U. S. Renews Efforts to Extradite Insull From Greece

POLICE ADMIT POSSIBILITY OF REARREST

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 12.—The United States, blocked temporarily in efforts to bring Samuel Insull back to the United States to face embezzlement and larceny charges renewed its siege today.

Although Insull has been set free of arrest, Greek officials admitted he might be rearrested. Legation officials felt that as soon as legal technicalities were complied with they could prevent Insull from leaving Greece until the necessary papers arrive from Washington.

148 CHARTERS ARE GRANTED DURING SEPT.

AUSTIN, Oct. 12.—New corporations number 148 were granted charters by the Secretary of State during September, according to the compilation of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Oil companies accounted for 34 of the new corporations, but the merchandising group continued to occupy first place in number with 41 new corporations.

Firemen Guard Oil-Soaked Hobbs

HOBBS, N. M., Oct. 12.—Firemen stood guard today over the oil-soaked section of Hobbs deluged yesterday by an oil well that blew out of control.

Old Days of West Are Re-Enacted

The city of Tombstone, Ariz.—out where the west was once wild, wicked and woolly—turned back the clock 52 years when it celebrated its founding with a rousing "Hellorado" in which citizens donned the garb of the 1880's and showed what life in the raw was like.

New Orientation to Aid Work in Mission Fields Is Suggested by Laymen's Board

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The report of the Laymen's Foreign Missions Inquiry, just completed, suggests a new orientation which foreign missions should adopt in order to further their work.

The commission approached this part of their inquiry by deciding that the crucial problem was whether the motives which animated the inauguration of the Protestant Missions of a century, or so, ago remained in force, in view of the changes which have taken place since inception.

Of the many changes that have taken place in the world during the past century, they decided that there were three that vitally affected mission enterprise: and altered theological outlook; the emergence of a basic world culture; and the rise of nationalism in the east.

They found that generally speaking that western Christianity has in the main shifted its stress from the negative to the affirmative; in other words, that it is now more a religion of beneficence than of fear.

They found that whatever the present conception of future life might be that there was little inclination to still believe that those seeking God in either religions are to be damned; Christianity has become much less concerned in saving men from eternal punishment than from the dangers of losing the supreme good.

The report declared that with all of this advancement knitting the world closer together, and despite a still highly critical attitude toward things western, any deliberate effort to "sell" religion would work against it.

The rise of nationalism in the East is resulting in a more or less deliberate reaction against western domination and cultural control but it has ceased to be hostile to the spread of world culture, the report said.

Under these circumstances the report declared, the connection of Christianity with western life, formerly a prestige, now has disadvantages. For the sake of securing for Christianity a fair hearing, the report said, it is necessary to separate it, as far as possible, from western history and our promoting agencies and to present it in its universal capacity.

CITY BUDGET ADOPTED BY COMMISSION

A variety of matters passed in review before the meeting of the city commission last night, most of them of a routine character.

The commission adopted a budget for the 12-month period between October 1, 1932, and September 30, 1933; it named a committee to draw up a contract for a grazing lease on city land near lake Cisco with J. V. Heyser; it sealed down M. K. T. tax reductions to correspond with a reduction accepted on T. and P. valuations; it let a garbage contract; touched briefly on the proposed bonded debt settlement and directed Comm'r J. T. Elliott to go to Stamford with Chamber of Commerce Sec'y J. E. Spencer to present Eastland county's application for $40,000 from the R. F. C. relief fund.

The budget was adopted in requirement with state law. It had been in preparation for several weeks and in its adopted form provides for a total operating expenditure of $86,706.53 from October 1, 1932, until and including September 30, 1933. This compares with actual expenditures of $115,207.51 from May 1, 1931, until and including April 30, 1932, a period corresponding with the city's fiscal year.

Allocation

	1931-32	1932-33
Administrative and General	$19,458.47	$11,858.00
Water Dept.	22,475.85	20,000.00
Street Dept.	21,546.39	16,059.00
Sanitary Dept.	16,284.42	11,900.00
Fire Dept.	5,604.04	5,392.50
Police Dept.	9,489.14	7,980.00
Cem. and Parks	6,648.31	3,700.00
C. of C.	11,874.31	5,600.00
Zoo	1,888.58	2,000.00
Outstanding Accounts		3,000.00

Budget estimates in detail compared with actual expenses during the periods covered are available at the city hall.

Garbage Contract. Contract for the collection of garbage beginning January 1, 1933, was let to J. A. Dill on his bid of $162 per month with provision that he furnish surety bond. Two lower bidders had withdrawn their offers.

The M. K. and T. tax reduction was reduced from $45,000 to $38,000 to accord proportionately with a reduction accepted from the Texas and Pacific during the period of negotiations. The Katy asked the adj. and P. valuation had been reduced in a greater degree than its own.

Comm'r's Joe Clements and J. T. Elliott were named a committee to act in fixing terms of a grazing lease on city land between the city and J. V. Heyser. Mr. Heyser had entered into an agreement in 1930 for a three-year lease upon terms which he told the commission had not been stipulated in a contract drawn. He had not signed the contract for that reason, he said. He told the commission that the stipulations agreed upon were that he should have the land two years for fencing it and would pay $135 for the third year lease. He has fenced the property, the commission was told, and Heyser offered to carry out the terms of the contract upon which he said he and the previous commission had agreed. The land would normally lease for about 10 cents an acre annually, the commission was told.

Land Trade. The same committee was directed.

DRIVE TO SELL CISCO QUOTA OF DEMO MEDALLIONS BEGINS

The drive to sell Cisco's quota of the Roosevelt-Garner medallions got under way today with individual members of the federated clubs of the city canvassing local democrats. Three hundred of the medallions have been received and these are to be sold at a minimum of one dollar each. Although the federated clubs as organizations are not sponsoring the campaign, the clubs will receive 10 per cent of the proceeds of the sales at the canvass.

THE MEDALLION

The drive in Cisco is under the direction of W. J. Armstrong and J. E. Caffrey, precinct democratic chairman. Mrs. G. B. Kelly, president of the city federation, is in charge of the workers in the canvass.

Wilbourne B. Collie and Mrs. R. Q. Lee are chairmen of the county campaign of which the Cisco canvass is a part. Each precinct has been assigned a quota which it is expected to dispose of.

Although the medallions are sold at a minimum of a dollar each there is a limit to the maximum of the individual's contribution. If he feels the urge he may contribute five, ten or one hundred dollars. A signed receipt will be given him for whatever he pays and a copy of this will be deposited at national headquarters of the party.

Mr. Collie stated that Eastland county club women might join in a nation-wide competition for Ten Thousand Dollars in prize awards, offered by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst to the women of America who secured the largest number of contributors to Shareholders in America. The prize awards are to be given to individual workers in the various cities, and counties, and distributed so that they will be awarded in the smaller communities and in counties as well as in the larger cities.

No night sessions of court are being held.

DETONATION RIPS TIMBER OFF HILLSIDE

SAPULPA, Okla., Oct. 12.—A nitroglycerin magazine about five miles west of here in an isolated timbered region blew up today killing at least one man.

Oscar Bond, 55, was blown to bits in the terrific blast which rocked the countryside for a radius of several miles.

Bits of his body, none of them larger than a man's hand, and small pieces of his automobile were found scattered over an area of several acres.

Officers who investigated the blast said they did not believe there were any other victims. At first it was believed two companions had perished when 600 quarts of the high explosive was detonated.

Cause of the explosion was not determined. The blast ripped a swath a mile long through the timber down the hillside.

BANDIT-SLAYER OF BUTCHER IS BEING SOUGHT

SHERMAN, Oct. 12.—Officers of Texas and Oklahoma today were searching for a gunman who, after holding up a suburban store here, shot and killed Howard Hall, 55, meat cutter in the store.

Homer P. Glaze, store clerk, would probably be dead today had not the bandit's gun failed to discharge when he attempted to fire point blank at Glaze.

When his weapon failed him the gunman ran to a waiting automobile and escaped. The car, a blue sedan, is said to have contained several men and a woman.

MORATORIUM.

According to the New Orleans publicity man of the Cotton Cooperative association, more than $10,000,000 additional cash will be available to southern cotton growers due to the moratorium on seed loans announced by the federal government. This is the estimate given by the Cooperative association, whose president and vice president have been in Washington pressing the plan under which growers may put up their cotton on a basis of nine cents a pound and extend their loans instead of being forced to sell the cotton and pay off the loans on the present market on or around six and one half cents. In addition, it is stated by the publicity head of the association 900,000 bales will be taken off the market, the financial arrangement providing that cotton put up as security shall be held until March 1. Furthermore, it is said that a million and a quarter bales would be required at present prices to pay off the $40,000,000 loaned this year in the South; that on the nine cent basis some 900,000 bales will be put up as security and held instead of one million and a quarter bales being sold; that the difference of more than 300,000 bales left in the hands of the growers will provide, at present prices, approximately $10,000,000, and lastly, "the holding movement which has materially supported the market recently will be given added strength through the taking off of the 900,000 bales which would otherwise be needed as part of the million and a quarter to repay the cotton seed loans."

ALLRED MAKES IMPORTANT RULING.

Atty. Gen. James V. Allred, in an opinion given to Sen. J. W. E. Beck, ruled that the legislature has full authority to alter, change or diminish the salary of any officer whose salary, fees or compensations is fixed by statute, whether the office itself be created by the statutes or the constitution. Sen. Beck is chairman of the state investigating committee appointed to prepare a general fee bill reducing the salaries of various officials. In the month of January, 1933, the 43rd legislature will begin its grinding. There will be 10 new senators and 79 new representatives. They are fresh from the ranks of the people. There is a rumor abroad in the land that they are going "to cut to the bone." There is a demand everywhere in Texas that the Terrell election law shall be sent to join the buffalo and the Indian and the dodo and that Texas shall be given a state-wide registration law that will cover all the ground, in simplicity as well as drasticly for the purification of the ballot from top to bottom. All who consider themselves qualified voters in city and country should be compelled to register. All those who claim exemption should be compelled to register. A political organization, republican or democrat or prohibition or whatnot, should be left free to regulate its own election affairs of a primary nature, as well as the work of prescribing the qualifications necessary to cast a party ballot in the selection of candidates for mayor and minor office. As for the Terrell election law, it is an insult to the intelligence of the voters of today. It should not be permitted by the incoming legislature to continue to encumber the statutes of the commonwealth.

GEN. DAVIS OPENS NEW BANK.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes has opened a new bank in Chicago, taking over the deposit liabilities and banking business of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. Gen. Dawes is a mighty personage. He rendered a splendid service to his government in France while the World war was on. He was made a vice-president of distinguished ability. He was ambassador to a foreign nation where his diplomatic achievements were lauded to the sky by the publicity writers of the American world. He was the first president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and after organizing its machinery, he resigned the presidency to go to Chicago to look after his banking business. As a financier he is among the high aces. He borrowed $90,000,000 from the Finance corporation which he had organized and placed his financial concern on a solid basis. Now it is announced that only about half of the $90,000,000 was utilized by the general and his associates. As a reorganizer he is a magnificent success. But what would have happened to the Dawes banks if the Reconstruction Finance corporation had not been created and billions placed behind it by the federal government?

BOSTON BUYERS PURCHASE TEXAS WOOL.

While exercising his option on an additional 1,000,000 pounds of mohair, increasing his recent purchases to 5,500,000 pounds, the Texas representative of a big Boston firm bought 200,000 pounds of 12 months wool in the San Angelo section. A big storage company at San Angelo Oct. 13 will receive sealed bids on approximately 3,500,000 pounds of long wool, said to be the largest accumulation remaining unsold or unconsigned in Texas. Why should all the wool and all the mohair go to Boston? Why shouldn't Texas manufacture its own wool and mohair? Why should Texas be without tanneries? Why should all the hides and wool be shipped to the East? Why shouldn't Texans go in strongly for the movement to make this immense reservoir of raw materials an important manufacturing state. There are millions of buyers in Mexico and Central America and South American countries. A change will come some day.

WESTERN FARMERS RENEW STRIKE.

South Dakota farmers on the firing line again. They have joined the middle western farmers' strike for better prices. They are organizing their forces in every county. Milo Reno of Iowa, after the delivery of the president's message, declared the campaign which started in Iowa nearly two months ago "is gaining as rapidly as we hoped it would." If it is true that revolutions, political and otherwise, never turn backwards, there are going to be many familiar faces turned to the wall in early November.

Rumanian Bedtime Stories

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

I see by the Abilene paper that the superdeas bond required to perfect the appeal of the district and state interscholastic league committees from the district court decision in the Cisco football suspension case is about ready for filing with the district clerk. The bond was signed in Abilene yesterday and sent to Brownwood for signatures there. Ranger did not sign the bond, according to the item, having accepted a compromise proposal which would permit the Lobos to participate in the district schedule while the appeal is being carried to the higher courts without superdeas bond.

The concern of the league officials for the integrity of the organization appears to be the motivating force behind their efforts to keep the Lobos off the schedule.

L. E. Dudley as spokesman for that sentiment, in a statement pointing out that while Abilene, Breckenridge, Brownwood and Eastland would love to have the Lobos back on the schedule they feel that a "larger principle" is at stake.

Ranger's acceptance of a compromise followed a conference between Ranger and Eastland business men and school board members called by a Ranger group here last week. At that conference disgust with a situation that had permitted itself to be worked up over the question of the eligibility of a football player was freely expressed by the business men, who pointed out that it was a travesty on common intelligence to declare that this section has too many problems in common to permit itself to be divided over such an issue.

When it boiled down to a question of what the district committee wanted and what Cisco is willing to do, two facts were adduced. First, the district committee had demanded a statement from Cisco; second, Cisco had made such a statement and this statement had first been approved by the committee and later rejected.

Cisco expressed its willingness to again make the required statement and one was prepared by a committee consisting of Ranger, Eastland and Cisco representatives at the conference, agreed to by the Cisco school board and copies of it carried to Ranger at Eastland. For some cryptic reason the statement was not presented to the Eastland school board, it was reported here, but the Ranger board in a resolution setting forth its reasons, adopted the statement as forming a satisfactory basis for a compromise.

The resolution in part said: "Now therefore, in consideration of the promises, be it resolved by the members of the board of trustees of the Ranger independent school district in special call, that said board hereby favors the settlement of said law suit on the basis herein outlined, and hereby recommends to all parties involved that said case be amicably settled along said lines and that appeal be perfected in accordance with the said agreements above set forth. This recommendation is made for the following three purposes, to-wit: "First, That Cisco has substantially met the demands of the district committee and the Interscholastic League rules;

"Second, Such action will tend to increase good will and create harmony among all parties concerned and do away with ill feeling that has so far been engendered;

"Third, A final decision of the higher court will furnish a legal precedent by which all affiliated schools in the state of Texas can be governed in the future in the direction and management in the affairs of the Interscholastic League."

L. E. Dudley, principal of Abilene high school and chairman of the district committee had this to say: "Committee members from Breckenridge, Eastland and Brownwood feel with us, of course, that scheduling Cisco would be very desirable from the standpoint of the games, which would be interesting and profitable; but we feel that a larger principle is at stake. If the rules of the league are not to be enforced the league will soon disappear and high school football in Texas will be in a chaotic condition.

"The league has requested that we complete the superdeas bond, and expects us to do so, and only the Brownwood signatures are needed to complete it. Under the compromise offered to Ranger, the Cisco school authorities are making an admission which they had been requested earlier to make, and had refused, but it comes too late."

Mr. Dudley did not say that the statement is substantially the same as that agreed upon by the Cisco board and the district committee in a meeting at Eastland prior to Cisco's action in filing its suit for readmission. He did not recall that the Cisco board members at the Eastland meeting had been assured by the members of the district committee who were present that the statement was satisfactory only to have it rejected at a later meeting at Abilene.

Mr. Dudley was not present at the Eastland meeting, but Abilene had a representative in R. D. Green, superintendent of the Abilene schools.

He did not admit that Cisco has always stood willing to make such a statement.

Naturally, to an impartial mind, it does not appear that the committee must not want a statement, but simply wants Cisco kept off the schedule at any cost. That attitude would be fair enough, of course, if the committee would plainly admit it so that no further time would be wasted in trying to reach a compromise.

PARIS STYLES

MARY KNIGHT

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 12. There is a woman living here whose business in life is go in and out of all the doors marked "Private" in the shoe business and find out the secrets of the trade. Those doors mean private to everybody but Mollie Page, and to her the word "private" is a kind of code translation which means, "Come in Miss Page, and we'll tell you all about it!" She has agreed to tell you all about it now, so listen carefully.

"Shoes may seem lowly items in the fashionable wardrobe, but there is no denying their importance to the effectiveness of a complete ensemble. Now that fashions have drifted into smooth running order we find that as far as shoes are concerned a slightly rounder toe will accord with the slightly softer, more feminine line of dress. Shoulders not quite so square, buttons not quite so military. A slightly lower heel will anticipate a natural demand by women whose feet have become accustomed during the summer, to the popular and comfortable sandal type of footwear.

CHILE SWAPS SILVER FOR NEW PAPER MONEY

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 12.—The Chilean mint has decided to export its stock of silver for coinage purposes in order to import ink and paper for further fiscal note issues, as more money can be "made" with the latter.

Some 5,000 kilograms of fine silver from the state mint will be shipped to the United States in exchange for a $28,000 shipment of bank note paper, the special lithographic and engraving inks required, and also spare parts for the official currency presses.

This culminates an acute small change crisis in Chile. Small coins of every description are disappearing rapidly, the working people believe that the nickel in them is worth something at this time, when the repeated paper issues have depreciated the peso to a fraction of its former worth.

With the disappearance of the standard semi-silver peso, which was bought up at a premium by speculators, the mint issued a new and smaller coin, with only a small portion of silver in its composition, but as these have begun to disappear mysteriously as their predecessors, one and two peso notes are to be printed instead. In part, this also accounts for the resolution of the mint to market its silver stocks for the accessories of note printing.

Some significance is attached by political observers to the fact that the new metallic peso recently issued is only a little larger than the standard 20 cent piece, and they see in the new coin the 20 cent piece of the future, thus making an 80 per cent depreciation of the currency.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Stan Ball accuses Asper Delo, timber king, of crooked practice and of having men shot who try to check up on his activities. Ball says he is making a check and Delo tells him he will personally prevent it. Upon leaving Delo's office Ball saves Dona Delo's daughter, from kidnapers. He slips her when he finds who she is, telling her his name is Stanley Black.

Dudley Winters, in love with Dona goes with her to Three Rivers to persuade Delo to abandon the fight with Ball. He tries to get her to marry him on the way as a means of getting Delo to give up his plans. Dona narrowly escapes doing this by meeting Ball on his way to the timber camp. They find Asper accused of killing a ranger. Asper is wounded from ambush but refuses to stay in bed. Dona tells him she has just married Dudley to keep him out of the hunt.

Ball comes in for supplies and is captured by Swergin, Delo's big timber boss. He escapes after hearing Dona tell her father she is Dudley's wife. Dudley insists on real marriage but Dona holds back. She rides out to see if she can find Stanley Black, who, she thinks, is at Blind River. She meets him on the trail, not knowing he is Ball. He promises to ride the range of Stan Ball. On the way to camp Dona stops at a cabin and sees a glove she thinks is Stanley Black's in a Spanish girl's room.

Valuable records are stolen from the office and the clerk says Ball stole them. Asper Delo is furious and refuses to leave with Dona and Dudley.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV For the first time since their arrival at Three Rivers Dona and Dudley were now aware of Swergin's seriousness in the matter of capturing Stan Ball. All night after the raid on the main office men were riding and running about on foot. Morning found the entire camp aroused for action, with the big timber boss handling his men as he would have on a river drive.

Dudley found the whole thing intensely exciting. The plan was to comb Folly Mountain as clean as a swept floor. Not a foot of the high country was to be left unchecked. Every brown bear, cougar and mountain sheep was to be routed out of hiding. It was a little like a small crusade. Dudley could not quite realize that the whole thing was not just a colorful pageant. The heavy guns and the plentiful supply of ammunition added the grim touch necessary to dispel illusions; those guns were muzzleloaded with powder.

Dona went to see Carter. She found him outside his office door, sunning himself. Carter was slender with a weak droop to his shoulders. He lifted a pair of colorless eyes to Dona's as she greeted him.

"You are Mr. Carter?"

The man recognized Delo's daughter but he did not get up. He nodded his head and continued to sun himself.

"I came to see if you were badly injured last night and to say that we are sorry. Father cannot get about just yet." Dona watched Carter rub a patchy growth of black beard on his chin.

"I reckon nobody ever had a closer scratch." Carter held up a bandaged hand. "I reckon the timber company owes me some extra for this." His pale eyes lighted a trifle as they fixed themselves on Dona's face.

"Certainly. Dad will see that you are properly rewarded." Dona could not help wondering where Swergin had collected so many odd characters. Carter was an oddity and no mistake. Of course only such men would stay and work under the lash of Swergin's tongue and fists. Three Rivers was certainly a camp of the old school.

Carter smiled a thin smile but "You knew Ball—that is before he started his fight against the Timber company?" Dona was seeking information.

"Sure. Knew him for a strapping big councunner that rode a back horse."

"And you saw him last night?"

Dona put the question abruptly.

"Sure I saw him." Carter returned Dona's smile with a defiant glance that fell as she met it. "He steps right in through the big window and goes for his guns." Carter made a shift and dropped his good hand to his side.

"And what did you do?" Dona bent forward, all interest.

"I went for the gun I have in my desk. Then he cut loose and shot my hand." Carter touched the bandage gingerly.

Dona nodded sympathetically. "Remember, I will see that father rewards you." She gave him a smile and walked back toward the scene in the big yard.

Dudley was riding at a gallop looking for her. He plunged up and pulled his horse to a ploughing stop in true grandstand style. "Where have you been hiding?" he demanded.

"I was poking about." Dona smile-

ed as she noted the flush of excitement on Dudley's face.

"The boys have all gone. I'll be back after a while." He bent and kissed her hand lightly, then galloped off in a great cloud of dust.

Dona waved to him until he had vanished. In her heart she half hoped Ball was all ready beyond the rim of Folly Mountain. If he were not there was little chance of his ever leaving the slope alive. With a little shake of her head Dona ran to her father's room.

Asper was sitting up. It was plain that he had been very busy giving orders, as the floor was tracked with boot marks and cigar stumps. Dona crossed to his side and perched on the foot of his bed.

"You have been violating my orders again!" she shook a finger under his nose. "Do you want me to move in here and make you behave?"

Asper grinned. "I'm the usual ungrateful patient. When I get well I fire my loving nurse." He caught her hand.

"You are not well and you're not firing this nurse!"

"Doc says I can sit in a chair on the porch. Now, as a good nurse you'd better help me out there." Asper proceeded to swing his feet over the edge of the bed. "My slippers, nurse!" he called, as though Dona were in the next room.

A tender smile spread over the girl's face as she ran for the slippers. Asper was nearly his old self again and would-be well in no time. For a moment she was really happy and a great weight lifted from her heart.

Asper insisted on having his chair placed so that he could watch the slope of the mountain and the upper clearing. He was eager to get the very first news of the capture of Ball.

"They'll have him before noon, sure as shootin'," he rumbled. Dona smiled and seated herself on the top step. She was eager to see what happened but she was not really anxious to have this hunt succeed. A thought kept bobbing up in her mind that would not be stillied easily.

Here were dozens of men going out to get one lone bandit. The odds against Ball were 100 to 1. He was a lone wolf, a killer, but that did not lessen the odds.

Dona's thoughts turned to the previous day and a cloud passed over her happiness. Stanley Black had been such a disappointment. More than a disappointment, Dona knew, though she refused to admit it. With white sunlight playing through the green needles above her head and a cedar bird calling from the jack pine behind the building, she knew a desolation of spirit that even the recovery of her father could not banish.

A rider appeared at the edge of the clearing and Dona roused herself. The man came down through the cutting at a gallop. On he came into view of the corrals below a dozen men leaped from the shade of the saddle house and ran for their horses. Dona watched the oncoming rider and noticed that he headed for the corrals. It was evident from the way he leaned far over the horse's neck that he was bringing news.

"Run down to the corrals and see what has happened." Asper Delo's voice shook with excitement as he called to the man.

"I'll be back in a minute," she replied over her shoulder as she ran down the steps.

The rider was pulling his mount to a sliding halt as Dona reached the corrals. Malloy was first to reach him.

"News?" the tall puncher drawled. Nothing seemed to ruffle or excite him.

"Plenty!" the man grunted, sliding from his horse. He seemed to enjoy holding back his information.

"Have they got him?" Dona burst out.

"Got him cornered and the gang is closing in on him. He was trying to make a break over the hill and into the cow country. The gang is up on the slope at the fork of the Blind River trail. They want all the rest of the men out there to help pull the net tight around him. There sure is going to be some shooting!" The man slapped his lather-covered horse. "Get me another nag."

"Get the roan ready and slip my rifle into the scabbard" Dona ordered.

Malloy gave her a searching look that trailed off into a cynical squint. "You got the fever, too?" he asked shortly.

"Possibly." Dona met his gaze squarely. "But get my horse!"

"O. K., ma'am." Malloy bowed stiffly and vanished into the saddle house.

TEXAS VICTORY OVER MISSOURI BOOSTS STEERS

By DICK WEST
Texas Sports Staff

A vastly improved eleven, featuring a backfield quartet of Koy, Stafford, Clewis, and Hilliard, swept across Missouri Memorial Stadium last weekend as the Texas Longhorns exhibited powerful offensive in sheltering Mizou's Tigers, 65-0. As a result, pre-season confidence in the Steers was greatly restored.

It is rather early to visualize an All-American team, but it looks as though Earnest Anz Koy will be among those considered for fullback in fact reports say that he and "Hurry" Cain, brilliant Alabama back, have the inside trail. Koy made four touchdowns against Missouri, and had he played longer, there is no telling how many more he would have made. Having already been chosen on the All-American intercollegiate baseball nine, he may be one of the few achieve the honor of making two mythical teams. But Koy's work barely surpassed that of Little Bohn Hilliard, called "Ghost" by his opponents because of his remarkable ability and elusiveness. Another feature was the return to form of Claude Blanton, who has played only mediocre football since he was mentioned for All-American in 1930. "Ox" was one of the chief reasons why Koy and Hilliard were running wild, for he was opening huge holes in the Missouri line.

Fought Northwestern
It is true that Missouri is very weak this year; yet the Tigers fought a great Northwestern eleven to a standstill in the final stanza, and then gave way in the final stanza to Pug Renter and his gang. On the other hand the Longhorns are beginning to click. This weekend they tangle with Oklahoma in the traditional battle at the state fair. It will be interesting to note the Steers' reaction to their great win. The following weekend they go to Houston.

The Southern Methodist-Rice affair was what everyone generally looked for but some of the wisecracks held out until the last that Ray Morrison had something up his sleeve. The victory for Rice was the only outcome that could have been expected, for it was simply the case of an ultra-primed, brilliant, senior eleven battling a team with an inexperienced line and laboring under that burdensome handicap of being the defending champion. These defending champs in the Southwest conference just do not fare so well. Yet the Ponies played their usual scintillating game. Twice in the first quarter they passed their way to the Owl ten yard line and then failed, as usual, to go a bit farther. Bill Wallace, Eagle Lake's pride and joy, scored two touchdowns for Rice, but the superior blocking which has been brought into the game by Jack Meagher would enable anyone to score. The prevailing question among the fans now is, will Rice fold up after her first conference win, or do just as she did last year when she won over the Longhorns in Austin.

A final word about this week's headlines — T. C. U. and A. & M. In the last six years the Aggies have lost five times and tied once in games with the Frogs. This year Schmidt has a great eleven and will enter the game a top heavy favorite but dope and favoritism are completely forgotten when those fighting Aggies trot out on Kyle field.

TEXAS - SOONER GAME WILL BE FAIR FEATURE

DALLAS, Oct. 12. — Renewing their ancient grid feud which has now reached its twenty-seventh year, the Sooners of the University of Oklahoma and the Longhorns of the University of Texas meet here Saturday in the week's outstanding intercollegiate game. The Oklahoma Texas series is a regular feature of the state fair.

Through decisive victories in their games last Saturday, both the Steers and the Sooners proved themselves dangerous opposition for any team and allayed fears that Saturday's contest, like the 1931 game, would be another meeting of the "weak sisters." Last year neither team was able to score a touchdown and a field goal by Ox Blanton gave Texas an unimpressive 3-0 win.

Playing on foreign soil last Saturday against the Kansas Jawhoppers the Oklahomans showed the most deadly brand of blocking and tackling seen in the Big Six in recent years while soundly trouncing their opponents 21-6. Bob Dunlap, Sooner field general, contributed two touchdowns and a goal from placement; Bill Panze added a third counter after a long run through the entire Kansas assemblage. This win placed the Sooners in a tie with the champion Nebraska Cornhuskers in the Big Six race.

Unbelievable But if the Sooners' play was outstanding Saturday, the Longhorn's performance was almost unbelievable. They had been thoroughly whipped a week before by the Centenary Gentlemen, 13-6, and Texas partisans were praying for a one-touchdown victory over Missouri and were pretty shaky about that. Then came the deluge of touchdowns — to be exact ten — which the Steers ran up with remarkable ease against Frank Carideo's weak Tigers. Big Ernie Koy swirled around four times; Harrison Stafford, Bohn, Hilliard, and Jimmie Burr joined the parade behind their co-captain. The score 65-0 was the largest a Longhorn team had run up since 1916. Fine blocking by the Texas linemen and a total lack of offensive power on part of the Tigers contributed largely to the lopsided total.

Coming on the heels of their unexpected loss to the unheralded Centenary team, the Steers' crushing victory brings up a question: Is Clyde Littlefield's big team "on its way" at last, or is it merely the champion in-and-out team of the nation?

Saturday's game with Oklahoma will do much toward answering that question. The Sooners have proved themselves a consistently good outfit; the Steers so far have nothing if not erratic. Other Southwest Conference schools will watch Saturday's result with interest.

LOBOES WILL PLAY DANIEL BAKER FROSH

Cisco's Big Dam Loboes will play the Daniel Baker freshman at Chesley field Saturday night, according to an announcement from Coach Bull Elkins of the Cisco squad.

Elkins is dissatisfied with the showing the Loboes have made so far, and plans to whip his team into shape for Saturday's game.

Against the power plays and reverses of the Rangers the Loboes lacked strength at the wing positions to stop the march down the field, and Elkins tried several of the younger boys in an effort to give them experience for later games.

On defense Cisco's line looks better than the average, with Latch, Aycock, and McMahon in the heaviest part of the play.

Educational Methods Are Undergoing Changes to Embody Leadership Ideal

By FRANK LANGSTON "Lead your students; don't drive them." More and more modern educational thinkers are recognizing the value of this method. The Cisco Public school system, along with others has adopted it as one of the fundamental principles underlying the relationship between teacher and pupil.

Vast Difference. There is a vast difference between teaching text books and teaching individuals, too, says Supt. R. N. Cluck. The Cisco teacher should remember that it is human beings she is teaching, not merely the subject matter.

Not Tatting. Furthermore, she isn't tatting when she calls you up and reports that Johnny is falling. She is trying to bring about a relationship between the home and the school that will eliminate such failure by changing the pupil's attitude and study habits.

Each course taught in the schools has some general air. Each lesson within the course has a particular aim. The teacher is to know both, and to plan each to achieve her aims.
