OUR SERVICE

The handling of funds is the basic function of a bank, but that in itself does not measure up to the service factors that a bank of today should assume. This bank realizes the full depth of its obligation, and accordingly has surrounded itself with officers and department heads who are competent to extend sound, conservative advice on such of your business problems as you may desire to entrust.

CROSS PLAINS CITIZENS IN CONFERENCE

WITH STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER

SPLIT VOTING IS RULED LEGAL

Democrats bolting their party ticket to vote for republican electors for the presidency, but yet desirous of casting those same ballots for the democratic nominees for state offices were assured that such action would not make their votes illegal in a pronounced issue Friday by Alvin S. Moody of Houston, state chairman for the anti-Smith democrats of Texas from the headquarters in the Southland Hotel.

Moody's assurance is based on an opinion he received from Attorney General Claude Pollard, which was offered on the strength of a sample ballot submitted Pollard by Moody after Moody had marked it for republicans and for democrats.

Pollard's letter reads in part: "If a voter desires to vote for the republican presidential electors and at the same time vote for all the democratic nominees for state offices, it is legal for a voter to run a line through the presidential electors on the democratic ticket and leaving the republican electors on the republican ticket unmarked; and when he reaches the nominees for state offices, leaves same unmarked on the democratic ticket and run a line through the nominees for state offices on the republican ticket. This of course, would necessitate running a line through the entire ticket of any other party appearing on the ballot."

Moody announced in this connection that copies of sample ballots appropriately marked for the edification of anti-Smith voters would be distributed over the state within the next few days.

Some of the Cross Plains citizens together with some Baird citizens had a conference with Judge W. R. Ely, Highway Commissioner, on Monday of this week relative to the Highway situation in Callahan County. As developed in the meeting at Cross Plains recently, representatives of Cross Plains and Putnam have made an application to the Commission for a designation of a highway from Putnam to Cross Plains and thence to Brownwood. However, before the date of their application the Baird citizens and others had made an application for the designation of the highway from Albany through Baird to Coleman. At the conference Monday Judge Ely made it known definitely that he would not recommend both of these designations but he suggested that as a compromise, he would recommend a designation of a Highway from Cross Plains to Baird and thence to Albany. This designation, however, would be made absolutely on the condition that a county-wide bond issue be voted. As was suggested by Judge Russell the County Bond Issue would be for $1,000,000.00. Judge Russell said that after taking up the outstanding bonds and building the Highway from the Brown County line to Cross Plains and thence to Baird there would probably remain enough money to build a gravel road from Cross Plains to Putnam and to the Shackelford County line; from Clyde to Oplin, from Oplin to Cross Plains, from Baird South to the Coleman County line and other necessary roads. This matter, however, of what roads were to be gravelled and how much money there would be available for such purpose was not worked out in detail. If the designation, however, is made as outlined above before a county wide issue will be voted upon these matters will be worked out and it will be definitely determined where the money is to be spent.

Judge Ely further stated that he would not recommend a designation of the highway from Cross Plains to Brownwood unless the proposed highway from Brownwood to Rising Star was abandoned. He did say however, that if said May road was discontinued he would recommend that the Cross Plains and Brownwood road be designated as a highway. But that if said May road was not discontinued he might recommend that highway No. 22, from Temple to Comanche be extended to Cross Plains through Rising Star and thence to Baird as mentioned above.

LOCAL POST PLANNING FOR RANGER MEETING

At a very enthusiastic meeting of Tommy Aiken Post No. 423, of the American Legion, held Wednesday night, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: F. R. Anderson, Commander; W. A. (Red) Huckaby, Vice-Commander; T. R. (Ted) Smith, Adjutant; C. D. Anderson, Finance Officer; Porter J. Davis, Chaplain; J. C. Morris, Sergeant-at-arms, and Paul Harrell, B. H. Freeland, Carl Slaughter, George Lamar and Clyde Durringer, as Executive Committee.

All present at the meeting pledged their full support to the new officers to make the local post the peppiest in the district. A check on the members of the post who attended the National Convention recently held at San Antonio revealed that 26 members of the local post, or one-third of the total local membership of 78, attended this National Convention. This is believed to be a record for attendance at a National Convention. It is expected that Tommy Aiken Post will break this record at the next National Convention to be held in Louisville, Ky., next year.

An announcement of the next District meeting of the Legion to be held Nov. 10-11 at Ranger was read. Ranger Post is planning great things for the fellows who attend this meeting. One of the main features will be the dedication of Ranger's new airport on Saturday, Nov. 10. A host of planes from all over the country will be in Ranger for the event. Tommy Aiken Post plans to seriously attempt to win the attendance cup at this convention by having the greatest number of Legionnaires present. The attendance from the local post will be practically 100 per cent. Headquarters will be maintained at the Gholson Hotel. Those planning on going are advised to see F. R. Anderson regarding making reservation for rooms.

A number of things were discussed at the meeting of the local post, among them being plans for building a Post home. This proposition will probably be worked out during the coming year.

BRADY GAS CO. SOLD SOUTHWEST UTIL. CO.

The Brady Standard of last week reports the sale of the Brady Gas Company to Cammacks & Company of Chicago, head of the Southwest Utilities Company for a consideration running into six figures. The deal was closed Monday by Tom Bryant of Cross Plains, and M. E. Wakefield of Brownwood, owners of the Brady Gas Company, and to whom franchise was granted by the city of Brady something over a year ago.

M. E. Wakefield and associates were the original owners, by grant of franchise, of the Cross Plains Gas Co. It was purchased by Tom Bryant and associates a few years ago, and was recently sold by them to the Southwest Gas Co. who are now operating it under the original franchise grant rate of 75 cents per 1000 feet.

J. D. Conlee states that the doves have not all gone South and when one goes out hunting with him, they will be sure of fresh meat when they return. He has a wonderful shot gun with which he reached out and killed two birds flying at one shot, and the birds were 90 yards away.

THE CROSS PLAINS COLD STORAGE CO.

The Cross Plains Cold Storage Co., operated in connection with the Neeb Produce Co., is another enterprise that will serve a long needed purpose in this community. All classes of poultry, especially turkeys, will be dressed and handled through the cold storage system and kept ready for the local and shipping market at all times. The cold storage plant will be in connection with the Cross Plains Ice Factory, and is equipped with every facility for the proper handling of cold storage products. The season is now at hand for the wholesale marketing of poultry and it will be an advantage to the farmers of this community to place them through the Cross Plains Cold Storage Co.

A baby boy, dead about twelve hours, was found last Saturday noon in brush in the southwest part of Coleman. Judge Critz, who investigated the case, said it was well formed baby boy, and had been killed by a blow on the top of its head. The only clues officers have to work upon are tracks of a buggy which indicate that the body was brought to the scene in a buggy.

FOUR AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED ON

The four amendments to the Constitution of Texas will be voted on at the general election, Nov. 6, the substance of which are as follows:

Proposing an amendment so as to authorize the legislature to exempt from taxation any property owned by a church or by a strictly religious society for the exclusive use as a dwelling place for the minister of such church or religious society and which yields no revenue whatsoever to such church or society and also property used exclusively and reasonably necessary in conducting any association in promoting the religious, educational and physical development of boys and girls or men or young women operating under a state or national organization of like character.

Proposing an amendment that the term of all officers of the public free school system, including state institutions of higher education, may be fixed not to exceed six years.

Providing the appointment or an election of a State Board of Education to replace the present ex-officio board, and fixing their term of office at six years.

Proposing an amendment authorizing the levying of a tax of seven cents on the one hundred dollar valuation for the purpose of creating a fund for the payment of pensions for service in the Confederate Army, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas and for the widows of such soldiers serving in such armies, organizations, navies, or militia.

BAND TAX ELECTION FRIDAY, NOV. 2

The election to vote on the proposition of levying a special city tax of three mills on the dollar for the purpose of maintaining a municipal band, will be held on Friday, Nov. 2. The voting place will be at the Dodson Chevrolet Co. building on East Eighth street. The three mill is the maximum levy, and if that amount is not needed for the maintenance of the band it will not be levied and collected. At the present valuation of the city property, less than the three mills may be required. The maximum levy of three mills would amount to 30 cents on each one hundred dollars valuation, or three dollars on each one thousand dollars valuation. It is a small contribution when the advantage it will be to the city in having a first class band in readiness for all occasions is considered. Sweetwater and a number of other cities have adopted this plan of supporting a municipal band. Go to the polls and vote as your judgment dictates, either for or against the issue.

LIONS TO HAVE STAG DINNER

The Cross Plains Lions is planning a large stag dinner on Nov. 27th. Arrangements are being made to take care of three hundred or more, one-third of which will be invited guests from numerous towns in this vicinity. A Venison Committee has been appointed and deer meat will be served. Several noted after dinner speakers will be invited and with the well known Brady Quartet furnishing music, jokes, and stories, plenty of entertainment is assured. The District Governor of the Lions of Texas and probably a national official are expected. The Hird Hand of WBAP is being sought for toastmaster. The Lions Club has been doing big things for Cross Plains and they are now going to have a big banquet with lots of big men present.

—NOTICE—

On November 15, 16, and 17 the Young Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist church will have a country store. Watch for the place.

C. P. H. S. BUFFALOES WON IN FIGHT

In the hardest fought game ever played on Murphy Field, the Cross Plains High School Buffaloes and the Randolph College Badger Reservers, battled to a scoreless tie, Friday Oct. 26. The game was witnessed by the largest crowd that has ever attended a football game on the local gridiron.

The Randolph team consisted of former high school stars, and it certainly is a strong, hard fighting, leady playing outfit.

The Buffalo gridsters are high school stars, who have not yet made their College debut.

BRIGNER STARS FOR VISITORS
Winifred Brigner, former Buffalo star, was the only Badger able to make any yardage against the Buffalo machine, and those yards needed a few more yards added to them to total a touchdown. The other Badger backfield men would have made more yards, with less risk, if they had hit a stone wall instead of the Buffalo line.

BUFFALOES STAR
As usual there was no outstanding star for the Buffaloes. Each Buffalo played very good football. Captain Arthur Carmichael, changed from end to (center) in the absence of Reynolds, played good football in his new position. Tommie Webb, brother of the injured Co-Captain, exhibited that he has the making of a real football player, in his second game.

VACATION DAY
Although it was the Vacation Day of the official Pep-squad, (what if the team lay down on the job). A group of High School girls cheered the boys in their fight for a touchdown. Rex Clark, injured star of the Buffalo backfield, helped the unofficial pep-squad keep up the morale of the team.

BUFFS NEAR GOAL
Twice during the afternoon, the Buffaloes carried the "Ball" to the Badger five yard strip, only to be repelled, when they were held for downs. The Badger punted to safety, and the Buffaloes again took up the march, only to hear the final gun.

The starting line up:
R. E. Adams; R. T. S. Clark; R. G. T. Webb; C. A. Carmichael; L. G. Maddux; L. T. Harlow; L. E. Maize; H. B. Davis; Q. B. Bennett; F. B. H. B. Ivy;
Substitutes:
Coppinger for S. Clark (2); Robertson for Ivy (2); Ivy for Robertson (3); McDermitt for T. Webb (3); Robertson for Ivy (4); Coppinger for McDermitt (4).

BUFFALO BANQUET HUGH McDERMITT AND FAMILY ENTERTAIN THE CROSS PLAINS BUFFALOES

Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. McDermitt entertained the entire Cross Plains football team, their Coach Mr. Huggins, Mr. Priest and Mr. Simms, with a chicken banquet.

Three tables were decorated with the Cross Plains High School Colors, and each table was loaded with fried chicken, salad, potatoes and other good things to eat. Coach Huggins, called off all football etiquette and the boys, led by George Bennett bucked the line, and completely wiped out and off all opposition. Murry, the big beautiful blonde, who is a favorite with the Cross Plains girls, was unpopular, Tuesday night due to his unceasing appetite.

George Bennett and Aat Carmichael, again won the laurels, as being the best cake eaters.

After the wonderful meal, "Fats, Clark" does a few tricks for the boys, such as rope walking, and hand springs.

The feature attraction of the evening, was to watch the Freshmen eat their ice cream with a knife.

Phil Bingham added spice to the party, by ordering that Coach Huggins undergo a severe whipping by the Slimes.

The boys sincerely appreciate this banquet, and such things as this will keep the Buffaloes pep and enthusiasm up, and will someday make them States Champions.

A TALE OF THE WEST OF TWENTY YEARS AGO DRUMS OF THE SUNSET

(By Robert E. Howard)

The Wanderer.

CHAPTER -I-

"Now, come all you punchers, and listen to my tale,
"When I tell you of troubles on the Chisholm Trail!"

Steve Harmer was riding Texas-fashion, slow and easy, one knee hooked over the saddle horn, hat pulled over his brows to shade his face. His lean body swayed rhythmically to the easy gait of his horse.

The trail he was following sloped gradually upward, growing steeper as he continued. Cedars flanked the narrow path, with occasional pinons and punipers. Higher up, these gave place to pines.

Looking back, Steve could see the broad level country he had left, deeply grassed and sparsely treed. Beyond and above, the timbered slopes of the mountains frowned. Peak beyond peak, pinnacle beyond pinnacle they rose, with great undulating slopes between, as if piled by giants.

Suddenly behind the long rider came the clatter of hoofs. Steve pulled aside to let the horsemen by, but they came to a halt beside him. Steve swept off his broad brimmed hat.

There were two of the strangers and one was a girl. To Steve she seemed strangely out of place, somehow, in this primitive setting. She sat her horse in an unfamiliar manner and her whole air was not of the West. She wore an eastern riding habit—and then Steve forgot her clothes as he looked at her face. A vagrant curl, glinting gold in the sun, fell over her white forehead and from beneath this two soft grey eyes looked at him. Her full lips were half parted—

"Say, you!" a rough voice jarred Steve out of his day dreams.
The girl's companion was as characteristically Western as she was not. He was a heavily built man of middle life, thickly bearded and roughly clad. His features were dark and coarse, and Steve noted the heavy revolver which hung at his hip.

This man spoke in a harsh abrupt manner.
"Who're you and where do you reckon you're goin'?"

Steve stiffened at the tone. He shot a glance at the girl, who seemed rather pale and frightened.
"My name's Harmer," said he, shortly, "I'm just passin' through."

"Yeah?" the bearded lips parted in a wolfish grin. "I reckon, stranger, you done lost your way—you shoulda took that trail back yonder a ways that branches off to the south."

"I aint said where I was goin'."

"Steve responded, nettled. 'Maybe I have reason for goin' this way.'"

"That's what I'm thinkin' "the bearded man answered and Steve sensed the menacing note in his voice. "But you may have reason for takin' the other trail yet. Nobody lives in these hills, and they dont like strangers!"

And while Steve gaped at him, not understanding, the man flung a curt order to the girl, and they both sped off up the trail, their horses laboring under the stress of quirt and spur. Steve watched in amazement.

"By golly, they dont care how they run their broncs up-hill. What do you reckon all that rigamarole meant? Maybe I oughta taken the other trail, at that - golly, that was a pretty girl!"

The riders disappeared on the thickly timbered slope and Steve after some musing, nudged his steed with his knee and started on.

"I'm a goin' West and punch Texas cattle!"

"Ten dollar horse andd forty saddle, Crack! A sharp report out through the melody of his lazy sog. A flash of fire stubbed from among trees further up the slope. Steve's hat flew from his head, his horse snorted and reared, nearly unseating his rider.

Steve whirled his steed, dropping off on the far side. His gun was in his hand as he peered cautiously across his saddle in the direction from which the shot had come. Silence hovered over the tree masked mountain side and no motion among the intertwining branches betrayed the presence of the hidden foe.

At last Steve cautiously stepped from behind his horse. Nothing happened. He sheathed his gun, stepped forward and recovered his hat, swearing as he noted the neat hole through the crown.

"How did that whiskered galoot stop up there some place and sneak back for a crack at me?" he wondered. "O, did he tell some body else to— or did that somebody else do it on their own idea? And what is the idea? Whats up in them hills that they dont want seen? And was this sharpshooter He shook his head and shrugged his tryin' to kill me or just warn me?"

shoulders.
"Anyway," he meditated as he mounted, "I reckon that south trail is the best road, after all."

The south branch, he found, led down instead of up, skirting the base of the incline. He sighted several droves of sheep, and as the sun sank westward, he came upon a small cabin built near a running stream of clear water.

"Hi yah! Get down and set!" greeted the man who came to the door.

He was a small, wizened old fellow, remarkably bland, and he seemed delighted at the opportunity for conversation which Steve's coming afforded. But Steve eyed him with a suspicious glance before he dismounted.

"My name is Steve Harmer," said Steve abruptly, "I'm from Texas and I'm just passin' through. If you hone for me to ride on, just say so and they wont be no need for slingin' lead at me."

"Heh heh!" laughed the old fellow. "Son, I kin read yore brand! you done fell in with my neighbors of the Sunset Mountains!"

"A tough lookin' hombre and a nice lookin' girl," admitted Steve, "And some fellow who didnt give his name but just ruined my best hat."

"Light!" commanded the old man. Light and hobble yore bronc. This aint no hotel but maybe you can struggle along with the accommodations. My name is "Hard Luck" Harper and I aim to live up to that handle. You aint by no chance got no corn juice in them saddle bags?"

"No I aint," answered Steve, dismounting.

"I was afeard not," sighed the old man. "Hard Luck I be to the end— come in - I smell that deer meat a-burnin'?"

After a supper of venison, sourdough bread and coffee, the two sat on the cabin stoop and watched the stars blink out as they talked. The sound of Steve's horse, cropping the luxuriant grass, came to them and a night breeze lifted the spicy scents of the forest.

"This country is sure different from Texas," said Steve, "I kinda like these mountains, though. I was figurin' on campin' up among 'em tonight, that's why I took that west trail. She goes on to Tifle Pass, dont she?"

"She dont," replied the old man. "Tifle Pass is some south of here and this is the trail to that small but thrivin' metropolis. That rail you was followin' meanders up in them hills and where she goes nobody knows."

"Why dont they?"

"Fer two reasons. The first is, they's no earthly reason fer a man is his right mind to go up there, and I'll refer you to yore hat fer the second."

"What right has this bird got to bar people from these mountains?"

"I think it must a thirty-thirty caliber," grinned the old man. "That feller you met was Gila. Muken who lays out to own them mountains, like, and the gal was his niece, I reckon, what come from New York."

"I dunno what Gila's up to. I've knowed him, off and on, for twenty years, and never knowed nothin' good. I'm his nearest neighbor, now, but I aint got the slightest idee where his cabin is—up there somewhere: "he indicated the gigantic brooding bulk of the Sunset Mountains, black in the star light.

"Gila's got a couple fellers with him, and now this gal. Nobody else ever goes up that hill trail. "The men come up here a year ago."

Steve mused.
"An' what do you reckon is his idee for discouragin' visitors?"

RATON, N. M.—Arising before dawn to play with a rifle, his favorite "toy" in the daytime, baby Winford Brown, 4 years old, shot his mother to death while she lay asleep. Although the gun never was loaded when the child played with it, someone had loaded it, investigators said.

If a Democrat wanted to be sarcastic he'd say they call it White House because it gets washed so often.
This country will never gress in law enforcement so pass up the laws we pass.

Another Milestone on the highway of Progress

Ever mindful of the needs of West Texas in its phenomenal growth, and thinking several years ahead of its rapid development, the West Texas Utilities Company has set another milestone on this Highway of Progress.

Where six months ago was the bald prairie five miles northeast of Quanah, now stands the Lake Pauline Generating Station, capable of generating 20,000 horsepower of electricity. When this newest electrical giant of the West Texas Utilities Company was put into operation recently it began doing work in homes, industrial plants, oil fields and on farms and ranches of West Texas which is equivalent to the combined efforts of more than 200,000 men.

This station increased the available generating capacity of the company to approximately 70,000 horsepower, thereby not only insuring this territory unlimited power supply, but providing enough reserve to serve at least half a hundred more communities.

The West Texas Utilities Company is constantly working and planning to meet the future demands of West Texas.

CALLAHAN CO. COURT HOUSE BONDS SOLD

(Baird Star)

Commissioners Court was in session last Tuesday to receive bids on the $125,000.00, 5 per cent Court House bond issue. Sixteen bids were submitted and the bonds sold to Caldwell & Co., of Nashville, Tennessee, at a premium of $102 62-100, they being the highest bidders. The Total premium on the bonds was $3,264.00 or $128,264.00 cash for the bonds.

Judge White and Commissioners are proceeding carefully in the sale of the bonds and consider plans for the new Court House and contract to build, and well they may, for Callahan County got "flim-flamed" on the two Court Houses previously built. The two courts that built the other two, two courts that built the other, two were composed of honest, upright men, we knew every one of them personally, but architects or contractors managed to put something over them in the construction of both buildings. We want to warn the court in time to look after the foundation, see that it is deep enough that it goes down to hard pan.

It was easy to see why the walls of the first stone building cracked. The foundation was not over 2 1-2 feet deep at deepest place, and shallowest, less than a foot and it was discovered when the walls were torn down that the walls did not have half as many headers to bind the walls together as called for by the specifications. The contractor, not the architect was to blame for this fraud. No wonder the walls began to crack before three months.

The present building seemed to have a good deep foundation, but something is wrong some where, or the building would not have cracked like it has. The Court should exercise the same care that the Trustees of the Baird Independent School District did in constructing the old brick school building, one of the best brick buildings in Callahan County today, after 18 years in use. The trustees of which the writer was a member, selected Grant Bowls and the late W. A. Hinds, both home men and expert builders and they did the job right. Grant Bowls built the Methodist Church building, and did a good honest job. There are so many ways in which contractors, if they are so minded to do, can throw off in constructing brick or stone walls; leave out proper amount of cement, selecting cheap sand and many things to save expense, and the defect is never discovered until contractor has collected his money and gone. Two main things as we see it is absolutely essential to constructing a lastig brick or stone building: a deep foundation and the right kind of mortar but first of all, after you get a good plan is to select an honest, conscientious contractor. There are plenty of contractors, but all are not of that kind. A contractor that will throw in a shovel full of dry sand to fill up a cavity, when mortar is called for in a brick or stone wall will throw off on the job in every way to save money. The lowest bidder is not always the best, often the worst in contracting. A contractor has a right to make a fair profit on his work. There are plenty of contractors that take a pride in doing honest jobs because they cannot afford to do a dishonest job, if they stay in business. We hope the Commissioner's can secure that kind of a contractor. Had the first court house built been honestly constructed, the second and third court houses would not have had to be built. This is worth thinking seriously about. A saving of $145,000.00 to the tax payors of this county. We have had two failures in court house building. It is up to the present Commissioners Court to see that the third is properly built and we believe this court will avoid the errors known to be fatal to the first two court houses. There is no reason why a brick or stone wall properly constructed, should not last a century. Many buildings in the eastern part of this country 100 years ago are good as ever. England has stone buildings constructed more than a thousand years ago, still in use. If we get a public building to last 25 years we think we are doing fine. Let's build a court house that will not have to be rebuilt in the next two generations at the very best.

The Star building, a frame wooden building, was built 15 years before the present court house was rebuilt with material of the first, and still in use. A stone building properly constructed, ought to out last any wooden building.

There is a great deal being said these days on the interesting subject of getting "fit" and keeping "fit." We are told every little while how persons of note prepare themselves for their serious duties, come breezily in their offices in the morning, settle themselves before their desks and without any apparent effort do a real man's job before the laggards get fairly in harness.

To the average young man or woman, the matter of getting "fit" and keeping "fit" is a more or less serious business. It interferes with evening diversions, frivolous pleasures and silly social engagements, which in most cases are responsible for a very large percentage of the world's sorrows.

If you are observant as you loiter from play house to palatial restaurant, you will find that the men and women who are doing the really big things in life, are not to be seen in the gilded boxes or at the snowy-clothed tables.

They are at home, storing their minds with something useful or snoring peacefully in bed, getting natural sleep, resting taking care of their bodies and conserving their energies for the work of the morrow.

They are getting "fit" and keeping "fit" in the correct way.

And you have only to look these men and women over in the morning to see that they are "fit" to grapple with any stubborn problem that may confront them, confident of mastery.

Their minds are as clear as a bell, their hands as firm as the roots of an oak.

How then, seeing these successful men and women becoming more successful each passing day, stronger and richer at the end of each year, can you take note of their achievements and accomplishments without practicing their virtues and imitating their examples?

They have learned how to get "fit" and keep "fit."

And the methods they have adopted are so simple that you can embrace them as your own, become strong where you are weak, capable where you are inefficient and qualified to shoulder similar responsibilities with the same ease.

Get "fit" and keep "fit," ought to be the motto for everybody.

BURGLARS SEPARATE BILL HARDER FROM CLOTHES AND WATCH

Burglars got busy in Putnam one night last week and entered about half dozen residences. Bill Harder, well known in Cross Plains, having formerly worked for the Higginbotham and McGowan Stores here, was among the victims. The wily burglars entered Bill's home in the wee small hours and appropriated his perfectly good suit of clothes and watch to their own use, while Bill and Mrs. Harder slept on serenely. Bill is now salesman in the Norred & Clements Dry Goods and Clothing Store in Putnam.

S. X. Swimme, who for two-and-a-half years has been a citizen of Cross Plains, will move to San Antonio the latter part of this month. Mr. Swimme has accepted the position of superintendent of the press rooms of the Globe Printing Company, one of the largest commercial printing establishments in San Antonio. It is not generally known by our people that for twenty years, in his earlier life, Mr. Swimme was engaged in the printing business.

We are informed that R. C. Durringer and Ford S. Elliott have been granted the local distributing agency of the Freshman Radio Sets. Several models have already been received and an office will soon be opened. The Freshman set is a product of Walter P. Chrysler and contains a number of new features which heretofore have not been placed on the sets now on the markets. One of the most important of which contains four elements whereas the old tube now on the market has which is the new shielded grid tube only the three, the grid, filament, and the plate. The set requires no batteries, uses the regular light socket for its source of power, and it very selective.

A POOL

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

The heart must be A crystal pool, Through all life's turmoil Calm and cool, The things around To know, to love, And still reflect The things above.

No argosies Will plough its deep, No passions o'er Its waters sweep, No gilded ships Their pennons show, But, oh, the peace The heart will know!

For I care more For peace than power, And know no beauty Like a flower, I thank the God Who made of me Only a pool And not the sea. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

NOISY COURAGE

ONE of the interesting fictions which bad literature nourishes and supports is that a noisy, boisterous man is necessarily a coward.

The blustering bad man and the quiet, modest hero are two of the favorite characters of authors and readers of popular adventure stories. In the inevitable clash between these two characters the poor bad man never has a Chinaman's chance.

He is always proved an arrant coward. The quiet one, usually flicking a speck of dust from his coat, invariably emerges victorious from every encounter with his rival.

Everybody likes to think of an insolent, domineering bully getting his just deserts. If he gets them through an apparently weak, quiet little fellow, the picture is just that much more enjoyable.

Unfortunately, we cannot make a thing so merely by thinking of it. The things we imagine do not always exist in real life.

It is not always wise to assume that a loud-talking, boastful ruffian is a scoundrel, pleasing as the thought may be. Any such assumption is quite likely to lead one into a very embarrassing situation.

O. Henry once said that when he came to a choice between tackling a swaggering bully and a quiet stranger he would pick on the latter every time.

Nobody ever proved that John J. Sullivan was a coward. Yet it was Sullivan's habit to bring his fist down on the table and emphatically declare that he could lick every so and so in the world.

It was felt at the time that he did not exaggerate very much. At least few quiet strangers stepped noiselessly out of their obscure corners to prove that he was a liar.

It is, of course, a fact that fighting words do not make a fighting man.

Noise itself means little. The noisiest person may have far less ability than the person who does not broadcast his merits and abilities.

But neither does noise prove that a man lacks courage or ability.

In fact, some of our most successful citizens are those who have shouted their own praises the loudest.

I do not say that this is meritorious. It would probably become them better to be more modest when referring to themselves.

But modesty pays few dividends. The world usually takes a man at his own valuation—at least until it finds him out.

Insolence is often a mask for cowardice and boastfulness is often a mask for incompetence. But not always.

The domineering bully may be an obnoxious nuisance. But that does not make him a coward by several jumps.

So if you decide to mix it with him, be prepared for a real scrap. For it is about an even chance that you will find yourself engaged in one.

Shades of Difference in Term Thoroughbred

When you say another woman is a thoroughbred you feel that you have paid a compliment. What exactly do you mean?

One ingenious writer once explained that a real thoroughbred individual has a fine clear skin, fine hair of either light-brown, dark-brown, black, red or auburn hue, a bright clear eye—either tall or short but not excessively fat nor lean, regular teeth, well-proportioned nose, large nostrils, well-curved jaws, full, red and moist lips, well-rounded ears, a smooth or rich and full voice.

Probably your own notion of a thoroughbred has more to do with temperament, manner and mental traits than these purely physical features, though undoubtedly there are some physical characteristics that you do consider essential to the real thoroughbred.

Perhaps you feel that a thoroughbred must, simply must, have shapely hands—and that the woman who has very stubby fingers with nails considerably broader than long cannot be a thoroughbred. That notion goes along satisfactorily until you happen to meet a woman with short fingers and very stubby nails who really is very much of a thoroughbred.—Washington Star.

Dog's Claim as Man's Most Faithful Friend

Most boys and many girls, and 10,000 times 10,000 men and women, love dogs. We don't know when this loyal, unflinching friend of man first met him, first learned to defend his backs, his dwelling, his person and the lives of those dear to him, but wherever we have this creature we call man, there we have found his faithful friend and companion, the dog, always willing to follow him through thick and thin, never seeming to care for an instant whether his master was rich or poor, wise or ignorant, saint or sinner, alas even when beaten, starved, cruelly treated, ready to lick the hand that has hurt him. A good man once said, "When my father and mother forsake me then the Lord will take me up." Might not one say that, when a man might feel forsaken of every earthly friend, there would still be looking up into his face the gentle, trusting eyes of his devoted dog, saying by every look and sign, "Where thou goest I will go, thy lot shall be my lot, nor shame, nor loss, nor prison bars shall move me from thy side."—Chicago Post.

SIX OF FISHING PARTY DROWNED

Claremore, Okla.—Six members of a fishing party was drowned Saturday in a small lake near Buskyhead, 10 miles northeast of here, when their boat capsized. The victims were Mrs. G. H. Shepherd of Tulsa, four of her small daughters and C. E. Saunders a brother-in-law.

A fifth daughter of Mrs. Shepherd succeeded in reaching the bank of the lake.

Ambulances with pulmotors were called from Claremore and Chelsea but efforts to resuscitate any of the victims were unsuccessful.

The party had gone from Tulsa to fish in Spring Lake, a small body of water little more than 100 feet long and 25 feet wide. A coherent story of the tragedy could not be obtained from the survivors.

Every purchaser of a new Ford is entitled to Free Inspection Service for the first 1500 miles

The modern automobile is a finely built piece of machinery and it will stand a lot of abuse. Considering the work it does, it gives surprisingly little trouble. But there isn't a car made that will not run better and longer if given proper care.

The first few hundred miles are especially important because that is when the mechanism of your car is being broken in.

Proper attention during this period will lengthen its life and prevent unnecessary trouble later on.

We are particularly interested in this matter because we believe it is our duty not only to make a good automobile, but to help the owner get the greatest possible use over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

With this in view, the entire Ford dealer organization has been specially trained and equipped to service the new Model A car.

Furthermore, we have instructed every Ford dealer to give the following Free

Inspection Service at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles:

- Check battery
- Check generator charging rate
- Check distributor adjustment
- Check carburetor adjustment
- Check lights
- Check brakes
- Check shock absorber adjustment
- Check tire inflation
- Check steering gear
- Change engine oil
- Lubricate chassis

No charge is made for labor or materials incidental to this service, except, of course, where repairs are necessary through accident, misuse or neglect. The only charge is for new oil.

See your Ford dealer, therefore, and get this Free Inspection of your new car at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles. Find out, too, how little it will cost to have your car given a thorough going-over at regular periods thereafter.

A checking-up by experienced mechanics, together with oiling and greasing every 500 miles, will add months and years to the life of your car and mean more economical and pleasurable motoring every mile you drive.

CANCER NOT INFECTIOUS, SAYS FRENCH SCIENTIST

Paris—Dr. Claude Regaud, specialist at the Pasteur Institute, has disclosed results of experiments indicating that cancer is not infectious. A number of patients suffering with this disease are constantly under treatment at Calvarine hospital, and figures collected over a long period fail to show patients or members of the hospital any tendency on the part of other staff to contract the disease.

The fundamental cause of cancer he says is not contagious but inherited physical characteristics.

CANYON—Aaron Tucker, 75, pioneer of the Big Rock community in Van Zandt county, had his grave dug and his coffin made in preparation for his death. However, despite his 75 years, Tucker is hale and hearty. "I just wanted everything ready when the time comes" Tucker said. The pioneer also has quaint notions as to funeral styles. The grave is so constructed that the coffin will stand upright. Tucker will thus be buried in a standing position. The grave is located in the old Dehesdt cemetery, 8 miles south of Canyon. It has been walled in by brick.

EMPLOYED TEACHERS COLLEGE STUDENTS, WHY DON'T YOU ENTER BUSINESS

There is a wonderful opportunity in business for the unemployed teacher or the college student who by force of circumstances had to drop out of college. Because of your unusual literary qualifications, business concerns prefer you. You make better office employees. No matter what your circumstances are, should have a business training; no matter what your circumstances are, you CAN have business training.

We have a novel yet simple plan that is helping hundreds of young people through our school—a plan that enables them to pay the greater portion of their expenses after they are placed on a business man's pay-roll.

No need to wait till after Christmas to begin because any one who desires may visit home at least ten days during the Christmas Holidays. So, if you enter now, you will be just two months ahead of the fellow who waits until after Christmas to start.

You will be surprised at what we can do for just a few dollars and a few months of your time.

To learn of our plan, clip the coupon and mail it for our catalog, "Achieving Success in Business." No obligations on your part if you don't enter school.

TWO TREES GROWN INTO ONE.

LAMPASAS—A landmark of Lampasas County of outstanding interest is at first glance a huge tree, but on second look one discovers it to be intermingling branches of an oak elm. The two trees in their infancy merged into what is now a huge tree with two distinct foliages. One is the burr oak, having big acorns, which presents a striking contrast to the small leaves of the elm.

The electoral college yell: Raw, raw, raw!

BALE WEIGHING 807 POUNDS COMPRESSED

BRYAN—The Bryan Compress Wednesday pressed the heaviest bale of cotton in its history, according to J. B. Priddy, manager. It weighed 807 pounds, and was grown by Ed Schram of Zak, Brazos County. As far as known here Bryan has had the state record for pressing the heaviest bale of cotton.

LORAIN—In the office of L. T. Britton on Main Street, hanging near the front window, is a thornless cactus which has not been moved since being hung there in February, 1927, more than 20 months ago. This cactus is still green, and has produced new leaves.

It is quite fitting that Republicans and Democrats should have their armistice on November 6, a few days before the real Armistice, November 11.

FOR SALE!

On account of leaving Cross Plains, I wish to sell my trailer camp house. It is Williams built, in good condition, and will be at a sacrifice. See S. X. Swinme, Cross Plains, (North of the Tom Anderson residence.)

CACTUS LIVES AFTER 20 MONTHS.

KERRVILLE.—A sight that probably could not be seen at "The Devil's Sink Hole" near Rocksprings, county seat adjoining to the west. In the late afternoon thousands of swallow, fly in the cave as literally thousands of bats come flying out for the night. The opening is approximately 100 feet wide and 175 feet down to the first ledge. Bats fly out so thick that frequently their wings touch, and they make a noise which is similar to a heavy hailstorm.

MAN QUITS PANTS WHEN OIL MUSTARD GETS INSIDE TOO

BEAUMONT.—A unique weapon of revenge employed against J. H. Solomon of Beaumont by an angry negro, drove Solomon to the hospital for emergency treatment.

The negro seized Solomon's belt and emptied a bottle of oil of mustard into the trousers fastened to the belt. Solomon was in the trousers at the time, but, he assured hospital attendants, he stayed no longer than was absolutely necessary. It was some time before an antidote which gave complete relief was found.

WILL HOGG AT RISING STAR

Is your Church becoming idle?
Sunday School disorganized?
Does some scandal like a bride
Seem to almost paralyze?

Does your son carouse or gamble?
Does he drink or does he swear?
Is your daughter wont to ramble
Out from your protection care?

Is your husband growing distant?
Is your father still unsaved?
Are they stubborn and persistent--
Is your wife to Christ a stranger,

To some sin are they enslaved?
Is your mother still in danger
Travelling down the 'Broader Way'?
'Tho her hair is turning gray?

Has your life become a worry
And your neighbor you despise?
Do you feel cross and contrary
To life's problems that arise?

Is the town in an upheaval?
Business gone to the dogs?
Lisen, rush to that revival--
Hear those sermons of Will Hogg's.

Let him tell you of your duty:
Let him lift your tearstained eyes--
Listen, as he tells the beauty
Of the City in the skies.

Hark! Earl Rogers now is singing
Those sweet songs that can't grow old;
Pearly Gates forever swinging
To the street of shining gold.

You will find them ever working
In the sunshine, in the rain--
Brother Williams is not shirking,
He manages this campaign.

Come on now and join right in it,
It's not too late nor too far;
For they're preaching right this minute
In the town of Rising Star.

JOHN HOLDER

SUSPECT IN HASKELL MURDERS SURRENDERS

Brought to Abilene last Saturday from Haskell county, where he surrendered to officers late Friday after posses had combed the river brakes for him two days and nights, Bill Fritz Friday night stoutly maintained his innocence of the slaying of Dudley Hamilton and his son, Earle, Haskell County farmers, Wednesday night.

Fritz, an overseas veteran of the World War, talked freely to officers and reporters but denied he fired the shots that killed the Hamiltons. He asserted he was accompanied to the Hamilton home by three companions, whose identity he refused to divulge. He declared he had seen none of the three since the night of the shooting.

It was several hours after Fritz surrendered before his whereabouts were known. Due to what was said to be high feeling in Haskell County, Marshall Flournoy secreted Fritz beneath the rumble seat of his automobile and brought him here.

In discussing his plight with authorities Friday night Fritz gave a vivid description of the two days and nights, he was hiding in cotton fields near Judd, Haskell County community. Many times, he said, possemen armed with rifles passed within a few feet of his hiding place.

When he saw his capture was inevitable, Fritz said he made his way to the home of John Epley, farmer, and friend, and asked that he telephone Marshal Flournoy to come and get him. He declared he would have surrendered to no other officer.

The slaying of the Hamiltons aroused citizens of Haskell County to a high pitch. The two men were shot down after they had been called from the house at night. Mrs. Hamilton, whose statement resulted in charges being filed against Fritz, said her son was ordered to "get out of the country" before liquor cases in which he was to be a witness, came to trial. When Hamilton refused to send his son away, she said, he was shot and instantly killed. Earle was shot twice as he ran into the house and died before aid could be summoned.

More than 2,000 persons attended the funeral of the slain men Friday at Rochester.

L. H. Maddux has returned from a business trip to Douglas, Arizona and Agua Prieta, Mexico.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify, that I have had a Severe attack of female trouble and have been bedfast the past month until the last few days. The doctors said an operation was absolutely necessary, as my female organs were in a very serious condition, passing puss continuously, so sore I could hardly move. I heard of the wonderful work Dr. Shoultz was doing and before undergoing an operation I decided I would give him a trial. I have been taking treatment from Dr. Shoultz now for the past two weeks, and I can truly say I believe he has cured me. I want to say if you are a sufferer you will make no mistake by coming to Dr. Shoultz for treatment.

WHAT IS GOING ON UNDER THE HOOD?

If your Cylinders were made of glass you would be interested in seeing what goes on within them—but there are other reliable ways of telling their condition.

If your motor has lost its original power, is "sick and all in," hasn't the get-up-and go pep, carbons easily, knocks at times, pumps oil—has nothing but a poverty producing appetite for gas and oil, it is time to Stormize the motor—delay means excessive wear of motor.

Brown Mule Batteries

We carry full line of Brown Mule Batteries, also Re-charging, Rebuilding and overhauling of all kind.

Another thing we must take into account is the fact that a lot of the wets have died off since Prohibition went into effect.

"Clothes do help," reads a familiar ad. And a lot of flappers might profit by that suggestion.
