Buffalo Band Brady Bound

By ARLENE STEPHENSON

"Strickler's band is strick-ly number 1", such is the attitude all over town this week as the "Pride of Cross Plains" High School Marching Band makes final preparations for winning a third straight Division I rating in Brady on Saturday. The UIL Marching Contest will be held at the high school football stadium beginning early Saturday morning.

Our band performs at a perfect time, 10:45. Time enough for a huge following of supporters to caravan down to cheer the kids on. Since the band adds so much to the Friday night entertainment at the football stadiums it is hoped that a large number of the "Friday night faithfuls" will make the trip.

The band, 70 strong, has worked diligently on the competition show since August. The last two weeks have been spent fine tuning their efforts.

At a recent workout, they spent considerable time getting stopped on an exactly even 16 steps, not 15½ or 16½, but 16! Some parents, thinking the pressure might be getting to the group, were relieved to hear later that one member went home saying, "Mom, we're awesome! This is so great, totally awesome." So much for pressure!! Inspired and motivated are more appropriate descriptions of their mood.

The group will make their last pre-contest appearance at the game in Baird Friday night. If you absolutely can't make it on Saturday, plan to go to Baird to support all the kids, band and team alike. Ok, better still, go both times.

A fan bus will be leaving with the band at 7:30 a.m. at the Band Hall. Tickets for the bus are $1.00 per person to offset costs of the driver and fuel. They will be offered on a first come, first serve basis, with 32 seats available.

Students in the 8th grade and younger wishing to attend must be accompanied by a parent.

Contact Bill Strickler at 725-6123 to reserve a seat.

The stadium in Brady should be easy to find. Just follow the stream of decorated cars, purple attire and waving signs. A police escort will be provided out of town. Come and help send off the band in style. Wear something purple or gold, look for the Buffalo Band Flag and join the proud boosters of a great bunch of students.

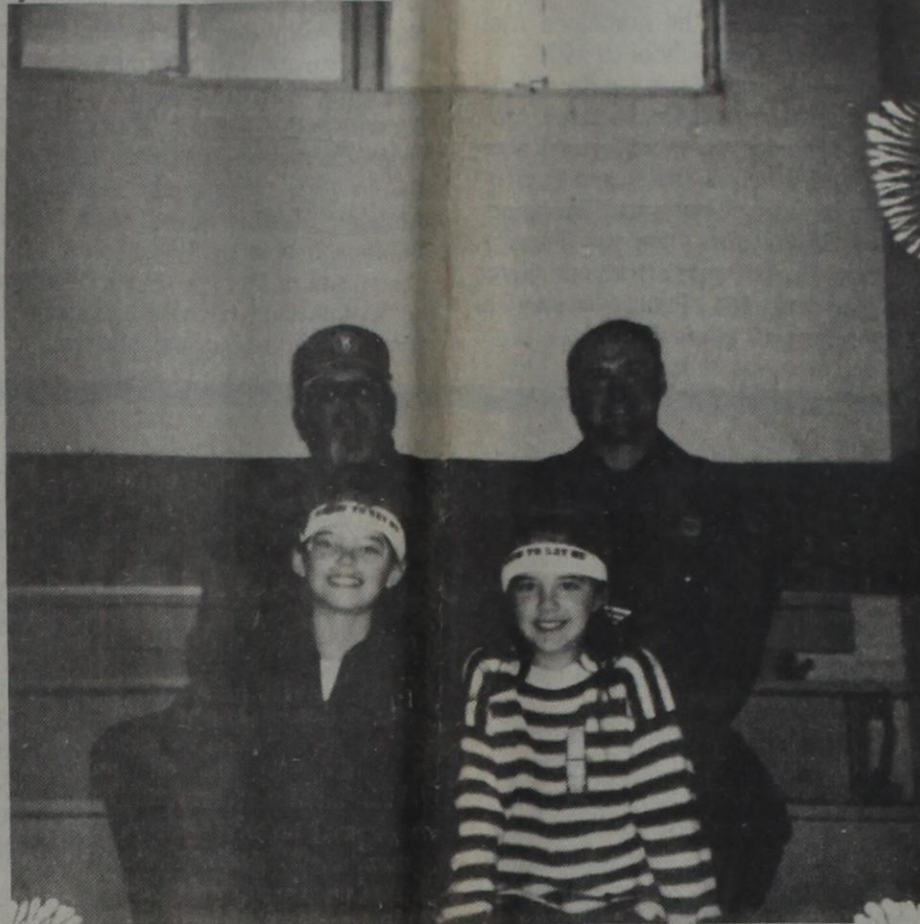

Project Pride Needs You

Project Pride will meet at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, October 30, at the library.

Betty Greenwood, chairman of the "Christmas Village," will present detailed plans. Santa has been contacted and workers named. All members and interested persons are urged to attend this important meeting and get involved.

Colonial Oaks Services

Church of Christ will conduct worship services at Colonial Oaks Nursing Home on Sunday, October 28, commencing at 3:30 p.m.

DRUG-FREE COMMUNITY — Mayor Ross Gerking (left) and Officer Danny Blankenship were speakers at the Drug-Free Pep Rally. Jolene

STUDENT BODY — Local grade school children have on their Drug-

Free headbands in support of the preventive project.

Operation "Know To Say No"

By VANDA KING
Editor

A joint venture involving the Kiwanis Club and the local school started of Texas' War on Drugs Red Ribbon Week, October 21-28 with a charge. Monday morning the Kiwanis Club distributed drug education kits, which they had purchased, to students, Kindergarten through sixth grade. Each child wore a headband which said, "Know to Say No."

A Drug-Free Pep Rally was presented by the high school and junior high cheerleaders with cheers promoting abstaining from drugs. Lots of spirit was displayed by the girls and the students were receptive to the important message.

Mayor Ross Gerking and President of the local Kiwanis Club, spoke to the children and encouraged them to remain drug-free. He also introduced the guest speaker, Danny Blankenship.

As a representative of the Abilene Police Department, Blankenship delivered a brief but effective talk about the lasting results of drugs and its adverse impression on our country and society. He emphasized the need to never start drugs as a preventive alternative to healing our country's number one problem. He stated that the crime increase is due to drugs and until the problem was stopped our country continues to deteriorate.

The Student Council had made red ribbons and delivered them to all the businesses in town to be exhibited all week demonstrating their support of the program. Red ribbons can be seen on the doors of local businesses and even on the trees at the First Baptist Church.

A week of activities are scheduled at the school in cooperation with the promotion of a Drug-Free Community. Prevention is the key solution and it is great to see the community work together with the youth on such a worthy project.

Senior Citizens Center Sponsoring Halloween Treats

The Senior Citizens Center will be open Saturday, October 27, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. handing out homemade cookies and candy to children.

This is being offered as an alternative to door to door trick or treating on Halloween.

Community children are encouraged to come by for some great goodies.

Community Welcomes New Business

By VANDA KING
Editor

Mediplex, a home health care service, will soon be established in Cross Plains. Local resident, Linda Payne, will be the director of the Cross Plains branch which will be the hub for a 50 mile radius.

The new business will create approximately six employment positions to begin with and more will be added as patient numbers increase. At least ten home care patients are needed to begin and that requirement has already been met.

Home Health Care's professional staff can help you and your loved ones by sending nurses, aides and therapists to your home when you are sick. It is a physician-directed, nurse-coordinated agency.

Services that are available include professional nursing care consisting of a registered nurse that will treat you according to your doctor's orders, reports your progress or any problems immediately to your doctor, and teaches you how to care for yourself.

Personal care, physical therapy, respiratory therapy, medical social service and medical equipment and supplies are available on a 24 hour on-call service.

The staff of Mediplex will be able to deliver many sophisticated treatments/procedures for the total care of patients needs such as chemotherapy, enteral nutrition, supra-pubic catheters, ostomy care and teaching, post-surgical wound care, instructing patient and family regarding maintenance of new drug therapy such as insulin, hypertensive or other diovascular. Oxygen therapy, nasogastric tubes, diabetic teaching, injections, home ventilator care, and medical supplies and equipment.

If you are 65 or over Medicare pays the full cost of all home health visits. Payment for services can also be through Medicaid, Workmen's Compensation, Veterans Administration and Champus. Most private insurers and major medical policies now provide home care benefits.

Mediplex has offices in Abilene, Stamford and Breckenridge. Anyone interested in obtaining these services may contact Linda Payne at (915) 624-5245.

The Cross Plains Chamber of Commerce welcomes the arrival of a new medical service to the area. The Chamber is hosting an introductory meeting at the Senior Citizens Center on Monday, October 29, at 6:30 p.m.

REVIEW NEWSSTAND PRICE TO INCREASE

Due to increased gasoline prices, the newsstand price of the Cross Plains Review will increase effective November 1, 1990.

Vanda King, editor of the Cross Plains newspaper, said the newsstand price will increase from 25c to 35c beginning next week, with the November 1 issue of the newspaper.

The news stand price of the Callahan County Star and Clyde Journal newspapers will also increase November 1.

King said that increased costs with transportation forced the increase. Also, the price of oil based ink used to print newspapers has seen higher prices.

The yearly subscription price for the Cross Plains Review by mail will not increase immediately. However, preliminary indications are that newspaper postal rates will increase in January or February 1991.

Brady, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brady, represented the Callahan-Shackelford County Farm Bureau in the district contest. He is now eligible to compete in the state competition to be held in San Antonio on November 24-25 at the Texas Farm Bureau State Convention.

The state winner will receive a $4,000 scholarship; the runner-up will receive a $2,500 scholarship; and four finalists will each receive a $1,500 scholarship.

Along with the scholarship money, the six finalists will receive a four-day, expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C. to visit elected officials, witness the legislative body in session and visit historical sites.

Volunteer Program Aids Students

The National School Volunteer Program (NSVP) has been instituted in schools nationwide over the past 22 years. It is designed to lift students' performance through volunteer tutoring and, just as importantly, to lift their self-esteem with the aid of mentors. An award program sponsored by NSVP, Kraft General Foods and Walt Disney World Co. has been held annually since 1987 to recognize the participation and invaluable contributions made by dedicated program volunteers across the country.

A 1990 recipient of the Outstanding School Volunteer Award, Renae Hackman, of Mesa, Ariz., has cerebral palsy and works with handicapped children. Says a colleague of her persistent encouragement and excellent example, "She has such faith in each student, and can often get a student to perform better than anyone else." Volunteers like Renae are making a difference in the lives of many young people.

For information on volunteering, contact your local school district to see if it is associated with the National Association of Partners in Education, which runs NSVP, or has its own organized volunteer program. If no program exists, contact your local school directly.

ON THE

CORNER

Watch What You Listen To

By DON TABOR
Publisher

Okay, so you've got this nice little business and you think it would be good to play a little music on the radio for your customers as they shop.

Better not. It could cost you a ton of money.

I've heard Paul Harvey talk about this on his radio program and a couple of weeks ago I read a column on the subject in The Abilene Reporter-News by Chicago Tribune writer Bob Greene.

It seems that a giant organization that represents music composers, Broadcast Music Inc. (BMI), has the right to fine you, and fine you big time, if BMI music is heard over the radio in your business, and you don't pay BMI a fee.

Greene talked about a little furniture store in Wolcottville, Ind., a town of about 900 people. The store owner liked to play radio music to keep him company because in a town that size people didn't exactly beat down the door coming into his business.

One day he got a letter from BMI saying he'd better pay up for playing the music or he could be in big trouble. The store owner checked further and found he could be fined up to $100,000 for every BMI song that came out of his radio.

Greene called BMI to see if this could all be a big mistake. He was told it wasn't.

"When music is used as a tool to enhance the atmosphere of a business, it is considered commercial usage," said James Popik, a BMI licensing representative in New Jersey. "If the radio can be heard throughout this man's store, then it is necessary for him to sign a contract with us, and to pay us a fee."

Even if the music is just a radio playing in a store on Main Street in small-town Indiana?

"That's right," Popik said. "While on the subject of the ridiculous, you remember that nifty 'little' pay raise our Congressmen and women gave themselves last year?"

I didn't realize until reading a Reporter-News editorial Tuesday that most of the $35,000-a-year raise doesn't take effect until January, 1991, and that the lawmakers also pulled a sneaky little deal after they voted for it. National Democratic and Republican leaders agreed their candidates would not use the issue against each other in this year's elections and if they do, they won't get party campaign funds.

In other words, these guys and gals voted themselves a hefty pay raise and then were guaranteed that doing so

Science helps bring abundance of food

No. 1 —
Science and Food Abundance

(The Texas Farm Bureau has prepared a series of articles to answer consumer concerns about food safety. A nationwide survey conducted by Farm Bureau showed that while most Americans believe their food is safe, a lot of people are very concerned about specific food issues. These articles are designed to address those concerns.)

Background

Our planet is blessed with natural resources. Our soil, water and air combine to give us a wealth of mountains, oceans, deserts, and plains that host an amazing variety of plants and animals.

Through agriculture, we have developed the means and knowledge to manage these resources and to provide the food we need to survive and prosper.

No where has this merger of nature and know-how been more successful than in America. For the last 50 years, American farmers have been the most productive in the world—feeding our own people and tens of millions overseas.

But today, many consumers are concerned—not about the abundance of our food, but about its safety. The news media has reported on a variety of food safety "scare." Opinion surveys show that nearly eight out of every ten consumers consider pesticide residues a "serious health hazard." Others have concerns about hormones, antibiotics, and other additives.

These are important concerns.

wouldn't be used against them by their opponents when it came time to seek reelection.

Talk about feathering your nest.

Consumers deserve to know the facts about how the foods they eat are produced.

Many groups and individuals have offered their views on what is right and wrong with our food supply. This debate will no doubt result in some constructive gains. But too often, the voice of the American farmer goes unheard when food safety issues are discussed.

For thousands of years, farmers had few weapons to combat pests or diseases. From the locust plagues in Biblical Egypt—to the infamous Irish potato famine caused by a widespread blight—to the threats facing agriculture today—crop damage from pests and disease can be devastating.

Gardeners know the damage beetles and other insects can cause.

Weeds, another serious pest problem, can choke off nutrients and crowd out crops.

Mold and mildew, brought on by heavy rains or high humidity, can ruin an entire season's crop in just a few days.

An explosion or sudden outbreak of hungry insects can devastate a field in hours.

Untreated, disease and sickness can spread swiftly through a livestock herd or poultry flock.

Help for the American farmer came after World War II, when pesticides became widely available. Farmers had a valuable tool in their arsenal to fight crop pests. They could control insects, weeds, mold and rodents more effectively. Yields increased, quality improved, and prices stabilized.

People believe if you walk into a spider's web, you will get a letter.

Black Poetry Day

Oct. 17 marks the birthday of Jupiter Hammon, the first black-American poet to be published in the United States. It also is celebrated as Black Poetry Day to honor and recognize the contributions of African-American poets to our country.

Jupiter Hammon was born into slavery in 1711, probably in Long Island, N.Y. He was taught to read and was allowed to use his master's library. And on Christmas Day in 1760, his 88-line ballad, "An Evening in Thought," was published.

Hammon died in 1790, but his contribution to American life and culture still serve as an inspiration to struggling poets today.

MINUTE MUSINGS

By ESTHLOY S. DICKSON

Some Monday mornings, I just don't feel anxious to start this column, and this is one of those mornings. Just bear with me, maybe I'll get on the move soon.

A friend of mine mentioned this column at the church on Sunday. It was just a 'comment', but I considered it a compliment. Thanks, Joyce.

On Monday of last week, Betty Beggs and Mrs. C.T. Barton were in Brownwood on business, and did some shopping. The Beggs' are busy harvesting their peanuts.

Sally Roady reported that we had a heavy frost last night, I had not noticed that. They visit Ms. Nettie in the nursing home every day. They visited Gene Hicks in Rising Star one day. They visit Mr. Mack Childers in Cross Plains every week. Their son, George, came in from Dallas for the weekend. They visited in the home of Billy and H.A. Freeman one day. Ms. Nettie celebrated her 86th birthday this week. All the children were there. There was a nice cake and a lot of presents which she enjoyed very much.

So many numbers did not answer this morning. I do hope my neighbors will call me when they have a bit of news, I would love to hear from them.

I told Becky last Monday that this column is getting more difficult each week and I'm tempted to end it, completely. It is up to you, my neighbors.

4-H Club News

By JEREMY BARNETT

The Cross Plains 4-H Club had a meeting at 7 p.m., October 16, at the Multi-Purpose Center. The meeting was held to announce the food and nutrition project, to take part in a question and answer session led by Mr. Gerngross, and to install 1990-91 officers.

Before the 4-H meeting Mr. James Oscar Koenig demonstrated how to show and prepare a rabbit for the show.

Mrs. Wheeler announced that the food and nutrition project was going to start. The first meeting was held after school Thursday, October 18, in the homemaking room of the high school.

Mr. Gerngross led an interesting question and answer session about shooting sports, judging livestock animals, and judging a horse show.

At the end, Mrs. Stover installed the new officers. They are Tonya Stover, President; Janel Stephens, Vice President; Jason Carey, 2nd Vice President; Lee Wayne Wheeler, 3rd Vice President; Karen Dunn, Treasurer; Joanna Harris, Secretary; Jeremy Barnett, Reporter; and Jennifer Wheeler, Council Delegate. The members really enjoyed the meeting.

The next meeting will be the third Tuesday of November at 7 p.m. at the Multi-Purpose Center.

MR. AND MRS. REX PRIDDY

Strickland-Priddy United In Marriage September 1 In Coleman Baptist Church

Tami Strickland of Burkett and Rex Priddy of Coleman were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Paul Smith at the Community Baptist Church in Coleman on September 1, 1990 at 6 o'clock in the evening.

Parents of the bride are Eddie and Beverly Strickland of Burkett. The groom's parents are James and Wilma Jean Priddy of Coleman.

The altar area was decorated with a brass arch entwined in greenery with a large burgundy bow in the center. On each side there were twin tree candelabras also holding greenery and burgundy bows, and large containers of green spath plants. To the back of the altar was a brass kneeling bench, at front of altar was a table holding a unity candle on a hand crocheted scarf, decorated with greenery. Family pews were marked with burgundy and pink bows.

Wedding music was provided by Ann Smith, organist, and the soloist was Leann Baker, a friend of the bride from Eastland.

Music "Islands in a Stream" and "You and I" were played while the fathers of the bride and groom lit the altar candles. Wedding music was played while mothers were seated.

Escorted by the groom's son, Levi Priddy, the bride was presented to her father, as she gave her mother a long stemmed red rose, then the bride was given in marriage by her father, mother and their children.

The bride wore a formal gown with sheer fitted bodice featuring a Queen Ann neckline, long fitted sheer sleeves that came to a point. The gown was trimmed in lace, the front of the bodice and skirt was encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent white sequins and lace motifs, the long flowing skirt was made of layers and layers of chantilly lace with mid cathedral length train. The veil was cathedral length sheer trimmed in lace matching the gown. The headpiece was styled with white tulle and cascade of hanging pearlized white hearts around the face and on the back to the shoulders.

The bride's bouquet was made of white silk tiger lilies trimmed with burgundy silk flowers and white pearlized heart cascades.

Bride's jewelry was a gold cross necklace, also diamond cluster earrings borrowed from her mother. For something new she wore new shoes, something old was a blue handkerchief belonging to the groom's late grandmother, embroidered with her initials. Pinned to it was a gold cameo brooch belonging to the bride's late grandmother, Girlie Strickland. For something blue was her garter which was put on by her brother David, and she also had a 1966 penny in her shoe put there by her father.

Matron of honor was Kala McClure of Cross Plains. Bridesmaids were Kelli Nix of Midland and Martha Stephens of Stephenville, all best friends of the bride. All were dress alike in pink and white floor length gowns with full skirts colonial style. Each carried white lace fans decorated with burgundy, pink and white silk flowers with burgundy ribbon streamers.

Best man was Greg Wells of Coleman, best friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Levi Priddy, son of the groom, and David Strickland, brother of the bride. They were attired in matching gray tuxedos with burgundy accessories. The fathers of the bride and groom were also attired in grey tuxedos with mauve accessories.

The flower girl, Dana Priddy, daughter of the groom, wore a dainty pink tea length dress with seed pearls sewn along a front yolk with layers of lace making the skirt. She wore a hand made hair bow with ribbon streamers and silk flowers in the brides colors burgundy and pink, and also wore a matching wrist corsage. She carried a white basket with burgundy and white love knots which she dropped as she came down the aisle.

The ring bearer, Morgan Robertson, son of the bride, was dressed identical to the groom, who was in an all white formal tuxedo with tails, mauve diagonal cummerbund, mauve rose boutonniere and mauve bow tie. Morgan carried a white lace trimmed heart shaped pillow decorated with gold rings.

Throughout the ceremony, soloist Leann Baker sang selections of "Friends and Lovers" and "I'll Still Be Loving You". As the whole family lit the unity candle, she sang "You Light Up My Life". As a surprise for the bride, the children and the groom presented her with a mothers ring, carrying stones for each birthday, the month the bride and groom met and the wedding date.

After lighting the unity candle, signifying their love and acceptance of the bride and groom's unity as a family.

The mother of the bride wore a formal ivory satin and lace ensemble with Victorian neckline, full winged sleeves coming to a point, high-low ankle length hem and matching shoes. She wore a corsage of white orchids trimmed in burgundy.

The groom's mother wore a formal gown of mauve pink with an over jacket and floor length hem and matching shoes. Her corsage was of white orchids trimmed in white.

Ushers were Keary Jefferson of Coleman, and Rusty Holloway, nephew of the groom of Burkett.

As the bride and groom descended, the bride gave her mother-in-law a long stemmed red rose.

Guests were registered by Jody Winstead of Coleman.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride and groom's tables were covered with white satin skirts and white lace table cloths. The bride's cake was a confection of 4 layers, separated by white columns, the first layer consisted of 3 heart shaped individual cakes, between that layer was a burgundy colored waterfall with a dancing ballerina, followed by a layer of cake topped with a western bride and groom, then another layer of cake topped with wedding bells and burgundy flowers. The top layer of cake was topped with crystal love birds, on either side of this snow white confection was a ladder on top of heart shaped cake holding attendant figurines. Also served were heart shaped mints of chocolate and pink made by the bride's mother, and mixed nuts.

The groom's table was decorated western style with bales of hay. Sitting on the hay were two mop dolls made to look like a cowboy complete with bandana and rope, and a bride doll complete with veil. The cake was chocolate fudge with Tami and Rex, September 1, 1990 on it, shaped in an interlocking double horse shoe. Coffee was served from a silver coffee service at the groom's table with chocolate heart shaped mints.

The punch table was attended by Sue Strickland, sister-in-law of the bride of Burkett. The bride's bouquet served as the centerpiece. The punch was pink ice cream with a burgundy ice ring containing citrus slices and strawberries.

Serving at the groom's table was Cindy Rameriz of San Angelo.

Many pictures were made, photographer was Emilio Seballos of Coleman, also making pictures were Billy Baker and James Winstead of Coleman, and Don Priddy, brother of groom, from San Angelo. Videos were done by Ora Jane Anderson of Coleman, and Terri Bushnell of Burkett.

After a short trip to San Marcos the couple make their home at Burkett.

Both the bride and groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner on August 31, at The Trade Winds Restaurant in Coleman. The centerpiece was a dozen red roses presented to the bride from the groom as a surprise, he also surprised her with another dozen long stemmed red roses just before the

SENIOR CITIZENS STATS

By VICKY WORLEY

Several from the Senior Citizens Center went camping last week, pulling out at 6:00 Wednesday morning on the 17th.

Those going from here were Lerlene Fortune, Glen and Lois Vaughn, Vicky Worley, Fay Jackson, John Paul Jackson, and Ruby Harrell.

We stopped at the Baird Center and picked up four ladies from there, and on to Clyde where our number grew to 41. The group traveled to Leaky, Texas to the H.E.B. Foundation Camp. This was our second trip, but we stayed at a different campsite, located right on the Frio River.

We hiked, took long walks, saw deer, turkey, and mountain goats, and went canoeing. All went well until J.P. Jackson and his buddy from Clyde turned over in their canoe and had to swim to shore. Their only remark was they were still not too old to go swimming.

Friday we returned home. Our thanks to Lavern Harber, Site Manager of Clyde Center, for such a fun trip.

GARDEN TIPS FROM THE Cross Plains Garden Club

Taken From The Abilene Reporter News

How often should you water or fertilize plants? As often as they need it. Most house plants need water when the soil feels dry to the touch. You can also judge by the weight of the pot; a light pot means the soil is dry. You can insert a probe: if soil clings to it when you pull it out, that means the soil is moist. You can also tap the plant, a hollow sound means dry soil. When watering, do it thoroughly, but allow for good drainage. Avoid over watering, it damages roots and foliage will turn yellow.

How often should a plant be fertilized? Too much fertilizer on plants is worse than too little. It can burn the roots causing a troubled plant. Fertilizer salts can build up and form crusty white residue, which also harms plants. Be sure to follow directions on fertilizer packages. Slow growing plants need less than fast growing plants. All types of plants will grow faster in spring and fall because of more light. If salt does accumulate, wash it out of the soil by watering heavily, allowing excess water and residue to drain.

The brilliant colors of fireworks come from bright-burning metallic salts.

THE PIONEER PATCHWORK

By IRMA MILLER

The Quilting Club worked on the Rainbow Lone Star and put up a String Star in the frames.

On Monday, Joan Alexander had the privilege and pleasure of entertaining Mrs. Bud Vickers of Rising Star, her guests Yoshimi Nakashima of Kitakyushu City, Japan (a suburb of Tokyo) and Kazuko Conarton of Ozark, Alabama. They all went to Abilene to shop and had a great time comparing the prices of items here and in Japan. For example, the steak meal for the four of them in Abilene was about $20, whereas a six ounce steak in Japan is $30 uncooked. To have it served in a restaurant already cooked is so prohibitive they rarely have a steak at all. A pair of nice hose is $25 in that far east nation. Mrs. Nakashima wanted to shop for a denim skirt which had to be short because her people do not wear a long skirt. However, and alteration to have the skirt shortened would be very expensive in Japan, she said.

The Japanese ladies seemed pleased that their names might appear in the newspaper in the Pioneer Patchwork column.

Open Letter To The Voters of The 64th State Representative District

I have met Fred Gough only once in my life and found him to be a personable, polite-seeming individual. Assuming this is so, I cannot understand why he would allow his campaign ads to continually misquote the truth. The statements and beliefs he attributes to his opponent John Cook are simply untruths.

Negative untruthful campaigns have always concerned me because they tend to cover up the true issues and are normally used by candidates who are afraid they cannot measure up to their opponent in qualifications and ideas. I challenge Mr. Gough to take the high road for the remainder of this campaign and tell us what he believes in and why he would make a better State Representative for this District than his opponent.

As far as I am concerned, I already know John Cook is the best candidate. This is not because John is an attorney or despite him being an attorney, but because he is an intelligent, articulate, caring person who understands and addresses the issues. He is not running so that he will have something to do, but because he can make a difference. John's everyday work as a small business man, oil and gas operator, and rancher will be most beneficial to the district.

In politics, as in life, if you look for and support the person on the high road, you will be right most of the time because it is the road lined with integrity. John Cook has always traveled the high road.

Sincerely,

United Methodists Plan For Missionary

The administrative council of the United Methodist Church has announced plans to sponsor a missionary with part of the proceeds from the Lord's Acre this year.

"Becoming a covenant church is an exciting direction for a church of this size to be moving" commented Susan Trammell, local pastor, in sharing news of the development.

She went on to say that at this point, "we do not know who our missionary will be or where he or she will be working, but the possibilities for local involvement are endless."

The annual Lord's Acre with its turkey dinner, gift shop, and auction will be held on Saturday, November 10. Ladies of the church have four quilts ready and waiting for the auction. Watch for these to be displayed down town in the near future.

As in the past, the gift shop will be open at 11:00 with a wide variety of items available for direct buying.

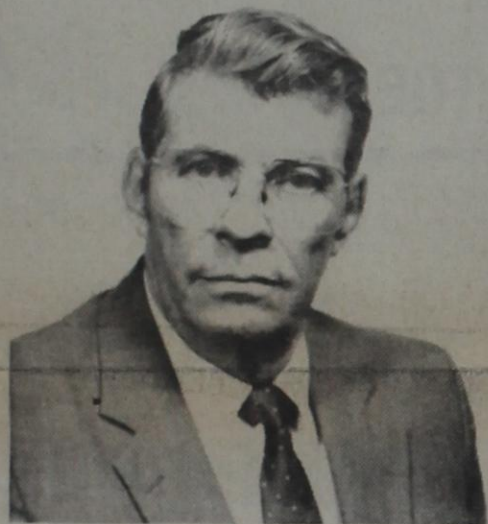

A new twist has been added to the sale this year as the youth group has offered to auction themselves off as slaves. If you have some odd jobs that can be handled by teenagers, plan to check this out.

SEARCHES ON COMPANY PROPERTY CAN DEFINITELY CAUSE PROBLEMS IF NOT DONE CORRECTLY

Dear Commissioner Nabors, Our company provides lockers to employees for storing their personal belongings while on the job. Is it allowable for us to search these lockers to detect and confiscate prohibited items such as weapons or drugs?

O.W.,
Texas City

Dear O.W., Most personnel law experts recommend that an employer in your situation avoid giving employees any expectation of privacy in their use of the lockers. It is in giving the employee an expectation of privacy that an employer lets itself in for invasion of privacy suits.

For example, if the employer provides the keys or locks for the lockers, maintains duplicates for the employer, and advises that lockers are subject to inspection for any reason, then the employee has no reasonable expectation of privacy and the employer can be confident that its inspection will not constitute grounds for an improper search.

On the other hand, if an employer makes the employee responsible for providing his or her own lock and has never stipulated via company policy that lockers may be subject to inspection, the employee may easily have a reasonable expectation of privacy. Employers who require employees to provide their own locks are running a big risk when it comes to searching lockers.

It is always advisable when inspecting an employee's locker or personal belongings that a reliable witness be present.

Dear Commissioner Nabors, How many warnings must an employer give an employee before termination? Are warnings required even if the behavior in question is particularly bad?

B.W
Tyler

Dear B.W., There is no law which requires an employer to give ANY warnings prior to terminating an employee.

Warnings are generally a good idea, particularly written ones, because an employer may wish to have some record of the problems addressed with a particular employee. Particularly if an employer wishes to contest a claim for unemployment benefits, written warnings may serve as evidence of work-connected misconduct.

It is up to each employer to decide what, if any, formal disciplinary system it will impose. Employers who choose to implement a gradual step-system of discipline still normally articulate circumstances which would warrant immediate termination regardless of whether prior warnings have been given. But even in the absence of any disciplinary policy an employer in Texas may discharge

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In January of 1990, my office responded to a questionnaire regarding various issues concerning the citizens of this State. There are several social issues to which a response was made that do not accurately reflect my position and values.

I do not favor a repeal of the state's anti-sodomy statutes nor do I favor law violators, self-disclosed homosexuals/lesbians as law enforcement officers. Our state's anti-sodomy statutes need to be enforced.

I have not in the past advocated repeal of the state's anti-sodomy statutes or employment of law violators, self-disclosed homosexuals/lesbians as law enforcement officers, and I do not now nor will I in the future.

My investigation reflects that the questionnaire was not signed and was mailed from my office without proper review, and I have advised my opponent of this error.

Sincerely,
John R. Cook

Common Sense Businessman vs. Another Lawyer

IT'S ABSURD ! TENTS FOR SOLDIERS BUT NOT FOR CRIMINALS !

"As your candidate for State Representative, I feel it is ridiculous for tents to be acceptable for housing our soldiers in Saudi Arabia, yet be "cruel and unusual" punishment for Texas prisoners. The only thing cruel here are the crimes committed by criminals released early from prison. Texas needs to appeal federal Judge William Wayne Justice's absurd ruling. I support more prisons, and even tents if necessary, instead of early release.

& FOR A LIFE SENTENCE TO MEAN AS LITTLE AS 7 YEARS

"It's also ridiculous for a life sentence to mean as little as 7 years.

I feel we need to stop criminal lawyers from deceiving juries about criminal sentencing. I support mandating that our judges provide each juror with written information about the effect of parole on a criminal's sentence. I also strongly oppose parole for any drug offense.
