New Outlets for Farm Products Urged by WTCC Head

WANTS BOARD TO ABANDON SPECULATION

LUBBOCK, May 14. — Fewer pleas for acreage reduction and more efforts to provide new outlets for farm and ranch products were urged upon the federal farm board today by Charles E. Coombes, Stamford, in the annual president's address to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in convention here.

Coombes declared a greater service to the farmer would be rendered if the farm board ceased speculation and sought the expansion of co-operative marketing organizations instead.

Correction of "unfair, misleading and inaccurate statements" in geography textbooks Coombes pointed out as the most outstanding piece of work accomplished by the WTCC during the past year.

Publishers of the two chief geographies are making reprint editions of their texts, giving Texas due credit for its cattle, cotton, citrus fruits, grain sorghums, sheep and goats, wheat, winter vegetables and other resources, Coombes reported.

The WTCC claimed partial credit for federal loans which provided 13,500 west Texas farmers with nearly $2,000,000 with which to continue farm operation on about 3,000,000 acres of crop land.

The West Texas Chamber elected 113 directors today among whom were Claude Thompson, Breckenridge; John M. Mouser, Eastland; Allen H. Quinn, Mineral Wells and J. E. Meroney, Ranger.

STERLING ASKS EXTENSION OF LEGISLATURE

AUSTIN, May 15. — Extension of the present session of the Texas legislature for another week after May 22 will be asked by Gov. Ross Sterling if it became known today.

Gov. Sterling already has confided the plan to certain members of the legislature. It is intended to provide time for passage of certain measures the governor deems important without calling a special session.

Rep. E. H. Lassiter, of Henderson, said the governor told him that such a course is likely. It will first be necessary to have the house recall from the governor's desk the sine die resolution which both the senate and house have already adopted calling for adjournment on May 22. A new resolution with a later date then can be substituted. Whether the plan can be considered legally is now being investigated.

Mineral Wells Mayor Faces Liquor Charge

ROBY, May 14. — Charlton Brown mayor of Mineral Wells, will face arraignment on a liquor transportation charge here Monday as the result of an auto accident while Brown and T. L. Hemphill, were en route to Lubbock for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention. Neither man was hurt in the wreck when the car in which they were riding plunged into a ditch after failing to make a turn in the highway.

Charges were preferred by R. L. Wilkerson, Fisher county deputy, who appeared soon after the accident and said he found three and one-half pints of liquor in the damaged machine.

Peace Officers Seek Fifth Man

CORSICANA, May 14. — Peace officers in several Texas cities continued their search today for a fifth man wanted in connection with the kidnaping and subsequent ransom of Robert Cerr, son of a Corsicana banker.

Indictments on two counts were returned by the Navarro county grand jury against four men involved in the $15,000 abduction plot. Officers have indicated each of the four will plead guilty.

MILLIONS LOST, SCORES OVERCOME AS DISASTROUS FIRE HITS BUFFALO

The 106th Field Artillery Armory, scene of the origin of Buffalo's disastrous fire, is shown here as the flames were at their height. At the right is a fireman, overcome by the dense smoke, being given oxygen by a first-aid crew at the scene. The property loss totaled millions, scores were overcome and many many firemen had narrow escapes from exploding bullets stored in the big armory.

CALICHE TO BE LAID ON ZOO HIGHWAY

Laying of a caliche base on the road from the south end of the dam at Lake Cisco to the city zoo and the state fish hatchery will be started within the next few days, J. G. Reagan, city water superintendent and engineer, said today.

The road, which has been rerouted to reduce the grade to less than 8 per cent and widened to a runway of 27 feet, is three-fourths of a mile in length. Formerly it was a one-way passage but the reconstruction has made it a two-way thoroughfare.

It is hoped in the near future to lay on an asphalt top on the road so that it will be an all-weather thoroughfare, adding large numbers to those who regularly visit the vacation spot to which it leads by making it more convenient to traffic.

Back From Texas Christian Meeting

Mayor J. T. Berry, Oscar Cliett, T. Hunter Foley and E. P. Crawford returned last night from Wichita Falls and the convention of Christian churches in Texas. They assisted in the preparation of a plan for continuing Randolph college here in operation next season and this plan was due to be presented to the convention today.

A large crowd is attending the convention, they report. Last night a banquet seating 500 people was served. Splendid programs are being presented during the sessions of the convention.

140 FT. WORTHERS PARADE HERE ON TRIP TO LUBBOCK

One hundred and forty Fort Worth business men, led by Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce Secretary Hott, en route from Fort Worth to the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at Lubbock, were given a warm welcome by Cisco citizens during a 20-minute halt of their special train today noon.

Met at the station by the Lobb band, the Rotary club which went from their luncheon in a body, officials of the local chamber of commerce and others the group detains shook hands around and paraded through the business district. Their own band led the parade with the Cisco high school musicians marching at the rear.

President J. J. Collins, of the Cisco chamber of commerce, headed the Cisco welcoming committee and F. D. Wright made a welcoming address to the party after the parade had reached Eighth street on D avenue. President DeLaine of the Fort Worth chamber, responded to the welcome.

Another feature of the parade was the "Burrus Flour Milling company's loud speaker equipped bus and band. The paraders left singing "We're on our way to Lubbock—we're sorry to leave for you have a beautiful town," etc.

Mr. Collins early this morning wired the trippers inviting them to visit Lake Cisco while here but time prevented acceptance of the invitation.

COUPLE BEING SOUGHT AS GEM THIEVES

J. A. Jensen, proprietor of the Jensen Jewellery store reported to police this morning the loss of a ladies diamond ring valued at $200 stolen from a tray of rings while he was showing the jewelry to a man and woman. He discovered the loss a minute or two after the couple had left. A cheap ring had been substituted for the diamond.

He gave chase immediately to a car which he thought carried the couple but at Dathan discovered the mistake. Police were informed immediately after the discovery of the loss and are on the lookout for a man and woman of Jewish nationality, about 35 years of age, the man stout, with a prominent Roman nose and wearing a Hamilton wrist watch and wearing suspenders and the woman dressed in a white linen dress.

Mr. Jensen warned other jewelers in the city to be on the lookout for such a couple. The robbery occurred about 10 o'clock this morning.

QUILT SHOW IS OPENED HERE TODAY

The County Quilt Show, sponsored by the Delphian club assisted by other clubs of the City Federation opened its doors this morning in the building in the 700 block on D avenue adjoining the Carroll Auto Supply company.

More than 250 quilts, including a number almost 200 years of age, are on display. There are counterpanes, one of which is 125 years of age; handwoven bedspreads; pieced quilts of all character and so forth.

Among the curios is a clock made in Germany in 1755, a number of handwoven Paisley shawls over 100 years old, while one curio bears the interesting inscription: "Older than the pyramids of Egypt."

The amount of valued and interesting objects whose age is distinctive feature, which these women have collected from homes in this county, is the most remarkable feature of the show. There is a vast deal to interest and inform and the public is cordially invited to attend. A small fee is charged of admission the proceeds to be used toward paying off the club house debt.

Each of the women's clubs has a concession, one serving lunches.

The show will remain open until 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Car of Stock Shipped Tuesday

One car of 16 cattle and 58 hogs was shipped to the Fort Worth market Tuesday evening by the Cisco Cooperative Livestock association. Lee Leiske accompanied the shipment.

Last month the association sent three cars of stock to the market. It has not missed a monthly shipment in several years.

Aged Man Dead of Stab With Ice Pick

LULING, May 14.—G. W. Mann, aged proprietor of a hamburger stand here was found in a ditch in front of his stand here early today with an ice pick sticking in his heart.

Mann apparently had been dead several hours. The ice pick entered his body just below the collar bone ranging downward until it penetrated the heart.

Officers today had been unable to discover any clues to the killing.

It was displayed at the Turner Cash Grocery store.

The fish was exceptionally fat.

SEA SCHOLARSHIPS POPULAR. PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—College life on the high seas is gaining in popularity with more than 100 applicants seeking 25 scholarships to the Pennsylvania Scholarship Annapolis. There were only 16 spots on the ship's first cruise 11 years ago. Fourteen of the 80 student sailors on board the ship will graduate which will make room for the men who win the scholarships.

Seeling the huge ship, with one of its motors spluttering and making an unusual noise, citizens of Eastland, who were watching the army fliers passing over the city, rushed to the airport thinking that the plane had failed to make the port before coming down and thinking members of the crew might be injured.

The engine developed trouble just out of Abilene. They were flying at an altitude of around 10,000 feet when the crippled motor gave way and it became apparent that an emergency landing would have to be made. Sighting the Eastland field, the pilot soon brought the ship down to a perfect landing. A new motor to take the place of the crippled one, was being sent by airplane from Dayton, Ohio, and is expected in Eastland sometime today, it was stated. Meanwhile the crew and mechanics sent out from army headquarters, are engaged in lifting the damaged motor.

CLERK HELD ON CHARGES OF FORGERY. GILMER, May 14.—Acting on instructions from the state comptroller's department, Ranger "Lone Wolf" Gonzales arrested Claude Ray, district court clerk for eight years, on charges of forgery and padding bills.

The arrest was made quietly last night. Ray was taken to a jail in another county pending further investigation of the charges.

WILL GO BEFORE JURY. AUSTIN, May 14.—District Clerk Austin Ray, of Gilmer, will go before the Travis county grand jury which has been making an investigation of alleged forgeries of claims from courts against the state. Ray was in conference all morning here with first assistant Attorney General Bruce Bryant. He came to Austin with State Comptroller George Sheppard under whose direction a probe of the judicial claims has been under way since last January.

COVER OPEN WATER TO PREVENT MOSQUITO BREEDING HEALTH BOARD TELLS CITIZENS

Supplementing the appeal to remove weeds and other rank vegetation which offer ideal harboring places for mosquitoes the city health board today repeated its request that citizens guard open water as a breeding place for the insects carefully to prevent their increase. Citizens should be closed or kept covered with a thin film of kerosene while fish ponds and other bodies of water should contain enough small fish to eat all the larvae that hatches in these containers, the board said.

The presence of any mosquitoes should be immediately reported to the sanitation department so that their source may be traced and protected. The insects travel no more than a block from their origin and it is safe to presume that their presence in any spot is evidence of a breeding place in the immediate vicinity, it was said.

It requires only a short time for the insect situation to get out of hand and only a little neglect will undo all the excellent advantages that Cisco has possessed for the past several years. Immediate steps to keep mosquitoes and flies down will accomplish much with little effort now.

"Prexy" Dead

Dr. Samuel Palmer Brooks, president of Baylor university, who succumbed to a cancerous attack early today after a gallant fight against inevitable death.

ARMY PLANE FORCED DOWN AT EASTLAND

EASTLAND, May 14. — One of the bi-motored bombing planes of the 7th bombardment group of the United States Army Air squadron en route from Rockwell Field, California, to Dayton, Ohio, to take part in the operation of the First Provisional Division of the Air Corp to test present methods and seek improvements in operations of an organization of 670 planes of the pursuit, bombardment, attack, observation, photographic and cargo type, was forced down because of a crippled motor on the American Legion airport in Eastland late Tuesday afternoon. The huge plane was landed without mishap, although the crew had adjusted their parachutes and made ready to jump from the ship in case it became necessary.

The engine developed trouble just out of Abilene. They were flying at an altitude of around 10,000 feet when the crippled motor gave way and it became apparent that an emergency landing would have to be made. Sighting the Eastland field, the pilot soon brought the ship down to a perfect landing. FEAR DESTROYED:—Fear thou not; for I am with thee; be not dismayed; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.—Isa. 41: 10.

COTTON WEEK COMING IN JUNE.

Cotton has been a crownless king in recent years. Cotton may come back. There is a road for the king to travel. Buyers of cotton goods know the road. If people would buy and wear cotton garments the road would be easy for the king to travel. Mrs. Ross Sterling is one of the aggressive backers of the movement for the restoration of the ancient dynasty. She should have thousands of aids in Texas. Gov. Sterling and all the ex-governors in the land of the living have given their indorsement to the movement. Style-makers of the east, on the payrolls of the great textile captains of industry, are helping the cause along. In the last analysis it is for the men and women of America to drag the old king out of the ditch.

National Cotton Week is coming. Secretary Lamont has announced that the week beginning June 1 would be observed throughout the country. At a conference between Secretary Lamont, Secretary Arthur J. Hyde of the department of agriculture, President C. J. Callaway of the American Cotton Manufacturers association, and Geo. A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, it was decided the time was ripe for a drive to encourage the use of cotton goods.

Price of cotton is now lower than in 15 years and this has been reflected in the price of cotton goods. All this concerns Texas, the banner producer of cotton. All this concerns the 6,000,000 Texans who are vitally interested in a fair price or a low price of their new money crop. Speaking of cotton, the movement has been indorsed by both the agricultural and commerce departments of the federal government and by many large distributors of cotton and cotton goods. Stimulation of consumer interest in cotton government officials and other champions of the movement believe, will contribute to a general buying movement in other commodities. Cotton fabrics, including prints of all shades and quality, are said to have the call in the large centers of population and the textile manufacturers are hopeful that a nationwide demand for cotton goods will assist in a large way in restoring general prosperity to the American people. Call the ancient king back to his throne.

CLOUDS HAVE THEIR SILVER LINING.

A general increase in agricultural exports during March as compared with February has been announced by the federal department of agriculture. Large shipments of all commodities except animal products, lard and tobacco, raised the index figure to 87 per cent of the pre-war level in contrast to 71 the previous month and 82 in March 1930. Increased cotton exports were said to be the result of larger purchases by Japan and Germany. Regardless of this European nations may place an embargo on American staples. The financial and industrial leaders as well as their statesmen who are planning a program of retaliation. If a high tariff wall is good for America, why not for all the nations of the earth?

A COMMERCIALIZED MOTHERS DAY.

Former Senator Thomas James Heflin of Alabama, speaking for Miss Anna Jarvis, introduced a Mothers' Day resolution when he was a representative from Alabama in 1914. And thus it was that Miss Jarvis became known as the founder of Mothers Day in America. She visited Quantico, Va., to mark the day with the marines stationed there. This is an excerpt from her address:

"They say a million dollars worth of flowers have sold for this day. I never thought it would mean that; but even stranger than commercialization by tradesmen is that the public has allowed professional welfare workers to exploit its sentiment for motherhood in a manner of which I never dreamed. I am more than amazed. I am dismayed. I deplore particularly that committees of prominent men and women have commercialized this day in the name of mother. There is an organization that sells paper carnations for disabled veterans, and reaps big funds from the sentiment of Mothers Day, while sworn statements by disabled veterans testify that they get only 18 per cent of the returns."

Miss Jarvis is reminded that business is business. She is reminded that this is a grand old world. She is reminded that money makes the world go round. She is reminded that "flowers for the living" when commercialized, cost money. Regardless of this Mothers Day had its beginning centuries and centuries ago and Mothers Day will be on the lips of men and women while time shall last. Why weep? Why worry? Why groan? It is easier to laugh than it is to grunt and it is better to be an optimist at alltimes than a saffron-hued pessimist most of the time.

OTHER OPINIONS

"POOR CRIMINALS"
Because too many men and women hold views similar to those expressed by Emmett Dalton, to Acting Governor Burns of Oklahoma, crime is increasing and justice is slow and uncertain in this country. Mr. Dalton, be it remembered, was one of those men preying on society known as the Dalton Gang who for years operated in Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma, taking what they wanted from those who had accumulated by labor and thrift. Killing when necessary for their own safety and terrorizing whole sections over a long period. Capital punishment, Mr. Dalton is reported as saying, is inconsistent with views of society, which warns against killing and then takes lives for punishment. Evidently Mr. Dalton does not think it was inconsistent for the gang with which he consorted to take lives in addition to taking money and other property. He questions the right of one man to sit in judgment on another, the dispatches report, but apparently made no question of the right of a robber to take the life of a peaceful and law abiding man who tried to protect his property.

Unfortunately the modern cry is for leniency in treating those "poor sick boys" who have the "minds of twelve-year-old children" and go out and do bloody murder, rob banks and other establishments and in general conduct themselves like the hordes that ravaged the Roman Empire centuries ago. Prison reformers and psychologists who have theories are making so much noise that the people think they must be right and their theories are being taken as truth.

The corner we determine to hark back to the days when crime was punished promptly and adequately would have the "pivotal" convention in crime which we all so devoutly assert we desire.—Paris News.

Sunday Services at The Churches

By HUGH NUGENT, FITZGERALD
Speaking of the presidential campaign to come next year, there are many signs that there will be a united democratic democracy in Texas long before the ushering in of the month of May. Hence, at which time the "pivotal" convention will send delegates to the county conventions and the county delegates to the state conventions and the state convention in its turn delegates to the national convention for the naming of a presidential standard bearer.

Economic issues are uppermost in Texas. "Party harmony" is the gospel that is being dimmed into the ears of the leaders as well as the rank and files. Texas landed in the Hoover camp in 1928. Texas republicans will send a delegation to the national convention of their party which will be headed by National Committeeman Rene B. Creager and unanimous for a second term for "the man in the White House." Pres. Hoover is amicus for a second term. If he lives he will be the choice of his party for a second term. Now it is up to the democrats of the nation to find a Moses to lead them to victory. Veteran political prognosticators on the democratic side, almost to a man predict that Franklin D. Roosevelt, at this date, is the most popular of all democratic possibilities mentioned as suitable material for presidential honors.

Col. Jonett Shouse is on his way to Texas. He will address the lawmakers and democrats of all shades or belief under the Big dome of the capitol on the night of May 12. Col. Shouse needs no introduction to an audience of Texas democrats. He conducted the nationwide campaign in 1930 that resulted in not only starting but gratifying results to the democrats of the 48 American commonwealths. He has been directing the preliminaries of the coming presidential campaign ever since the democratic landslide of 1930. Kentucky born and Kentucky educated he began his political career under the skies of Kansas and Kansas today has a democratic governor and a democratic United States senator and Gov. Frank Woodring may be the running mate of the democratic presidential standard bearer next year. Col. Shouse will be given an enthusiastic reception by Texas democrats. As a congressional representative he was the backer of all the policies of Woodrow Wilson now an immortal of history and as a national campaign manager since 1928 he has not only won victories for the democratic party but under his direction there is a senate coming in December that will be controlled by a democratic progressive coalition and a rouse where the darts of death may place the democrats in control and make John N. Garner the successor of the late Nicholas Longworth in the chair of the speaker or presiding officer.

Sen. William J. Harris of Georgia is one of the outstanding democrats of the states east of the Mississippi. From his home at Atlanta he has issued a statement which will clarify the political atmosphere. Washington correspondents, close to the Hoover throne, sent out reports of opposition on the part of democratic senators to Sen. Joseph Taylor Robinson of Arkansas as party leader. Sen. Harris spiked their guns. He said Sen. Robinson would be re-elected democratic leader in the coming month of December without opposition. He said that he personally knew that practically every democratic senator is committed to Robinson for re-election. And then to make himself understood, the Georgia statesman made this positive statement: "Sen. Robinson has more influence than any senator of either party." Arkansas Joe is the prime favorite in democratic circles the nation over. He is a regular and a dry. He takes the pledge and keeps it. He bows to the mandates of his party. He hews to the line and lets the chips fall where they may. He is opposed to any factional program that will lead to throatcutting or the suicide of the party of Jefferson in the campaign to come next year. There are millions of wet democrats. Why shouldn't they use their brains instead of their tongues?

Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma is going to take his cause and his official legislative program to the people of the commonwealth. He has issued his proclamation. He is as full of fight as a bear-cat. He is going to jam his defeated legislative program down the throats of 11 senators who defeated that program. That is, he says he is going to jam it down "and permit the people to rule." He is going to correct the mistakes of the 11 senators. He is going to tax the big corporations. He is going to permit the little men to escape. How? By the enactment of a state income tax law.

Col. Lew. Wentz is a republican. He is a multi-millionaire. He has given millions to the cause of education. He was the pioneer champion of public highways and he has been one of the builders of the highways of Oklahoma. Col. Lew. is one of the three highway commissioners. Gov. Murray did his level best to get the Wentz scalp. He failed. This is an exception from the Murry proclamation. "Since my inauguration I have had the opposition of the bitter mercenary and unscrupulous, powerful oil men, combined with 11 senators infested with Wentz Warts who have endeavored to encompass our defeat." Oklahoma has the initiative and referendum system. Gov. Murray calls for submission by initiative measures to a vote of the people of the reforms or recommendations which the 11 senators sidetracked. There is going to be hades to pay and sulphur and powder burning all through the good old summertime in Oklahoma. Gov. Bill has a tongue that cuts like a razor. He prefers to use vitrol instead of honey. If he "don't watch out" he will face impeachment long before the completion of his four-year term as chief executive of the Sooner state. In America people grow weary of their political idols. Then they strike.

IN Texas and Oklahoma there's an old saying, "Only strangers and fools predict weather," and it was certainly proven during April. It was cold one day and hot the next, and several times it was cold and hot in the same day. During the month, most Southwestern cities had their official straw hat days. Then a couple of days later those courageous souls who had purchased new straws were digging out the old felt hat, because it was so chilly that straw hats looked silly. According to official weather records at a representative point in the Southwest, there was 2 1/2 times more heating weather this April, than in April a year ago. And that means 2 1/2 times more gas consumed. So remember that April was a cold-hot (mostly cold) month. And your bill is just as reasonable, in proportion, as it will be in August. There was simply more gas used in April.

THE MELODY GIRL

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beryl Borden, secretly in love with Tommy Wilson, prevents his attempted elopement with her half-sister Irene Everett, by kidnapping him with the assistance of her "gang." Failing to convince him of his duty to finish college and not disappoint his aunt, Beryl lets Tommy return to Irene who, enraged at the delay, refuses to elope with him.

Irene receives the offer of an audition over radio, and again refuses to marry Tommy. She consents to let Beryl accompany her to the studio. While waiting in an ante-room Beryl sits down at a piano and croons melodies while thinking of her dear father. One of the directors hears her and gives her a private audition. He likes the velvety tones of her voice and assures her of a contract with Mr. Gaylord. Irene fails and is furious when she hears that Beryl has had a test. She misrepresents facts to home folks and says Beryl has made a fool of herself.

The sarcastic taunts of Irene make Beryl miserable, especially as time goes by and she hears nothing from the studio.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIII

Beryl no longer showed any particular interest in the daily mails. She had asked the postman who delivered at both the store and the house to leave all her mail at the former place to insure it against falling into Irene's hands. Whether a letter from Mr. Barnhoff would be opened and read by her sister with a question on which Beryl did not care to gamble.

But one day when the postman was sorting out the store mail she told him he needn't bother about her personal letters. He could leave them at the house as before.

"All right," he said, "but here's one for you now."

Beryl accepted the letter listlessly and only happened to glance at the sender's address in the upper left hand corner. Then her heart seemed to turn a complete somersault.

"Good news, eh?" the postman laughed. He had known Beryl since childhood and could take liberties with her mail. Having read the name and address that so excited her he was interested to know more about the letter.

"I don't know, Johnny," Beryl replied, rapidly tearing open the envelope.

"Well, you're registering pleasure, sure enough."

"Wait a minute, and maybe I'll tell you," she promised. Eagerly she unfolded the sheet of writing paper and scanned its contents, skipping the salutation and getting at once to the message it carried.

"Good fortune or bad?"

"Well?" the postman pressed. "Tell me quick. I've got a heavy load this morning."

Beryl was dancing around in circles, waving the letter over her head.

"Oh, Johnny, it's great!" she cried. "I'm . . ."

Then she remembered that she had sworn her gang to secrecy. It wouldn't be fair to tell now.

"It's a letter from Rudy Vallee," she laughed. "He's tired of his work and wants me to take his place."

"Aw, come on! Be a good fellow and tell us what it's all about."

"Nope, I can't. But I promise you'll be one of the first I'll tell when it's all settled."

When she said that Beryl's hopes were high. On second thought she realized that what she had gained was only a chance to sing for a man who might very likely disagree with Mr. Barnhoff about many things, voices in particular.

She was to appear at the studio the following Tuesday—and this was only Thursday! Her moods began at once to seasaw. First, of course, she would please Mr. Gaylord—hadn't Mr. Barnhoff said so? Then it was just too good to be true. Such things never happened to her and you didn't have to be a pessimist, either, to feel that way. Look at the girls who never had a Cinderella's chance!

She had a difficult time keeping calm, especially at home where the desire to strut her triumph seized her violently at times. It wasn't saintliness that held her back, but sense. Suppose she should fail and Mr. Gaylord should not want her? Wouldn't Irene crow then! Beryl admitted lack of courage to face that contingency.

When the urge to boast a little or the longing for encouragement became overmastering she went to her gang. They were for her, one and all. Without them Beryl was sure she'd have to let the cat out of the bag at home.

On Saturday she worked late in the store and didn't get her daily swim until after eight o'clock at night. Coming home from the beach she got slightly chilled and began to sneeze. She was worried well and on Sunday was as fit as usual.

On Sunday and Monday she cared for herself as though she were already a prima donna and on Tuesday morning she was affected only by suppressed excitement.

Her family were skeptical of her claim to a headache which claim had permitted her to rest in the seclusion of her room and save her voice. Even Mr. Everett thought at dinner on Monday that she looked "bloomin' well for a sick girl."

"I've a fever," Beryl answered firmly.

Irene bridled. "H'm," she snorted in disgust. "If you're so sick it's funny you wouldn't have a doctor. I don't believe there's anything the matter with you."

Irene was incensed because she'd had to wash dishes for two days and her father had dared to insist that she help at the store. After an hour of her presence there he had sent her home, glad to be rid of her.

For once Beryl's mother took her part. "Well, she must be sick when she can't eat," she said. "Beryl's always had a healthy appetite and she's no call to reduce."

"She's stalling," Irene sneered. "For heaven's sake, stop talking about me!" Beryl exclaimed. Irene was hitting too near the mark for comfort. Not that she was exactly stalling—but she was avoiding over-eating without proper exercise.

"Yes, let's talk about something pleasant," Irene agreed. "I hear they've had a revolution in South America."

And so it went until Beryl left for New York. She told her mother she felt better and would run over to the store for a little while. That was precisely what she did but there she told her step-father that she was going to the city.

"I'm taking a day off for something important I have to do in New York," she said, "but please don't say anything to Mother or Everett about it."

She often lunched at the store while it was her father's custom to go home for something hot. Beryl hoped her mother would take for granted that she was at the store for the day and not question Mr. Everett about it.

From the store she walked to the local railroad station carrying her best pair of shoes—which she had hidden in the store beforehand—to change at the station. The station mistress was an old friend. She would look after the music and every day sandals until Beryl returned.

That solved the shoe problem but Beryl was forced to go to town in her country clothes. However, she looked attractive. She was slim and tall—taller at any rate than Irene—and her skin looked as though she put it on new every morning. Her gray eyes were difficult of description. Sometimes they were like a sunny day at sea—a blend of sea and sky, clear and sparkling. Sometimes they were smudged with emotion—so that one couldn't say just what shade they were. Her hair was not in itself a crowning glory but it smelled faintly of verberna and Beryl had a style of dressing it that was distinctive. In color it was just a plain dark brown.

Beryl was rarely ever immaculate as to costume. She was too active and self-forgetful to look for long as though she had just stepped from a fashion plate. But she was fastidious about frequent changes. When she left the house in a freshly laundered gray linen skirt, a matching gray sweater, with dainty finger cuffs and collar, no one thought it an out-of-the-ordinary outfit for the store. With gray stockings, a white hat and shoes, she was really well-dressed.

Anyway, whether it was what she would have selected to wear if she'd had a wider choice, she soon forgot about her appearance and lost herself in day dreaming.

Suppose some day she became famous and rich and Tommy should need money, a lot of money.

She laughed at herself. Besides, hadn't she heard that such thought sprang from an inferiority complex? Well, she wasn't inferior! And she wasn't going to be scared into failure. If she had talent she would demonstrate it this afternoon.

There is no doubt that the will to succeed eased the strain for her but it was the actual possession of unusual talent that won her sincere praise from those who listened in on her second voice test. And Mr. Gaylord, whose opinion meant most, was most enthusiastic over her singing.

"No one will ever tune her out!" he exclaimed, as highly pleased as though he had found her himself. There was even an "I dare you to contradict me" note in his voice which brought a subtle smile to Barnhoff's lips.

And then Beryl was offered a contract that dazzled her. It just dazzled Beryl, who'd never had more than pin money in all her life.

She signed and put the paper away in her gray bag as carefully as though it were a tube of radium she was taking home.

Home! Now she could tell them! Now she could take her revenge. And she wasn't a bit ashamed of the pleasure the prospect afforded her.

She wasn't ashamed, but before she got home she thought of something that brought her out of the clouds and robbed her big moment of its highlights.

WHEELER AND WOOLSEY IN PICTURE HERE

No comedy of recent times can boast so distinguished a staff of humorists as collaborated in the making of Radio Pictures' "Cracked Nuts" which opens today at the Palace theater, with Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey co-featured.

The story of this infectious comedy came from the inspired pens of Douglas MacLean, who is still one of the screen's greatest comedians, and Al Boasberg, who Hollywood proudly calls its greatest wit.

Boasberg, incidentally, is the man who furnishes most of the nation's radio entertainers with original jokes and comedy sketches.

The dialog, which Wheeler and Woolsey use to such good effect in the picture, was written by Boasberg and Ralph Spence. Spence is the highest-priced comedy constructor and writer in the screen colony. He also is a playwright of distinction.

All-Star Comedy Cast

After it had assembled the story and principal cast, the studio still further strengthened the picture with the addition of three other nationally known funsters—Dorothy Lee, Ben Turpin and Edna May Oliver.

And last but not least, Edward Cline was chosen to direct the picture because of his tremendous success and experience in comedy. One of the Mack Sennett directors of the time of Charlie Chaplin and Gloria Swanson, Cline has been responsible for more than 400 pictures during his twelve years of active screen work.

In the parlance of Hollywood, "Assorted Nuts" is a "sweetheart" of a story. It concerns the ludicrous antics of two ambitious young Americans who find themselves vying for the throne of a topsy-turvy Kingdom whose rules are promptly assassinated so that the army of executioners may have something to do and the populace something to talk about.

DOUG FAIRBANKS AT PALACE SUNDAY.

Supported by a cast of noted stage and screen personalities, several of them stars in their own right, Fairbanks has put aside his spear and jerkin for a collar and fountain pen. He portrays a sensationally successful young stock broker who cuts a swath both in the financial and love markets.

As the leading feminine interest in his life there is Bebe Daniels, a fit screen mate for the dynamic Doug, having beauty, courage, and a splendid sense of drama. Jack Mulhall, young star with

HAVANA PLANS PROGRAM FOR FIRE FIGHTERS

HAVANA, May 14.—Havana these days is actively laying plans for handling one of the most concentrated invasions of "visiting firemen" in the ancient city's history. Although one of the most popular stamping grounds in the world for "visiting firemen," as members of the American colony refer to the many guests they are called upon to entertain, Havana soon is to play host to bona fide visiting firemen. These guests will be members of the International Fire Chiefs Association. They are expected to arrive here 2,000 strong and will take Moore's Emerald Oil is safe and pleasant to use and it is so powerfully antiseptic and penetrating that even old stubborn cases have yielded to its influence. the town over October 13-16, inclusive, for their annual international convention. The firemen, incidentally, could hardly have chosen a more appropriate city for their meeting. Here there is but little chance that their hosts, the members of the Havana Fire Department, will be interrupted by the call of duty. Fire Department figures for the fiscal year 1929-1930 show that there were 22 fires, and one false alarm. Property damage totaled less than $125,000. This unusual record largely is due to the fact that Cuban cities are built entirely of stone while Cuban homes use no curtains, rugs or other draperies. The fire chiefs will arrive in special trains to Key West, Florida, where they will board the new P. and O. steamer, "Florida," for the trip to Havana. Officers of the International Fire Chiefs association, most of whom were in Havana recently aiding in convention arrangements, are: President, Joseph N. Sullivan, Utica, N. Y.; first vice president, D. W. Brogan, Albany, Ga.; second vice president, R. L. Smith, Pittsburgh; secretary, James J. Mulcahey, Yonkers, N. Y.; treasurer, Peter B. Carter, Camden, N. J. On the board of directors are Frank Charlesworth, Providence, R. I.; Robert A. Bogan, Baton Rouge, La.; R. Gouthier, Montreal, Canada, and Charles E. McGinley, East Orange, N. J.

Let's Work for CISCO Someone has said that there are times that try one's soul --- certainly there are times that give the supreme test to the citizenship of a community --- times when men and women must stand shoulder to shoulder in working out the destinies of their city or community --- There must always be team work --- to keep money circulating among its citizens is the prime work of a city in its efforts to bring and keep prosperity working at all times. This is one of a series of ten messages from this body to the people of Cisco and trade territory---we are hoping that these messages have been the means of making many citizens think along the lines of TRADING AT HOME --- IN CISCO. Remember, we all stand together --- we're neighbors --- we are dependent each on each other --- If some of us prosper, all will feel the effect --- we employ each other --- if business prospers employment continues --- if money goes out of Cisco, employment will wane--- IN HELPING EACH OTHER, WE HELP OURSELVES Trade at Home!
