WICHITA FALLS COUPLE ATTACKED

Merchants Enthusiastic Over Plans for Trade Revival

SPECIALIST TO BE HIRED IN CAMPAIGN

Leading merchants of Cisco today enthusiastically undertook plans for a trade revival campaign based on a new idea of organization. The meeting held at the Palace theater, presided over by W. J. Leach adopted unanimously a plan to employ a promotional expert and underwrite a fund sufficient, in cooperation with the chamber of commerce whose aid will be sought, to pay his salary and provide a working fund. Every business firm represented subscribed to the fund and declared its determination to join hands with other merchants of the city in a movement described by Mr. Leach in his appeal for cooperation as "a case of do or quit."

A committee of five was elected to secure the proper man for the promotional job, to serve with him as an advisory committee and to carry the appeal for cooperation to the chamber of commerce. Henry Drumwright was chosen chairman of this group. Serving with him will be W. K. Johnston, W. H. LaRoque, Nick Miller, Jack Leach.

This committee was directed to get plans to functioning at once. It was urged that a meeting of the chamber of commerce directors be sought immediately so that final assurance for carrying forward the organizational plans could be had.

Plan Outline
In its broad details the trade revival plan contemplates entertainments on the streets of Cisco each week, climaxed each month by a "master" program. Experiences of other towns in this section with trade day movements has shown that these entertainments draw great crowds of people, and it was the spirit of the merchants this morning that since Cisco has started late the forthcoming campaign should be put over in extra large fashion. Details of the campaign will be left to the committee and the man to be secured for full-time work. The immediate problem is to secure the proper man and the committee was directed to get busy with this question at once.

Fully eighty per cent of all merchants who attended the meeting this morning were present and on time at 10 o'clock, Mr. Leach said. He declared that this was an evidence of the interest that was being taken. He told the merchants that Cisco must get busy now. Unless the merchants and the chamber of commerce do so there is no use trying anything else, he said. The cooperation that is given the present movement and its success will determine whether or not Cisco business men have the energy and will to make up for the loss of time and extend their trade territory to its rightful limits, he declared. "It's a case of do or sit down," he said.

Determined Spirit
The spirit of the assembled merchants and their determination to act was the most evident feature of the meeting. Many suggestions were presented during the discussion of the campaign, but there was a unity of purpose that clearly assured that the business men were in earnest and determined for once to do something in behalf of the commercial prosperity of the city.

It was pointed out that there would be those who would refuse to cooperate and others who would require "prodding" but the paramount idea was clearly put across "prodding" and that difficulties should be expected. With the proper man working from Monday morning to Saturday evening these difficulties can be overcome and the fundamental idea of the campaign clearly established. That idea, or purpose, the merchants were made to understand, is not immediate individual profits, but the raising of the general level of trade activity, the bringing of large crowds of visitors from the rural sections at regular intervals, and the recovery of natural trade territory that has been slipping away through the trade extension activities of other cities.

In Wake of Forest Fires

night. Lower right are Mrs. Alfred Jackson and her daughter, Lavinia, shown at the right, who ran a mile before the racing flames, taking turns carrying the baby, Marvin Jackson, 10, seen at the right, guided a car through the fire to safety, saving the lives of Mrs. Pardee and a one-day-old baby.

DR. H. SEALE WILL SUCCEED DR. CARLISLE

Dr. M. C. After graduating from the Baylor school, Dr. Seale spent three years in the U. S. army medical corps, graduating from the army medical school at Washington, D. C. He was an intern at the Fitzsimons general hospital, Denver, Colo., and followed this experience with a year of resident work in Denver.

2,000 ATTEND LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

BRECKENRIDGE, Sept. 10. — More than 2,000 persons from Breckenridge, Albany, Cadizo and surrounding towns attended the Labor Day celebration sponsored by the Breckenridge chamber of commerce, held at Lake DeLafosse Monday afternoon.

A water carnival featured the afternoon's entertainment. Chamber of commerce officials were enthusiastic over the success of the program. Plans will be made next year for a similar Labor Day attraction, John Z. Martin, secretary, announced.

Jack Farleigh, professional water clown of Cisco, donated his services during the afternoon. His diving and swimming antics kept the huge crowd amused during the entire program.

The high school band, under the direction of J. C. Burkett, presented two concerts during the afternoon.

The boat race was won by Theryle Knox of Breckenridge. He was awarded a year's dues in the DeLafosse club.

In the terrapin race "997," entered by employees of the Humble Oil and Refining company, placed first. An exhibition of horseshoe pitching was given by a delegation of Wichita Falls fans, including the present state champion and runner-up.

Probably the greatest interest of the crowd was centered on the swimming events of the day. The division of the program was in charge of Frank Hicks, Y. M. C. A. director. Prizes to first place winners were given by local department stores.

Seven swimming events featured the day's program. In the junior boys' division, Billy Webb, Breckenridge, was high point man with 20, winning the 30 yard free style and the 30 yard back stroke.

MASS MEET FOR COLLEGE EMPHASIZED

Business and professional men of Cisco today added their appeals to the people of Cisco to demonstrate their interest in Randolph college by attending the mass meeting to be held at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium this evening in behalf of the school. Dr. Lee Clark, new president of the institution, and Dr. John W. Tyndall, head of the Bible college, operated in connection with the school, will be the principal speakers on the program.

The meeting will not discuss finance. No pledges will be asked and no collection taken. Speakers will devote themselves to explaining the plans for the school next year, its program and its goal in order to familiarize the public with the school.

Dr. Clark and Dr. Tyndall, both educators of renown, are speakers of great ability and their addresses will be full of interest on a subject that is of great importance to Cisco and to everyone who is concerned with the future of the college.

Collins Asks Support
J. J. Collins, president of the chamber of commerce, issued a statement this morning in which he declared that the interest which the people of Cisco show in the school will determine whether or not Randolph shall be able to thrive. Only by the sanction of a united Cisco, he said, can Dr. Clark and his associates accomplish the success that is expected of them. He urged the citizens to express this interest by their attendance at the mass meeting this evening.

The following statements were made by other business men:
In common with other business men, I wish to urge the citizens of Cisco to attend in large numbers, the meeting at the Cisco high school auditorium tonight, and by our presence, prove to Randolph college, our loyalty to that institution.
P. P. SHEPARD

Sincerely hope that Randolph college can be put on a going basis by which much good can be accomplished for the youth of this and other communities.
A. SPEARS

We with many other people of this community who are interested in seeing Randolph college succeed, believe that a wise decision was made by selecting Dr. Lee Clark as president, whom we know is a man of unquestionable character and a Christian gentleman, together with the assistance of the present faculty we believe they will succeed.
EUGENE FORD

A live and enthusiastic crowd at the meeting tonight to greet the new president will be one of the best things Cisco can do to assure a good year at Randolph next year. United effort means much at this time.
E. P. CRAWFORD.

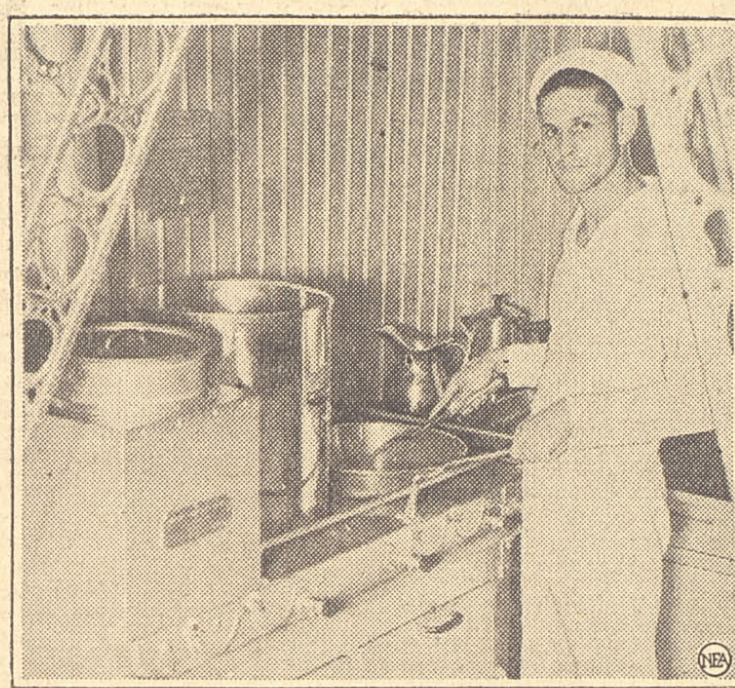

I think the securing of Dr. Lee Clark to head Randolph is the greatest move the college ever made. He has the confidence of all parties, which assures the united support of the people of Cisco. Everybody be out for a rousing pep meeting tonight.
H. S. DRUMWRIGHT.

It is my opinion that Randolph is a promising future, and it is up to the citizens of Cisco to put things over by 100 percent support of the institution.
LEON MANER.

I feel like every business man and his wife ought to attend this meeting tonight to inspire confidence in the reorganization program for Randolph college.
W. K. JOHNSTON.

Cisco now has an opportunity to build a junior college that will mean much to the community, and all citizens should join hands to make a good thing. A rousing pep meeting will give things a good start.

NATIONS ARE RETICENT ON AVIATION DATA

GENEVA, Sept. 10. — Publicity of all information relative to commercial aviation promises to be one of the hardest problems of the 1932 general disarmament conference. In spite of all of the efforts, both of the League's preparatory disarmament commission and of the League itself, it has been impossible to find any basis of agreement on this point. Even the United States, which took the initiative in making public the present status of all its armaments is known to be opposed to opening all of the secrets of its commercial aviation.

The question is considered a particularly grave one in Europe owing to the vulnerability to aerial attack of virtually every nation.

Central Powers
In the case of the Central Powers, that are not allowed a military aviation under the peace treaties, there is nothing to prevent them from building up a commercial aviation along the most extensive scale.

This, it is declared, could be converted overnight into a military aviation that would entirely upset the supposition that these powers are unarmed and incapable of attack.

As it is generally conceded that aviation will probably be the most important armament in "the next war" League members recognize that a disarmament convention that does not take into account the status of commercial aviation would create an entirely false idea of reduction of armaments.

Seek Information
In order to advance the question as far as possible before the disarmament conference meet, the Secretariat has just requested all nations to notify it on what basis each prefers to have the question handled.

It is conceded that all that can be demanded is that each nation submit to the League information relative to its commercial and private aviation.

This is pointed out could be done in three different ways: first in the disarmament convention itself; second, in an international convention entirely outside of the disarmament convention; third, by bilateral treaties.

Miss Gould Arrives Safely, Airgram Says

In an airgram message to her mother, Mrs. Ida Kennon, Miss Helen Gould tells of her arrival safely at Chicago from Kansas City by airplane. The message, which was written aboard plane, at an altitude of 6,000 feet, states that the plane was sailing at a speed of two miles a minute, but one could scarcely tell they were in motion. Continuing Miss Gould states: "Lunch was just served, consisting of cheese and chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, coffee, cake and a fruit dessert. At one o'clock, p. m., each of the passengers were furnished a copy of the Kansas City Star of today."

The airgram enables passengers to write to friends while en route and aboard plane.

COTTON FIGHT NARROWS TO TWO MEASURES

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. — Prospective cotton legislation in the Texas legislature narrowed today to a sharp fight between proponents of the Huey P. Long plan for planting no cotton next year and a compromise senate bill limiting planting to a third of the tilled soil.

The compromise bill was sponsored by Sen. Walter Woodward of Coleman, Sen. Oliver Cunningham of Abilene, and Sen. Clint Small of Wellington. Woodward and Cunningham have had rival bills.

A proposal to report out the compromise bill brought Long forces in to quick action. Mrs. Margie Neal, the senate's only woman member, at once called for a recommendation that the senate sit as a committee of the whole and hear from the people. Sen. W. E. Thomason, of Nacogdoches, another Long plan supporter, wanted to know who wrote the new bill. Woodward explained he did assisted by Cunningham and Small.

Meanwhile a graduated tax on cotton to bolster and acreage reduction law was urged today by former Gov. James E. Ferguson. Such a tax would support a bill restricting the 1932 crop to a third of this year's cultivated land, Ferguson declared in the Ferguson Forum.

He urged a levy of 10 cents a bale on the first five, a dollar a bale on the next five and $10 a bale on all over 20 bales.

TEXAS CROP THIRD OF WHOLE

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. — Texas' part of the 1931 cotton crop is nearly a third, federal estimators reported here today. They placed the Texas crop at 5,094,000 bales and the nation's crop at 15,685,000 bales.

Last year Texas' crop was more than a million bales less, being 4,038,000 bales.

The condition of the Texas' crop was estimated to be 67 per cent of normal, with a yield of 154 pounds to the acre indicated. Abandonment since July was set at only 1.7 per cent of the 15,852,999 acres planted in cotton this year.

Death Penalty Is Assessed Negro

BEAUMONT, Sept. 10. — The death penalty was given Charlie Grogan, negro, here today for criminally assaulting a 20-year-old girl. The jury deliberated 30 minutes.

Grogan was convicted of driving off the girl's escort with a shotgun and assaulting her on a lonely road near here July 21. He was identified by the girl.

Miss Allred Free To Support Appeal

DALLAS, Sept. 10. — Miss Beulah Allred, Woman's Christian Temperance union worker who was once jailed for her anti-liquor activity at Fampa, arrived here today on furlough from the state insane asylum at Wichita Falls.

She has been released to prepare for a hearing October 12 at Texarkana in the court of civil appeals on her appeal from the ruling of the Raines county court holding her insane.

"It looks like any one who tries to fight bootleggers is really insane, so they are right about that much of it," she said. "That's my only plea of guilty."

RIFT BETWEEN PRESIDENT AND FARM BOARD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. — A widening rift is developing between President Hoover and the federal farm board.

So noticeable is the feeling that Hoover is acting independently in an effort to find some solution for the wheat and cotton problems. From the welter of conflicting remedies there developed today under the president's security a program of expanding markets and credits to avert the depressing surpluses.

This new program was being shaped by Chairman Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board while still tentative it contemplates banking help to enable cotton growers to get through the period of low prices by selling cotton on long term credits in the export fields.

Senators, representatives, bankers, brokers and government officials have visited the white house the past three days to aid Hoover's study of the situation but not one farm board member has been summoned or has put in an appearance voluntarily.

Contracting on the cotton situation since his return from Camp Rapidan Tuesday.

ROTARY HEARS NEW PRESIDENT OF RANDOLPH

Dr. Lee Clark, president of Randolph college ate his first meal as a citizen of Cisco with the Rotary club when he appeared before that club today noon as its principal speaker. He is not a stranger to Rotary, he said, having been associated with the movement for 12 years.

Introduced by E. P. Crawford, he spoke of the significance of Randolph as a college of the character which is coming to be recognized as the only solution for the problem of over-crowded universities and larger schools, and besought the support of Cisco in doing his part toward making the school an asset rather than a liability as quickly as possible. He said that he had gladly come to Cisco in the confidence that the city was united in a desire for his services and declared that he came with the prime purpose of trying to give the people of Cisco and the supporters of Randolph college just the type of service they desire.

Frank Reynolds, treasurer, delighted the club with two vocal numbers to which he was forced to add an encore. He was accompanied by Miss Mattie Lea Kunkel, club pianist.

Mr. Crawford, with the consent of President Henry Drumwright named Edward Lee, O. J. Russell, R. L. Fowler and E. A. Butler as a committee from the club to work with other civic committees in promoting the Boy Scout budget drive. To take care of past indebtedness and provide for next year's budget Cisco will be asked to raise $1,100 as its share of the Oil Belt Council budget, he said. He pointed out that the Rotary club should be vitally interested in the Boy Scout movement because of the club's insistence on boys' work as a prime object of its activities.

The mass meeting at the high school tonight in the interest of Randolph college was advertised as a matter of great concern to Cisco people by J. J. Collins and F. D. Wright. Full attendance of Rotary club membership was besought.

SCOUR COUNTRYSIDE FOR ATTACKERS.

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 10. — An available city and police forces are scouring the countryside today for two negroes who late last night attacked Miss Vera Smith, 23, Wichita Falls young woman, after shooting her fiance, Ed Nodurt, 28, of Fort Worth, through the neck.

The couple were surprised by the negroes as they were sitting in a car on a quiet street in the residential part of the city, when the negroes approached from the rear one of them covering the couple with a gun. Nodurt attempted to start the car and the black fired striking Nodurt in the neck, shattering a vertebrae. The negroes then held the gun on the girl, taking her some distance from the car where she was assaulted. They took an engagement ring from her which was given her last Saturday night by her fiance.

After being freed by her assailants the girl rejoined Nodurt in his automobile and drove him to a hospital where she collapsed. Attendants stated he cannot recover.

REVISION OF CREDIT BUREAU PROGRESSES

Organization of the Cisco credit bureau upon a new ideal of credit control is progressing satisfactorily under the direction of J. C. Lacey of the state association.

The new credit ideal, as Mr. Lacey has explained and which is being exemplified in the new methods of bureau organization here, contemplates a mutual benefit between the creditor and the purchaser whereby the credit field may be worked to its fullest extent and at the same time intelligently. Under the new system, Mr. Lacey points out, the consumer will be able to budget his purchases and keep within his means. His credit record, instead of being based upon a "black-listing" idea, will be based upon the ideal of service so that he will want his record transferred to any other town where he expects to locate because it will mean advantage to him in obtaining necessary credits immediately.

Telegrams from Temple, Waco, Fort Worth and other cities have been received congratulating the Cisco bureau upon the steps it has been taking for reorganization, Mr. Lacey said.

The benefit the merchant derives is in being able not only to prevent "over-selling" a prospect but in helping him to buy at advantage through the use of credit and thereby stimulate business where it has been neglected.

Fuller explanation of the workings of the new system will appear in the Daily News, Mr. Lacey announced.

Car Dealers, Car Accessories Dealers and Garage Men MAKE STATEMENT OF CREDIT POLICY

The opinion seems to be that our "Credit Record" is determined by what we are worth. That was the old fashioned way, when merchandise and service was sold on a margin of profit and permitted adding the collection costs. Today the merchant's business record is filed with the wholesalers Credit Association and his personal record is filed along with that of all other individuals in the local Retail Credit Bureau. Our personal record is "made by living within our means" and "paying as agreed." We are not "rated." We make our own record. The Bureau keeps it.

The undersigned have agreed in the future to fill out the information blank (listed opposite) on each customer—and to inquire about the condition of each new applicant.

Each customer may take this chart and see just where it will be necessary for us to make the check.

In order to help other merchants and professional men stabilize Credit control—and help you from getting into a financial rut, WE must, of course, list with the Bureau the amount you owe, that is past due—so it can be filed with what you owe other merchants and your contract accounts. In this way we will not over-sell you, and can help you keep a good record.

Before listing the indebtedness ample time will be given each customer to make arrangements to pay. We hope some can pay on account and that others can pay all.

If you cannot pay—make some arrangement—At the end of a reasonable period we will inform the Bureau of your action—and your record will be written by the way you pay, or have agreed to pay the old account and the way you pay your future open accounts.

We assure all our prompt paying customers that our experience will be listed with the Bureau in accordance with the Chart listed opposite. For those that have had sickness or financial reverses and could not pay as they intended, but have made arrangements to pay, we will, of course, check (x) "Paying as Agreed."

This will enable you to secure accommodations when necessary, and you can take pride in your own record. When giving references say our record is filed with the Credit Bureau.

We realize that some of our customers have had sickness and reverses on account of unemployment or crop conditions. Most of these customers have already come in and made some agreeable arrangements. We hope that those who have not—will do so—that we may be in a position to help you. Those that are heavily indebted, come in and tell us your troubles and we will arrange to have a representative of the Credit Bureau help centralize or pre-rate your payments to all your creditors. It is YOUR record that we want to help you with—You make it—The Bureau keeps it.

REMARKS:

Now You Can Have STAINLESS Vicks VapoRub

Your Same Vicks... Only Color Removed... Same Formula Same Price

HERE'S real news! Science has found a way to remove the color from the world's famous treatment for colds—without altering the time-tested formula an iota! It's your same Vicks—just all chance of stain gone!

Why 26 Million Jars Are Used Yearly—For twenty-five years Vicks VapoRub has been the mothers' reliance—the family standby for cold troubles. Like nothing else Vicks acts externally—without the risks of "dosing"—direct to the affected area—by stimulation and inhalation—2 ways at once.

In Golden Amber or Stainless White—Now your druggist has Vicks in the original amber or the new stainless white form—as you prefer it. It's the same dependable Vicks . . . same time-tested ingredients, compounded in the same exclusive Vick way—at the same price.

Vicks Now In Two Forms---as you prefer it

For a generation an especially selected amber petroleum has been used as the base of Vicks, because we found no white or "stainless" base of satisfactory melting point and viscosity that would permit the gradual, long-continued vaporizing action that is distinctive of Vicks. Through the perfection of a process which removes the natural color, without otherwise affecting its properties, Vick Chemists have at last made Vicks VapoRub possible in white, stainless form, for those who prefer it.

Community Fairs Now Order of Day in Eastland County

SERIES WILL FINISH WITH COUNTY FAIR

The series of one day community fairs is now the order of the day. Fairs are being held this week at Reagan, Dothan, Alameda and Colony. Fairs next week will be as follows:

Elm 14th, Nimrod 15th, Scranton 16th, Flatwood 17th, Pleasant Hill 18th, Carbon 18-19, Rising Star 18-19, making seven for this week. These will be followed by the county fair at Eastland September 23-24-25-26th.

The state fair at Dallas will open October 10 where the county exhibit will be shown. Both boys and girls clubs exhibits will be shown as well as a large number of individual entries. First prize for county exhibit at Dallas this year is $350.00 and that is the place that Eastland county is working for.

Anyone wishing a copy of the Eastland County Free fair catalogue and premium list will receive a copy on request to Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary Eastland chamber of commerce. Dr. Tanner is making all of the community fairs and handing out premium lists.

A department not listed in the county fair catalogue is that of relics in charge of Ed T. Cox. Mr. Cox wishes to obtain for his department old relics of all kinds and will appreciate hearing from those who have valuable heirlooms which he may procure for his exhibit. A side saddle exhibited at Cook and an old oxen yoke shown at Grandview have been requested for exhibition.

Boy and Girl club members who have not received a copy of the county fair premium list are requested to advise the county agent or home demonstration agent and a copy will be mailed out. In addition to the regular cash premiums trips to the educational encampment of the state fair will be awarded. Also the Eastland County Rabbit club has offered four pairs of rabbits to the boys and four to the girls club members making the best exhibits.

The County Livestock show will be held at Cisco as usual and the Poultry show at Ranger.

The following are list of awards in community fairs held near Cisco:

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

LOVE DESTROYS FEAR:—There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.—I John 4: 18.

A NEGLECTED ALLY.

Cisco consumers are not only taking their cash business out of Cisco and to rival trading centers but their credit business, as well, according to reports from the local Retail Merchants association, which says that it receives numerous requests each month from firms in Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge, Abilene, Fort Worth and other cities, for credit reports on Cisco people. As long as what we are pleased to term this depression has brought us face to face with the necessity of auditing our economic resources and accounts, we might as well face the facts squarely and ask ourselves what is the matter.

Frankly there are two ways of looking at the question. The natural attitude is to adopt the explanation of the buyer-out-of-town and blame our merchants for failure to have what the home customer wants. If such is the case it represents a severe indictment of our home merchants and their policies and abilities. People are going to have what they want and they are going to spend their money where they can get what they want. There is no way of getting around that question and they can't be blamed for the attitude. It is common to all of us. It will do no good to censure. If the merchant doesn't have the goods he might as well try to keep water in a sieve as to keep home wages in home enterprises.

The News, however, does not believe that is the cause. There is another and a psychological reason for the drift of buying power out of Cisco. There is a curiously nomadic instinct planted in the human race. It exemplifies itself in the desire of the buyer to forage abroad in search of bargains. It seldom occurs to the forager that the gas and oil he or she consumes in chasing the few-penny margin of saving will in reality make the reduced article cost much more than for what the same could have been purchased at home. Much less does it occur that by taking purchasing power away from home they are undermining home and job security, pecking away at the substance that supports them.

If we look very closely into this problem we are sure to find the woman in the case. God bless her. Women, where detail is concerned, are sharper than men. Behind the hand that rocks the cradle is a keen mind, constantly alert for advantages in making the allowance go further so that her home, her husband and her babies may enjoy to the fullest extent the social and economic comforts which the particular level of her husband's income will allow. Men do not have the energy to search constantly and afieid for savings on purchases. No matter how diligent for economy he may be in his business, when it comes to the buying of clothing, food and accessories for everyday home consumption the man is mentally and physically lazy. He buys what first comes under his nose and if he has injured his pocketbook he has saved his energy. But his wife does have the energy and, unfortunately, it sometimes leads her to neglect the fundamentally important fact that by spending the money her husband earns at home out of home she is contributing just that much to the insecurity of his employment.

Because our merchants have not taken this fact into account and sought to provide a remedy for it, they are to blame for the flow of purchasing power from the home-town reservoir. In past campaigns that have been aimed at keeping home money at home the News feels that the most important asset of all has been neglected. That asset is the civic spirit of the women of the city. They, and they alone, can make home-buying popular. The zeal with which they undertake and prosecute civic and social-uplift programs through clubs and similar associations is exemplary. The women's clubs of Cisco have contributed as much to Cisco's social, spiritual and cultural environment as associations of men have contributed in other ways. The excellence of our schools is fundamentally due to the interest of our women; the spires of our churches would be mere, dwindling match sticks but for the magic of the woman's touch, her inspiration and the constant vigor of her search for the finest and the best.

The same enthusiasm, the same consummate interest and zeal is available for the economic problems that confront us. The News feels confident that the women's organizations of Cisco would enlist eagerly in any honorable campaign that is aimed at fortifying Cisco business and commercial institutions. The crusading spirit that they apply to whatever causes they espouse is the most valuable of all potential allies of the chamber of commerce, the commercial clubs and the various organizations dedicated to the upbuilding of Cisco.

This influence should not be neglected.

OTHER OPINIONS

TEXAS STONE FOR TEXAS STRUCTURE

The postoffice department, upon representation of Cong. Buchanan, has ordered the use of Texas limestone on the construction of the new postoffice building in Ft. Worth. It is manifestly an error, from both the economic and community standpoints, to haul such materials as building stone across half the continent when materials equally as good can be obtained within a short distance of the building project. Limestone quarried in Williamson and Travis counties is as suitable for construction purposes, from the cold technical standpoint, as any similar stone quarried anywhere in the United States. It is more suitable for Texas projects, since it is near at hand and its use serves the purpose of local development which is involved in building projects of the kind, even though they are carried forward by the Federal government. Cong. Buchanan is to be congratulated upon the success of his activity in behalf of the quarry interests of his own district. Fort Worth people will be better satisfied with their magnificent new postoffice building because of the Texas materials used in its construction. — Fort Worth Star Telegram.

That a city that has natural advantages in great abundance must have cooperation on the part of its citizens and make a presentation of these advantages to those seeking industrial locations or a place to live.

A city needs advertising the same as any business. Success comes by doing things; failure comes by sleeping at the post.

The better a city is advertised, the better it will be known.

As a city is known by the way it is advertised, it should always strive to get its advantages before the world in an attractive way.

Telling the right things in the right way will attract the right attention.

DO YOU

Answer your physician and your dentist . . .
as promptly and cheerfully as he answers you.

The practice of medicine and dentistry are two noble professions. Regardless of weather conditions, time, or distance the physician rushes to the bedside of his patient.

He does not think about his own convenience or his own pleasure—everyone has heard the call for Dr. So-and-So, at the club, the dinner, the theater, the ball game or other public places.

Does it seem reasonable for the small fee that he gets (and often does not get) that he wants to be disturbed just when he is enjoying a much needed rest, an interesting show, or dinner with friends?

Do you think a small fee looks attractive to him when he is called from his warm bed to drive through the snow or mud on a cold night? No. Still your physician never fails you when you need him.

The Dentist, also, is often disturbed from his rest and pleasures by the victim of an aching tooth—And the same unselfish, willingness to serve that is found in your physician, is typical in your dentist. For our benefit, both the physician and the dentist spend years of preparation and thousands of dollars to enter either of these noble professions—And constantly engage in research and post graduate work to keep informed on the new and scientific findings that may enable them to enlarge their scope of usefulness.

Yet—in spite of their hardships, sacrifices and splendid services to mankind, the physician and dentist, as a rule, do not send out statements for their services as regularly as other professional men or merchants. Perhaps that is why their bills for service are often regarded with indifference by many who receive them.

IT is said, that the cause of many individual bankrupt cases can be traced to the hospital, physician and dentist account, because the individual had forgotten about these bills, and contracted accounts beyond his ability to pay and when the total of all his indebtedness was learned he became discouraged. It is a startling fact, the last few years that hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost to a community by individuals taking bankruptcy—each of these cases represents frozen assets on the books of the professional man and the merchant. Frozen assets is the cause of 95 per cent of mercantile bankruptcies.

The modern credit bureau is not a few bad debts—it stands for the elimination of waste—keeps records that are facts, on "us all." So the merchants will not over sell—it is a "community credit policy" that creates community credit conscience—that helps all to maintain self respect.

Your Physician and Dentist stand for elimination of waste, self respect and progress.

The experience of the Doctor, furnished the Credit Bureau must, of course, be different than that of the merchant—and the chart listed opposite was prepared for your physician and your dentist. You can take this chart and know just how he must check.

If necessary to call your medical men today—how would your past record look with him?

If necessary to call a new physician or dentist—how will he find your record, as filed by his brother doctor?

How will it look when the experience of all the merchants and professional men are compiled together?

It will be your record. You make it—The Bureau keeps it.

This space sponsored by Business and Professional Men in the interest of Better Credit.

WHEN PRECIOUS HEALTH IS CONCERNED

There is no time for uncertainty—no room for chances. Your first thought, your one thought is always for the speed and efficiency, the ability and care that an experienced and conscientious pharmacist can give you. Then—and always—his reliability and willingness proves a friend in need—his service brings relief and confidence.

It may be necessary for you to ask for an accommodation from your druggist.—How is your past record with him?

It also may be necessary to ask the druggist to cash your check. How will he find your record, as checked by other druggists, merchants and professional men?

The Druggists of Cisco, whose names are listed below, in order to help brother merchants and professional men and women stabilize credit control and economic conditions, and serve those in need of accommodations, and to enable those worthy of the convenience of a weekly, semi-monthly or monthly account, will in the future fill out the chart listed opposite, and inquire on each new applicant for an account.

REMARKS:

FORDHAM TO HAVE STRONG GRID TEAM

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Although his great line of 1929 and 1930 has been shattered by graduation, Major Frank W. Cavanaugh has bright hopes of turning out another strong team at Fordham this fall.

Cavanaugh has been coaching at Fordham for four years, during which time the New York school has advanced from a second rate team to a rank among the leading teams of the East. Fordham teams, under Cavanaugh, have been famous chiefly as defensive aggregations and during the last two years boasted one of the strongest lines in the nation, and went 17 consecutive games without defeat.

The "Iron Major" has an unusually brilliant crop of backfield men this season and may discard his previous system of scoring and then protecting the narrow margin by defensive power, in favor of a hard-running attack.

Chief losses in the Fordham line were Captain Tony Siano, selected by many critics as all-America center; "Pistol Pete" Wleniewski, an all-eastern guard, and Frank Foley, giant tackle who has returned in the role of assistant coach. Except for fullback Pieciewicz there were no important losses in the backfield.

The 1931 squad, now at work under Coach Cavanaugh, includes eight letter men—Capt. Jim Murphy, halfback; John Conroy, tackle; John Conway, fullback; John Janis, halfback; Neil Murphy, tackle; Frank Davis, center; Tip Tobin, end, and John Fisher, quarterback. In addition Cavanaugh has several experienced reserves and the 1930 freshmen team which defeated N. Y. U. 26 to 0 in a post-season charity game.

McDermott, quarterback; Pavlicovic, halfback; Prans, guard, and Danowski fullback, are the best of the new players.

Captain Jim Murphy is the leading candidate for a halfback job, with John Janis, Joe Zapustas and Edward Pavlicovic fighting for the other halfback berth. At quarterback Cavanaugh has Johnny Fisher, who directed the 1930 team, and Frank McDermott of Charleston, Miss. Johnny Conway, 1930 reserve and the sophomore Danowski are favored to win the fullback post.

Fordham again has an attractive inter-sectional schedule, but will play all except one of its games in New York. The schedule:

- Sept. 26—Thiel at Fordham.
- Oct. 3—West Virginia at Polo Grounds.
- Oct. 12—Boston College at Boston.
- Oct. 17—Holy Cross at Polo Grounds.
- Oct. 24—Drake at Polo Grounds.
- Oct. 31—West Liberty at Fordham.
- Nov. 7—Detroit at Polo Grounds.
- Nov. 14—New York university at Yankee Stadium.
- Nov. 21—Bucknell at Polo Grounds.

10 Children Survive A. L. Huntington

L. A. Huntington, staunch old settler of Eastland county who died two weeks ago at his home at Bluff Branch, west of Cisco, was 70 years of age at death, the Daily News and American were informed. His age had been reported in the News as 65.

Mr. Huntington, whom his business associates and other acquaintances described as a man "whose word was his bond," came to Texas as a boy from Indiana where he was born. He first settled in Lamar county. Fifty-six years before his death he moved to Eastland county and made his trading headquarters at Cisco from the time the city was established.

He was twice married, his first wife dying about 40 years before his own death. One child by his first wife survives. She is Mrs. Ester Carmichael, of Cross Plains.

Nine by his second wife, who also survives, are living. They are: Mrs. Ethel Davenport, of Comanche; Mrs. Lucille Simpkins, Cisco; Mrs. Alberta Burkett, of Olden; Mrs. Audie Lem, of Russellville, Arkansas; Mrs. Verdie Gossett, of Cisco; Otis Huntington, Bluff Branch; Notre, Loretta, Nadine.

ITALY PLANS CANAL TO SEA FOR MILAN

ROME, Sept. 10.—A continuous waterway from Milan to Venice, linking Italy's chief industrial center, with Adriatic shipping lanes, has been initiated by the Fascist government.

The council of ministers, presided over by Premier Benito Mussolini, has appropriated an initial sum of 46 million lire to begin the work of building the necessary canals and dams to control the waterflow of the Po river.

The waterway from Milan to Venice will stretch for nearly 200 miles and will cost more than 270 million lire. The appropriations will be spread over a number of annual budgets. The work planned for this fall and winter will use several thousand workmen for a total of more than 1,200,000 working days, thus assisting in reducing Italy's unemployment total.

The project includes the construction of a canal from Milan to the Po river, near Mount Adda, a distance of about 35 miles. From the mouth of the canal, the Po river will be regulated in such a manner that an even flow of water will be maintained through the year. This will necessitate the construction of many dams to store surplus water during the rainy seasons and to release it during dry periods.

This regulation of the Po's flow will be done over 110 miles, from Mt. Adda to Councilia. The dams and dikes will be so constructed that the river's flow will always give a depth of approximately 12 feet. The canals and river, when this work is done, will be able to handle ships up to 600 tons.

From Cavanella to Venice 130 miles of artificial canals about 35 miles long will be built. The water route ends in Venice, from which the shipping can be transferred to large vessels for all parts of the world.

Great importance is attached to the project, as it will give Milan and its adjoining factories an excellent and cheap outlet to the sea.

ers. "How did you get it, darling?"
Mark kissed her casually, squared back and said in an off-hand tone, "Oh, I hit Stone for a loan. Ran across him on the street and he gave me his check. It's good all right—no need to worry about that. Stone's a pretty good fellow even if he does seem a trifle stiff some times."

The bright flush faded slowly from Norma's cheeks. She drew away and one hand unconsciously rose to her throat.

"Stone?" she asked a little weakly. "You mean—Hollis Stone?"
"Sure. Why not? He knows he'll get his dough back all right. Besides he's a sort of relative. Why shouldn't I borrow from him?"

"Why—why there's no reason of course—"
"What's the matter, Norma? You act as though I'd done something wrong! I thought you'd be glad to hear we can get out of this dump. You're acting darned funny about this, it seems to me!"

Desperately she tried to cover her embarrassment. "Oh, no—I didn't mean—of course it's all right! I'm glad you got the money, Mark. I'm awfully glad. If we're starting in the morning I ought to start packing right away."

She turned and began fumbling through bureau drawers.

"Wait a minute!" Mark was beside her, slipping an arm about her waist. "See her, sweetheart, I was a bear tonight at dinner. I'm sorry. Honestly, I am. I didn't mean to be cross or hurt your feelings. Say you forgive me—please, Norma!"

His tenderness was a thousand times dearer because an hour earlier she had been so tormented, so haunted by fears she would not even name to herself.

"It's all right, Mark. Of course! There isn't anything to forgive. Oh, my darling—oh, I do love you!"

They were happier that night than they had been for a long while.

At 10 o'clock next morning Mark and Norma boarded "The Sentinel," fast train that would transport them to Marlboro in 24 hours.

There was no private comfort on this trip. They rode in an ordinary Pullman. The car was only half filled and no one sat across the aisle. Norma's hand dug its way into Mark's protecting fingers. The slight pressure in response was a momentous secret.

Above the droning of the train wheels Norma's heart was singing. "I'm glad we're going back, Mark."

"Guess I am too, kid. Had fun at the Springs though, didn't we?"
"Oh, yes. It was wonderful!"

She would have agreed to anything Mark said that morning. Norma was radiant. Such plans for the future. Such confidence those plans would succeed. Mark was going to find a job. She would work hard too, keeping their tiny apartment. Cooking and cleaning. Economizing. They would pay back their debts and begin saving. They had talked for hours planning all this.

Nothing could come between them now. Mark was her husband. He would stand squarely on his own feet and she would help him. It was as though they were making a fresh start and this time they would start in the right way.

No one was looking toward them. For an instant the girl's cheek brushed Mark's.

"I'm so happy!" she whispered. Norma had failed to take into account obstacles the strength of which she did not even dream.

Mystery Bars Worry French

JUAN-LES-PINS, French Riviera, Sept. 10.—Mystery bars, like American speakeasies, are puzzling French revenue officers along the Riviera.

The new bars are usually established in private houses. The proprietor acts as bartender, but this position is often filled by the most skillful mixer among the guests.

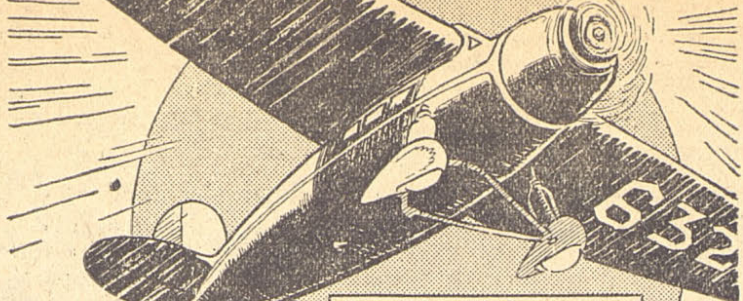

As the bars are not run for profit they have been strongly criticized by proprietors of drink emporiums who has seen their profits decline during an already bad season.

The worries of the professional bar proprietors are shared by revenue officials, who realize they will lose heavily if private drinking becomes too fashionable.

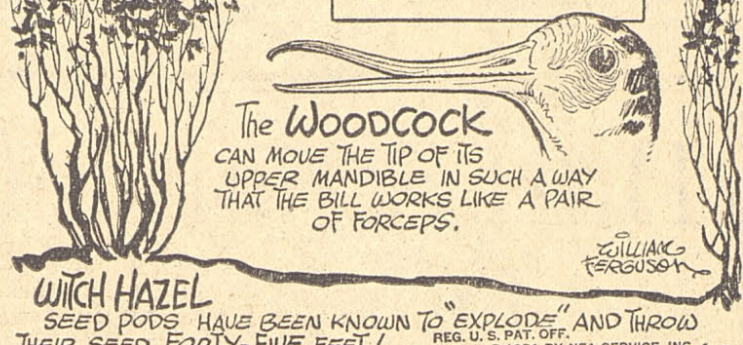

Like most fads on the Riviera, this one is said to have come from Hollywood.

GUILTY LIPS

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary in a law office, marries Mark Travers, son of F. M. Travers, millionaire real estate dealer, after the father has sworn to cut Mark off without a penny if the marriage takes place. Norma has known Mark only a few weeks, did not know during the courtship that he was a millionaire's son.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Christine Saunders, with whom Norma shared an apartment, and Bradley Hart, Chris' employer, are witnesses at the wedding. Before this Norma has refused to marry Bob Farwell, young lawyer of whom she is fond as a friend.

Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon. He and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs, where the young man takes delight in surrounding his bride with expensive luxuries. He introduces her to Holms Stone, an old friend, and it is evident from the girl's discomposure that she has known Stone before. For some reason she also fears him. She tries to confide in Mark but loses courage. One night Mark joins a card game and does not return until 3 a. m. He admits he has lost all his money. The young couple have only what is in Norma's purse. Next day they face the problem of getting enough money together to pay their hotel bill and return to Marlboro. Mark wires his mother and waits impatiently for a reply. Just before dinner the following evening a bell boy hands him a message.

telegram!" she exclaimed. "It's—it's come!"

A crumpled bit of paper showed in Mark's clenched hand. So angry his face looked that he seemed scarcely to comprehend her words.

"The old skinflint!" Mark was muttering. "The damned, miserly old coon! I'll get even for this—I'll show him if it's the last thing I do! He'll be sorry for this!"

"Tell me what's happened, Mark."

"For the first time the young man seemed aware of what she was saying."

"You shouldn't be out here, Norma," he told her. "It's cold. Look—you're shivering. You shouldn't have come out here without a wrap."

"But I didn't know where you were. What is it, Mark? Is the telegram—I mean didn't the money come?"

Swiftly in half a dozen quick motions, Mark had torn the sheet of paper into bits. He flung them to the breeze. There were hard, ugly lines about his lips as he said, "So much for F. M. Travers and his lousy millions! I wish I knew how he got hold of that telegram I sent to Mother—"

His expression told the story. All arbitrary refusal of a loan from his father. Probably insulting references to the last meeting between Travers and his son. Blatant "I told you so." No wonder Mark's countenance was stormy.

Norma sought his arm. Fearfully, sympathetically she raised her eyes to his.

"It doesn't matter," the girl said softly. "We'll find some other way, darling. We—we've each other—"

He was not listening. A sharp wind caught the fragile drapery of her bodice, barring her arm.

"Here," Mark said roughly, "you can't stay outside any longer. You've got to get indoors!"

He half-led, half-pulled her up the steps and through the entrance of the Inn. A mirror showed how tangled and disarranged her hair had become. The girl caught the reflection and drew back.

"I can't go into the dining room," she told him, "looking like this! I'll have to go upstairs and fix my hair. Will you wait here? It won't take five minutes."

Instead Mark said he would come with her. They crossed the lobby, and ascended to their rooms. Once there Mark slumped to a chair and sat staring at the floor. Norma glanced at him, decided against interrupting his mood and went to the mirror to repair her coiffure.

A few moments later she told him, "I'm ready now!"

"You'd better go down and eat. I don't want anything."

"Oh, Mark—you can't go without eating. You'll be ill! Come on. We can talk things over in the dining room. We'll find some other way to get the money!"

Her words set him off on a new tirade. He was like a small boy, petulant and willful. He would not eat. He broke into violent denunciations of his father. He got to his feet and stormed about the room like a caged animal. What business did his father have intercepting a telegram addressed to his mother? Someone was to blame for that and Mark would just like to get his hands on the guilty one. One of the servants, doubtless, set to watch and pry! What he wouldn't do if he could find out who had done it!

It required half an hour's coaxing before Norma could persuade him to go to the dining room. Throughout the meal Mark sulked blackly. The girl had never seen him in such a mood.

Every attempt failed to cheer him and presently Norma gave up her efforts.

As they left the dining room Mark stopped at the check stand for his hat, announcing he was going out for a time. There was no invitation for Norma to accompany him. Just the announcement.

"But Mark—"

"Oh, don't stand here and start arguing! All I said was that I'm going out. Nothing wrong about that, is there? There are plenty of people around you can talk to. Why don't you go in and dance? I won't be gone long."

Pride kept her lips from trembling. She left him immediately but she did not go to the ball room on the mezzanine where the dancing was in progress. Instead she returned to their rooms, took off the chiffon dinner gown and hung it away. She got into the old blue negligee, curled up in her favorite chair and rested her head in her arms.

A dozen times she rehearsed the arguments. Mark didn't mean to be cross. She mustn't blame him. He would be back in a few minutes now, apologetic and with kisses to make up for every moment of unappreciation. Mark loved her and with that love nothing in the world could make any difference.

It was all to happen very nearly as she had anticipated. Less than an hour after he had left her the door opened and Mark strode in.

"Well, I got it!" he announced dramatically. Mark was not angry now. There was triumph in his voice.

Norma sprang to her feet. "You've got—what?"

"Five hundred berries! Enough to pay our bills and get back to Marlboro." "Told you I'd get it, didn't I? Well, it's here—right in the good old wallet!" He patted the left-hand pocket of his vest. "Five hundred berries!" he repeated. "We're pulling out of her first thing in the morning!"

"Oh, I'm so glad! I knew everything would come out all right, threw her arms about his shoulder

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX
 Norma stepped from the elevator car and searched the lobby with a swift glance. Cliff Halloran, in golf clothes, a bag of clubs slung over one shoulder, came toward her, smiling.

"Good evening, Mrs. Travers. Well, if my luck lasts I'm going to show up that husband of yours—"

The girl interrupted. "Have you seen Mark? I've been looking for him."

Halloran shook his head. "Just got in," he told her. "Haven't seen anyone. There's a gang outside but I didn't notice Mark among 'em. Is there anything I can do for you?"

Norma thanked him, said there was nothing. It wasn't important. Only that she was ready for dinner now and Mark had come downstairs ahead. Probably she'd find him on the mezzanine.

Halloran nodded and moved away. Norma went up the stairs, to the right, which led to the mezzanine lounge. Several strangers were there writing but Mark was not in sight. She spoke to an acquaintance, returned downstairs.

Where could Mark be? She had promised to join him in 15 minutes. Of course he was worried because the telegram had not come. It was this that made her anxious.

The orchestra was playing a new Cuban fox trot. Strains of the rhythmic, seductive harmony floated out into the lobby. A group of women in pastel frocks and men in dinner clothes was entering the dining room. Norma looked up at a huge wall clock and saw the minute hand on the dial shift from seven to eight minutes until seven o'clock now.

She turned her back on the dining room and stepped through the wide doors leading to the street. The crowd Halloran had spoken of had disappeared. Norma wore no evening wrap and a chill breeze whipped the chiffon back from her shoulder.

There was no one on the broad porch which ran the width of the Inn. Norma walked to the end overlooking a small park. She looked down and saw a dark figure pacing along the path.

"Mark!" she called. "Oh, Mark!"

The figure stopped. It was too dark for her to see his features but of course it was Mark. She would have known that walk anywhere. He hesitated, then came toward her.

Norma ran down the steps and met him at the corner. "I've been wondering what had become of you—!" she began. Then she met his eyes and the words broke off. Even before he spoke the girl knew what had happened. "The

FAT MEN
 I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 4 weeks and cut out pastries, sugar and fatty meats—

You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge of activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 4 weeks. After you have taken one bottle the old rim chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and going—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and probably live years longer. Get Kruschen at Moore Drug Co., or any live drugist in America with the understanding that you must be joyfully satisfied or money back.

W. R. Daniels of Richmond Hill, N. Y. writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen, I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25 per cent more active, mind is clearer, eruptions have disappeared. Am 46 years old and feel 20 years younger. I get up feeling 100 per cent. Kruschen sure is great!"
