AMERICA MAY INVOKE KELLOGG PACT

WOULD USE IT UNOFFICIALLY TO HALT WAR

Copyright 1935 by United Press
PARIS, Aug. 20 — The United States may invoke the Kellogg peace pact, at least semi-officially, in an effort to avert the Italian-Ethiopian conflict, it was learned on high authority today.
This became evident as strong reports persisted that the league council, its peace efforts now stalemated, may be called into session before Sept. 4, the date about which hostilities are expected to start, to consider the crisis.
Because the United States is a neutral nation it cannot formally invoke the pact, applicable only in cases of aggression. It can, however, invoke clauses which give a neutral nation the right to express a desire for peace and call the attention of other world powers to impending conflict.

BRITAIN ALARMED AT ITALIAN EXPANSION

Copyright 1935 by United Press
LONDON, Aug. 20 — Italy's program of expansion is regarded as a bold, direct threat to the power of the British empire by a considerable portion of British leaders it was learned today.
An emergency cabinet meeting was called Thursday and the ministers were urged to summon home from vacations. Minister Stanley Baldwin, vacationing in France announced he would start for London tonight.
Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign minister, and Anthony Eden, British chief delegate at the disastrous Paris-French-Italian conference at Paris, which precipitated the crisis, conferred at the foreign office today on British policies.
It is understood strong reinforcement of British forces in all territory bordering Ethiopia is being considered. It reported even that there is to be a fleet movement toward the Red Sea, but this was not confirmed.

WOMEN DRY TO MEET HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Mrs. J. E. Burnett, chairman of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Cisco, has called a meeting of "all women and young people interested in righteousness and opposed to the sale of liquor," for 4 p. m. Wednesday. The meeting will be held in the basement of the First Baptist church, she said.
This is a part of a drive being made by prohibitionists here to keep the city and the county in the dry side of the vote column Saturday, it was understood.
Last night dries rallied to the prohibition cause to hear Bishop H. A. Boaz, outstanding Methodist minister and leader in the prohibition campaign, when he spoke in Cisco against repeal at the First Baptist church.

HOPSON TELLS PROBERS PROFITS WENT TO HIS FAMILY FIVE YEARS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20 — Howard Hopson told the senate lobby committee that 3,167,000 profits from his private service company in five years "didn't go to anybody else" except the Hopson family.
For several years during that time the records showed, Hopson's Associated Gas and Electric company paid no dividends.
Chairman Hugo Black, prior to disclosures regarding the private companies, had read to the silent utility man a statement in which the committee "unanimously agreed to press charges of contempt of the senate" against him unless he ceased evasions of questions and speech making.
The 225-pound Hopson sprawled back in his chair with his eyes closed, appearing to be asleep.

Cisco Boosters and their friends this morning gathered at the Lake Cisco swimming pool for an early dip and breakfast at the pavilion. It was the second such swim and breakfast which the club has sponsored recently, and those present voted to repeat it in the near future.

J. A. Bearman, speaking on behalf of the Cisco Lions club, told the group that the Lions would need the support of all Ciscons in providing entertainment for the District 2-E convention to be held here next spring.

He pointed out that the convention would serve to advertise the city and would result in great benefit to business enterprises here as well as to the local club. In order to raise funds for the entertainment, he said, the Lions will sponsor a minstrel here, next month.

FIRST COTTON BALE IS SOLD AT 13 CENTS

Cisco's first bale of cotton, brought in a week ago, has been sold for 13 cents a pound, it was announced today.

The bale, brought in by Robert McKinney of Dothan, was purchased by Norwell and Miller and will be on display at the company's store this afternoon. The price was about one and three-fourths cents above the current market.

Bidding was against the Planters' Gin of Cisco, which ginned the bale.

The bale, which weighed at 470 pounds, was from 1390 pounds of seed cotton. This, ginners said, was a good turn, about 50 pounds more than was expected.

The Cisco Boosters have announced that they will sponsor a move to secure a premium for the first bale. Business men here will be contacted tomorrow morning and will be asked to contribute for the purpose.

"Either cash or merchandise will be accepted," a spokesman for the organization said today.

12-CENT COTTON LOAN PREDICTED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Announcement of a 12-cent cotton loan may "come before nightfall," Senator John Bankhead, dem., Okla., predicted today.

The office of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, however, said there would be no announcement about the loan.

"I think a 12-cent loan is absolutely sure," Bankhead said. "I have been in constant communication with the president and I have no intimation of a change in his view."

Bankhead said the president had "under consideration a very large reduction in next year's crop in order to get rid of the present government holdings."

Carbon From Planes Is Blamed for Fire

MODESTO, Cal., Aug. 20. — Low flying airplanes have been held responsible for a number of fires which burned over hundreds of acres of grain on a ranch near Vernalis.

George Fink of Crows Landing said a careful check and observation revealed particles of carbon from planes flying at low altitudes for purposes of crop dusting started the fires. The minute pieces of carbon, he believed, fanned themselves into hot coals that set off the fires in the dry grain.

Without A Shot Being Fired—

FARMERS FOR LINDALE TRIP BEING SOUGHT

Farmers interested in making a trip to Lindale in behalf of a soil erosion camp for this area were urged again today to contact J. M. Bird, at the Cisco Chamber of Commerce.

"A number have already signified their intention of going," Bird said, "but I'd like to know who else intends to make the trip. We can't set a definite date for it until we know who will go."

He emphasized the importance of having a delegation of farmers present a petition for the camp in person.

"We have been turned down on the proposition before," Bird said, "and believe that if the farmers themselves make the trip and ask for the camp there is a strong possibility that they will get it."

Names of 1,000 farmers have been secured on a petition for the camp by the Chamber of Commerce, it was understood. A delegation from their ranks would be taken as an evidence of interest in the project and good faith on the part of the signers, it was believed.

The trip will be made in a school bus at a very low cost to those going, it was said. About 20 would be an ideal group to make the trip.

NATURAL GAS STILL POPPED IN PANHANDLE

AUSTIN, Aug. 20. — Natural gas still is "popping off" in the Texas Panhandle, the state railroad commission had learned today but apparently there is no way of stopping it until the anti-gas waste law is amended.

Phillips Petroleum company made a frank avowal that it is popping about 10 million feet a day but insisted in doing so it did not violate the law. Commission Chairman Ernest Thompson became alert to know how this came about.

The allowance of sweet gas for part fuel, it was explained is contemplated. The company said it was sweet gas they were popping.

AGREEMENT ON TAXES SPEEDS UP CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Congress raced forward today when the final form of the $250,000,000 tax-on-wealth bill — the key log in the adjournment jam — was agreed upon by senate and house conferees.

The agreement greatly strengthened hopes for adjournment this weekend, although several obstacles remained.

Leaders had talked of holding up the tax bill agreement until other legislation was in the clear, so as to prevent a too precipitant rush for adjournment that might imperil other Roosevelt measures. The fact the agreement was announced appeared to indicate they were well satisfied.

Bills still in progress are:

"The TVA amendment, alcohol control administration, gold clause suits, utility holding companies, all in conference.

Guffey coal bill, passed in the house and expected to be debated in the senate today.

Third deficiency appropriation bill, still in house committee, but can be whipped through in a hurry, railroad reorganization, passed by house and pending in senate, farm mortgage adjustment, oil compact ratification, and government contract bill, passed by senate and pending in the house or in house committee.

J. A. Bearman, in his fine, impassive way, tells the boosters at the breakfast that their cooperation with the Lions club is greatly desired in helping entertain the four or five hundred guests expected at the Lions convention next year... The response showed the cooperation will be given.

Well, Steve Nance has wired that he will return today from his vacation trip... suppose he will be saying that those V-8's cover the ordinary vacation trip in half the time... don't need but one week... nice lot of fish he bought down on the gulf... have heard they were cheap there.

GASMEN MUFF CHANCE TO WIN HALF SEASON

Old Man Psychology got in his work last night and the Community softball club lost a well chance to clinch the championship for the second half season.

Nance, fighting for a chance to tie the half season's standing, handed out a 20 to 7 trouncing to the gasmen and made it necessary for the two teams to settle their differences Monday night before the winner of the second half can be determined.

The gasmen, keyed up to grab the title became nervous and failed crucial game as the motorists played top-notch baseball to win.

Tonight Garner's will play the Lobos. On Thursday night the Lobos will play Nance. Should they win from the motorists at that time they will present Community the second half season championship.

If, however, Nance wins both that game and the one with Community a playoff between Nance and Community will be necessary. Then the winner of the playoff will meet Garner's, winner of the first season title, in a series that will determine the city champion for the season.

Tonight's game between the Lobos and Garner's will begin early, it was announced, and will be followed by a game between the Standard club of Breckenridge and the Eastland All-Stars.

Friday night Nick Miller's Haberdashers and Truett LaRoque's Rating Reporters will meet in a "grudge" fight to settle their differences. Each has one victory over the other.

The War Clouds Gather

All Europe today is facing the greatest crisis which has arisen since the World War, following the breakdown of peace negotiations by Great Britain, France, and Italy in the Italian-Ethiopian dispute in East Africa.

As a matter of fact, the bad situation is not confined to Europe, but concerns the whole world as well. Both Asia and Africa apparently are directly involved in the dispute over a little strip of country, which might well develop into a dispute of an even greater magnitude than that brought about by a pistol incident at Sarajevo 21 years ago.

Italy and Ethiopia are preparing for war against each other. Ethiopia appealed to the League of Nations to settle the dispute. The League hemmed and hawed and finally got an agreement by the two nations to try a peaceful solution. In Paris the other day three nations, Britain, France, and Italy, found they could not agree and the diplomats threw up their hands and "reluctantly and tearfully" stopped trying to avoid the war and began trying to find the best thing to do when it begins.

Just now Italy is making preparations for the fight, sending more men to East Africa and calling for more soldiers back at home—one million by the first of October. One thing is certain, however. Italy will not likely declare war until along toward the end of September, when the Ethiopian rainy season ends. The Italian soldiers will face no unnecessary handicaps.

England and France have territories that border Ethiopia and naturally will be keeping a watchful eye on the scrap. They may become involved. Germany has been arming, as has Russia. Japan is said to be very much interested in the commercial possibilities of Ethiopia and might be willing to swap holds with Europe—the brown races against the whites. Britain, at the same time, apparently is lining up on the side of Ethiopia; which would be the brown side. Russia, many believe, would like an excuse to expand and overrun Manchukuo and Japan. India, Great British territory which Russia has long wanted, will be on the side of Ethiopia, according to Mahatma Gandhi. All of which makes a very nasty situation.

A war between the races would be very undesirable. But a war with as many tangled relationships as this would presumably bring about would be almost unthinkable.

If the war actually does occur, it will mean a breakdown of the League of Nations, which has stood for peace and which has been a great factor in promoting peace in the past. But if it cannot prevent an armed conflict, its doom is sealed. There have been conferences. There will be more conferences. About the only nation which has not been taken into them, it appears, is Ethiopia, about which all the trouble has occurred.

Adjournment and the 'Must' Bills

Congress is a very weary body of men, just now. They have been working since January and some are calling loudly for a rest. There are persons, however,—not necessarily congressmen—who claim that they have been resting since January.

The point is, though, that congress wants a rest and the

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There is a theory, more popular on Capitol Hill than elsewhere, that Congress is competent to legislate.

I remember that Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama said to me several years ago: "Most of us are dubs. Most of us are controlled by certain interests or certain persons back home."

Yet it was Mr. Huddleston who introduced a resolution, passed by a narrow majority of "dubs" who had been exposed to the most expensive lobby ever known in Washington, which ordered him and other House conferees on the public utility bill to insist on barring from the House-Senate conference Mr. Ben Cohen, who drafted the original bill and is counsel for the National Power Policy Committee.

THE vote was a spectacular event because it was without precedent and because it reasserted that somewhat battered theory that Congress is competent to legislate without outside aid.

It also merits special attention because it was a slap in the face for the Senate, whose conferees insisted on Cohen's presence as their technical adviser while they sought to compromise the House and Senate bills with the House conferees.

Cohen sat with House conferees on the securities and stock market acts. AAA attorneys Prew Savoy and Tel Taylor have been constantly with the conferees on the AAA amendments, and so on.

If this were not customary, congressmen would just get all gummed up and find themselves inserting seemingly innocent jokers contributed by private interests outside.

THE House had revised the Senate holding company bill so that the Securities Exchange Commission, charged with administering the act, insisted on controversial sections 11 (substitute for the "death sentence") and 13 were unworkable.

Cohen, the New Deal's outstanding legislative draftsman, had spent months of days and nights studying a subject so complex that some holding companies can't even explain their own structures.

He knew so much more about the bill than anyone else that senators relied on him to help them devise a workable bill in conference and to spot any jokers suggested by hostile House conferees, who included Huddleston of Alabama and two Republicans who had voted against the bill.

BUT Cohen is celebrated here for drafting a securities act which was virtually the first act which Wall Street lawyers, even for fees of hundreds of thousands of dollars, couldn't get around.

It used to be a congressional custom to pass regulatory, tax, and other laws through which the giants of industry and finance galloped like a herd of stampeding elephants.

But here was Ben Cohen again, a government employe making less than $10,000 a year, pitted against lawyers and lawyer-lobbyists to whom holding companies had paid hundreds of thousands of dollars, with another measure which—before the House operated on it—had also seemed bulletproof.

Design For One-Mill Coins

administration insists upon action on the "must" legislation program which has been outlined, and which is eleven-sided. The eleven points which President Roosevelt calls for action upon are the public utility holding company bill, the Guffey coal bill, the tax bill, the banking bill, TVA legislation, alcohol control legislation, government contract bill, railroad reorganization bill, oil compact ratification, gold clause bill, and third deficiency bill.

There is much to be said for both sides in the matter. The president administration claims that the legislation is needed immediately. Some of the congressmen claim that action at present would be unworthy of the group, seeing that the body is already overworked and might pass hasty measures which it would have cause to regret later. On the other hand, the administration says that to quit now would give opponents of the measures the opportunity they have been looking for—a chance to get in their own propaganda and develop a sentiment against it. Whereupon opponents say that they are entitled to a while to think it over.

TEXT OF SPEECH COXEY PREPARED TO DELIVER AT CAPITAL IS GIVEN

MASILLON, O., Aug. 20.—Many have wondered what "General" Jacob S. Coxey intended to say on May 1, 1894, when he was arrested on the steps of the national capitol while attempting to speak in behalf of his unemployed army.

The United Press has been given permission by Coxey to reproduce the speech he had prepared for that occasion. It follows:

"The Constitution of the United States guarantees to all citizens the right to assemble peacefully and petition for a redress of grievances, and furthermore declares that the right of free speech shall not be abridged. We stand here today to test these guarantees of our Constitution. We choose this place of assemblage because it is the property of the people, and if it be the right of the people to assemble peacefully on their own premises and if this privilege has been abridged by the passage of laws in direct violation of the Constitution, we are here to draw the eyes of the entire nation to this shameful fact.

Liberty Made Issue

"Here, rather than any other spot upon the continent, it is fitting that we should come to mourn over our dead liberties, and by our protest arouse the imperiled nation to such action as shall rescue the Constitution and resurrect our liberty.

"Upon these steps where we stand has been spread a carpet for the royal feet of a foreign princess, the cost of whose lavish entertainment was taken from the public treasury of the people. Up these steps the lobbyists of trusts and corporations have passed unchallenged on their way to committee-rooms to which we, the representatives of the producers, have been denied.

"We stand here today in behalf of millions of toilers whose petitions have been unresponded to, and whose opportunities for honest, remunerative, productive, labor have been taken from them by unjust legislation protecting idleness, speculators and gamblers.

"Rich Growing Richer"
"For a quarter of a century the rich have been growing richer and the poor poorer, and by the close of the present century the middle class will have disappeared as the struggle for existence becomes fiercer and relentless.

"We stand here to remind Congress of its promise of returning property should the Sherman Act be repealed. We stand here to declare by our march of over 500 miles through difficulties, a march unstained by even the slightest act that would bring the blush of shame to any, that we are law-abiding citizens, and as such our actions speak louder than words. We are here to petition for legislation which will furnish employment for every man able and willing to work, legislation which will bring universal prosperity, emancipate our beloved country from financial bondage to the descendants of King George.

"We have come to the only source which is competent to aid the people in their day of distress. We are here to tell our representatives, who hold their seats by grace of our ballots, that the struggle for existence has become far too fierce and relentless. We come and throw up our defenseless hands and say: 'Help, or we and our loved ones must perish.'

Called It Hunger War
"We are engaged in a bitter and cruel war with the enemies of all mankind—a war with hunger, wretchedness and despair, and we ask Congress to heed our petitions and issue for the nation's good a sufficient volume of the same kind of money which carried the country through one awful war and saved the life of the nation.

"In the name of justice, through whose impartial administration only the present civilization can be maintained and perpetuated, by the powers of the Constitution of our country upon which the liberties of the people must depend; all in the name of the Commonwealth of Christ, whose representative we are, we enter a most solemn and earnest protest against the unnecessary and cruel act of usurpation and tyranny and this enforced subjugation of the rights and privileges of American citizenship. We have assembled here in violation of no just laws, to enjoy the privileges of every American citizen.

Charges Rights Violated
"We are now under the shadow of the capitol of this great nation and in the presence of our national legislature are refused that dearly bought arbitrary power prevented from carrying out the desire of our hearts, which is plainly granted under the great Magna Charta of our national liberty. We have come here through toil and weary march, through storms and tempests, over mountains and amid the trials of poverty and distress at the doors of Congress in the name of Him whose banners we bear, in the name of Him who pleaded for the poor and oppressed, that they should heed the voice of distress and despair that is now coming up from every section of our country, that they should consider the conditions of the unemployed of our land and enact such laws as will give them employment, bring happier conditions to the people and the smile of contentment to our citizens.

"Coming as we do with peace and good will to men, we shall submit to these laws, unjust as they are, and obey this mandate of authority of might, who ever overrides and outrages the law of right. We appeal to every peace-loving citizen, every liberty-loving man and woman in whose breast the fire of patriotism and love of country has not died out, to assist us in our efforts toward better laws and general benefit."

Topeka, Kansas.—Found Kansas' time honored reputation for hot weather well earned upon arriving in the capital city of this great prairie state. The home of the Santa Fe general offices, Topeka reflects the spirit and energy of this great railroad system. Located in the fertile valley of the Kaw river and easily accessible to all parts of the state because of the splendid rail and highway connections, Topeka has a trade far exceeding that of most towns its size. In reality it is just a big country town with a friendly and congenial atmosphere. A magnificent park system including the renowned Reishelm Rose Gardens, finest of their kind in the country, offer recreational opportunities. Wide streets, broad lawns, abundant trees and beautiful homes are characteristic of this big over-grown town with metropolitan advantages.

Thought I might forget the heat by visiting Alf M. Landon, the Kansas governor who has attracted the admiration of the nation by both reducing taxes and balancing the budget. Found the budget still balanced. The State Accountant said that the state general fund had a cash balance of more than one million dollars at the close of the fiscal year. Spent most of the morning in the governor's office and chatted with the Chief Executive about national problems and with historical parallels to present problems and situations. Costless and evidently busy with many problems of the affairs of state, he still paused in his work often enough to greet the many callers at the office.

At the mansion for luncheon. Not a very heavy meal—plenty of good, wholesome food to keep the stomach steady and the head clear. Could hear the Landon children playing on the second floor. A few minutes later they joined us in the study, climbing on the governor's knee, leading him from the thought of work to cue of play. The dark Landon eyes twinkled as he almost became a boy again. The governor is planning to go fishing. It will be the first vacation he has had since he was elected governor. He has made a record in staying on the job and working.

Last summer livestock was suffering throughout the state for want of water. Inspired by the emergency Governor Landon asked his acquaintances in the oil industry to furnish pumps and pipe. Water from creeks and spring holes was thus obtained for use by thousands of stockmen. This year, although Kansas will have less than a half crop at best, plenty of water and a fair supply of livestock feed are available. Left impressed by the contrast between this decisive and practical executive and the vacillating visionaries who haunt so many public offices today.

AAA Opens Battle Upon Fruit Flies

HONOLULU, Aug. 29.—The AAA is preparing a series of radio "programs" for the Mediterranean fruit fly which may result in bringing luscious tropical fruits of Hawaii to the tables of homes on mainland United States.

Hawaiian fruits and vegetables, subject to infestation by the fruit fly, cannot be shipped to continental United States because of federal quarantine barriers.

Radio waves may provide a solution for the problem, Chauncey B. Wightman, AAA representative for Hawaii, told the United Press. Wightman outlined plans for a campaign to eradicate the pest by application of high frequency radio to the infested fruit. Scientists contend that high frequency radio waves will destroy the larvae whether it is active or dormant.

Should the campaign prove successful in lifting the quarantine against shipment of island fruits, residents of the nation's temperate zones may have a chance to eat delicious tropical fruits such as the mango, papaya and avocado.

The government has set aside $80,000 from the AAA sugar processing tax to finance the radio campaign against the fruit fly, Wightman said. In addition to the radio experiments, three entomologists will be sent around the world in search of parasites which will prey on the fruit fly.

If the desired parasites can be found, they will be imported to be released to join the battle against the pest which has destroyed millions of dollars in Hawaiian fruits in recent years.

normal conditions are being rapidly approached.

Most of the construction consists of small detached dwellings in the suburbs of cities, although factory buildings is much in evidence. A conference of diversified groups in the building trades will be held in connection with the Leipzig Fair, which opens August 25, when exhibits of the newest building materials and accessories will be shown and the latest building methods demonstrated.

The exhibits will illustrate the remarkable progress that has been made throughout Germany of late in devising new materials to assure insulation against moisture and sound, to reduce weight, and assure improved sanitary and general living conditions at the lowest possible cost.

SIX EASTLAND YOUTHS FIND WAY TO BEAT HIGH COST OF OBTAINING EDUCATION AT UNIVERSITY

By STEWART M. DOSS
Daily News Correspondent

EASTLAND, Aug. 20 — Three months ago, six Eastland boys, two with one year's college work, and four with high school diplomas opened a service station with nothing but determination to work and earn money to attend college.

Today they have earned over $800 at the station and by performing odd jobs.

They are: Terrell Coleman, 24, and brother, Marshall, 19, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Coleman; Bobby Hart, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Hart; Bill Satterwhite, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite; John Hart, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hart, and Wendell Seibert, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Seibert. The boys—working for one aim—to attend the University of Texas this coming school term—evolved the plan early in May.

Terrell, who had attended the Agricultural and Mechanical College at College Station, was familiar with five boys in the Hi-Y club of which he was sponsor, and know their desire to attend college.

Surely, Terrell thought, some plan could be evolved whereby they might attend college.

Co-operation, he knew, makes for economy. He hit upon the idea of opening a filling station with profits to be used for the common cause of attending college.

Several meetings were arranged, the idea found hearty reception and on May 25 the "Horned Frog" Service Station was opened. It had been without leasor, but, Terrell believed, because of their aims, could be successfully operated.

They advertised—frankly told Eastland residents their idea, solicited their business and publicized their willingness to do any kind of a confidently, yet warily, the station was opened. Gas was sold, flats were fixed and receipts mounted to gratifying heights—some days they were second to none in Eastland.

Requests for odd jobs came in

Lawns were mowed—150 it is estimated—houses were cleaned, highway work was done, hedges were trimmed, furniture was moved and circulars were delivered.

Success seen, Terrell, who has charge of the treasury into which money from all sources goes, has rented a house at 203 West Thirty-ninth street, Hyde Park addition, Austin, where they will live while attending the University of Texas. Lease for nine months has been taken.

By living together, it is figured, costs will be cut over 50 per cent. The group plans to do all its own housework and cooking.

Their mothers and fathers will loan furniture and bedding. Fruits and vegetables for the nine months term have been prepared and will be taken to Austin.

Receipts today are over $720. It is expected the season's profits, by Sept. 15, will be $850. Knowing they will need other funds, the group will endeavor to obtain federal education funds by doing campus jobs or other work.

They will bank their money under the title of "Eastland Educational Corporation," one of the boys suggest.

"So-called?"
"No," replied Terrell, when asked of the co-operative plan, "It's just an idea whereby we'll be able to attend college for at least half the average cost."

Bobby plans to major in petroleum production engineering, Bill in geology, Wendell in journalism, Marshall in petroleum production engineering, and Terrell in journalism.

Sports?
John, who lettered as backfield man for the Eastland Mavericks two years, will come out for football. Bill is to try his hand at swimming.

Basket ball will claim attention of John, Marshall and Terrell.

Seibert will come out for track. All will try for baseball.

"No," stated Terrell, "it's doubtful if the same thing would go over twice," when asked if they intend to try the same money-making methods next year.

Fred Astaire New Sensation of Radio

Fred Astaire, who can be heard on the stations of the NBC network at 6 p. m. on Saturday evenings, has proven the outstanding sensation of radio. In his opening program radio critics all over the country were lavish in their praise of the dancing star of stage and screen, who recently joined the ranks of radio.

In his opening broadcast Astaire sang the songs from his new picture "Top Hat". This was the first time that these tunes had been heard by the public either on the radio or elsewhere. In his subsequent broadcasts, Astaire will sing selections from past musical comedy and screen successes.

In the Lucky Strike "Hit Parade" Fred Astaire, as guest star, is supported by Lennie Hayton's orchestra, Kay Thompson, Johnny Hauser, Charles Carlile, the Rhythm Kings and the Melody Girls. The Melody Girls are one of the recent innovations of the Luck Strike program. The group consists of twelve voices under the direction of Kay Thompson. They are used effectively as choral background for the other vocalists and are heard in one number alone during each broadcast.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JO DARIEN breaks her engagement to BRET PAUL, college athletic star, because he objects to her taking a job as hostess at Crest Lake Inn, fashionable summer resort owned by wealthy DOUGLAS MARSH. Jo goes to Crest Lake and later Bret arrives as a life guard.

Douglas Marsh's eccentric mother dislikes Jo. FRED FRAGONET, film actor, pays Jo marked attentions and asks her to marry him as soon as he can get a divorce. Jo becomes friendly with LOLA MONTEZ, film actress.

Prompted by his mother, Marsh asks Jo to leave Crest Lake. She decides to go to Hollywood to look for a job and Fragonet persuades her to go with him by plane. There Jo begins to doubt Fragonet. She moves from her hotel to a rooming house, begins a fruitless search for work. Lola Montez sends for Jo and she goes to the actress' home. Lola confides to Jo that she (Lola) was Fragonet's first wife.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVIII
LEANING back against the luxurious cushions of Lolita Montez's town car, Jo had plenty to think about. Lolita's revelation that she had been Fragonet's first wife, that her child was his had affected Jo with all the force of a nervous shock. Even now, after an hour with Lolita, walking in her garden and talking of pleasant things, Jo was weak and bewildered.

She had admired the little actress at Crest Lake, but that admiration was as nothing compared with Jo's feelings for her now. At Crest Lake she had believed Lolita Montez was overly bitter about Fragonet, had half-concluded that this dislike grew from professional jealousy. But now she knew that Lolita was not half so bitter as she might have been.

Jo had left Lolita with the actress's promise that she would find something for Jo to do in Hollywood. "You might as well have something at the studio," Lolita had said. "I've more influence there than anywhere, and it would probably pay more than you'd get elsewhere."
BUT Lolita had been emphatic in her advice that Jo should forget Fragonet and avoid him utterly. Now, after this latest glimpse into his stormy story, Jo could well agree. Looking back on the whole thing, Jo realized how reckless and foolish she had been. She could only hope that she hadn't already gone too far—or that Fragonet hadn't—for she still feared the threat of trouble from Edna Fragonet. As Peter had hinted, Edna might well let loose her wrath, once his picture was released and she stood a better chance of payments from him.

Without thinking, Jo repeated her address. "Fine," said the director, showing his car into gear. "You'll hear from me soon."
As Lolita's car moved on with traffic Jo leaned back against the cushions and smiled at Drann's apparent friendliness. She hadn't the slightest notion that he'd get in touch with her at all.

THE next day she stayed close to her room, following the advice of Lolita who had said she'd telephone. But as the hours wore on and she did not hear from the actress, Jo decided that something must have happened to delay Lolita's plans. She had just decided to get a breath of outside air when her landlady called up the stairway:
"I'm sending up a Mr. Drann," she shouted, as though Jo Darien were somewhat deaf.

Jo hurried to the door, wishing that the bungalow owner wouldn't be quite so liberal-minded in her handling of male callers. But it was too late—the bulky form of Silas Drann was already on the stair.
"Good evening, Miss Darien," he puffed. "I was afraid I might not find you in—but I took a chance and stopped by on the way to the studio."

Embarrassed, Jo invited him to sit down. "I—I suppose Miss Montez sent you?" She was puzzled, for Lolita had mentioned what work she had in mind for Jo at the studio, and Jo hadn't for the moment imagined it would be anything in Drann's department.
At the question, Drann raised his eyebrows. "Montez? Oh—yes. Yes, she did."

Jo dropped into a chair, relieved. "She's wonderful, I think."
"Yes, we all think so." The director cleared his throat. "Now Miss Darien, had you ever thought of going into pictures at all?"
"You mean—you can't mean acting in them," laughed Jo.

"That's just what I do mean," snapped Drann. "Miss Darien, I want you to take a screen test."
Jo could hardly find her voice. "But I—it's so absurd, Mr. Drann, I've never had any experience. Not even in amateur theatricals, and—"
"So much the better! If you get through a good screen test—if your beauty registers at all and your voice is passable—I will make an actress of you. I have done that before, many times. I did it with Montez."

"But, I—" Jo broke off, laughing. "I'm sure it would be all for nothing, and even if I could be an actress I'm . . . not sure I'd want to be."
"Nonsense!" Drann almost yelled inside the little room. "I watched you at Crest Lake. You are beautiful. You are natural. You are young. I want you to be at the studio tomorrow at 10. Ask for me." He got up abruptly, hat in hand. "You'll promise to be there?"
"Why . . . if Miss Montez wants it, yes. But I thought she had something in mind for me in the office somewhere."
"In the office!" Drann repeated in disgust. "You can get nowhere in the office. I'll see you tomorrow at 10!"
Then, without the formality of a goodbye, the director was gone. Jo stood watching him from the window, saw him push his heavy frame behind the wheel of his roadster. Somehow she wished Lolita Montez hadn't drawn Silas Drann into her affairs. Instinctively Jo mistrusted him. He seemed more like a heartless machine than a man.

At 10 tomorrow, Drann had said, at the Atlas lot. . . .
THE man at the big wide gate which guarded Atlas from the rest of Hollywood was instantly suspicious. But when Jo gave him the name of Silas Drann a little of his suspicion melted—but not sufficiently to allow him to let her enter before he had called Drann's office and verified her appointment. Once he had determined this, he was courteous itself.

"Just go right on in, Miss Darien," he said. "It's that big white building to the left there. They'll tell you where Drann's office is."
As Jo made her way to the administration building of the Atlas organization she saw none of the ceaseless activity she had expected. All about her were high enclosing walls and behind them, she supposed, the real picture-making went on. Some of them were dotted with signs warning, "SILENCE," or "NO ADMITTANCE," or "DO NOT ENTER WHILE RED LIGHT IS ON." Even the grass in front of the administration building was not to be disturbed, although the sign was a gentle one, pleading simply, "PLEASE!" Jo obeyed, directing her steps to the narrow concrete walk.

She did not have to inquire for Drann. She encountered him almost in the entrance way. "Ah!" he burst out, smiling. "Right on time! And punctuality is a first requisite in this business. Come on, I want to rehearse you a little."

Taking her by the arm he led the bewildered Jo across the pavement and into a small building which was empty save for a canvas chair, a table, and a maze of lights and wires overhead. Drann plopped immediately into the chair.
"We won't do much," he said. "Let's see you walk."
Jo looked at him, startled.
"Walk, walk! You know how to walk, don't you? . . . That's good. Can you smile on order?"
Jo found that she could, but her smile was really genuine for she was amused at Drann's pompous absurdity. Now he handed her a sheet of paper from his pocket. "Read that. Read it just as if it were a letter you were reading to someone—just make it clear and understandable."
Her voice trembling a little, Jo read the typewritten page. Her hands were shaking so that she found it difficult to make out the words.

"I'll never do at all," she told him, returning the sheet of paper. "I—I'm so scared."
"Don't be such a child!" Drann barked. "There'll be only myself, the cameraman and a sound man there. We've all seen and heard much worse than you. You want to keep remembering that you might turn out wonderfully well on the screen."
It wasn't, Jo told herself ruefully, a flattering thought.

PORT HOUSTON HOLDS COTTON EXPORT TITLE

HOUSTON, Aug. 20—Port Houston retained the lead in cotton exports from the United States in spite of a big drop in total exports during the season closing July 31, according to J. F. Burwell, secretary of the Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade. Cotton was loaded for 33 foreign ports, chiefly European. Loadings declined, but slight increases were taken by Spain, Greece, Finland, Sweden, Denmark, India and the Philippine Islands. Russia bought 16,587 bales, the first since the 1930-31 season when 3,435 bales were shipped to the U. S. S. R. German exports declined last season to 102,464 bales, compared with 422,962 the previous season. Japan led by importing 403,527 bales. Houston's exports for the 1934-35 and 1933-34 seasons follows: Great Britain, 138,087 and 272,043; France, 138,939 and 258,014; Germany, 102,464 and 432,962; Belgium, 28,554 and 37,644; Spain, 99,078 and 97,550; Portugal, 14,713 and 20,785; Italy, 171,560 and 258,152; Poland, 89,271 and 90,040; Russia, 16,587 and none; Greece, 927 and 715; Estonia, 29, and 260; Finland, 3,795 and 2,476; Sweden, 23,633 and 24,759; Norway, 3,472 and 4,636; Denmark, 26,509 and 424,633; Japan, 403,527 and 617,083; China, 82,105 and 139,252; Indo-China, 2,915 and 6,024; India, 12,468 and 7,449; Philippine Islands, 155 and 100; Ecuador, 155 and 2,293; Colombia, 2,029 and 2,166; Chile, 276 and none.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

CHICAGO—The question that has been rampant in boxing circles for the last few months is: "Can Joe Louis take it?" I'll answer the question right now. Joe Louis certainly can take it! If he could not, if he felt, deep within his heart, that he would be unable to stand up against the punch of any man in the world, would he walk in as he does, stalking opponents, and giving them the opportunity at least to put a wild one over? He would not! The fact that he shuffles in, flat-footed and eager, is sufficient proof to me that he can take all that any man in the ring today is able to give him. I saw the great Sam Langford, with whom Louis has been compared so frequently since he crashed select company, and I believe that Louis has a left hook as effective as that of the Boston Tar Baby. I saw the late Jim Corbett, although late in his career, and spent many happy hours with him. I believe the young Detroit Negro is just as cool as Gentleman Jim was under fire. Remember, Corbett was a big light-heavyweight, and he is rated among the ring's immortals. Louis, with everything that Corbett had, plus a devastating punch, is a big and tremendously strong heavyweight, and he is only 21. His possibilities are unlimited. Short Left Finished Kingfish RIGHT now Louis, to me, is the fistic marvel of the age. He has taken boxing off the vying trapeze and has restored it to fighting worth. story—the superiority of the straight hitter against the swinger. That was the whole sum and substance of that fight. Louis is on top of the boxing heap now, even though he is not champion. There is no man in the ring today who can beat him. Somewhere in this broad land lives the boy who will come along and punch him out, but he hasn't been heard from yet. Today he's probably tilling the soil in upstate New York, working in a mine in Colorado, or picking hops in Oregon. But there's no doubt about the fact that he is alive. I wonder what Tex Rickard would have thought of Louis. Tex, the man who took boxing out of the parlor and put it in the parlor, so to speak, is dead these many years. I doubt if Tex ever dreamed that a Negro fighter would come along and attain the eminence that Louis enjoys today. First Puncher Since Dempsey IN my mind, Louis is the first good punching heavyweight since Dempsey. The only man who could fight since Dempsey was the man who beat him, Gene Tunney. Yet Tunney wasn't a hitter. What have we had since Tunney and Dempsey? Heeneey the plunger, Paulino and Risko the shock absorbers, Campolo the leaning tower, Camera the overstuffed, Sharkey with the heart of a pea, Loughran the fumbler, and Lasky the poorest excuse of them all. Oh, yes. We also have had Max Baer and Jim Braddock. Baer, the guy who wasn't proud enough to keep in shape after winning the championship, and Braddock, who backed into the title. What would Louis do to the bunch of them? I'll tell you. He'd stomp each one, and wouldn't he'd try too hard to do it.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson. The AVERAGE HIVE of BEES CONTAINS BETWEEN 50,000 AND 75,000 WORKERS, A FEW HUNDRED DRONES, AND ONE QUEEN. COSTA RICA WHICH HAS AN AREA OF ONLY 23,000 SQ. MILES, HAS ALMOST ONE-HALF AS MANY SPECIES OF FLOWERING PLANTS AS THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA, COMBINED. ALL Ivory is divided into two classifications, hard and soft, and of the two, the latter is by far the more desirable. Thin shavings of soft ivory are opaque, while hard ivory is translucent. Soft ivory does not split easily and is, therefore, more easily worked into intricate designs and patterns.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE NEA Service Staff Writer

THIS is the lush season—all the best vegetables in the plentiful prime. Sweet potatoes, for instance, which you ought to use often because they are such a splendid food on so many counts. Being a yellow vegetable, they are an excellent source of vitamin A, essential for growth and the building of new tissues. They contribute lots of calories, and that's important. Maybe you don't realize what food scientists are worrying about—that many growing boys and girls who have plenty of vitamins and minerals in their daily diets are still short on the calories.

If you substitute sweet potatoes for Irish potatoes, though, consider the whole meal carefully. For the sweets are higher in fat and carbohydrates, but lower in protein than the Irish potatoes. One-half of a baked sweet potato provides 100 calories, but a whole medium-sized Irish potato is necessary to furnish that many calories.

Remember when you buy sweet potatoes that unlike their Irish cousins, they are susceptible to temperature and dampness and spoil quickly. Calculate your needs and buy in comparatively small quantities to avoid waste.

Southern cooks are most adept at cooking sweet potatoes. They make light rolls, using sweet potatoes for yeast. Adding egg yolks to the dough produces golden yellow rolls of superior texture for an autumn luncheon.

For twice-baked sweet potatoes scrub potatoes well and bake until tender. Then cut in halves lengthwise and scoop out pulp. Mash and season with salt and pepper. Lots of butter and cream to make moist. Beat until light and fluffy. Add chopped nuts if you like and if there are no children at the table one or two tablespoons Sherry. Pile mixture lightly in the shells and brush over with melted butter. Return to the oven to let top brown.

Tomorrow's Menu BREAKFAST: Ripe plums, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs, toast, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Cheese souffle, creamed celery, blueberry muffins, milk, tea. DINNER: Melon cup, ham baked in milk, scalloped sweet potatoes and apples, stewed okra and tomatoes, peach custard, milk, coffee.

Scalloped sweet potatoes and apples are delicious with pork in any fashion. Roast pork, baked pork chops, broiled ham or baked ham all have an affinity for both sweet potatoes and apples.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes and Apples.

Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of sweet potatoes which have been boiled and peeled and cut in slices. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Add a layer of pared and sliced apples and sprinkle with sugar and dots of butter. Continue layer for layer until dish is two-thirds full, making the last layer of apples. Pour over 1-2 cup water and bake in a slow oven for 1 hour.

Serve scalloped sweet potatoes and apples with a slice of ham baked in milk. The meat is cooked at the same temperature and for the same length of time, enabling you to make full use of the oven.

DAMAGES ARE BEING SOUGHT IN CAR WRECK

EASTLAND, Aug. 20.—Damages of $6,200 were asked in two suits filed Monday in the 88th district court at Eastland from the Sunbeam Market Place, Inc., of Sweetwater by T. S. Lankford and Tom Guin.

Lankford, who is an Abilene resident, the petition recited, and his grandson, Tom Guin, were returning from Dallas July 15 when the car in which they were riding was hit by a truck owned by the defendant company.

Guin, who was driving Lankford's car, was coming from the underpass on the old Ranger highway west to Eastland, entering the regular road, when the accident allegedly occurred, due to the fault of F. L. Pittmann, driver of the truck.

Plaintiffs allege that it was due to negligence of the driver and non-observance of highway regulations that the accident occurred. Lankford asks judgment of $1,200 for car damages in his suit while Guin, who is a Runnels county resident, asks $5,000 for personal injuries in his separate petition.

655 EXECUTED TO CUT DOWN OPIUM TRADE

CHANGHAI, Aug. 20.—Six hundred and fifty-five persons have been put to death in the past three years in a single province of China for the manufacture or sale of narcotic drugs.

"Death to the makers and dealers of drugs," watchword of Chinese government authorities in their unrelenting war against opium, has been no idle slogan in Shansi province, where real progress in the eradication of the evil is reported.

Firing Squad Is Penalty Opium and other narcotic drugs valued at approximately $500,000 have been confiscated in the three-year period, and 655 manufacturers and traffickers have been executed by firing squads.

Although in harmony with the policy outlined by the Central government at Nanking, attempts are made to cure rather than to punish users of drugs, but no consideration is given the vendors. Those caught making or dispensing opium or its derivatives are promptly sentenced and executed. The drastic program has had its effect, and Shansi, once the most drug-ridden of provinces, today is nearly free of the trade.

Preventive measures have received much attention by the provincial authorities, and thousands of poppy fields have been destroyed. Educational measures have been aided by extensive financial grants.

For those already afflicted, registration with the provincial authorities is compulsory. Last year the smokers numbered 224,717. The majority are expected to be cured by rigorous treatment within five years.

Child's Chance In Films Is Very Slim

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—What chance has a child to become a motion picture star?

That's the question that has agitated parents since Jackie Coogan mounted the throne that today is occupied by Shirley Temple, Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney and Jane Withers. And the answer, according to studio managers, is one chance in 3,000,000.

During the past decade, they explain, the number of child stars of importance can be counted on one hand. The interest in child stars is growing, however, Gus Edwards believes. He is known for discovering Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Mitzel Mayfield and others.
