Cisco Looks Forward To Another Term Of Same Policy

BIG MAJORITY IS POLLED BY BERRY GROUP

Ciscoans today looked forward to another term of the same city government policies as the administration has carried out for the last few years.

Going to the polls yesterday, the voters placed their stamp of approval upon the work of the administration and gave the mayor and his two commissioners seeking reelection an overwhelming majority over the anti-administration ticket.

Mayor Berry chalked up a three-and-a-half to one victory over Former Mayor J. M. Williamson who left the vacated office four years ago. It was the first time that the former mayor had ever been defeated in a municipal election here.

Running with Mayor Berry, Commissioners W. J. Foxworth and H. A. Bible defeated their opponents, L. F. Mendenhall and W. W. Wallace, by majorities of more than two to one.

A final report by the election judges, after decisions upon a few doubtful ballots, showed little changes from the report which they gave for the Daily News election extra last night. There were 916 votes cast. Following are the final results:

For Mayor
J. M. Williamson, 193
J. T. Berry, 697.

For Commissioners
W. J. Foxworth, 615
L. F. Mendenhall, 257
W. W. Wallace, 281
H. A. Bible, 613.

MANY UPSETS IN TEXAS CITY ELECTIONS

Upsets in numerous municipal elections of office in many Texas cities Wednesday.

Corpus Christi, where Texas rangers stood guard yesterday as voters marked their ballots, elected H. R. Giles as mayor over his nearest opponent.

All records for heavy voting there in a municipal election were broken as over 6,000 votes were cast.

Although city officials had protested presence of the rangers and predicted bloodshed if they were not withdrawn, the Corpus Christi election went off peacefully.

In Dallas the incumbent administration, including City Manager John Ely, was swept out of office by the nearly two-to-one victory by the Citizens Civic association candidates over the administration's Citizens' Charter association.

Returns from Fort Worth indicated that six Good Government League candidates and three Progressive candidates would be elected.

RANGERS TO STAY IN CORPUS CHRISTI

CORPUS CHRISTI, April 3 — Ranger Capt. Bill McMurray said today that six rangers, including three captains would remain here several days.

DISJOINTED NECK

NELSON, Cal. — Small Curtis Terrell, to frighten his young sister Albertine, "made a face at her." So perfect was small Curtis Terrell's pantomime that he not only sent his sister screaming, but he also threw a neck vertebra out of joint and had to be taken to the hospital.

Seeks History Of Eastland County

Wanted, a history book. No, it isn't examination time in school, and J. E. Spencer isn't back studying his three R's.

The Chamber of Commerce secretary yesterday issued an SOS call for a copy of "A History of Eastland County, Texas" by Mrs. George Langston.

He wants the book as a part in Cisco's contribution to the Texas Centennial.

"I'd like to get two or three if possible," he said, explaining that he wants one to go to the Baylor University Texas museum and library, and other copies for the Chamber of Commerce. The volume, out of print, appears very difficult to find during the last few years.

When Hitler Met Britons in Historic Conference

Three men in whose hands the fate of Europe may largely rest are shown here in conference in the Berlin chancellery, seeking an answer to the grave problem that besets Europe in the face of German rearmament. Left to right, Adolf Hitler, der fuhrer of the Fatherland; Sir John Simon, British foreign minister; and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal of Great Britain. The photo was transmitted by radio to New York. Optimistic reports of progress for future accord came from the parley.

COTTON SIGNUP COMPLETION IS BEING URGED

Cotton producers yesterday were advised that the necessary forms for completing the cotton contract sign-up have been received at the county agent's office. Notices in the form of postal cards have been mailed to all cotton producers of record in the county, telling them where and when to meet with their committees and sign, if they have not done so.

Those who have already signed were requested to disregard the cards.

All cotton growers who have not already signed were urged to meet their respective committees on the specified day and make application for contracts. No one is to go to the county agent's office to sign up before Tuesday of next week.

Following is the schedule of committees and days:

Saturday, Cisco, Chamber of Commerce; Rising Star, Higginbotham Brothers.

Monday, Carbon, Carbon Trading company; Gorman, Judge Smith's office.

Tuesday, Ranger, Chamber of Commerce; Eastland, county agent's office.

"Either Mr. Heald, county agent, or Mr. Ewing, cotton assistant, will be at each of the signup places all day to answer questions and check contracts for errors before the signer leaves," the announcement said.

"From present indications, practically all cotton producers in the county are going to sign contracts this year. We expect to have between 1,100 and 1,200 contracts this year. Last year there were only about 475."

High School Night At Baptist Revival

Tonight will be high school night at the First Baptist revival, it has been announced. The enter section of the church auditorium will be reserved for students.

Rev. P. D. O'Brien of Colorado, who is holding the meeting, and the pastor, Rev. E. S. James, spoke at the high school chapel hour today.

Interest and congregations at the meeting have continued to grow.

Rev. Mr. O'Brien spoke last night on "The Cities of Refuge", naming the cities and pointing out that each of these represented the types of Christ and portrayed the characteristics of Christ.

Services are at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. There will be a prayer service 7:40.

GIVES BLOOD TO BOSS

TOLEDO, — Carl Kiefer, a striking employe of the Ohio Clover Leaf Dairy company, was absent from the picket line for more than an hour. During that time he was giving a blood transfusion to his boss, Knud Flensvad, plant superintendent, recovering in a hospital from a blood ailment. A bit pale, Kiefer returned to union headquarters and stayed through a meeting of striking milkmen.

COURT HOLDS TRUST LAWS ARE INVALID

AUSTIN, April 3. — Texas anti-trust law was held invalid by the third court of civil appeals here today when it affirmed dismissal of the $17,500,000 penalty suit brought by Attorney General James Allred against 14 major oil companies.

Exemption of agricultural and livestock products from terms of the law so long as they remained in possession of the producers was held to make the law discriminatory and violative with the federal constitution.

The court today said that if the action of the trial court in dismissing the suit was correct, it is not material whether the action was based on an improper motion.

Without passing upon effect of the national recovery act on state laws, the court today relied on the decision of the U. S. supreme court, which held an Illinois anti-trust law invalid because it had the exact exemptions that are in the Texas law.

Wrights Honored As Plane Is To Return

WASHINGTON, April 3. — Controversy over the claim of the Wright brothers to distinction as the inventors of the flying machine is near resolution by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and the original machine is to return from exile in London.

From a well informed source, the United Press learned the Smithsonian institute is preparing a publication which will contain an apology for the institution's previous attitude toward the Wright brothers. It still must be submitted to Orville Wright for approval.

U. S. Relief Rolls Seen On Decrease

WASHINGTON, April 3 — The number of families on federal relief rolls declined 239,428 from January to February, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said today.

The decrease, not including individuals on relief and recipients of rural rehabilitation aid, was 1.3 per cent.

Federal, state and local relief cost declined $15,678,000 from $196,631,000 for January to $180,951,000 for February. The decrease was figured at eight per cent. The January relief roll, including only persons in families, listed 18,176,732 needy.

Court Denies New Trial For Palmer

AUSTIN, April 3 — The court of criminal appeals, last resort of criminal cases, denied a new trial today to Joe Palmer condemned to die for the murder of Major Crowson in the Eastham prison break of Jan. 15, 1934.

Palmer had appealed for a new hearing after the court affirmed his sentence several weeks ago. Rehearing of the case was denied.

FARM COLONY OPTIONS ARE TO BE SOUGHT

The Chamber of Commerce last night engaged a man to secure options on farm land in the Dan Horch community where the city hopes to locate a federal farm sustenance colony.

The farm colony committee was given an appropriation with which to hire C. S. Surles, experienced land bank man, to secure the options. Options on at least 6,300 acres will be needed, but more will be sought it was indicated.

Speed was stressed as needed in securing the options if Cisco is able to obtain the farm colony.

Preliminary plans for the road celebration on highway 89 were discussed. Secretary J. E. Spencer will discuss them in a meeting at Eastland tomorrow.

Directors present at last night's meeting included B. A. Butler, C. P. Cole, J. J. Collins, Dr. Charles C. Hale, Ed Huestis, W. H. LaRoque, J. D. Lauderdale, S. H. Nance, and R. L. Ponsler. Charles Kleiner, Dr. H. Seale, and C. S. Surles were visitors.

Feed and Seed Loan Blanks Are In Cisco

Federal feed seed loan blanks may be obtained at the Cisco Chambers in use there other churches which would lend their buildings to smaller denominations.

Reason given was that the schools could not possibly allow all the religious sects to use the buildings and it felt that it would be unfair to allow some when this would mean barring others. It was pointed out that the city has a municipal auditorium which may be obtained for religious purposes, and that if this is not done, the school board has announced following rededication of a resolution to that effect.

ROB PAYMASTER
BIRMINGHAM, April 3 — Three bandits today held up Carol Mullins, paymaster of a large department store here, and escaped with cash and checks to the value of $15,000.

TRUSTEE DUTIES THREE-FOLD SAYS SCHOOL BOARD, ASKING INTEREST

With the school board election scheduled for Saturday of this week, members of the board have issued a statement, directing the attention of voters to the aims and duties of the school board, and calling for the people of Cisco to show their interest in school matters by going to the polls.

Following is the board's statement to the citizens:

We desire at this time to call to the attention of the patrons and voters of the Cisco independent school district for their sober consideration some pertinent facts in connection with the administration of the public schools of this community. We feel that they are entitled to know the problems and the aims confronting the administration of the system and the methods and policies that are being followed by the board in dealing with these problems and aims to the end that they may the more intelligently cast their votes in the trustee election next Saturday.

The business of the school board, as we see it, is three-fold:

- 1—The determination of a policy of school government and curricula that will achieve the most educational results with the means at hand.
- 2—The selection of personnel that will best represent and administer the policies adopted.
- 3—Provision of adequate financing.

We appreciate that in carrying out these aims, the board, of itself and through its employed school officials and teachers, has made mistakes for which it merits criticism. We are concerned, however, that this criticism be justly and fairly made, in a light of understanding of the conditions that affect the fault. In this connection,

Wave of Enthusiasm for Fishing

Off to meet the yacht Nourmahal, on which he will fish and rest in Florida waters for ten days, President Roosevelt waves goodbye from the deck of the Destroyer Farragut at Jacksonville, Fla. With him are Commander Buckmaster of the Farragut and Captain Wilson Brown, White House Naval Aide.

BRUTALITY ON FARM CALLED DISGRACEFUL

BULLETIN
AUSTIN, April 3. — Gov. James Allred this afternoon sent Ranger Capt. Fred McDaniel to Retrieve Farm farm to investigate alleged brutalities there that resulted in prisoners maiming themselves to get transferred from the prison.

The government's action was taken immediately upon his receipt of a telegram from W. A. Boyett, member of the prison board.

HOUSTON, April 3. — Four members of the Texas state prison board, headed by Col. W. A. Padlock, chairman, today investigated alleged atrocities at Retrieve farm near Angleton, the Houston Press said.

The officials sent there today and asked Manager Lee Simmons of the prison system and Warden W. W. Wald, Huntsville, to investigate. The two men left immediately for Retrieve.

Gov. James Allred was notified by members of the board that conditions at the farm were "disgraceful" and that brutality was rampant.

Col. Bill Dulaney, Houston, and W. A. Boyett, ranchmen and members of the board, visited the farm Sunday after receiving a letter from a convict, the press learned from reliable sources.

Dulaney and Boyett revealed they found on their first visit that three men were whipped by orders on March 15 and still bore deep lacerations and scars on their bodies. Another man had been whipped the day before, and his body was cut badly by fresh beatings, the Press said.

Mutilations
A board member told the Press that a third prisoner's foot was infected from self-administered injections of kerosene or some other liquid.

Four men mutilated their legs with axes, some complete amputation, he told the Press, because they said they could not bear the harsh prison treatment.

"Just as we drove up to the farm, a short convict and a big tall one mutilated each other with an ax. The men were not angry with each other," the Press quoted one of the officials as saying.

The first convict's leg was severed, the board member declared, but he then took the ax and slashed the other's left leg.

Dulaney and Boyett learned that two other men had mutilated themselves last week. One of the men cut off his foot at the instep and the other mangled his leg.

NEW CRISIS IN AUSTRIA SEEN IN TWO ARMIES

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)
VIENNA, April 3 — Austria seemed headed toward a new crisis of great potential danger today.

There was growing tension between the government's two private armies, the Catholic storm troopers of Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg, and the Heimwehr of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, vice chancellor.

In addition, Nazis and communists, were intensely active under the surface, trying to stir up trouble and prepared to take advantage of any opportunity for a coup.

With Austria the nerve center of central Europe, the danger of serious complications to the already explosive European situation was obvious.

Every Fit Man Must Work

A new slogan for the U. S. A., has been passed on to all American people: "Every Fit Man Must Work." It had to come. Billions have been appropriated by the federal government as well as the governments to feed all who are idle—regardless of those idle through no fault of their own or those who were or are idle because they are unwilling to work. The Austin American of Monday carried an editorial which went all the road. This is an excerpt: "The $5,000,000,000 which the President has been granted for the present is, thank God, not for the idle. As soon as the hopelessly idle and hopelessly unfit are separated into groups, the hopelessly idle will be put to work whether they want to work or not. Only the hopelessly unfit will be scientifically and humanely treated in charitable institutions. Five billion dollars is a tremendous sum but to get it down to our size simply remember it is $50 for each person in the United States. Such a sum, in terms of idle families will supply $1,000 per idle family in a new move to put them to work."

Man has a mission on this earth. That mission is to provide shelter, raiment and food for his family. Down through the glorious years of American history until the crisis crash of 1929 came, this was the individual as well as the collective mission of Americans. In the long ago at the close of civil strife (or the war between the states) the people of the south met a greater crisis and a greater crash than this republic has known. They appealed to the sword and they lost. Their homes were in ashes. Their slaves were emancipated. They were without credit. They had lost all except honor and pluck and the courage of red blooded men and women. In the poverty and ashes of their dead they faced the future. They toiled with their hands and their brain. They had to sacrifice. They had to till their own lands. They had to grow their own food supply. They had to chart their way in a new civilization and a new age. They met the future heroically and they won as great battle with the plow and the hoe as ever was won by men and women of the Caucasian race.

Franklin D. Roosevelt never failed the American people. He has been the friend and champion and President of the millions who would work and who could not win employment and he has been the friend of millions who are unwilling to work if they can be fed and housed and cared for by the most beneficent and most humane administration that this or any other nation has known.

Now the government has turned from the dole to employment for "complacently idle hands." Those who are willing to work will be given employment. Those who prefer the dole of charity to independence in fulfilling the mission of man may be made to work—and why not? The future is before us. Now which shall it be? Dictators or democracy? Which shall it be, the constitution of the fathers with its bill of rights for the protection of all or a Hitler or a Mussolini or a Stalin or an American born dictator—a traitor to his flag. Mark you well, the dollars and cents of the race of nations lies in the cost of growing and making things.

Mark you well, the extra cost of a dictator is in armies and spies and the loss of individual liberty. Mark you well, the cost in democracy is in soft humanities and the fear of government of idle grafting classes of voters. Most dictators are the spurious godheads, kindheads, or czarheads of their serfs or subjects. They are the law and gospel, the voice and the prophet, the destroyers of constitution. They destroy the rule of the majority. They destroy civil and religious liberty. They give to themselves the divine right of rule of ancient kings and emperors and potentates. This is America—this is a free democracy and this it should remain.

The Fruits of Cooperation

A practical example of the essential work done by agricultural cooperatives is afforded in the case of dairy products' producers in an eastern state.

During depression, consumption in the largest market served by these farmers dropped 40 per cent. At the same time, production kept to a stable level, making it necessary for the producers to find new outlets in order to dispose of the surplus.

A pooling arrangement was then put into effect. Outlet for the surplus was found by turning a part of the total production to manufacturing units. Milk used for manufacture commanded a lower price than that sold to the consumer in the fluid state—and that inequality was satisfactorily adjusted within the pool by deducting enough from the price received by those who sold fluid milk to compensate the member whose milk went for manufacturing.

The plight of the unorganized farmer when demand falls, is well known. He is absolutely powerless—he can do nothing save continue to produce and take whatever price he is offered for the part of his crop that is wanted. When the farmer joins with other farmers and all work together in allocating production, stabilizing prices and exploring new markets, the picture changes altogether.

Cooperation has saved a legion of farmers from ruin during the past few years. And now it is slowly, but steadily, helping to bring agricultural recovery.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, April 3 — Present contrast is conspicuous to those who remember that the democratic state executive committee two years ago sat in Austin to devise procedure for passing on all applicants for state office in terms of their record in supporting the winning administration. The state government was to be taken over as a patronage mill, and the laws creating overlapping boards were to be repealed so that a governor could turn out all state employees and bring in a new set of the faithful. The line held against that sort of politics. The state executive committee was so far discredited that only a period of explicit policy creating a record against that sort of thing is bringing it back into estimation and repute.

Texas as has been shown, is far behind the other states in participation in public works developments under the P. W. A. and work relief appropriations. So far as non-federal projects are concerned, it has been limited to half a dozen large loans and grants, and to a number of national ones in cities and towns.

Under the new bill, Texas should come into some of the major statewide development projects, and those involving large elements of employment and requirements for materials.

Did you ever stop to think
EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

If you are a square peg in a round hole, get busy and get in a place where you will fit.

For the past few years a lot of people have rested and waited for developments. We have had them. Most of us are still wondering, "Where do we go from here?"

A live city to work in is a good place to live in. A dead city to rest in is a good place to die in. Who wants to die?

Life is made up of a lot of things we don't like and some things we do like.

As long as there is a margin between what a city is as a place in which to live and work and what it may become, there is work in every community for a Chamber of Commerce.

Every city has many pessimists—little men with little minds who watch with envy the progressiveness of their city.

"Small town merchants know everyone with whom they deal. Perhaps that is one of the reasons which make them so alert, so modern, so selective and so careful in the merchandise they offer for sale," so says Howard E. Blood, president of Norge corporation.

The merchant who reads this newspaper and does not advertise in it should stop to think and do it now. It is a wonderfully complete newspaper. It has all the news up to the minute. It is boldly assertive of the good things about your city. It is entertaining as well as informative. You know it reaches the people you want to reach. So why not advertise in it?

Trustees' Duties

cleared up. If the patrons of the mere school system who bring criticisms of administrative acts of the officials of the Cisco schools against the trustees do not first give these trustees the benefit of their protests, they are being unfair.

We cannot recall any previous formal protest to the board of the conditions alleged in some of the criticisms brought to our attention at this time. At the same time, it is but fair to point out that multitude of other minor matters and conditions similar to those with which members of the board are now blamed, have been considered and corrected by the board in the course of its authority over the school system.

In the employment of personnel, the board has kept in mind the qualifications of the individuals for the peculiar duties to which they are chosen. We have laid down certain fundamental principles dealing with education, training and character and have endeavored, in so far as it is humanly possible, to determine and in so far as the talent for the position is available, to secure men and women who could accomplish the most under the conditions that pertain in this community.

Above Personalities
We have endeavored consistently to raise the personnel standard of the schools and in the strict application of certain standards we have no doubt incurred the displeasure of some who felt themselves to have been injured by the process. But in every case we have kept foremost in view the good of the pupil and the quality of the instruction and training provided for him, believing that this is the first will of the voters and the patrons. It is our belief that the administration of the schools should be above personalities and prejudices and on a high plane of service to the future generations whose training is in the hands of the system over which we have been given supervision.

There have been criticisms and complaints against members of the faculties. In each case we have tried to discover the motives behind the complaint, to take into consideration personal grievances or dislikes and disassociate it from prejudices. If we were to act upon a whim, discharging or reprimanding a teacher upon any pretext the schools would be in a constant flux. There have been instances in which we have refused to employ local talent after try-outs and no doubt criticism of the administration has developed from these quarters.

There are also instances in which patrons have become angered or incensed at disciplinary measures taken against their children. It is probable that this has inspired criticisms.

Consider Results
In judging of the efficiency and the earnestness of the board's administration of the schools, however, the patrons should pass above personal matters and consider results. During the past several years the scholastic output of the schools has increased in quality. As an indication, the Cisco public schools are the only schools in the country to retain affiliation with the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges; scholastic population and enrollment is at approximate boom-peak; percentages of failures and withdrawals from schools have been materially reduced; the records of Cisco graduates at college and university are far above the average.

The financial responsibility devolving upon the board has been extremely serious during the past few years. The problem of providing funds to meet an $80,000 annual expense of operating the schools and at the same time of paying interest and installments of a bonded debt of $350,000 out of sharply curtailed revenues on declining valuations has taxed every resource. Valuations once totaling nearly $10,000,000 have dropped to approximately $3,500,000. To service the bond issue alone required practically every dollar of local revenue. These bonds are held by the state permanent school fund and under the lay failure to pay the interest and principal charges will be subject to a school to have its state appropriation funds withheld.

Sound Finances
Yet, under these trying conditions, that forced many other schools to sharply curtail terms, facilities, and the quality of the work done in their systems, the Cisco schools have been brought through the most depressed financial period in history, with all current accounts paid, all teachers' salaries paid and the system in sound financial condition. It has been necessary to refund the outstanding bond issues to accomplish this.

But the present success of the board's efforts to bring the system safely through the critical financial period is subject to future conditions. Unless there is a considerable increase in revenues the financial difficulties of the future are certain to be just as taxing.

The three members of the board whose terms expire this year are men of varied and valuable experience in dealing with business, financial and legal problems, all of which are seriously involved in the present administration of the board.

Question For Voters
It is a question for the voters of the district to decide whether these men are the more qualified to meet these serious problems or whether other candidates will more efficiently administer the affairs of the schools.

In the past the board has not been guided by a large vote of the citizens. In the failure of the citizens to give a representative vote, it has been at least a passive popular approval of the administration.

It is a sincere wish of this board that every qualified voter will be so intensely interested in our schools, that he or she will go to the polls and vote April 6.

We sincerely feel that the attack on the outgoing members is not so much of a personal nature as it is against the policies of the board. We have taken time from our respective businesses and professions and from our families to devote to the problems of our schools. We do not regret this but feel that unless the citizenship manifest enough interest in our school affairs to go to the polls, then such efforts will have put forth will have been wasted.

Ask For Interest

You should carefully check the respective complaints made against the board's policies and also the personal motives prompting some of those who are making the fight against the present policies. We do not regret your disapproval of our policies, as we will know you will be prompted by proper motives, but we will regret it if you are not sufficiently interested in our problems to turn out and vote.

At the last school election a shamefully small vote was cast. If the citizenship does not manifest an interest then it will always be possible for a small element, probably prompted by personal motives to control our schools.

We feel that our school affairs are more important at all times than our city affairs. You should vote one way or another.

If you approve of the good work that has been done in planning, managing and maintaining the high standard in our schools, then vote for P. D. Wright, J. E. Spencer, and Dr. F. E. Clark to return.

POTATO SHIPMENTS UP

GRANTSBURG, Wis. — Potato shipments from this region have shown an increase of 5,000 bushels over last year's shipments covering a corresponding period. Forty-one freight cars have carried 25,000 bushels out of Grantsburg to date this season. In former years before raising largely supplanted potato raising, yields of 200,000 bushels and more were not uncommon.

HAPPY KITCHEN CHATS

By MRS. MARTHA McDONALD

I have often been asked: "Why do some perfectly intelligent, modern-minded women still hesitate to give their families ready prepared vegetables?"

The answer is: "They did, yet perhaps they don't." But for years hesitation was quite noticeable. They served prepared breads and rolls as a matter of course. They bought ready prepared soups, pickles, jellies, and jams, even cakes and pies and cookies. Yet they spent hours in their kitchens scraping, peeling and washing vegetables!

If you are one of the few women left who do this, let me whisper in your ear: The reason you do so is because you do not yet know enough about canned foods to put your complete trust in their wholesomeness.

Here and now, then, I am going to tell you a few pertinent facts about canned vegetables—the inside story, as it were.

"The modern canned vegetables all the nutritive value, all the minerals—calcium, iron, phosphorus—and the highly prized vitamins that you get when you buy the raw vegetable in the market and cook it yourself in your own kitchen. Practically all good grades of vegetables are now canned right where they grow, so that none of the nutritive value is lost during shipment to the cannery. Within a very few hours after the vegetable is picked, every bit of its priceless food value is sealed safely into the can.

All vegetables packed by the canners are expressly grown for the purpose—grown from selected seed it may surprise you to know.

Many farm vegetables are not satisfactory for canning. Let me settle another point, too. It is perfectly safe to keep food in an opened can, provided you put it in a refrigerator and give it the same care you would give any cooked food. There is absolutely nothing about the can that is harmful to health.

Letting the can stand open to aerate the vegetables, or rinsing them in cold water before cooking, takes just so much from their flavor and food value. If you do either of these things now I urge you to stop.

It is perfectly safe to store unopened canned foods on your pantry shelves for any length of time, provided you keep them in a moderate temperature, away from steam pipes and radiators.

The next time you serve canned peas heat them quickly in their own juice until it is practically cooked away. This same method makes an amazing improvement in the flavor of all canned vegetables.

If you use vegetables cold—say, for salad—chill them well before serving. Save every precious drop of juice. It makes wonderful sauces and soups and is particularly rich in nutritive value—one of the bargains you dream about.

The First "Alloyed Oil"

—for better lubrication of today's high-speed, alloy-steel motors!

YOUR MOTOR is built of parts made of special alloy metals. Car manufacturers and metallurgists worked together to produce metal alloys strong and durable enough to withstand the greatly increased pressures and temperatures of the modern motor.

Oils, too, must withstand these pressures and temperatures and they must have extra oiliness and film strength to do it. Yet oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength than they had ten years ago. And many new refining methods now used to make oils free from carbon and sludge have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength!

Continental, pioneering as it has pioneered for 60 years, has developed the first alloyed oil—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! It is custom-made for high-speed, alloy-steel motors. It has 2 to 4 times the film strength of straight mineral oil, as tests on the Timken machine have proved! It has more oiliness than any oil has naturally. It penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a permanent lubricating film—the "Hidden Quart". It is a pure, clean oil, free from carbon and sludge troubles. It gives extraordinary mileage as well as motor protection, as proved by the Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and you will have the finest lubrication you can buy!

Mrs. Susie Hamilton, of 1636 Walnut St., Springfield, La., said: "I had cramps and pains periodically. I also had frequent headaches. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it helped to rid me of the feminine weaknesses; in fact, I missed it every day. ## New Railroad Era Soon Is Predicted

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., April 3.—A new era of rail transportation made possible by Diesel-powered, streamlined trains running on near perfect roadbeds is envisaged by Ralph Duff, the small town manufacturer who designed carburetors for the Union Pacific's revolutionary type train.

Duff, who was chosen by the Union Pacific engineers to design and manufacture the carburetors for the new train from a list of prominent manufacturers, says there is no limit to potential speeds of the new speedsters. All other things being equal, he says, the Diesel motors have virtually no speed limit and rail transportation at 150 miles per hour is a distinct possibility.

"We can build motors now that will haul the trains that fast," said Duff. "We are waiting for other things to be equalized."

He explained that passengers, while eager to ride the new streamlined trains, become jittery at speeds of over 100 miles per hour. The carburetor designer believes that rapid advancements in engineering for railroads will develop cars of a type susceptible to high speeds without accompanying discomfort. With wind resistance, vibration and swaying reduced to a minimum in the next few years, speeds of 150 miles per hour will be the common rule.

GIRL MATADOR GIVEN OFFERS OF MARRIAGE

By JANH. YINDRICH United Press Staff Correspondent

MADRID, April 3.—Although her right hand carries death, Juanita Cruz is a very much sought-after young woman. Hundreds of Spanish bullfight fans have asked her hand in marriage, a hand which abandoned the shorthand pencil and typewriter to take up the matador's sword.

Scores of bullfight managers seek her hand—to sign contracts and then slay bulls. For demure, dark, brown-eyed Juanita Cruz is Spain's

Drive Is Begun On Stock Swindlers

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A nationwide drive to rid the country of stock swindlers who reap an annual harvest of billions from investors' pocketbooks was prepared today by the securities and exchange commission.

Department of Justice tactics which have driven gangsters and kidnapers to cover are being adopted, it was revealed.

The drive is expected to be the most intensive ever made against "blue sky" promoters who have continued lawless activities despite stringent new laws.

Regional centers are being established rapidly to direct activities in the field.

The new officers will cooperate closely with local officers of 47 states having "blue sky" laws.

"Crash" In Vacant Lot Only Of Model

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—Three police cars and an ambulance sped to a vacant lot where an airplane was reported to have crashed.

They found a wrecked model plane of seven and one-half foot wing spread, whose one-fifth horsepower motor dived so like a full-sized plane that residents telephoned an alarm.

73 RATTLES IN ONE DEN
SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Seventy-three rattlesnakes, ranging two and a half to five feet in length, were captured in a single den in the Imperial Valley recently. They were brought here for exhibition at the forthcoming California Pacific International Exposition.

leading woman bullfighter, whose shorthand pencil hand last year earned her 200,000 pesetas.

Bullfighting First But, despite the insistence of her numerous admirers, bullfighting still comes first with Juanita. She is still heart whole. In her own words, "Don't you realize that if I had a sweetheart he would not let me fight bulls?" As for bullfighters, Juanita has no use for them. "Bullfighters only interest me when they are in the ring."

The longest and most passionate letter Juanita has received was from a telegrapher in Seville, who wrote six pages telling her of his undying love.

Swain Needed Money The one that caused her most amusement came from a young man in Milan. This romantic swore eternal devotion although he never had seen her, and in a final passionate outburst said he would come to see her if she would send him some money.

But all the fan mail and adulation has failed to turn the head of this modest daughter of a civil servant. She still leads the life of the average Spanish girl, outside her training for the bullfighting. Juanita started her serious assault on man's greatest stronghold last year, when she fought 53 corridas out of a total of 64 contracted. Only five bullfighters bettered this total of appearances.

This will be her third season as a bullfighter, despite the clause in the bullfighting law forbidding women from practicing the art. This season, for the first time, Juanita Cruz will use picadors and alternate with novilleros (apprentice male bullfighters). If the male bullfighters through jealousy refuse to appear with her, then she will fight the first two bulls alone.

SPRING MUSIC FETES PLANNED

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent has a notebook in which Dringold had begun to dictate a confession.

In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

JARRY HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlor where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home and introduces her as his secretary. She meets Happ's son, ROBERT, his stepson, ROBERT CALISE, and MRS. HAPP.

Millicent falls asleep and wakes to find a note under her door reading "The woman in black is in the room." Millicent dresses, sees the woman in black drive away and follows in Robert Calise's car but runs out of gas. She goes to the chauffeur's quarters and finds him dead.

Next morning a detective questions Millicent. She throws the keys to Robert Calise's car into the fountain pool and a moment later sees Mrs. Happ watching her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

THE steps Millicent had heard in the corridor went on, past her door. Millicent clung to the window ledge.

Mrs. Happ stared up at her, the diamond-hard eyes seeming to see through the girl's very soul. "Good morning," she said. "I presume you've heard the tragic news."

Millicent nodded. For the life of her, words would not come. Had Mrs. Happ seen her toss that key container into the pool?

"It's so dreadful," Mrs. Happ said. "Harry was an excellent chauffeur. I was really very much attached to him, although he worked mostly for my husband. Are you dressed?"

"Yes," Millicent said, "I heard what happened. It's horrible. But I have an appetite just the same. After all, you know, I only knew him slightly."

Millicent drew out a chair at the table and, as she did so, a door opened and a dark-haired young woman with clear gray eyes that flashed in quick appraisal entered the room.

Mrs. Eaton said tonelessly, "I don't think you two have met. This is Millicent Graves—Miss Duchene. Miss Graves is Mr. Jarry Happ's new secretary, and this, Miss Graves, is Vera Duchene, the personal maid and assistant to Mrs. Happ."

Millicent was curious about this maid. She bowed and said, "I'm very pleased to meet you. Have you breakfasted?"

Miss Duchene shook her head. "No," she said, "and I'm ravenous."

She sat down and reached for the electric coffee percolator which was bubbling on the table. "Did you," asked Mrs. Eaton, "hear about what happened?"

"Oh, yes," Vera Duchene said lightly, almost breezily. "Millicent buttered a piece of toast. 'I'm afraid,' she said, 'I slept quite late this morning. I was very tired. I had a hard day yesterday.'"

"I heard that you came here yesterday," Miss Duchene said. "I wasn't here last night, you know."

Millicent raised polite eyebrows. "No," Miss Duchene went on. "I was off for the evening. I didn't get in until early this morning. . . . She checked herself hastily and said, "until very late."

AT that moment the door opened, and the officer who had interrogated Millicent entered the room, nodded to Mrs. Eaton and, turning toward Vera Duchene, said, "You're Vera Duchene?"

Miss Duchene raised her gray, appraising eyes to the officer. looked him over with cool speculation.

"Yes," she said, breaking off a piece of toast. "How long have you been here?"

"About six months."

"You knew Harry Felding?"

"Of course."

"Perhaps my friends will know," "You might give me their names."

She stared at him with the impudence which only a pretty woman dares to show to a masculine official.

"And again," she said, "I might not. If you want me to find out, I'll find out—that is, if my friends know—but I wouldn't care to tell you who they are—not now at any rate."

THE officer said slowly, "Well, there's probably no question but what it was a stick-up man or a prowler that did the job, but what we can't find out is why Harry Felding should have been out driving Bob Calise's car."

A stolid-faced cook appeared with soft-boiled eggs and some fried bacon. Millicent ate the food ravenously. Miss Duchene toyed with toast and coffee, let her eyes appraise the officer.

"My," she said, "but you're big and strong! Tell me, do you have to be a good pistol shot in order to be an officer?"

"You certainly do," he said. "These days they make you practice. They send you to a rookie school."

"It must be fascinating," He smiled at her and said, "Well, it has its advantages."

"You going to be back here," she asked, "making more investigations?"

"I might arrange to come," he told her.

Her eyes flickered up to his, then dropped back to the coffee cup. "And you didn't hear anything?" he asked.

"Not a thing," she said. He left the room. Miss Duchene finished her breakfast, smiled across at Millicent and said, "I hope you'll like it here, but I don't think you will."

"No?" Millicent commented non-committally.

"Was Bob Calise tried his particular brand of technique yet?" Vera Duchene inquired.

"I don't know," Millicent laughed. "It depends on what you mean by his particular brand of technique."

"He's good," Vera Duchene remarked, pushing her chair back from the table. "Well, if I'm going to keep my girlish figure I'd better break away from the food."

Millicent finished her breakfast, kept thinking over Miss Duchene's answers to the officer's questions. Millicent was certain Miss Duchene had started to say that she hadn't returned home until an early hour of the morning. Something had caused her to change her statement and she had lied to the officer. Why? Millicent made up her mind she would ask Miss Duchene some questions on her own account.

She found the back stairs, climbed them, and had no difficulty locating the room over the garage. The door was slightly ajar. Millicent pushed it open and said, "May I come in?"

"She caught a swirl of quick motion. Miss Duchene had been standing in front of a mirror. Now she whirled toward a closet door and flung something black into the closet.

Millicent had only one swift glimpse, but she could have sworn that the object was a black ermine coat.
