Attempt to Wreck Train for Revenge High School Work May Start in Next Sixty Days

Ejected From C. & N. E. Freight 4 Boys Place Ties on Rails; Are Detected Before Damage is Done

Charged with an attempt to wreck a train, four young men, the oldest of whom is said to be 16 years of age, were arrested last night between Lee Ray and Parks, where it is said by officers making the arrest that they had piled ties across the rails of the C. & N. E., and had also let the water out of the railway tank which was close by.

Three of the boys claim Sweetwater as their residence, giving their names as W. H. Flowers, who was arrested and placed in jail here, J. C. Litchfield, Gene Wagner, and a fourth boy, whom Flowers claimed was an Oklahoman and whose name he said he could not remember. Litchfield, Wagner and the Oklahoman were placed in jail at Breckenridge. The Breckenridge officers were over here today to take Flowers into custody. The officers state that the quartet were put off a C. & N. E. freight train in the Cisco yards Wednesday, and that they conspired to wreck a train on the line and do other damage to the railway's property for revenge. They claim to have received confessions from two of the boys to that effect.

Flowers admitted to an American reporter this morning that members of the party placed a tie on the track, and states that all four of them climbed upon the water tank to get a drink, and that probably three or four barrels of water was wasted. He also admits that they were ejected from the C. & N. E. train in the Cisco yards yesterday. Flowers stated that they had been seeking work.

COSTLY AND WORTHLESS.

By order of Mayor Williamson the city attorney is framing an ordinance designed to prevent tented carnival and vaudeville attractions, so called, from exhibiting in Cisco. As the American understands it, this will not apply to the bonafide, well-ordered circus or to animal shows.

However, the Cisco American wants to register its approval of any ordinance seeking to taboo the usually disreputable tented organizations that travel about the country under this or that guise, camping here for a week or two, collecting all the loose change in the community and then moving on to some neighboring city for a similar stay.

It should not be difficult for the city attorney to find a way to keep out the strolling gambler and the shimmy dancer, and the sooner this is done in Cisco the better it will be for the city's morals and its permanent business interests.

Nothing herein is intended as a reflection on the Clarke shows, now exhibiting here. Mr. Clarke is well and favorably known.

RAIN RETARDS PROGRESS IN PIONEER FIELD

Rain which fell at Pioneer Monday in torrential volume which approached a cloudburst, has retarded development in drilling operations to a marked extent, the roads being almost impassable until today. Several wells are in the immediate horizon of the pay, and should be drilled in within the next few days.

The McKamey & Sherrin well, just on the eastern edge of the townsite, is said to be flowing by heads following a shot which separated the casing and prevented the cleaning of the hole above the big pay. The hole will be cleaned out and it is expected that the well will prove a big producer.

F. B. Ober, who has been a resident of Cisco for the past eighteen months while engaged in the oil development work, has just received a service medal from the war department showing five major operations or battles to his credit. The medal bears the names of the five important engagements in the form of bars, as follows: Somme, Defensive; Aine-Marne; Oise-Marne; Meuse-Argonne; Defensive Sector. Mr. Ober enlisted at Washington, D. C. Nov. 17, 1917, and was overseas for 14 months.

REVIVAL OPENS TONIGHT AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Evangelist Burke Culpepper did not arrive in Cisco to begin the revival meeting at the First Methodist as has been widely advertised, owing to the lack of rail transportation following the washouts.

However, the announcement was made today that he would be here to begin the service tonight.

Rev. Culpepper comes to Cisco with a reputation as an evangelist of great power in preaching and exhortation, and his engagement is welcomed by the leading workers of all denominations.

The evangelist will be assisted by John U. Robinson, who directs the song services.

"On to Victory" is Campaign Slogan in Drive for Midland College

After the most heroic work on the part of many business and professional men of Cisco since Monday, the word was beginning to be passed around today that the goal was in sight and that there was no further question as to the ultimate success of the campaign, and that perhaps the full amount required would be secured before the week closed.

The campaign for the raising of funds with which to secure the location of the Midland Christian college in Cisco took concrete form early Monday noon with the meeting of a representative body of business men at the commercial club rooms. At this meeting the following resolutions were read and adopted:

Be It Resolved, That Cisco citizens be requested to seriously, immediately consider their personal obligation to give generously of their means to the end that Midland College be brought to this city;

That they make it convenient for our solicitors to interview them without costly delays;

That, not only by gifts of money, but kindly expression, and good team work all so help that this enterprise end not in disaster but be splendidly successful.

The resolutions were signed by B. S. Huey, Eugene Langford, J. Alexander, Minter Womack, J. J. Butt's, E. J. Barnes, R. Q. Lee, A. B. O'Flaherty, E. R. Holmes, Dr. R. S. Rumph, L. H. McCrea, J. M. Williamson, G. C. Richardson, J. T. McKissick.

This body selected an executive committee to direct the campaign, in the following persons:

L. H. McCrea, chairman; R. Q. Lee, B. S. Huey, Jake Alexander, J. M. Williamson, R. E. McDaniel and R. E. Mitchell. This committee selected its forces with which to expedite the campaign in its various stages of development.

Chairman McCrea Urges Action.

"The $50,000 required to perfect the location of the Christian Midland College in Cisco is merely 'pocket change' to our citizenship in the light of the vast benefits which will accrue from the investment," said Judge L. H. McCrea this week in speaking of the financial phase of the campaign which is now being waged in its behalf.

CISCO'S TEST WELL AT INTERESTING DEPTH

J. E. Drury, manager for the Drury Petroleum Co., drilling the Luse No. 1 well at the southern edge of town, reported today that hole had been made to the 3,000 foot level. He stated that the next three or four days' drilling should reveal substantial evidences of an oil pool, which they confidently expect to strike between 3,000 and 3,500 feet.

"I have never heard an argument against the advantages of a Christian college to the well rounded development of a city or a commonwealth. Looked at purely from a cold-blooded financial standpoint, a college may not return in dollars and cents on an investment as much as some industrial plants and enterprises, but there are various phases of development to a city, the groundwork for which is schools and churches. Get these and a city can approximate the annexation of all these other forms of development and wanted enterprises.

"All of us can recall from memory certain communities which have been lifted from the small town class to a great progressive American city by their early attention to the installation of educational plants. But we all know this. This campaign merely resolves itself into a question as to whether each and every one of us is willing to measure up to our responsibility and opportunity as town builders and get our name on the dotted line.

"I count it a great privilege to get my name on the 'dotted line' to the limit of my ability."

City Commission Makes Report for Fiscal Year Ending April 30, 1922

The city commission met in regular monthly session Monday evening, with Mayor J. M. Williamson presiding and the following commissioners present: W. J. Donovan, J. B. Blitch, W. F. Walker, S. E. Hittson.

The meeting assumed the nature of a report of the year's work which ended with the closing of the fiscal year April 30, when the retiring commissioners, W. F. Walker and W. J. Donovan, were permitted to make statements of their stewardship of the police and water departments, respectively, and also served the purpose of administering the oath of office to the two incoming commissioners, Minter Womack and R. L. Poe.

The routine business of the commission was first considered, which consisted of the passing of bills for current expenses, etc. Three ordinances were passed, as follows:

An ordinance to provide for the licensing and regulation of hire or service passenger motor vehicles in the city limits. An annual license of $25.00 per car was fixed. The ordinance fixed the fare which may be charged by service cars for transporting passengers in the city limits at 25c each in distances of six blocks or less, 50c for carrying a passenger on any trip within the city limits, or 25c each where more than one person is carried to the same place within the corporate limits.

An ordinance to prevent peddling, hawking or auctioneering within the corporate limits of the city.

An ordinance regulating skating rinks, providing a penalty for maintaining a rink in the corporate limits of the city within three hundred feet of a private residence.

F. J. Huey was employed to audit the books of the commission for the past term of office.

The commission voted to send Mayor Williamson to Waxahachie May 17-18, when the mayors of the state will meet to discuss proposed legislation by which municipalities may regulate public service corporations. It is thought that plans may be worked out by which the public utility concerns of the state may be placed under a commission as are the railroads.

Commissioner W. F. Walker made a report to the body of his work in directing the police department, and used the opportunity to throw a bouquet at the personnel of the agency for its present state of efficiency in dealing with crime. He said his work with the department had been one of conscientious endeavor, and he was gratified that Cisco could lay claim to being one of the best policed cities in the oil belt.

W. J. Donovan, commissioner of the water department, reported in a general way of the improvement of Cisco's water system, which today contemplates a distribution plant involving forty miles of mains, carrying an even pressure of pure water to the uttermost parts of the city. He compared this city's water rate to other towns in West Texas to the distinct advantage of Cisco's plant and service, and thought it a matter of congratulation to the tax payers that this department was able to declare an average net earning of approximately $30,000, which was used in improving and extending the service of the ever-expanding needs of the city. This $30,000 means the net revenue after all expenses of the department have been met.

Mayor Williamson took occasion to review the work of the retiring administration in a general way, first by commending the intelligent and unselfish service rendered by the two retiring heads of departments, Messrs. Walker and Donovan. He said that while their work and that of the administration as a whole may not now be fully appreciated by the citizenship, yet in their im-

Noah Has a Rival in Ft. Worth Deluge

Fort Worth people now do not have to stretch their imaginations much to realize what the deluge was like 4,300 years ago. For the 11-inch rain which began on the night of April 25 brought the 4,300-year-old scene vividly home. The Fort Worth and Noachian deluges are similar in many respects. In fact, if the rain had continued here for forty days and forty nights with the same intensity, Noah's flood would be a piker in comparison.

The flooding of homes, death and destruction; the rush to escape; the perilous rescues didn't leave much time last week for conjuring up conditions during the Biblical flood. But "now it can be told."

As usual, the word "flood" is a taken in Arlington Heights, too. The country in old Palestine and Syria, topographically speaking, is somewhat similar to that around Fort Worth. Rolling prairie land and semi-arid. At least the United States Weather Bureau lists it as semi-arid, but following this little rain they may change the classification. The Fort Worth deluge was strictly local and many scientists agree that Noah's flood was local; that it did not take in the entire world; that geology shows no flood effects in some parts of the world; and that the black races have no legends of deluge. The pyramids, built before the flood, likely were not covered. All of the ancient white races, however, had a story similar to that of the Bible regarding a so close to the earth as to attract the waves until they were thousands of feet high. If so, it is difficult to realize how the heavenly body escaped again from the earthly attraction. Astronomers say that a body once caught by the power of another larger body, stays there.

No astronomer has reported having sighted a comet, planet or star coming for a visit from the hinterland of the universe at the time of the big rain here. Babe Ruth was the nearest. He was visiting in Baltimore at the time.

In Ark a Year.
Noah's ark floated 150 days before the waters began to abate, according to Genesis, and on the seventeenth day of the seventh month rested on the top of Mount Arrat. It did not until the tenth month that miles. Luckily the tons were divided into little, individual raindrops. One acre alone received 1,243 tons of water.

Forecast "Probable Rain."

The Fort Worth flood, like Noah's came without the slightest warning. Noah was the only person in the world who knew his deluge was coming, but Landis, weather-wise though he may be, hadn't the slightest inkling that eleven inches of rain would fall. He confesses it. Yet he did have a sort of alibi, for his forecast that day was "probably rain." This saves him.

The river stage at 6 a. m. Monday was only 6.9 feet and at 2 p. m. Tuesday the stage was 39.1 feet, a rise of more than thirty-two feet in those few hours, forming for once what newspaper men love to say, a "wall of water." Remember this thirty-two foot rise did not come from headwaters, watersheds, etc. It came directly from the skies.

The total rainfall in Fort Worth for April was 17.64 inches, more than half of the average annual precipitation, which for the last thirty years has been 26.9 inches. The April rain of 1922 equaled the entire precipitation of the year 1921, a dry year. The excess rain for April, the rainiest month in the year, was nearly fifteen inches. The heaviest previous rain was in September of 1900 when only 7.44 inches fell.

Reverting back to Noah, Genesis says:

"And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all the high hills that were under the whole heaven were covered."

"Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; and the mountains were covered."

15 Cubits 17 1-2 Feet.

This condition came after a rain which endured for forty days and nights. The mystery is that after such a downpour the water was only "fifteen cubits and upward" deep. Fifteen cubits are equal to seventeen and a half feet.

The rise in the Trinity was thirty-two feet after one day's rain. Of course it goes without saying that Genesis means that the water stood on a level over the land at a depth of seventeen feet or more, but at the same time had the Fort Worth rain continued in the same intensity the flat country would have been covered by a depth much greater than this. Yes, and it would have Completing the Record.

The full complement of members of the Cisco fire department who established the world's record in reel racing at Temple years ago, when 27 seconds were made, has been completed this week from a photograph which was taken of the winning team, copies of which are in possession of several persons in the city.

In addition to the names submitted last week as comprising this team, the picture reveals the following additional personnel of the successful contestants: E. P. Fincher, John Sherman, H. B. Reed, C. L. Alexander, E. C. McDonald, J. C. Eppler, Sloan Smith. The picture shows John Elkins as chief.

THE SONG OF THE MOCKING BIRD

We were rambling one day this week in one of Shackelford county's many native parks. The wet weather branches were singing merrily on their way down to the big ocean, the waving green grass was about half knee high, and Nature's wild flower garden was in full bloom—and O golleys it was a lovely picture, one of God's stage scenes, which grew without cultivation. Our soul was happy as happy could be, our ears were in tune for the occasion, and the feathered songsters got on our radio line, and talk about Prima Donnas and grand operas, yes the zurtains went up, and a mocking bird was the star actress. It is wonderful about God's creation, there was that mocking bird, sitting on a swinging limb, and such music has not been heard since the stars sang together at the dawn of creation. It never did spin, and it never did weave, and yet its garments were more beautiful than any queen of fashion had ever donned. It had never had any book knowledge about music, its vocal organ had never been trained, had never been to a boarding school nor looked on the inside of a musical conservatory, but folks talk about warbling, it sure did warble—oh yes, it talked to the whole family of birds, in their own language, cooed to the turtle dove, called up bob white, and sassed at the trush and the robins and the red birds—and really folks, we believe that that mocking bird knew that it was on our radio line, and it put on a show for our special benefit—And we were so entranced with the music, so enraptured, yes sat there spell bound ever so long after the curtains were rung down.—Albany News.

Another stipulation also is that the funds be directed to farmers of whose eligibility there is clearly no question; that there may be care taken that the present farmer be first served and that the funds do not go at the expense of the permanent farmer to speculators of announced farming intentions. Actual farmers are to be served.

Supplies Missing Link.

Dr. Mancill was able to contribute a link in the unwritten history of the Cisco fire department, a brief resume of which was reproduced in last week's Cisco American from the memories of several who have served with the organization in the past, by recalling that his son, W. G. Mancill, was a member at the time it was chartered, and served the body as one of its chiefs in its early history.

At the expiration of his tenure as chief, Mr. Mancill was presented with a medal rolled-out of a $20 gold piece, with an inscription which lauded his services. At the time of his death, which occurred a little more than 12 years ago, the Ft. Worth fire department sent a helmet designed of flowers, which was one of the most unique floral offerings marking the esteem in which he was held by his fellows.

Plainview Bids Cisco To Go After 1923 Convention

The following letter has been received by the Cisco Chamber of Commerce from the Plainview chamber, of which John Boswell is the secretary:

"We are pleased to learn that Cisco is coming to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here May 22 and 23 with a determination to win the 1923 convention. We have not forgotten our worthy foe of last year and if you put up such a fight as you did at Ranger, we see no reason why you should not come out on top this year. Sam Angelo, Brownwood, Sweetwater and Midland are so grouped that they will split each other's vote pretty bad. Quannah is going to bid for the convention, but I believe they are simply starting a fight for it this year in the hope of winning the 1924 convention next year.

"We have reserved local headquarters for your delegation in the front of the Carter-Houston department store, one of the best locations in town. C. E. Carter, manager of the firm, will see that you are provided with desks, tables and other conveniences. Your headquarters will be located just across the street from the general headquarters and half way between the convention hall and the leading hotels. It is also in the very center of the Plainview business district. I do not believe that you could find a better location in Plainview.

"Of course, there will be no charge to you for the use of these headquarters.

"We have every indication of an attendance of nearer 5000 than 3000 for the convention. Twenty bands have already definitely entered the contests to be held here during the convention and many more are expected to do so.

"It looks like we are going to have a big time and we will welcome the 100 per cent live-wires from Cisco as our guests at that time."

G. G. HAZEL ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

Yielding to the solicitations of my friends I have decided to offer my name to the Democratic voters of this county as a candidate for the nomination to the office of county attorney of Eastland county.

Having served the county for one term in the capacity of county attorney I am asking for the support of the voters for this requested second term upon the strength and consideration of my record as county attorney and as assistant county attorney, in which capacity I am now attempting to serve the people.

I realize that that which is demanded of any public official and especially of a county attorney is results. A man connected with this office may mean perfectly well and make the most attractive promises, but if some material results are not achieved, then the people have a right to demand something by way of explanation of such failure other than a mere disclaimer of responsibility. With this realization, I have, while former county attorney, endeavored to secure a reasonable amount of results in securing convictions in criminal cases. At the present time, my associates of the county attorney's office and I are devoting our time to the actual work of securing convictions by legitimate methods, without wasting any of our time in attempting to dictate what other officials shall do or in making excuses for ourselves in cases wherein we fail, as we inevitably do and have done upon occasions. I feel in this connection that I have the right to ask that the question of my efficiency or inefficiency shall be determined from my entire record rather than upon the results of some one particular case that may have ended in a way displeasing to the individual voter.

I stand for law enforcement and have always been ready to assist our grand juries in the investigation of any violations or any reliably reported violations and have never thrown anything in the way of such investigation.

I ask your careful consideration of my record and qualifications and if you feel justified in favoring me with your vote and influence, I shall appreciate the same and, if nominated and elected, shall have as my chief end and purpose the justification of such confidence thus demonstrated in me.

Yours with thanks for all favors,
G. G. HAZEL.

Grand Jury Takes Rap at Preacher

The Eastland county grand jury adjourned Saturday, after having spent 11 days in investigating lawbreakers and lawbreaking in the county. In these 11 days the grand jury hung up a record in the county. Of the 128 true bills returned, 112 were for felonies and 16 were for misdemeanors. As a role a grand jury does pretty well to return between 50 and 60 indictments.

The retiring grand jury examined 259 witnesses. Most of the cases investigated were for burglary, theft of automobiles and bootlegging.

On the 65 indictments recently returned by the grand jury a number of convictions have been made, and the grand jury in its report comments on the diminishing amount of crime in the county since these convictions.

All witnesses subpoenaed except two, the report states, answered the call. These two were Rev. A. N. Stubblebine of Ranger and A. G. Clewell. The jury in its report takes a fling at the pastor who failed to appear, as follows:

"We feel that it is going too far for a minister to use his pulpit for a sanctuary for the purpose of criticizing the courts and public officials when he is not willing to appear before the grand jury and give the information which he has."

As to the killing of Earl Sober at Ranger some time ago by Eugene Reynolds and Len Davenport, peace officers, the grand jury report states that the officers were in their line of duty and that they were justified in their action.

THE LOCAL PAPER

A prominent magazine, of national importance, delivers the following pertinent lecture which is thoroughly appreciated by all publishers of local newspapers and should be read and considered especially by local business people:

"Don't make fun of your local paper. It has possibilities of being as good as any in the country—and remember that it reflects the community in which it is published and is the one product that goes to far places bearing the town trade mark. It deserves the best you can give of active support and sympathetic understanding.

POLICEMAN VAMPED BY "SHE-CLOWN" AT GENTRY SHOW

Gordon Tomlinson, a husky member of the Cisco police department can't stand to be hugged by a woman in public, if his action in repulsing the advances of a "she-clown" at Gentry Bros. Shows last Friday evening were properly interpreted by hundreds of grandstand spectators of the act.

Officer Tomlinson was unobtrusively treading his way down the aisle to a seat in the reserved section of the amphitheatre in company with G. W. Carmichael, a fellow policeman, when the "she-clown vamped" stealthily crept up behind him and fastened his form in an honest-to-goodness bear-hug, as she had done scores of others prior to his entrance. The big policeman was not prepared for such an outburst of affection in a public place, as evidenced by his determined effort to extricate himself from the vamp's embrace. Showing his utter astonishment at the attack by his facial expression, he swung his gigantic form around to face the vamp, and in his mind's eye seeing the apparition of a strange woman invading the sanctity of his virtuous demeanor before hundreds of spectators, he assumed a combative posture which would have done credit to a Jack Dempsey, when he almost simultaneously discovered that his fellow officer was overcome with a paroxysm of laughter at the episode, as well as the hundreds of others who were looking that way.

At last it dawned upon him that the vamping episode was a "part of the show" which Gentry Bros. was providing for the evening, and he then indulged a hearty laugh at his own expense.

Tomlinson says that anybody who witnessed the spectacle of his discomfiture will make oath in court that he is one virtuous man.

Shortly afterwards a man and woman entered the aisle, the man was treated to the same attention by the "she clown" and the woman, ostensibly the wife of the man, assumed the tactics of a tigress in releasing her hubby from the vamp's clutches and led her "Jiggs" from the amphitheatre in a huff. But the circus-proof spectators to this episode did not receive any thrills from the act, as they declared that the man and woman "belonged" to the show and were merely embellishing the vamp's role of furnishing amusement to the crowds before the curtain went up.

Educational Rally Held Sunday.

Cisco had the honor of entertaining Mayor E. R. Cockrell of Ft. Worth Sunday in two notable addresses, one in the afternoon at the First Methodist church, and in the evening at the First Baptist church. The arrangement of these engagements formed a link in the day's program of the religious forces of the city in behalf of the campaign which is being waged for the location of Midland Christian College in Cisco.

The several congregations of the city united in a great service Sunday morning at the First Methodist church, where Rev. Geo. L. Shively, special campaign director for the raising of funds for the establishment of the college, preached a powerful sermon on Christian education.

Mayor Cockrell delivered a very impressive sermon Sunday evening, choosing as his theme "Christ, the miracle of the ages."

THE GOAL IN SIGHT.

All indications are that the $25,000 required for the purchase of Britton Hill from the city of Cisco, for the use of the proposed Christian college; and the second $25,000 necessary to make the building and grounds habitable and presentable will be laid upon the altar of home loyalty by men and women whose patriotism has often been tested and never found wanting.

This does not mean that the victory is won nor yet assured, but it does mean that if, unitedly and heroically, all will muster for a final grand charge against the hostile forces of pessimism, fearsomeness, selfishness, covetousness and provincialism, we shall rout them from the field and again, as in the good highways, railroad, water supply and other battles, add the luster of a new triumph to Cisco's unsullied banner—which never yet has trailed in the dust of defeat.

At the conclusion of the campaign public acknowledgment will be made of every gift made, whether large or small, by all firms, families and individuals. Money of the smaller denominations will be fully as dignified and creditable as the larger, because it will often convey to the public good a larger percentage of the donor's wealth.

Why not classify your family among the "worth while constructionists?"

It has been proposed that two perpetual scholarships—one for boys and one for girls—be placed at the disposal of the labor unions of Cisco, because of the splendid giving of the various crafts.

And there is little or no doubt but what the college authorities would honor such a requisition made by the chamber of commerce.

Let's finish it up in grand shape—the true Cisco way.

OPINION ABOUT ARBUCKLE.

It is hinted that the decision not to show any Fatty Arbuckle films was not intended as an absolute, final judgment on Arbuckle, but rather as a test of public opinion. An impression has been given that the films already prepared may be released some time in the future if it appears that the public wants them or will stand for them.

If that is the attitude of the producers and distributors, there is surely small chance of any immediate deluge of Arbuckle comedy. Nearly all the newspaper comment so far warmly commends the action of Mr. Hays as being in harmony with the best public sentiment and as tending to raise film standards.

It is not, of course, a question of holding Arbuckle responsible for the tragedy with which his name is now associated. A jury has declared him innocent of crime, and that verdict is accepted by the major portion of the public, at least.

But the public judges Arbuckle—as the jury could not do—for the low ideals and bad taste represented in the whole nasty episode, and does not want to be reminded any more than is necessary of the altogether bad side of Hollywood life and art. It is not now in any mood to laugh at or with "Fatty."

Arbuckle may "come back" some day. Whether he does or not will depend on his own conduct henceforth.

The ex-kaiser's pet racing yacht was called the Meteor. He kept it at the Kiel Yacht club and dreamed of world power as it carried him on his frequent cruises. The war changed a lot of things. It changed the name Meteor to Half Moon. It also changed the yacht's ownership. Gordon Woodbury, of New York, owns it now, and he has just started in the Half Moon for a visit to the South Seas. When William Hohenzollern learned of this at the famous woodpile in Holland, he probably wept and broke his saw.

THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

A pastor in one of the big cities of the country who is being sued by his wife for divorce is quoted as making the statement to his congregation that "it takes a man of nerve and a woman who is brave to face the marriage ceremony today."

If this is true, why the "today?" What difference is there in the marriage ceremony of today from that of yesterday?

It takes more than "nerve" and "bravery" to enter into the marriage state. It takes judgment and it takes honesty and sincerity. It requires some conception of the square deal upon the part of both parties to the marriage contract. It means consideration and reasonableness.

No man or woman should enter into the marriage ceremony who does not know how to compromise on the non-essentials. Any man or woman who marries with the expectation of having it all his or her own way is pretty apt to end up in the divorce court.

And this great fact might be taken under consideration by the minister in question as well as by the others.

When a marriage ends in failure it is not wedlock that is at fault, but the parties who enter into it.

Sarah Bernhardt, famous French actress, with a wooden leg and just recovering from a long illness, has signed a contract to tour Belgium in a new play and to appear in a series of moving pictures to be produced in France by an American firm. Think of it! Her age is more than threescore years and ten, but she is still going strong. She has no thought of retiring, no thought of being placed on a shelf. True, Sarah Bernhardt is an exceptional personality. But why shouldn't other people of her age, or less, profit from her example? It is refreshing to read of the youthful vigor of Bernhardt's green old age.

FARMERS AND BANKS.

The house committee, while eliminating the senate provision for an additional member on the federal reserve board, requires the president to give due consideration to the farm interests in appointing members. It may, therefore, be expected, if this measure passes, that the president will appoint a farmer to the next vacancy, which will very likely occur in August with the retirement of Governor Harding.

Just what this change will accomplish remains to be seen. Some critics of the measure have insisted that it could make no practical difference at all in the handling of loans and credits, because of the limitations of the board's functions.

The spokesman for the farming interests seems to expect a good deal in the way of loosening up bank credit and giving additional advantages to the agricultural population through the moral influence on bankers in general, if not by specific changes in the reserve board's policy. Several million farmers will await the result with interest and no less interest may be expected from other economic groups.

If the farmers can obtain definite representation on the board that governs national finance, and substantially benefit from it, some fear a similar demand will come from the manufacturing or commercial class, from union labor, religious or other interests. However, this does not necessarily follow.

WHOLLY VISIBLE GOVERNMENT.

There are a lot of interesting new buildings in the nation's capital. There is the seven-story fireproof office building erected by the American Federation of Labor. A building which the International Order of Machinists constructed is occupied by their offices and those of a number of similar organizations. The Carnegie Peace Foundation, the United States chamber of commerce, the Farmers' alliance and the Women's alliance all have or propose to have their respective edifices from which they may carry on their propaganda and proclaim their purposes.

In a year or two, remarks a national magazine, "there will be a private mate for every public building of size in Washington," from which they may carry on their propaganda and proclaim their purposes.

Thus does the old "invisible government" become more clearly visible. It may be alarming in a way, and yet the very multiplicity of its parts seems to insure a good many safety checks and balances. There will be so many axes to grind that some of them are bound to be left dull and harmless. At the same time, as this development becomes clear to the public eye, definite remedies will be found and applied.

The budget system, already established and open to later improvement, is one of these.

Extension of civil service rules, seats in congress for cabinet officials, the resumption of personally delivered messages by the president are other remedies.

And the greatest of these is the increasing public demand for "open covenants openly arrived at."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A CURE FOR WORRY:—Be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds, through Christ Jesus.—Philippians 4: 6, 7.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Every year hundreds of thousands of suicides are committed in America through disregard of the simplest laws of health.

Any man who recklessly impairs his health, who imperils and weakens his body by bad hours, the use of poisonous stimulants, or by the wilful disregard of any of the laws of health, commits suicide.

A vast deal of one's happiness depends upon the condition of his health, and much of his spiritual growth and capacity for usefulness depends upon the manner in which he takes care of the body.

To dwell on the dark side of life drives men from you; to dwell on the bright side attracts them to you.

Christ did not have as much to say about sin and death as he did about salvation and life.

You can find something to commend in even the worst of men if you will only look for it.

Putnam Gets Big Gasser.

The American received a telephone report yesterday from Putnam advising of a strike of 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas in a test being made on the Grant tract five miles south of that place, at a depth of 632 feet. The report was that the drill had only penetrated two and one-half feet of the sand from which the gasser blew in.

This well is an offset to the Ohio City well which was drilled two years ago to a depth of 3,500 feet.

I WAS WONDERING

DID YOU ever SEE A man. OR "GIMME MAIN 2034J."
OR A bgy. IT'S "GIMME this" OR "GIMME that."
OR A girl. THE WAY you CURE THEM is this.
WHO HAD an ATTACK OF the GIMMIES? YOU MAKE them WRITE THE word "GIVE" ONE hundred times A DAY for a WEEK.
IT'S A queer KIND OF a DISEASE. AND YOU make THEM STAND in FRONT OF a mirror.
THAT AFFECTS the TONGUE. AND SAY "PLEASE."
YOU CAN'T see ANYTHING THE matter. AS FAST as they CAN.
ON THE outside. FIFTEEN MINUTES every MORNING.
LIKE MEASLES or JAUNDICE OR ANYTHING. AND BY and BY THEY say.
THE PATIENT WALKS AROUND just LIKE HE was O. K. and all right. "PLEASE GIVE me A PIECE of pie."
AND HE says. JUST LIKE anybody. ELSE.
"GIMME A piece OF PIE," SAYS HE. FUNNY DISEASE, ain't it?
OR "GIMME my THAT." I WAS WONDERING IF YOU ever HAD IT. McAlpine.

RISK
The hazard of loss

WE RECEIVED word in this morning's mail of a number of fires. A Scranton woman forgot to turn the current from her electric iron; an Oregon farm-house had a defective chimney; a Detroit janitor threw oily rags among a pile of papers in a closet; a match-head got into a Texas cotton-gin; there were two fires, one fatal, caused by careless smokers, and others from other causes.

Each one of these is the story of a risk where "hazard" developed into "loss"; yet each one is but a fraction of a much bigger thing—the total losses from all hazards, and this, in turn, is a part of something still bigger, namely, the hazard that exists everywhere even though the loss may be avoided.

We may call this universal hazard RISK. It is a great economic factor because it is found in all human affairs. For ages it lay like a heavy load upon progress until man found a way to lift the load by distributing the hazard.

He did this by inventing Insurance.

Today, Assumption of Risk is fundamental—just as truly so as Production, Distribution or Financing.

The Insurance Agent, whether he know it or not, is at the foundation of all enterprise, all prosperity and all human welfare.

Twentieth Century Club.

The Twentieth Century club met Friday afternoon at the city hall with Mrs. J. L. Shephard as hostess. During the short business session it was decided to have a membership drive for the public library, with the new rate of a dollar a year. The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fee on Sixth street was the scene of a happy party last Thursday when Misses Addie and Mary Fee entertained the Tri K Club and additional guests. Red roses combined with fern graced the attractive living rooms. The event was no exception to the general rule which applies to the hospitality of the Fee home; and after the games, in which Miss Helen Williamson made high score and received an ivory bud vase, the hostesses served a dainty salad course and ice tea, the favors being red roses. The invited guests were Mesdames Grade Callaway, P. J. Butler, Everett Davis, C. L. Mount, Misses, Emma Ward of Beaumont, Irene White of Carbon, Katherine and Marcia Pettit, Lettie and Mary O'Flaherty, Helen Williamson, Beryl Huey, Louise Hughes, Zennie McDonald of Oregon, Frances Dorsey, Louise Cowan, Grace Riddle and Lucille Brown.

Bridge Luncheon.

It was a bridge luncheon over which Mrs. W. E. Spencer presided Saturday morning at her home on Avenue I, honoring Misses Irene White of Carbon, Nina Woodall of Hillsboro, and Emma Ward of Beaumont. After a beautiful three course luncheon, with plate favors of white rose buds, which was served at the card tables, the guests enjoyed bridge until a late hour. Club Tagging Autos.

The Twentieth Century club is conducting a street sale of "booster plates" which are designed to fit over the state license number of autos, the funds for which will be used in promoting some of the various enterprises which the club has sponsored. The little plates contain the name of Cisco and proves another way of identifying its cars with the best old town in the oil belt. The plates are being sold at 50c per set.

Compliment Mrs. A. J. Bettis.

Two events were given last week by Mrs. J. H. Brice in compliment to her mother, Mrs. A. J. Bettis of Bowie. A "42" party Wednesday and a bridge tea Thursday. Mrs. Brice met the guests and presented them to her mother and Mrs. Charles Trammell. Mrs. Leon Maner and Mrs. K. H. Pittard led the way to the dining room, where Mesdames Dick Starr, Mark Stamps, A. C. Green and J. W. Smith served strawberry short cake, coffee, tea and mints. Mrs. J. A. Williams had charge of the victrola. Mrs. C. W. Buchanan was the fortunate one in the general cut at the conclusion of the 42 games and was presented with a blue corsage flower. Mrs. Bettis was given a string of amber beads. One of the prettiest afternoon affairs of the past week was the bridge party given Saturday by Miss Lottie Beesley at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCarty. The rooms were beautiful in their floral adornment of roses. After the games Mrs. Ralph St. John and Mrs. J. T. McCarty assisted the hostess in serving a delicious salad course with ice tea, the plate favors being roses. Those present were: Mesdames Grade Callaway, Frank Bell, H. S. Drumwright, C. L. Mount, H. Mr. and Mrs. Colquitt will be located at the Williamson dam. Mrs. Owen Barker is in Austin, having been called there by the serious illness of her mother. Mrs. Ralph St. John of Breckenridge was the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCarty last week. Alex Spears has returned from a short business trip to Fort Worth. C. O. Pass of the Womack Motor Co. is in Brownwood on business. P. W. Campbell returned Tuesday night from a business trip to San Antonio. A. H. Hall was in Eastland Tuesday. Miss Cora Purvis, left Wednesday for Pioneer, where she has accepted a position in the postoffice. Ralph St. John of Breckenridge spent Saturday and Sunday in Cisco. W. H. Mayhew was in Dallas Tuesday. Miss Mary Jane Butts has returned from a short visit in Austin and San Antonio. Mrs. H. L. Winchell is ill at her home on West Second.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

Now it happens that all advertising isn't contained within the front and back sheets of the newspapers. A suit in a front window is an advertisement of itself. A necktie in a case can speak most effectively about its quality. A shoe becomes an advertisement the moment it is shown to a prospective customer.

Are These Advertisements Truthful?

A cheap article is rarely finished to appear cheap. If it were, its shoddiness would repel all but a few buyers. But a cheap article glossed over to appear like the best to create the impression that it will "do just as well" becomes a glaring falsehood, just as much a breach of advertising ethics as calling a rubber and cotton product "genuine leather".

On the other hand, a really well-made product is not an accident. It is the result of carefully thought out business policy, of expert buying, of skilled craftsmanship, of economical distribution. Its worth becomes more evident the longer it is worn.

It's sometimes hard to tell when the merchandise deceive you. It's price may be so attractive that you deceive yourself a little about it. But you discover the difference after a little wear.

The safe way is to deal with a merchant who removes this necessity for "trial and error".

Taking the risk ourselves has been our policy for years. Buying only goods which insofar as we can discover are well made and well worth the money we have to ask for them. Taking the burden of the error off your shoulders if anything should reveal itself as not quite up to our representation of it.

Get off the hose

The Hose will not function when it is pinched, or impinged; that is, water will not run through it. REMOVE the obstruction, and the water resumes its normal flow.

In the same way, the nerves of the body will not carry the life force through the body when they are impinged by a misplaced vertebra; the result is, the part of the body to which the impinged nerves lead, does not receive the normal amount of life force, or nerve energy, and that part is affected by what is called "dis-ease." REMOVE the obstruction to the nerve, or nerves, and NATURE will restore the flow of life force and CURE. In other words, "Get Off the Hose."

By Chiropractic Adjustments, the misplaced vertebrae are put back in proper position and NATURE CURES.

"Propagander" an' "Goosie Gander"

By JONATHAN HAYSEEDS.

The "G. G." means that any one is a "Goosie Gander" who is carried away by propagander. It's this-away:

My brother Hiram owns a knob-hill town lot that the street-gradin' has left standin' against the sky-line like a wart on a sleepin' man's nose. Hi nailed up a sign on the lot, "Free Dirt." He hoped that them as had low ground to fill in would haul away that knob for him free for nothin'. I luffed at Hi, an' told him I guessed I'd go to the barber when the time come for my seasonal hair-cut and whisker-trim, an' offer him "free hair" for doin' the job, trustin' he might be wantin' to refill his mattress.

There's a powerful sight of this jugglin' with the "free-dirt" hocus-pocus goin' on in the world, sures my name's Jonathan Hayseeds. The idea of the juggler is to make sich lightnin' motions that t'other feller can't detect his trick, an' so he can slip something over on his victim and get him to pay the freight. The polite name for this is "propagander." "Propagander" is the kind of a gander that steers the geese where the gander gets the best feed an' is all to the good. For instance, the writer of a piece in a certain paper is smart enough to make you think you are readin' a piece of good advice from a disinterested friend, an' the very information you ought to have. He makes you think that he's furnishin' you "free dirt" to fill your duck-pond, whereas what is actually happenin' behind the scenes is that you are gradin' down his knob to street-level free of cost to him.

"Propagander" is free advertisin' wearin' the wig an' false beard of "useful publicity." It's gander squawk an' gabble, ninety-nine per cent hot air, designed to pass with the trustin' an' unsuspectin' geese as valiant protection of their interests against boys with stones. It's only geese that can be propagandered.

So when I read after a certain ink-slinger who is paid to bespatter good white pages in one of my magazines with fairy tales of how the packers an' coal barons an' the like are sadly misunderstood an' vilified by popular opinion so that they are hampered in their disinterested efforts to bless the country with as many oodles of prosperity as they would dearly love to shed upon us, if they weren't prevented from gettin' all the water-power an' coal in their possession, I pinch myself, an' wonder if I am such a goose, an' if my neighbors who read that are goin' to be "goosie-goosie-gandered" by it.

Why, sometimes when I'm readin' them pieces, Jerushy has to bring a handkerchief to me, to keep me from bedewin' the pages with the salty tears of compassion. But all the while the brine wants to flow I have a sneakin' suspicion that the board of directors of these big corporations must have recently voted a million-dollar slush fund to hire a staff of clever writers to get goosie-gander the public an' get its unwavering confidence—the kind of confidence the "con" man depends on for successful operations when he saunters down Broadway with a gold brick under his satin waistcoat.

For instance, I read, "Forty Reasons Why the Packing-House Control of Hides Makes for Cheap Shoes." Maybe they are so plausible an' well soaped that I am goosie-gandered until I go to town with a hide to sell an' a pair of shoes to buy, an' I wake up to find that by addin' three dollars to what I get for the hide I can buy a pair of shoes that would retail for $3.50 before the war. Then I see that what the propagander is hopin' to do is not to make shoes cheaper, but to take the pinch out the price, so'st the shoe-buyin' public won't get too restless an' rebellious. That's what one kind of propagander is, an' I'm goosie-gandered if I fall for it.

I notice that Sir Philip Gibbs says that since the war the press needs to reconstruct itself. Durin' the war it got used to spreadin' propagander because the governments believed it had to be done in order to keep up the fightin' spirit an' win out. So the press kind of got the propagander habit fixed on it, an' now it just naturally drops into lock-step whenever it hears the turnkey's keys rattlin'.

It's up to us geese to decide that we won't be goosie-gandered any longer.

It's good to see that the press, too, has smelled a rat. When the Kansas editors met in their association, they passed a resolution sayin' that editors need to be ethically in advance of the readin' public to make safe leaders; an' that hence-forth none of their editorial space will be for sale for propagander.

It's the brightest sign in the sky since the armaments conference. It's a prediction that never again will a big newspaper overlord be able to brag that he brought on war between two Christian nations, one of 'em boastin' of bein' the freest an' most intelligent on the globe. We ain't goin' to haul away any newspaper syndicate's "free dirt."

There's more than "57 varieties" of selfish propagander tryin' to work the "free-dirt" shell game on us. There's propagander against the Volstead act, an' lots of people that think they have cut their wisdom-teeth are taken in by it, even when the author of the "Craig Kennedy" detective stories claims that all the Hollywood movie slanders are caused by "blue-laws."

Then there's propagander against

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

There's A Difference

Recent Mechanical Improvements in Ford Cars

Ford "H" Headlamps

The new Ford "H" Headlamps give to Ford owners a lighting equipment second to none on the road. Equipped with our special design refracting type lens, and a new 21 candle-power, gas-filled, double-filament bulb, these headlamps afford at once ample and well distributed road light and no glare.

The Ford Motor Company has co-operated to the fullest extent with state officials and owners in obtaining the best possible road driving light without objectionable glare and the new Ford "H" equipment has been universally commended.

The new headlamps, when properly adjusted, are legal in all states. Not only does the Ford car pass the most exacting State requirements, but affords the owner several times the road light required by law, and at the same time maintains the glare far below that permitted by any State.

Radiator Mounting

The radiator is now mounted upon springs whereby it is afforded a limited flexibility. This increases the life of the radiator, prevents possible breakage due to weaving of the frame, and relieves the radiator from sudden shocks and vibration.

Front Radius Rods

Fastening of the front radius rods has been improved by the use of tapered nuts in tapered seats. This construction insures an absolutely tight initial fit and the wedging effect obtained prevents loosening under even the most severe service conditions of load and vibration.

Front License Bracket

A new design front license tag bracket has been made standard on all cars. These brackets, together with the standard rear brackets, are in locations convenient for attaching license tags for any state and reasonably protected from splash and mud in service.

New Jack—Ford Design

The new Ford design jack gives to the owner at once a simple, powerful jack at a reasonable cost. This jack is of an improved screw type combining those features which have in service proved themselves to be entirely satisfactory. The action is simple, the design is rugged, and there are few parts to get out of order.

Crankcase Front Bearing

Crankcase front end bearing has been redesigned, making it simpler and at the same time providing greater flexibility for the front spring, with improved riding qualities.

Spring Hangers

The new one-piece spring hangers are a decided improvement. Being in one piece they cannot loosen up or rattle in service and their permanent alignment means better spring action and better riding qualities.

Ford Design Cut-out

The new Ford cut-out has been designed with special reference to

1. Reliability

2. Simplicity

It is very compact, of comparatively few parts, and with ample insulators. It operates upon the oldest, simplest and most reliable cut-out principle and is located directly upon the generator.

The new cut-out is furnished sealed in the confidence that the owner should have no trouble with this unit, and no occasion for manipulation or adjustment.

New Pump—Ford Design

Experience with various types of pumps has led to a standardized Ford design, which is the equal of any pump on the market.

Note some of the specifications:

Barrel of seamless brass tubing.

Special cast iron base combining ruggedness and light weight.

Large diameter pump rod with one-half inch steady bearing at its upper end.

Tapered cone leather bucket fitting tight against the barrel insuring airtight closure.

Special tapered threads on pump barrel and in base and head to insure tight fit and prevent possible breakage at ends of thread.

Special collar support for barrel in base casting.

Three-ply rubber tubing.

A simple, positive acting pump, with every detail of proven design; the Ford pump is a demonstrated success.

Steering Wheel Stop

The steering wheel stop limits the travel of the steering wheel between those positions in which the front wheel spindles strike the front axle yokes. This means that the full steering wheel motion is always effective in turning the front wheels and the stop prevents straining or bucking of the steering mechanism after the front wheels have reached the limit of their travel.

Steering Mechanism

Improvement has been made in the Ford steering mechanism by the use of a taper construction on the steering ball bolt. The tapered bolt fitting into a special tapered seat in the steering connecting rod yoke provides a construction initially tight and prevents loosening and rattle in service.

Steering Wheel

The steering wheel has been increased to sixteen inch diameter, making steering and driving in general easier, more positive, and more comfortable.

Spare Tire Carrier

An improved design which combines light weight with increased strength and rigidity. The new design reduces vibration.

"Uncle" Joe Tune A Star Rou'e Carrier On Job Rain or Shine

For sheer test of determination and endurance, the persistence of "Uncle" Joe Tune, in making the daily run for his Star route from Cisco to Romney, thence on to Rising Star and return here is to be commended to the young as worthy of emulation.

"Uncle" Joe Tune can be seen at the wheel of his big Hudson Super-Six leaving Cisco at about 7 o'clock every morning rain or shine, and he knows each morning that he is to tackle one of the worst stretches of road in all of the oil belt. He keeps to the embankment of the new highway practically all of the time, which means that to escape the sand in the dry periods and the soggy almost bottomless quicksand and ordinary mire during the wet seasons, as now, he must allow his big car to creep along over the cradled rocks which are about twice as large as a man's fist, and most of which have never been treated to a roller or the screening of fine gravel or cobble stones. One can imagine what this roadbed does to the fabric of an automobile casing, but "Uncle" Joe carries on, seeming to think he can pick out or make a rut where only the smooth ones will lay, pushing the jagged edged ones out to one side. But these are only stretches in the route to Rising Star, as occasionally he must navigate the partially revealed roadbed of sand, now a morass of water-filled chug-holes.

This writer in making the trip from Rising Star to Cisco with "Uncle" Joe, when a morning's steady patter of raindrops had contributed its maddening sogginess to the roads which had been washed and deluged by the rains of practically all of the week previous, his only comment on the condition of the route during the three hours' travel was "if this rain continues at this rate this road is going to be 'purty' bad."

One driving with him wonders how he does it, grimly staying there at the wheel, fighting every foot of a road which is twenty-two miles in length if it was paved, and about twice that under its present state. But he does it with a smile, always taking time to exchange smiles with whomsoever may be passing, and especially with the children at the gates of the farm homes which he passes, all of whom he knows.

The day seemed to have been an especially unlucky one for "Uncle" Joe in the matter of tire trouble, as he had to climb out of his car a couple of times on the way over to Star, in mud and water shemouth

Countefaiters Are Indicted.
Chief of Police T. E. Bedford returned home early Tuesday morning from Abilene where he appeared as a witness before the federal grand jury in the case of the commonwealth against Henry Agnew and one Thompson, charged with counterfeiting. Chief Bedford arrested these men in Cisco last summer, and charged them with raising of $1.00 denominations to five spots. Another man is implicated in the charge, but his arrest has not been made as yet. Agnew and Thompson will be tried on the indictment May 16th.

Attend State Firemen's Meet.
R. L. Wilson, C. O. Pass and Ted Bacon were the delegates chosen from the Cisco fire department to attend the state annual convention which convened at Brownwood Tuesday. Chief R. L. Bettis also attended the convention, as well as G. W. Carmichael, who went to attend the sessions of the state fire marshals. An effort was to be made at the convention to combine these two annual meetings.

Miss Mary Zoze Mashburn attended the convention as sponsor for the local department.

Cisco did not enter in the annual events which are staged by the convention, a decision which was reached at its meeting Saturday night.

deep, to correct a couple of blow-outs. That red clay just naturally adhered to his clothes and skin wherever it touched, and from his looks it must have touched his entire anatomy, and when he honked his horn at his destination and climbed out he looked more like a well digger than the aristocratic driver of a Hudson Super-Six. But he was only a couple of hours behind schedule at that, and had kept the pledge which he has made to the people over there that while his Star route contract does not require that he should make a run Sundays, he will always do so to accommodate them with the Sunday papers, funnies 'n everything, so long as he has the least chance of picking up a passenger or two to help meet the awful expense of upkeep to his car.

Whether it is just luck, or due to "Uncle" Joe's painstaking care in driving a car, he says that his first Hudson car which he ran over the route was equipped with tires from one of which he obtained eighteen thousand miles of mileage. This statement is no more unbelievable than the fact that "Uncle" Joe can be seen leaving Cisco every morning at around 7 o'clock and invariably gets back to the starting point the same day, after having successfully charted more than forty miles of the most cuss-provoking road in the oil country, and whoever heard of an oil section being blessed with good roads.

POULTRY SALES AVERAGE TWO DOLLARS PER HEN

The average farm flock of chickens in Northwest Texas brings in $2 per hen according to 1015 records recently collected by the Ft. W. & D. C. Ry. during its poultry campaign. The average farm has 83 hens and the average sales are $161.00 per year.

The sales would be larger if more farmers kept standard bred chickens, however the amount of sales per farm from average farm flocks is perhaps more convincing than if the sales were from standard bred chickens, because many would think their scrub flocks would not return anywhere near such large returns as these sales were from mixed or scrub flocks for 63 per cent of all the farms in northwest Texas have mixed or scrub flocks of chickens. No wonder people do not give their chickens more attention. No one cares much for scrub stock of any kind and they do not expect much from them, yet these farms report $161.00 worth of chickens and eggs sold and show $132.00 of it as profit.

One of the best reasons for so many scrub chickens is because people buy eggs for hatching from people who have mixed flocks or from those who have only scrub chickens. It is hard to believe that people will pay out hard earned money for settings of eggs or for breeding stock from mixed or scrub flocks. It was not previously supposed that anyone would do this or that anyone would have the nerve to sell such stock or eggs but according to their own confessions 16 per cent of the farmers in northwest Texas are actually selling stocks or eggs from mixed or scrub flocks. Some state that they have nothing but scrub chickens but sell both breeding stock and hatching eggs from them. Such a transaction ought to be a misdemeanor punishable by fine for the first offense and a jail sentence for succeeding offenses.

Yet with scrubs everywhere and but little attention given to chickens the average farm hen brings in $2.00 per year and about $1.60 in clear profit. If you have only twenty or thirty hens there will not be much profit because it will take nearly that many hens to supply the family needs. But if a good sized farm flock of 125 hens is kept the profits will total up to $200; that with two-thirds scrubs. If the flock is standard bred the profits will generally be doubled. All county agents report much greater interest than ever before in standard bred chickens. This increased interest will bring increased results this winter.

Model Poultry Houses.

People are beginning to realize that in order to secure the best results from the poultry flock that it is advisable to give them much better care and more attention than has been the general practice in Texas during the past. This fact is strongly evidenced by a report from R. H. Bush, county agent in Eastland county in which he states that he gave out a number of blue prints to lumber companies and asked them to build small model poultry houses so that he might have one to exhibit in the respective towns in the county in order that people might see a desirable type of shelter for the barnyard. He reports that it is his purpose to exhibit at least one model poultry house at each one of the six different points in the county and that he has already made arrangements to place three of them. This seems to be an excellent plan and should result in better housing of the poultry flocks in Eastland County.

Irrigation Invariably Pays.

That the farmers of Stephens county are neglecting one of the best opportunities for this season, as they continue the dry farming methods that have been in vogue in this section for twenty years, is shown by results of experiments in irrigation. Stephens county yields the biggest harvests of any section when it receives sufficient rainfall, the figures show. A few irrigated acres against the thousands under the dry system will guarantee the financial future for the farmers of this county, so those claim who have tried both methods in this section.

L. C. Claxton, who irrigated ten acres for C. M. Caldwell, just below the dam of Lake Grand, two miles east of Breckenridge, last season, met with flattering success. Though Mr. Claxton did not get his operations underway until real late he made $1,500.00 in clear profits from the small acreage. This acreage was planted to melons, tomatoes, onions and radishes, with some other produce, all of which found an anxious taker on the local market. As this produce was given to the public fresh, it commanded the very top market price.

A Mr. Little is, this season working this acreage and has a running start with the season, therefore is expecting great success. He has out a plat of ground planted in berry vines.—Breckenridge Daily American.

Swerving loyalty in working out an ideal program of development for the city, not one citizen had appeared to say that a single unit of the improvement plan could now be dispensed with. That in the steady development and extension of the water and sewer service, the paved area of the city, the efficiency of its police department, the enforcement of health and sanitary measures, the improvement of fire fighting methods and equipment to meet the unprecedented expansion of the city, there has been laid a groundwork for a future growth which cannot but inspire the pride of Cisco citizenship, and remains an enduring monument to the painstaking care in handling the ever-increasing difficulties of city government which had characterized the individual and collective effort of the administration.

The mayor addressed himself in a very sympathetic manner to the incoming commissioners, pointing out to them the not always harmonious path of roses which they must tread in their efforts at city government. He said that perhaps many of their pre-conceived ideas of city building would have to be replaced with others which were born of experience and the exigency of circumstances, but that the main thing was to bring to the altar a conscientious desire to serve and to learn more of the intricate problems which would surely beset their pathway. He showed that his tenure of service as mayor has inspired him with visions of yet higher goals in city planning and development, bringing to the inauguration of another administration an experience which has been mellowed with a knowledge of surmounting difficulties which have been unprecedented in the history of Cisco, the state or the nation.

Of chief concern and pride to Mayor Williamson, and a point upon which he dwelled at some length, was the perfecting of the water and sewer systems of the city, the advantageous contract by which many of its streets were paved, and the fortuitous circumstances which enabled the property owners to pay for these improvements. He said that these features of improvement inspired the favorable comment of many visitors and authorities in city building, among those mentioned being representatives of the state fire marshal's office, Mayor Cockrell of Ft. Worth, who was driven over the city last Sunday, and numbers of others who congratulated the administration upon these super improvements making for a bigger, better and cleaner community.

No Trains from East. Cisco has been without rail communication with Ft. Worth and Dallas since Monday following the torrential rains of Monday, which paralyzed traffic even worse than in the previous flood of two weeks ago. The T. & P. has been unable to operate a train from Ft. Worth west since Monday, on account of wash-out near Mingus. It is thought that been the condition of the M. K. & T. service, whose road suffered wash-outs near Mingus. It is thought that the damage on these two lines will be repaired by Friday. The C. & N. E. has been able to maintain its regular schedules all the week.

Owing to the confusion caused by the erroneous statement in the daily paper yesterday that the League would meet last night, together with the fact that many want to attend the Masonic banquet and revival meetings, we think it best to postpone the regular meeting of the League to some night later, notice of which date will be given through the papers.
