TO VOTE ON STREET PAVING PROGRAM

An election has been ordered for Tuesday, April 12th, to vote on the adoption of the Street paving law, governing street improvements, and for the approval of a $30,000 bond issue to provide funds for street paving, in the City of Cross Plains. These two issues, if approved, will mean that our streets will be paved—that is, in the principal business district of the town. It is understood that the program will include four blocks on Main street, extending from railroad to Baptist Church; two blocks on 8th, extending one block each way from Main, and probably the same on 9th street—and will also provide funds to improve other important streets leading out to the main highways. These bonds under the state Paving Law governing street improvements, would be used by the city to pave one third of the streets (in the middle) and the street intersections and the adjacent property owners would pay for the paving of one third of the streets next to their property.

The kind of paving and the extent of same is a matter to be determined later, in case the issues carry, but it is likely to be a brick or concrete proposition, as a cheaper or less durable substance would not be wise in these modern times with such an enormous and heavy volume of traffic. Cheap roads and streets are the most expensive, as a rule it is learned by observation—but that is not the issue now. Read the election notice elsewhere in this issue.

Martin Jones and wife returned last week from Corpus Christi and other points south, after an extended visit, and report a very pleasant trip; they returned earlier than they had planned due to the illness of Mr. Jones father, Mr. Wiley Jones.

Joe McDonough and Poley Williams were among the number who attended the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth the first of the week.

The Cross Cut section holds the lime-light this week with five new producers. M. E. Wakefield completed his Newton No. 3 for 100 barrels. L. G. Bradstreet's well on the Stout lease Company finished their Newton 5 came in for 100 barrels. Roxana Pet. for small well. Fred Mollenbeck and the Amerada Petroleum Company shot their Hensley No. 1, and it responded with 240 barrel production. Gilman, Root, Rhodes & McMurry's Teston well came in for 200 barrels following shot. P. O. & G. missed pay on their Arledge Nos. 5 and 6.

West of town in the new field, Brannon & Murry are drilling at 600 feet on their Bennett-Booth lease. Shaw and Rothke are spudding on Nos. 1, 2 and 3 on Miller lease. The Navarro Oil Co. and Brown & Company, are both rigging up on their Bennett-Booth leases.

Milham Oil Corporation is drilling at 1400 on Warren wildcat northwest and at about 2,050 on the J. A. Barr well, near town. M. E. Wakefield is preparing to drill in on his Webb No. 1, west of town.

The Andy Gump Oil Company have had trouble in Paradise Vista out on Tom Lee tract west of town. They found nice Oil showing, but encountered too much water so they are offsetting and will try new hole. No reports from other wells.

DEDICATORY SERVICES PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday, the new Presbyterian Church office here will be dedicated, at the eleven o'clock service, with Rev. S. P. Collins, local pastor, in charge. He will deliver the message of the hour. The auditorium will likely be filled to its full seating capacity, as the other churches of the town will not hold their regular services at that hour, so all may have an opportunity to attend this special service.

This new temple of worship is one of the most beautiful Church structures in this part of the state and is a credit to the town and community. Not only the Presbyterian Church, but the entire community is justly proud of this accomplishment. So don't forget the service Sunday.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS CONTRACT LET FOR

Just before going to press we learn that the school Board has let contract for the new school buildings to Tip Ross, for $49,600. Details will be given next week.

CALLAHAN COUNTY RANKS THIRD IN THE STATE IN OIL ACTIVITIES

BAIRD—In the report given out by the Oil & Gas Division of the Railroad Commission of Texas, the oil activities of the year shows that Callahan County record was as follows: permits to drill, 863; to shoot, 293; to plug, 332 producers, 464; dry, 376; plugged, 344 and 8 gas wells were brought in. Callahan County ranks third in the state, Wichita County first and Archer Co. second.

ADVERTISING PAYS, SURE

Tom Marsh and Olan Wilson, operating a Piggly Wiggly store here, took a page ad last week for their opening announcement and they are well pleased with the results, they state that many of the purchasers Saturday, the opening day, referred to their ad in the Review. The fellow who says advertising does not pay should try it out in the Review. Your ad will be read—because Review readers know that it pays to READ the ads regularly.

Sam Long of Dressy was in town Tuesday, in conversation about the poem on ten cent cotton and forty cent meat, he stated that he had not bought any meat or lard for 40 years—he raises his own so the high price of meat does not worry him—but that ten cent Cotton does not appeal to him.

C. OF C HOLDS INTERESTING SESSION

The Chamber of Commerce held an interesting business session Tuesday night, with some twenty business men present. Plans were adopted, committees appointed and other routine business attended to.

The body passed a resolution to protest the proposed change by the Katy Railroad to move the division point on this line to De Leon, which would mean the moving of the train crew to that point, and also, effect the present train schedule. But the Chamber of Commerce has not been convinced that the change would benefit Cross Plains, but rather to the contrary.

It was also decided to send strong representation including the Chamber of Commerce Band to the district convention at Baird on March 23, and a committee was appointed to make the arrangements. Another committee was appointed to work out a maintenance schedule for the Cross Cut road.

It was thought best to postpone the election of officers and directors until the big banquet which will be put on soon. A number of other matters were discussed and will come up for hearing later.

W T U CO. BUILDING TWO NEW HIGH LINES

The West Texas Utilities Company, are building two new high lines out of Cross Plains, one going to Dressy and the other going out to the new oil field west of town to provide electric power service in both territories.

THAT BRICK HOTEL

A number of Review readers have been wondering what became of the effort launched here several weeks ago to build a big brick hotel—and as editors are supposed (with emphasis on the supposed) to know about everything, we have been asked to give reasons why the proposed hotel was not under construction. Well, we wanted to know more about it ourselves, so we cased up to Mr. Wakefield, the man behind the gun, who launched the movement and asked him about it, and he informed us that due to the fact that he had been so busy looking after his oil interest recently, that he had been delayed with the Hotel proposition, but would get busy on it as soon as he could find time. He has most of the amount of stock subscribed for a $50,000 hotel and hopes he puts it over. Those who would like to invest in said enterprise, should see Mr. Wakefield. This proposed Hotel is needed here—and we must have it sooner or later—and not much later, if we are to hold our own. The demand and urgent need of a modern hotel here is growing day by day, and if we do not provide, we will keenly feel the loss at no far distant date—and that's no joke.

A LAUNDRY NEEDED

Cross Plains needs a first class laundry; such an enterprise should do well here, as several outside laundry companies from other towns are enjoying a profitable patronage here—and most of all it should go to a home enterprise with modern methods and equipment.

SPEAKING OF TEXAS

Texas occupies all the continent of North America except a small part set aside for the United States and Canada. Texas is so big that the people of Brownsville call the people of Dallas Yankees and the citizens of El Paso sneer at the citizens of El Paso as being snobs of the effete east. It is 15 miles further from El Paso to Texarkana than it is from Chicago to New York. Dallas is nearer to St. Paul, Minnesota than it is to Brownsville. Minnesota than it is to Brownsville, would look like a three legged Boston Terrier. The chief occupation of the people of Texas is trying to keep from making all the money in the world.

TO ELECT ALDERMAN HERE APRIL 5TH

An election has been ordered to be held on April 5th for the purpose of electing one city Alderman. The office term of Alderman Dee Little expires at that time. No candidate has announced for the office so far. Mr. Little is not seeking re-election, but many of his friends will urge his election for another term, because of the splendid record he has made, co-operating with other members of the city council in every effort to improve civic conditions and promote and foster the city's progress at all times. The terms of the other aldermen do not expire at this time.

The heavy rain which fell here the first of the week will be very beneficial to the small grain and will leave fine season in ground for early spring planting. It will also be fine on gardens and Cross Plains has a number of class "A" gardeners who are artists at the profession, including our friends Jeff Clark, Aubra Dodson and others—tillers of the soil!

C OF C TO STAGE BIG BANQUET HERE

The Chamber of Commerce will stage a big banquet here on Thursday night of next week, which will be March 17. The place has not been given at this writing. One of the local Church Organizations will serve the eats.

Prominent out-of-town speakers will be here and a very interesting program is being arranged. It will be remembered that Cross Plains is known far and wide for its successful banquets of late years. F. M. Gwin, secretary, and Aubra Dodson, President, will see to it that the banquet will go over in grand style—with the timely assistance of the ladies who provide the eats.

Make your arrangements now to be present. Better get your tickets early, for if history repeats itself, late comers may have difficulty in securing places.

Herman Reiger and family of Mexia, spent week end here with Mrs. Reiger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Adams.

J. W. Phillips and wife of Byrd's store were trading here Monday.

Our Idea Of Service Is This

That we have for you the things you want and deserve; that we do not make you wait for either service or accommodation; that errors be eliminated so far as is humanly possible and that our treatment of you shall be thoroughly courteous in any and all circumstances. Only as we carry out this ideal do we expect patronage.

The DOOM TRAIL

by ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH
AUTHOR OF PORTO BELLO GOLD ETC.

WNU SERVICE COPYRIGHT BY BRENTANO'S

We spent two days with these people, recuperating in preparation for the stern task ahead of us. After parting with them we continued in leisurely fashion eastward, keeping well to the north of the Great Trail of the Long House and avoiding as much as possible contact with the Onondagas, Oneidas and Mohawks whose countries we traversed. Some ten days after leaving Oswego we found ourselves on the verge of that untracked domain which was roamed by the Keepers of the Doom Trail.

In order to assure that our departure would be free from the observation of spies we left our last camp after dark and in two parties, Ta-wan-ne-ars and myself going in one direction and Peter in another.

Our meeting place was a grove on the bank of a creek, one of the tributaries of the Mohawk. We reached it without observation, and lay in concealment most of the day, starting again in the late afternoon and moving wadly through the forest, following no particular course, but addressing ourselves rather to the effacement of all evidence of our passage.

We discovered nothing, and the next day and many others went by with no better luck. Our provisions were exhausted, and we were compelled to live from hand to mouth upon such game as Ta-wan-ne-ars could snare or kill with his tomahawk—and certes he was wondrous proficient in both arts. But we kept on, bearing always eastward and quartering the country in every direction.

In the very midst of this deserted wilderness we came upon what we sought. We had abandoned the headwaters of the Mohawk and were following one of its middle branches, a shallow stream with pebbly, shelving banks, wading close inshore so as not to disturb the close-growing shrubbery. We all saw it simultaneously—a tattered, weather-stained fragment of canvas, caught on a snag in the current. I fished it out with my musket barrel.

"A pack-cofer," declared Peter immediately.

"And safely identified," I added, putting my finger on an unmistakable thistle in green paint with three-quarters of a letter "M" above it.

A mile farther on Ta-wan-ne-ars exclaimed and pointed upward to the trunk of a tall elm. Partly shaded by the foliage of the lower boughs a deep blaze was revealed in the bark.

We waded ashore and investigated. The underbrush was as thick as elsewhere, but presently Peter gave a heave with his built-like shoulders and a whole section of growths, which had been laced together with vines on a backing of boughs, lifted gate-fashion. Beyond stretched a narrow alley, whose carpet of grass showed it to be seldom traveled.

"If this be not the Doom Trail 'tis worth a look none the less," I whispered.

Peter nodded, and slipped through the opening. I followed him, and Ta-wan-ne-ars brought up the rear.

Here in this hidden path the forest noises became remote. Even the birds ceased to twitter overhead, and the slightest stirring of the treetops made us drop to earth in expectancy of attack. Yet when the attack came we were taken completely by surprise. We were all of us alert, but the first warning that we were under observation was a green-feathered arrow which sang between Peter and me and buried its head in the ground.

"Don't fire, whatever you do," muttered Peter as he threw himself behind the nearest trunk.

Ta-wan-ne-ars and I copied his example. I found myself on the right of the three. The others had selected standing trunks. I had chosen, perforce, a fallen giant which some forest wind had overthrown. I crawled along the trunk into the tangle of roots, and from there gained a clump of bushes growing about the hole from which it had been born.

The green-feathered arrow had ceased quivering and I idly followed the angle of its inclination. My eyes traveled forward—and focused upon a hideous painted face which peered from a screen of sumac.

The watcher motioned behind him, and a second painted visage glided to his side. Ta-wan-ne-ars, seeking to draw their fire, thrust out the end of his scalp-lock, and the first watcher instantly drew bow and sent an arrow that grazed the trunk.

Nothing happened for a while. The Keepers waited, and Ta-wan-ne-ars and Peter remained under cover. I surveyed the situation. From the hole in which I lay a depression of the ground ran eastward past the lair of the Cahnugas in the sumac clump. I started to crawl up it, dragging my musket after me, but before I had gone a few feet I was obliged to abandon the gun in order to insure that my progress should be silent.

When I was parallel with the sumac clump I sought shelter under a patch of wild blackberry bushes. Cautiously parting my screen—which was exceedingly thorny and painful—I was able to view the Keepers from the rear. They were ensconced in what was evidently a permanent sentry post. Beyond the sumacs was a low bark hut masked with boughs. At their feet were muskets. The bows they held were employed for the purpose of adding mystery to their attack.

I worked myself a little more in the rear of their position, then rose quietly and drew knife and tomahawk. I was an amateur at casting the ax, but this was no time for hesitation. I lunged it with all my might, and yelled the nearest approach I could compass to the war-whoop.

The tomahawk struck one of the Keepers with the flat of its blade, felling him. The other savage turned quickly and loosed his arrow at me, aiming wide in his confusion. He stooped for his musket, but I was on him with my knife and he was forced to leap back and meet me on even terms. Ta-wan-ne-ars and Peter came running between the trees, whooping encouragement.

They arrived in the nick of time, for the Cahnuga I had tried to tomahawk was on his feet, ready to shoot me as I dodged the knifeblade of his mate. The Seneca brained this man with the butt of his gun, and Peter methodically tripped my adversary and helped me pluck him.

Ta-wan-ne-ars paused long enough to remove what was left of the scalp of his victim, then crossed to us and set his bloody knife to the throat of the survivor.

"Is it to be torture or a quick death, Cahnuga dog!" he demanded.

The red eyes of the Keeper glared at him. "Death," the man spat, and strove to gnaw at the hands which held him.

"Then speak truly. Who travels Doom Trail today?"

"Nobody. We watch always."

Ta-wan-ne-ars pricked him slightly. "You watch always," assented the Seneca. "Yes. And who comes?"

A shout echoed through the forest aisles. The red eyes of the Cahnuga flared excitedly. His mouth opened. "Yaaa-aaaa-aaa-ah—"

Ta-wan-ne-ars drove his point home, and the scream ended in an awful bubbling gasp.

The shout was repeated. The crashing of branches sounded as some heavy body ran along the Doom Trail.

"Did you hear that screech?" shouted a rough voice.

"Yaaa, Red, we hear him. He berry much like feller feel something he not like."

"Fat, Fair and Forty" Not Much in Demand

An American woman, visiting Turkey with her three daughters, engaged an old Turk in conversation. It developed that the Turk was a broker in wives, and the woman, wishing to have some fun with him, asked, "At what value would you place my eldest daughter, supposing that she were for sale?" The Turk mentioned a sum that was flatteringly high. "And my second daughter?" the mother next inquired. A still higher price was fixed, age of course, being the standard. The highest price of all was set for the youngest daughter, a little flapper. "And now," said the mother, "what price for me?" The Turk was no diplomat. He promptly

Peter nudged me, and Ta-wan-ne-ars seized the bow and quiver of one of the dead Keepers. We crouched beside the bodies behind the sumac screen. My gun was still where I had left it in the gully by which I had approached the lair of the watchers. In its stead I selected the musket of the man the Seneca had just knifed.

A third voice was raised—in the Cahnuga dialect, which was a corruption of the Iroquois speech and perfectly understandable to my comrades. "Qua, O Keepers who watch," shouted the third speaker. "We acquainted you that we approach. We have with us the Red One and the Black One."

We remained quiet, but Peter possessed himself of the gun of the second Cahnuga and placed it where he could reach it as soon as his own piece was discharged.

They were approaching over the trail which forked into the one we had followed from the stream with the pebbly banks. And at this point apparently they came to the junction of the two branches.

The Indian who had shouted before repeated his hail.

"Them Keepers done gone away, Red," declared Tom. "Mebbe some Maquas (hostile term for Mohawks) come dis way. The Keepers chase 'em out o' huyh."

"—! I'm goin' to find out," returned Bolling.

He trotted out of the mouth of the trail into the open space on the brink of the muskrat swamp.

"Nobody here," he called back after a casual look around. "Guess the Keepers got after somebody—or else the lazy dogs have turned in for a sleep. I'll find out later for sure. Now you rustle them packs up, and I'll get the dugout ready."

He dragged a canoe hollowed from a tree trunk from its hiding place in a bed of reeds, and produced two paddles from the prostrate trunk of a hollow tree. But we paid scant attention to him. Our eyes were fastened upon the odd procession which emerged from the trail in obedience to his summons.

First walked the negro Tom, a huge pack bowing his enormous shoulders. After the negro, in single file, came eight Cahnugas, each with a large pack braced on a ga-ne-ko-na-ah, or burden frame. They carried their muskets in their hands.

"We've got to hurry if we're goin' to get everything ferried over the swamp tonight," grumbled Bolling. "Waal, what's bltin' you?"

This question was addressed to a Cahnuga who, in unslung his burden frame, had chanced to see the arrow in the ground which the Keepers had shot in their first attempt to bait us.

The Cahnuga pointed silently to the green-feathered shaft.

"By—!" swore Bolling with a start. "D'ye see that, Tom? Something's happened here."

Bolling glanced about him uneasily. "The Keepers have gone, that's sure," he announced. "What most likely happened was some party broke in here, and the Keepers chased 'em."

He chuckled wickedly. "Ain't no blood nor nothin' around, so it 'pears likely the Keepers got the jump on 'em."

Ta-wan-ne-ars, who had been occupied in extracting arrows from a quiver and setting them in a row before him with points lightly thrust into the ground, now notched a shaft. "Shall we begin, brothers?" he whispered. "Hold your fire until I run out of arrows."

"Ja," agreed Peter. "Budt do not shoot Red Jack or der nigger. We will save them if we can."

"You can take on the negro," I spoke up. "Leave Bolling to me."

Peter looked doubtful. "He is a good knife-fighter," he commenced to argue; but Ta-wan-ne-ars chose that moment to open his bombardment, and the Dutchman's remonstrance went for naught.

A green arrow streaked across the grove and buried its barbed bone head in the chest of one of the Cahnugas. The man shrieked and tore at the shaft with his hands. His companions scattered right and left. But Ta-wan-ne-ars gave them no respite. His shafts filled the air. The green arrows drove into the packs, quivered in tree trunks, pierced another unfortunate.

The Cahnugas let off a ragged volley which whistled over our heads. Ta-wan-ne-ars discharged the last of his arrows and reached for his musket. We saw two of the Indians collapse. Peter caught up his second musket and he and Ta-wan-ne-ars shot again. 'Twas impossible to miss. Besides Bolling and Tom, only two of the enemy were left.

"Knife and hatchet for the rest," said Ta-wan-ne-ars grimly. "Are my brothers ready?"

mentioned a price that was equivalent to $1.50 in American money. The mother was furious. Never, she said, had she been so insulted. After berating the Turk, she walked haughtily away, leaving the marriage broker speechless, and probably wondering what on earth he had done to annoy her.

FORCIBLE HAIR BOBBING SETS TOWN IN UPROAR

Woman's Long Curls Cut Off by Force When Husbands Admire Them.

Whittier, Calif.—When pretty Mrs. Evelyn Thompson suffered her long, twisting curls to be bobbed by force one day recently this little town was suddenly thrown into an uproar. Men, women and children divided into two camps, one side favoring bobbed hair and the other side battling the modern "flapper." Now the entire state of California is becoming entangled in the fight.

The admitted instigators of the whole affair are facing prison sentences. One, Mrs. Florence Nutt, is held in ball of $8,000 awaiting trial in Los Angeles on a charge of mayhem—willfully disfiguring a person.

The other, Mrs. Lucille Raulston, is sought by the police all over the nation, although neighbors declare she told them she was moving to India. She, too, is charged with mayhem. Conviction on this charge in California means from one to fourteen years in prison.

Back of all the bobbed hair war in Whittier is the green-eyed dog, Jealousy, police assert. Mrs. Evelyn Thompson was a little more than twenty years old. She has a good husband and little boy and drives a pretty automobile. She was fascinating—so fascinating that Whittier was not one gentleman in Whittier who wouldn't admit it.

Refuses to Bob Hair.

Not one woman would admit Mrs. Thompson's charms, though. She dressed well. She was popular at the town's leading social events, and probably she would have been the town's prize beauty if a beauty contest had been held.

Making Mrs. Thompson more unpopular with the women was the fact that she had refused month after month to have her hair bobbed. She liked it old-fashioned, she said. And husbands everywhere agreed with her judgment—agreed so well, in fact, that they carelessly mentioned the preference in the presence of their wives, it later was revealed.

The climax came when the husbands of Mrs. Nutt and Mrs. Raulston mentioned their appreciation of Mrs. Thompson's pretty locks. One afternoon soon afterward Mrs. Nutt and Mrs. Raulston invited their friend, Mrs. Thompson, into Mrs. Raulston's house.

As she stepped into a sewing room the door was locked. On the table lay a large pair of shears. Mrs. Raulston, police say, spoke very slowly and decidedly:

"You have flirted with my husband long enough. I am going to fix you so no man will ever stop to look at you again."

With this the shears were brought into play. Snip, snip, they went, while Mrs. Thompson's long curls fell off. Her neck was cut. Her hands were wounded, and her face was scratched as she fought against the two women who held her. It is alleged.

Taken to Jail.

It was a sorry looking Evelyn who ran home to tell her husband what had happened to her curls. But it was a sorrier pair of women who a few hours later were taken to jail by police on charges of assault and battery. The judge fined Mrs. Raulston $50. Florence Nutt demanded trial at a later date.

While Mrs. Thompson's town rocked in a bobbed hair war—with the "flappers" belligerently set against the more conservative women—Mrs. Thompson went to Los Angeles and called at the district attorney's office. Next day Mrs. Nutt was rearrested on a charge of mayhem. The officer from the Los Angeles office went to Mrs. Raulston's home to arrest her on the same charge. But he was told she had gone to India, "where her husband took a job rather suddenly."

Deserters Caught

Gap, France.—Two French deserters of the late war have been captured after 12 years of forest life with a price on their heads.

Auto Is Faster Than Fleet Prairie Coyote

Aberdeen, Wash.—No ordinary coyote can outrun an automobile, claims A. C. Gaillac, who exhibited here as proof the spoils of a recent highway chase. He was returning from Olympia when the coyote leaped out into the road and ran ahead of the car. Gaillac speeded up and soon overtook the animal, which disdained to turn out. The car knocked the coyote senseless and Gaillac finished its career with a wrench. He brought in the pelt for the bounty.

BOY USES TEETH TO SAVE FRIEND

Pulls Tree Branch From Impaled Pal's Neck.

San Francisco.—One University of California student saved the life of another following an unusual accident by pulling part of a sharp branch from his companion's neck by the use of a strong set of teeth.

Those concerned are Paul Phelan and Kenneth Reynolds, both of whom live in Alameda, and attend the same classes at the university infirmary. They started on a hunting trip in the mountains near Napa. Phelan fell over a steep bank and into the branches of a manzanita tree.

A fragment of one of the branches pierced Phelan's neck and broke off. His classmate succeeded in extricating him and placing him on the ground, where he lay gasping in a semiconscious condition. Trying unsuccessfully to pull out the branch fragment, Reynolds finally grasped the end with his teeth and withdrew the piece of wood.

Following this, Phelan was in danger of bleeding to death. But his companion tore up part of his shirt and bandaged the wound. Then, carrying the injured youth, Reynolds started with him for Napa. It required two hours to walk there.

After receiving first-aid treatment in Napa, Phelan was taken to the university infirmary and given further attention. His classmate's efforts saved his life, officials there said.

Two Teachers Fined for Whipping Schoolgirl

Detroit, Mich.—"The age of barbarism has passed," Samuel L. Vreeland, justice of the peace, said in passing sentence on Mrs. Mary Griffiths and Paul H. Coover, teachers in the Maple Grove school, after finding them guilty of assault and battery in whipping Irene Begeman, a ten-year-old pupil.

Coover was told to pay a $50 fine or serve 30 days in the Detroit house of correction. Mrs. Griffiths was given the alternative of a $10 fine and costs or a ten-day term. The costs in each case amounted to $6.50.

Irene testified that Mrs. Griffiths instructed her to remain after the class was dismissed for the day, but that she went home. She was timorous about returning and got her mother to accompany her. Her mother, she explained, informed the teacher she wanted Irene to return home early, but had forgotten to give her a note.

"Mrs. Griffiths talked real nice to mamma, but later she took me in the cloakroom and gave me a licking with a paddle," Irene testified. "I went to my seat and cried. Then teacher took me back to the cloakroom and gave me another licking with a rubber hose—worse than the first."

"I started for home, but Mr. Coover brought me back to school. He said the licking Mrs. Griffiths gave me wasn't enough and hit me about 24 times with a rubber hose."

Drug Addict Must Go to Church to Stay Free

New York.—Federal Judge Winslow looked meditatively at the youthful prisoner before him. He was John Spinella, eighteen years old, and had pleaded guilty to possessing heroin.

"I will sentence you to six months in the penitentiary," said the judge, "but I will suspend sentence on one condition."

"You must attend church at least once a week during the period of suspension."

"I shall ask your rector to keep me posted about your attendance. Your fate is in your own hands. If you fail once you go to jail for six months."

"I do not want anyone to think," said Judge Winslow afterward, "that I consider going to church a punishment in any way. I just wanted the boy to be under good influence during the period of his suspension."

Girl Playfully Points Gun; Slays Her Mother

Kenosha, Wis.—Edna Wade, seventeen years old, is under the care of a physician in her home here, prostrated with grief over having accidentally shot and killed her mother when she playfully pointed a revolver at her and pulled the trigger. She did not know it was loaded, she said.

The tragedy occurred while Mrs. Wade was preparing a party in observance of her forty-fourth birthday anniversary. The girl's father had just purchased the revolver and loaded it for the first time. No official investigation will be held because of the girl's condition, according to Coroner Joseph Friend. He gave "accidental death" as the cause.

ELECTION NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF CALLAHAN
CITY OF CROSS PLAINS

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CROSS PLAINS, TEXAS, that an election be held on the 12th day of April 1927, which is not less than thirty days from the date of this order, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted:

Shall the City Council of the City of Cross Plains, Texas, be authorized to issue the bonds of the City of Cross Plains, in the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000) to become due and payable serially within any given number of years, not to exceed forty years, within the discretion of the City Council, and to bear at a rate not to exceed six per centum (6) per annum, payable semi-annually for the purpose of the construction and improvement of the roads, bridges, and streets, of such city within its limits and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds and create a sinking fund to redeem them at maturity, under authority of the constitution and laws of the State of Texas.

The said election shall be held at Orrell-Dodson Chevrolet Co., in the City of Cross Plains, Texas, and the following named persons are hereby appointed managers of said election, to-wit:

P. SMITH, Presiding Judge.
V. V. HART, Assistant Judge.
MRS. W. R. WAGNER, Clerk.
MRS. W. A. WILLIAMS, Clerk.

The said election shall be held under the provisions of the constitution and laws of the state of Texas and none but resident qualified property taxpaying voters of the City of Cross Plains, Texas, shall be allowed to vote.

All voters who favor the proposition to issue the bonds shall have written or printed on their ballots, the words:

"FOR THE ISSUANCE OF $30,000 OF BONDS FOR THE PURPOSE OF THE CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENT OF THE ROADS, BRIDGES AND STREETS OF THE CITY OF CROSS PLAINS WITHIN ITS LIMITS AND THE LEVYING OF THE TAX", and those opposed shall have written or printed upon their ballots, the words:

"AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF $30,000 BONDS FOR THE PURPOSE OF THE CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENT OF THE ROADS, BRIDGES, AND STREETS, OF THE CITY OF CROSS PLAINS WITHIN ITS LIMITS AND THE LEVYING OF THE TAX"

The manner of holding said election shall be governed by the laws of the State of Texas regulating general elections.

A copy of this order signed by the Mayor of the City of Cross Plains, and attested by the City Secretary, shall serve as a proper notice of said election

The Mayor is authorized and directed to cause notices of the election to be posted at three public places in the City of Cross Plains one of which shall be at the Orrell Dodson Chevrolet Co., the place herein designated for holding said election for at least thirty days prior to the date of said election.

The Mayor is further authorized and directed to have said notice of election published in the Cross Plains Review, a newspaper of general circulation published in the City of Cross Plains, and which notice shall be published once each week for five weeks, the date of first publication being not less than thirty days prior to the date of the election.

Gatesville, Texas, Feb. 17.—Mollie Volentine, the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Volentine of Turnersville, Coryell County, died Tuesday after entering the school building at that place.

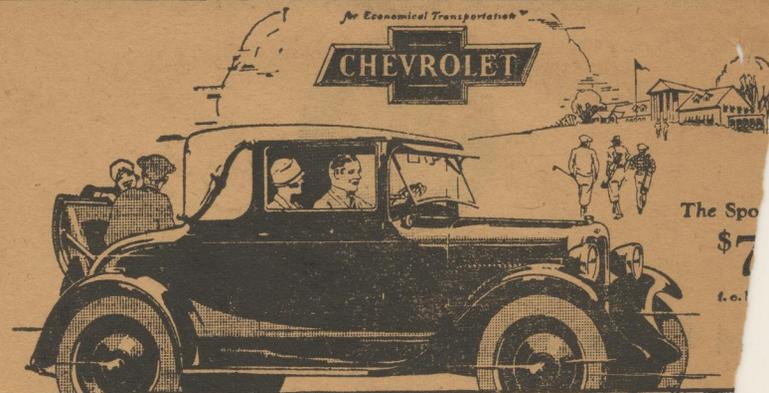

For three successive nights she had dreamed she was going to die and on Monday night dreamed she was dead.

Tuesday morning she left for school and soon after arriving called to one of the teachers and told her she was becoming stiffened. The teacher called the principal and he summoned a physician and the young girl's parents. Before either arrived she had died.

When she was a very small child she suffered a stroke of infantile paralysis.

J. H. Duke, of Shackelford County, who formerly resided near Sabanna, is visiting here and states that he plans to move back in the near future.

MORE CAR WRECKS

Car wrecks are reported in increasing numbers here. We have an average of about one per day lately—and some of them are indeed serious, resulting in broken bones, cut bruised and torn flesh—with wrecked cars and ruined clothing—but that serves to increase the havoc, it seems. Several wrecks have been reported this week, but we are seldom able to learn much about details, however we will endeavor to report all the fatalities, unless it is a last request to "keep this out of the papers". We always respect such requests.

Saturday was a big day in Cross Plains; a great concourse of people were here trading and meeting friends. They were here from many miles in all directions, and all were wearing smiles and seemed to be pleased with the ways of the world in general. Come to Cross Plains and meet your friends—they will be here.

The Baird Star, in publishing the number of scholastics in the different cities in the County, gives Cross Plains only 450; well, that was correct once upon a time—back in the early part of last year perhaps—but that's ancient history now, as the school records now show about 650 have enrolled, and it keeps fifteen teachers very busy to handle this number. The enrollment next year will probably reach the 800 mark. But the new school buildings will be ready for the 1927-28 term, and the good work will go on and on.

W. P. Brightwell of Route one, was a business visitor in town this week, and while here he renewed his Review subscription. Mr. Brightwell is one of our successful stock farmers.

Rev. Tom Brabham left Saturday for Bledsoe where he will conduct a ten days revival meeting.

Roston Berry, Devoc paint representative of West Texas, with headquarters at Abilene was visiting his humble cousin, ye editor the past week end. We talked over olden days when we were boys together in Houston. Houston was just an East Texas town in those days—but its a city now; that was fifteen years ago.

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

CHOCOLATE RABBITS

Daddy was certainly right on time this evening for his story to Nick and Nancy, and he had a story he wanted to tell right away.

"You know," said he, "some bunny rabbits and molly cottontails and Jack rabbits were almost bursting their sides laughing in the woods today.

"Now, you'll admit," old Grandpa Jack Rabbit was saying, "that that is the best joke you ever did hear."

"Yes, we think so," said the molly cottontails.

"The rest of the bunnies were laughing so hard they could not answer.

"Really, people are so very silly, and they have such a funny idea as to what we look like.

"But imagine making bunnies out of chocolates!"

"And then they burst out laughing again.

"If you could have seen them," continued old Grandpa Jack Rabbit, "you'd have certainly thought they were funny.

"You see, it was this way:

"It was very early in the morning, and I wanted to go through the village, as I had heard that grocer had in a fresh supply of fine lettuce.

"I thought if I did my shopping very early I'd manage to secure a few nice leaves for our luncheon today.

"Before I got to the grocer's, though, what should I see but a huge big cardboard rabbit sitting up in the candy shop, and then in the window, besides, were just countless rabbits made out of chocolate.

"Imagine! Did you ever hear of anything so foolish?"

"And chickens made out of chocolate, too!"

"Chocolate eggs, too, but they're not quite so ridiculous.

"I really think it is quite an insult to us. And they looked so absurd!"

"If they had done us justice, then I wouldn't have thought so much about it.

"But they didn't make us look nearly so handsome and good looking as they should have done.

"Now you take chickens. They are queer-looking anyway.

"But a rabbit is different. There is something so grand looking about a rabbit!"

"Old Grandpa Jack Rabbit was really getting quite, quite angry.

"He had forgotten about the joke of it and only thought of the insult to his family.

"So the rest of the rabbits said: 'Well, after all, it's a pretty good joke.'

"And then Grandpa Jack Rabbit began to laugh again.

"But Grandpa," piped up one of the little bunnies, "you've told us all about the chocolate bunnies that children eat, and you haven't told the little bunnies if you found what you had gone to find—lettuce leaves."

"Dear, dear," said Grandpa, "the fresh green lettuce."

"After all, I didn't forget about our luncheon, for, even though I was pretty mad about all those chocolate bunnies which didn't do us justice, I remembered to reach the grocer's in time to get some lettuce.

"So we'll have our fine luncheon now."

"And they all did."

The Charter Oak

THE bungling impatience of a tyrant's agent to destroy all evidence of American colonial liberty gave the New England colonies a splendid emblem which was to serve as an inspiration for lovers of liberty until the war for independence was fought and won a century later.

The colony of Connecticut was very proud of the charter granted it in 1662 by Charles II, which gave the community a large measure of freedom and independence. James II, who entertained continental notions of absolutism, determined that the colonies should come under more complete subjection. To this end he sent Sir Edmund Andros to America as royal governor general. Andros peremptorily demanded that the colonies surrender their charters. Connecticut refused.

After a year of storming and threatening, Sir Edmund left Boston and visited Hartford with a troop of soldiers to demand the charter in person. The assembly was in session, and into its hall marched the king's governor. His brusque demand was met by argument which lasted until darkness had settled down and candles had been lighted. At length Sir Edmund angrily demanded that the parchment be brought into the room. When the box containing the charter was placed on the table, Sir Edmund moved as though to seize it. At that instant a commotion arose among the crowd of spectators, a cloak was suddenly thrown with such dexterity as to snuff out all the candles, and Sir Edmund's voice was heard cursing and charging that treachery was forward.

When flint and steel had accomplished the slow work of relighting candles, it was found that the precious charter had disappeared. The royal governor general swore and stormed in vain. Assembly members knew no more than he what had become of the paper.

Later it was learned that some one admiring colonialists pointed to Capt. Joseph Wadsworth, a militia officer, had snatched the charter and borne it away to a hollow oak tree in Hartford, where it remained securely hidden.

The Charter Oak became the most famous tree in America and long served as a shrine for lovers of liberty.

The Importance of One Vote

BUT for the absence of one member from the hall of congress on a certain day in 1784, a measure would have been passed that would have prevented the American Civil war three-quarters of a century later.

Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence and founder of the Democratic party, was the determined foe of the institution of slavery, which his party was later to defend. Jefferson even inserted a clause against the slave trade in the Declaration of Independence, but it was struck out.

When Jefferson introduced a measure in 1784 for the government of the southwest territory "ceded or to be ceded" to the United States, it was found that a clause prohibiting slavery in this new territory was included. The measure affected Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi, and later would have affected the vast territory comprised in the Louisiana purchase. The clause failed by one vote. It was known that a certain New Jersey member, who was absent that day, would have voted for it.

Slavery in those days was not looked upon with great favor by any large section. New England states were rapidly emancipating the slaves within their borders, and in 1808 a federal law was passed prohibiting the slave trade. It was thought that slavery would gradually die out even in the South.

Then Whitney invented the cotton gin, which separated the seed from the fiber, and cotton took on new value. It became, in fact, the most important American crop, and slave labor could be effectually employed in raising it. The South now became more warmly attached to the institution than ever before, and the conditions that were to bring on the Civil war speedily developed.

Had the New Jersey opponent of slavery only been present on that day in 1784, the negro as property would have been confined to a few seaboard states in the South and slavery would have been well on the wane before cotton became king.

First Book in English

The oldest book in the English language is alleged to be "De Proprietatibus Rerum" by Bartholomew de Glanville, who wrote in the Fourteenth century. It was translated into English by Trevisa after it had been printed in folio form by Caxton in 1480, and probably the translation was made from the Caxton folio. The translation was published by Wynkyn de Worde in 1507.

Cod Supply Still Strong

The total annual catch of cod on the Grand banks of Newfoundland amounts to over 200,000,000 fish, and this steady drain has continued for hundreds of years, yet the supply shows no sign of diminishing.

WAYS WITH SWEETBREADS

Sweetbreads are perishable meat and as the warm weather of spring comes on, will be more plentiful. When the price is not prohibitive they should be frequently used.

Braised Sweetbreads.—Place in a baking pan a layer of new peas, small carrots and new potatoes; on this bed of vegetables place par-broiled sweetbreads with a few cubes of fat salt pork. Add enough of the stock in which the sweetbreads were cooked to cover the vegetables. Cover tight and cook for forty minutes. Season with salt and pepper during the cooking.

In almost every method of serving sweetbreads they need the following preparation: Be sure that they are fresh, as they spoil very quickly. Remove all the skin, fibers and tubercles without breaking the sweetbreads. Soak in cold water to keep them firm and to extract the blood. Drain and put to cook in simmering water slightly salted and with a tablespoonful of vinegar to a quart of water; simmer for twenty minutes, then plunge them into ice water to keep them firm and white. If they are to be baked, wrap them in a cloth and put under a weight to flatten them.

Sweetbreads in Gelatin.—Cut cooked sweetbreads into small dice, using two cupfuls. Soak a tablespoonful of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of the broth and dissolve it in one-half cupful of hot broth. Add the sweetbreads, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. Stand the mixture in a pan of ice water, stir frequently and as it begins to stiffen, fold in one cupful of whipped cream and two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley. Turn into molds and chill. Serve cut into slices laid on crisp lettuce, with salad dressing.

Creamed Sweetbreads.—Parboil a sweetbread, cut into one-half inch cubes or small pieces. Reheat in one cupful of white sauce and serve on toast or in patty shells, or timbale cases.

Sweetbread Salad.—Cut fine cooked sweetbreads, mix with celery and mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Stuffed Steak.—Take a nice cut of round steak, prepare the dressing as for fowl, spread the steak with the dressing, lap over and sew together. Place in a dripping pan, season with salt and pepper and strew the top with minced onions and bits of butter; add a little hot water. Roast slowly for an hour or more. Prepare the gravy and serve.

Commonplace Dishes.

When a small amount of meat must supply the main dish for the family it may be pieced out in the following manner:

Baked Sausage With Rice.—Cut pork sausages into thin slices; butter a baking dish and fill with cold boiled rice. Moisten the rice with beef broth, gravy or beef extract, spread the sliced sausages over the top and bake in a hot oven until the sausage is crisp.

Kentucky Batter Corn Bread.—Take two cupfuls of corn meal, three eggs (beat well), one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of fat, mix with milk to a soft batter to pour. Pour into buttered shallow tins and bake in a hot oven.

Hot Cheese Sandwiches.—Break open hot baking powder biscuit, spread with butter and lay in a thin slice of good flavored cheese. Cover with a hot cloth and serve quickly. With a cup of tea and a dish of fruit, this makes a nice lunch.

Baked Hash.—Butter a shallow baking pan and pile in chopped seasoned veal with a hard cooked egg or two finely chopped, season with salt, pepper, melted fat and a green pepper finely chopped; moisten with a little gravy or broth and bake until crisp.

Potato Soup.—Peel one-half dozen potatoes and put to cook in boiling salted water to cover. In a saucepan put three tablespoonfuls of butter and when melted add two or three sliced onions; cook until slightly yellow, then add some of the potato water and finish cooking. Mash the potatoes, draining off all the water over the onions and add hot milk, salt and butter with the onions to the potatoes. Serve unstrained, or if preferred the soup may be put through a sieve and then reheated.

Chicken Custard.—Take one-half cupful of strong chicken broth, add one-half cupful of milk, one egg, salt and pepper to taste. Strain into cups and bake in hot water. This is especially good for invalid cookery.

Steamed Brown Betty.—Mix two cupfuls of brown bread crumbs with two cupfuls of chopped apple, add two-thirds of a cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of raisins mixed with two tablespoonfuls of flour and one-half teaspoonful of salt; add one cupful of milk to which one beaten egg has been added and beat well. Steam in buttered molds two hours. Serve with lemon sauce.

Extremes of Heat

and Cold in Park

While skating through the frozen forests of Yellowstone National park this winter on an inspection patrol, Chief Ranger Sam T. Woodring, writing for "Nature Notes From Yellowstone Park," tells of taking a bath in one of the hot springs near Lake Yellowstone, after crossing the lake on ice.

In his record of the trip the ranger and his companion made a complete circuit of the park in a two-weeks' ski trip, visiting all of the isolated posts, manned by other men in the service.

"We skied directly across Yellowstone lake and found the snow conditions fine," Woodring reports. "The following day we skied five or six miles up the Old Faithful road from the ranger cabin on the lake shore so as to break a track and make the traveling the next day a little easier. Returning, we enjoyed a fine bath in natural hot water from one of the springs between the station and the lake shore."

Another Use for Laths

When the schooner Rebecca R. Douglas of Machias, Maine, collided with the steamer Eastern Crown there appeared to be no reason why it shouldn't go right down. But it didn't, and seven men were later rescued from the wreck by a coast guard boat. What kept the schooner afloat was a cargo of laths.

Thinks Tanlac Great Tonic

Mrs. J. P. Ming, almost crippled in left arm and knee, now supple and free from pain. Gained 40 lbs. and feels much better in every way. Gives Tanlac credit for it.

"I had a worn-out, no-account feeling," said Mrs. Ming, of 2913 Junius Street, Dallas, Texas. "I was hardly able to drag myself around. At times I could not bend my left arm, owing to stiffness and pain. Nor could I straighten my left knee. My husband, knowing that Tanlac had helped me once before, brought home some more and urged me to take it.

"All the old nauseating sensation soon left me. My appetite picked up and my digestion improved. Dizzy spells which used to frighten me, stopped altogether. I've gained 10 lbs. and am now completely free of all pain, swelling or stiffness. I'm not troubled with the old biliousness either. Tanlac banished all my suffering, and did it in a surprisingly short time. I think Tanlac is one of the greatest tonics in the world."

Lesson for March 13

MAKING THE WORLD CHRISTIAN

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 28:16-20; Acts 16:6-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore and teach all nations.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Telling Everybody About Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Winning the World for Christ.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How We Can Spread the Gospel.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Missions the Hope of the World.

I. The Great Commission (Matt. 28:16-20).

1. When and where given (v. 16). It was shortly before the ascension in a mountain in Galilee where the disciples met Jesus according to appointment.

2. The foundation upon which the commission rests (vv. 17, 18).

In order to prepare the disciples to receive this commission, Christ declared to them that all power in heaven and in earth was given unto Him. Before the disciples would enter upon the execution of this commission they must be convinced of His Lordship. To create doubt in the minds of believers as to the deity of Jesus Christ is to cut the nerve of missionary endeavor.

3. What the commission is (vv. 19, 20).

1. "Go—teach all nations" (v. 19). This means make disciples of all the nations, not Jews merely.

(2) "Baptize them in the name of the Triune God" (v. 19).

Those who have become disciples of the Lord should receive the rite which signifies their relation to Him.

(3) "Teach them to observe all Christ's commandments" (v. 20).

Those who have become Christ's disciples should be taught obedience to all His commandments.

4. The promise attached (v. 20).

Those who obey the king in evangelizing the world have the promise of His unfailing presence.

II. Forbidden by the Holy Spirit to Preach in Asia Minor (Acts 16:6-8).

The inclination of Paul and his companions was to tarry in Asia Minor preaching the Word, but contrary to their inclination they were hurried along. We have here a fine lesson on divine guidance. The Holy Spirit is just as active and faithful in closing doors as in opening them.

"The steps as well as the steps of good men are ordered of the Lord." We ought as truly to recognize God's hand in the "shut-ins" as in the "open-outs."

III. The Call to Macedonia (Acts 16:9-12).

The gospel having broken the confines of the Jewish city and country, the middle wall of partition having been abolished, the time has come for it to leap across the Aegean sea and begin its conquest on another continent.

1. The vision (v. 9).

Being hemmed in on all sides, a vision was given to Paul of a man of Macedonia pleading for help. This made plain to him the closed doors about him. In finding the divine will, we should look both ways.

2. The advance (vv. 10-12).

As soon as the divine way was known they moved forward therein.

IV. The First Convert in Europe (vv. 13-15).

The devout people were accustomed to worship by the riverside. To this humble gathering Paul came and preached to the women assembled there. A certain woman from Thyatira named Lydia, a proselyte, believed his message and was baptized.

The steps in Lydia's conversion are worthy of note for they are typical:

1. Attendance at the place of worship (v. 13).

Usually those whom God is calling are found at the place of prayer.

2. Listening to the preaching of the Word of God (vv. 13, 14).

The instrument used in the conversion of sinners is the Word of God (Rom. 10:17).

3. Her heart was opened by the Lord (v. 14).

Only the Lord can convert a soul. It is our business to preach the Word of God, and it is God's business to open the heart of the inquirer.

4. She was baptized (v. 15).

Every one whose heart the Lord has opened desires to confess Him in baptism.

5. Her household believed (v. 15).

When one is converted those in the home will find it out.

6. Practiced hospitality (v. 15).

Those who have experienced God's saving grace are thus disposed to have part in His work by rendering aid to His ministers.

Pursuit of Happiness

Many people are on the wrong scent in pursuit of happiness. They think it consists in having and getting, and being served by others. It consists in giving and in serving others.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Salvation

Salvation is not from you, nor in you, nor by you, nor of you, but only in Christ, and by Christ, and for Christ, but thanks be to God is for you.—Central Bible Hall Record.

FRINGE EPIDEMIC NOW RAGING; SOME COLOR SCHEME REQUIRED

A FRINGE epidemic rages in the world of fashion. What is more, all symptoms point to a spreading of the vogue during the coming months. The mode seems determined to be fringe everything as it goes.

At formal functions the woman of smart style literally entwines herself in fringe as she enwraps her slenderized form in her lavishly fringed shawl, such as is the joy, the pride, the envy of the normal feminine heart. The picture shows one way of wearing the beloved fringed shawl. No doubt, this pronounced vogue for fringe found its in-color, also black and white. For elaborate effect ostrich fringe, also fringes of beads are approved by the mode.

It is written in the bylaws of the mode that the costume must present, from head to foot, a perfect color scheme. Which means that footwear requires a no less fastidious styling than does headwear, and that the details of handbag and other accessories dare not be slighted in the ensemble.

A correct color ensemble is achieved in the spring outfit worn by the young woman here pictured. Her smart sports frock is of heavy beige crepe spration in shawls such as this, which by the way show no signs of waning popularity.

By no means, however is this passion for fringe confined to evening wear, for a review of styles in afternoon frocks reveals fringe as an idol of the daytime hour as well.

A strong argument in favor of fringe is the graceful silhouette which it never fails to achieve. Perhaps this accounts more than anything else for the sweeping indorsement which the mode is giving to fringe this spring.

The latest idea is to dangle fringe from the long tight-fitting sleeve, somewhat after the manner shown in the afternoon frock of black faille silk herewith illustrated. In some instances the fringe is much longer than that here pictured, falling at times from the elbow to exaggerated depths.

The black-and-white vogue finds charming expression in long fringe which alternates strands of each. Very striking is a black flat crepe frock styled with one deep row or tiers of black-and-white fringe. At the simple neckline, pose a white flower for the completion of the black-and-white compose.

Favorite fringed dresses stress a straight narrow model, whose lines are broken by two deep tiers of thick silk fringe, which in color is an accessories of these various snake skins are worked in combination with solid colored kid into a medley of ornate designs. Notwithstanding their extreme novelty they are making the "hit" of the season. A smart boa constrictor compose of hat and bag is here shown. Of course to complete the ensemble miliary will choose shoes which have an inlay or applique of this same snakeskin.

For stormy weather kid legettes are the solution. As the picture shows, they are a sure protection to light hose from unsightly mud spots, which, as every woman knows from experience, are next to impossible to avoid. These legettes are obtainable in all colors as well as black.

Fringe placed diagonally in sections also produces an interesting effect. Most popular and most suited to practical wear is the silk fringe which is now being featured in every new

For southern wear, which, by the way, is but a forecast of coming summer fashions, white kid is an accepted mode. The handsome shoes in the picture carry heels of black patent kid with narrow bands of black for trimming.

Safe Now When Others Come Close!

The Secret of Keeping a Perspiring Body Sweet

Do you know why thousands of people who never have to take a laxative, do eat a candy cascaret now and then?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculacy of person that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascade the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Men and women whose years have brought on sluggishness often find that a cascaret only once a week is all the tonic they need.

Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every druggist has for 10c and 25c

Robt. Cunningham is completing a modern six room brick veneer residence on his place just out of town on the Coleman road. He is also stocking his farm with White Leghorns, having just bought 1000 baby chicks. Mr. Cunningham states that he is also setting out 175 fruit trees of various kinds, with the exception of apples, and will probably add more later. He is going to have about all a man could wish for, including electric lights and other modern conveniences. Oil was developed on Mr. Cunningham's farm last year.

The Very Day You Start to Build INSURE!

Any number of different things may happen to a building during construction, in fact they are more likely to happen then than later, so the safe way is to insure when you start to build. Let us explain a plan fitting your requirements.
