Bayou Philosopher Finds The U. S. Treasury And His Winter Hay Supply In Same Shape

Editor's note: The Bayou Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Bayou must think money is hay, his letter this week reveals.

I was wanderin around over my pasture out here yesterday afternoon absorbin the September sunshine and sizin up my cows and wonderin now cold it'll get this winter and whether they can all make it through alive when I noticed a copy of a newspaper had blown against a corner post and since my corner posts ain't the strongest in the world I figured I'd better take the paper off to cut down on the wind resistance, I haven't got time to be repairin blown-over corner posts when there's even more work needed to be done on the posts in between, not to mention the wire, and since I had the paper in my hand when I pulled it off I took it home and picked out a comfortable spot on the south side of the barn and stretched out and looked it over.

What interested me right off was an article sayin the Secretary of the U.S. Treasury, George Humphrey, has checked up on the money on hand in Washington and has informed President Eisenhower that the government probably can scrape through the fall and winter without callin Congress back into session to raise some more. He figures the government can cut a few corners and scratch around and meet its bills until January at least, when Congress is due back anyway.

I know exactly how it is, and I'm pleased to learn that me and the Secretary of the Treasury have some problems in common.

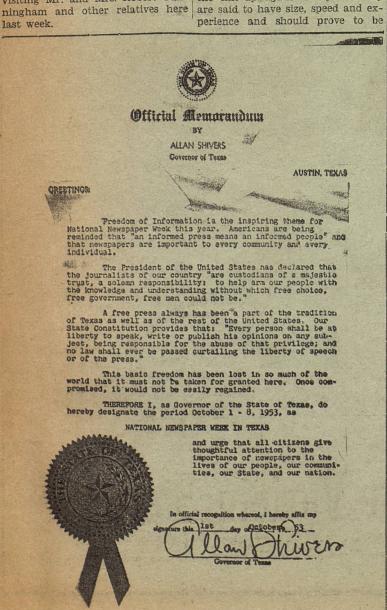

I have been checkin up on my supply of Johnson grass hay and I've figured if I cut some corners and scratch around enough, my cows ought to be able to make it to January too, and I'm gonna take the position that if the United States Treasury can do it, my cows ought to too. In fact, my cows are just gonna have to buckle down, recognize that's all the hay there is, and get by on it. This idea of pourin more and more hay to the cows and more and more money to the people can't go on forever. We got to call a halt somewhere and I'm proud that me and the Secretary of the Treasury see eve to eye on it.

Of course, the people have a little advantage over my cows. My cows don't have Congress comin back into session in January to take the pressure off, they've got to make it all the way to spring grass along in April. My cows just don't have any machinery for callin me back into ession in January. It's up to them to size up the hay in the barn and recognize that's all that's standin between them and the first blade of green grass six months from now. I don't know that they'll be better ows physically for the experience, but if they make it they'll have the satisfaction of comin through with stronger characters. I've heard President Eisenhower himself say we need to strengthen the moral fiber of this nation. Personally, I find a great satisfaction in knowin that the United States Treasury and my hay barn are in about the same shape.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

Lighter receipts all around the market circle, plus improved shipper and order buyer demand accounted for the better calf market

All sections of the cattle market were fully steady to stronger, except bulls which eased 25 cents to 50 cents per hundred.

Highly finished cattle were scarce as hen's teeth at Fort Worth Monday, except for scattering boys club calves, a few of these sold at $25 to $26. Other good to choice fed steers and yearlings sold for $17 to $22. Most grassers sold from $10 to $15.50 with cutter grade yearlings from $7 to $9.

Fat cows drew $9.50 to $12, while canners and cutters sold for $6.50 to $10. The latter figure reserved for high yielding Brahman and western

Today we are served by about 10,000 weekly and daily newspapers. These newspapers influence more people in more ways than any single other factor, including the church and the tax collector. We all base our opinions on what we know, and we know only what we are told, either in writing or orally. That which we read has more influence because it is re-referable—we can look back, study and analyze words until the meaning is clear. Oral messages must be caught in passing and most of us grasp only a part of what we hear, and we may not be sure of that. "I only know what I read in the newspapers," said Will Rogers. That is pretty well true for all of us. Few people read books, only a few more read magazines, but everyone reads a newspaper-it's a badge of social acceptability. And we pretty well tend to believe what we read, because it is printed. Since our first days in school we have accepted as true what we see printed. The teachers saw to that. In grade school, and on through high school and even in college, we were told, in effect, to "read the lesson, accept what the book says and tell about it at examination time if you want to pass." We have learned the lesson well, and tend to believe what we see in print. And most of the printing we see is in the form of a newspaper.

That same newspaper tells us what we know of our community. our state and nation. It is a friend, a welcome visitor in our home. It tells of folks we know, of others we know about. It gives news of events that affect our lives, or that entertain or sadden us. It tells us where we can be entertained, what things are available to ease our living or to meet our every day

Well things are beginning to pop, just is coming up all along the new guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. route between Pioneer and Cross Plains as road work gets into full swing. Bulldozers have the brush oushed down on most of the way, oridges are under construction, some already completed, and heavy dirt moving machinery is excuvating a huge rock pit on the Browning property south of town. The utilities and telephone companies are busy noving their service lines in keeping with the new route; oil companies have moved or lowered gas and oil lines. It was said that in a few days the contractors will be movng in more heavy machinery, then he dirt will really fly. A few bales of cotton and several tons of castor beans have already been harvested and a few peanuts are being threshed, there has not been any rain to interfere with the harvest so far. Yields are fair

Since the Korean truce conferences are soon to begin, great pressures are being brought by nations which we have been aiding, to expand trade with Communist countries. For instance, at the present time Japan is costing the tax-payers more than a billion dollars a year. Japan wishes to re-establish her trade with the mainland of China which is now Communist. She either must do so or we continue to pour out our dollars to her. A question arises as to whether this trade would aid Communist China in building up her war potential. This is just one of the many questions involved.

While I am away, my secretary, Mr. Zeno Phillips, will remain in the District to perform whatever services he can for the people. Mr. Phillips will be in my office at Anson on Mondays and Thursdays of each week. On other days he can be reached a the Drake Hotel in Abilene.
