BREAK IN HEAT WAVE IS PREDICTED

About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

Rev. E. S. James begins a series of revival services with Rev. Shahan at Moran today... Fine people there with the Baptist church and they are going to get the treat of their life when Rev. James begins preaching for them... regardless of the size of the town or church, when James preaches, they sit up and take notice... And his preaching carries power... he is so deadly in earnest... this together with that fine young preacher, Shahan, whom we deem it an honor to call friend, should yield great results.

J. B. Pratt, Gulf agent who recently moved to Eastland, is bringing his office back to Cisco... warehouse service from Cisco is being resumed... family will move back just as soon as a suitable residence can be secured.

Garland (Pete) Nance and his family expect to return from Ruidosa tonight... Steve then goes on his vacation... says he is going to visit some warm climate so that he will not have to get used to the heat when he returns... however, we think he will likely go to the mountains of Arkansas, where he feels more at home.

Mickey Carroll is a good driver and we like fast going... don't like to poke about... but... we rather dislike making curves and sharp corners at 70, even if the other fellow is driving his own car.

P. P. Shepard, famous story teller who can make you jump at the slightest noise even with a daylight ghost story, is reading another book... thinks he will swap golf for swimming during this hot weather... might be a good idea during this heat wave and while the water is so fine... Many others seem to be having that same notion

SHUTDOWN OF FACTORY FOR FUSE MAKING

A temporary shutdown of activities of the Self-Cooling Seat corporation was announced today by Harry Reynolds, president of the company.

The shutdown, Reynolds said, would last until the company can begin the manufacture of a new type of automobile fuses. This will begin, he said, as soon as new machinery can be installed for the purpose.

When approached this morning as to the length of the shutdown, Reynolds said that it probably would be for about a month and a half.

"We have completed the output of car seats for the season," he said, "and are closing the manufacture of them for the time being. Of course we will continue to make them."

County Relief Work Is Ordered Shut Down

ONLY GARDEN AND CANNERY IN OPERATION

Shutdown of all relief projects here except the cannery and probably the garden was announced today by W. E. Moore, case supervisor of the county.

The shutdown, Moore said, is a part of a general temporary halt of all budgetary projects in the county. Only those projects which would be injured by delay will be maintained.

Moore said that he did not know how long the shutdown would last. "It evidently is only temporary," he said. "At least, we hope so."

A shift in relief from the county to the district unit is being made at present. "It is likely due to this that the projects were stopped," Moore said. "We don't know definitely how long the projects will be shut down."

Workers who were to have been carded out this week were affected by the order to discontinue project work. In addition, case aids and all other budgetary workers were temporarily without employment.

WPA Conference To Draw Ciscoans

Police Chief L. B. Maddox who devised the "S-Man" plan because there weren't enough traffic officers to go around, reported the system is working well.

An "S-Man," Maddox explained, means "Safety Man" and he may be your next-door neighbor or your toolblack.

FIRST BREAK IN STRIKE OF WPA IS SEEN

By United Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 12 — First break in the strike on works progress administration workers against the "security wage" was reported today by City Housing Administrator Langdon Post.

Post said all union men who had left the low cost housing project on the lower east side, key spot in the citywide walkout, returned to work this morning.

Union leaders directing the strike said, however, that the walkout was completely effective.

The strikers, all skilled men, are protesting the $93.50 monthly "security wage" which is below the prevailing wage.

"The full shift of 365 men who left last week is back at work today, some 35 failed to report but that is the normal number of absentees due to various personal difficulties," Post said.

Post had announced he would replace all men failing to report today from the list of the National Reemployment Service.

Meanwhile union representatives were visiting other projects to call out the 15,000 workers holding union cards.

High Jap Official Is Assassinated

TOKIO, Aug. 12 — Mayor General Tetsuzan Nagata, chief of the bureau of military affairs of the war office, was killed today by a lieutenant colonel who attacked him with a sword.

Some mystery attached to the assassination, Nagata received the lieutenant colonel in his office. There was an angry argument and the lieutenant colonel attacked with his sword. The war office sought to close all avenues of information, but it was learned that Nagata died almost at once. He was taken from his office but his body left there while the army took the usual procedure in the case of a high official who dies in pursuit of his duty—to promote him.

Several hours after the incident the cabinet announced that Major General Nagata had been promoted to the rank of lieutenant general and then the announcement of his death was made.

SENATE'S TAX BILL SEEN AS FIGHT TOPIC

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — Democratic leaders asserted today that the house never would accept the senate finance committee's proposed increased taxes on small income down to $800.

House leaders made their prediction as the senate committee repaired formally to approve its $500,000 measure and toss it into the senate arena for what is certain to be a pitched battle.

Senate liberal and conservative, as well as party lines, were shattered by the committee's transformation of the tax-on-wealth bill into a tax-on-everybody measure.

Democratic members of the house ways and means committee were virtually unanimous in predicting that the house would not accept the new rates even if they are approved by the senate.

"There has been a good deal said about our bill not conforming to the president's program, but the senate bill does not even strike the same trend," said Representative Robert L. Doughton, democrat, N. C.

"The senate bill is terrible," said Representative Chester Thompson, democrat, Ill.

Family Sees Man Kill Best Friend

By United Press
AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 12 — A horrified wife and three children were dragged from their beds at dawn today to watch their husband and father send his best friend to his death with a blast from a shotgun.

Shouting "Come on, get dressed. We're going to kill a rat," Ralph Still, 27, loaded his wife and children into his car and drove to the home of Ray Hetrick, 28.

"Come on out here. I want to see you," he called to Hetrick. When the latter opened the door Still pressed the trigger of his gun. The charge struck Hetrick in the abdomen. He toppled off the porch, dead.

Still charged Hetrick had been "running around" with his wife. The families have been close friends for five years.

Flying Auto Here! Now Watch for Sky Traffic Jams

"Let's take the old car and go flying for an hour" may become the national evensong if the amazing craft pictured above fulfills the promise of its inventor. Tested in Los Angeles, Waldo Waterman's "flying auto" amazed spectators with its efficient performance, and it will be given further tests in Washington. The plane is tailless, has propeller and pusher-type motor at the rear of the cabin, with elevators and rudders on the wing tips. Powered with a 95-horsepower air-cooled engine, the plane attains a top speed of 110 miles an hour. Waterman estimates that it will cost about $1,000.

NEW RULING ON ABSENTEE VOTE SOUGHT

Are citizens eligible to cast absentee ballots in the Aug. 24 election when they are out of town for reasons other than business, physical disability or sickness?

The county clerk's office at Eastland Saturday, under interpretation of the strict absentee voting rules, believed that citizens are not privileged to vote by absentee methods unless they are sick, physically disabled or their business necessitates absence from their county on election date. The office was working under that interpretation.

However, the office indicated it would seek a ruling from Attorney General William McCraw.

Applications to cast absentee ballots had been received from Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Williams of Eastland, who were in Temple. Carl Johnston of Scranton applied personally to cast his absentee ballot, as he will be in Crane August 24.

The section of the absentee voting procedure which it was indicated a clearer ruling will be sought is as follows:

"Any qualified elector of this state who through the nature of his business is absent from the county of his residence, or who because of sickness or physical disability cannot appear at the poll place in the election precinct, may, nevertheless, cause his vote to be cast at such election in the precinct of his residence by compliance with one or other of the methods hereinafter provided for absent voting."

Hitler Takes Lead In Totality Drive

Copyright 1935 by United Press
BERLIN, Aug. 12. — Adolf Hitler took the lead today in the Nazi drive toward "totality," claiming divine blessing for Nazism and announcing his men would crush all who defied them.

Hitler, urged his followers to fight for their cause, as he emerged after a long silence from his mountain retreat in Bavaria. He left no doubt that the Nazi drive against Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Freemasons, war veterans, and socialists and communists would continue on an official basis.

Hitler spoke to his Nazis at Rosenheim, Bavaria, last night. His speech reached millions of Nazis today through the closely controlled German press which blazoned it as words from the Nazi all-highest.

BRITAIN MAY OFFER ITALY NEW PROPOSAL

Copyright 1935 by United Press
LONDON, Aug. 12. — Anthony Eden, chief British delegate to the British-French-Italian conference on the Italian-Ethiopian dispute, may take to Paris proposals which will bring the entire European problem into negotiation, it was understood today.

It is no longer denied that Eden will offer Italy entirely new terms if it abandons its plans to war on Ethiopia at the end of the rainy season next month, and it was indicated the terms would recognize officially what everyone already knows—that the Ethiopian crisis is inseparable from Europe's problem, and, whether there is war or peace will effect them vitally.

Eden conferred today with members of the government and those who will accompany him. Tomorrow he will go to Paris to talk with Premier Pierre Laval in anticipation of the big conference Thursday.

British opinion is pessimistic. The Paris conference is regarded as the last hope for peace.

An effort will be made by the Boosters to get a group of farmers to go to Lindaie with J. M. Bird next week to make application for a soil erosion camp here, it was announced.

Grandson of Hayes Edits Life's Story

FREMONT, Ohio, Aug. 12 — Letters and publications touching on the life of Rutherford B. Hayes, 18th president of the United States, are being compiled for publication at the family home by Commander Webb C. Hayes, II, of Toledo, grandson of the president.

Commander Hayes recently moved into the ancestral home in Spiegel Grove State Park here, under the terms by which Colonel Hayes left the estate to the citizens of Ohio. Members of the family must live in the home until the line becomes extinct.

In memory of the president, the Hayes Memorial library was built in the park. There 100,000 letters and 20,000 periodicals connected with the public and private life of President Hayes and his wife, Lucy Webb Hayes, already have been catalogued and indexed by the library staff. More than 50,000 persons visited the library last year.

As a memorial, the interior of the home is being restored by Commander Hayes to the style of his grandfather's period. A piano which graced the White House during Rutherford H. Hayes' presidency is to be exhibited in the library. It is a gift of the Ohio Girls club, of Washington.

BORGER, Aug. 12. — When a truck collided with her father's car, Laura Bell Parker, aged six, was more concerned with the fate of a watermelon in the car than possible danger to herself or other members of the family.

FDR ANSWER TO CHARGE IN FUTURE SEEN

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 — President Roosevelt, within a fortnight or two, may be expected to present his answer to attacks on the New Deal, such as that by Former President Hoover and other administration critics, close friends indicated today.

In his swing across the country, following adjournment of congress, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to break his silence on increasingly bitter republican criticism.

His speeches will, it was indicated, present the New Deal's reply to such challenges as that made by Mr. Hoover at Chicago when he called on the president to show whatever plans he may have for constitutional changes.

There was no indication, however, whether Mr. Roosevelt would make any direct response to the specific questions raised by Mr. Hoover. Hoover's speech was regarded here as placing him firmly in the forefront of republican presidential possibilities for 1936.

The White House, as is customary remained silent regarding the Hoover attack.

HIGH MARKS FOR SUMMER SEEN SUNDAY

Although Ciscoans today were still complaining of the heat, the temperature here followed the trend of the weather bureau forecast, with slightly lower readings, than on Saturday, and Sunday.

A temperature of 101 degrees was seen at 2 o'clock, with the mercury dropping a little later to the 100 mark as clouds offered a little relief.

DALLAS, Aug. 12 — Residents of North Texas were promised a measure of relief today from the excessive heat which sent the mercury soaring yesterday.

Scattered clouds and light winds had kept the mercury under the 100 mark until noon and weather reports indicated it would not go beyond that figure.

Abatement of the heat wave was welcomed all over Texas after yesterday's scorching sun ran the temperature to 110 degrees.

Quannah and Memphis, both reported high readings of 110 while Seymour reported 108. Other cities and towns reporting high readings were Dublin, 106; Henrieta, 106; Ballinger, 106; Fort Stockton, 102; Haskell, 106; Brownwood, 102; Abilene, 102; Sweetwater, 107.

BACK OF HEAT WAVE SAID TO BE BROKEN

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12 — The weather bureau today stood by its declaration that the back of the heat wave is broken despite temperature records yesterday.

The government observers here said that scorching temperatures last year declined after this period this and reached moderation before the end of August.

For the southwestern area, the weather bureau predicted "a little above normal" for this week. Normal for this period is in the lower 60's. Kansas and Oklahoma yesterday were the focal points of the heat wave with high temperatures also in the rule in Missouri, Texas and Nebraska.

The Highway Projects

Cisco has been assured that this week the highway department will send men here to work on a survey for the re-routing of Highway 80 through the city and that they will stay until they have completed the work. That is good news to citizens who have looked forward to the new road, and to workmen who have hoped to secure employment on the project.

A highway official has estimated that actual construction of the road will start about Nov. 1, the necessary delay of letting the contract and other details holding it up that long.

At the same time, the city has been assured that the Leeray cutoff, long sought as a connecting link between Cisco and Breckenridge, will be paved as soon as possible.

The road already has the caliche base necessary for paving. The base is being oiled to preserve it until the actual paving can take place, which is to be in the near future.

At present the highway situation here appears distinctly to be looking up. About the main thing to be done now is to sit back and wait until the actual work starts.

Hitler's Drive for 'Totality'

Herr Hitler, in his campaign for "totality" in his Nazi ranks, has opened up against the Jews again, at the same time extending his drive against Roman Catholics, Masons, and the Steel Helmets, war veterans organization.

Most of his campaign, however, has been against the Jews. They have been told that they are not wanted. In many cases they have been driven out of their homes—homes which they have built during long years of work in and for Germany. Their property has been confiscated and they have been driven out of business in Germany in many more cases. To escape persecution many of them have left the country and sought refuge in Palestine.

Jews recently have been barred from coming to Berlin, the national capital. Saturday when the international university games opened at Budapest in Hungary there was a noticeable absence of Jews from the German team. When questioned as to the reason for this, when they had always been on athletic teams in the past, the team manager replied vaguely that they "were not skilled enough."

Other organizations, especially those of the Catholic church, have fared but little better. Any group which has opposed Hitler and his Nazis has been dissolved or suppressed to the extent that the national socialist party has run roughshod over the country, talking itself into boldness that has amounted to an even more military spirit than that which prevailed before the World War.

This sort of terrorism is almost unthinkable in America, where the ideal of religious freedom has always played

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—Withered NRA, along with its other research tasks, is running a "world's meanest man" contest with plenty of entries.

At least several score employers, NRA field agents report, are insisting on repayment by workers of some or all of the wage increases received under NRA codes.

Such workers, usually in the lowest wage group, find themselves back on pre-code wage scales—with an additional deduction from their pay envelopes to restore to the boss the money he paid them "illegally."

On the other hand, some employers are turning out to be good sports. NRA was left with something like a million dollars collected from those who had cheated on wages and payable to employees.

Following discard of the codes, the money presumably was repayable to the employers. But certain of them are saying that they have charged off the sums on their books and that NRA can turn the money over to the workers.

NRA is still the best place to go to find out what's happening to wages and hours since codes were canceled. And the most significant thing you hear is that some of the larger corporations—but thus far very few—are beginning to reduce labor standards.

Previously, lowering of standards had been confined entirely to smaller companies.

Insiders look for a big wave of strikes this fall and winter.

CONGRESSMAN WRIGHT PATMAN of Texas, the soldier boss man, has been both worried and sore.

Congressman Nat Patton of Texas was virtually unheard of—in Washington or elsewhere—before the Senate lobby committee investigated his receipt of a box of cigars or something, coincidentally with his purchase of $3000 in bonds while receiving $3100 in salary.

The names of Patton and Patman are sufficiently similar, according to Patman, to have confused a lot of people. Mr. Patman would like to have everyone understand that Texas sent Congress a Patton as well as a Patman.

PUBLIC opinion in this town is of insignificant import as compared with public opinion outside. Just the same, it's at least an historical note that not in the last couple of years has your correspondent heard so many comments of criticism and disgust as followed the firing of Dr. Amy Starnard, eminent psychiatrist, to make a berth on the Federal Parole Board for Judge T. Webber Wilson, the Mississippi politician who quit the Virgin Islands after Secretary Tokes had publicly charged he was unfit.

Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings, who has made the Department of Justice a haven for political hacks and who has appointed as sour a roster of U. S. district attorneys as any Republican administration ever displayed, is taking the brunt of criticism—especially since he himself has been loudly critical of parole policies in the states.

The appointment of Judge Wilson despite his aromatic record in the Virgin Islands is just another one of the rewards which go to Senator Pat Harrison, Wilson's backer, for his sturdy performance as a Senate administration leader in support of New Deal policies which he pretentiously dislikes.

Awaiting the Verdict of the Civilized Nations

a highly important part in the national life. It may not always be realized, but the ideal is here nevertheless.

Neither is the ideal of true democracy always realized, but rule by sheer force and terrorism would be out of the question. The people of this nation would rise against any man or any party which sought to enforce such a rule on them.

Race equality in the United States has always been a question which has troubled us. Yet this nation could never submit to such persecution of any race or religious group as that which is being carried out in Germany today.

A religious war is the bitterest and most cruel of all wars, as shown in the crusades when Saracen fought Christian and each believed he received divine blessing for each enemy he accounted for. A religious war within a single nation would be even more cruel than that between two nations.

No nation which has persecuted the Jews has ever prospered for long. Herr Hitler would do well to dig out his history book and learn that fact for himself.

Is Hitler really sincere in persecuting the Jews? Does he believe he is right in doing so? It is doubtful. He may be simply whistling in the dark, or he may be politician enough to see that that policy appeals to the gang of terrorists which he is leading and which he may be afraid to cross.

gers were not reappointed on the present staff.

The state is efficient about one thing in its government, at least. Tons of waste paper taken from capitol offices go to the state power plant to be fed into its furnaces.

AUSTIN, Aug. 12.—Constitutional authority to permit early treatment of mental diseases, rather than let patients become incurable and a permanent charge upon the state, is proposed in Amendment No. 5 on the Aug. 24 ballot.

This amendment would permit persons with mental afflictions to be committed for observation and treatment for periods up to 60 days without the present system of determining sanity.

Now, families of afflicted persons will not except in the last resort, go through the process of having the patient declared insane, and when a jury once has returned such a verdict, the person thereafter is held insane until tried by some other jury. Under the amendment plan, a person may be committed for treatment for a brief time, and then, if he recovers, return to his family.

Another effort, designed to abolish the fee system of compensating public officials, and to end the abuses of the fee system, will be before the voters as No. 6 of the amendments on the Aug. 24 ballot.

This amendment proposes to abolish the fee basis of compensation for officials in counties of over 20,000; and in smaller counties to give the commissioners court authority to determine whether it shall be abolished.

The amendment is understood to have the support of virtually all fee officials and county and local officials generally. This, on the theory those well-paid already are limited in maximum pay; and those not getting the maximum thus would be assured full salaries. The amendment does not provide the source of additional money to be paid in salaries.

The last amendment on the ballot provides for extending the use of state free textbooks to church schools as well as state-supported schools.

A hidden effort has been found more important than the declared purpose—that of giving the legislature power to abolish abuses of the padded scholastic census rolls on which the state apportionment now is paid.

Under it, the legislature could fix actual attendance as the basis of paying the scholastic apportionment instead of the scholastic census. Texas State Teachers' association, has decided to attack and oppose this amendment, on grounds it considers adequate. But friends of the amendment have insisted the only objections could be on the ground of wanting to destroy the parochial schools, or wanting to continue the census roll abuses.

LETTERS FROM READERS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Charging that important facts were kept from the public by Washington reporters, Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene sent the following statement to the Wichita Daily Times. He has asked that the Daily News publish the letter.

WICHITA DAILY TIMES:
Kindly permit me to reply to your front page article under big headlines "BLANTON FIGURES IN LOBBY INQUIRY," which with your sub-headlines, was injuriously misleading.

When John Carpenter of Dallas testified that he spent $33,000 in Washington lobbying against the Utility bill, and that he had talked with all Texas Congressmen except Maverick and McFarlane, I went before the committee and made Carpenter admit that he had never talked with me in his whole life.

On July 1, in the house I made a speech for the so-called "death-sentence" and that day went before the voters voting for it, and gave 100 per cent support to the president's measure sponsored by Chairman Rayburn. H. C. Hopson, whose salary and profits amount to $2,855,106, spent $1,209,034 lobbying against the Utility bill, and Hearst papers were paid $23,311 July 24 for fighting it.

I made a speech against the senate appropriating $150,000 and the house another $50,000 for investigations, my contention being that it would be wasting money duplicating work, and the senate voted to appropriate only $50,000, which saved $100,000.

Eugene V. Sellers, who is my friend and constituent from Abilene, employed here by NRA, requested that I introduce him to Senator Black. I did so, leaving him in Senator Black's office. Investigators had worried Sellers with questions about his association with Patton, and fearing that they might carry an erroneous report to Black, he felt that it was his duty to the government under his oath as an official, to conceal nothing, but to tell Senator Black all he knew about the matter.

Mr. Sellers is a high-class citizen, is a Knight Templar Mason and a Shriner, and told the truth about everything he had seen and heard.

When utility influences tried to make it unpleasant for Sellers at his hotel, I advised him to move, and as he was paying by the month, he left his trunk in his room for the short time before his month expired, and I advanced the money for him to pay his hotel bill, which he promptly reimbursed when he got his check. I do such favors for my constituents here almost daily. When I paid Sellers bill, the hotel clerk gave me a bottle of ink. Sellers had left in his room, which was nothing in the world but some ordinary kerosene oil, which I exhibited to prominent newspaper reporters, but regarding the above utility interests tried to make a mountain out of a molehill.

Patton and his secretary came to my office and requested me to go with them before the Black committee and I arranged for Patton to make a statement, which I did.

When Sellers was summoned before the house committee, I went with him to see that he was accorded fair treatment, and when Congressman Cox asked him an improper question, I protested, although I was not a member of that committee, and Congressman Cox duly apologized, and had his improper question omitted from the Record, and thereafter treated Sellers with due consideration. I had no other connection with the matter.

It is sound business deduction that the great stumbling block to the development of some cities resolves itself down to just the lack of confidence between its citizens. SUN-TAN

It doesn't belong to you. You'll expect your man to be faithful."

Jo had to lower her eyes in defeat before his direct, questioning gaze.

"You do expect that, don't you, Jo?"

"Yes," she told him slowly. "But why should that action of Fragonet's mean anything more than that what happened that night on the way to the Lone Tree Tavern? Men seem to have moments when they play the game with their fingers crossed. Don't they?"

Marsh flushed. "Perhaps that meant more than you think, Jo. You see, I—"

But Jo had had enough. She wanted to get out into the air to think in a swift movement she rose. Marsh had no time to leave his own chair before she had said, "There's no cause for your concern, Mr. Marsh."

"Then you're not thinking of leaving with Fragonet?"

Jo smiled. "No... not with Fragonet. Good-night."

She turned and left him standing there, bewildered. He started as if to follow, but just at that moment Mrs. Marsh and Babs Montgomery appeared.

"Oh, there you are, exclaimed Mrs. Marsh, sweeping forward with Babs at her side. "What do you mean, running off to dinner without us?"

Marsh covered his annoyance, smiled and chatted while he seated his mother and the younger woman. "I had to discuss plans for the party."

"Not," remarked Babs with a meaningful glance at Jo's empty cup, "plans for a private party, I trust?"

"I'm afraid," said Marsh with cutting politeness, "there's no such thing at Crest Lake Inn. . . . Shall I order?"

TRADITION insists that when a motion picture company sends a unit on location, the unit must be given a party by the local inhabitants. Part of every popular movie star's education consists of parties given at sea, on mountain tops, in the broad farm lands, and by small towns and big ones.

Marsh was a natural host, and even more important, he had the money to back his inclinations. If the party at Crest Lake was not the most elaborate which Drann and his company had attended, certainly it came near to being the most enjoyable. The host was entertained the movie crowd because he wanted to—and not because they were movie stars. Perhaps that was why Fragonet and Drann and Montez and the rest enjoyed themselves so thoroughly.

Tradition has it, too, that at such parties the leading man and woman accompany each other; they, in fact, carry on the show for the benefit of the public. Thus Fragonet, to Jo's relief, was pretty well occupied with Lolita Montez—and Lolita was hiding her dislike for the star as admirably as she hid it before the camera.

Barston, the aviator, jockeyed for Jo's attention all evening, and when at last he was successful he delivered a lecture. "Look here, Jo. Darlen. Seems to me I never see you any more unless Marsh decides to throw a party."

"I've been around all the time," laughed Jo. "So have the other guys. The only reason I have even a prayer tonight is because Fragonet has to show off with Montez—because old lady Marsh has tossed this Montgomery wench at Doug again—and maybe because that handsome life guard hasn't shown up."

"I went to school with that handsome life guard," Jo told him lightly.

Barston nodded. "I know. School friendships are hard to break up."

"Sometimes not so hard," said Jo queerly.

THE wondered if Bret intended to stay away from the dance. He wasn't particularly excited about big parties, and perhaps he wouldn't come. She knew that Marsh had invited him, and Tubby had heard—in characteristic Tubby fashion—that Bret was escorting Dila Saunders, the blond extra girl Marsh had mentioned in connection with Fragonet. Jo had seen the Saunders girl only once, for Drann had ordered three extra girls up from Hollywood and then, with his usual inconsistency, used them not at all. The Saunders girl seemed hard and cheap, and Johnny Barley had intimated that she was not so much a genuine, hard-working extra girl as one of the "hangers-on" of the Hollywood studios.

Tubby's rumor that Bret was to escort Dila Saunders had disturbed Jo more deeply than she admitted even to herself. As she danced with Todd Barston she reflected that she hadn't yet had an opportunity to confess to Bret what a blind fool she had been. After her talk with Marsh the night before she had decided it was too late to go to Bret's cabin. Someone was almost certain to see and perhaps to misunderstand—and she had quite enough chalked up against her by Mrs. Marsh.

But tonight, with almost everyone at the Inn, it might be safe. Certainly she must see Bret without further delay. There had been too much between them, they had loved each other too deeply, to have this thing hanging over their heads.

When the dance with Barston ended Jo excused herself quickly, slipped out on the empty veranda. There was a high full moon, lighting the lake and the broad slope which led down to the cottages. Bret's little place was at the very edge of the lake so that he would be near at hand if some nocturnal swimmer should find himself in trouble.

Jo saw that there was a dim light in one of the rooms, and hurried her pace. "I'll tell him quickly," she thought. "I'll tell him quickly and get it over with, and try to make him come back to the dance with me. . . . Then maybe, dancing together, like we used to do. . . ."

Her high-heeled slippers sank deep in the soft grass, staining green, but Jo didn't think of this. She slipped by the window, her hand outstretched to rap on the cottage door. But her knuckles never reached the wood, for something beyond the window caught her eye. It was something bright and artificial and glittering—the platinum head of Dila Saunders.

Bret was smiling down at Dila Saunders, and as Jo stood, transfixed, he bent slowly to kiss those insolent carmine lips. Jo saw him reach out and touch the lamp on the table, plunge the cottage into darkness.

FRENCH ALLIES IN MID-EUROPE ARM MILLIONS

By STEWART BROWN
United Press Staff Correspondent
VIENNA, Aug. 12 — The Little Entente, the "police dog" of French policy in central and southeastern Europe, has increased its armies by more than 15 per cent since Germany left the League of Nations and the world disarmament conference collapsed, it is revealed.

"Today the three members of the Entente have 700,000 men under arms to see that the territorial arrangements of the peace-treaties are not disturbed.

This is an increase of approximately 11,000 men over the figure returned to the League and Europe started preparing for war instead of disarming for peace.

Strong Air Force Included

The soldiers of the Little Entente (Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania) are backed by 1,913 airplanes and other equipment denied to their neighbors (Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria) who emerged defeated from the World War.

In addition these three nations have millions of trained reserves who can be rushed to the colors in the place of war. Official statistics place the war-time strength of the Little Entente at around 5,000,000 men.

Even to the casual observer it is obvious the Little Entente is the dominant force in central and southeastern Europe.

Together with the Balkan Entente, it commands a "peace-time" army of about 950,000 soldiers and a war-time force of around 7,200,000 men.

War Losers Vastly Weaker

Against this united force of the status-quo group ten nations who were defeated in the world war have a combined standing army of approximately 100,000 men with scarcely any regular trained reserves.

Even if these three nations allowed their armies to be reduced to the level of the peace-treaties the total could hardly pass 200,000, or considerably less than one-third of the Little Entente strength.

These figures are interesting because they show how suicidal would be a war between any member of the Little Entente and any member of the defeated powers.

Two-Nation War Doubtful

A war in this part of the world is almost out of the question unless it is a part of a bigger European war. A regional war is almost unthinkable.

Hungary, the chief revisionist agitator of the defeated group of powers, realizes this and is doing everything to destroy the unity of the Little Entente and to get free from the military restrictions of its peace treaty. Austria and Bulgaria, although revisionist and eager to re-arm, are not so sharp in their demands.

JAPANESE IS SEEN AS NEED OF HAWAIIANS

HONOLULU, Aug. 12 — Japanese as well as other foreign languages should be taught in Hawaii's public schools, Lawrence M. Judd, ex-Governor of Hawaii, told the ninth annual conference of Americans here.

The new Americans organization is comprised of youth of Oriental ancestry, preparing to exercise their rights as U. S. citizens.

Judd offered the teaching of Japanese in public schools as the answer to the problem of foreign language schools, which lie outside the jurisdiction of the territorial education department. Such a practice, he said, would eliminate the cultural need of the language schools.

Handicaps Pointed Out

"By and large," Judd told the delegates "the people of the mainland still feel you have not lived long enough in America to be thoroughly assimilated in our body politic. This feeling places you in a position of unusual and grave responsibility."

While recommending the teaching of Oriental culture Judd scored the contention that American-born Orientals would not be loyal to the United States. He said it was "pure

OUTLOOK FOR TEXAS CROPS TERMED GOOD

Special to Daily News

AUSTIN, Aug. 12 — All Texas crops, except wheat, promise a much larger production than a year ago. An unusually large feed crop is in prospect; many areas producing a surplus this year. Rainfall during July consisted only of scattered local showers. However, these showers were heavy and frequent along the Upper Coast. The hot, dry weather following the heavy rainfall of late June was mostly favorable to the development of field and fruit crops. The reported condition of most growing crops was somewhat higher on August 1 than for the previous month.

On August 1 the Texas cotton crop was forecast at 3,851,000 bales (500-pound gross weight) compared with 2,406,000 bales produced in 1934, 4,428,000 bales in 1933, and a 10-year average (1924-1933) of 4,342,000 bales. The acreage planted to cotton in Texas this year was estimated at 11,357,000 acres. Assuming an abandonment equal to the 10-year average of 3.2 percent, the area harvested will be 10,924,990 acres.

For the United States a crop of 11,793,000 bales is indicated from a reported condition of 73.6 per cent of normal. The lint yield is placed at 198.3 pounds; and the area in cultivation, less the 10-year average abandonment, 29,480,000 acres. The United States production in 1934 amounted to only 9,635,000 bales.

Livestock Improves
The livestock situation has continued to improve. Ranges are in good condition for the state as a whole, and prospects for fall and winter range production are good. Most of the 1934 drought-stricken areas, except the northwestern part of the Panhandle and the western portion of the Trans-Pecos area, have recuperated sufficiently that ranchmen may venture on a restocking program. The condition of ranges on August 1, 1935, was 86 per cent of normal compared with 50 per cent a year ago, and 78.4 per cent of the 10-year average on August 1.

The condition of Texas corn on August 1 was 85 per cent of normal, indicating a production of 11,326,000 bushels compared with 45,873,000 bushels in 1934, and the 10-year average of 74,211,000 bushels. The crop indicated this year is the largest of any of the past 25 years in Texas, with the exception of 1910 when 117,040,000 bushels were harvested. The yield per acre, however, was higher in 1910, 1912, 1913, 1915, 1919, 1920, and 1926; but less acreage was harvested in those years.

Due largely to the short feed crop produced last year, a very large increase in the grain sorghum acreage has occurred this year. The acreage of grain sorghum for all purposes for 1935 is estimated at 5,378,000 acres compared with 4,482,000 acres planted in 1934. The crop gives promise of an excellent yield, and the condition on August 1, 1935, is rated at 79 per cent of normal compared with 30 per cent a year ago, and 74.3 per cent of the 10-year average 1923-1932 on August 1.

The production is estimated at 86,049,000 bushels for 1935 compared with 17,928,000 bushels produced in 1934 and 47,614,000 bushels the 10-year average production.

Big Hay Crop
Tame hay condition is reported at 85 per cent and indicates a total production of 626,000 tons compared with 379,000 tons produced last year. A wild hay crop of 221,600 tons is indicated by a condition of 86 per cent on August 1, from 221,330 acres. The production last year amounted to 130,000 tons.

The condition of the Texas rice crop on August 1 at 92 per cent of normal indicates a production of 8,810,000 bushels compared with 7,738,000 bushels produced last year. While the crop was seeded late this spring, moisture conditions have been favorable and no water shortage has occurred. At the present time, however, frequent showers and rains are delaying the harvest of early varieties and may lower yields somewhat. The United States crop is forecast at 38,159,000 bushels compared with 38,296,000 bushels in 1934. Stocks of rice remaining on farms on August 1 for the United States are estimated at 94,000 bushels compared with 111,000 bushels on farms on August 1, 1934.

The outlook for production of all fruits show an improvement over that of a month ago. Rains late in June were especially beneficial to the citrus crop in the Rio Grande Valley. The condition of the citrus crop on August 1 compares favorably with the condition of the crop a year ago.

$37,500,000 Hudson River Tunnel Links New York With Jersey In Record Time

First the Holland tunnels, then George Washington bridge linked New York City to New Jersey. Now the first midtown tunnel under the Hudson river has been "holed through" to connect the Times Square area with the mighty Palisades. Made possible by PWA funds, the tunnels will cost $37,500,000. Here's an entrance to the tube.

A mile and a third—7,000 feet—under the Hudson goes the newest link between New York and the mainland. Working under terrific pressure to keep back the Hudson river's water and quicksand, 8,000 men dig the opening, then line the monster hole with steel rings. Here they tighten bolts on the rings.

Four months ahead of schedule, after only 18 months' work the actual "holing through" of the new link between New Jersey and New York was accomplished 102 feet below the surface of the river. Here is one of the first workmen to crawl through the opening. Although it now connects the two states, about two and one-half years will elapse before the first cars can make the journey. To date seven men have been killed on the project.

BARREN PACIFIC ISLES BECOME GREAT PRIZE AS AIRLINE BASE

By ED MORGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
HONOLULU, Aug. 12 — Progress put a premium today on desolate spots of land which sprinkle the mid-Pacific where 20th century pioneers are engaged in a strange and exciting venture — conquering the ocean with commercial airlines.

Nearly a score of barren, uninhabited islands strung out from Honolulu to the South Seas and westward to the Orient, known for years to navigation only as "landmarks to be avoided, have found a future in aviation and a value which may set nations to bidding for their sovereignty.

A dozen Hawaiian schoolboys, in groups of four, are camping on Howland, Baker and Jarvis Islands a little more than half way from Honolulu to Pago Pago. They will remain there all summer taking hourly weather observations and making surveys of surface conditions.

The lonely vigil foreshadows an airline which some day will link the United States with Australia and transform intermediate islets into bustling plane bases.

U. S. May Claim Islands

Alert to the interests of American airlines, the United States may claim these three and others in the ocean avenue to Samoa, as possessions, bringing to them with the swiftness of aviation the civilization they have missed during the centuries of plodding sea travel.

Another aspect of the situation is what will be the effect of commercial air service on shipping lines.

The lure of a sea voyage and the historic perseverance of water transportation against every other form of shipping will continue to keep liners and freighters in the forefront of Pacific commerce, William P. Roth, president of the Matson Navigation company, believes.

Roth, whose views apparently are typical of other major shippers regarding impending commercial air service, said Matson welcomed Pan-American Airways to the Pacific because the venture was bound to increase the general volume of business.

Argument Based on History

John E. Ryan, Matson's general passenger traffic manager, endorsed Roth's opinion.

"Water-borne transportation has persevered against all other forms of commerce down through history," Ryan said, "indicating he considered air competition no exception to the rule."

"There is a romance and glamour to sea travel that will never wear off," Roth said. "People buy a steamer ticket as much for the voyage as for the sight-seeing at their destination. We will always get this type of passenger."

Trans-Pacific air mail contracts undoubtedly will cut into Matson's mail poundage somewhat, but both Roth and Ryan refused to believe that competition would be felt appreciably.

Fossil Block Found In Texas Panhandle

CANYON, Aug. 12 — A 3,500 pound block of semi-solid sandstone containing miscellaneous bones of the lower Pliocene period, has been placed in the Pioneer Hall museum here.

The stone contains remains of horses, tigers, dogs, cats, camels, and mastodons, authorities say, which lived five million years ago.

The variety found in the single deposit of fossilized remains is most unusual, paleontologists say, and it will make one of the best exhibits of this kind in the country, they claim.

ILLINOIS DUSTS SANTA ANNA'S WOODEN LEG FOR NEW SHOWING

SPRINGFIELD, August 12 — In storage for more than a decade Santa Anna's wooden leg again is to be placed on exhibition, state officials have decided.

Santa Anna, former president of Mexico and general of the nation's army, lost the leg at the battle of Cerro Gordo on April 18, 1847, when, pursued by the Fourth Illinois Infantry, he was forced to abandon his carriage and flee on a mule.

Members of the Illinois infantry brought the wooden leg to Illinois and it has been numbered among the war relics of the state for years. Until 1934 it was on exhibition in the war museum at the state house.

State activities began to expand, however, and the space used for war relics was required for other purposes. The relic, including Santa Anna's wooden leg, were stored in a fireproof vault.

The new state arsenal to be constructed here, however, will have ample room for a display of war relics, according to Adjutant General Carlos E. Black, who said the trophy taken from the Mexican president many years ago again will be displayed.

Black recalled that the Fourth Illinois Infantry, which captured the general's wooden leg, was an organization of volunteers recruited from central and southern Illinois.

He said that soon after the unit was mustered into service it was sent to Vera Cruz as part of the expedition to Mexico City headed by General Scott.

Black explained that the regiment was engaged in a flanking movement near Cerro Gordo, when, on the Jalapa Road, it came upon the carriage of Santa Anna.

According to all reports the Mexican president fled on a mule, leaving his carriage which contained about $18,000 worth of gold as well as his lunch.

Members of the regiment made quick work of the lunch, according to Black, while a staff officer confiscated the gold.

Obstructions Barely Visible

On the French side of the Rhine are seen low, sunken constructions of cement, barely protruding above the surface of the ground. In the soil of the frontier are sunk 5,000-100,000 francs of the French taxpayers' money. They are represented by those squat constructions — the lid of the hive underneath.

Approaching one of those lids — the visitor hears a humming sound beneath it. That is the voice of the great dynamo far down in the fort. It operates the elevators that descend 150 feet into the earth. It runs the narrow-gauge railway that circulates below the soil. It supplies power to the mechanical hoists and carriages that bring shells from the bottom of the works to the very breeches of the big guns.

Uniforms and salutes have not been abandoned here, but a suit of overalls and a handful of cotton waste is more at home. In these long galleries, tunneled molelike under the earth, men are waiting for the inevitable wave of feigergau. It may come now when it likes.

Named After Hero of Line

"From now on we no longer fear a sudden invasion."

The Magnot Line is ready. It is named in honor of Andre Magnot, minister of war who died in 1932. Magnot was the dominating French figure in the occupation of the Ruhr Valley and was a strong adherent of constant surveillance of the Rhineland. His life after the World War was dedicated to making France strong. He defended military preparedness once with the statement:

"We must not brandish our sword, but we must not break it across our knees."

Magnot's service as a poilu in the war awoke in him strong militaristic impulses. He made constant demands for reinforced armaments and increased military equipment.

The veteran was a hero in the trenches as an enlisted man. Repeatedly he led raiding parties before the German lines. He won the military Medal and was elected to the Legion of Honor.

3 Sections Lose Old 'Party Lines'

BLOOMVILLE, O. Aug. 12 — An old barrier to neighborly conversations over the telephone has been broken down here for the patrons of the Bloomville, Republic and Fireside exchanges within a few miles of each other.

After years during which toll charges were made for inter-exchange calls the three stations have been linked under one "central."

The move, said E. L. Ferrell, division superintendent of the Ohio Standard Telephone Co., is part of a program to extend telephone service in the three communities.

Don't give your clothes a Public Bath

One of the many reasons why so many women prefer the Maytag is because it keeps the clothes at home. They are not exposed to dangerous contacts. They are washed more carefully than by hand, yet with cleanliness, ease and rapidity.

The Maytag invites comparison. Mechanically as fine as a costly automobile, it saves clothes, saves time, and by long years of usefulness brings new washday economy.

Quits College To Coach at Itasca

WELDON TAYLOR, CO-CAPTAIN

"Brains and brawn" is aptly applied to Weldon Taylor, 195-pound co-captain elect of the Eagles of North Texas State Teachers college, who has withdrawn from school to accept the position of coach at Itasca High school. Taylor's leadership on the field and his position as tackle, where he was a tower of strength, will be hard to fill when the call for training camp is sounded in September. In addition to being a letterman in basketball and football, Taylor is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society, and is a leader in club and fraternity affairs on the campus.

WET CLAIMS SUBMISSION IS TAX AID

AUSTIN, Aug. 12. — Submission of the amendment to repeal state-wide prohibition has offered the people themselves an opportunity to help in solving the state's financial problems, R. Emmett Morse, chairman of the Texas repeal forces declared here Saturday. He added that this amendment is the only one of the seven on the Aug. 24 ballot which would provide substantial additional state revenue. "Although the voters of Texas will pass upon seven amendments at the election on Aug. 24," Mr. Morse said, "only one will give them an opportunity to add materially to the state's income. "As a rule, the job of raising revenue to meet the evergrowing expenses of state government is left up to the legislature. Every two years a flood of new tax measures is poured into the hopper. These measures usually seek to add to the burdens of already heavily burdened persons and businesses. "Now, however, the people themselves are given a chance to help in solving the state's financial problem. In voting for repeal they will make available to the state treasury between $6,000,000 and $10,000,000 annually. At the same time, they will do away with a condition of lawlessness shocking to all thoughtful citizens and good government."

TOWN TROUGH TO GO CHARDON, Ohio — Aiter standing nearly a century, one of this village's oldest landmarks will be removed. The landmark is a stone watering trough. The small spring which once fed the trough dried up years ago and it has not been used since.

DEER SPREADS HAVOC DARTMOUTH, Mass. — Mill employes and police joined in a wild chase after a young deer which apparently swam across the Acushnet river from a wooded section to the mill yard. Several windows were broken and the lawn uprooted before the animal was captured.

EXTRA WHITE COTTON GRADE ON INCREASE

AUSTIN, Aug. 12.—The report released today by the division of cotton marketing at Austin on the quality of cotton classed from the Texas crop shows that there is an increased percentage of extra white grades this week as compared with last week. The total per cent of cotton classed in the extra white, standards is less than 10 per cent, most of which is middling and lower.

The report shows that of the cotton classed this week, only 9.5 per cent is strict middling white, and 53.5 per cent is middling white; strict low and low middling white is estimated to be about 18 per cent.

This week spotted cotton of the grades strict middling and above constitutes a little more than 8 per cent of all the cotton classed, and middling spotted more than 2 per cent.

Less than one per cent is lower than middling spotted. Nearly 80 per cent of the cotton classed this week is middling white, extra white, and below in grade.

The report shows that of the cotton classed this week only a negligible proportion is shorter than 7-8 inch, and less than 2 per cent is 7-8 inch. The largest proportion of cotton classed this week is 15-16 inch, this length being nearly 57 per cent, and one inch and longer cotton being over 41 per cent.

Of the cotton classed this week and to date, 99.6 per cent is tenderable under section 5 of the U. S. cotton futures act.

What is the yardstick for a cigarette . . .

Take mildness for one thing—how does it measure up for mildness? Chesterfields are milder—not flat or insipid, of course, but with a pleasing flavor.

Then take taste for another thing—does it have plenty of taste? Chesterfields taste better—not strong but just right.

In other words, They Satisfy—that's my yardstick for a cigarette.
