Nationwide Anti-Hoarding Campaign to Open Feb. 22

"PROSPERITY BONDS" TO BE DOLLAR BAIT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago, director of the President Hoover's anti-hoarding campaign, formally announced at the white house today that a bond issue to provide "a safe and secure substitute for currency" would be offered by the federal treasury to coax hidden dollars back into circulation.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18. — The Citizens reconstruction organization's campaign to draft slacker dollars for the war on depression will open February 22 with a nationwide broadside of advertising.

It will be followed about February 29 with a house to house drive to sell "Prosperity Bonds."

Will Begin New Series of Sermons

Rev. H. D. Tucker, pastor of the First Methodist church will begin a new series of Sunday night messages next Sunday evening from the general theme "The Paths That Lead to God." The subject for Sunday night will be, "Who, What and Where is God?" This is a subject about which everyone is interested, Mr. Tucker said in making this announcement, and extends an invitation to everyone to hear this series of Sunday night sermons.

Other subjects to be discussed during the series will be, "Through Nature to God," "Through Science and Evolution to God," "Through Christ and the Church to God," and "Through Suffering and Death to God."

Dr. Cullom H. Booth, presiding elder of the Cisco district will preach at First Church next Sunday morning at 10:30.

WASHINGTON IS THEME OF ROTARY MEET

The George Washington theme dominated the Rotary club program today, presented by E. P. Crawford and featured by vocal numbers by Mrs. Olin Pierce and an address on Washington by the Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Pierce was first presented in two vocal numbers which the club enthusiastically applauded. It was her second appearance before the club.

Washington as a Christian gentleman, a nation founder, a citizen and a leader was discussed by the Rev. Mr. James in his interesting address. He pointed out, among other things, the universal character of Washington's citizenship, as typical of a character that is both rare and worthy of emulation.

His ideals, his dignity without egotism, his Christianity and those qualities of his character that enabled him to overcome obstacles and achieve triumphs in the face of almost insurmountable odds were pointed out by the speaker.

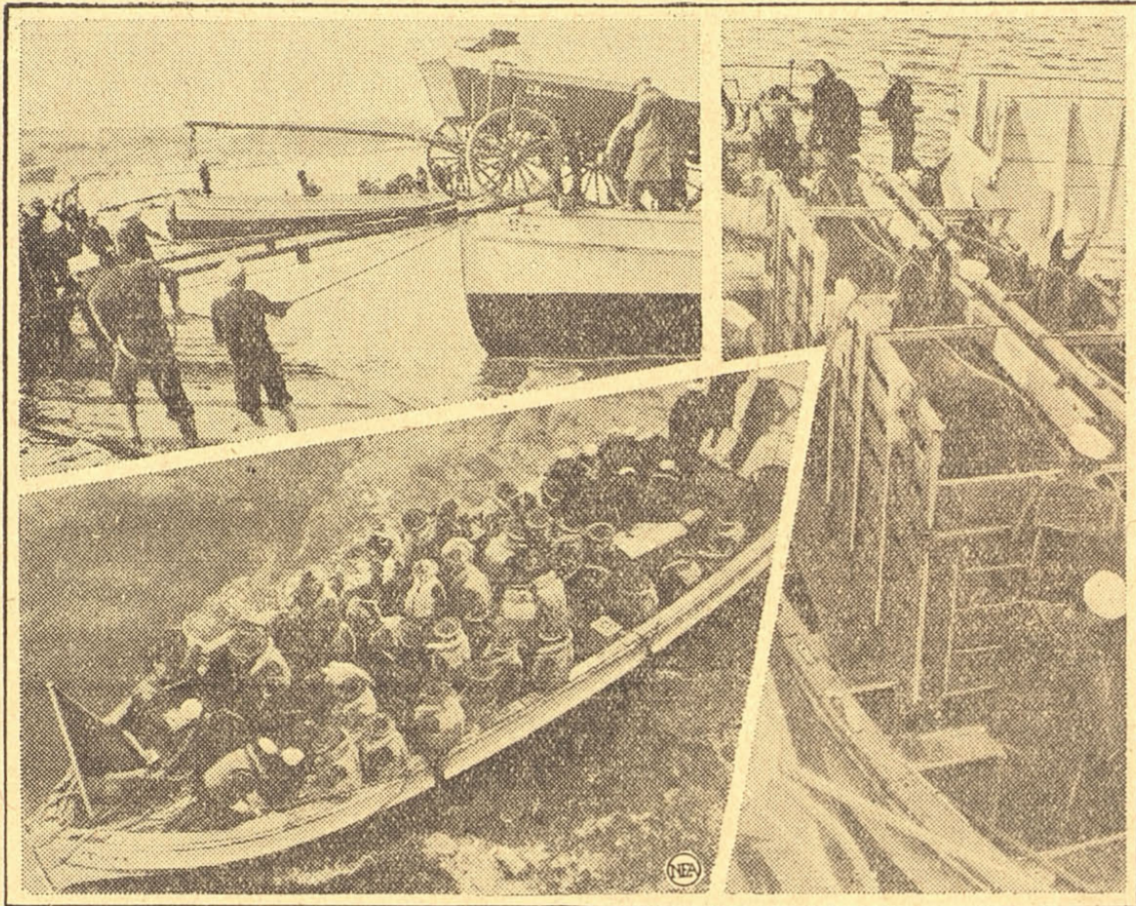

Previous to the presentation of the program Rotarian Andy Anderson, of Ranger, invited the club to attend the inter-city Rotary meet to be held in Ranger next Wednesday evening, urging them to bring along their wives "because we are neglecting the ladies too much in Rotary," and promising them a thoroughly enjoyable and profitable evening.

On motion by Leon Maner the club voted to dispense with its noon luncheon next Thursday and to count the inter-city meet as its regular weekly meeting.

How Uncle Sam Lands Battle Forces

DISABLED WAR VETERAN SENT TO EL PASO

Ernest Scullions, Canadian war veteran and naturalized American citizen, who was picked up on the highway near Cisco Sunday afternoon in an unconscious condition and cared for by the American Legion and the Cisco Welfare and Charity association, was placed on the 1:45 T. and P. passenger for El Paso this morning. He will receive the veteran hospital at El Paso which he left some time ago under the impression he had been cured of the effects of a gas attack he sustained in the World War.

The ex-soldier, who was wounded several times, once with a bayonet, and who was decorated for extraordinary bravery in action, was found in a serious condition, barefooted and almost dead from exposure in his attempt to reach El Paso by hitch-hiking. Work in the east Texas oil fields had proved too much for his condition.

The Legion here took charge of him, assisted by the welfare association, gave him treatment and clothing and restored his physical condition to a point where he was able to make the trip by train. Funds raised locally provided him with the necessary fare.

Baptists Surprise Minister With Gifts

Wednesday evening, immediately after prayer-meeting at the First Baptist church, members of the congregation took their pastor, the Rev. E. S. James, by complete surprise with an old-fashioned "pounding."

The shower of useful gifts began when Asa Skiles requested permission to make a few remarks just at the conclusion of the service. He had no sooner begun than members began bringing in the gifts to the happy astonishment of the pastor.

COUNTY STOCK SHOW OPENS NEXT FRIDAY

The annual Eastland county livestock show, presented under the auspices of the agriculture committee of the chamber of commerce, will be held Friday and Saturday of next week in the building on South D avenue just opposite the Bankhead Feed Mill, it was announced this week. This is the same building used last year which proved so admirably adapted to the show.

The ample space within the building will be divided into partitions for each of the five classes of livestock that will be shown. Judging of the animals entered will begin Friday afternoon, after the opening of the show Friday morning, February 26. C. M. Evans, agricultural agent for the Texas and Pacific railroad will be the judge. The five classes of animals to be shown will be grouped under four heads, as follows:

Classes of Animals. Beef cattle, any breed, Dr. F. E. Clark in charge. Dairy cattle, Jersey, A. Z. Myrick and Jack Dennison in charge. Sheep and goats, F. E. Harrell in charge. Hogs, Dr. C. C. Jones in charge.

It will not be possible this year to give cash prizes on all classes of livestock. E. H. Varnell, director of the show, announced, but the following special prizes will be offered in addition to ribbons:

Beef Cattle. 1st prize—$5.00 cash given by The First National Bank. 2nd prize—500 lbs. Cottonseed hulls by Bankhead Feed Mill.

Last year the livestock show drew approximately 300 head of exhibits and officials of the show are confident that a number almost as large will be shown at the forthcoming show. Preparations to take care of at least 250 head are being made.

The vocational club boys exhibits will be as usual an important and interesting section of the display. Baby beef cattle, sheep and hogs will make up the bulk of these exhibits.

THE LIVESTOCK SHOW (AN EDITORIAL)

The annual Eastland county livestock show will be presented Friday and Saturday of next week in Cisco under the auspices of the Cisco chamber of commerce. The show for the past four or five years has been an annual feature of the Cisco chamber of commerce agricultural program and each exhibition has been attended with a marked success. The purpose is the commendable one of seeking to encourage the best development of the livestock industry in the county by stressing the value of pure-blood, high grade stock. The emphasis that the various exhibitions have placed upon such a program has been reflected in a general improvement in the stock produced in the county. Such an influence is of practical economic value and the action of Cisco chamber of commerce in continuing the show under present adverse conditions merits the approval of the people of the county and the earnest cooperation of all interested factions in putting over this event in a style worthy of its purpose.

The accomplishments of the annual livestock show cannot be measured by any tangible yardstick but the improvement that has taken place and is continuing to take place is tangible to a degree that cannot be neglected. Last year the show drew approximately 300 head of exhibits and its promoters anticipate that next week a number commensurately large will be shown in the building selected for the displays.

Cisco invites breeders and livestock producers of the county to participate in this event. The show is designed to appeal to local growers. Awards distributed among professional breeders and feeders of show cattle at a distance have little practical value to the people of this immediate section, and serve to discourage rather than promote interest among them. Therefore the action of the directors of the show in confining its interest to home producers is a wise one.

R. L. Poe, chairman of the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce; E. H. Varnell, vocational secretary of the chamber and the director of the livestock show and those associated with them in the capacity of superintendents of the various departments, deserve the whole-hearted cooperation of the business men and the citizenship in general in their efforts to make the present show a success. Handicapped by financial conditions that are a common menace to all such enterprises, the program should be given even more hearty encouragement this year than under normal conditions. If represents a test of community interest and enterprise and as such its importance to Cisco and to the county at large this year is a more vital fact than the success of the show itself.

BUT DEMANDS ARE IGNORED BY DEFENDERS

(By United Press) The Japanese delivered an ultimatum to the Chinese by Saturday night. The Chinese began drawing up a refusal and a critical battle was imminent.

The United States and Great Britain have warned China and Japan they would be held responsible for American and British lives and property endangered in Shanghai.

An independent republic of Manchuria including part of Mongolia was proclaimed at Mukden. A government spokesman at Tokio said the recent warning of the

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

THIRSTING FOR GOD.—As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God. My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God. —Psalm 42: 1, 2.

COMMON PROPERTY.

The president's program for drawing out of hiding at least a portion of the reported $1,300,000,000 of hoarded currency as one means of revitalizing the nation's atrophied economic system, is said to be showing some results. Governmental securities would be used to tempt this shy buying power from the homely vaults of the hoarders.

It perhaps has not occurred to the hoarders of this currency that they do not have an exclusive right to the use of this money. That may sound radical enough to class the statement along with various Socialist utterances but it is nevertheless a fact that they are hoarding a common property which, as the results we are now experiencing show, invariably injures the general welfare. In fact, by the very act of hoarding this cash the possessors thereof are undermining its value, removing from it the only thing that gives it utility. Suppose all of the currency in the nation was thus hoarded?

There is, according to a governmental estimate, about five and one-half billions of coined and printed money in the United States. Based on that estimate there is only about forty-five dollars of coined or printed money for each individual in the United States. A person who hoards $1,000 in such money has withdrawn from circulation not only his share of the circulating medium but the shares of more than 20 other persons as well. Considering the credit generated by the circulation of this $1,000 the total buying power withdrawn from service is multiplied many times and the anti-economic sin of the hoarder is therefore much greater than represented by the face value of the money hidden away.

The truth of the matter is that the money hidden away by the hoarder does not belong to him. The value that it represents does, of course, belong to him and he is entitled to do with it as he chooses. But the money, the printed and coined medium of exchange which he withdraws from its rightful channels as a means of segregating his personal wealth in a period of fear, is no more his than the rest of the community's. If he wants to separate his wealth and hide it away he should place it in a form that will not injure the general economic condition but, rather, release the currency for the functions it is designed to serve. Government securities, for instance, are just as sound in value as the money hoarded and may be hoarded just as readily.

SIX STATES UNITE TO HELP THE JOBLESS.

A specific form of insurance against unemployment has been recommended by an interstate commission representing the governors of Massachusetts, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Connecticut. Five of the six states have democratic governors. Pennsylvania has Gifford Pinchot who is a republican millionaire, an aristocrat to the finger tips and all his long life has been a strenuous champion of labor.

The commission recommendations, nine in number, are interesting. First, compulsory establishment of state-wide systems of unemployment reserves. Second, the payment by each employer of a contribution amounting to 2 per cent of his payroll. Payments made by each employer shall constitute the unemployment reserve of his company and shall be so treated in the accounts. Moreover, the maximum rates of benefit shall be 50 per cent of an employee's wage, or $10 a week, whichever is lower, and a maximum period of benefit shall be 10 weeks within any 12 months. Financial responsibility of any employer shall be strictly limited by the amount of his unemployment reserve.

This is a new civilization. Leaders must face the issue.

PRIME MINISTER MAC DONALD ORDERED TO TAKE A LONG REST.

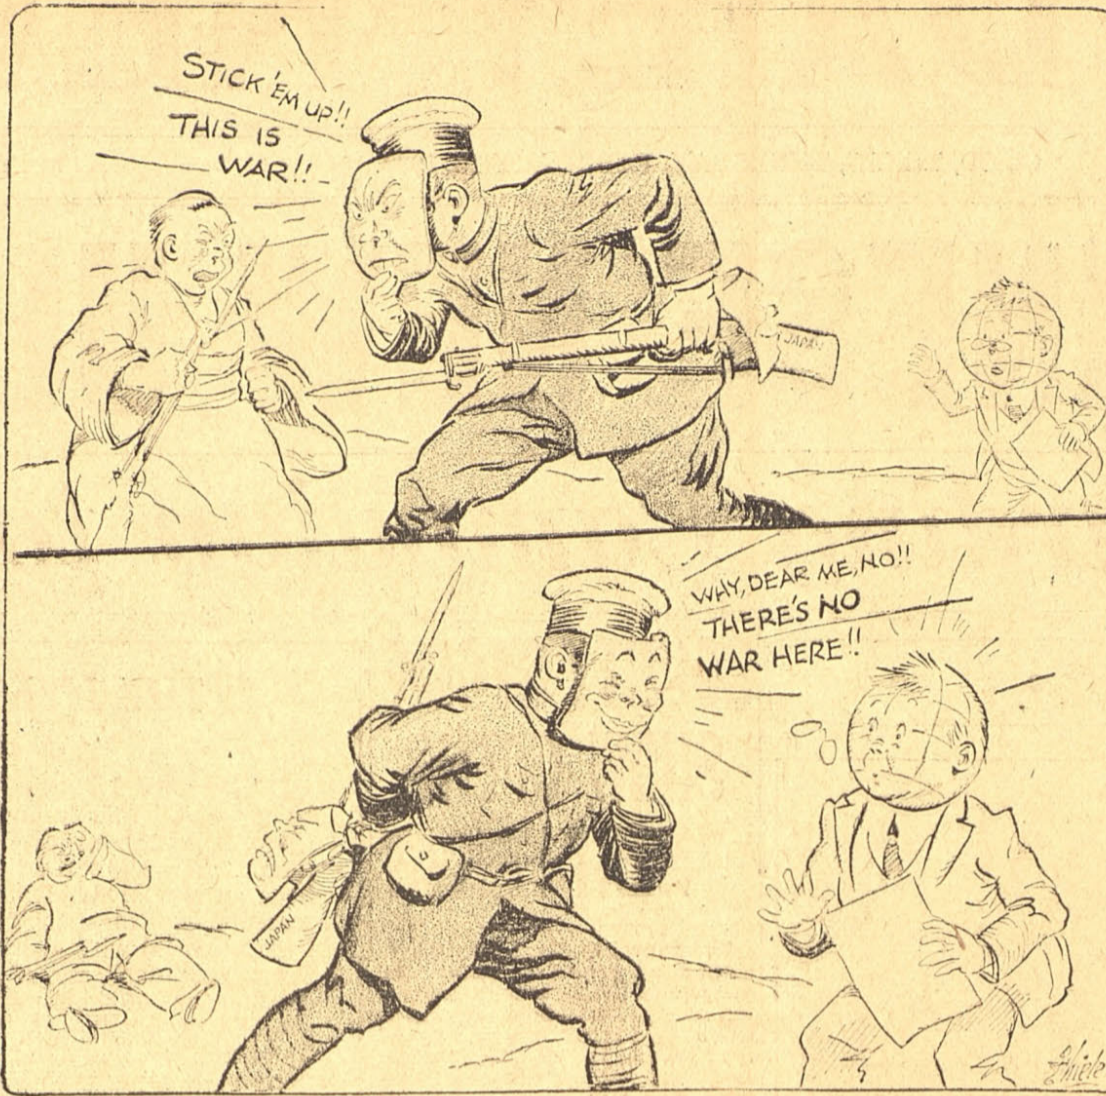

Prime Minister James Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain has been ordered to take a long rest so that he can recover from a recent operation on his left eye. MacDonald is skating on thin ice. He deserted his party in order to bring about a coalition government. He won. That is, the conservatives or Tories of Great Britain won.

MacDonald is a man of strong convictions. He was born on a little farm. He faced poverty. He fought for an education. He created the labor party of Great Britain. He carried it to power. Now he is without a party. His labor party has his name on the blacklist, all about him in government circles are conservatives who have scant sympathy for his labor ideals or his labor politics. In addition to all this his health is broken and in the near future he will find himself one of the outstanding statesmen of the world today but he is one of the outstanding statesmen of the world today but he has paid the price.

FARM BUREAU LEADER AND THE FINANCE SYSTEM.

Edward O'Neal is the president of the National Farm Bureau Federation and urged the reorganization of the financial system of the nation. He said, "Our whole financial system should be reorganized; we must have an honest basis of credit, not the so called liquid assets which have proved fatal." He argued that an honest basis of credit certainly should be farms, factories, livestock and forests and flatly told his audience that under conditions today such things are not basis for credit, and it is a liability to own a factory or farm. Farm Leader O'Neal is a pessimist. He predicted the reconstruction finance corporation cannot accomplish much, as it is controlled by financiers who, he said, "had already demonstrated that they don't know much about money and credits." Well, the Dawes Reconstruction Relief measure has its machinery ready and will begin to function in the near future. Why should President O'Neal bark before he is hurt? Why not give all these relief measures enacted by congress a fair trial?

OTHER OPINIONS

LET'S HOPE IT WORKS

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is really getting down to business this week. With its launching the major portion of the federal program for economic rehabilitation is under way. The corporation is the key stone in the plan whereby it is hoped the government can help business out of the morass. Through this agency, which is authorized to place $2,000,000,000 of federal credit behind private agencies, it is hoped to wipe out the fear of granting more credit extensions to individual enterprises and open the way for a freer working of the economic system. If the corporation secures this result in any substantial degree, as the experience with the similar War Finance Corporation gives reason to believe that it may, it will justify the violence that has been done to good peace-time principles of government in creating it.

Few can deny that the legislation creating the agency violates some of the soundest principles of our government. It puts the government deep into private business and it accomplishes this with a haste which precludes possibility of calm deliberation. In the emergency presented, however, the step is probably justified. If the corporation is well managed, and it appears probable that it will be, it has a good chance of releasing the greatest single brake on economic activity at present, and without any important ultimate loss in public money. And that chance, it would seem, is worth taking as an emergency device. The argument that the Recon-

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Governor Ross Sterling is a candidate for a second term. Now candidates offer avoid minor issues but the governor is not side stepping this year. He visited Dallas. He had accepted an invitation to speak before the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Newspaper correspondents interviewed him. He smiled and shot his message. He said the Texas delegates to the democratic national convention will be instructed for John Garner. He said that prohibition should not be an issue in the presidential campaign. He said he had always been a prohibitionist but that would not prevent him from voting for a man who does not think as he thinks on the prohibition subject. He declared emphatically that democrats must not permit prohibition to be made an issue. He said that it is not at all necessary, and he said in capital letters: "The Republicans Steer Clear of it and They Have Won by Doing That."

He closed by saying "I do not think that there is any doubt but that Texans will instruct its delegates to the national convention for Garner. If it develops that Garner is not to be the choice, my idea would be for the delegation to be instructed as to alternate choices. This Garner boom is so strictly Texas product. He is strong from coast to coast."

Political ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Cisco Daily News and Cisco American and Roundup are authorized to make the following announcements subject to the democratic primary election July 23, 1932:

- For District Judge, 88th Judicial District of Eastland County: J. D. BARKER
- For District Clerk: P. L. CROSSLEY
- For County Clerk: WALTER GRAY, W. C. BEDFORD
- Commissioner Precinct No. 4: L. H. QUALLS.

McAdoo, dry of the dries. She appeared before the Women's Christian Temperance Union convention and she sent a message home:

"Why should we make prohibition a campaign issue when we are concerned more about efficiency in government, the lowering of taxes, and the return of prosperity. The eighteenth amendment is in the constitution to stay so let us quit worrying about its repeal. Let us throw back to the republicans the wet and dry bone they have tossed to us for several years. Let them gnaw on it for a spell."

Miss Sterling has been a heavy contributor to the pro cause. She talked with her pocketbook as well as her tongue. Now she is talking for democracy harmony and a democratic victory this year.

Lynch Davidson Finds His Hat.

Really, the political situation is growing very interesting way down here in Texas. Former Lieut. Governor Lynch Davidson has found himself. His verdict is that Texas may consider John N. Garner in the favorite son class but the nation is seriously considering him for president of the United States. This former lieutenant governor, a life long pro, in declining to serve on the steering committee of the Roosevelt club, declared unqualifiedly for Garner. This is what he said, "Make it Garner for president and tell others to 'go thou and do likewise and I am with you'."

Lynch Davidson has always boasted that while a regular democrat he is a free lance and faces issues as they come to the surface. He would have made a magnificent hit if he had advised the democrats of Texas to elect and instruct 46 delegates to the Chicago convention to make a fight on the floor of the convention if necessary for the abrogation of the two-thirds rule.

Hill county democrats are loyal to Melvin A. Traylor. They have organized, so they say, for business. They are going in every county in Texas and work until there is an active Traylor club in every part of the state. They believe that women all over the country are thoroughly aroused to the need of a man like Melvin Traylor in the White House. Miss Florence Sterling rang the bell when she said: "The 18th amendment is in the constitution to stay so let us quit worrying about its repeal. Let us throw back to the republicans the wet and dry bone they have tossed us for several years. Let them gnaw on it for a spell."

Why not? Democrats have been gnawing on it for years and years and for years and years they have disrupted their party, they have retained in power republican administration and (according to an independent republican) a great engineer who has "ditched, drained and dammed the economic interests of the country." Of course the independent republican may be a bit sore for personal reasons, but he was telling, or thought he was telling, of the achievements of a great engineer.

FREE PLAY IS GIVEN MIND BY INSTITUTE

By MARTIN KANE
United Press Staff Correspondent
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 18. — Harvard's "answer to a scientist's dream" is its new $2,000,000 Institute of Biology.

So styled by a Harvard professor, it permits almost free play for scientific minds in the fields of physiology, zoology, applied biology and botany.

Irvin Cobbin's "the privacy of a goldfish" acquired poignant point to newspapermen, who witnessed some of the experiments already being performed on frogs, fish, rats and rabbits and even a low form of life which scientists have yet to classify. There is no privacy for subjects of scientific curiosity.

Rat Colony
A colony of some 400 rats awaits experiments which may determine their rationality and possession of free will. The rats are given every convenience. While under observation they live in sound-proof rooms heated to a constant temperature with fresh, purified air pumped to them at a steady rate of speed. Even their food is measured. No true Harvard rat can develop neurasthenia, sunstroke or tuberculosis.

Thus far the scientists have learned that rats, eating under such carefully supervised conditions, with virtually no variation in their daily habits, consume food according to a fixed, undeviating rate of speed. When a rat is hungry it eats hurriedly. Gradually as it becomes satiated, the speed is reduced.

Fish Change Color
Professor George H. Parker of the zoology department demonstrated that chameleons are not the only animals which change color. Fish kept in dark-colored jars, he showed rapidly acquire a dark coloring revealed under the microscope as caused by the expansion of black dots which cover their bodies.

In other parts of the building infra-red rays are being used to photograph the growth of plants which might be affected by ordinary light. Strange moles, one of which requires "cooked food" for its development are being studied under ideal conditions.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Leudeke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."
To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at Moore Drug Co. or any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back. But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.—Adv.

Thrice-a-Year Income Makes Good Ranch Business

Sheep and turkeys make a good ranch combination according to Ben Sigal (top picture above) of Cevalo, Taylor county, because wool sales in early summer and turkey and lamb sales in fall and winter furnish an income three times a year. On this 2600-acre ranch Mrs. Sigal (lower right) has charge of the turkeys of which she sold 700 last season hatched in a hatchery from eggs from 46 hens. This unique ranch system was begun in 1930 with the help of C. M. Heald, county agent, who is shown in the lower left insert figuring up the sheep end of the business with Mr. Sigal, and of Miss Caroline Chambers, home demonstration agent, who appears in the lower right showing Mrs. Sigal how to select U. S. No. 1 turkeys.

Nothing but No. 1 turkeys are sold from the ranch. The flock was fed and fattened on corn, wheat, barley and maize, mostly raised on the ranch. Only a small amount of grain was fed during the summer, just enough to keep the flock coming home. Mrs. Sigal estimates that it cost only 16 cents apiece for incubation and for feed until October 1st when the birds averaged eight pounds each. Only 25 were lost from disease. Mrs. Sigal plans to hatch the eggs from 60 hens this year to secure a flock of 1000 turkeys.

Mr. Sigal owns 1150 young Rambouillet ewes which averaged seven pounds of wool per head last year but which he expects to increase to eight pounds or more as they gain in age. From the lamb crop 875 head were put on feed in a Dublin feed lot in early fall to fatten out for late fall market on a ration of maize, barley, peanut hay, cottonseed hulls and black-trap molasses. They weighed about 75 pounds when sold. He grows feed on the ranch for turkeys, ewes, teams and saddle horses. To keep down the brush Mr. Sigal plans to stock 500 goats soon.

DRY LAWS PUT RENO GAMBLERS UNDER COVER

RENO, Nev., Feb. 18. — Open gambling, which is legal in Nevada, is rapidly becoming closed gambling, in the opinion of observers here.

When the open gambling law was enacted a year ago, along with a six weeks' divorce bill, great was the observance of the "open" provisions. Clubs, large and small sprang up overnight and soon the town was ablaze with lights.

The streets of Reno still gleam brightly during early morning hours, and a few of the big clubs, reportedly at least, are making money from "out in the open operations." But many of the small clubs have disappeared. They have been driven behind closed doors, it is said to a belief that liquor bars and gambling tables do best when under the same roof.

The "closed door" complication arises from the activities of federal dry agents as Nevada has no dry laws. The federal, however, stage an occasional raid, provided they can get in and collect evidence. This is not an easy matter in Reno. For one matter, there isn't such a thing as local police cooperation.

Precautions, due to the federals are elaborate. There are barred doors, padlocks, passcards, "eagle eyes" at peep holes and all the customary means of protection. Cards, however, are easily obtained by those with qualifications and the men at the peep holes have retentive memories.

Generally, it is explained that the retirement of Reno to a "closed" status is due to a decline in the divorce business which fell off heavily during the winter. Maybe, some boosters explain, legalized gambling will increase again when the spring rush of divorce-seekers starts.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

J. David Stern, publisher of the Philadelphia Record, says:

"When you say that the sun rises, you don't mean it, because you know that the sun doesn't rise but that you dip down on the revolving earth toward the sun. It is a habit of mind to think of ourselves as the center of the universe."

"And just so it is the habit of mind to think of our dollar as a fixed quantity. Just as we talk about the sun rising, we talk about values going down when, in truth, the value of the commodity remains constant while the value of the dollar is increasing."

"Professor Irving Fisher tells of his experience in Germany some ten years ago, when the mark was going rapidly to nothing. The Germans did not think of it that way; they talked about prices going up. The mark was still the mark even when a loaf of bread was priced at a million."

"We have the antithesis of this in America today. Dollar credits are shrinking; therefore dollars are becoming more valuable. The higher the dollar goes, the lower prices go."

"In addition to the confusion that this causes, it has a depressing effect on the minds of the people. They have the impression that the value of their real estate, stocks, and bonds are shrinking, whereas, if they could interpret the phenomena correctly, they would see that in many instances the only change is in the value of the dollar."

"Have you ever been seated in a stationary railroad coach opposite another coach which is standing still? The other coach begins to move, but you have the impression that your coach is moving, the other one standing still. It is only when you catch sight of some fixed object, such as a post in the station, that you can tell which train is moving."

"Unfortunately, in the present financial situation, there is no fixed measure by which we can judge whether commodity values are moving down or the dollar value is moving up. If we could only see the present financial situation as merely a currency stringency, rather than a loss of the value of our property, the average citizen would not be so much depressed — business would be better."

Some Facts About the Cotton Outlook for 1932.

The principal facts of the cotton situation have been summarized to aid southern farmers in planning their crop production for 1932.

The world business depression not only reduced the price of cotton but also greatly retarded consumption.

World production has not been reduced in line with the declining consumption and large stocks of cotton have accumulated.

Although cotton acreage in some of the foreign producing countries has been cut because of low prices, world production is still relatively high.

Some Suggestions on Southern Farm Adjustments in 1932.

Consider the advisability of growing some other cash crops. Each farm should have, if possible, at least one other cash enterprise.

Reduce the cost of producing cotton (1) by planting cotton on only the land best suited to its production.

Reduce cash costs on the farm whenever this can be done. Adjust crop acreages and livestock numbers to keep regular workers busy throughout the year with a minimum of hired help.

Repair old machinery to make it last another year if possible. Make that farm produce as much of the family living as it can.

Consider keeping more livestock for home and local consumption but do not overlook the present low market prices of livestock products.

Make a plan and budget for the year's operations and try to live up to the plan. Budget as little as possible. Foresight and careful planning are especially important in times like these.

Study the agricultural outlook for the southern states which is published in miscellaneous publication No. 137 by the United States department of agriculture.

Keep Farm Cost Accounts From time to time attention has been called through this column to the fact that the county agent has free distribution farm record books for keeping a complete record of the farming operations.

Control of Peach Borers Investigators of the United States department of agriculture have finally discovered an effective and simple method of controlling borers in fruit trees.

The dime-a-dance girl

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful Ellen Rossiter, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, lives with her extravagant mother, Molly Rossiter, her elder sister Myra and her young brother, Mike. The two girls support the family. Molly foolishly spends money saved to pay the rent. Steven Barclay, 57 and Ellen's employer, lends her an evening dress so she can secure a job nights dancing at Dreamland. At the dance hall she meets fascinating Larry Harrowgate, an artist. Later she breaks an engagement with Larry when she learns he is engaged to Elizabeth Bowers, a debutante. However, when he comes to Dreamland demanding an explanation she makes another date with Larry.

For mother and sister favor Barclay's suit. Sunday morning Ellen and her mother quarrel when the girl declines an engagement with Barclay.

Molly bursts into tears and Ellen, repentant, promises she will do her best to fall in love with the older man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

At the very moment Molly rapped imperiously on the bedroom door.

"Ellen, Ellen, are you awake?" she called. "Ship on a kimona and run downstairs. There's someone calling for you on Mrs. Clancy's phone."

"Oh help," said Ellen faintly leaning over to Myra. "It must be Mr. Barclay."

"How do you know it's Mr. Barclay?" Myra demanded as Ellen leaped from bed, reached for a flannel dressing gown and belted it over her pajamas.

"He asked yesterday if he might call here some time."

"Did you give him Mrs. Clancy's number?"

"No, but I guess it's on file. He must have looked up my card at the store."

The bedroom door opened and Molly entered. She was visibly excited. Her black, curly hair stood out in little dark-tails. Her blue eyes glowed. For once she had not even taken time to powder her pretty face.

"Hurry, child," she said to Ellen. "You mustn't keep Mr. Barclay waiting. It's had enough having no phone."

When Ellen felt a rising irritation. "Who makes you so sure it's Mr. Barclay?" she snapped.

"I've got a hunch," Molly admitted, sniffing and smiling mysteriously. "Don't be so slow honey."

"I can't run through the halls with no stocking on, can I?"

Ellen took a quick brush at her hair, slipped into pumps and ran out of the apartment and down the four flights of stairs. She was only a few minutes in the house when Mrs. Clancy's apartment on the first floor of the building who occupied the generous phrase of Mrs. Clancy "perfectly welcome to use the phone so long as they pay for outgoing calls." And so long as they let Mrs. Clancy listen in on their business Ellen had thought privately.

Sure enough, the fat, good-natured Irish woman was waiting in the hall at the foot of the stairs. For all the world like a master of ceremonies she said, "Right this way." Then after she had shown Ellen where the telephone was (as if Ellen had not known before) she placidly settled herself in the vicinity of the conversation. Unfortunately for the listener the conversation was extremely short. Ellen replaced the receiver, presented her thanks and prepared to leave. Mrs. Clancy saw a golden opportunity fading.

She said quickly and ingratiatingly:

You, Too, Can Look Younger

Because new wonderful MELLO-GLO Face Powder stays on longer and prevents large pores. No more shiny noses. Not more shiny noses. Not affected so much by perspiration. hoping Molly would be cautious. Never in her life had Molly been cautious.

"Did Mr. Barclay say anything special over the phone?" she demanded the instant the door had closed behind Myra. "Anything that you might not want anybody except me to know?"

"No," replied Ellen, half smiling, half sighing at Molly's terrible persistence. "He didn't say anything more than I've told you."

"Was he surprised yesterday when you returned the dress?"

"I don't think so."

Molly clasped her hands about her knees and stared dreamily out into the hot afternoon. A little smile flickered across her lips.

"I've been thinking," she remarked meditatively, "and I believe you were right in declining his invitation this afternoon. He will appreciate you all the more for checking him at first. Men are like that."

"I didn't refuse for that reason and I'm sure you know I didn't," said Ellen in intense exasperation. "We've gone over and over this and you know exactly how I feel. I can't think of anything so dishonest as encouraging a man I don't love."

"Well," countered Molly in well-simulated surprise. "I for one can't understand your ethics. Do think it less dishonest to go running around with a man who is not free a man engaged to another girl?"

Ellen was halted. "I'm not proud of that part of it," she said in a shamefaced voice.

"The trouble is that you always believe you're right and I'm wrong," Molly continued in a sad little tone. "I'm older and more experienced. I'm your mother and you should respect my opinions. I can't see why any girl would want to risk her reputation for what you're doing—running around with a man who is not free."

"When there is a chance of roping in a rich man," Ellen interrupted furiously.

"It's just as easy to love a rich man as a poor one," Molly agreed placidly, ignoring the storm signal. "There were dozens of other men I could have married but when I saw your father—"

"You loved him," Ellen broke in triumphantly. "And I don't and never could love Steven Barclay. Heaven! He's over 30 years older than I am!"

She had made a mistake. The point was Molly's.

"Ellen Rossiter! I never thought you'd speak to your mother like this. Your father was 25 years older than I was. And you know it."

She burst into hysterical tears.

"Oh, mother, can't you understand?"

PATIENTS PAY FOR 'CURES'

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 17.—African "witch doctors" resemble some more civilized practitioners of medicine in that they "mix magic with science and surround medical practice with mystery and supernaturalism," according to Professor Charles T. Loran of Yale, a native of Africa, but they differ in one respect; with the native doctors it is "no cure, no pay."

VIRGINIA TO BE HOST.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 17.—Virginia must "get her house in order" for 1,000,000 visitors from all parts of the nation, expected to visit the Old Dominion in connection with the George Washington Bicentennial celebrations, according to Dr. William J. Showalter, associate editor of the National Geographic Magazine and well known writer on Virginia history.

PERSONALLY I think it rather odd of the Harrowgate boy to ask you for an engagement under the circumstances," said Molly. "In my day it would have been considered dishonorable."

"You don't know whether it's dishonorable or not," Ellen said angrily, ignoring her own secret doubts. "Larry has no way of knowing that I might consider the fact that he is engaged important. I don't consider it important. I like him—that's enough! This isn't the Victorian age after all."

"There's no use discussing it," observed Molly lightly. "We wouldn't agree, I'm sure."

Molly Rossiter could, when she chose, adopt the most exasperating mood in the world. She chose just then to adopt that mood. When Ellen asked her to meet Larry, Molly remembered a previous engagement to go walking with Mrs. Clancy. Mrs. Clancy was a great aid to Molly in managing her daughters. Whenever they made a request she did not wish to grant Mrs. Clancy, in one way or another became a ward in her charge. Ellen understood that as did Myra. But the family rules forbade any mention of the fiction.

"I'm sorry you can't meet him," Myra said at last with cold finality.

"I'm sorry, too," conceded Molly. Turning to Myra she said placidly. "Would you mind, honey, getting me some coffee? Lots of cream and I like it weak. Would you be a lamb and make a fresh pot."

Of course Myra would. But as she walked to the kitchen she was

George Washington's genius in training raw recruits, his ability to rally congress and obtain funds, ammunition and provisions stood the colonial army in good stead in the early, trying days of the revolution.

He was a stern disciplinarian. Dishonesty drew heavy penalties. Deserters and plunderers were flogged. He once erected a 40-foot gallows as a warning.

On the other hand, Washington won the devotion of his men by seeking better treatment for them from congress. He often complained of their short rations.

His shrewd generalship in seizing Dorchester Heights, overlooking Boston, on March 4, 1776, forced the British to evacuate the city and leave behind 200 cannon and ammunition.

But when Washington hurried to the defense of New York he was badly beaten, forced to retreat in New Jersey and was captured. The dark days that followed, however, were climaxed by three brilliant victories.

Forced to flee across the Delaware at Trenton on Dec. 8, 1776, he seized every boat within 100 miles so that the enemy could not follow. Then on Christmas night, he recrossed the ice-filled river with 2400 men, completely surprised the enemy soldiers, took 1000 prisoners and a large amount of arms and munitions.

This victory, coupled with that shortly afterward at Princeton, revived the colonists' lagging spirits, brought a rush of new recruits and encouraged foreign sympathy to the Americans' fight.

Tomorrow: Valley Forge.

SPUDDERS WELL SUPPLIED WITH PITCHING ARMS

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 18. — The Wichita Falls Spudders should have plenty of material from which to choose the pitching and catching staffs this year.

From reports that scouts of the St. Louis Browns, owners of the Spudders, send in, they are gathering pitchers and catchers from all the highways and by-ways of baseball.

But they aren't neglecting the other positions either, and Guy Airey, Spudder spender, believe the club will be "one sweet baseball nine when the season rolls around."

The Spudders will be skippered by a new manager this year — Henry (Hank) Severid, old time catcher of the St. Louis Browns. Carl Williams, manager of last year's Wichita Falls club, finally made good his threat to quit the national pastime.

Severid played on the Pacific coast last year. He is 40 year old, has the reputation of being a smart baseball man and a reliable catcher. He spent about ten years with the Browns. Last year he caught 95 games for the Los Angeles club.

The new manager heads a collection of six catchers now on the Spudder roster. From last year's list are Herbert Bryant and the veteran Art Bradbury. Rookie backstops are Firman Owens, who did a good job of knocking out the ball at a 303 club with Greenville in the now defunct Palmto League last year. Walter Taylor and James Powell Severid may be one of the playing managers in the circuit and may be in there taking the hot ones himself behind the plate.

The fans are most excited about all this talk concerning the array of pitching talent. Eighteen recruits are said to be on the roster list, and the reports are that some of the boys really are good.

Floyd Iselkie, who burned them across the pan in the semi-pro Timber League of the Far Northwest, is rated as the pick of the lot. The left-handed hurler won 19 of 21 games in the Timber League and this winter has been hurling in the Pacific Coast winter league.

Tom Conlan, formerly of the St. Mary's university of Oakland, Cal., nine won the title of "iron man" last year when he won eight games and lost three in 28 days for Springfield in the Western association. But the title brought him only a sore arm and he ultimately was released.

Other pitchers who will be new stuff to the Spudders are: Harry Saller, Southway, who came from the University of Colorado and spent last season with the Browns; Doyle Taylor, another Southway; Donald Bass, Paul Spencer, Frank E., Smiley, John Volsano, and Dennis Byram; who has done much pitching in California semi-pro circles.

From last season the holdovers are: Roland Finn, optioned to San Antonio last season; Howard Taylor; Dick Florida; Fred Vincent; Everett Pressnell; Lester White.

Art Scharen, who converted in the shortstop position last year is listed so far as the only veteran Spudder to return to the infield.

Secretary Airey said, however, there is a possibility that Walter Euler, third baseman, may be returned from Milwaukee.

Four rookies are expected to make competition keen for some of the infield positions. They are: Harlan Cliff, Roy Sabine, Gerald Levey and Arthur Garbark. Levey is the brother of Jim Levey, shortstop who played here in 1930 but now is with the Browns.

Debs Garms, Red Badgro and Bob Fuss will return this season to assure a veteran outfield. To make sure of plenty of good material in the outfield, however, the scouts have signed up Treaber Douglas and Fred Baldwin.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

THEY ALL LAUGHED WHEN DAN O'LEARY (not the famous pedestrian) smacked a dizzy homer. Back in 1883, the strong Peoria (Ill.) nine engaged Port Huron, Mich., in a game. In the last half of the ninth, with the score 7 to 7, O'Leary of Peoria came to bat. On the first two pitches Dan swung like a dervish but missed. The third ball he caught flush on the trademark—but, swinging from his heels, he fell to his knees as the ball went soaring past the outfielders. O'Leary jumped up, lost his sense of direction and tore for third base. The crowd howled its astonishment but O'Leary, mistaking the noise for applause, kept running the wrong way. He turned second, and, in a cloud of dust, galloped for first. Oblivious to the ravings of his teammates he put on a spectacular hook slide across the plate. "You're out!" yelled the umpire. "What for?" screamed O'Leary. "For running the wrong way and disturbing the peace," said the heartless official. And the decision stood.
