APPEALS COURT DENIES CISCO PLEA

3 Witnesses to Tell of Having Seen Missing Banker

INSURANCE CO. COMBATS SUIT FOR $100,000

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27.—Three witnesses who will testify they have seen Sidney Norwood, missing Cleburne banker in the last three years, will be put on the stand this afternoon in the trial of a suit to collect $100,000 insurance on the banker's life.

This declaration was made by Raymond Buck, attorney for the Southland Life Insurance company, at noon recess of court.

Later Jake Cohen, 80-year-old Cleburne cotton man, took the witness stand.

"Do you know what caused trouble at the bank?" he was asked.

"Peanuts," answered Cohen.

"Yes, sir, they had bought a lot of peanuts, nearly $1,000,000 worth. Then the price went down," the witness explained. Norwood apparently had attempted to corner the peanut market of the nation in 1920.

Mrs. Emma Norwood, plaintiff in the suit, today wept when attorneys asked why she hadn't supplied her husband with funds.

"I made every sacrifice possible but was unable to send him money or go to see him," the woman sobbed. "There were no friends in New York for me to turn to." In 1923 the banker's wife had become a resident buyer for Texas firms in New York.

She last heard from her husband in February, 1924, when he wrote her from Tucuman, New Mexico, she said. In 1922 she spent six weeks with Norwood in Saltillo, Mexico.

Norwood's mother, a brother and a cousin yesterday testified to threats Norwood had made regarding suicide.

Mrs. Ursie Norwood, 85 years old, the mother, told of receiving a letter from her son in the summer of 1924 in which he said "I am going out of your life forever." This was the last she heard from Norwood.

NOT "DEAD" FOR FEDERAL AGENTS.

DALLAS, Oct. 27.—Sidney B. Norwood, missing Cleburne banker, may be legally dead in Texas through a suit for insurance brought by his wife in a Fort Worth court, but among agents of the United States bureau of investigation he will continue to be an important fugitive.

Since the closing of the First National bank, of Cleburne, in 1922 federal agents have been seeking Norwood. His name of No. 1 on the federal bureau's list of wanted men.

The government agents have three federal indictments under which they will prosecute the missing banker should he be apprehended. The indictments charge false entry, embezzlement and misapplication of funds.

The file showing reports of bureau operatives in their hunt for Norwood is more than two feet thick.

It recounts how Norwood left Cleburne in October 1921 and a short time afterward how the bank of which he was president closed its doors. The records, according to the indictments, were altered. Notes held by the institution were converted into cash and bonds placed for safe keeping had been sold for cash.

"They may be able to prove he is dead," one operative said, "but for us, the bureau of investigation, he is the most important fugitive in the country. We hate to admit that he has dodged us so long. We are still looking for him. He is the man we would certainly like to meet most."

Methodists Banquet At Church Tonight

Cisco Methodists and their friends will gather at a chicken banquet at the First Methodist church this evening at 7 for an evening of fun and fellowship.

Rev. Kenneth Pope, pastor of the First Methodist church at Breckenridge, will speak. G. W. Colium and his high school orchestra will play. Mrs. L. E. Richardson will sing and her daughter, Mrs. Zella Blanche Moore will read.

The banquet is being served by the women of the church.

Prince Michael Goes Home to Papa

King Carol of Rumania had abruptly ordered the return of his son, Crown Prince Michael, from a holiday visit with the boy's mother, Princess Helen, in London. And here you see the 10-year-old prince as he entered a car en route to the boat and his native land. King Carol was reported to have been incensed by the news that Michael had learned of his father's affair with Mme. Magda Lupescu.

Election Day --- Moving Day for Many On Capitol Hill if Democrats Win

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Election day will mean moving day for scores of famous persons if the democrats take over the administration and Congress from the republicans.

From Capitol Hill to Siam, democratic success would mean retirement from coveted positions. A democratic president would receive on March 4 the resignations of more than 50 diplomatic representatives of the United States, heads of various missions.

Democratic majorities in congress would maintain committee when the house was lost to the republicans two years ago but in the senate there would be a turnover in every committee.

New Speaker Election of the democratic ticket would compel selection of a speaker of the house to succeed John N. Garner. House Majority Leader Rainey and Rep. McDuffie, Dem., Ala., would be the principal contenders.

A paradox of the campaign is that the independent republicans, some of whom support Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, or sympathize with his candidacy, would suffer a vast curtailment of power. The west and northwest have been fairly consistent in support of progressivism since the Bull Moose split in 1912. Independent republican senators have been returned regularly and thereby have achieved seniority which has placed many of them in the chairmanships of important committees.

Gather Many Plums Those plums would be surrendered to democrats in a democratic senate. The paradox goes further. Roosevelt is regarded as a progressive democrat, but success for his party in November would deliver the senate committees wholly into control of the conservative wing of the party. Of the so-called progressive democrats only Senator Wheeler of Montana seems assured of a committee chairmanship. He probably would succeed Senator LaFollette, republican, Wis., as chairman of the manufacturers committee.

All other major committees would go to southern democrats with the exception of public lands and surveys, where Senator Pittman of Nevada would succeed Senator Nye, Rep., N. D. Among independent republicans who would lose major committee chairmanships are Norbeck, banking and currency; Johnson, commerce; Borah, foreign relations; Couzens, interstate commerce; Norris, judiciary; Jones, appropriations, and Frazier, Indian affairs.

Senate Changes Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, chairman Reed of the military affairs committee and Chairman Hale of naval affairs would be succeeded by Senators Harrison, Dem., Miss., Sheppard, Dem., Texas, and Trammell, Dem., Florida, respectively.

A democratic president might reverse the resignation of many diplomats. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover shifted numerous so-called career diplomats from the foreign service to ministerial posts, and among these some probably would be retained. One of them, for instance, probably would be Minister Nelson T. Johnson, recognized as the foremost American authority on China.

But the jobs of great social prominence and even greater expense probably would change hands. It is estimated that an American ambassador in London must spend a minimum of $150,000 a year to do the job right but that would not persuade a democratic president that Andrew W. Mellon should remain there. Ambassador Walter E. Edge in Paris has a post even more expensive. He would not survive a democratic administration. Nor, among others, would Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett in Berlin, Ambassador John W. Garrett in Rome or Ambassador Irwin B. Laughlin in Madrid.

Judge Geo. W. Armstrong, independent democratic candidate for governor, in Cisco today, accused the railroads of Texas of backing the campaign of Orville Bullington.

"This statement may seem strange to some of you, but you must remember that Jim Ferguson is a railway lawyer when his wife is in office and Bullington is now a railway lawyer," said Judge Armstrong. "The big money is behind Bullington now because of the plank in his platform which calls for cessation of all road building," he continued, "while I advocate a continuation of road building and truck competition with the railroads."

Judge Armstrong stated that from an economic standpoint trucks should be allowed to compete with the railroads. "The railroads claim to have lost fifty million dollars this year by reason of truck competition," he said. "I believe it is so. But you must remember that this is money saved to the people of Texas."

Explaining his split with the democratic party, Judge Armstrong said: "When the convention at Chicago put out a platform which absolutely ignored the present distress of the country, and made prohibition the dominant issue, they I thought it time to start a party of my own."

He has done this and his name will appear on the official ballot as the gubernatorial candidate of the Jacksonian party. He advocates a moratorium on mortgage debts, a graduated tax on inherited income, and a state currency system to put more money in circulation.

Judge Armstrong will speak over radio station W-B-A-P in Fort Worth at 8:50 tonight.

MARKET RUSH DRIVES WHEAT PRICE DOWN

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—A three-sided battle of nations to empty their overflowing bins and elevators of huge grain surpluses today drove the price of wheat down to levels untouched since the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

The United States and Canada raced to unload vast stores of grain at any cost before the Argentine and nations of the southern hemisphere could enter an already glutted market.

The prize of the three-cornered race is a world export demand for 700,000,000 bushels of wheat. The United States and Canada alone have 900,000,000 bushels to supply this demand.

In Fort Worth wheat price levels today held above 50 cents, but many middle-western towns reported prices of 20 cents a bushel. In Alberta wheat sold at $9 a ton, in regions where sawdust was quoted at $10 a ton.

INSTITUTE TO OPEN FRIDAY AT EASTLAND

Public school teachers of Eastland county will meet tomorrow at the Eastland high school auditorium for an announcement from B. E. McGlamery, county superintendent of public instruction. Due to the institute there will be no school in Cisco tomorrow, according to a statement from Superintendent R. N. Cluck of the Cisco public schools.

The meeting will be called to order at 9 a. m. McGlamery said, H. A. Reynolds of Alameda will lead the song service, after which Rev. O. B. Darby, pastor of the Eastland Baptist church, will have charge of the devotions. After a reading by Miss Onetta Russell of Eastland high school, the teachers will begin their business session.

There will be three principal section meetings, each having a morning and an afternoon session. The morning session will be held at 11 o'clock and the afternoon at 1:15.

High School Division Supr. M. L. Cobb of Desdemona will preside over the high school division, which meets in Room 20 of the high school. In the morning Supt. E. T. Dawson of Rising Star will discuss tests and measurements, and Prin. W. P. Palm of Eastland, a physical education program. In the afternoon Supt. P. E. Bittle of Eastland will talk on failures in mathematics, and Supr. E. N. Cluck of Cisco on school publicity.

The intermediate session in the morning will be given over to the theme of supervision in the grades. One of the speakers will be Mrs. H. B. Brandon of Cisco. In the afternoon meeting the group will discuss care of free text books, respect for public property, and personal influence in discipline. This section meets in room 25 of the high school, with W. W. Jarvis of Ranger acting as chairman.

The rural school division will meet with Supt. McGlamery in the high school auditorium from 11 to 11:30 in the morning, the teachers then attending their respective section meetings.

The primary division meeting will be held in the study hall of the junior high school, with Miss June Pearson of Ranger presiding. In the morning session Miss Dora Rollins of Ragners will speak on reading and phonics. The afternoon session will be given over to discussions of number work and writing. Mrs. J. C. McAfee of Cisco will be one of the teachers leading in the discussion of number work.

BULLINGTON IS ATTACKED BY ARMSTRONG

Judge Geo. W. Armstrong, independent democratic candidate for governor, in Cisco today, accused the railroads of Texas of backing the campaign of Orville Bullington.

"This statement may seem strange to some of you, but you must remember that Jim Ferguson is a railway lawyer when his wife is in office and Bullington is now a railway lawyer," said Judge Armstrong. "The big money is behind Bullington now because of the plank in his platform which calls for cessation of all road building," he continued, "while I advocate a continuation of road building and truck competition with the railroads."

Judge Armstrong stated that from an economic standpoint trucks should be allowed to compete with the railroads. "The railroads claim to have lost fifty million dollars this year by reason of truck competition," he said. "I believe it is so. But you must remember that this is money saved to the people of Texas."

Explaining his split with the democratic party, Judge Armstrong said: "When the convention at Chicago put out a platform which absolutely ignored the present distress of the country, and made prohibition the dominant issue, they I thought it time to start a party of my own."

He has done this and his name will appear on the official ballot as the gubernatorial candidate of the Jacksonian party. He advocates a moratorium on mortgage debts, a graduated tax on inherited income, and a state currency system to put more money in circulation.

Judge Armstrong will speak over radio station W-B-A-P in Fort Worth at 8:50 tonight.

Ciscoan Escapes In Fatal Crash

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27.—C. I. Chapin, 39-year-old farmer, killed when a West Texas Produce company truck demolished his small coupe near here, will be buried this afternoon. He was killed instantly on the Bankhead highway late yesterday.

Ollie Burton, of Cisco, who was driving the truck, according to produce company officials, was not injured.

Machine Gun Ends Lion Hunt

America's first sporting lion hunt is over. Bessie and Nellie, circus lionesses, have had a short taste of freedom and have died, not in the name of big game hunting but in the name of the law. Denver M. Wright, below right, and O. W. Brinkmeyer, below left, bought the big game hunters of St. Louis, bought the lions, fed them for four weeks while they sought in vain for a safe place to turn the lions loose and track them down. Finally they chose Commerce Island, in the Mississippi river and the lions were turned loose. But Deputy Sheriff Tom Hotchkiss also went to the island. While Wright and his party were lurching before starting the hunt, the deputy came on the lions, machine-gunned them to death.

RABBITS RUIN CROPS, FARMER SAYS; DEPLORES MARKET LACK

Frank Hageman, living 10 miles south of Cisco in what he termed the "produce country," declared at the Daily News office today that the wolf eradication campaign now under way has created harm as well as benefit. While ridding the country of the wolves and saving small livestock, he said, it has brought on a scourge of rabbits that are doing heavy damage to the produce crops of his section.

Farmers must find a way to combat this evil or it will be impossible to raise produce crops, he said. He claims that it costs $59 a wolf to remove them under the present system, and declared that if the county would offer a bounty of $5 a head "everybody would be after wolves and they would catch more than they are doing now."

He also said that if the farmers would cooperate in a poisoning program they could rid themselves of the rabbits, but that one man could not accomplish very much alone. He suggested a method of poisoning by leaving a bushel of potatoes in a field for two or three days and then adding a bushel of potatoes poisoned with strychnine. Rabbits would come from all over the country to the bait, he said and when the poisoned potatoes are placed there they would all be killed.

B. S. U. Conference At Brownwood

Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the First Baptist church, said today that he will have automobile room for two persons who wish to attend with him the B. S. U. conference to be held at Brownwood Friday and Saturday. Those wishing to go are asked to get in touch with him.

Many Baptist students from over the state will be present at the conference which will be addressed by prominent speakers of the southwest.

East Texans Ask Special Session

TYLER, Oct. 27.—East Texas citizens today "took matters in their own hands" to stem any probable wholesale opening of oil wells as result of the invalidation of the Texas Railroad commission's proration orders.

More than 1,500 landowners, oil operators and officials of oil companies adopted resolutions to that effect in a mass meeting here and asked Gov. Ross S. Sterling to call a special session of the legislature to remedy conservation laws.

Condition of Dr. Booth Is Grave

A report on the condition of Dr. Colium H. Booth, presiding elder of the Cisco district of the Methodist church, who is ill at the home of a brother in Dallas, said that the condition of the presiding elder is extremely grave. Dr. George W. Shearer, acting presiding elder in his absence, was in Cisco last night where he held the fourth quarterly conference of the First Methodist church, and reported to the conference upon Dr. Booth's condition. He urged that Cisco Methodists write words of cheer to the presiding elder at 3248 Carlisle street, Dallas.

PECAN ASS'N MEETING TO BE HELD AT SANTO

The Brazos Valley Pecan Growers association will hold its annual fall meeting at Santo, Texas, Thursday November 10th.

Santo receives more money from its pecan crop each year than from cotton. Santo was selected by the association in recognition of this center as a pecan growing section. Santo has over 5,000 native pecan trees top-worked to better varieties. The afternoon part of the program will be devoted to field trips and inspections of these already top-worked trees.

A pecan exhibit will be staged, showing both native and propagated varieties of both western and eastern types. Every one who has fine specimens of either native or propagated pecans may send or bring them to this show. This show will mark the beginning of the Brazos Valley Pecan association's effort in getting together a credible pecan exhibit from Texas to be sent to the World's Fair at Chicago in 1933.

Texas Nut Division of the Department of Agriculture at Austin will have an educational exhibit of all phases of the pecan industry in Texas. This exhibit alone will be worth one's time and the trip to the meeting.

Some of the leading authorities on pecans in Texas will be in attendance, and will take part in the program of the day.

GIRL RESCUED FROM MOTHER AND TRAGEDY

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 27.—Driven mad by grief over separation from her little daughter, Miss Ruth Borman, 21, kidnaped the child intending to kill her and then commit suicide, she told police today after her capture.

Tracing her to her hiding place through information furnished by an alleged accomplice, police arrived in time to prevent the tragedy.

They returned the child, Nancy Irene Buchanan, 3 to the arms of her foster mother, the wealthy Mrs. Violet Buchanan.

Miss Borman said she was the adopted daughter of W. H. Borman of Mason City, Ia., and had left there to come to California when she learned she was to have a child.

After lengthy questioning, police booked both Miss Borman and W. E. Warner on charges of kidnaping. Warner was described as a close friend of the young mother.

Mrs. Kane Will Appeal Verdict

FLOYDADA, Oct. 27.—Appeal from the decision of a jury of farmers and merchants who last night found Mrs. Ruth Kane, 32, pretty divorcee, guilty of "murder with malice" in connection with the ax slaying of J. A. Cunningham, rancher, was indicated today.

The jurymen prescribed the minimum penalty allowable, or 5 years imprisonment.

Mrs. Kane was Cunningham's housekeeper for three weeks prior to the day he was struck in the head ten times with an ax.

Cunningham had secured Mrs. Kane's services by advertising in a newspaper for "someone who will be kind and affectionate to me in my later years."

In other words, the lawmaking power of this state has provided definite ways of appeal "from every final judgment of the district court in civil cases," and where the appellant or appellants, as in this case, comply with the statutes, the trial court has no say, discretionary or otherwise, and neither does this court. That is, the effect of the super-seades bond is "to suspend the

DECLARING the court is without alternative but to hold that the judgment of the lower court had been superseded, the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland, this afternoon handed down an opinion denying Cisco Independent School district its petition that the district committee of the Interscholastic league be required to carry out the lower court orders regardless of the super-seades bond that was filed.

Cisco had sued for readmission to the Interscholastic league after being suspended from football for one year, and a judgment granting that relief was handed down by Judge Geo. L. Davenport of the 91st district. A super-seades bond of $5,000 was subsequently fixed by Judge Davenport and filed by the district committee. Cisco attacked the validity of the bond and also argued that the state committee, which alone has power to suspend a team, had not superseded the court's judgment.

It asked that the district committee be required to place the Lobos on schedule in spite of the super-seades bond pending appeal of the case.

Written by Leslie

The opinion, written by Associate Justice W. P. Leslie, holds that in seeking to have the appeals court by mandatory writ require the district committee to carry out the orders of the district court Cisco is, in effect, asking the appeals court to determine the merits of the original case and "confirm the correctness of the trial court's judgment from which this appeal is prosecuted."

"To grant such purported relief," the opinion continues, "would, in our judgment, effectively destroy the subject matter of the litigation rather than to preserve and enforce the jurisdiction of the court over the same."

The pertinent portions of the opinion follow:

In the first part of this opinion we stated the object and purposes of this application for the mandatory injunction. The relator's right to such relief will now be considered in the light of certain statutes and well established rules of law and equity by which this court must be governed. There are at least two controlling reasons why the relief sought cannot be granted:

In the first place, the original cause of action tried in said 91st District Court is a civil case within the meaning of Art. 2249 of the Revised Statutes (1925), which provides that: "An appeal may be taken to the Court of Civil Appeals from every final judgment of the district court in civil cases * * *." In fact we do not understand that any party to this suit contends that it is not such case, or that the judgment in the district court is not a "final judgment." Certainly there would be no ground for such contention. That being true, the defendants (respondents here), had the undoubted right to appeal from said judgment. They excepted to the same, gave notice of appeal, and executed and filed the aforesaid bond, fixed by the trial judge as proper and sufficient protection to the relator, the Cisco Independent School District. In doing so, the respondents have simply availed themselves of the right of appeal under the plain provision of Art. 2270 or our Revised Statute, the pertinent part of which reads as follows: "An appellant * * * desiring to suspend the execution of the judgment, may do so by filing a good and sufficient bond to be approved by the clerk, payable to appellee * * * in a sum at least double the amount of the judgment, interest and costs, conditioned that such appellant * * * shall prosecute his appeal * * * with effect; and in case the judgment of the Supreme Court or Court of Civil Appeals shall be against him, he shall perform its judgment, sentence or decree, and pay all such damages as said court may award against him."

AGENCY LARGER THAN BANK.

Texas already has the chairman of the Board of the Ninth District of the Home Loan Bank of Little Rock; Texas has the president, executive vice president, second vice president and four of the board members of the Little Rock Institution and Dallas is likely to get an agency also. It is said that the subscription record for the ninth district bank is the best in the nation. A reminder that Nathan Adams, one of the national directors, while in Washington, is said to have won national attention. Speaking of Adams, the Dallas banker, he was called to the city of Boston where he addressed the New England Bank Managing conference and declared that the federal home loan act should not be considered emergency legislation but an act filling a long wanted need. Discussing real estate credit, the Texan said it had been abused by the fact that many false theories were put into existence. His words: "Mortgages were guaranteed by many companies throughout the United States to an extent far beyond the value of the property. And it can be likened to some extent to the old deposit guarantee laws of states which sought to make responsible one banker for the debts of another. It is a false theory. The loans of this country should be made upon the appraisal of the property within the reservation of the federal home loan bank act and when this is done and the proper length of time given, we shall see a wonderful change." Heavy loans on false valuations have played havoc with thousands, nay millions, the country over. Now after the horse has been stolen the stable door will be locked. Experience teaches not only drastic but costly lessons.

GEN. GLASSFORD WALKS THE PLANK.

Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police of the District of Columbia, a distinguished soldier of 30 years before his name went on the retired list, an Arizona ranch owner and breeder of fine stock, walked the plank for his bold defiance of Atty. Gen. W. D. Mitchell and the president of the United States. All this because Glassford would not take orders in the so-called war on the bonus marchers who were driven out of Washington by regular soldiers of the United States. Gen. Glassford had not only refused to take orders from the higher-ups but for the reason the District of Columbia police commissioners appointed by the president would not give him "a free hand in the assignment of assistants." Glassford held that the administration was responsible for the calling out of troops. He not only made the flat statement that he could have handled the situation without troops but he placed the burden of proof upon Mitchell who was the spokesman of the president. A reminder that the current number of Collier's Weekly carries a story of the Glassford side of the case which bristles. Owen P. White, a Texan, one of the regular staff of The Weekly, obtained the interview from the general. It will be recalled that Glassford's reply to the Mitchell statement sent the attorney general to his corner and he has remained silent ever since.

DICTATOR MUSSOLINI GIVES ADVICE.

Dictator Mussolini of Italy, in a Sunday radio address, appealed to the United States to cancel or reduce European war debts. He declared Germany's armament parity demand was fully justified. He argued against the dole and money inflation. As far as disarmament goes the nations of Europe are not going to disarm. They are for American cancellation of war debts. Of course, the holder of the bag is Uncle Sam. He is advised to give a Christmas present of $12,000,000,000 to the allied nations, and then pass the bag on to his sons and daughters to do the paying. More than $10,000,000,000 in American money was invested in Europe and South America long after the signing of the peace treaty. These foreign securities were dumped on investors America over. For the most part they are just scraps of paper. With 11,000,000 men and women out of employment Uncle Sam as Santa Claus should do his Christmas shopping at home and distribute his offerings or presents among his own children. Tariff walls have been reared against the United States by all European countries. Uncle Sam invited the rearing of these walls and when hit on the nose he is not smiling the least bit.

United States or the corn growers; not the business of the livestock producers; not the business of the thousands upon thousands of small merchants or business men. It has been stagnated for three years and for 12 years three republican presidents held the reins of federal government and practically dominated the drafting as well as the enactment of the financial laws and taxation — working systems of the republic.

Texas democrats are reminded that it is the sworn duty of each individual to go to the polls and vote and to do all in his power to get their neighbors to vote. They are reminded that Texas is expected to contribute $150,000 to finance the campaign in the United States and it is up to them to get busy and to see that the coin is collected and this too before the coming of Nov. 8, CARRY ON.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Well, the political race horses and their trainers are coming down the home stretch. Franklin D. Roosevelt is making what his admirers as well as his advisors claim to be a triumphal march in the Midwest and the upper border states and the old South east of the Mississippi river. All the states in the old South and Southwest which were lost to the democrats in 1928 will return to their old democratic moorings in November.

All the border states, including Oklahoma and Missouri and Kentucky, are practically conceded to the standard bearers of Jefferson. All the boroughs of Manhattan are looked upon as safe for a tremendous majority for the New York governor and his running mate. On the eve of election there will be a monster demonstration in the city of New York where the democratic nominee for president and The Happy Warrior will face the largest audience in their history. The Happy Warrior will address "the rank and file" of the New York democracy. He speaks the language of the plain people. He knows what to say and when to say it. He never stutters or stammers. As for Gov. Roosevelt he is confident that he will sweep the Empire state and be the successor of Herbert Hoover as president.

As Ripley says: "Believe it or not!" President Hoover and his campaign managers are making a telling fight and will continue to make not only a telling but a desperate fight until the curtain falls on the national stage on the eve of Nov. 8. Ogden L. Mills is the ace of all the republican speakers. He is aggressive. He is brilliant. He is resourceful and he has borne the brunt of the battle thus far in the campaign. Speaking of coercion of wage workers by large employers of labor, it is well to state the facts as they come uppermost. There democratic leaders in Ohio investigated the charges that the managers of the Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone companies were exercising undue pressure on the workers on their payrolls, declared that the charges were without foundation. It is well to keep the record straight. These three democratic leaders declared that the allegation was without foundation and a great injustice to the rubber companies named.

Executives of all the companies denied the rumors. They are wise. They would be very foolish men to attempt to coerce wage workers with conditions as they are the nation over. They would be very unwise indeed if times were prosperous without an army of 11,000,000 unemployed tillers who are unable to earn their bread or to supply their dependents with shelter and the necessities of life. Early in the campaign President Hoover, according to the White House announcer of current events and the plans of candidates, announced that he would make only one speech in the campaign and conduct a rocking chair movement on the porch of the White House while the battle was on. He was forced to change his program. Everywhere the country over unrest was in evidence, thousands of voters were breaking away from the republican party, farmers were in open revolt and striking for living prices for their products and in all the fields of human endeavor the tide appeared to be turning against the party of the elephant "but not the party of Abraham Lincoln." Now it is said in the closing week of the campaign in early November the president will make another coast-to-coast journey to his home in California in order to cast his ballot on election day, and may make a short sea trip for his health after the verdict has been announced.

Those who are directing the campaign, speaking of the chairman and members of the national republican committee, are most vigorously shelling the woods from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico while Chmn. Farley and his aides, including Speaker Garner, are just as busy as their republican rivals and competitors. Former Chmn. John J. Raskob places his money behind his faith and his judgment. He stepped into Farley headquarters and handed the chairman a check for $25,000 to be used for legitimate purposes in furthering the cause of Roosevelt and Garner "in spreading the glad tidings that a democratic victory was on the way to the American people." This is an excerpt from a blast carried by the wires from the headquarters of the republican committee criticizing Roosevelt on the alleged ground that the democratic standard bearer sought to break down public confidence in the Reconstruction Finance corporation by intimating it was designed to aid only the rich. "It was this demagogic speech that led Alfred E. Smith to break publicly with Roosevelt in an address at the Jackson Day dinner in the national capital last April.

Did they break? Isn't it true that only last week Alfred E. Smith declared in a public speech that the loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation "had not opened up a job for idle workers." Roosevelt and Smith will close the campaign and speak from the same platform on the eve of the election.

Andrew W. Mellon has been heard from. He has given his complete endorsement of the Hoover administration. Cables from Manchester in the heart of England carried his message. He has issued a warning. "Change in administration means business will stagnate for months." Whose business? Not the business of 11,000,000 unemployed; not the business of the cotton growers of the South; not the business of the wool and the mohair raisers; not the business of the wheat growers of the

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, Oct. 27.—The bill is now being written that will make election abuses of this year in future forever impossible.

Rep. J. R. McDougald of Beaumont is now at work on a uniform registration law to supersede the poll tax system and the loose, unintelligible system now in effect at which courts have thrown up their hands in confessed impotence to adjudicate right affecting the whole people.

His law is for universal registration of those who vote.

It will install party regularity in primaries. It will bar all the forms of election frauds charged in this year's contests.

Separate lists of registrants will be made up to 20 days before a primary election. Names of those who register as democrats will be sent to the democratic primary officials, and of those as republicans to that party's officials. On election day, if one's name is on the list he may vote in that primary. There will be no exemptions, no exceptions, and no voting except checked upon the lists.

This is one of the two far-reaching reforms required to safeguard Texas elections and save the primary system.

The other is the preferential ballot and abolition of the second primary.

The campaign utterances that the state highway department had spent more money than it had, that it went into debt and was short of money to pay out is proven untrue by the financial statement at the close of the fiscal year, Sept. 1, when the department had over $11,000,000 in its fund. Its balance dropped only $2,000,000 from the beginning of the previous year, despite the fact that it had spent $42,000,000 during the year.

Will football gate receipts sometime run the prosaic department of state government?

It is not impossible that the state next year will levy a substantial "luxuries and amusements" tax that would include football tickets of state and other colleges.

It is barely possible that all state college athletics receipts may be ordered to the state treasury, and the expenditures be placed upon the same appropriation basis as pay of the college professors.

REWARDS CADDY

PEABODY, Mass., Oct. 27 — Alec Andrews, 15, who caddied for Virginia Van Wie when she recently won the national women's golf championship at the Peabody Country club, received from the new champion a $50 bonus, a new golf ball and a picture of Miss Van Wie inscribed, "to the best caddy I ever had."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

IT IS A VERY UNUSUAL OCCURRENCE FOR RAIN TO FALL IN EVERY STATE IN THE UNION ON THE SAME DAY. THIS IS BELIEVED TO HAVE HAPPENED ON JANUARY 14, 1930.

BEARS GET A NEW SET OF SHOES
EVERY SPRING / WHEN BRUIN COMES OUT OF HIS WINTER HIBERNATION, A THICK SOLE PEELS FROM THE FEET, AND A NEW, SOFT, RUBBERY LAYER IS EXPOSED.

A LOAF OF BREAD DOES NOT CONTINUE TO INCREASE IN TEMPERATURE AS IT BAKES. IT HEATS RAPIDLY AT FIRST, AND THEN REMAINS AT AN EVEN TEMPERATURE.

DURING THE TIME that a bear spends in hibernation, the soles of his feet continue to thicken so that when spring comes they are covered with a coarse layer of hard skin. But bruin needs soft cushions on his feet in order that his great weight can be carried noiselessly through the forest. Only a few days of walking in the wet spring snows and rain, and off comes the dead outer covering.

HUNTING ASS'N WILL MEET IN WALKER CO.

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 27.—Walker county's rolling red hills will be the scene of the 40th renewal of the fall fox hunt and field trials of the Texas Fox & Wolf Hunting association Nov. 15-17, inclusive, it has been announced by the board of directors.

The hunt, which was held last year near Livingston, Polk county, and attracted approximately 500 sportsmen, promises this year to be bigger and better than ever. The Huntsville chamber of commerce is supervising preparations for the hunters and their hounds.

An extensive campsite, in the center of an open stretch of country ideally suited to that type of sport, has been selected. A cafe capable of feeding 2,000 persons will be installed.

The fox hunt has been an annual affair in East Texas since 1892 when the first meet was held at Hynson Springs, near Marshall.

This year's event will be known as the "John D. Rogers Memorial Hunt" in honor of Col. John D. Rogers, Galveston, who helped organize the association 40 years ago. Col. Rogers has seen the organization's membership grow from a handful of men to more than 2,000.

P. L. Sanders, Nacogdoches, will be master of hounds at the coming meet. Frank Master, Lexington, Ky., and Ee Nedblock, Tulsa, Ok., will judge the bench show to be held in connection with the field trials.

The champion fox hunting hound of Texas will be crowned Nov. 17 at the close of the elimination trials.

Jesse Carter, Fort Worth, is president of the association. Other officers include Cary Cochran, Livingston, and Fred Forman, Throckmorton, vice presidents, and J. W. Elliott, Mexia, secretary-treasurer.

Farmers Proud Of Good Cattle

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 27.—The farm depression has not dimmed the farmer's pride in good cattle, sheep, swine or horses. If he raises an animal that is better than the average, he wants the world to know about it.

Frank H. Servatius, secretary of the American Royal Live Stock Show, is authority for that statement. And Servatius produces figures to back up his contention.

When the business depression kept getting better instead of worse as the past spring and summer progressed, officials of the American Royal felt that the nation's biggest stock show would suffer as a result. But entries for the next exposition, which will be held here Nov. 12 to 19, have proved otherwise.

In the Hereford cattle class, for instance, the largest showing previously recorded was about 450 head a mark set at last year's Royal. But before the middle of October, entries for this year's Royal passed the 1,100 mark.

The fact that this is the golden jubilee of the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' association, and that extra large prizes have been posted to attract entries undoubtedly boosted the figures. But all other classes of livestock also showed marked improvement in advance entries, according to Servatius.

Roosevelt at Lincoln's Tomb

Cisco Appeal Denied

execution of the judgment," and that without let or hindrance from the trial or appellate court.

In construing the effect of the law granting the benefit of supersedeas bond, our Supreme Court in Waters-Pierce Oil Co. vs. State, 106 S. W. 326, quoted that provision of the statute which we have above set out, and with reference thereto said:

"This is plain language that cannot be construed because its meaning is as definite as could be expressed to the effect that, when the appellant or plaintiff in error cannot be enforced during the pendency of the appeal."

There being no question but what the law relative to supersedeas bonds applies in this case, this court has no alternative but to recognize the respondents' rights thereunder and hold, as we do, that the judgment of the district court has been superseded pending the results of the appeal being prosecuted in an orderly and statutory manner. To hold otherwise would, in effect, be to hold that the judgment below can be enforced during the pendency of this appeal, notwithstanding the respondents or the district committee have fully complied with the law giving them a right to supersede the judgment. The mere statement of the proposition discloses its unsoundness.

The effect of this court's granting the relief prayed for would be to exercise original jurisdiction in the case, and not appellate jurisdiction, the latter of which alone this court has. Laredo vs. Martin, 52 Tex. 554. Also it would, as to respondents, nullify the effect of the supersedeas bond and thereby deprive them of its fruits and benefits. No such power rests in either this or the trial court, and the statute, (Art. 2270) does not make this character of case and the judgment therein an exception to its operation.

Our conclusions herein are warranted and required, as we believe, by the opinions of our Supreme Court in Houtchens vs. Mercer, 29 S. W. (2d) 1031, and Waters-Pierce Oil Co. vs. State, 106 S. W. 326, and the many authorities cited and discussed in each of them.

In the second place, the power of this court to grant original writs is strictly limited by statute. Art 1823 thereof is as follows: "Said courts and the judges thereof may issue writs of mandamus and all other writs necessary to enforce the jurisdiction of the said court." Certainly under the statute and the authorities, some of which are, Gibbons vs. Ross, 187 S. W. 17; Moore vs. McLennan County, 275 S. W. 478; Duke vs. Gilbreath, 2 S. W. (2d) 324; Ford vs. State, 209 S. W. 490; Madison vs. Martenz, 42 S. W. (2d) 84; Bird vs. Alexander, 288 S. W. 606; Cleveland vs. Ward, (Sup.) 285 S. W. 1063, this court has power to enforce its jurisdiction and preserve the status quo of the subject matter of such litigation after jurisdiction is acquired by virtue of the execution of proper appeal and supersedeas bonds, but relator's application here for this injunction makes out no such case. The relator makes no showing that the jurisdiction of this court over the subject matter of the litigation is in anywise in jeopardy.

In seeking to have this court, by mandatory writ, require the defendants in the original cause "to proceed to carry out the commands of the judgment of the district court," as above set forth, the relator is, in effect, asking this court to determine the merits of the original case, and, in addition, now confirm the correctness of the trial court's judgment from which this appeal is prosecuted. This, too, without having the benefit of the statement of facts and a complete transcript. To grant such purported relief would, in our judgment, effectively destroy the subject matter of this litigation rather than preserve and enforce the jurisdiction of this court over the same.

The relator further suggests that, if law from granting the relief prayed for, that it then dismiss the pending appeal in the original suit, since it is obvious that all the questions involved therein will become moot at the expiration of the competitive football season, indicated to be about a week after Thanksgiving. Granting that the questions will become moot as contended, the proper order for this court to make would be one dismissing the case, and not dismissing the appeal. This contention is overruled.

McWhorter vs. Northcutt, 94 Tex. 86, 58 S. W. 720; Watkins vs. Huff 95 Tex., 631, 64 S. W. 682; Dallas Land Bank vs. Levee Improvement District, 263 S. W. 1103; Wichita Falls Elec. Co. vs. Huey, 246 S. W. 694.

The relator makes a further point that the proceedings to obtain the supersedeas bond are insufficient to support the same. The contention rests on the fact that, in the trial court the defendants, (respondents here), made a motion to have the trial court fix the amount of the bond, and that it was not acted upon October 1st, the last day of the August term of court, at which the original cause was tried, but was acted on the following October 4th, a day in the ensuing term. No authority sustaining this proposition is presented, and we have not found that the question has been passed upon. The right to supersede a judgment in this character of case is well established. Houtchens vs. Mercer, supra; Aetna club vs. Jackson, 187 S. W. 971. This right to supersede the judgment exists until the judgment is executed, and the trial court may be required by mandamus to fix the amount of such bond that the right to suspend the judgment may be exercised. The statute gives a certain limited time in which the losing party desiring to appeal may file either a cost bond or supersedeas bond, and we are of opinion that it necessarily follows that he is not put to an election during the term at which the judgment is rendered as to which character of bond he may file, or which method of appeal he will pursue. Hence the fixing of the amount of a supersedeas bond in this character of case is not such part of the original proceedings as that it should have been performed at the term of court when judgment was rendered. The proposition is overruled.

For the reasons assigned the prayer of the relator's application is denied.

W. P. LESLIE,
Associate Justice.

Cisco Men Display Giant Sweet Potato

Hyatt and Wood grocery company had on display in their window this morning a giant sweet potato which weighed fifteen pounds. The big yam was brought in by Robert Haveman, according to S. R. Wood. It is about the size and shape of an ordinary pumpkin.

The grocery company is conducting a "bigger potato" contest, according to J. H. Hyatt. A prize of $2.50 has been offered for the largest yam brought in before October 31.

ROSE RIVALS KING COTTON IN SMITH CO.

TYLER, Oct. 27.—King Cotton has found a serious rival in Smith county's major industries.

If he is dethroned, it probably will be by the king of flowers—the Rose, for thousands of dollars annually are added to the bank accounts of the farmers and nurserymen of this county through the sale of field-grown rose bushes and cuttings.

The native soil has been found adapted to the growth of some 80 varieties of roses. The roses are planted in rows and cultivated as cotton or grain.

The zenith of the industry will be reached this season when shipment of plants and cuttings begins. Early season forecasts are that approximately 100 carloads of rose bushes or cuttings will be sent from here to points scattered from boundary to boundary of the United States.

Chief attribute of the Smith county roses is that they are so hardy that they are able to live in the most extreme northern parts of the United States.

Their beauty is another outstanding quality. Blossoming in the open field, the buds compare with the finest of hothouse blooms.

Roses that might sell in New York City for $5 a dozen may be had here for 25 cents a dozen or less. Many Tyler merchants keep dozens of blooms on hand, receiving new supplies daily during the season, for sale to customers.

Hawk to Speak For Bullington

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27.—Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will take the stump for Orville Bullington, republican nominee for governor, it was announced here today.

The Amarillo newspaper publisher has "determined the time has come for the election of Mr. Bullington in the interest of responsibility in government," the candidate's campaign bureau here announced.

DESDEMONA

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Richardson and children spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Bowen near Comanche. Miss Dorothy Bowen who is staying with her sister and attending school here went with them.

C. B. Holmes left Friday for his home at Oltown, Okla., after a few days here on business for the Stan-olind Oil Co. Many friends will be glad to know that his son, Howard, who was just a baby when Mr. and Mrs. Holmes came to Desdemona and who is now 8 years old is making a splendid record both in school and in music. He is in the 4th grade and makes from 95 to 100 in almost every subject. He has learned to play several instruments and plays the snare drum in the band. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes have a second son, 21 months old, who is showing a musical turn, as he climbs all over the piano at every opportunity.

Mrs. C. E. Ragland visited Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stockton at Dublin Thursday.

Etherod Stover who is teaching near Lubbock returned to his work Saturday. His school opened in Aug. and closed the past two weeks for the pupils to pick cotton.

The Methodist Missionary society met at the church Monday afternoon and studied Chapter III of "Living Issues in China." The topics discussed dealt with social and family life in China. A very interesting review of Pearl Buck's "The Good Earth" was given by Mrs. R. A. Walker. Continuing the exhibit program some kodak pictures of a mission school in China and some chop sticks were inspected. During a few minutes business session, it was voted to have the cistern at the parsonage emptied and cleaned and the inside painted and foundation repaired.

Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Walker, Miss Aline Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Parks and their son, Earl, Alton Brown, W. H. Whitworth, Miss Mollie O'Rear and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bedford attended the quarterly conference at the Methodist church at Olden Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Plummer Ashburn spent the weekend at Rising Star with her mother, Mrs. Plumlee.

O. A. Kounize spent Sunday at Cisco.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bratton drove over to Gorman Tuesday for Mr. Bratton to be treated for tonsillitis.

Mrs. Plummer Ashburn was hostess at the meeting of the Wednesday afternoon club on Oct. 19th at the club house. Four tables of bridge players enjoyed a number of games at the close of which high score winners were announced to be Mrs. Obed Henslee for the members and Mrs. Wayne Stansberry for the visitors. The club house had been made very attractive by the use of autumn flowers. The Halloween motif was carried out in the tables, score pads, napkins favors and refreshments which consisted of harvest moon salad, salsines, pickle, pecan delights and coffee. Much merriment was had over the reading of each one's fortune as found in the favors. Those present were Mrs. C. E. Ragland, Earl Lane, Mattie Henry, C. C. Richardson, Obed Henslee, Aaron Henslee, A. C. Robert, Hugh Abel, Joe Merrill, Stansberry, B. F. Reeves, Claud Lee John Mendenhall, Miss Orpha Wilson.

L. F. Mendenhall and wife, of Cisco spent Sunday here with his brother, John Mendenhall and family. They had recently returned after a two months visit at their old home, Marietta, Okla.

Carroll Stover of Dallas is visiting his parents this week.

Friday night the members of the Wednesday afternoon club had their monthly party at the club house at which time the husbands and families were guests. All members assisted in furnishing refreshments and Mrs. Earl Lane and Mrs. Marion Williams were hostesses. Halloween decorations were used and the house was darkened as guests entered in costumes. Mrs. B. F. Reeves and Joe Merrill won first prizes on costumes. Mrs. Plummer Ashburn received first prize in the march-mallow contest and Joe Merrill Jr. won in the art contest which was the drawing of a black cat. Refreshments of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and coffee were served to 40 guests.

Mrs. C. W. Malby, Fred Weller, A. E. Honslee, Joe Merrill, I. N. Williams, Roy Ashburn and Roy Rushing drove down to Fort Worth Tuesday to attend the 50th anniversary meeting of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. W. E. Barron went to Fort Worth Tuesday to attend a meeting of the officers of the missionary societies of the Central Texas conference. Mrs. Barron is the corresponding secretary of the Cisco district, which is an important office.

SIMMONS BID TO BE DECIDED FRIDAY NIGHT

ABILENE, Oct. 27. — The fate of the Simmons university Cowboys in the Texas conference football race will be determined by the outcome of their game with Southwestern university which is to be played at Georgetown on Friday night. A victory means that the Ranchers stay in the fight; a loss of even a tie means they are virtually eliminated. Having already played a tie game with St. Edwards, the Purple and Gold team will be fighting for a clear-cut victory.

Coach Leslie Cranfill has continued to lay stress on the offense of his team. The Cowboys have yielded few points this year, but on the other hand have gathered only two touchdowns for themselves. Backfield injuries have no doubt slowed them to some extent, but with eight or nine backs in shape for the Southwestern game, Cranfill is letting his men know that there are no more alibis. They must do some scoring Friday night or he'll know the reason why.

Carl Pee, ace of the ball toters, seems to be in top form after two weeks of ailment and shin splints. Eugene McCollum is back doing heavy duty. Lee Vurle Andrus, whose broken leg has healed, will be available for the first time this season. Added to these mail carriers are Bud Hardman and Guy Creighton, who looked good in the win against Trinity.

The Pirates will no doubt be primed for the Cowboys who smothered them under a 53-0 defeat last year. Coach Lefty Edens of the Georgetown school was so interested in the Simmons game that he let his men go to San Marcos for a game by themselves so he could scout the Cowboys personally. At present the Corsairs hold a perfect rating in the conference and the game will be watched with interest.

Germany Will Try New Banking Plan

BERLIN, Oct. 27. — Germany is contemplating another attempt to lift herself by her own boot-straps. During the last year, the government's credit measures have mobilized to prevent the collapse of important banking and industrial concerns. Now leading financiers have completed new plans for raising funds to stimulate production and restore the liquidity of the banks.

To this end, two new agencies will be created: the Industrial Financing Institute (I. F. I.) and the Amortization Fund (Amo. K.). The former will help banks to mobilize safe assets, the latter will provide a channel for gradually wiping out assets which are not merely temporarily frozen but definitely lost.

Creation of the I. F. I. was decided on to relieve banks from trouble arising out of the large scale financial housecleaning effected by the government throughout German industry. When this housecleaning was finished, banks found themselves in possession of large quantities of shares of industrial works, which they cannot market without sustaining severe losses.

As, however, the shares of newly reconstructed concerns are regarded as safe assets, public and private banks decided to establish a new credit institution which will accept these shares as collateral. This will be the I. F. I. Its capital is fixed at 30,000,000 marks.

The purpose of the Amortization Fund is to distribute over a number of years the irreparable losses which the banks sustained during the crisis.

“MA” FERGUSON MAY SHATTER MANY RECORDS

By GORDON W. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Oct. 27. — If Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson is inaugurated governor of Texas on Jan. 17, a number of records will be broken. She will have received more votes than any other woman. She will be the first woman re-elected governor of a state. She will have enforced her candidacy twice by a supreme court ruling. She will be the first woman to move into the Texas governor's mansion three times. She will be the first Democratic candidate whose party opponent bolted. She will have attended four inaugurations. Two of them have been the inaugurations of her husband. Her two daughters are the only children of governor parents on both sides, both living. Many Ups and Downs. The ups and downs of the Ferguson, Miriam A. and James E., have formed an interesting part of the political history of Texas. Strangely enough, their races have become intermingled with national party matters. When James E. Ferguson, Temple banker and Bosque County farmer, decided to run for governor of Texas in 1914, President Woodrow Wilson endorsed his opponent, Tom Ball of Houston. Cannyly, Ferguson refrained from attacking President Wilson, then in the height of his popularity. He passed it off with the remark that the president was too busy with other matters to know personally of the situation in Texas and was badly advised by Texans in Washington. Ferguson won. Later, after Ferguson's impeachment, when he organized the American Party and became its candidate for President, Ferguson let loose the resentment he felt toward President Wilson. Cite Old Appeal. Opponents now are citing his attacks of that date in answer to his appeals for democrats not to be "boilers" from the party this year. For this year Mrs. Ferguson, Democratic nominee, is relying on the likelihood of democrats voting the ticket straight to pull her through a tight general election. Vote for Roosevelt, Garner and Mrs. Ferguson, is the slogan. Texas' peculiar primary election law has at times helped and at times hindered Mrs. Ferguson's efforts to be elected. This law gives the nomination only to a candidate with a majority vote. If none has a majority in the first primary, another is held a month later with all but the two high eliminated. A so-called "vest-pocket vote," which always goes for the Ferguson, Pa or Ma, puts them into the second primary. But then they encounter the combined opposition of a group of defeated candidates. So bitter has been the opposition that Mrs. Ferguson was the first governor since reconstruction to be seriously endangered by a republican candidate for governor. In 1924, Dr. George Butte, University of Texas professor, received approximately 284,000 votes on the republican ticket, and Mrs. Ferguson beat him by only 127,000. This year the republicans again are making a strenuous campaign with Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls oil man, as their nominee. Gov. Ross S. Sterling, whom she defeated for the democratic nomination by 3,333 votes, according to democratic committee count, says he really won the nomination, has bolted and is expected to support Bullington. Texas headquarters of the national democratic campaign and state democratic chairman Maury Hughes of Dallas have both issued calls to "vote straight," so seriously do they consider the situation.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

Scoutmaster In the Comanche Trail council, scouting is steadily gaining growth both in number of troops and Boy Scouts. Encouraging reports come from all parts of the council. Much activities and advancements are being realized by each individual troop, due largely to the enthusiastic planning and conscientious scoutmasters. The scoutmaster's job is to see how many boys he can give an opportunity to receive the scouting program in an adequate way. He sometimes gets very much discouraged over things, but is pepped up to continue when he realizes he has made a score by the actions and the conduct of some particular boy. Although the scoutmaster gets to cash in on some of the dividends during the life of the troop, many of the older ones now are reaping joy and benefit from seeing scouts of yesterday grown to manhood and making real participating citizens. The scoutmaster being the man who comes in direct contact with the boy, is known as the key-man in scouting. All of the set-up as far as organization is concerned is primarily for aiding the scoutmaster in getting the program over to the scouts. Our hats are off to the scoutmaster who takes his job seriously and equips himself with all possible tools that are necessary in carrying out a well rounded scout program. Gethwaite The troop was re-organized in Goldthwaite last Thursday night with Marvin Hodges chairman, R. L. Steen, Jr., O. H. Yarbrough, J. A. Palmer and M. Y. Stokes as members of the Troop Committee. The Troop Committee selected Judge James O. Marberry as scoutmaster of the troop. The troop was formerly known as troop number 17 but has been changed to 16. We wish for this troop a most enjoyable scouting year.

HAWK URGES PUBLIC STAND ON CENTENNIAL

STAMFORD, Oct. 27. — The ninety-nine local public expenditure committees federated with the West Texas chamber of commerce central committee are being urged by President Wilbur C. Hawk of the regional chamber to take action in their respective communities upon the Texas centennial constitutional amendment. In a letter to the committees and to the one hundred seventeen local directors, Hawk says: "I hope your public expenditure committee will take a public position either in favor of or opposing the Texas Centennial constitutional amendment giving to the legislature unlimited power in financing the Texas Centennial. Our Central Public Expenditure Committee has recommended opposition to this proposal amendment. Both the October and November issues of West Texas Today outline further the position of our committee with reference to this project. You will note we are favoring the holding of the Centennial celebration as a self-liquidating project, but that we are unequivocally opposed to financing it by taxation and adding further to the plight of the taxpayers. Among the advocates of the Centennial celebration by taxation, there is loose talk about the necessity of a five million dollar appropriation, which amount is about equivalent to one-fifth of the entire revenue of the state of Texas from ad valorem taxes. "In the words of the Lubbock Avalanche, 'The Central Public Expenditure committee of the West Texas chamber of commerce would be inconsistent if it preached economy in government out of one side of its mouth and extravagance, as exemplified by a costly centennial celebration out of the other.' That the growth of public expenditure must be stopped there can be no doubt, and one of the most effective ways of stopping this growth is by stopping new ways for spending money. "Although there is nothing binding in our recommendation to your local committee, we do, nevertheless, hope that your local committee will see this matter as we are seeing it, and that you will actively campaign for the defeat of the amendment." PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Oct. 27.—The combination of very simple, closefitting frocks worn with coats that are permitted a bit more fantasy and a very striking line, is one that is proving most successful. The Countess de Saab, who lives in Cairo, does her annual shopping in Paris. This year she has chosen several things you might like to hear about. One of her afternoon dresses is of brilliant black Jersela and has a band of ruffled Premito ribbon making the collar and belt, and is worn under a coat of fine black, diagonal wool that is remarkable for its widely flaring, rounded collar edged with a band of silver fox. As an extra frock to wear with this coat, the Countess de Saab has selected an afternoon dress of brilliant, black Jersela with a high waist line, slanting down in the back, and a square, openwork knitted silk yoke. Eviction Cases Worry Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27. — City authorities here have become concerned over the problem of evicting families from their homes for non-payment of rent. There were more eviction cases filed in Municipal court for the first eight months of this year than were filed during all of 1931, they point out, and unless drastic steps are taken, they fear that many families will be homeless this winter. Records in the office of Chief Justice Burt W. Griffin disclosed that 9,118 eviction cases had been filed up to Sept. 1, as compared with 9,039 cases in 1931, 7,084 cases in 1930, 4,600 in 1929, and 4,000 in 1928. Landlords have requested the Associated Charities to increase the amount of rent paid for families being given relief. Tenaha — Construction completed on Tenaha Bayou bridge on Highway No. 8.

Veteran Solon In Hard Fight

SEATTLE, Oct. 27. — Washington's veteran senator — Wesley L. Jones — will have one of the hardest fights of his career this November in the opinion of veteran political followers. Opposing him will be Homer T. Bone, Tacoma, Democratic nominee. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed a letter "to all organized labor in Washington," urging wage-earners to fight for the defeat of Jones. President Green insisted that Jones had been unfavorable to the cause of labor and cited that he voted against freeing the seaman and in favor of the sales tax. Meanwhile the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union praised the nomination of Senator Jones adding that "the wets make much of their two wet congressmen from Maine, but they gladly would have lost the Maine elections if by doing so they had prevented the nomination of the steadfast dry senator from Washington."

38 at Tarleton From Eastland Co.

STEPHENVILLE, Oct. 27. — Thirty-eight students from Eastland county are enrolled this year at John Tarleton Agricultural college, placing that county second only to Erath, in which Stephenville is the county seat. CALL of the WEST

STAN BALL accuses ASPER DELO, timber king, of having men shot who attempt to check up on his activities. Delo tells him he will see personally that he does not leave Delo's office. Ball saves DONA, Asper's daughter, from kidnapers and tells her to marry him. DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with DONA, goes with her to Three Rivers to get her father to give up his wild fight with Ball. Dudley plans to marry DONA and gets a griffinate signed. Ball is accused of killing a ranger and of a number of crimes. He is supposed to have ambushed and wounded him badly. DONA has to tell her father she is married to Dudley in order to get him to let her go. They are headed by SWERGIN. Delo's timber boss who has taken a fancy to DONA. DONA joins the hunt and is captured by Ball after attempting to shoot him. He takes her to a cave. Swergin discovers the cave while Ball is outside and captures her. Swergin starts to marry her. She starts to love Ball, but DONA steps in and saves him. He takes her with him, but lets her have her horse to go to camp. She turns it that night and Dudley follows her. He tries to shoot Ball but misses. DONA consents and agrees to marry Dudley who has been riding by himself a great deal. DONA agrees to marry him that evening. They ride out and DONA knows now that she can't go with Ball. She leaves the cave. DONA thinks Ball has left, but Dudley finds live coils. NOW ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVII DUDLEY hurried Dona from the cave. He was convinced that Ball was still using his hiding place and he suddenly wanted to be away before the cowboy returned. Dudley had not missed any of the tales told around camp regarding the prowess and temper of the killer. Dona rode silently. She let Dudley lead the way down the ridge to the Pass Creek trail. A turmoil of doubt and fear was tugging at her heart. She was afraid of what was to come. Had Stan Ball's promises to her been just a fine flourish, a touch that he had added because it suited his reckless nature? Was he still bent on breaking up the work at Three Rivers? Swergin might yet prove to be right. The roan halted suddenly behind Dudley's horse. Dona came out of her moody trance and looked around. They were not on the Pass Creek trail. Tall granite walls frowned down on them and uncut timber towered above. "I seem to have taken the wrong trail," Dudley called back with an irritated grin. "I let this dumb horse do all the picking and he must be lost." Dona smiled in spite of herself. Dudley had been riding on Folly Mountain every day for 10 days and now he had lost a plain trail. "I'll take you out," she smiled. "The roan is not such a dummy as your horse." SHE headed at once for a high point that overlooked the surrounding slope, Dudley following her willingly. From the high vantage point they could see into the valley at their feet. Dona sat in her saddle and made a careful check of what lay below them. She suddenly ceased to be interested in the last trail. Undoubtedly they were looking into Pass Creek valley, but what interested her was what she saw far down in the canyon. A road wound out from the foot of the mountain, a new road. While they watched, two trucks loaded with lumber slid down the loop of road they could see. "Know where we are?" Dudley asked impatiently. "That is Pass Creek below." Dona pointed with her quirt. "Let's get out of here and back to camp." Dudley was very evidently in a hurry to get on a familiar trail again. "Don't worry. I can take you right out," Dona answered absently. She was intensely interested in the scene below. "We better move on," said Dudley, who was not interested in new roads. He wanted to get into camp and clean up. Dona sensed a mystery; something told her that down in that valley lay the solution to the whole trouble on Folly Mountain. She was sure her father did not know about the operations on the far side of the ridge. "Let's ride down to where those men are working," she said, smiling. Dudley looked down into the canyon and frowned. "No sense in liking clear down there if you know where the trail is," he said. "It would take us hours to climb out again." Dona realized that Dudley was right. With Dudley along there would be little use in riding down into the canyon. He was still a novice and very much a tenderfoot. His freedom of movement while Ball was active must have been allowed by the cowboy. Likely, Stan Ball figured him harmless. Dona was beginning to suspect that

ASPEN

Dudley had never gotten far off marked trails. SHE headed the roan back along the mountain and soon they struck the Pass Creek trail where it crossed the divide and dropped down into the valley they had been examining. Dudley had taken the wrong direction upon coming down from the cave. "This is the trail we came up over," Dudley called up to her. There was relief and eagerness in his voice. Dona smiled back at him and set the roan at a slow trot. She had many things on her mind, while Dudley was only concerned in getting back to camp and taking a bath after a hard ride. Dudley finally pulled up beside her and began to set the pace. He cantered on ahead and left her to trail in at his heels. Dona was willing to do this as she wanted time to lay a few plans herself. She intended to find out about the work in Pass Creek. The question to be decided was whether or not she should demand an explanation from Swergin or make an investigation first. Dona rode up to the corral and slid from her horse. Malloy was there to take the roan but she did not see Dudley. Very likely, thought she, he was under a shower already. Asper was sitting out on the porch when she ran up the steps. Dudley was standing beside him. "You're slow," Dudley greeted her. He had lingered a moment for a word before changing clothes. Asper frowned at his son-in-law. He could not see anything favorable in such actions as Dudley displayed. In his honeymoon days he would have waited for his bride and walked up from the corrals with her. Dona laughed, a rippling laugh. Dona was so impossible that he was amusing. "Run along and get under your shower," she said. Dudley patted her hand and dashed off. "WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN TODAY?" Asper asked. "Didn't Dad tell you?" Dona wondered how much Dudley had said. Asper shook his head. "Dudley never sees anything. Ball could have met him and talked to him. Likely he did."

ASPEN

Dona smiled in agreement as she remembered how Dudley had missed the significance of the truck and the new road. "How far south do the Delo contracts run?" Dona asked suddenly. "To the top of Pass Creek divide," he replied. Asper's expression suddenly changed; he seemed to want to shift the conversation. "So you rode a long way," he continued. "Better stay out of the Pass Creek district. I'm not so sure Ball has left or, if he has gone, that he won't come back." "If he comes back I hope they get him," she said quietly. Asper smiled grimly. "If Stan Ball broke his little promise to you, you'd be glad to have him hang?" he said. Dona flushed and remained silent. "You women can see a lot in any hound that has the pack against him," continued Asper as he patted her arm. "I've given orders that if Ball returns and is caught he is to be brought in and taken to the county seat for trial." "And you think the men will do that?" Dona shook her head, as she remembered the mob she and Ball had faced together. "Swergin knows he is through so far as I am concerned if he lets his men get out of hand." Asper spoke in his business manner. Dona patted his hand. She knew he had done this for her. Kissing him on the cheek, she ran to her room. DONA came out after a refreshing bath bright as a mountain flower. She looked about for Dudley but he was not waiting. A little frown of impatience puckered her soft lips. "Where's Dad?" she called to Asper. "Went galloping down the hill about fifteen minutes ago," Asper answered sourly. Dona did not say any more. She knew her father was very much displeased with the way Dudley acted and she did not want to add to his displeasure. Asper did not know just the position Dudley was in and could not be expected to understand his lack of attention. Dona strolled out into the grove behind the office building. She began planning. She would not talk to Swergin but would investigate the workings on Pass Creek herself. Her father's eagerness not to discuss that district made her afraid of what she would find. But she had to know the truth. (To Be Continued)

High Taxes May Close up Church

EL PASO, Oct. 27. — Although church property is not taxed in the United States, an almost certain increase in taxes here may force the closing of the new Mexican Guadalupe chapel, completed after four years of planning and labor.

Many of the 75 residents of this Mexican colony carried stones and worked without pay to build the church. It was built on a hill after the fashion of the original Guadalupe church in Mexico City.

Now the city of El Paso proposes to pave a street through the Mexican colony. If this procedure is carried out, the colonists say, taxes and real estate values will become so high they cannot live in the vi-city and will have to move away and abandon their new chapel.

OPERA RENOVATED
PARIS, Oct. 27. — Thirty tons of scaffolding and 150 workmen will soon be removing the Paris Opera, having completed four months' work of repairing on the historical monument. The washing of the giant edifice is about completed and directors are contemplating redecoration of the vast interior.

PREDICTS EGG PRICE WILL BE DOUBLED

LUBBOCK, Oct. 27. — Eggs will more than double their August price by December, according to Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, head of the department of agricultural economics in Texas Technological college. Normally, the price of eggs almost double during this period, but this year egg prices, Dr. Ellsworth believes, may be expected to advance more than normal, due to the general stimulus following improved business conditions. This will increase the egg demand and be responsible for a relative reduction in the number of eggs in storage.

A study of prices received by Texas farmers for eggs covering a period since 1909 indicates that in 11 of 23 years the price has advanced four or more cents a dozen from August to September. October prices advanced over September four cents or more per dozen in nine of the 23 years. November prices advanced four or more cents per dozen over October prices in 12 of the 23 years, and December prices advanced over November prices five or more cents per dozen in 16 of the 23 years. In nine of the 23 years the price of eggs to Texas farmers more than doubled from August to December, and only once in 23 years did egg prices decline during this season of the year from one month to the next, and that was in 1931.

Since January, 1932, egg prices to Texas farmers have been lower than at any time since 1909. The lowest average price was last May when the price averaged a little less than seven cents per dozen. This decline has been in sympathy with general prices and the recent improvement in business will react to the advantage of eggs.

Eggs in storage this year are 30 to 35 per cent less than in 1931 and receipts at markets are about ten per cent less, while trade output of eggs in the larger markets has been only about six per cent less than last year.

Education Must Not Be Neglected

By B. E. McGLAMERY, Co. Supt.
This is no time for "back-tracking in education" in spite of the "temporary economic difficulties," Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, declared in a statement made public recently by the U. S. Office of Education, in which a school enrollment of 31,000,000 is predicted for the nation as a whole this year.

Public elementary and high school attendance will approximate more than 25,000,000 while the university and college enrollment are expected to exceed 1,225,000.

"What we do in our public schools with our children determines what our nation shall be," Dr. Wilbur said. "In spite of temporary economic difficulties, it is no time for back-tracking in education. It is more vital for us to have better education and more of it to protect us from our own ignorance and follies."

"The school teacher writes the insurance policy of democracy," says William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, Chicago. "The preservation of democracy is sacred trust placed upon the public schools by the builders of the nation, a task regarded by the teachers as their prime function in a government by the people."

"There is a special necessity for public education today, and the danger of losing many of its benefits is so great as to demand of those interested a most careful study of the

MAY SUE SCHOOL BOARD
CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 27. —Although the manual training department at Bridgeport Union high school has been abolished, E. H. Knotts, teacher in the department, insists he holds a contract to teach and reports daily at the high school. He said he would institute a suit to collect his salary unless the school board pays it.
