Elections and Business (GEO. W. HINMAN)

CHICAGO, April 22.—“I do not understand this decline in the market,” says a financier in this Monday's newspaper. “All this downward trend has probably been caused by the Washington situation.” That is, by national politics.

“Presidential elections are not disturbing to business except when the issues are disturbing to business interests,” says a New York business review.

Here are two suggestions that help tell the story of the present situation in industry and the stock market. There are others which are important, but these two overshadow the rest.

This is a presidential year. The result of the coming election is unusually uncertain. Therefore, the policies, the business policies, that will prevail in Washington after next March 4, are equally uncertain. Therefore, all charts, cycles, waves and spirals are more or less useless. The uncertainty cannot be removed for at least six months. And business and the securities that represent it, late uncertainty, shrink from uncertainty.

That is all self-evident.

There is always the chance that some party will win which will aim to increase the tax on business, which will seek to reorganize the federal reserve, which will try to pass a McNary-Haugen bill or worse, which will want to reduce the tariff, admit many European goods free, make America a dumping ground for German manufacturers, close American factories and throw hundreds of thousands of workers into the street. There is here no discussion of the merits or demerits of such measures. The only point is that each one of them, and many more like them, would cross wires with business. Therefore, even if Europe were normal, even if “basic conditions” were more satisfactory than at present, the uncertainty and its penalties would be the same.

There is nothing discouraging in this situation. It is a regular part of the business proposition every four years. There even is nothing unusually disheartening at present.

Most business men—whether republican or democrat—are for the election of Coolidge. Why? Because, if he were to be elected they would know at once what business policies they would have to reckon with. They would have certainty, confidence. Even democrats in the south and west admit this. On a recent trip, the writer found plenty of them who said that, while they expected to vote the democratic ticket as usual, they hoped Coolidge would be elected, and “business would go on as usual.” He found such men especially plentiful in Texas, which will go against Coolidge by an enormous majority.

Well, has business a fair chance of getting Coolidge for president? It has—a fair chance though no certainty. Even though a third party under Mr. La Follette should sweep the northwest, spoil Nebraska and Colorado for the republicans, and pick up the smaller electoral votes of several western states, it would not demolish Mr. Coolidge's chances as these chances appear today. The presidential problem would still be left to be settled by the states east of the Mississippi, and north of the Ohio, with three or four border states included in the list.

But would not Mr. La Follette's third party weaken the republicans? But if we are to answer this question in the light of experience we are likely to conclude that Mr. La Follette would weaken the democratic party still more.

In Wisconsin, for instance, the democratic party has almost ceased to exist, though the republican party still has an organization and a policy outside the La Follette ranks. That is, the democrats have gone over largely to La Follette, while the regular republicans still stand to their guns. Would a similar tendency be shown by the radical democrats in Indiana, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut? If so, Mr. Coolidge's chances would be materially improved by the very radicals whom business fears most in this campaign of 1924.

With the nominating conventions still to come, such forecasts are very uncertain, but the main factors in the situation are still favorable if Mr. Coolidge is the business men's candidate as he appears today to be.

What then? What should the business attitude be? What should the business attitude expect to be? Just what it is. But, with the precedents of other close presidential elections in mind, the business man who sets out now to anticipate trouble or the investor who already thinks of selling his good securities, it is prematurely gloomy and is likely to have a reason to regret his pessimism as the champion proceeds to its climax in November.

Grand Jury Indicts Dave Stephens on Rape Charge and County Attorney W. J. Barnes Promises An Early Trial

The grand jury in Judge Hill's court at Eastland has returned two indictments against Dave Stephens, former deputy sheriff and traffic officer. Stephens is charged with rape in connection with two little girls, aged 5 and 7 years and is held in jail without bail. Judge Stubblefield of Eastland has been retained to defend him, the American understands.

County Attorney Barnes says Stephens will be tried in the near future and that a special venire will be summoned for jury duty.

Considering the seriousness of the charge, the people of Cisco and environs are taking the matter quietly and there is total absence of threats of an illegal nature, which is a tribute to the citizenship. However, County Attorney Barnes' plan to try the case at an early date is just as it should be. That's what the people want in this and all other cases of a serious nature. The defendant should always have the squarest deal honest men can give, but dilly dallying criminal lawyers—whenever they may be—should not be permitted to block the wheels and prevent reasonable speed.

Eight Posts of American Legion Will Meet in City of Eastland Friday Eve

EASTLAND, April 23.—A meeting was held Tuesday night of the Dulin-Daniel Post of the American Legion for the purpose of discussing plans for the Oil Belt Council of the American Legion to be held here Friday night. Elaborate plans are being made for this affair and approximately 100 legionnaires are expected to be present.

The local post will provide the dinner which will be served at the Athletic club at 7:30 and the Desdemona post will have charge of the entertainment. Eight posts are included in the meeting here. These are Cisco, Eastland, Ranger, Gorman, Desdemona, Strawn, Breckenridge and Albany.

It was also decided to have a dinner for local post members on Saturday, May 10, at 6:30 o'clock.

GARTERS CAUSE DIVORCE.

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—Judge Paul Burk's court awarded Mrs. Jessie Wakelin $150 a month alimony from Harvey M. Wakelin. The wife sues for divorce charging Wakelin has a woman guest who wore fancy garters and rolled stockings. Mrs. Wakelin testified she was so shocked she suffered mental anguish.

FINE CROP OF OATS.

R. F. Weddington, veteran cattleman and farmer, brought some unusually fine samples of oats to the American office today. Mr. Weddington has 60 acres in oats and says one good rain will insure an average of 75 bushels per acre from at least 30 acres of the crop. In the early days Mr. Weddington devoted most of his time to cattle, but of late has paid more attention to the agricultural end.

GRIMSINGER NAMED CHIEF.

Bill Grimsinger, formerly a member of the Cisco police department, but for the past three years a special officer for the C. and N. E. railroad, with headquarters in Breckenridge, has been appointed chief of police at Breckenridge. The appointment was made Monday and Mr. Grimsinger qualified at once and took up his duties.

MRS. SESSIONS VERY ILL.

Although slightly improved yesterday, Mrs. Jess Sessions, who has been very ill for the past month, is still in a dangerous condition and her family and many friends are deeply worried. Mrs. Sessions has made a game fight from the start, however, and her indomitable will may yet turn the tide and bring her safely back to the harbor of health. Mr. Sessions stated this morning that transfusion of blood might be resorted to in order to give her the strength necessary to continue the battle.

Accounting Department of Texas Co. Likely to be Moved Here From Parks at Once

Information received by the Cisco American is to the effect that the accounting department of the Texas Oil & Refining company for this district, now located at Parks, will be moved to Cisco immediately. This will probably add eight families to the population of Cisco, or a total of about fifteen men. Frank J. Minkwitz, formerly a resident of Cisco, is head of the accounting department and his large circle of friends among the business men will be pleased to welcome him back again.

Supt. L. E. Barrows and the engineering department have had offices in the Cisco Banking company for the past six months.

Cash Prizes Offered by Cisco Body Should Add Pep to Cotton Culture

Six hundred dollars in cash will be paid the five farmers producing the largest amount of lint cotton on five acres of land. This is the offer made by the Cisco chamber of commerce and is open to any farmer residing in Eastland, Callahan, Stephens or Shackelford counties—providing he registers his name with the Cisco organization and abides by the rules governing the offer.

The first prize will be $250, second $150, third $100, fourth $75 and fifth $25.

One provision is that the land cultivated must be measured by a committee composed of two farmers and one Cisco business man. Another essential is that the cotton must be ginned and sold in Cisco.

Cotton growers desiring to qualify for this contest should call at the Cisco chamber of commerce at once and sign up.

CISCO KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

The beautiful ceremonies of the Knights Templar of Cisco, held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday, formed one of the most impressive services ever held in Cisco by that organization. A special feature of the occasion was the splendid sermon by Sir Knight, Rev. John H. Boyett, of Oklahoma, who was formerly a pastor and very popular citizen of this city. The Knights, Eastern Star and De Molays in their robes, together with the Rainbow girls, formed a very impressive coming together of the Masonic order of this place. There were many visiting Knights from Ranger, Eastland, Breckenridge and Moran. The church building, which has just been erected by the Presbyterians of Cisco, is a beautiful and roomy structure and one to be proud of, yet it was packed to overflowing by people eager to see the splendid service.

CANADIAN MILITIA OUT.

OTTAWA, April 23.—Estimates for the Canadian militia will be cut down from $10,000,000 to $9,000,000 this year. Last year these estimates were subject to a large cut after a determined protest from Quebec liberals.

Insurance Bonus Bill Be In Hands Coolidge By End of Week, It Appears

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The senate today passed the soldier bonus bill providing for a paid up insurance policy for each veteran by the vote of 67 to 17.

The vote was reached at the end of another day of animated debate in which Senator Underwood of Alabama took a conspicuous part in opposition to any bonus for ex-service men.

Considerable impatience was manifested by the friends of the measure over the dilatory tactics resorted to by some of the senators to delay passage. Long before the final roll call there were calls for “vote, vote,” from the floor while the galleries joined in in subdued tones.

When the vote was announced there was a great sigh of relief throughout the chamber, as the fight for adjusted compensation had been a long and bitter one in which all sorts of influences were brought to bear.

Officials of the American Legion who watched the battle from the galleries was very much pleased with the outcome. Senator Copeland of New York made a frantic effort to have his cash bonus plan adopted. He made a fervid speech in which he denounced the newspapers for condemning his proposal. After much effort he succeeded in getting a roll call and his proposal was rejected, 41 to 38.

Republican leaders advised democratic senators that President Coolidge is less likely to veto the bill than any other proposal which might be devised.

The measure now goes to conference where the minor differences between it and the house bill will be ironed out. It is expected it will be in the hands of the president before the end of the week.

J. H. Cheatham Succeeds Clyde Garrett as City Manager of Eastland

EASTLAND, April 24.—J. H. Cheatham was elected city manager at a meeting of the city fathers Tuesday night, succeeding Clyde Garrett, who has filled this position the past two years. Mr. Cheatham has lived in this city for about six years. He was formerly a state bank examiner but has been associated with the First State bank for several years. The city commission is now made up of the following: V. T. Seabury, chairman; Calvin Brown, N. N. Rosenquest, J. M. Sherrill and J. Williams. Williams and Sherrill were elected to office April 1.

PICTURES OF BABIES.

Walton's Studio is putting in quite a nice display of baby photographs in Brock's (of course) window this week. They are pictures of 108 babies, entered in the contest recently staged by that studio. Judges will pronounce the winners as judged from the pictures and not from the babies themselves. When the window is completed, it will doubtless attract much attention. Announcement of the winners will be made when the prizes are awarded.

W. F. Dawson and family left this week for a visit in Teague. Geo. Boyd of the B. & B. Grocery, is at home this week suffering with the mumps.

City Council Will Meet Friday Night and Hear From D Avenue People

There will be a special meeting of the city council Friday night and all persons owning property on D avenue between Fourteenth street and the south line of this thoroughfare, are requested to be present and express themselves as to their attitude relative to paving or otherwise improving this street.

According to Commissioner Lee Poe, who is understood to favor immediate paving, the city will carry out the wishes of the people owning property along this important highway.

D avenue from Fourteenth to the city limits, where it connects with the Rising Star road, is a fairly good road during dry weather, but as slick as a greased pig following a rain.

McDANIEL SECURES DATA.

Eugene McDaniel, chairman of the Cisco Tourist Park committee, arrived in the city today from a business trip through north Texas and various points in Oklahoma. While absent Mr. McDaniel visited a number of interesting parks for the other members of his committee. The Mineral Wells park, Mr. McDaniel said, is probably the most pretentious affair in this part of the country, but the park at Bowie is neat and attractive and is already receiving considerable patronage. The Cisco park is moving along slowly but steadily. Frank E. Harrell, a member of the committee, has submitted plans and specifications to three contractors for bids on the community house, which will be under way at an early date. The native-stone entrance and corner posts of the same material are finished and Contractor Latson expects to have the fence in place within the next week.

FEEDER STEERS IN DEMAND.

FORT WORTH, April 23.—The recent gain in steer cattle quotations has caused the better quality of feeder steers to advance and get into the wanted class. On the mid-week market at Fort Worth feeder steers sold at the top price of this season—$7.75—and the highest price since January 20, 1923. The cattle were consigned by J. B. Mashburn of Putnam, weighed 748 pounds and were 27 in number. In the same consignment were 4 head that sold at $6.00. A six-car consignment of a heavier class, sent in by J. E. Barry of Fowlerton, averaging 1,073 pounds, cleared at $7.25, which was a most satisfactory figure.

SOUTH TEXAS CATTLE.

HEBRONVILLE, Texas, April 23.—Native shipments from Hebronville and Balderas since January 1 total better than 13,000 head of cattle, according to the report of E. J. Murray, state and federal inspector in charge of Jim Hogg county. Mr. Murray says that 90 per cent of these cattle went to clean territory without dipping. Tom East has just finished a shipment of 4,750 head going to Blackland, Okla. Clean cattle and fat cattle are attracting buyers from far and near. The buyers like clean cattle because when they look at them they know they can ship them without delay to any native market they wish to go.

HOUSE OF DAVID.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., April 23.—A petition asking for a receiver for the property of the House of David colony and an injunction to prevent Benjamin and Mary Purnell, its leaders, from disposing with any of property, was filed in Berrin county court this afternoon by Assistant Attorney General O. L. Smith. The property is worth several million dollars. The petition sets forth that Benjamin Purnell is a fugitive from justice wanted by the state on a serious charge.

GALLOWAY WELL PLEASSED.

J. R. Galloway, of near Pueblo, was trading in Cisco Thursday. Mr. Galloway has only been here a few months, having moved from Falls county. His wheat is looking good, but needs rain. He has a big patch of Irish potatoes, all worked out and growing nicely. His oats are beginning to head and a good rain would make them fill out. He has a small orchard, but owing to the fact that it has been neglected, it will have very little fruit. He likes this section and will buy land this fall.

Miss Laura Kittrell, of Winters, arrived in Cisco Wednesday to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kittrell.

Considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon Mayor J. M. Williamson to offer as a candidate for electoral representative from Eastland and Callahan counties.

Popular Judge E. L. Russell, of Baird, is the present representative, but Judge Russell is now in the race for the senate from this district and this leaves the Eastland-Callahan legislative position to be filled.

Many important far-reaching matters affecting the future of West Texas and Eastland and Callahan counties will come before the Austin lawmakers next year, and life-long friends in both counties insist Mr. Williamson would be the most valuable man the two counties could send to the state capitol as their joint representative.

His election as representative would not interfere with Mr. Williamson's present term as mayor, but business men who have watched the city to go forward under his keen directorship, call attention to the fact that there is still just as much important work to be done locally as has already been performed, and are asking this question:

“If we send Williamson to Austin, who will take his place as mayor and furnish the initiative necessary to capitalize the valuable investments already made, or what might be termed our foundation work for a Greater Cisco?”

When the matter was broached to Mr. Williamson Tuesday afternoon he said he had no statement to make at this time, but that he was giving the suggestion due consideration and would issue a statement later.

Death Visits Eastland Family Third Time in More Than 100 Years

EASTLAND, April 23.—Herbert Tanner, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Tanner, and grandson of Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Tanner, died at a Fort Worth hospital Tuesday afternoon after a lingering illness of many months. The child was taken to Fort Worth about two weeks ago for an operation in the hope of recovering his health, but after a preliminary incision he suffered a relapse from which he never rallied sufficiently to stand the major operations.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Tanner, an aunt, Miss Blanche Tanner, and two uncles, Herbert Tanner and Kenneth B. Tanner. This is the third death that has occurred in the Tanner family during the past 102 years, the family including 19 persons representing four generations. Dr. Tanner is the oldest member of the family now living, his parents having died at the age of 85 and 86. The passing of Herbert marks the first death to occur among their children, grand-children and great grandchildren.

SHALLOW WELL IN NORTH OF ALBANY

ALBANY, April 23.—M. L. Hays and David Flood, local oil producers, have found a nice showing of oil and a considerable quantity of gas in their well, located on the Huskey land, six miles north of Albany. The well came in unexpectedly with a flow of gas, and the oil came over the top of the rig, as a result of the high gas pressure. The well is being drilled at this time in the neighborhood of 600 feet. Another sand is expected around 700 and it is in this sand that the drillers are expecting to find the real pay oil. Oil in the slush pit shows up to be very high gravity, and experts pronounce a great opportunity for this well being a good one.

WOMAN SHERIFF.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 23.—A woman, the first to be elected to such an office in Louisiana, today donned her six-shooter and other paraphernalia that goes to make up a sheriff. She is Mrs. Eudora A. Day, who, running on an independent and anti-Klan ticket, in yesterday's election, defeated Dr. Ed Young by a substantial majority. Mrs. Day is a widow of three weeks. Her husband, Robert B. Day, was shot and killed by a negro desperado. He was sheriff at the time. Governor John M. Parker appointed his wife to fill the unexpired term.

BONDS IMPROVE.

NEW YORK, April 23.—General improvement was shown in the local bond market today, although trading was dull and uneventful. The upward turn in stock prices was reflected in stiffening quotations for virtually all classes of bonds. New issues totaling about $36,000,000, which were offered today, were readily absorbed.

A NEW DAY FOR THE HEN AND HER KEEP

In all ages the hen has been an object of human care and a self-sustaining source of human sustenance. The present high state of perfection she has reached is ample proof that she has abundantly held her own among all domestic stock, in point of attention and development at the hand of man. Today there seems little to be desired that has not already been attained in beauty of plumage, form and carriage, or practical usefulness under any condition or for any special purpose. It would seem that the interesting and productive fields of experimentation have by now been fully covered and this new day finds us just seriously entering upon the cultivation of the broad and fertile field of utilization.

Much has been learned during the past with reference to poultry breeding operations, and voluminous literature has been created on the subject. Within recent years much attention has been directed to increased egg production and a more profitable seasonal distribution of production through proper selection and care, and valuable literature is now being assembled on this phase of the industry. But seemingly attention is just now coming to be generally focused on the one particular field wherein the hen is not only a specialist but has a practically complete monopoly, that is, the business of producing eggs for human food as a business specialty.

In our "setting" process, following the recent great social and economic eruption and upheaval, much froth and foam of former practice is rising to the surface to be skimmed off and thrown away. We are coming to see more clearly than before that our "blooded" stock of all kinds represents real value not so much in mere pedigree as in actual ability to serve the needs of man. We are coming to realize that unless blooded stock can show a profit when operating through utility channels it cannot justify its existence. With especial reference to the hen, we are coming to learn that her highest value to the average keeper is not so much in furnishing meat in competition with other fowls, fish and animals, as in her supreme ability to supply eggs. Thus we may now see scattered here and there great flocks of hens of purest blood kept not for breeding but for the production of market eggs. There is every evidence that interest in this new specialty is widespread and rapidly increasing, and every indication that commercial egg plants will become more popular as side lines on farms and part-time occupations for town dwellers.

There are good reasons for this. Most business is conducted for the profit it yields, and the business of producing this staple, commonly, appeals to men and women because of its constant income and reasonably sure profit, properly managed. The capital requirement is modest and easily financed, the work is light and pleasant, and the business may be so conducted as practically to eliminate the complications and risks common to poultry. As in the recent past, the baby chick has wrought great change in the whole poultry industry, so in the near future the young pullets will no doubt become the primary factor in commercial egg production. This is true because many persons will want to carry egg flocks as a specialty that will not want to engage in any other phase of the industry, such as raising stock or even developing baby chicks, and the logical and economical base for such operations is undoubtedly the weaned young pullet of eight and ten weeks age that has reached the point where she may be distinguished from the rooster and a stage of hardhood equal to that of the mature hen.

The matter of commercial egg production has been the object of much scattered thought and discussion recently. In talking with business men, poultry men and large egg consumers no objection has been offered to the plan of keeping hens strictly for market eggs, without other complications, as a safe and substantial business in which any person of common sense judgment and energy might engage, and build as large as desired under good management, economical operation and intelligent marketing.

No previous mention has been made of marketing for the reason that it is assumed the wide field of opportunity there is apparent to all. A wise business engineer recently said one of the very first things to consider in connection with starting in business of any kind is the character of the demand for the wares offered. Can any single article be named carrying a more universal demand for better resale possibilities than a strictly first class, clean, fresh sterile egg? While there is always a market of some kind for eggs, no specialist in production should be content to permit the indifferent run of the country's eggs to establish his prices. With the great diversity of uses to which the egg is put and the known fact that all users are glad to make connection with a supply of good eggs, the question of market resolves itself into one of the resourcefulness and enterprise of the producer.

C. O. Moore is drilling at around 1800 feet on his Anderson No. 1, in the Cross Plains-Pioneer field. He is also building rig for No. 2, on same tract. On the Falkner lease he is building rig for his No. 3 well. The Anderson No. 1, offsets the Pennant Oil & Gas Co., and Pope & Wilson big well which came in on the west Bryson recently. A number of other locations are expected to be announced in a few days. The Cross Cut section is looking better each week, and with the renewed activity east of town, the local fields are taking on new life.

Rev. Brabham has returned from a two weeks trip to Vernon, Texas, where he held a revival campaign at the first Methodist church. The revival was a success from every standpoint. Something over fifty additions to the church—a great number of reclamations. The best phase of the revival was the establishment of nearly seventy family altars.

The ladies of the W. M. U. entertained their husbands at the home of Mrs. S. L. Teague. A large crowd was present. This was an informal, get acquainted meeting and was decided a success. After several spirited contests a delicious course of chocolate and cake was served.

PROSPECTIVE RESIDENT.

C. S. McCuiston, of Lawton, Okla., is in Cisco looking for a business location, having recently sold a grocery business in his home town. Mr. McCuiston, who is a brother of R. P. McCuiston, proprietor of "Mack's Barber Shop," likes the appearance of Cisco and thinks he would be pleased with a business here.

RISING STAR

In order to combat the weevil, farmers of the Blake community have agreed to begin the planting of cotton on the same day, May 12, and complete the job as soon as possible. This is recommended by U. S. government specialists.

The funeral of Marvin Leslie Calhoun, who was drowned in Turkey creek, about a mile southwest of Pioneer, was held at the Pioneer cemetery, Rev. Mr. Richbourg, Cross Plains Baptist minister conducting the services. He was 13 years old and had gone in swimming, alone, his clothes being found on the bank. Edgar Dill dived and secured the body after the boy had been missed at home and search started. The grief-stricken father is an employe of the Prairie Oil & Gas company.

O. A. Alexander of the Okra community and Miss Geneva Lee of near Star were married at the parsonage of the Church of Christ, by Elder G. A. Lambreth. Both have many friends and well wishers.

The Star baseball team of the high school defeated the Cross Plains team in a runaway match, the score standing 16 to 6 at the close. F. Jacobs of Rising Star secured four of the runs out of six times at bat.

Bruce Eberhart, who lives five miles out on the Cisco road, drove into town with a truck load of poultry products from his farm and drove back home with a deposit slip in his pocket for $163.88, this neat sum being paid him by G. H. Hardy, who bought the entire load. Eberhart's load was made up of the following and was sold for the amounts named:

803 lbs. hens at 16c.....$128.48
140 lbs cocks at 6c..... 8.40
Six cases eggs at $4.50..... 27.00

Total.....$163.88

To encourage better cultural methods the Rising Star chamber of commerce set aside the sum of $400 which will be paid in cash prizes to the farmers of this vicinity who make the best yields of cotton per acre. Five acres will be the basis upon which the prizes will be given. The $400 has been divided into 14 prizes by the chamber of commerce, as follows:

First prize, $100; second prize, $75; third prize, $50; fourth prize, $25; fifth to tenth prizes, $15 each.

President Lanham Brown, of the chamber of commerce, is much interested in the contest and asks all farmers living in the Rising Star trade territory to call at the chamber of commerce office and sign an entry blank.

225 PEOPLE RESIDE IN MODERN HUMBLETOWN

Humbletown is one of the most complete oil camps in the world. Built on a sloping rise, it covers 28 acres of land that overlooks the city of Cisco.

The camp proper is within the city limits of Cisco and consists of the main office buildings, boys' dormitory, girls' dormitory, recreation hall, mess hall, swimming pool, electric light plant, machine shop, storage and repair garage, sanitarium and 55 cottages.

The city has its own gas and water system. Its fire system, consisting of high pressure pumps and 10 chemical fire extinguishers and hose reels, and small extinguishers in each cottage, has completely handled the fire situation thus far. There has never been a damage from fire in Humbletown. They have their own telephone and telegraph system, connecting their many camps over Texas. They can talk over their own private lines to any of their stations.

The men's dormitory consists of 90 rooms, each with an outside entrance and at least one window and an outside porch. The rooms are ventilated and furnished nicely, having lavatory with hot and cold water and community shower bath. The room rent is free except a fee of $1.50 for janitor service. The girl's building is furnished as nice and is as convenient as it might be at her own home, with parlor and every comfort and luxury needed.

The mess hall is a splendid building and like all others, it has hard wood floors, covered with linoleum. The tables are of composition, the top resembling marble. The windows, and there are many, are curtained with white draperies and look very inviting and home-like. The kitchen has every convenience. A bread and cake mixer costing $800, is run by electricity, as is a dish washer and dryer. A big gas range does the cooking. Everything is considered from the standpoint of efficiency. Tea trays are used to transport dishes and food from the kitchen to the tables. Nothing seems lacking.

The swimming pool is built of concrete and is 80 feet long, 30 feet wide and from 3 to 8 feet deep. Children may use the shallow part. This pool is free to every one in the camp and they may invite their friends. The pool is also used as a reserve for use in case of fire.

The machine shop is as complete as money could make it. There is ample room and light. Any piece of drilling machinery or tool that might be needed can be made here. The garage, used for the company cars, is heated by steam and well arranged.

The health of the camp is safeguarded by extreme cleanliness and by a sanitarium and hospital. Precautions are taken against typhoid fever by serum inoculation free to all members of the camp. Clean up week is every week at Humbletown.

The social side of life was stressed by the builders of this camp. Recreation hall is a big roomy building, hard wood floors, fire place, rest rooms for both men and women, magazines, a $1,100 player piano, Victrola, $500 radio set, and a physical culture room, with wrestler's mat. A tennis and volley ball court furnishes outdoor sport.

Once each year, it is the custom of the company to set aside a day for a big celebration, called Humble Day. All employees, far and wide, are furnished conveyance and are asked to make merry at the company's expense. This year it will be some time in May. The company believes that happy, contented people will give better service and hence the effort and expense along this line.

The cottages, fifty-five in number of the five, six and seven room type—concrete foundation—hardwood floors and plastered inside. Those not in use by the employees, are rented to outsiders. Below are

This article would not be complete without something regarding the men who are making this camp what it is.

H. N. Pardee, the general superintendent, is a live wire. He has advanced in his line of work by leaps and bounds. He is a Pennsylvanian, but began his work in California in 1909. In 1912 he was a driller in the Moran oil field. In 1915 he drilled the first well in Stephens county, on the J. W. Parks land. He was then in the employ of the Texas company. The Humble company, seeing his value as an executive, employed him as superintendent of the Desdemona district and later the Sipe Springs and Breckenridge fields were added to his jurisdiction. While yet a young man, Mr. Pardee has a great field under his charge and much confidence is reposed in him by the Humble company.

It has been said that a great general is powerless without dependable lieutenants, and perhaps much of the efficiency of Humbletown may be accredited to the energy, good humor and clerical ability of the chief clerk of this division, Walter Hayden. Mr. Hayden began his work as a bookkeeper and stenographer in Bryan, Texas. He went to California in 1915 as field auditor and entered the Humble employ during the Ranger boom days. However, he had previously served the Texas company as chief clerk and had been manager of demurrage on the Galveston Bay line at Galveston, Texas city and Bolivar. He has systematized the clerical department and made many improvements in its bookkeeping and keeping of records. Hayden is a tireless worker but takes time to be courteous to all visitors and employees. His motto is, do all you can today and then finish tomorrow.

Residents of Humbletown are taking a great deal of interest in the appearance of their lawns this spring. Some have already cut the grass for the first time, have trimmed their trees and have planted vines and flowers of many varieties.

MARSHALL McCREA RETURNS.

Marshall McCrea, son of Judge and Mrs. L. H. McCrea, is home from a three months' stay in Washington City, where he assisted in the work of counting and tabulating the Mayfield-Peddy senatorial vote, in connection with the contest being made by Mr. Paddy. The case is still under way, but a tabulation of the vote resulted in an increased majority for Mayfield. Mr. McCrea enjoyed his visit to the greatest capital in the world, saw much of interest and acquired a great deal of valuable experience.

A new awning has just been completed over the brick building at the corner of Main and Broadway, occupied by Gude & Norvell grocery and by DeLuxe tailoring establishment, and adds quite a bit to the appearance of that corner. Soon all the unsightly awnings will have been removed from Main street and Cisco will be modern in every way.

CARBON

With the awarding of the essay contest to Miss Blanche Yarbrough, Carbon stepped in and took the county championship for Class B schools, hence the loving cup comes here and, students say, will remain here for many a day. The points won were as follows: Basket ball, 10; tennis, 5; literary (debate, declamation, spelling and essay), 36. Total, 51 points. Desdemona was second and Rising Star finished in third place. Wow!

A. A. Tate is erecting a modern residence on one of his lots north of the railroad. This is the second erected within recent months. Ernest Reese and J. D. Tarrant are performing the carpenter work.

Carbon Masons met in their new building Saturday night for the first time. Although the new home was not completed, all were glad to assemble together beneath their own fig tree.

Miss Rebecca White, the new assistant postmistress, traveled over routes one and two last week, with a view of ascertain conditions and then improving same, that mail may be carried over them in cars. Later, the department will be asked to change the schedule and permit carriers to wait until after the morning trains before starting out.

Mrs. E. O. Elliott and little child, of Cisco, visited J. A. Elliott and family.

Miss Maude Brooks visited her sister, Mrs. J. E. Gilbert.

Mr. and Mrs. George Snodgrass are the parents of a new nine and a half pound boy.

Mrs. Pete Ussery and children of Desdemona visited Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ussery.

HOG BITE FATAL.

RED WING, Minn., April 22. — Bacillus poisoning from a hog bite caused Ernamus Johnson, 59 years old, yesterday to "blow up" and die. Dr. H. E. Johnson announced. Johnson, a farmer, living near Diamond Bluff, Wis., literally blew up. His body, which has been swollen and discolored since he entered the hospital last week, burst from the pressure of the poison gas. Johnson swelled up far beyond normal, despite all the physicians could do. Then his skin gave way, breaking at many points. Death followed in a few moments.

CULTIVATORS!

A good cultivator lasts many years. If it is easily adjusted and given good service when properly adjusted, it is worth a great deal to a farmer and pays for itself many times over. A tool that will do just what you want it to do has a value that can hardly be estimated in dollars and cents.

COSTLIEST GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT.

Uncle Sam seems to be doing quite a little for the veterans of the World war, after all. A current review of governmental expenditures shows that the most costly department at Washington is now the Veteran Bureau. For the present fiscal year it is spending $446,000,000. That is considerably more than is spent for the army or navy. The sum is exceeded only by the cost of the public debt.

Expenditures for this item began in 1918, with an appropriation of about $45,000,000. Total payments for the work of the bureau, including compensation claims, insurance, vocational training and medical and hospital care in these seven years amount to almost an even $2,000,000,000.

"No other nation has ever attempted such a stupendous service program for its soldiers," says John F. Sinclair, reviewing the activities of the bureau. "No other nation could do it and remain solvent."

More will be forthcoming, no doubt, if there is evidence of further need. With all the opposition to a bonus, no voice has been raised against the most liberal treatment of every man suffering wounds or illness as a result of his war service. All that is asked is that the money spent be applied honestly and efficiently, as it has not always been in the past, so that no deserving veteran lacks aid.

AMERICAN LOANS FOR GERMANY

The most obvious thing about the Dawes plan for German reparation is that America is expected to finance it. If it gets through, big loans will be required to finance a new German bank, restore German industry and make possible the early payments. Loans will be expected from some other countries, perhaps England and France, but the chief dependence of Germany, and hence of her creditors, will be the United States.

This does not mean the United States government. Neither does it mean the big American bankers. As is pointed out by Willis H. Booth, president of the international chamber of commerce, it means the American people. Whatever American bankers may decide about the matter will represent the reflected judgment of the American public.

What the American public, therefore, thinks about the reparation plan, and about Germany, is going to be of vital importance to every other country concerned, to Germany most of all, and to France next. If our people become disgusted with either the German objections and evasions or French truculence, and conclude that no real peace is going to result, then economic restoration of Europe is impossible.

CIVIL WAR PENSIONS.

The new pension bill just passed by the senate has attracted little attention. Yet it is a remarkable measure, everything considered.

By this Bursom bill the senate proposes to increase Civil war pensions again, raising the monthly payments of veterans to $72 a month and of widows to $50 a month. Thus the total yearly payments in Civil war pensions is to be made greater than ever, when the average age of the veterans is more than 80 years and their number is reduced to about 160,000. The added cost is estimated at $55,000,000 a year.

The measure invites attention not only because of its liberality, at a time when the government has aimed to live up to an economical budget, but because of its bearing on pensions in general. Taxpayers begin to wonder what their grandchildren will be paying, in pensions or other gratuities, to the veterans of the World war 60 years hence.

Twenty bands will be heard during the Democratic National convention in New York city. Committees are scouring the country for the best talent. What would a political gathering be without music?

SAFEGUARDING HISTORICAL PAPERS

Revolutionary relics, including priceless papers in the handwriting of George Washington, Aaron Burr, and Benjamin Franklin, the results of a lifetime of work on the part of Judge Harold E. Pickersgill of Perth Amboy, N. J., were seriously damaged by a fire in the building housing the collection. Antiquarians have placed a value of $100,000 on the Pickersgill collection.

Losses of this sort frequently recorded in the day's news, emphasize the necessity for placing such collections in places of safety where the fire hazard is reduced to a minimum. Historical documents, in a sense, belong to the nation and not to any individual. They should be preserved in public buildings where their safety is assured and where the public has ready access to them. The public owes Judge Pickersgill a debt for having so laboriously collected his historical papers. He in turn owes the public the obligation of seeing to it that they are properly protected against destruction.

Another practical application of the airplane to the problems of the world is noted in the announcement coming from Alaska to the effect that an air mail service has been inaugurated between Nenana and McGrathe which has cut the dog sled time of two weeks to four hours. Daily the world grows smaller.

THE FOUR GREATEST

The four Americans chosen by President M. L. Burton of the University of Michigan as the outstanding figures of the Twentieth century, so far, are bound to bring forth discussion and perhaps a measure of criticism.

President Burton has elected Theodore Roosevelt for his "comprehension of the social problems of his time;"

Henry Ford for industrial development, Thomas Edison for inventive genius and Orville Wright for his creative work in flying. Bishop Brant, chancellor of Hobart college, recently named Woodrow Wilson, Cardinal Mercier, Lenine and Gandhi as his choice.

While it is somewhat early to predict whom history will name as the four outstanding figures of this century, it is nevertheless interesting to conjecture the leaders at the quarter mark. Seventy-five years hence, when the century is dying, will the four selections of President Burton still reign as supreme as he has placed them? Or will they be eclipsed by geniuses yet unborn?

In the last election United States senators were selected by from 17 to 35 per cent of the qualified voters. The other 83 to 65 per cent didn't express their wish one way or another. There is an important national election ahead of the nation this year, as well as numerous state and local elections. How about turning over a new leaf? The man who is "too busy" to vote and the other man or woman who is too good to vote—"Not interested in politics, it's all such a dirty mess"—doesn't deserve good government, reduced taxes or any of the other blessings supposed to be secured to the citizens of a republic.

Administration newspapers are trying very hard to minimize the effects of recent Washington disclosures. The policy now is to "play down" the senatorial stories that are being sent out by the press associations almost every day, instead of printing them with scareheads as was the custom when the investigation first began. Just as sensational disclosures are now being made as at any stage of the proceedings, but for the most part they are being smothered so far as is possible by the partisan press. This is not treating the public fairly. The people are entitled to whatever news comes out of Washington, and should have the opportunity to judge for themselves as to its merit. The fact that Homer Knutson, of Minnesota, republican legislative whip, was arrested the other day for the "unmentionable" crime, should be printed just that way, rather than "serious" crime, as carried by the daily press.

CHURCH BUILDING INCREASES.

Two hundred millions will be spent in construction of churches in the United States during the present year, according to the Church Board of Architecture's estimate at its conference at Cincinnati. This is perhaps the largest year for church building in the history of the country.

While Fundamentalists and Modernists continue tearing hair and launching into lengthy orations on the historical accuracy of certain parts of the Bible, church building, apparently, goes on without check. The fact that $200,000,000 will be spent in building indicates that church disension is confined principally to the clergy and that the great army of church goers has not yet had its faith shaken in the doctrines of that particular church to which they belong. The expenditure of this vast amount is a direct reply to critics who foresee the crumbling of the church before the attacks of modernism.

MUSSOLINI WON EASILY, BUT—

The Fascisti won easily in the Italian election—the first national verdict allowed by Mussolini since he became premier. That is to say Mussolini wins. He is Fascism. He is the Italian government at present, and may be for some time to come. He is Italy, while he lasts, to as great a degree as Louis was France when he said: "I am the State."

The Italian people presumably registered a free choice this time, though they were coerced when Mussolini seized the premiership. They are entitled to what they want, even when what they want is a boss who will do their thinking and legislating for them.

It is one of the curious things about mankind that men when free to choose should so often choose a master. No nation really gets ahead without exercising its own powers in self-governing freedom, any more than does an individual. Mussolini, when his end comes, will leave Italy weaker in civic backbone and in the practices of citizenship, however strong and prosperous it may appear at the moment. It is only by continued effort upon the part of the people that nations win and hold rights, wealth and honor.

Eton College, one of England's aristocratic seats of learning, can enter no more students until 1934. The waiting list is filled. Compared with this college, the American enrollment problem is simple. Both nations recognize, however that limited number of students who complete their courses is better than vast numbers who fail to finish, or who finish but with little real educational background behind them.

THE HIRED MAN'S SUBSTITUTE

Farmers, as a rule, give too little thought to the power they use on the farm, from an economical point of view. There are farmers who are very primitive in their methods of crop growing, often using the same implements that their ancestors used in the pioneer days. It is a difficult situation that confronts our agricultural educators today. To convince a middle-aged man that his methods are wrong is a rather delicate proposition, to say the least, and needs to be handled in such a manner that no offense will be felt.

Truly this is the gasoline age! On every hand we see the work of the gasoline engine, as it reduces the expense of production and does the work of many men, in field and meadow and barnyard. The high wage scale of efficient farm help has forced the progressive producer to install power on the farm, which is the cheapest and at the same time the most efficient to be had.

The work that is usually done by man-power about the farm yard, such as running the cream separator, churn, grindstone and pump, as well as other chores that come under the well managed farmstead, can be accomplished much more satisfactorily and economically with power than with the hired man's tired hands at the close of a long hot day's toil in the fields. For these lighter tasks an engine of small size and power can be used. An outfit for the average farm consists of an engine of about one and a half horse power, a line shaft to accommodate the different machines to be operated. This shaft should be of a diameter of about one and three-sixteenths of an inch. It can be supported from the ceiling by hangers that fasten to the joists of the barn or shed. These supports should be about six feet apart. The different pulleys should be placed at convenient points along the shaft. The engine, we will say, has a driving pulley of a diameter of five inches. The driven pulley, the one that drives the shaft, is about twelve and one-half inches in diameter. The engine should run at a speed of 500 revolutions a minute. This will give the driven pulley a speed of approximately 200 revolutions a minute, which is about right for the different machines. The pulley on the shaft governs the speed desired for any machine; for instance, the churn pulley should be ten inches; that of the washing machine the same, but the one for the grindstone and separator should be smaller, say about six inches.

The housewife or twelve-year-old boy or girl, as to that matter, can handle all of these different tasks, easily, and make it a pleasant and interesting, as well as instructive, half hour. The little "jack-of-all-trades" engine can handle one or all of the machines at once.

There is no farm that cannot afford the foregoing equipment and once it is installed it will prove to be the best investment ever made on the farm, not only from the point of money saved, but in the quickness and ease in turning off the odd jobs that are usually the most difficult to handle under the old method. Think of the aching backs and blistered hands of the juvenile members of the farm family, from turning the grindstone, cream separator, etc., etc.

An installation of an outfit of this kind will do much toward keeping the youngsters on the farm, as well as be an inducement to the hired help to stay and become more efficient and helpful to the farmers. Let's try putting our rural homes on a par with the city homes in modern conveniences and life will be more worth while.

FINE ONION PATCH.

J. L. Thompson, southeast of Cisco, has a fine patch of early onions this spring. The onions were planted out in November and were well fertilized. They have not lacked for rain nor for cultivation, hence are almost ready to market. Some of the larger ones have already been sold for early spring salads. He intends to market them green if possible; if not, he will allow them to mature and sell them that way. They should bring good returns per acre if marketed either way.

METHODIST CHURCH ASSURED.

JAMISON FOR SHERIFF.

To the Public: Several weeks ago I made my announcement through this paper as a candidate for sheriff of Eastland county. At that time I had not been endorsed by any small clique holding membership in the clan neither had I been indorsed by any small clique holding membership in the C. C. C's. I am not now endorsed by any clique and never expect to be. I have not asked for it and do not want it. If I am elected sheriff I expect to serve every man, woman and child in Eastland county and be able to do so without having to take orders from or make reports to the chairman of any factional organization. There are many good men who belong to the clan for whom I have the greatest respect. There are many good men who belong to the Constitutional club for whom I have the greatest respect. However, I do not believe that it is right or democratic to permit four or five men from either organization to get together and name the man who is to serve you as sheriff. Although the men they select as their candidate may be good men yet it will be very difficult for him to serve all factions alike when he is taking his medicine from one particular faction. I do not believe the people of this county will appreciate or stand for this practice. Therefore I am in this race until the last vote is counted and confidentially expect to be elected, not by four or five bosses of the Constitutional club nor by four or five bosses of the Klan.

Yours very truly,
C. S. JAMISON.

VISITORS IMPRESSED.

The following from the Cross Plains Review, edited by R. A. Austry, describes a recent visit to Lake Cisco: Murman McGowan and family accompanied by the writer and family visited with relatives in Breckenridge Sunday. Returning Monday morning, we lost a rear wheel and were laid up for repairs several hours in Cisco, and while there, (through courtesy of Mr. Richardson and Mr. Robinson of Cisco Chamber of Commerce,) we saw the big dam of which so much has been said—and it is some dam. We never expected to see a structure of such magnitude. It was a real treat to go through and have it all explained by the guide who takes pleasure in informing you of the many striking features of the dam. Those who may have an idea that this big dam is a miniature one, should see it by all means. It is the result of engineer-

STRONG FOR TURKEYS.

J. H. Lewis, who lives out toward Carbon, was shopping in Cisco Saturday. His corn is up to a good stand, while he has some maize just coming through the ground. He will plant a small patch of cotton next week, and perhaps will continue right on until he is through planting. Weeds and other vegetation are making their appearance and the farmers will have to fight obnoxious growths from now on. Mr. Lewis says the cotton acreage will be greatly increased over that of last year. He sells about ten pounds of butter each week from three cows. He is raising a big bunch of turkeys this spring. Forty-six young ones are already hatched off and forty more eggs are now almost ready to hatch. He thinks there is more money in turkeys than in chickens and that they are not so hard to raise.

NO ESCAPE.

Shrieks and yells of the most appalling type were issuing from the little cottage, and quite a crowd had collected. Presently, clothed in the full majesty and dignity of the law, a policeman came striding onto the scene.

"Now, then," he cried gruffly, "what is all this about?"

"Please, sir," spoke up a small boy, "that's only my brother. He's crying because mamma's eyesight ain't very good and she's deaf, too."

A ghastly series of shrieks, interrupted the explanation.

"He must be a very feeling little fellow," remarked the officer, wiping away a furtive tear.

"Yes, sir, he is. You see, ma's mending his trousers, and he's got them on."—Los Angeles Times.

FOUND THAT FARM BOOKKEEPING PAID.

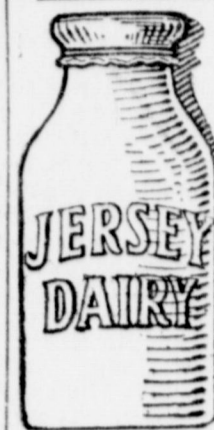

Of seventeen farmers in Knox and Lincoln counties, Maime, who kept farm account books last year under the direction of their county extension agent, nine have changed their methods of farming to eliminate unprofitable lines, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. These farmers are all keeping accounts again this year and have influenced a number of their neighbors to begin keeping them. They found it required only a few minutes time each day to keep the accounts. This, they state, is time well spent, for the records are proving valuable as an inventory, for reference, and as a guide in planning for better and more profitable effort the next season.

Filling out farm inventory sheets furnished them by the local extension agent convinced negro farmers in Rowan and Iredell counties, North Carolina, of their need for better planning and more businesslike methods in farming. As a result, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture have kept a record of the cost of producing their crops and a number have for the first time produced enough corn, meat,

CLUB ACTIVITIES

The County Federation met in regular business session in Ranger Saturday, April 19, in the auditorium of the new high school building. Mrs. Philip Pettit, president, presided. In a few well-chosen words Mrs. Thurman of the New Era club, Ranger, welcomed the Federation to the city of Ranger. Mrs. Homer Mormon of Gorman responding in behalf of the visiting clubs.

Among the items of special interest discussed by this body was the opening of a county park, in or near our county seat. Several locations were named for the consideration of the Federation and a committee was appointed to look fully into the question from every viewpoint. Nothing definite however, can be done until the co-operation of the commissioners' court is assured.

Miss Ramey, county home agent, reported four rural clubs now operating in Eastland county. As home demonstration agent Miss Ramey is doing a very splendid work among the rural women and girls of this county.

Something like one hundred new volumes were reported for the rural extension library. This phase of extension work is being very capably handled by Mrs. H. G. Jury of the New Era club, Ranger.

Mrs. J. B. Nunn of Eastland, of the committee on scholarships, reported that system of credits is being worked out whereby a certain standard of efficiency will be required of the rural boy and girl before placing these scholarships.

The peace pledge was presented by Mrs. C. H. Dent, of the Twentieth Century club, Cisco. The club voted to endorse the move to place this pledge in every school room in Eastland county. This pledge, which reads: "Before I speak or act in relation, I will try a peaceful solution of every difficulty," was given by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs by Mrs. George Langston, of Cisco.

A very splendid and instructive report was given on her work by Miss Gorman, public health nurse, Ranger. Mr. Carl Jones, secretary of the small merchants association, gave us much appreciated readings on these selections were especially enjoyed, due to the fact that they were original compositions of Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Homer Mormon of Gorman, delegate to the district meeting in Colorado City, gave a very splendid report. Mrs. Dodson of Ranger gave a group of songs that were enjoyed by all. The high school Glee club also gave two numbers that were well rendered. The Ranger clubs served delicious cream and cake at the close of the program.

The Federation adjourned to meet in Gorman the third Saturday in May. The West Texas Historic association was formed in Abilene Saturday, April 19. The object of this association is to promote and encourage an interest in the history of our own western land. For three months one may come into this organization as a charter member on the payment of three dollars dues. Mrs. George Langston, Cisco, is director for Eastland county.

The Twentieth Century club, Cisco, met in regular session Friday afternoon, April 18, at the city hall. Mrs. T. J. Dean, president, presided. This club is just closing a very successful year's work. Many new volumes have been added to the public library and through the tireless effort of the club librarian, Miss Lula Alexander, this library is becoming a most valuable asset to the city of Cisco. A study course of English writers of fiction has been enjoyed by the club membership. As a fitting close of the club year it was voted to entertain the husbands of the club members with a banquet, early in June. This will be the first occasion in the history of this club featuring an entertainment especially for the husbands of club members.

The Saturday club, Rising Star, Mrs. Frank Perkins, president, reports a most successful year's work along civic and educational lines. This club is sponsoring many worth while things, among them the developing of a public library for the growing little city of Rising Star. This club boasts a member who is becoming known over our state as a writer of poetry and prose, Mrs. Fred Robertson. Mrs. Robertson is also district chairman of the program committee of the Sixth district.

The Civic league, Eastland, Mrs. W. K. Jackson, president, has accomplished much already in encouraging the spirit of civic pride in the city of Eastland. The club also reports a wonderful interest in "Garden Week." Flowers have been planted and home gardening encouraged. Extensive plans are being made by this club to make their "White Way" park a place of beauty and pleasure for the coming summer.

SALESMANSHIP

LUCILE W. PETTIT.

A very generally accepted definition of salesmanship is: A man or woman who goes out to sell some commodity recognized as merchandise on the open market.

Salesmanship is, however, in a much broader sense an asset no one can afford to neglect; it is a necessary adjunct to the successful life—whether it be a person prominent in the world's affairs, or one from the lowly walks of life.

We may not all go out to sell stocks or bonds, dry-goods, or groceries, but we, one and all go out to sell something—if nothing else we are selling our personality and through that personality whatever project we are most interested in.

The foremost writer of history and fiction of this present time—H. G. Wells—has attained his present prominence by selling to his reading public a philosophy and reasoning that will meet their requirements.

No successful man or woman is negative in character. Salesmanship is always a positive force—however well it may be covered by the cloak of "least resistance."

The mother who makes the greatest success of rearing her family is that mother who successfully sells to her children high standards of honor and truth and a just appreciation of individual responsibility.

The truly successful club woman is one who has the ability to sell to her associates the real or fancied value of whatever idea she may be promoting.

Year after year men plod along their own particular professional highway and fail to achieve success because they fail to sell to the public their own special brand of efficiency.

The public is easily imposed on by an expert salesman. It is a wise salesman who goes out to sell friendship, kindly consideration, honor and truth; these are the really worth while articles we all should strive to sell each day.

In material things we find men and women taken in by every conceivable scheme put across by unscrupulous salesmen.

How many housewives have in their homes articles never used, bought from salesmen who persuaded them to buy against their better judgment? About us are those who in one mad moment lost the slowly accumulated savings of years through listening to the suave tongue of some salesman with less honor than ability to sell.

So, through life, this salesmanship goes, selling material things and things not seen, selling the good and the bad, the false and the true. Salesmanship—emphatically necessary to success, but is a force that can easily become a curse unless controlled by wisdom, and a highly developed sense of judgment. "To sell one's self, for good or evil. May God and His angels direct the sale."

Woman--Her Opportunity Today

Mrs. Wm. Reagan, president Sixth District Women's clubs, in her address at Colorado City recently said: There are four outstanding features in the life of woman—the period of oppression, the uplifting by education and the Christian religion, the club movement and attainment of citizenship.

In the development of America, women have made a splendid record. Three hundred years ago when the pilgrims landed on the rock-bound coast, it was the Anns and Priscillas who kept hope and faith alive during pioneer days. In solitary log cabins women shared with their husbands the constant dangers of attack from hostile Indians! At the time of the Revolution Molly Pitcher, taking her husband's place in the fighting ranks when he was badly wounded, was not the only woman who showed courage and endurance. In the tragic days of the Civil war, in homes north and south, in hospitals, and on battlefields, women took their places, earnestly and courageously.

The pioneer woman has been a mighty factor in our development; their record is a challenge to us. But only as you and I are similarly qualified can we in our homes and in the larger world outside meet this challenge of a glorious past by our own achievements.

These women stood for their ideals and principles—stood for women with a vision, women seeking the betterment of the world that we might have opportunities for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness which is granted to all.

They successfully planted the seed which has given us equality today and enables us through the various organizations to carry on great philanthropic work.

The World war left within its wake immoral conditions which are threatening the very foundation of our Christian civilization. There has never been a time in the history of our country when the fundamental principles upon which our government was founded have been so imperiled as today.

Political turmoil, religious intolerance, materialism, crime, superstition, a distrust and a seeming disregard for those principles which made the nation great—even the sacred precincts of the home—are invaded and parental authority is on the wane.

The club women of this country can save the situation. They can point the way. Perfect reforms and legislation. Keep informed on the mechanism of the government and the issues of the day, and determine in their minds that these evils must be curbed, and this onrush of immorality must be stopped.

With the ballot we can be largely instrumental in keeping grafters and unprincipled politicians out of the office. And support every official who is standing for the right and endeavoring to enforce the law.

It is said by one of the justices of the supreme court of the United States that there is one available agency that can settle the international difficulties of the world. And that agency is the club women of America.

If it were possible to poll all the women of the United States it would no doubt be discovered that they are all of a single mind. They all have within them the desire for permanent world peace.

In the language of Woodrow Wilson: "Let us set for ourselves a standard so high that it will be a glory to live up to and then add new laurels to the crown of America."

PENSIONS FOR NURSES.

The war department's decision to ask congress for legislation to place retired army nurses upon the pension list on an equal basis with officers is a fair and commendable measure.

While the path of the army nurse in times of peace is much more rosy than in times of war, here is an office of major importance and one which carries with it much of the sacrifice of the soldier. The nurse in times of peace is apt to be forgotten for her work is not spectacular. Yet it is of vital importance to the army's health and her service should be recognized after the period of active usefulness is over.

ETIQUETTE

JESSIE GERTRUDE STERNE.

From the many books advertised for sale about etiquette it seems like the most important thing about living is knowing when, where and how to act. After reading one of these books I find there is a lot of important things mentioned but still some very important things are not mentioned.

There wasn't a thing in the book about shopping etiquette and that is something everybody and every one should know. It is very unetiquette to have a clerk take down more than ten bolts of cloth when you're looking and it's very unmannerly to try on more than twenty-five pairs of shoes without buying one.

Going by what is found in the book, it seems like etiquette is used for table manners than any other else. It says you shouldn't sip soup from the end of a spoon. Turn it bottom upward if you can't manage it any other way. Referring again to soup the book it should be done quietly but if it isn't possible you should at least make a melodious tune.

One thing the book didn't mention was the napkin under the chin. It shouldn't be done although this shouldn't be half as bad as tucking it in a pocket and forgetting to take it out.

A person shouldn't ever drink from a cup if the cup has a handle—because it might be advisable to dip the supply by the saucer. And a person shouldn't ever blow the soup or coffee to cool it on account of being hot. It won't cool in time to catch a cold. Set it on an ice cap for a few minutes.

When the biscuits are passing a cup of sugar, three tablespoons of flour, one cup of orange juice, one tablespoon of butter, and two eggs. Mix sugar and flour, add orange juice, yolks of eggs well beaten and butter. Cook in double boiler until thick, pour into a shallow shell and add meringue on top.—Mrs. T. J. Dean.

person shouldn't ever take more than four because somebody else in the family or some other guest might be fond of biscuits.

Another thing you shouldn't ever do is to shove your plate to one side of the table when eating your dessert. If there is too much debris in the plate to hold the desert dish just sit the plate on the floor or shove it under a chair if nobody's looking.

When dining in or out a person ought never to stick their heads under the table while scratching their shins because somebody might think they were trying to hide some of the silver which is another thing which shouldn't be did.

This book on etiquette also tells some things on how to act in the theatre. It says when to sit and when not to sit but it doesn't say anything about when to talk and when not to talk. And it don't say a word about reading in the theatre. For instance when reading or writing is flashed on the screen a person should be sure to read it out loud at least twice so's everybody can understand it. So few of us can read we down right appreciate such efforts to make the evening more miserable.

wear ruffled, frilly frocks, but will be wise to select one with slenderizing lines.

White crepe de chine is an ideal material for the graduation dress. The total expense is for the material and trimmings; no silk underslip will be essential. A Georgette crepe frock, however, needs a slip of the same material to give it that cloudy softness that is its charm.

In the less expensive materials very lovely voiles are shown this season. This soft, sheer fabric lends itself charmingly to hand work of any kind and no daintier or more attractive dress could satisfy a girlish heart than one of fine white voile with distinctive touches of hand work and bountifully trimmed with tiny val lace.

Just one word about dressing from the inside out: The endless adjustment of the outer clothes is not only unattractive but unnecessary. Elastic shoulder straps on your brassiere that do not slip, with other necessary straps adjusted in line and carefully fastened together, will give that well-groomed look that is essential when wearing transparent frocks.

The girl who is not slender can not

SOME TIPS FOR THE GRADUATION FROCK

Simplicity should mark the dress for graduation, but Class Day and other frocks may be more elaborate. This is the fulfillment of girlhood dreams and the dainty frocks should express the freshness of youth—not the sophistication of womanhood. Moreover, the graduation frock is invariably white—while all others may be in the bright colorings so much used at this time. In selecting a dress, whether to buy or to make, consider first of all not only what design is most suited to you, but what material is most suited for the design you have selected. The very soft materials look best trimmed with platings, while the heavier crepes look well in more tailored designs. The girl who is not slender can not

There are two

 these clocks indicated the time of day
 for many a pupil.
 They are him a hint of how many precious minutes were left in which to prepare a lesson.
 Like a sailor's compass, they showed him
 just where he was!

How these clocks are only for

 They have been somewhat a waste of labor, money and space—don't you think?

And
 somewhat of a bad example, is it not?
 Many of the pupils in our school are just like these two but not advancing—

 NOT doing what they are here for! STOPPED!

 Why use
 the pretty walls

I thank you!

LOBOS STILL UNDEFEATED.
 The Lobos went to Gorman last week to play what they thought would be an interesting baseball game. They were disappointed—it wasn't a game but a race.

The Cisco boys showed their raring and hitting ability by piling up 28 runs to their opponents 7. Twelve of these scores were made in one inning.

This gives the Lobos a clear slate up to date. Judging by the present state of affairs the Lobos will be strong contenders for state championship.

HOME ECONOMICS HIKE.
 Last Friday a group of rather boyish, trampish looking girls (two C. H. S. teachers included), started on a hike to Lake Strickland. This group happened to be the H. E. club, and Miss Marshall and Miss Lee were the chaperones.

Some of the fat girls said they just knew that they had reduced about 50 pounds, but as they ate 100 pounds, this reduction did them no good.

We sat down on the lake shore and watched Guy Strickland dive. Irene Quinn asked him if he could jump up, come down and spank himself on the diving board, and then dive. She said that her brother could.

Pretty soon (we didn't wait long), we ate our supper. It "sure" did feel good to have a nice lunch like that one. Miss Lee (bless her heart!) had brought along a large box of King's chocolates. She didn't have it very long, though. Miss Marshall nearly made us lose our appetites when she said, "this sandwich tastes like formaldehyde." Oh-o-o-o!

When we had eaten enough (too much), we walked over to a farm house and got a drink of water. Then we sat around our camp fire awhile, but soon had to start home. It surely was a pretty moonlight night. We scared the dogs and people by singing, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "I Love Nobody But You Team," and other songs. When we got to town Miss Marshall bought us all a "coke" at Brock's (of course). Then we went to the Star Bakery to watch them bake bread, but as they didn't begin till eleven o'clock we had to say our "I sure had a good time," and go home. But not one said, "I had a nice time" that didn't express it!

—Bessie Olson.

SENIOR NEWS.
 The Occidental proof came in Saturday. The staff and sponsors were well pleased with the proof and promise the students an annual they will be proud of. The Occidental will be here in about two weeks.

The Senior invitations are here, and the minds of the Seniors are turned toward May 28.

DORIS BATES ENTERTAINS.
 A "leap year" party was given Friday night, April 18, at the home of Doris Bates, 509 West 9th St. After many delightful games had been played, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. At 12 o'clock the boys were "chased" home.

After the chase a slumber party was given for the girls, who engaged in acrobatic stunts, dancing and other amusing activities until four o'clock in the morning.

Saturday morning the girls declared Doris a charming hostess and went home—and went to bed.

MOMENTOUS QUESTION SOLVED (?)

Last Friday morning the Science club gave to Cisco High School the treat of the season in the form of a debate. This debate, it was hoped, would solve the oft mooted question "Resolved that man descended from a monkey."

The "pick" of the school were chosen for the debate; those of the affirmative were Mildred Roberts and Dudley Lee; and of the negative, Nona Cole and Paul Latch; with Chesley Kilborn acting as chairman. After a lengthy discussion from both sides during which "ontogony recapitulates phylogony" was explained, the Judges, Miss Baten, Edward Lee and Laura Fay Wilson gave their decision to the monitor, Porter Myrick. After much fumbling, Mr. Kilborn unfolded the votes and announced, "according to the judges we descended from monkeys."

OVERHEARD.

Mrs. Hazelwood: "What's an infinitive?"
 Student: "Well—" (deep subject)

Mrs. Kean: "Before the days of stump pullers I think that farmers must have cussed more as they were always hanging their plows on roots."

Roberta: "How do you know so much about how some of these scenes ought to be done?"
 Mr. Gaither: "I've been in love for 30 years."
 Mal: "With yourself?"
 Mr. Gaither: "Exactly!"

C. H. S. ENTRIES IN HISTORY CONTEST.

Cisco High School will be well represented in the statewide local history contest conducted through the history department of the University of Texas by Mr. Caldwell, of Abilene, and the Dallas "News." The papers from Cisco are "History of Cisco" by Ruby Payne, "History of the Cisco Dam," by Elroy McCanlies, and "History of the Cisco and Northeastern Railroad," by Edward Lee. Here's hoping they "cop" the first three prizes, $40, $20, and $15.

SCIENCE CLUB.

The Science club met Thursday, April 17, at seven o'clock. Plans were made for a moonlight picnic to be given on the next meeting night. After the business session Mildred Smith discussed "Ten Scientific Questions and their answers." Several others were supposed to take part, but were absent.

Last and best of all Miss Harlan entertained with two readings, "Humoresque" and "A Baseball Game."

"IN THE MOONLIGHT."

Instead of having the regular meeting last Tuesday evening, the debating club members decided to have a moonlight picnic,—if there was a moon to give the light," suggested one of the bright members, if not, then the hike would be merely a picnic.

The benevolent sun had just hid its face behind the blue western hills, when that jolly crowd, consisting of the Debating club members and some of their friends, rounded the curve that brought to view the old city lake with its rippling waters. Everyone, it seemed, possessed a strong desire to race with the glistening waves; whereupon all slid down the bank to the west side of the lake where the boys, after gathering fire wood, built up a fire that danced gleefully and served as the center of our temporary home.

After the major parts of the eats were disposed of, the crowd broke into groups, some of whom played games, rode on the "local," some, of course, had to go "walking" along the water's edge, and others sat beside the fire and chatted gaily.

Finally everyone gathered at the "Local" station and after enjoying a few rides and bumps, started, though none too willingly, toward home and sleep or books. This was one debating club meeting to which no one objected; yet they are all very interesting if a person will only look on the bright side of life. For reference, ask Mrs. Hazelwood or Mrs. Kean.

Man Who Operated First Stage Line Twixt Cisco and Rising Star, Here

Rev. W. R. Chandler, of Shawnee, Okla., was in Cisco Tuesday and Wednesday, meeting old friends and looking over his property here. He also visited his brother-in-law, Wiley Daniel, at Rising Star. Mr. Daniel, by the way, is in very bad health at the present time.

Born in Missouri, 67 years ago, Mr. Chandler located in Breckenridge about 45 years ago. He remained in Breckenridge only a short while, moving to Cisco early in 1880, before the railroads came and before the city of Cisco had been laid out. He operated the first stage line between Cisco and Rising Star and Breckenridge. There was no direct road between Cisco and these two points when young Chandler made his first trip, hence he was forced to blaze his own trail. By stretching their imaginations to the breaking point, those who glide over the brick highways of today may be able to get some idea of the road troubles facing Mr. Chandler in 1880.

Some ten years after coming to Cisco Mr. Chandler was ordained and became a Baptist minister. From that day to this he has been active in the ministry and a stalwart worker for the better life and the denomination of his choice. He organized the first Baptist church at Shawnee, Okla., 28 years ago. Cheerful and optimistic, with a good word for his many old-time Cisco friends, Mr. Chandler comments on the wonderful progress of the city since his last trip here in 1917. He added that he was always glad to visit Cisco, although his coming in recent years is usually saddened by the absence of some dear friend who has answered the last call since his previous visit.

GOVERNOR TO ENTER SCHOOL.
NEW LONDON, Conn., April 23.—Governor Templeton of Connecticut is going back to school. In an address at Meridian the governor said that when he retires next January he intends to enter Yale as a "plain student," specializing in history and psychology.

CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT JUDGE.

W. H. Sewell, of Eastland, candidate for judge of the 88th district court, was a Cisco visitor today. While he has not officially announced as yet, Mr. Sewell says he is in the race to stay. The other aspirant for the office now held by Judge Ed Hill is Elzo Been, although Mr. Been has not officially announced his candidacy. Judge Sewell has been a resident of Eastland county for the past six years, has practiced law for 20 years, is a man of family and is 46 years of age. He is a member of the Eastland Lions club and is a popular, affable gentleman.

MRS. TOM W. STEVENS.

Mrs. Mattie Stevens, wife of Tom W. Stevens and daughter of W. J. Tickner, died Tuesday morning and was buried in Oakwood cemetery Wednesday afternoon. The funeral was held from the late home and was conducted by Rev. Mr. McNeill of the Church of God. H. C. Wippert, funeral director, was in charge at the cemetery. Deceased was a most excellent woman, was only 26 years of age and is survived by three young children, four sisters and three brothers, besides her husband and father.

TEXAS MISSIONARY UNION.

The fifth annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Cisco-Breckenridge district will be held at First Baptist church, Dublin, May 5 and 6. Mrs. Maurice Reid, of Dublin, will preside, and among the Cisco women on the program are Mrs. R. Q. Lee and Mrs. J. J. Butts. Mrs. Maurice Reid will deliver the welcome address and Mrs. Sydney Webb, of Mineral Wells, will respond. The president's message will be by Mrs. R. Q. Lee, district president. There will be special music at all sessions and a great time is anticipated by the Baptist ladies.

WIFE BEATER GETS HIS.

KANSAS CITY, April 23.—Myron McCormick was sentenced to a year in jail because he beat his wife when she had her hair bobbed. "I'm going to let you beat rocks for 365 days and then maybe your wife's bobbed hair will look better to you," Judge Fonda said in passing sentence.

Pastor Who Probably Has Too Much Idie Time, Is Responsible for New Plan

CHICAGO, April 23.—That well-known wedding ceremony promising to endow one's bride with one's worldly goods sounds all right, but it doesn't mean anything, Rev. Frank D. Sheets, Methodist minister, holds, and he wants the phrase dropped from the ritual.

Rev. Sheets told a ministers' meeting that the phrase was empty, and he explained to the United Press as follows:

"The promise 'with my worldly goods I thee endow' has become a joke. Of course a bridegroom will promise anything, but a bridegroom who couldn't even pay the minister 15 cents for the ceremony, even if the minister expected it, shouldn't promise to endow the bride with anything, for in this day so many take the marriage vows lightly and endow their brides with nothing but misery. 'Everything in the ceremony should mean something.'"

LAWYER OVERSTEPS BOUNDS.

DALLAS, April 23.—Paul C. Greene, Dallas attorney, was cited for contempt of federal court here today in connection with a Mann white slave indictment involving his client, Sylvan Chemene. Greene, it was charged, caused Chamene to marry Grace Braun this morning after his client had been indicted by the federal grand jury, charged with illegally transporting her to Dallas from Kansas City. According to federal attorneys, Chemene had been warned against marrying Miss Braun. He has a wife in Houston, it was claimed, whose divorce proceedings against him are being heard today.

THE SOUL OF A BANK

A Bank is a Human Thing. The ordinarily cold, black figures of a Bank Statement, if read aright, stretch out before the reader's eye a true, concentrated history of human endeavor—its successes as well as its disappointments—its triumphs—its mediocrities.

In it are the ambitions of the young and the hopes of the old.

The tiny boy with a Savings Bank in his chubby hands; the stalwart young worker; the steady business man; the old man with his dreams of the past; all these and others, make possible in pennies, dimes and dollars, the figures that comprise a Bank Statement.

And so, our friends and customers, in observing the progress this bank has made, our hearts go out to you who make possible Bank Statements and even banks themselves.

May success attend you, and may we so fulfill our destiny that you, your children, and your children's children will contribute those elements which make our Bank so truly a Human Thing.

I jes' p'tend my Dad's alive,
'At Mama doesn't have to work,
'At she can stay at home all day,
'An' doesn't have to go an' clerk
In 'at ol' store—I jes' p'tend!

An' I p'tend 'at we all live
In a b-i-g house in a fine street,
An' 'at we have a dra' big car,
'An' lots of 'licious things to eat,
An' lots of close—I jes' p'tend!

I jes' p'tend the kids at school
'Don't laugh at my ol' close an' shoes,
An' 'at they all like me—a lot—
'At sometimes in the games they choose
Me, too, to play—I jes' p'tend!

An' after school, I jes' p'tend
When I go home again an' cook
An' sweep an' dust till Mama comes,
'At I'm a princess in a book!
It's lots of fun jes' to p'tend!

An' me an' Mama, we p'tend
'At we are eatin' off gold plates,
'At we have turkey an' ice cream,

I jes' p'tend 'at I am not
So awful cold, I snuggle down
'An' make believe 'at I'm too hot—
