NAZARENES TO BEGIN REVIVAL NEXT SUNDAY

A revival will begin Sunday at the Church of the Nazarene, F avenue and W. Seventh street, with Rev. Arch Gibson, evangelist, doing the preaching. Mr. Gibbs comes from Missouri and is well recommended. Other than being an entertaining speaker, he has a splendid voice and will arrange a special song program and a male quartet for the services.

Rev. and Mrs. Gibson and four children have recently moved to Cisco, coming from near Kansas City.

They appreciate their cordial reception by Cisco people and extend an invitation to the public to attend the revival services. The pastor of the Church of the Nazarene is Rev. Lewis Clegg, also a recent addition to Cisco's ministerial group, who says he is better pleased with Cisco every day he is here.

SINGING CONVENTION.

The Cisco fifth Sunday singing convention will meet Sunday, Nov. 30, at 1:30 p. m., in the local First Christian church. Singers from several counties are expected to be present. The "Happy Hearts" quartet of Abilene will be present.

The public is cordially invited to attend and join in the singing of gospel hymns.

GOV'NOR GIVES NEGRO RAPIST 30 DAYS' TIME

AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—In granting a 30-day stay of execution for Albert Wesley, Jr., Gov. Coke Stevenson today acted upon his first application for clemency in a death case since he succeeded W. Lee O'Daniel as governor.

"I do not think it is a bad policy to give a condemned man 30 days' additional life," said Stevenson. The reprieve postpones the execution of the negro, convicted of the rape of a Dallas county white woman, to Dec. 28. The negro was to have been electrocuted today.

JUNIOR COL. NIGHT SUNDAY, 1ST CHRISTIAN

"Cisco Junior College" night will be observed at the First Christian church Sunday at 7 p. m. at which time the faculty and student body of the college will be guests of honor and sit together in a reserved section.

Rev. J. R. Wright, pastor of the Christian church, spoke in college chapel Wednesday and extended an invitation to the student body on behalf of his church, and the students voted unanimously to accept the invitation.

Special music for the service Sunday night will be furnished by the quartet and trio of Junior College. The subject of Mr. Wright's sermon will be "Counting The Cost," based on the idea that it costs as much or more to fail in life as it does to succeed. Parents of college students are extended a special invitation to join in this service, and the public is also invited.

ABILENE STARTS FIGHT TO RID CITY OF LEWD HOLES OPERATING UNDER THE NAME OF "HOTELS"

ABILENE, Nov. 28.—Twenty-one persons connected with the operation of eight of Abilene's smaller hotels were named defendants in petitions for injunctions filed in 42d district court late yesterday afternoon by County Attorney Theo Ash and Chief of Police T. A. Hackney.

The petition asks that the defendants be temporarily restrained and enjoined "from permitting any person to reside or resort to said place for the purpose of prostitution or for the purpose of paying the trade or the vocation of a prostitute;

"Or from allowing and permitting any lewd women to reside in said place, and from hiring or employing any person to act as porter or in any other capacity for the purpose of soliciting, assisting, or aiding any lewd women or prostitute women to ply their vocations."

To enforce the order, the petitions ask that the houses be closed for one year from the date of the judgment, unless the defendants make bond payable to the state at the county seat of not less than $1,000 or more than $5,000.

In asking the injunctions, the petition alleges that the establishments operate under the name of hotels, and purport to be hotels, but in reality are places where prostitutes are permitted to resort or reside for the purpose of plying their trade.

Petitions further allege that the hotels employ negro porters to work in the hotels and work at the bottom of the stairs for the purpose of soliciting and taking care of any customers for the prostitutes who reside in the hotels, and that the operators keep and set aside special rooms for the purpose of the practice of prostitution.

Ash said that the petitions had been under consideration for some time, and were adopted as probably the most effective immediate measure to tend to eliminate prostitution in the city.

"We have had two killings in town within the past six weeks as a direct result of the hotel situation," Ash commented. "Something has got to be done about it."

Ash and Hackney participated in a series of raids on the hotels last week in which 13 women were taken to the city jail on charges of vagrancy. Eleven of them forfeited cash bonds of $5 each by failure to appear in city court, while the other two were fined $5 each in city court.

Named defendants in the petitions were: Mrs. Bessie Myers, individually and as operator of U. S. army artillerymen from Fort Sam Houston have been passing through Cisco all day today—bound for Fort Sill for big-gun practice.

DOUBLE FUNERAL SERVICES FOR L. C. MOORE AND HIS DAUGHTER ATTENDED BY MANY FRIENDS

Funeral rites for L. C. Moore, 52, and his daughter, Salena Moore, 21, were held at the First Christian church Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. J. R. Wright, Christian minister, officiated at the church and later at Oakwood cemetery, where the two bodies were laid to rest in adjoining graves. The minister's remarks were very impressive. The church services were attended by a large concourse of sorrowing relatives, friends and acquaintances and the floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. The choir gave two selections—"Abide With Me" and "Lead, Kindly Light," with Mrs. Troy Powell at the piano.

L. C. Moore, druggist here for some 18 years, was well known and well liked by all. Despite ill health, he was uniformly cheerful and courteous. Mr. Moore was born at Dublin, Texas, September 26, 1889. The daughter, Miss Salena Moore, was born at Ranger, this county, August 1, 1920. She attended the Cisco public schools for a while, but had been an invalid for several years.

Survivors are the wife and two sisters — Mrs. Harriet Evans of Cisco and Mrs. J. R. Bragg of Lubbock.

Pallbearers for Mr. Moore were K. H. Pittard, George Atkins, Ernest Lemmon, Leon Maner, Joe Lee Moore and A. D. Anderson. For Miss Moore: E. J. Poe, J. D. Lauderdale, F. B. Altman, Joe Meador, Nick Miller and James McCracken.

The Green Funeral Home had charge of the remains.

JAPS SENDING MEN, MATERIAL TO INDO CHINA

Great Britain's mechanized armies were reported close to success in their prime objective of destroying the bulk of the Axis striking power in Libya.

Hard fighting is still ahead of the British, however, and final judgment is reserved.

Cairo and London indicated the eighth army offensive had the upper hand in all operations from the Egyptian frontier to Tobruk.

The New Zealand column is again slashing westward in the Tobruk zone, against stiff opposition.

If British domination is maintained, it appeared the offensive has cut off a large armored force of Nazis under command of Gen. Erwin Rommel, in the zone west and south of Tobruk.

The main fuel supply bases for these Axis forces has been destroyed or seized by the British infantry and Cairo says the British are attempting to crush the armored units in a "spirit of confidence."

In the Far East, Shanghai reports said Japan has sent 70 transports carrying 30,000 troops and much war material to French-Indo China, despite suggestions in Tokyo that an agreement might be reached with Washington for a "cooling off" period in the Pacific.

NAZIS BREAK THRU SOVIET LINE, MOSCOW

The German offensive forced a major break through Russian lines in the Klin sector north of Moscow in the Nazi's growing threat to encircle the Soviet capital, but the Red army reported it had halted the enemy in the Stalingorod area south of Moscow and that the major Russian counter-attack continued near the Ukraine city of Rostov.

The Germans acknowledged fierce fighting against the Rostov push.

OIL

Current United States bureau of mines figures on stocks of foreign and domestic crude oil continue to reflect an increased demand in crude oil. Crude stocks in the United States totaled 240,399,000 barrels on Nov. 15, a net decrease of 1,430,000 barrels per week, or 200,000 barrels daily.

Texas crude stocks dropped 455,000 barrels during the week to 80,542,000 barrels. This indicates that refineries are drawing about 65,000 barrels daily from Texas storage above this state's daily production.

The average daily production in Texas today is about 1,465,000 barrels, and plus the 65,000 barrels being drawn from storage gives the state an average demand of 1,530,000 barrels daily. The state's average daily production during December is expected to be about 1,525,000 barrels. If the present rate of withdrawal from Texas storage continues, then the increased allowable for December will not allow a boost in Texas crude oil stocks.

Normally, crude stocks are increased during the winter months and depleted during the heavy consuming summer months. Indications are this procedure will not be followed this winter, unless allowances are again boosted.

Kansas and Louisiana have been given increases in daily allowances during December, and other states are expected to follow. Right now Oklahoma and Kansas probably are producing as much oil as possible. During the week ended Nov. 15, oil stocks dropped 257,000 barrels in Kansas and gained 208,000 barrels in Oklahoma. Instead of seeking more daily allowable, Kansas operators now are after a price increase. In fact, most oil operators are seeking an oil price hike.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, recently upset a North and Central Texas crude price increase when he summoned officials of three major companies to Washington to explain an increase in crude postings. At Mr. Henderson's request, the price hikes were rescinded. Since that time, Mr. Henderson has asked for more information on the crude price situation, and the oil men are supplying it.

Chambers of commerce in Texas now are taking up the campaign for increased prices in Texas crude oil. Senators Tom Connally, W. Lee O'Daniel, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Price Administrator Leon Henderson are being asked to take action on this matter.

MRS. TUTTLE KILLED DEER; MEN FAILED

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tuttle of Cisco, Mitt Williams of Abilene and Baker Glenn of Jacksonville enjoyed a hunting trip to the H. E. Crofts ranch, near Marble Falls. The Tuttle returned to Cisco last night.

Mrs. Tuttle, the only woman in the party, enjoys the distinction of having killed the only deer secured on this trip.

However, said Mr. Tuttle today, the men folks had a good time.

CISCO LOST TO BRECKENRIDGE, THIRTEEN TO 0

Cisco took the short end of the score of 13 to 0 Thursday in a hard-fought contest on Chesley Field, when the powerful Breckenridge Buckaroos, Oil Belt district champions for this season, battered their way to a victory that cinched their title and won them the right to meet the Temple team at Temple next Friday afternoon for a bi-district playoff.

The husky Buckaroos were led by their powerful fullback, Jack Ray, and the elusive pass-snatcher, fleet Garner Slaughter, who would not be denied, though held for downs—once on the two-yard line and another time almost on the goal line.

All scores were made during the first half and much of that time with Cisco's spark plug, Lasater, out from hurts.

Lasater played a wonderful game despite his injuries, as did every member of the Lobo team. Penn won much praise for his unusual tackling and blocking. John Potter made two sensational runs and together with the smart little quarterback, Mosley, was great on pass defense.

Tompkins, Saunders, Dunaway and Doggett were seemingly everywhere at most needed places. To give credit to all Lobos who gave their best it would be necessary to name the whole team.

Starting lineups: Breckenridge: Ends—Dean and Cooper; tackles—Howell and Dodd; guards—Gallagher and Cruse; center—Dixon; backs—Ray, Slaughter, Luke and Cox.

Cisco: Ends—Sanders and Garrett; tackles—Smith and Penn; guards—Pollard and Clark; center—Doggett; backs—Lasater, Mosley, Dunaway and Potter.

Mrs. Gay Weaver of Abilene spent Thanksgiving day with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Christie.

WORLD CRISIS.

These are days when Americans who know and care what is going on in the world feel like holding their breath.

It may be doubted whether ever in our national history, or even in all modern history, so many great and vital issues hung in the balance.

This view has been stated impressively, almost at the same moment, by two of our foremost American commentators — Raymond Gram Swing on the air and Walter Lippmann in print.

Far from the war having reached a "stalemate," a static and comparatively harmless situation, as some onlookers say, these experts insist that on every front the situation now seems to be approaching a crisis. No observer, they say, can yet tell for sure which way the decision will go in the four great spheres of danger.

Those spheres of danger are Europe, Africa, the Far East and the oceans flanking our own country. In what might be called, in Shakespeare's phrase, the "four quarters of the world," the fate of modern civilization and the human race hangs in the balance.

Our own country is so large and varied, and the vast interior of this continent seems so secure, that naturally millions of Americans view the situation calmly or virtually ignore it. It is fine to be calm, provided we are also alert and well informed. It is not enough merely to spend billions for defense.

Every American should know what is going on and be conscious of his part in it.

TOKYO'S ACCUSATIONS.

It is sad to hear the war drums in Tokyo and to read the strange logic with which Japanese spokesmen justify their hostility. Here is the venerable Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, for example, protesting as follows:

"Cooperating with other countries inimically disposed toward Japan, the United States took the lead in forming a ring of encirclement, seeking economic strangulation of Japan. The anti-Axis powers have now besieged Japan, attempting to starve us. For this reason we conceived the prosperity sphere, which therefore is nothing but the child of Anglo-Saxon oppressive interference. The sphere is designed as a political and economic guarantee for independent existence of the Asiatic races, with the Japanese taking the leadership.

"The Japanese are firmly convinced that this status is the highest good attainable in international relations and are resolved to march forward unflinchingly, ready to fight against any country daring to interfere with the progress of our effort."

It does no good at all for Americans to point out that we quit trading with Japan only after it was clear to all the world that her militarists were just using our materials to prepare a war against their neighbors and us. Or to remind the Tokyo war lords that they are said to have killed or starved 40,000,000 Chinese in their efforts to rob and enslave that great nation.

All we ask of Japan is that she be neighborly to her neighbors and obey the international treaties which she signed, along with us and China. When she does that, we will buy from her again and sell her our products.

LICKING LEWIS.

"If we can't lick John Lewis, then we'd better lay off Hitler," said Walter S. D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, in the midst of the big crisis last week.

Whether the manufacturers could lick Lewis was, and perhaps still is, uncertain. But they didn't have to. Dispassionate onlookers seem pretty well agreed that, insofar as there was any licking, it was John Lewis who licked himself.

Employers have been known to do that, too. Also politicians. One thing the American people won't stand for is arrogance.

Labor Legislation.

San Angelo Standard-Times: What is needed is not more labor legislation but less, including clearing of the federal statutes of most of what has been put in them in recent years. Practically all such acts are made in respect to unionized labor, neglecting the millions of people who are not members of unions yet who labor every day that it is possible for them to have employment.

Since the flood of strikes that have been hampering production and manufacture many bills have been introduced in the congress, asserted by their authors to be sure panaceas for the ills that trouble us in the form of strikes. Let us hope that none of these will be enacted.

As it happens, the Department of Labor has as its head Miss Frances Perkins and the labor committee of the house has as its chairman Mrs. Norton of New Jersey, both women apparently holding the belief that all labor legislation must favor the unions rather than the general public.

So long as these women are in these positions there is no reason to expect that there will be anything worth while done. Representative Hoffman of Michigan, a Republican minority member of the house labor committee, said in a session one day last week, "I have stayed in that committee two years and it has produced nothing and in my opinion as long as the lady is chairman of the committee it never will produce anything in the way of fair labor legislation. I have seen her sit on legislation and pigeonhole legislation from the beginning of the time I went on the committee. We may as well be frank about these things. And I say to the lady right here that she is never going to hatch anything worth while out of that committee unless she changes her ideas and methods."

Mrs. Norton listened and then asked that her committee be permitted to sit all the following week. This was granted.

Masonry in Ireland.

Scottish Rite News Bureau: Direct information from Ireland reveals that the Craft still flourishes on the Island and that the Grand Lodge and Supreme Council, 33rd degree, are acting together in complete harmony to further Freemasonry under the trying conditions existing today.

Though Ireland is divided, politically, into the Republic of Eire, in the south, and Ulster, the six northern counties that have remained loyal to the British government, the entire Island remains one Masonic jurisdiction. The headquarters of both Grand Bodies are in Dublin, though the Craft is strongest in Ulster.

The grand master of the Grand Lodge is Lord Donoughmore, who is also grand commander of the Supreme Council, 33rd degree, of England and Wales. Justice Gerald FitzGibbon is grand commander of the Supreme Council of Ireland. All the members of the families of these two grand commanders who have been able to qualify are in some branch of war service. This includes the women, nephews and nieces, and all other relatives.

The death of Lieutenant Grand Commander William J. Smyly, 33rd degree, of the Irish Supreme Council, dealt a severe blow to Irish Masonry. His nephew, J. Gilbert Smyly, 33rd degree, secretary general, succeeded him to that office, and Raymond F. Brooke, 33rd degree, was appointed the new secretary general. Secretary General Brooke is also deputy grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ireland.

Another Grand Lodge official, Senior Grand Warden Sir George Franks, is a member of the Supreme Council of Ireland. Active Member Pim Thompson, who left such a fine impression when he visited United States Masons a few years ago, recently retired from that body.

It wouldn't hurt so much to become angry except that for some reason anger makes your mouth work faster than your mind.

If the past doesn't return after you have longed for it, you should go ahead and live the present.

THE THANKSGIVING SEASON

For the courage which comes when we call
While trouble like hailstones fall;
For the help that is somehow nigh
In the deepest night when we cry;
For the path that is certainly shown
When we pray in the dark alone,
Let us give thanks!

For the knowledge we gain if we wait
And bear all the buffets of fate;
For the vision that beautifies sight
If we look under wrong for the right;
For the gleam of the Ultimate Goal
That shines on each reverent soul,
Let us give thanks!

For the consciousness stirring in creeds
That love is the thing the world needs;
For the cry of the travelling earth
That is giving a new faith birth;
For the God we are learning to find
In the heart and the soul and the mind,
Let us give thanks!

For the growth of the spirit through pain
Like a plant in the soil and the rain;
For the dropping of needless things
Which the sword of a sorrow brings;
For the meaning and purpose of life
Which dawns on us out of the strife,
Let us give thanks!

AUNT LUCINDY AND HER NEIGHBORS SHOP IN CISCO

"Well, as I sed Wednesday, the last thing she done as I drive out wuz to foller me to the gate and shake her fist at me and holler, 'Be shore and pay the gas bill and fetch out sevral new heaters fer them children's bedrooms where they do their studin'. I ain't a goin' to take no chances on them younguns a ketchin' cold and havin' to be doctored on account of you bein' so stingy you won't have enough gas heaters fer 'em to set by and whatever you do don't forget to put in my little Lone Star Gas bank which I keep a settin' on the bureau and deposit in that there bank every day of the world jest fifteen cents which will take care of my gas bill fer a whole year and if other folks would do that instid of spendin' their money in riotous livin' they wouldn't always be kickin' about their gas bill being so high and most of them a rickollectin' that their summer bills ain't nigh so high as their winter bills which would not be high if they had sense enough to turn down them gas burners onct in a while instid of lettin' 'em flare up so high a wastin' of gas."

that the extension of the government sponsored Diversified Occupation practical work gives Cisco students an additional two years' training and enables them to come out plum well fitted for business jobs. "Yes," sez Bill, "that's so and Mirandy sez if our boys heads is too full of sports to absorb book learning she'll git 'em set to work on ranches or at farming at regular bone labor but she ain't going to have 'em made into feet ball players which she sez ain't good for nothing but to tear up their britches."

"Yes," sez I, "she is almost right about that, and since I am also figgerin' on sending Rainwater Jones to Cisco Junior College bein' we are right smack dab on the highway and plum convenient to them easy ridin', keerful drove coaches so's he can git in 'em an' ride righ smack dab into Cisco, rain or shine, there won't be no excuse for Rainwater not going to school to the best junior college in Texas. Shore, and if he flunks after gittin sech a fine opportunity to make something out of hisself in Cisco Junior College I'll git Jones to put him also on Mitcham's Ranch and make a cowboy out of him. But sech a job, you know, Bill, also requires a boy to have some sense and git up and also considerable ambition to grow into a big cattle man like Mayor Mitcham," I sez.

"Oh, shore it takes sense to make a good cowboy, and speakin' of me follerin' out Mirandy's orders, don't let me forget to stop at J. M. Radford's Wholesale Grocery and hand in Cy Perkins' order fer a wagon load of Christmas groceries to be sent out immedjetly because Cy sez them wimmin customers of his is already buyin' up sech Christmas goodies as candy and oranges and raisins and all sorts of canned goods as well as flour and sugar, gittin' ready to do their Christmas baking, and if he don't have plenty of groceries on hand they'll go elsewhere to trode, and Cy sez as long as that fine Radford Wholesale Grocery is so handy there in Cisco he don't see no sense in him being short on no eatin' vittles no time and as soon as I hand in Cy's orders to the obleeegin' Mr. Cliett, the manager of Radford's Wholesale Grocery, I'll prance right over to the Nance Motor Co. and see if I can trade in this here ole 1940 model Ford at a reasonable price on one of them Ford Super De Luxe Station Wagons which Mirandy is set an' determined to git on account of our growin' family so's she can haul 'em all at onct bein' them fine Ford Super De Luxe Station Wagons has big, wide seats and will carry eight passengers, including the driver, Mirandy sez there ain't nary bit of sense in us leaving half of our youngsters at home to git into mischief when she can carry the whole shooting match to town or to church or to the Dallas Centennial any time she gits ready. And another thing, she sez, she can remove them rear and center seats and make an express wagon out of it and send to town with a load of eggs, chickens and turkeys and several cans of milk. Them Station Wagons is the handiest critters I know of fer a farmer with a big family and all of 'em rarin' to go at onct and they're for sale right there at the Nance Motor Co. at awful reasonable prices and a fine trade in on a feller's ole car," sez Bill.

"Yes, they're fine for anybody and I do believe Lucindy would rather have me to git all crippled up than to have anything happen to our Ford Station Wagon we bought from Nance Motor Co. last spring and Lucindy is nigh now accompanied by Alvir Jones and six younguns and Sis Gillwuzzie and Sister Tweekins is driving all up and down them Cisco streets a huffin' for bargains in that Ford Station Wagon," I replies back to Bill.

Then suddenly he grabs a big yaller straw tied around his thumb and sez he, "By golly, if I weren't jest about to fergit a awful important errand Cy Perkins put on me by thing this here straw aroun' my thumb."

"For the love of Mike, what else do you have to rickollect, Bill, before me and you and Ezry can set out for Mitcham's Ranch?" I sez.

"Well, I got to drive out to that big Tompkins Broom Factory and hand in Cy Perkins' order for six dizen brooms and two dozen mops and also unload that big sack of pecans, bein' Tompkins not only runs the biggest broom factory in West Texas and sells them brooms and mops fer and nigh but by golly he buys every pecan he can git his hands on and also ships them pecans all over the U. S. A. So them big boys of mine has picked several bushels of pecans and is sending them to the Tompkins Broom Factory where Tompkins pays the highest prices for 'em an' can't even git enough to supply his customers. Oh, Tompkins is awful enterprising and keeps many men employed in his industries."

"Shore enough," I sez, "I never had no idar that Cisco had sech a big pay roll industry as Tompkins Broom Factory and Tompkins hisself a big pecan merchant, you say?"

"Oh, shore he is, and Cy Perkins down yonder at Possum Holler has got his female wimmin customers so spiled they won't sweep with nary other broom if they can't git Tompkins brooms and mops so Cy he is almost seldom out of Tompkins brooms and mops on account of the big demand and he said to git another load of brooms and mops sent out today so's his wimmin customers can begin their Christmas house cleaning with Tompkins brooms."

"You know, Tompkins has good cotton mattresses now for only $5.50 on a special sale. He also makes inner springs—and speaking of sales, Tompkins has 50 gallons of good home-made syrup for sale, too."

"Well, let's git going," I sez, "for I'm thirsty and want to git to Dean's Drug Store as quick as I can and git me a sody pop, and I might treat you and Ezry if you wouldn't want more than one apiece," sez I.

Well, when I drove up to the Cisco Daily Press office that day to set and talk to you fellers fer a spell, all you folks wuz so busy a takin' in ads an' subscriptions that me and Bill drove on up to the City Hall where I seed Mr. Mitcham a settin' and a talkin' to Mr. Tompkins about the depression a bein' plum over in that town, and business fine with both of them, I asked 'em if they had seed anything of them two female wimmin and they said they had done a big sight of tradin' in them stores then they had headed for the utility stores where they intended to git a big passel of 'lectricity and gas housekeepin' impliments.

But, Mr. Editor, I can't write no more now because Lucindy she's pawling at me to come and make ole Bill the Kizer (our billy goat) git out of the car where he's a settin' up in the back seat and she can't git him out so's she can go to the missionary society and she sez she ain't a goin' no where a haulin' that blamed billy goat, so I reckon I gott'er go out and git him out; but you can look for me in Cisco as soon as I can git Lucindy steered in some other direction (instid of follerin' me) if you know yourself a feller can have no fun nowhere a being fered around by a nosey ole easter like Lucindy so look for me when you see me and rickollect I am as always,
