Neff's Protest of Gilbert Overridden by Commission

HAD CHANCE TO NOMINATE SAYS SMITH

AUSTIN, March 10. — "Victor Gilbert, of Cisco, will take office as assistant director of the motor division on March 15," was the only reply at railroad commission offices here today to Former Gov. Pat Neff's nomination of Abe Gross, of Waco, for the post.

Neff protested to the commission yesterday that the appointment was one allotted to him.

Commissioner Len Smith said that Former Gov. Neff knew of the vacancy for two weeks, that its filling was passed over at the regular meeting a week ago and filled at the regular conference Monday.

Neff did not attend that conference. "He made no nomination until after the place had been filled," said Smith.

Chairman Terrell declined to enter into the controversy. He walked away when the question was brought up by newspapermen.

ACCEPTANCE NOT ANNOUNCED

Victor B. Gilbert said here yesterday that he has not accepted the appointment tendered him and that he will not make any announcement regarding the post until he has had a chance to confer with the railroad commissioners at Austin.

Concerning Former Gov. Neff's contest of his appointment Gilbert when informed that the protest had no personal implications, refused to make any comment.

As Man Hunters Gathered to Spur Lindbergh Search

Some of the nation's outstanding police executives are shown here as they gathered at Trenton, N. J., for a conference called by Governor A. Harry Moore to discuss ways and means of apprehending the kidnapers of the baby son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The meeting was attended by police executives, private detectives, governors and department of justice representatives. Left to right are, Police

NO DECISION IS TAKEN IN CISCO CASE

The state executive committee of the Interscholastic League, considering the recommendation of the executive committee of the district No. 3 that Cisco be suspended for one year for alleged infraction of League rules at Austin yesterday, deferred decision on the question until it had had time to make a thorough investigation.

Quoting Mr. Bedichek, a member of the committee, the Cisco representatives said upon their return that it might be two or three months before a decision is reached. Cisco was instructed to go ahead with arrangement of schedule for next season as if nothing had happened. "If we decide against you," they were told, "the games you have scheduled will be cancelled."

FATHER DIES SEEKING FOOD FOR BABIES

PORT ARTHUR, March 10.—Four small children learned today from their widowed mother that their father died last night trying to provide them food.

On the coldest night of the winter, insufficiently clad, he borrowed a shotgun and shells and set out to hunt rabbits.

DENY LINDY ON VERGE OF BREAKDOWN

By BATES RANEY
U. P. Staff Correspondent.
HOPEWELL, N. J., March 10. — Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., is still missing.

That fact announced officially today, stood out still as the dominant news in a welter of rumor, fantasy and misinformation circulated on the status of the kidnaping of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh's 20-month-old son.

CHASTAIN TO CAMPAIGN FOR LEGISLATURE

C. F. Chastain, of Eastland, today announced he will be a candidate for representative in the Texas legislature from the 106th district, composed of Eastland county, a post now held by Tom J. Cunningham, and which Mr. Chastain held for two years previously. In his announcement Mr. Chastain pointed to the record of his two years in the house, recalling that he closed the debate on the famous Small river-bottom bill both when that bill was first passed by an overwhelming majority and when it was passed by a similar majority over the veto of Governor Dan Moody. He took pride in the fact that he had never missed a roll-call during his term.

COMPARISON SHOWS HIGH STANDINGS OF RANDOLPH STUDENTS AT UNIVERSITY

In a bulletin just received from the registrar's office of the University of Texas, Randolph College is given a very high scholastic ranking. The bulletin gives the result of a study of the performance of transfer students from junior and senior college to the university during the 1930-31 school year. The grades made at the university last year by every transfer student were checked and compared from three standpoints and in each comparison the students who had previously attended Randolph college made an excellent showing. Only one junior college ranked above Randolph in all three comparisons and

CISCO LAMBS PLACE HIGH AT FT. WORTH

Cisco agriculture exhibits did quite well at the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth. E. H. Varnell, vocational director at the high school, said upon his return from the exposition. The Cisco vocational agriculture club placed high in the lamb exhibits, winning second place on the best 15 lambs; third place on closed carlots and fourth on open carlots. Fifty-three lambs out of 80 taken to the show were entered.

FOURTH VICTIM IN JAIL GUN BATTLE DIES

NEW ORLEANS, March 10. — Patrolman Albert Oesorier, 30 years old, died early today, the fourth fatality in yesterday's gun battle between local police and Percy Thompson, negro prisoner.

KITTENS TO PLAY WALKOVER SATURDAY

The Randolph college Kittens, girls' basketball team, will play the Walkover Shoe company sextet at Fort Worth Saturday evening, Coach Garrett announced today. The game was arranged today.

SOUTH TEXAS CITIES REPORT SNOW TODAY

DALLAS, March 10.—The belated winter weather over Texas that brought snow today to many unfrequented spots in the southern and southwestern portions was reported moving eastward late today. Weather bureau officials predicted rain and cloudy weather over the eastern part of the state tonight.

BANDITS ROB BANK AND KIDNAP BANKER

FAIRFAX, Okla., March 10. — Two bandits robbed the First National bank here this afternoon of about $1,500, locked two bank employees in the vault and kidnaped a teller. The president, H. N. Cook, was released west of town unharmed.

OIL ASS'N PLEDGES ENFORCEMENT AID

FORT WORTH, March 10. — Cooperation of the Texas Oil and Gas Conservation association with law enforcement authorities to prosecute gasoline tax evaders and violators of production laws was pledged by association directors in session here today.

P. T. A. NEEDS MONEY FOR MILK PROJECT

The West Ward Parent-Teacher association is faced with enforced discontinuance of its program of furnishing free milk to undernourished children in the ward schools unless the finances of the association can be recouped through voluntary contributions, Mrs. Homer Slicker, president, said today. The association is furnishing 150 half-pints of whole milk daily which are given to children who are unable to obtain sufficient nourishment at home. The cost of this relief approximates $65 per month, Mrs. Slicker said.

SHADOWY ASSISTANT

The Lindberghs are having the assistance of a man listed as Morris Rosner, who has in the past been associated with persons high in the justice department. It is hinted that he supplied Col. Breckenridge with the names of Spitalo and Bliz as go-betweens with the underworld.

WACO PIONEER DIES TODAY AT 87

WACO, March 10. — Edward Rotan, 87, central Texas pioneer, and a resident of Waco for 64 years, died here at 8:30 o'clock this morning. His funeral services will be held Saturday. He is survived by four daughters, living in the east, and George W. Rotan, a son, living at Houston. His wife died last October 17. She was the first president of the Texas Women's clubs.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

A SAFE RETREAT:—Be thou my strong habitation, whereunto I may continually resort; thou hast given commandment to save me; for thou art my rock and my fortress.—Psa. 71: 3.

PRES. CAHILL AS A TEXAS BOOMER.

President M. H. Cahill of the Katy Railway system deserted New York for Texas for recreation purposes. Pres. Cahill is an optimist. He is strong for Texas. "Everywhere men of staunch hearts, clear minds, and big visions are looking confidently to the future," remarks the rail executive to a Texas correspondent. "They know that always waves of expansion come surging in the wake of slumps. Territories offering greatest opportunities profit most from the inevitable shifting of capital and population and industry." He reminded the representative of the press that "in spite of the Southwest's teeming cities, its vast farm, ranch and industrial development, it is still a new country immeasurably rich in possibilities, sufficiently proven to intrigue the most conservative, yet beckoning to all those who have pioneer blood in their veins.

All of which reads like an excerpt taken from the Texas Centennial address of Pat Morris Neff giving some of the reasons why the people of Texas should have the greatest exposition in American history in the year 1936.

MOSER AND INDUSTRIAL PRODUCT PRICES.

Vice Pres. C. O. Moser of the American Cotton Co-Operative association said in a recent interview that industrial products are 27 per cent lower, because industrial groups have learned to protect the price of their products through organization. In the past 10 years, he said, the world has discovered the power of organization, a discovery which ranks with that of steam, electricity, gunpowder or the printing press in changing world history. In conclusion he said, "think of the influence of the 800 men in the cotton trade over the lives and welfare of 2,000,000 cotton farmers before the co-operatives were formed. Then think of what you have done to correct this condition. Cotton merchants have found it necessary to reduce their margins of profit or see all cotton go to the co-operatives. They have been forced to pay more nearly the full price of that superior grade and staple which we have encouraged growers to produce."

Moreover the most notable, "though unheralded achievement of cotton co-operatives," Moser said, was reversing public sentiment and governmental policies in regard to co-operative marketing. Today, according to the vice president of the co-ops, co-operation is the national policy is soundness and wisdom recognized in the platforms of the great political parties and he makes the claim it was cotton co-operatives who convinced Southern representatives in congress and caused them to exert their balance of power. All this is very interesting. But what will be the carry-over at the close of the cotton year in July? What will be the acreage in the 10 cotton states for 1932? Will Great Britain and Germany come back as large buyers of American cotton? Will the surplus or carry-over fix the price? Really, those who are engaged in the cotton industry are facing perplexing problems.

TRAYLOR INVADES HIS OLD HOME STATES.

Melvin Traylor has as many native states as Homer had birthplaces. Away down in Texas he is known as a native son. In that dark and bloody ground known as Kentucky he is known as a favorite son. In the state of Illinois where he votes and is engaged in the banking business on a large scale he is a native son. He addressed a joint session of the Kentucky legislature on taxation. This in the wake of a mob invasion of the executive mansion of Kentucky by belligerent women who are fighting a state sales' tax. This favorite son of Texas and Illinois and Kentucky has many friends in the land of Daniel Boone who are urging him for the democratic presidential nomination. He was born in an humble farm home in Adair county in the foothills of Kentucky. Now he is an internationally known financier and should the democrats win in November his friends say that he may be secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of a democratic president. There are others who say that Col. Jesse H. Jones of Texas may take down that plum in the event of a democratic victory. Of course this is counting chickens before the hatching of the political egg.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Rep. Fritz Lanham of the Fort Worth congressional district has given a sweeping endorsement to the candidacy of John N. Garner. Fritz Lanham "grew up in the city of Austin. His father, the lamented Judge S. T. W. Lanham served as governor four years. He was a confederate soldier and the successor of Joseph D. Sayers in that office. Lanham is a prohibitionist and a churchman. He believes that Speaker Garner would make an ideal candidate for the presidency and would be swept into that high office. Thus it is that the pros of the Texas delegation are giving loyal support to Garner regardless of the prohibition issue. Rep. Sam Rayburn is coming to Texas. Robert Barker, known in the Texas political haunts of men for many years and as well known in Austin as any fighting democrats of the faith, received a letter the other day from Rep. Rayburn. Rayburn was selected by the Alamo Garner conference to represent the Garner candidacy nationally speaking and to advise as to activities here at home in the selection or naming of delegates to the Chicago convention. He is expected in Texas some time between the 15th and 20th of March when another Garner conference will be held.

Bob Barker has been secretary of the senate or chief clerk of the senate finance committee or chief clerk of the house at intervals during his active political career. He was an anti until 1922. Then the state convention was held in the city of Waco which was dominated by the pros and women delegates were in evidence for the first time. Bob as his intimates call him, was there as bold as a lion and just as aggressive as a hungry tiger. A friend twitted him on his change of front. He smiled and then said "If you can't beat 'em join 'em" is my motto. Since and as well known in Austin as any 1922 it has been the motto of thousands of democrats under the skies of Texas. In the long ago old Zach Chandler of Michigan was a famous republican leader. Indeed, he managed several national campaigns. His positive instructions to minor managers the country over were, "Claim every damn thing in sight." This has been the slogan of political managers since the days of Old Zach.

State Sen. Walter Woodward of Coleman is a life-long dry. He was named state director of the Garner forces by the Alamo conference and Bob Barker was named as the secretary of the organization. His latest is that the Garner movement is sweeping the country that Garner will be the nominee in the Chicago convention and that he will defeat Herbert Hoover for re-election next November. Barker is a most experienced politician. He knows the ins and outs of the political game. Rep. Rayburn has been in politics a quarter of a century—first under the dome of the state capitol and for years under the big dome of the capitol of the nation. He is a splendid mixer, he has lots of tact. In other words, he has the equipment to pour oil on the troubled waters and to make friends for a cause or a candidate nearest his heart. This coming conference which will be attended by Rayburn will dopt the policy of campaigning under the skies of the policy of campaigning under the skies of Texas, the native state of the speaker. There is a lot of real work to be done.

Dabncy White of Tyler has been active in the politics of Texas, but never as an office-seeker, for 30 years. He had a page story in the Dallas News of Sunday last in which he resurrected a lot of ancient history concerning Texas delegates and Texas political leaders in national conventions of recent years. Dabncy White is for Garner. He is a native Texan and proud of his state and its distinguished son. His advice is: "Texans must fight for Texas." His warning is that there must be harmony all along the line in and out of Texas. This paragraph from the story is a reminder of the necessity of united action and a close contact with democrats, leaders and laymen of all sections of the nation:

"The national democratic convention that was held in Houston, at which convention Al Smith received almost the entire vote of the party for the presidency, political friction was again caused by the religious and prohibition question that was dragged into the convention by outsiders. Had Texas then done as nearly as the other states did in the union, voted to have made the nomination of Smith unanimous. Texas would be in a much better position today to ask the national democratic party to nominate a distinguished Texan for our next president. It may not be pleasing to some ears to hear this statement made now but I am saying it in kindness and candor for I know that intense partisanship on the part of these Texas delegates made on any enemies for Texas and Texans. With these facts staring us in the face and to be overcome in order to put our distinguished Texan in the position he is capable of filling, it behooves us to see that the next Texas delegation sent to a national convention must be of a mind and spirit willing to fight for the principles of the democratic party rather than to cherish undemocratic prejudices."

Rep. Rayburn has had a contact for years with the senators and representatives from all American commonwealths. He is chairman of the important house committee on interstate commerce. This coming conference which will be largely attended by Rayburn no doubt will be largely attended. There is important work cut out for Garner leaders under the skies of Texas. All this is a reminder that all the democratic possibilities, that is, the prominent possibilities, have been given the publicity ride with the exception of Newton D. Baker. John N. Garner has been the most thoroughly publicized of all the possibilities. Now Baker is to be given a ride. First, Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord, a distinguished soldier and a republican, has let it be known that Baker was the greatest secretary of war in the history of the republic." Now George Creel, public relations man for the Wilson administration, has been assigned by the publisher of Collier's Weekly to give Baker a real publicity ride in the very near future.

As for Thomas B. Love of Texas he led the Hoover bolt in 1928. He is preparing for another vigorous onslaught. In defense of his conscience. This is what he said to a meeting of democratic women in the city of Dallas: "It has been urged that Garner can be nominated and elected without declaring himself for or against repeal of the 18th amendment, but this plan will be found utterly infeasible." Thomas B. always pushes his face into in political picture. He will do his level best again in the campaigns of the year.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma.

F. A. Miller, president and editor of the South Bend (Ind.) Tribune, says:

That the irritating, disrespectful attitude of the young of today is due almost wholly to the lack of parental attention.

I was in a South Bend home one evening not long ago. Nine year old Coral, fresh from her bath, came down stairs attired in an appropriate dress, her beautiful golden hair shimmering in the brilliance of the lighted room her complexion healthfully pink, her eyes full of intelligence and smiles and her whole bearing that of a child properly reared. She was indeed a picture and polite to the Nth degree.

Why? Coral's parents, who are neighbors and delightful people, had denied themselves that she might be brought up correctly. Mother had remained home, many a time to look after Coral when she would have enjoyed a few hours out. Father had done the same. But what a satisfaction to be the parents of a girl who knows how to meet people, who is respectful to her father and mother and her elders.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Question:

When is a war not a war?

Answer: When it's a war.

That's about the most satisfactory explanation anyone can get here as to why the present war between Japan and China isn't a war. Many uninformed persons, of course, think that it's a real war when cities are showered with bombs and thousands of troops and civilians are killed in weeks of heavy fighting.

But officially, as Secretary of State Stimson remarked at a press conference the other day, the two Asiatic nations are "in a state of profound peace." Officially, in fact, they are still "friendly powers." You might think that in all the notes Stimson has sent over there there might have been at least one accidental mention of "war." But no such slip of the pen has occurred.

All Agree There's No War

THE League of Nations and all European governments also agree that there's no war in the Orient.

Japan, of course, has insisted as much all along. Strangest of all, China has been especially meticulous not only in not declaring war but also from making the barest hint that war existed. If she did, Japan, under precedents of international law, might justify herself in suddenly hurling all her military might at China.

Law Bears It Out

DIFFICULT as the distinction may be for the lay mind, it is well grounded in international law. Under international law, it appears, you can get away with murder. And mass murder as well.

Of course, you are advised, at the State Department, if Japan declared war and then refused to stop and negotiate on the call of the other powers she would be directly violating the Kellogg treaty. And if either she or China were to admit that a state of war existed it would be tantamount to a declaration of war. A declaration of war is a statement that one government is proceeding against another government with all its forces of war. Far from being at war, Japan says she is merely defending herself and protecting Japanese lives and property.

Other "No War" Cases

AMERICAN and British warships were firing shells into Nanking as late as 1927, but it wasn't war. In the so-called Anglo-Chinese war 90 years ago, when the British bombarded the Woosung forts, forced abandonment of Shanghai and wrung treaties, indemnities, concessions and territory, there was never a declaration of war.

Just in case we are still mixed up about this war business, let us follow in Stimson's footsteps and turn to a big book called "International Law," by Professor Elihu C. Stowell. That's the book Stimson consults every time he forgets something or gets stuck. Stowell admits that war is a difficult thing to define, but he says:

What Is War?

"WAR is that condition between states or politically independent communities which results when one of these indicates its intention to make a presumably just use of force without specific limitation against another in order to overcome its resistance to the observance of international law. The evidence of the intention to have recourse to force, which has the consequence of establishing a state of war, may result from a formal declaration or from actual acts of hostility sufficient to establish the fact of the existence of such a contest by force of arms."

But Stowell also dwells on "punitive expeditions" and "vicarious enforcement of international rights." He says: "If the offending government is greatly inferior in strength to the state which undertakes the punitive expedition an attempt to offer resistance is not always recognized as war."

War, according to Stowell, is "the last step to the most complete use of remedial force which is open to states." So you see how it is as between China and Japan!

who enjoys her school and who delights in clean wholesome health-giving play in the play hours.

If parents could know Coral as I know her, could know her parents as I know them and would pattern after them, what an abundance of happiness there would be in this dear old world and how sweet and good and lovely more young people would be!

Lake Captain To Get Medal

CLEVELAND, O., March 10. — Captain Charles H. Mohr, of Lake-wood, who has seen many a white sail swish beneath the waves of the Great Lakes after he safely removed distressed mariners to his ships, will be given a Congressional Medal for his valor.

Captain Mohr has rescued 27 persons during the past 10 years. Seven lives were saved in his most recent act of mercy.

An aged schooner was going to pieces under a vicious pounding by a storm. Rain and wind swept its decks in the half-darkness when Captain Mohr came alongside in a ship that stood straight in the torrent. A 73-year-old master and six crew members were saved. They stood with Captain Mohr and watched the white wings of their ship slap the blackened water and disappear.

A special medal "for valor at sea" was voted the captain through a movement started by fellow seamen and the International Ship Masters' Association.

SNOW AIDS FARMERS

HELENA, Mont., March 10. — After two years of severe drought Montana farmers were heartened last week when reports of winter snowfall in the water reserves of the state indicated a more plentiful supply of water for the 1932 farm season.

Atheists Adopt Funeral Rites

EL PASO, March 10. — A funeral service for atheistic and agnostics has been formulated by members of the Southwestern Rationalist association which is opposed to the Christian religion.

The service was used for the first time at the burial of Albert A. Voruz, freethinker, who directed in his will that "no preacher, or any ecclesiastic of any cult, or religion of any kind whatsoever shall be allowed to officiate at my funeral, but that the services of an agnostic, or atheist, be secured if available."

Men who doubt the word of God buried him as requested. There was no religious music, no burning tapers, no prayers, no preachers. Instead, T. A. Hutchins, white-haired honorary president of the Rationalist association, read a funeral service.

"It matters not what one believes or hopes for after death," Hutchins read. "We come upon the stage of life enveloped in mystery, play our part as desdely decrees and pass away in like mystery."

ROAD BUILDING HOLIDAY MAY BE DEMANDED

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, March 10. — A year's holiday in highway building, it may now exclusively be announced, will be the next major proposal as a Texas taxpayers' relief move.

Just who will bring it out or sponsor the plan has not been made known. Nor just how it will be translated into financial relief.

Gov. Sterling has made some distant and indirect reference to such a holiday, or a partial holiday, but he distinctly has not breached the plan as one of his policies.

Gas Fund for Other Aid

The plan would not withdraw the 4 cent per gallon gasoline tax. It would leave the gas tax fund to accrue, and undoubtedly would call for applying such fund to other government needs.

One of the proposals would be similar to the Brooks bill, to assume the interest and sinking fund on county bonds for highway purposes. Gov. Sterling has said such a plan as that would be unconstitutional, but the gasoline tax could be shifted from an occupation levy on the business or refining or wholesaling gasoline into some other form of levy, at the same rate. Or another cent of tax could be added for the purpose of absorbing the local highway bond issues.

Texas has heard the modern demand that the state share its highway revenues with cities for street improvements, thus relieving city taxpayers of one of the heaviest of their local levies. Such plan has been favored in the Leland national tax reform survey for the real estate industry of the nation.

The state already gives the counties back a large share of motor license fees.

May Enlarge Loan Idea

The state last year began the policy of tiding over other operations by the loan of highway funds. That may be carried much further under the spending holiday.

If the revenues still were collected, and no money spent in new construction, it would have this effect, of reserving state, federal and county funds in about these proportions:

State	$22,000,000
Federal	7,000,000
County	5,500,000

The federal aid part of the federal money would be lost. The savings in the savings in holding from expenditure would give the state a net accrual of revenues of about $19,500,000 a year.

The state would have to continue about $10,000,000 of maintenance work and operating costs, regardless of how much or little new construction might be done.

Power to Divert Funds?

Whether or not the legislature would have the power to divert the gasoline tax revenues and license fees, wholly to general revenue or to other purposes than highway fund to cash general warrants is precedent for the ability to divert it temporarily.

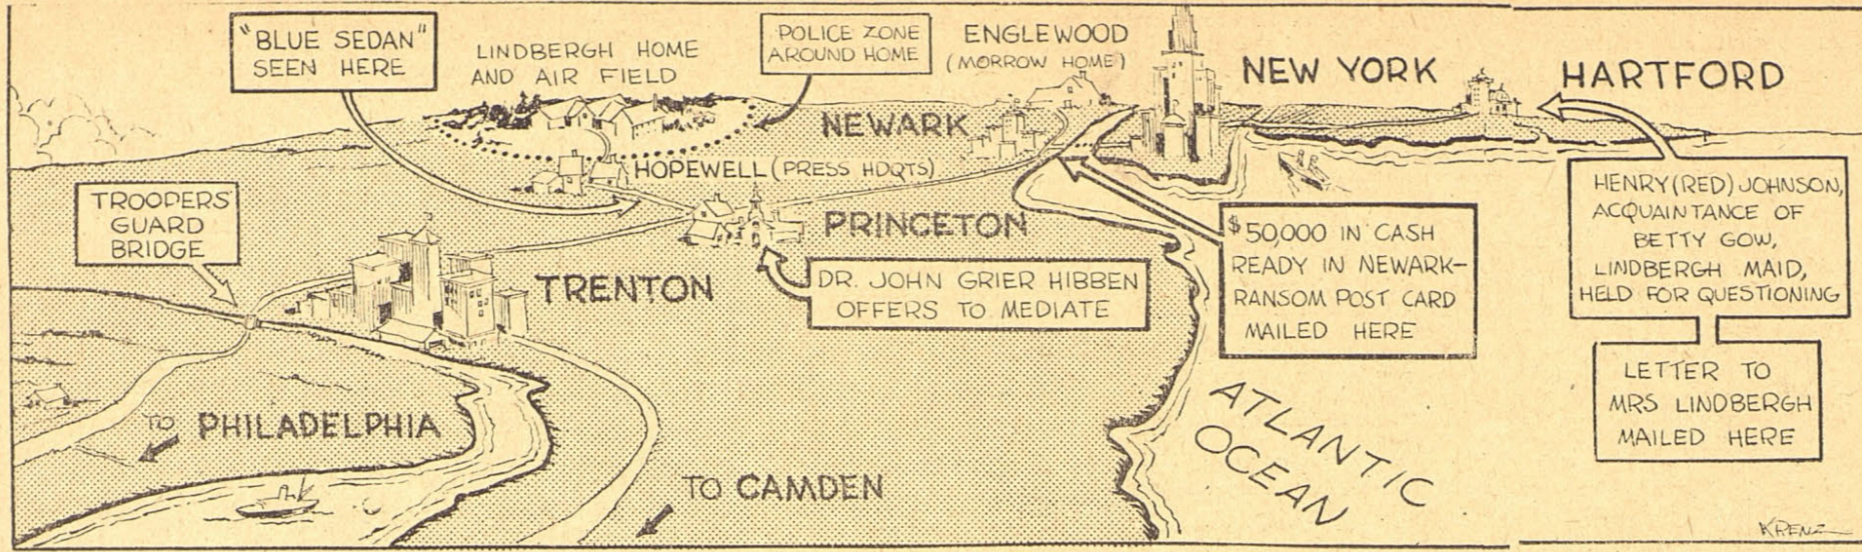

Whether it ever would be paid back might be left to future legislative and future constitutional amendments.

Gov. Sterling, in his first prepared statement bearing on this year's campaign reiterated his belief that a constitutional amendment must be voted before the state can spend its money to assume local county or district road bonds for construction of the highway system. His comments as to a reduction of the expenditures for highway building for a year, or the use of funds in other places that normally would go to highway building were so general and so indirect that they may not be assumed to imply his having initiated the year's highway-building holiday. At most, they acknowledged that the subject had come to his attention before the issuance of his statement.

It will be remembered that the gasoline taxes and automobile license fees are practically as great in volume of money as all the state's direct property taxes—bigger than the part of the ad valorem tax applied to general support and maintenance of the government.

Some of the state recently have taken involuntary highway-building holidays—such as Louisiana. This was brought about by the states having accepted the first advance of federal highway aid and matching up all available state aid to pend it; then being unable to repay the loans and still carry on, Texas accepted its $5,000,000 federal allotment advance and is repaying it $1,000,000 a year through chargebacks against current federal aid grants.

The new $125,000,000 federal aid appropriation, already passed the house and awaiting action in the United States senate, would give Texas about $15,000,000 of new advances, to be paid back out of future allotments in 10 years.

Provisionate allotments would go to the other states. The states could not begin to attempt to match this, and so that the strings would be off in highway work, since the government would have to let the states spend it where they might, without requiring either state or county matching.

AIDS 4 SONS

BOSTON, March 10. — A Huntington Avenue shoe shine stand has given the four sons of Tony Salimando their opportunity in life. One has completed his medical course in Naples, another is studying engineering; two other sons in this country have been enabled to start in the clothing and contracting business by the nickels and dimes their father's shoe shining parlor earns.

TREED COUGAR

GOLD BEACH, Ore., March 10 — Woodward Fry can imitate the bark of a dog so well he frequently trees cougars. He and his father were walking on a trail when they came upon a big cat feeding on a deer. Woodward imitated the baying of a hound and the cougar climbed a tree. His father returned home, got a gun and shot the cougar. It measured eight feet, four inches.

Here is a striking aerial panorama of the district surrounding the home of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh near Hopewell, N. J., where hundreds of state troopers, police and volunteers have been searching for possible clues to the kidnapers of the Lindbergh's baby boy. The Lindbergh home, on the edge of the wooded area, is encircled.

Identity of Writer of Declaration of Independence for Texas Moot Question

AUSTIN, March 10. — Who wrote the Texas declaration of Independence from the rule of Mexico is going a new round of dispute in the state, with the beginning of preparations for a centennial celebration of the event in 1936.

Early histories failed to give the information. J. K. Greer, in the Southwest Historical Quarterly concedes that the trend of information points to George C. Childress as the actual composer of the document. He admits that whether it was drafted by Childress or is the joint work of a committee is unsettled. Childress' authorship, Greer says, may be criticized as being "tradition" but adds that the tradition seems to be well borne out by contemporary evidence.

FOX BOUNTY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 10.—The Senate recently voted a $5 bounty to Henry Anthony for a fox he killed at Jamestown seven years ago. Jocularly referring to the long delay, one senator wanted to know whether the fox had been killed by the hunter's gun or had succumbed to the "seven-year irritation."

MADE TO LEAVE

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 10.—Mrs. Charles Marden, 72, refused to leave the house she had lived in for years when it caught fire recently and firemen had to carry her out forcibly. The fire completely destroyed the house.

COLLEGE RADIO STATION FIGHTS FOR NIGHT TIME

COLUMBUS, O., March 10. — A dispute of nation-wide interest has grown up around a federal radio commission ruling in the case of station WEAO, Ohio State University, and WKBN, Youngstown, a station supported by commerce.

The commission recommended that the university station be ruled from the air at night in favor of WKBN. The two stations are on the same air channel and cannot be operated concurrently.

Partisans cite the case as opposing jazz and the musical classics; culture and commercial pursuits; educational lectures and torch song crooners.

Exceptions Filed.

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman has filed for the University a list of sharp exceptions to a report to the commission by an examiner and asked a rehearing.

The national committee on education, by radio at Washington, has publicized the dispute. United States Senator Simeon Fess, of Ohio, has introduced a bill allocating 15 wave lengths for educational purposes.

ism and disregard of cultural efforts by air are charged against the university.

The university spends $200,000 a year on radio lectures and is determining how best to serve the listening public, it is argued.

The college station was described by Attorney General Bettman as one of Ohio's "greatest natural educational resources," which, he declared, was being ruled against in favor of a small commercial concern used in one corner of the state for private gain.

Baby Lindbergh, dressed in a blue sleeping suit, was put to bed at 7:30 p. m.

At 10:30 p. m., the maid entered the nursery and discovered that the child had vanished. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had been in the house all the time.

The state troopers found a nursery window left open. On the ground was a 30-foot ladder. It was assumed the child had been carried down the ladder by the kidnapers.

The maid called the Lindberghs, and Colonel Lindbergh immediately summoned state police.

Fastened to the window sill was a note, presumably a demand for ransom, which police held secret.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION NEWS

From the Office of the County Agent and The Home Demonstration Agent.

AMERICAN CHEESE MADE IN THE HOME.

Following the short course given by the International Harvester company, some of the representatives visited some of the demonstrators of the home demonstration clubs.

At the home of Mrs. E. M. Oney, member of the Friendship-Dothan home demonstration club, these visitors were served cheese sandwiches and grape juice.

The cheese was made by Mrs. Oney and the grape juice preserved by her. This cheese is a product as good as any commercial cheese and better than much on the market at present.

Mrs. Oney makes the American cheese on the halves, the milk furnished by a neighbor lady and Mrs. Oney furnished the tablets, cheese cloth, paraffin and her time and fuel for making.

American cheese has proved a profitable home made product in the food line in the homes of Eastland county, giving another milk product for home use and in this and other instances, something to bring in a little extra money.

Directions for Making Cheese. Be sure that the milk is sweet. It's a good plan to take the milk obtained at night and morning, place in a large container, and heat to 80 degrees.

Spread a clean cloth (a flour sack ripped open is good) in a large pan (dish pan or something of the sort) and pour the curd into it. Raise it up and drain two or three minutes, salt lightly, and it is then ready for the hoop.

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAUTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Ellen Rossiter, beautiful 20-year-old, falls in love with Larry Harrowgate, an artist whom she met at Dreamland where Ellen works as a dance hall hostess. Larry is engaged to Elizabeth Bowen, a debutante, but he shows attentions to Ellen until his fiancée returns from Europe.

From a sense of gratitude the girl agrees to marry Steven Barclay, a kind and wealthy man of 37 who has paid hospital expenses for her young brother, Mike, injured in a street accident. Barclay also gives Bert Armstrong, her sister's fiancé, an excellent job. Ellen believes gratefully can take the place of love.

Barclay has been married twice. His first wife died and the second, divorced, was Leda Grayson, notorious dancer. Barclay fears that talk of the divorce may be revived when he marries Ellen. He tells her they must have a very quiet wedding.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXX

Strangely enough Ellen had never thought of Steven's divorced wife. She was as embarrassed as was the man himself. Far from forcing his confidence Ellen did not desire it. She did not want to hear from Steven of his second marriage. She knew all she wanted to know about Leda Grayson Barclay, the unscrupulous little dancer whom Steven Barclay had taken for a second wife.

Leda's world and Steven's also had been ascended when the dancer had contrived to marry him as such women do often contrive to marry fine men. All the world had said, "I told you so," when the couple were separated two weeks following the nuptial day. The next day was newspaper history. A filing of suits and counter-suits, and endless washing of dirty linen before the public. Finally after a handsome settlement Leda Grayson had putatively permitted Steven to obtain the Sonora divorce, had bought herself a famous string of pearls, resumed her maiden name and returned to the stage and the life she loved—the life of Broadway.

That was all five years in the past. Ellen's first impulse was to beg Steven to allow it to remain there. On reflection she patted his hand and smiled.

"Go ahead if you must," the girl said gently. "Why do you want a quiet wedding?"

"It's hard to explain," Barclay replied. "It's hard to explain to a woman you love what a damned fool you've been."

"Have you ever thought the woman might understand?"

"You'd understand, Ellen."

"Give me a chance then."

"Very well, my dear. I don't want things spoiled for you by the newspapers or by—Leda."

"The newspapers?" Ellen echoed. "Can't you see what a story they'd make of our marriage if we announced it publicly? Can't you?"

"You mean they'd call me a gold-digger," Ellen interrupted mischievously.

"More likely they'd call me a cradle-robbler," he countered. "The muckrakers would never dare infer such a thing!" she said in mock indignation. "A young fellow like you."

He laughed, sobered suddenly. "It's not entirely a laughing matter, darling." He went on slowly. "The reporters could make a horror out of the time I want you to remember as the sweetest of your life."

"The girl felt her heart set up a thick uncomfortable tattoo. She would not meet his eyes.

"You know how unfortunate my second marriage was," Steven was saying in that grave, disturbing tone. "Ellen if I would I couldn't explain Leda Grayson to you. I don't and will never understand her. If she knew of your existence, though she has long since lost any interest in me, she would stop at nothing to make things disagreeable for you. She would stop at nothing to obtain for herself columns of newspaper publicity—any kind of publicity."

His voice stopped. He was tortured with the burning embarrassment of the sky and self-contained who are forced by circumstance to abandon their reserve.

"When shall we make our announcement?" Ellen asked.

"After we've called," said Steven promptly. "By the time we've returned our marriage won't be news any longer."

"Then it's settled."

"You're not disappointed because you won't walk down the aisle of St. Thomas' with an armload of lilies?"

"Disappointed," she scoffed. "I should say not. I'd be frightened to death. Really and truly, Steven, I prefer a quiet wedding, I wanted that all along."

"Ah, you are a darling!"

He raised her hand to his lips.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, March 10. — This final week will see Texans busy in the scramble to get income tax reports filed with the state over adds the burden of income taxes, let us hope the reporting season will be some other time of the year... and the paying season, too.

The federal government has well over a million employes and is paying out in salaries far over a billion dollars a year... In that report, the shame-faced officials who compiled it failed to include over 500 national lawmakers, whose annual salary is over $5,000,000... and as a guess probably failed to include several thousand legislative employes paid other millions.

Texas may be rather progressive after all... Dr. S. E. Leland, University of Chicago authority on public finance, has drawn a national survey for the real estate business of the country, as to tax reform and relief. Two of his 30 recommendations have a familiar sound... One is that city, county and district governing agencies must be combined and only one set of local officers govern an area... The other is that it is foolish and wasteful extravagance to maintain so many county set-ups of government... crumblers must be consolidated if business is to be able to shake off any of the ghastly overload of tax-eaters, he says.

Every time a bootlegger gets in with a 2500-gallon tank of gasoline, he defrauds the state out of $100 in taxes... The state is losing at least $2,000,000 a year in criminal evasion of the gas tax law in the opinion of Compt. George H. Sheppard, who administers the law... Mr. Sheppard, as is his custom, has stepped forward to do something about it; and with investigators and enforcement officers of Attorney General James V. Alfred's office, is holding courts of inquiry to begin stopping up the leaks of tax evasion.

The lamented death of President R. B. Cousins, Sr., of the College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville calls sharply to the public attention the anomalous condition of the school which is to be put under a new executive... Not satisfied as a teacher college, the institution was expanded into a general college, and so spread out and weakened its work that it has actually lost its affiliation with the national body of colleges and secondary schools... Its sponsors were probably right in feeling the state has enough or to many teacher colleges; but Texas people now would hardly agree that they needed another college, duplicating in a small and insufficient way what many others already are doing.

"Portraits That Please"

NITRO CHARGE IN WELL MADE REAL 'QUAKE

CALIPATRIA, Cal., March 10.—His friends call him "Earthquake maker," but Capt. Charles E. Davis, former Gloucester fisherman, smiles and passes the honor off with a laugh.

But there is no doubt that Captain Davis can make earthquakes, although he doesn't do it any more since he forced Old Mother Earth into a convulsion, which was registered on the seismograph in faraway Washington, D. C.

Captain Davis lives on Mullet Island, the only rock in the lower end of the Imperial Valley, which raises its rugged slopes in Halton Sea, a short distance from another physical freak, the mud volcanoes.

For 20 years Captain Davis has shipped mullet to eastern markets. When he wasn't fishing, he was contemplating the internal heavings of this old earth, as evidenced by the strange volcanoes at his front door.

Captain Davis watched the farmers irrigating their fields. He was perplexed to find that sometimes the water would run the wrong way.

The Gloucesterman decided Nature had something to do with that changing level of the land, so he sank a well 1475 feet deep. It spouted clouds of hot salt water and steam.

It appeared to Davis that at almost regular intervals the surrounding land rose, as if being puffed up, although not to an extent the eye could detect. Renewed activity in the mud volcanoes was followed by a sinking of the land.

One day, when Captain Davis thought internal steam pressure had built up to its greatest extent, he dropped a nitroglycerine charge down his well.

The roar, rumble and shake was felt throughout the valley. And the naval observatory at Washington recorded the quake which followed the sudden release of pressure.

That's what his valley neighbors say, and they call him "Earthquake maker" in a voice of respect.

Chastain To—

more economically than the prevailing smaller units. Such a program of consolidation, he asserted, would result in great saving to the public. Numerous county and state offices which have separate existence while performing similar duties are subject to this program of consolidation, he said, while there are many superfluous state bureaus which have no justification in service but which add to the heavy drain on state finances and should be abolished.

Other reforms. Among other reforms advocated by Mr. Chastain is the taxation of property only to the extent of the equity of the tax-payer, requiring the holders of notes or other obligations against such property to bear their proportionate shares of the tax. He assisted during his term in killing a truck bill similar to that passed by the 42nd legislature to limit load and dimensions of these vehicles on the public highways, and declared he would do all in his power to either repeal the present law or to modify it of the provisions which are declared too drastic. "I favor strict regulation of trucks, but the present law smells too much of class legislation," he declared. He also indicated disfavor of the present cigarette tax on the same principle.

Taxation of utility companies on valuations based on the declarations of investment to the railroad commission is another plank in his platform.

Abolition of the state poll tax was looked upon as a necessary reform by the candidate. "Since the schools have been amply provided for by the cigarette and gasoline taxes," he said, "it appears to me that the poor citizens of the state ought to be allowed to vote and not be disenfranchised because they do not have the $1.75 for the payment of the poll tax."

An active campaign is planned by Mr. Chastain just as soon as disposition of business affairs will permit him to stump the county.

She Dressed Well for $22 Last Year

"It's just as important to save money by spending wisely as to make a larger income" declares Mrs. Will Young, wardrobe demonstrator for the Elmdale Home Demonstration club in Taylor county. To prove it she has her clothing account to show that she dressed appropriately last year for $22. She is pictured above fitting a foundation pattern to a neighbor, Mrs. H. R. Clemmer. As wardrobe demonstrator Mrs. Young helps her neighbors select lines and colors and materials suited to their individuality at lowest cost. A total of 176 Taylor county farm women received similar aid last year from 14 of these community wardrobe demonstrators who in turn have been coached in the art of becoming dress at lowest cost by Miss Caroline Chambers, home demonstration agent.

RE-ELECTION IS SOUGHT BY W. H. McDONALD

To the Citizens of Eastland County: I am taking this opportunity and method of announcing my candidacy for re-election to the office of District Clerk of Eastland County.

First, I wish to heartily thank everyone who made it possible for me to have the honor of serving during the time I have been in office. I have endeavored at all times to transact the duties of the office with efficiency, courtesy and economy, and if re-elected, will have the advantage of having had experience in the work, which will render me capable of rendering even better service.

I was born in Eastland county and have lived here all of my life with the exception of the time I was in the United States Army during the World War.

During the next few months, and before election, I shall try to call upon as many of the voters as possible in the interest of my candidacy, but on account of the duties of my office, it will be impossible for me to call upon all of you. In case I am unable to see each of you personally before the election, I earnestly request that you consider this a personal solicitation of your vote and influence.

Respectfully,
W. H. (BILL) McDONALD.

WHILE WINTER SLEEPS

Sleeping winter awakes with a wallop! A few stinging blows and soon he returns to his long slumber.

But while he slept, the gas company was watching and was ready!

For almost a year, during the long months of mild weather, the facilities and the organization necessary to meet the emergency were on hand—waiting!

Then temperatures dropped like a plummet! The gas demand shot upward in a twinkling—350 per cent in a day. Plunged from spring into winter within a few hours, hundreds of thousands of homes turned their heaters wide open in the same moment. But the gas was there the instant you needed it!

This service is not an accident. It is what you call preparedness—the patient planning and building to meet any emergency though it come but once a year.

Soon the long months of summer will be here. Gas will be used principally for cooking and water heating. A large percentage of the customers are served at a loss during this period. But all the facilities, the pipe lines, the compressors, the wells, gas fields, and trained organization will be planning and working to meet your next winter's emergency as it has this one.
