaries.

ON the other hand, thousands of telegrams were sent demanding that Congress stand by the president.

The veterans' is only one of numerous lobbies in Washington, but its influence and effectiveness has only been matched by the Anti-Saloon League in its heyday. The vast majorities it used to pile up for its measures demonstrated that most members of Congress considered it extremely dangerous, if not actual political suicide, to stand in opposition. The National Legislative Committee of the Legion is the backbone of the lobby. Its overlord and chief spokesman is Vice Chairman John Thomas Taylor, former Washington lawyer, who has written most of the legislation under which the treasury would pay $966,000,000 to veterans in the next fiscal year if the last Congress had had its way. Taylor's most able assistants are Edward McE. Lewis, former newspaperman, and Capt. Watson Miller.

This lobby received its first major check at the last session of Congress when The National Economy League and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce lobbies whooped up popular sentiment against the huge load of veteran expenditures.

LAST fall, after the Legion convention had voted overwhelmingly for bonus prepayment at a cost of $2,300,000,000, its wise lobbyists realized that this proposal would have no chance in Congress unless the treasury stopped having deficits. They concentrated their plans and efforts very largely against the forthcoming attempt to reduce the compensation and other benefits already obtained. And as far as that was concerned, they had the Seventy-second Congress still hotlied, and afraid.

But when Roosevelt rushed the veterans' slash to the new Congress as an "act to maintain the credit of the United States government" there was a bitter rebellion on behalf of the veterans and Republican votes were needed to put the Democratic program through. But it was only a last grim struggle to remind one of the fact that until now the veterans' lobby had been in control. At last the lobby was badly licked.

The Power of Example

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Visitors to the police station for the next few days should carefully refrain from mentioning anything about automobile tires in the presence of Desk Sergeant Henry Stubblefield.

It appears that Chief of Police Daniels removed to a place of safekeeping an automobile casing left in the police station yesterday. Henry was not aware of the fact and when the owner appeared to reclaim it he was flabbergasted. Some poignant remarks were passed with the result that the desk sergeant still has a sore spot. The temperature of the station came almost to the boiling point this morning when I was in there and I took departure as gracefully as was possible.

So don't any of you folk agitate Mr. Stubblefield. The only reason for mentioning this is to give the public fair warning.

P. L. Ullom, so I hear, is establishing a reputation for calf roping designed to lead him to the Fat Stock show's annual rodeo contests. Jess McCanlies invited the Cisco lumberman to his ranch to look on at branding a few days ago. Ullom, not satisfied with being a spectator, straddled a cayuse and tossed ropes with reckless abandon. He made a batting average of 333 per cent which astonished his host and Ullom swelled up like a pouter bird.

Questioned concerning his technique he declared that he simply threw the rope at the calf when it stuck he pulled.

I had the pleasure last night of attending an ideal commission meeting. Mayor Berry banged the gavel at 7:30 and twenty minutes later the docket or agenda, to be technical, had been disposed of. None of the commission felt like steaming up any enthusiasm, and you know the reason.

Informal discussions of relief work, et cetera, occupied the remainder of the time that the group hung together, reluctant to leave.

The chamber of commerce, taking up a project to open a road straight across from Highway 23 to join with the new road about the upper reaches of Lake Cisco, is undertaking another splendid project. The winding avenue pushing through the hitherto almost impassable shinnery hills that fringe the coves and inlets far up the charming sheet of water opens up what will prove a popular resort both for fishing and picnicking. The entrance to this road, however, is confused in a maze of frittered city streets in the northwestern edge of the city, and until it is made more obvious the beauties to which it guides will languish for want of appreciation. The purpose of the chamber of commerce is to make a splendid advantage accessible by opening a passage to it from a main thoroughfare. Let's hope the purpose is successful.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS

Texas renowned throughout the nation as a state choosing a woman governor, might be regarded as the foremost state in recognizing the newly-acquired half its electorate. The woman. Put results this 15th anniversary year of woman's enfranchisement, hardly support that. This year saw the retirement of a woman secretary of state. It found in Texas only one woman besides the governor in administrative public office. That is Mrs. Espa Stanford member of the industrial accident board. It saw the retirement of four of the five previous women member of the house and one of the senate.

Texas in the past has had an all-woman special supreme court. It has had a woman state superintendent of public instruction; two women secretaries of state, a woman labor commissioner for a brief time, a woman member of the University of Texas board of regents, two women assistants attorney general, a woman private secretary to the governor. Women have been retired from all those places, and the feminine legislative contingent has been cut down from six to two.

Take in connection with the woman governor's election by a margin less than the number of people who voted for her because they wanted to return her husband to a position of official power, Texas women's share in government definitely has declined.

What will they do about it? The women, if organized, would hold a balance of power that would dominate a majority of state offices. Women have refused to be considered for office on the ground, merely of representing the sex, and have insisted they be considered as citizens without reference to sex. But in dealing with the more experienced politicians, they have fared badly; and many of them think a little organization would be decidedly advantageous.

City council races, many of them to be heated, call attention after it is too late to remedy the situation to inherent ills in the method of election. Too great an emphasis is put upon the practice of "single-shotting," and no way has been found to eliminate this. The practice of voting for only one, when five are to be elected, gives undue advantage to the one. . . . If everybody would single-shot, it would be evened out; but now the supporters of a distinctly minority man can cast about 2 1-3 votes apiece for him by withholding votes for the other four.

A law ought to exclude any ballot for less than the total number to be elected.

PARENTS, THIS IS FOR YOU, ALSO.

Of prime interest to the students, the teachers, and the community, is the situation which our schools seem to be approaching. Unless the state legislature makes some adequate provision, the school funds will not be sufficient, in the coming year, for the regular nine months session. In other words, those who have not completed their elementary education, will receive only six months of free educational training.

The student's immediate reaction to such a statement may be a feeling of joy—but sober thinking soon shows him the fallacy of such an emotion. A school session of only six months would mean six months of vacation, idleness, for boys and girls—more than enough time in which to forget completely the lessons that they had learned during the term. While the home is a prime factor in child-training, the school also plays an important part, for our educational institutions furnish not only mental growth, but also inspiration and guidance in the formation of character.

The best qualified teachers would of necessity leave their work in the public school, and the six months training would be conducted by those who are less capable and less efficient, using teaching, possibly, only as a temporary occupation or sideline.

We feel certain that when it comes to lowering the standards of our school to such a degree, our parents and friends will act wisely and earnestly to insure a full school term.

WHAT IS A HOBBY? WHY HAVE ONE?

"A hobby is a favorite occupation, subject, topic, or the like, pursued for the amusement or interest it affords."

Hobbies are excellent for the old as well as the young. In hours of leisure, we may be adding to our store of knowledge even while being entertained, if we have a hobby.

Hobbies refresh us when we grow weary of our regular work. The mind and body become tired of doing one thing too long. Rest and refreshing come from a change in thought and action.

Hobbies attract us when we are lazy—too lazy to do anything except the one thing we delight in doing. Working at our hobby is never work—it is play, and play is always attractive. How wonderful it would be if we could put into what we call our work the joy, the earnestness, the thought and muscular activity we put into what we consider play. Then, all our work would be play.

Hobbies not only refresh and attract—they also inspire. Doing the things we like to do arouses in us talents, develops in us curiosity concerning our hobbies and this curiosity begets knowledge. Thus, our horizons are broadened, and the eyes of our mind are made to see with a clearer understanding that what we often term the small things of life are really the greatest.

FAMOUS BROTHERS IN C. H. S.

Brothers, Brothers—everywhere! Did you ever see so many? Let's begin with these Campbell Kids (Robert and L. B.) and convert them! Paul and Marshall Ivis; A. G. and Forest Noble; Daskam and Blake Stevens; Bill, Hagen, and Bayard McMahon; Carlisle and Malcolm Reimers; Ben and Bruce Groce; Melvin and Victor Lawson; Woodrow and Eugene Rowch; Bryan Lee and Joe Bob Winston; Beuran and Stroud McMurray; O. Thirteen pairs and one trio—can anyone find a nicer bunch?

BROTHERS, SISTERS, AND WHAT HAVE WE!

A third group of "kith and kin" must be mentioned before our family groups are complete. A great many brothers have little sisters and a great many sisters have big brothers (try to figure that out). Here they are: Roy and Glenna Moad; Gertie, Roy, and Garland Kinard; J. C. and Rosa Lee Kirshner; Wendell, Doris, and Donald Surlis; Maxine, J. L. and Spooner Cearley; Wendell, Judson, and Catherine Russell; George and Mary Elizabeth Taylor; Burl and Katherine Wagley; C. Not a finer group to be found anywhere!

MISS HELEN COOK GIVES WEINER ROAST.

Many games were enjoyed and the hours passed very merrily. Some engaged in jig-saw puzzles while others roasted the "weiners."

Those present were Earlene Farmer, Elsie Richardson, Johnnie Ladd, Christelle Reynolds, Adelle Henson, Martha Bell Dennesson, Bruce Groce, Lyle Steward, Lynn Robertson, Dike Cook, Willis Southland and two out-of-town guests, Judy Smith of Bedford and Frank Hagar of Ranger.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

"The Howl" is a feature devoted exclusively to the interests of the pupils and faculty of the Cisco high school and is written and edited by a staff selected from the school and supervised by the faculty. SOME OF THE PET FEEVES IN CISCO HIGH

(In answer to a call for "pet peeves," the following have been handed in. Others, if clever, will appear from time to time.)

My pet peeve is:
 To have some one disregard my superstitions, and laugh at them. — Pauline McClinton

To have some one flip my ear. — Melvin Lawson.

To have uncomplimentary remarks made about my "good ole" dg. — Betty Fee Spears.

To be accused of something I did not do.

To have someone tell me a falsehood.

To see Miss Chambliss read the Howl and raise "old Billy" if I do. — Olin Odum.

To have some one doubt my word.

To have Mrs. Irby get after me when I tear my book or mark it up.

To have a teacher tell me to be quiet. — Elsie Pulley.

To hear a person drumming with his fingers on a table or chair.

To see the grades I get in Spanish.

To have to study Latin.

To associate with a conceited person.

To see the "superior, sophisticated" seniors shooting paper wads and throwing erasers behind the teacher's back, and then pretending to be so dignified and well-behaved while the teacher is looking.

To stammer while trying to tell me something.

To see boys who are supposed to be gentlemen, so impolite and rude.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL DECLAIMERS VISIT C. H. S.

The declaimers who represented Cisco Grammar School in the County Meet and were presented by their coach, Mrs. Moore gave their declaimations before the high school faculty and student body Thursday morning in chapel.

The participants are brother and sister, Emogene and J. M. Hazelwood, and each proved to be a splendid speaker. J. M. who placed third in the Meet gave, "How Much Grit Do You Think You've Got," by Edgar A. Guest, and Emogene, "The House With Nobody in It," by Joyce Kilmer.

Seldom has the student body shown more enthusiastic appreciation than on this particular occasion—the declaimers were so tiny and acquitted themselves so beautifully.

KANGAROO COURT

Miss Chambliss' home room has enjoyed a Kangaroo Court for the last three meetings.

Cecil Hudson was tried for a "desperate crime," but was found not guilty and as a reward the Judge gave him the privilege of being chairman of the program for this six weeks.

Cecil owes his freedom and new office to Olin Odum, his able lawyer, Enders Huey, the district attorney, was sentenced to be on the program twice for bribing the jury. The judge before whom the case was tried was "His Honor," Wendell Russell.

HOWARD PAYNE PROFESSOR ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Mr. Havins, professor of sociology at Howard Payne Baptist college in Brownwood, spoke to the student body and teachers of Cisco High School last Wednesday morning in chapel.

After his presentation by Brother James, he told a very interesting story of a rancher, illustrating aptly the life of a "good man." The talk was thoroughly enjoyed and we hope to have the privilege of listening to Mr. Havins again.

MAKE ME A FRESHMAN FOR ONLY A DAY

Backward, turn backward, Oh! Time for a day.
 Make me a Freshman again—this I pray.
 Make me a Freshman for only a day
 That I might show the seniors I had a say!

They might make me speak like St. Patrick did
 Or even bow low and take off my lid;
 But they could not make me shine even one shoe,
 As they make our poor little Freshmen do.

Through The Keyhole

Six eager young boys walked five miles last Tuesday night looking for a weiner roast, only to find that it had been called off.

Ova Brown, Lucille Clements, and Mildred Fay Farmer, all exes of C. H. S., cheered the school last week with their sunny smiles.

It has been asked whether this is a correspondence school or just a school of learning. (From all appearances it seems to be a combination of both—study halls for correspondence.)

Joyce Rainbolt and Elizabeth Carr were visitors in Deah ole Grammar School.

Bobby Anderson seems to be quite fantastic. (How?)

Some enthusiastic young person would like to know why we allow tennis scores to appear in the paper, if the "suggestive love affairs" are objected to. Well, "love" in tennis is perfectly permissible.

One of our young students stayed two days in Millsap while returning from Fort Worth. (For further information concerning the trip get in touch with Earl Alkire.)

Zona, this demands an explanation. The very idea of changing your books to another locker when you have a perfectly good one of your own.

What's become of some of these little Freshmen girls freckles? Maybe they've lent them to some of the upper classes.

Despite the fact that Dena doesn't blush as much as usual, she still goes at the same fierce rate. (Don't mind us, Dena, for Miss Wells says it is a compliment to be able to blush these days.)

Fancy Lee Porter has a laughing bird, so she says. She can pinch it under the chin and it will laugh. (Now, does she know the difference between a laugh and a scream.)

Joyce Boyd was absent Monday from school on account of illness.

It looks as if something were "up" for this week, Edna and Dixie were seen down town buying paper napkins, mints, bright colored ribbons, and colored cellophane. A selected few will be lucky!

Elsie Pulley is a cheerful little soul, isn't she? Mr. Brandon brought peals of laughter from her in the study hall Friday and it looked as if it might be serious but it was not fatal.

Fancy Lee Porter was ill Monday and missed a day of school, but she is back with us now.

Ida Britain was missed from school yesterday.

SUPERIOR SENIORS OF 1933.

(Take it or leave it)
 S—is our Study—for this, we are noted;
 E—our Endurance that has brought us thus far;
 N—Never-falling—for this, we are quoted;
 I—is our Industry in which we all star;
 O—our Obedience, our true loyalty;
 R—is our Radiance that all classes can see,
 Superior Seniors of 1933!
 Read down the line these seven good letters;
 Then try to find any classmen our betters.
 By, It Can't Be Done.

IN DEFENSE OF OUR CASTLE.

Let's call our school a castle, And love it as we should, With Messrs. Cluck and Brandon As kings, both wise and good.

The lady teachers are princesses, We are at their command, And the men teachers are princes, Who rule with iron hand.

I guess we are the warriors, Who stand so brave and cool, To conquer all the subjects, That are taught within our school.

School sometimes does get borsome, With home-work, looming above it, But we shouldn't grumble about it, We should smile and learn to love it.

Come, all ye warriors hold, What if we had no school at all, Quit stalling and get to studying, And defend our castle wall!

By HAZEL MARTIN.

MY HOBBY.

My hobby is collecting cats. Young cats and old cats, All kinds of cats but one, And that kind's pole cats.

White cats and black cats, Timid cats and bold cats, Persian cats and alley cats.

Strong cats and weak cats, Nice cats and droll cats, Any kinds of cats you have, If they are not pole cats.

—LOUISE STATHAM.

PLEASE, LET'S KEEP OUR BAND

While Cisco High School is not a political body, we, its members, do have an interest in all things pertaining to Cisco's welfare and we hardly see how Cisco could prosper as it should with our Chamber of Commerce and our Mr. Spencer.

Neither do we understand how anyone would be other than favorable to our Zoo, for it is not only an educational feature for Cisco citizens, especially for the children, it is also a big advertisement and attraction for visitors.

But the thing that is uppermost in our minds and hearts is our band. We couldn't give that up! What would our school be without it! For so many years it has been, next to our Lobes, our best loved and most appreciated "possession." It has furnished music for our assemblies, it has led our pep squad and school in parade and song, it has cheered thousands on our football field, and in moments of weariness and seeming defeat, it has encouraged our Lobes to renewed efforts and inspired them to win unexpected glories by sending out to them the strains of "Men of Cisco High On to Victory!"

Also, our band is an economic necessity. Hours and hours that are used by the members in a most happy and helpful as well as educational way, would be in all probability, wasted hours, hours spent in loafing. Many are the lessons learned, lessons in "try-it-again," in patience, in perseverance, in stage presence and poise, in the ability to follow a leader, in team-work—in a hundred profitable things. All these in addition to learning the fundamentals of music, the use of instruments, and the blending of all into one rhythmic and harmonious whole.

Tastes, too, are developed by the playing of good music, and appreciation of the great artists who have given to the world the music that has stirred men's hearts and lifted them into higher spheres—spheres that only the initiated can know. "Music Hath Charms"—and not only charms, but uses, powers for good, powers that are educational, economic, inspirational.

Let's Keep Our Band!

Our "FIRST HONOR" DECLAIMER GIVEN BIG SURPRISE

After a pleasant day spent at the "Dude Ranch", Marguerite Barker returned home to find a happy surprise awaiting her—a number of her best friends in the parlor, each with a birthday gift!

Marguerite's thoughtful mother had prepared refreshments of cake, candy, punch, and sherbert, for the "surprise guests," and a most attractive table with candles, rabbits, and everything.

Interesting games, much frolic and fun, and a royal good time every moment, made both Marguerite and her guests wish that she or some member of "The Bunch" would have a "surprise" birthday every week.

Those present were: Lurline Poe, Marie Qualls, Lorraine Sidal, Lucille Clark, Betty Elda Clark, Mignon Clark, Louellen Clark, Marjorie Linder, Louise Stephenson, Doris Surlis, and the honoree, Marguerite Barker.

MARCH

What is so rare as a day in March Over the fire, peanuts parch!
 The wind blows girls' and women's hair;
 Some let it blow; others despair.
 One can see hats rolling down the street
 Some being crushed beneath rushing feet.

And the owner can't help swearing
 When off blows the hat he has been wearing.
 One can see kites up in the sky
 Some of them fall, but most of them fly.
 Everything would just be keen
 If this through a school window was not seen.
 'Cause school for the summer is not yet out.
 Of course this truth one can not doubt.
 Oh, well, such is life!
 Made up of some fun and plenty of strife.

—Dena Carroll.

CALENDAR FOR WEEK

 Tuesday, March 28—Clubs. Howl staff busy.

PAULINE'S PENCILINGS

It is gratifying to know that the Howl is read and appreciated by people who are not connected with C. H. S. in any way. We feel it is highly complimentary that such an interest is taken in our activities and we want to thank them for their kind words concerning us.

This isn't a column of advice to the "lovelorn" or anything of that sort, but girls, here's a suggestion—gratis. If you want to find out what sort of a beau you really have, be around when he has to fix a flat tire. It's a good chance to get a "line" on him.

The authorities don't know whether it is murder or suicide—anyway something has happened to three perfectly healthy members of the library aquarium. (Maybe other victims of the depression.) Won't some sleuth offer his services to the solution of this baffling mystery?

How we'd like to know the secret of Mr. Brandon's popularity the past week. He has received one hundred and fifty letters in that short time! Give us the combination, we'd like to get just one.

Wanted: A position as seamstress by the editor and columnist. We guarantee satisfaction and require no more than five yards of material at the beginning. No experience (as yet) but good intentions.

Did you know that: Melvin Lawson is a very clever writer? Ankle socks are again in evidence? Senior Day is nearly here?

The first requisite of the Howl is that the students take to heart the advice and admonitions it gives. From all appearances this has not been done by many of the students—berets, hats, and tams are still covering up "woman's crowning glory."

Did you ever hear of anybody like our Junior declaimers? About three o'clock Thursday they had to change their nice prose declaimations for poetry! Did they drop out? No, indeed! They learned new ones and placed in their respective divisions Friday, Marguerite being winning first place! Congratulations, Kids, we're for folk like you!

What do you suppose makes Mr. Cluck, Miss Bonds, Miss Watson and Miss Chambliss so happy and "high hatty" these last few days? It couldn't be all those winning teams they coached for the County Meet could it? Let's ask them!

WHO'S WHO IN CISCO HIGH

Miss Alma Wells

"I am the only member of the high school faculty that is not a native of Texas! but, although I was born in Arkansas, I have lived most of my life in West Texas and consider Texas my native state," answered our senior English teacher and Junior Class Sponsor, Miss Alma Wells when asked concerning her birthplace and home.

Miss Wells received her A. B. degree from Howard Payne in Brownwood and has had work toward her M. A. in the University of Colorado and University of Southern California which has prepared her so well for her profession.

Miss Wells has never become tired of reading, even things besides her professional reading. She never tires of classics for although she likes current magazines she goes to the classics for pleasure. A well-read person should occupy the chair behind a teacher's desk, and she certainly is the one to occupy it. Not only well-read, but she is also a person who has traveled, visiting many states of the West and North.

It did not take Miss Wells long to tell the writer what her pet peeve is; in fact, she replied instantly, "People who are not human enough to make mistakes," and who of us will not agree with her? Her pet extravagance is: "I must have cosmetics." So you see, even teachers can be human, too.

And do we love Miss Wells for adding, "I'm glad we have the Howl this year, because it promotes school spirit and gives the pupils a chance to improve their talents in writing?"

Have you ever been in Miss Wells' class? If you have not you have missed an opportunity. Besides being a well-qualified teacher, well-read and interesting, she has a different kind of humor that is inexpressible which will bring forth a smile from the most solemn. If that were the only accomplishment Miss Wells ever had, she has something that makes this world a little brighter. In other words, Miss Alma Wells is one of the most human persons on our faculty.

For the curious, our teacher's ambition was and is to teach.

RECIATION RAZZ

Miss Watson: "Just think!"
 Livius Lee Lankford: "Oh, I can't do that!"

Miss Robinson: "Where is Cecil Hudson?"
 Olin Odum: "He got lost in the fat Stock Show in Fort Worth."
 Miss Robinson: "In the Fat Stock Show?"
 Olin Odum: "Yes'm. In the donkey section."

Miss Watson: (in Freshman English) "Do clouds have life in them?"
 Annabelle R.: "They might, if they have worms in them."

FAVORS ALL THREE

"Yes, sir! I am whole-heartedly and enthusiastically in favor of all three of the amendments," announced Superintendent Cluck this morning.

The Chamber of Commerce with Mr. Poe at its head and Mr. Spencer as its secretary has been the means of giving more real practical assistance to Cisco in our present financial stress than any other organization. Through the efficient management of our R. F. C. funds between 75 and 100 children have been able to continue in school because of their fathers having been given employment. This is only one of the many helps I could cite.

Our Zoo is absolutely a necessity for the students of our schools. Classes under the supervision of teachers go out consistently to study first hand the animals their habits, etc. This educational value is sufficient reason for continuing it, to say nothing of its value as an advertisement.

MY HOBBY.

In my leisure time at home. When all my work is through, I love to sit and try to draw. Like some other persons do.

It's nice to draw the scenery and all nature's pretty places. But there's nothing so attractive to me, as human faces. All except pole cats.

I don't claim to be an artist, I don't even hope for fame. But there's nothing I like better than drawing, just the same.

—EMOGENE FARRIS.

N. U. T.'S MEET

Delpha Mae Blair was hostess to the N. U. T. Club, Friday afternoon. After the business session during which final arrangements were made for a party to be given on March 31, the afternoon was spent in playing games and in carrying out a program prepared by Edna Coates and Dixie Bills. Each member took part.

LITERARY POINTS WON BY C. H. S. IN COUNTY MEET

A score of 136 points was won by C. H. S. representatives entering the literary events of the County Meet at Olden, Friday. This includes points won by placing in the various events as well as entry points.

The declaimers were a close second, winning a total of 36 points. Marguerite Barker, Junior girl, won 10 points for placing first in her division, and Virginia Butts, Garner Alton and Evalt Horne gave us another 6 points for three third places. The other points are entry points.

The extemporaneous speakers came next with a score of 30 points. Faye Henderson, and Joe Bob Winston each placed second, winning 10 points each and 10 points for entering.

Scoring high in her division, we have the essayist, Faye Clark, who won 15 points by placing second in that contest with her essay, "What Our Flag Means."

The spellers, LaVerne Dill and Flora Bacon, divided honors for first place with Colony, but brought home 17 1-2 points.

C. H. S. is indeed proud of such a record and wishes to congratulate the various winners for this splendid work.

And the Band! I consider the band of paramount importance! We must have it. Between 40 and 50 pupils each semester are afforded extra curricular development, and pleasant and profitable employment for leisure hours one of its greatest benefits. In addition to this our football games would fall flat without the band to arouse our citizens and cheer our Lobes on to victory."

EARRINGS PROVE CLAIM

BOSTON, March 25.—At a state house hearing on the question of repealing Massachusetts' anti-steel trap law, Joseph Higgins wanted to prove that steel traps were humane. So he snapped a trap on each of his ears and, with the traps dangling, addressed the legislative committee.

SHIP MODEL FOR FAIR

MANISTIQUE, Mich., March 29.—A six-foot replica of the Caliph, a three-masted clipper ship which was lost on its maiden voyage in 1869, has been built here for Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition. John Hallen, hotel proprietor who built the model, obtained blueprints of the Caliph and reproduced every detail.

HUNDREDS GO TO MOUNTAINS TO SEEK GOLD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 29.—The lure of gold continues to draw hundreds of persons to the hills and mountains of California.

And the result in 1932 was an increase of $2,000,000 in production of gold bullion in the state, with predictions by the state division of mines that this increase will be exceeded in 1933.

The department reported as an indication of continued interest that 115,297 persons personally visited the two state mine offices in Los Angeles and San Francisco during last year.

Ten thousand pamphlets on elementary placer mining were distributed, 1,200 copies of "commercial notes" were mailed each month, 6,248 samples were tested in the laboratory and 1,200 hopeful prospectors were instructed in the rudiments of mining.

Such discoveries as that of James J. Elliott, Portola plumber, revive the lagging hopes of amateur prospectors. Elliott forsook his craft—principally because work was scarce—and went to the hills in search of gold. The other day he stumbled onto a nugget which contained 66 ounces of gold worth $1,287.

The great bulk of the amateur prospectors come from the ranks of California's unemployed. Thousands of these men, chafing under inactivity and drawn by that one-chance-in-a-million of striking a bonanza have gone forth into the mountains equipped only with elementary tools.

Gotham Hotels Have Decreased

NEW YORK, March 28.—Startling changes, coupled with not a few surprises, in Manhattan's business life during the past 28 years were disclosed in comparison of the Spring 1933 issue of the telephone Red Book, and the first Red Book, printed in 1905.

Employment agencies in 1905 numbered 85, only four of these still are represented among the 450 agencies now listed. A checkup on the hotels revealed that there are today over 500, whereas the 1905 book listed 800 hostilities. The increased capacity of the modern skyscraper-hotel is held responsible for this decrease.

Among the few old-time hotels still doing business in their original locations are the Sherman Square Hotel at Broadway and 70th Street; the Martha Washington, on East 28th Street; the Mills Hotel on Bleeker Street; the old Utah House on Eighth Avenue; and the Chelsea, on West 23rd Street. Restaurants, however, have kept close pace with the yearly increase in population. In 1905 there were approximately 350; today, there are nearly 5,000 with very few of the old timers still in business.

PHILADELPHIA IS All Set for Beer

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—While Philadelphia brewers are predicting the return of five-cent beer managers of the city's leading hotels are preparing to install taprooms in the event the Pennsylvania legislature continues to frown upon the old-fashion bar.

At the Benjamin Franklin hotel a room already has been set aside for the thirsty. It will be fitted up as a taproom as soon as the legislature has definitely decided about frosted glass and swinging doors. The manager of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel likewise declared his intention of installing facilities for lovers of beer.

"We have our old mahogany bar ready for use," he said. "It does not look, though as if the legislature will let us use it."

While J. C. Bonner, manager of the Sylvania hotel, said they were "starting from scratch" here, Charles Duffy, Jr., of the Hotel Walton revealed he was already interviewing prospective bartenders.

At the Warwick hotel, however, there was no particular enthusiasm shown. "We've got beer now," said Gerald Trimble, the manager. "Anybody that wants it nowadays can get it, so I don't see what all the excitement is about."

TEXAS NETTERS SURE OF WIN OVER TULANE

By DICK WEST

(Special to the Cisco Daily News)

With their first season match scheduled April 1 against the brilliant Tulane netmen, the University of Texas tennis squad has been practicing diligently for the last month in an effort to reach the good form that will be necessary to down the proteges of Mercer Bessley in New Orleans. Although lacking the services of the flashy Cliff Sutter, last year's intercollegiate champion, the Green Wave will have an excellent team this season.

Coach D. A. Penick of the Orange and White squad is for the first time confident that he will defeat the Tulane netters. Last year Kamrath, Texas captain and ace player, gave Sutter little competition in Austin in their 6-2, 6-2 match. But this year will see the greatest tennis team in the history of the conference at the University.

Karl Kamrath is back for his last season of play and is playing No. 1 position. Having won the state championship in his high school days at Austin two years in succession, he has continued to be such a star in the University. In 1931, his sophomore year, he went to the finals in the conference meet before losing to Bruce Barnes, and then paired with the latter to win the doubles crown of this meet and later the doubles championship of the national intercollegiate.

Playing in the No. 2 position is Hal Surface, sensation from Kansas City. Surface is just a sophomore and has a most promising future. He started out his tennis career as a playing mate with Junior Cohn, Tilden's protege. Coming to the University of Texas he at

One I Love

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

"Hasn't all been settled," Hamilton told her, frowning slightly. "I was coming to that. You see, this offer from Colman's came quite unexpectedly. I haven't talked to anyone about it except Chambers. He's arranging for me to get away immediately and for a time they'll carry on without naming a new advertising manager."

"Oh!" It didn't answer Janet's problems. She was wondering how all this was going to affect her. Affect her, it assuredly would. How would she get along with her new employer? A stranger, most likely. Hamilton had been demanding but he also had his good points.

He was speaking again. "There's something else," he said, and hesitated. "I don't like to say this, but when my job is ended here I'm afraid yours will be too."

She didn't speak but her eyes widened and she made a quick little gesture with her hand.

"It's not that your work hasn't been appreciated!" Hamilton went on quickly. "I assure you that it has. I've told chambers you're unusual capable. He knows that anyhow. It's just that things haven't been going so well with the magazine. It's going to pull out all right. I'm sure of it! But for the next year there's no question but that expenses must be reduced. That's why no one is to be named to take my place. Dawson and Hartley will take over the duties. Share with me, I'm not sure myself the plan will work but at least they'll make a stab at it. If it fails they'll try something else. But whatever happens the office staff is to be reduced. They'll have to make other cuts too."

"You're trying to tell me," Janet said slowly, "that I won't have a job?"

Hamilton nodded. "To put it bluntly—yes."

Janet glanced down at the typewriter keys before her. She had used them for over two years. She had sat at that desk, spent the greater part of each day, six days a week, in this plain box-like room with its plaster walls covered with maps and charts, its carpeted floor, its filing cases and rickety bookcase.

HER eyes raised. Hamilton was watching her. He said kindly, "I've been thinking about you. I don't like to go away and leave you looking for work. Jobs are hard to find these days—"

"I'll find something," Janet assured him. Her voice was flat. "You'll give me a recommendation, I suppose?"

"Gladly! But I think I can do a little better than that. I've been looking around, thinking, trying to find a position that would suit you. One where you could be as useful as you have been here and where the work would be congenial. I think I've found it."

She was listening eagerly but she did not interrupt. Mr. Hamilton didn't like to be interrupted when there was something he wanted to say.

"It's not quite the same kind of work you've been doing," he went on, "but I think you could handle it splendidly. It's with my sister. She's a widow and since her daughter's marriage she's been living alone—except for servants, of course. I don't think it's good for her. She's not in the best of health, though she's not in any sense an invalid, either."

"What she needs is a social secretary who can help her with the duties every woman who takes
