CUTTING AFFRAY AT INDIAN MOUNTAIN

In a difficulty that arose at the Indian Mountain school house last Tuesday night, Oat McDaniel, son of A. L. McDaniel, was severely cut around the shoulders and body by a boy by the name of Poyner. McDaniel's wounds were such as to cause many stitches to be taken, and it is said that his shirt was literally cut into shreds and deep wounds inflicted in many places on his body and shoulders. He was treated by Dr. Hays, who states that his condition is as good as could be expected and he will recover unless complications arise.—Sipe Springs Record.

MANCHE FARMER MEETS DEATH IN UNUSUAL MANNER

One of the most horrible and shocking accidents that has occurred near Gorman in a long time was the one in which J. A. Thompson, a prominent farmer living south of Gorman, lost his life Monday of this week, when in some manner he was run over by a stalk cutter and done to his death. The exact way in which the accident started will never be known. It might have been a runaway, or just a sudden jar that shook him off his implement and threw him under the large, sharp roller. The entire machine passed the length of his body. It almost cut his head in two parts and passed over the remainder of his body. Medical attention was summoned at once, but he was dead by the time the physicians got to the home.—Gorman Progress.

CHURCH RALLY TO BE HELD AT BURKETT

Rev. W. D. Wallace has announced that a church rally will be held at Burkett, commencing Friday evening, May 13th, and extending through Saturday and Sunday. Sunday will include all day services with dinner on the ground. Sunday evening will be given over to song leaders for a great song service. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

FROM SECRETARY OF SCHOOL BOARD

The present term of school is over and the time has arrived to plan and make arrangements for the ensuing school year. But before we pass on the board feels it a just duty to express its appreciation and thanks to the teachers, Parent-Teachers Association and pupils for the noble work and advancement during the entire term of school.

We wish to say that not one single complaint has reached the school board this year from the teachers or parents. This makes it a pleasure to serve the public as school trustees. And it's our candid judgement that the teachers deserve their share of the praise. The pupils have shown good interest in their studies and have made excellent advancement in all grades. Last but not least we wish to express our thanks to the Parent-Teachers Association for their untiring efforts in behalf of the school. These good ladies have helped every move for the betterment of conditions in connection with school life. Let's support any move they may see fit to start.

With the past year's success and every one feeling satisfied, there is no better time to set a new resolution, and that is nothing less than a nine months school will do. The proper co-operation will bring this about and the school board believes that the people demand nine months and arrangements are being made for that length term. This will give us a standing second to none in the country.

MAN AND LADY KILLED IN PLANE CRASH AT ABILENE

Miss Margaret Pearson and an aviator named Carson were killed and Lieutenant E. A. Lockney was seriously injured when an airplane in which they were riding crashed to the ground last Sunday. The cause of the accident was not definitely determined, but witnesses believe the plane went into a tail spin. The accident occurred at Abilene.

Liberty School Closes

Paper read by Miss Ella Lamotte at the closing exercises of the Liberty school, May 6th, 1921. To the Trustees and Patrons of this School:

As we all know this is the last day of this term of school. It is also the last day of the first term taught by me, your primary teacher.

I take this opportunity to publicly thank the trustees of this district and those of my patrons who so kindly assisted me in the school-room work by their co-operation and by their many words of encouragement and of good cheer.

I am sure the measure of success with which I have met has been in a great part due to this co operation.

I desire to say to you parents whose children have been my pupils that they have been model ones; not in the sense that they have been guiltless of misbehavior, but rather in a much broader sense of achievement—that is of something accomplished. Our association in the school room from day to day under my instructions and their work I felt must produce results, and we have been rewarded in a great measure.

I am proud to be able to say, your children who were my pupils have made marked progress, not only in their studies but also in those qualities which make for better citizenship.

In my behalf I wish to say that my ambition is to continue my studies by attending Normal schools, and in any other way that will add to my efficiency as a public school teacher.

My closing words are that when you go to your homes, remember you have my love and best wishes, and many times will I think of the happy hours we spent together.

Atwell Items

We held an old folks singing with dinner on the ground. We certainly wish that you could have been present. The good sisters of Atwell and vicinity, after an intermission for dinner had been announced, spread a feast before it fit for kings. Putnam, Scranton and Cottonwood were represented. We old people certainly do appreciate the hospitality and kindness shown us during these old time singings. The old time songs are certainly sacred to us.

The M. E. Church denomination are moving their church building from Atwell to Hart, which is situated a few miles north of Putnam. Last Sunday night we had a very bad rain and hail storm. Considerable damage was done to gardens and growing crops in this section. We fear that the fruit crop will be a total loss.

Wishing you and every one good luck.

METHODIST MEETING TO BEGIN SUNDAY

The meeting will begin at the Methodist church Sunday, May 15th, and continue perhaps two weeks. We will be assisted by Brother Young, who is the pastor of the Pioneer charge. While this will be a long as the Methodist meeting, it is yours to attend, and you are to be there and assist us in every way possible—help in the quire, help boost the meeting. If the meeting is a success all churches will be helped. Come one and all. Let's pray and work together.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

His Views.

"A 'zoo' is a place to reflect on the superiority of mankind," remarked the lumpy citizen.

"I don't agree with you," answered Mr. Grampson. "I've never visited a 'zoo' but two or three times in my life, but the thought that struck me was that all the animals were attending strictly to their own business and if mankind had less curiosity and more consideration for dumb creatures none of them would have been there."

Why That Bad Back?

Is backache keeping you miserable? Are you "falling out" without strength or vigor for your work? Then find the cause of your ailment and correct it. Likely, it's your kidneys! You have probably been working too hard and neglecting rest and exercise. Your kidneys have slowed up and poisons have accumulated. That, then, is the cause of the backache, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Man Polygenetic Not Monogenetic

Savant Finds Proof of Theory in Survey of Skulls of Apes and Anthropoids.

THEORY BASED ON 'DAWN MAN'

Hitherto Evidence Has Been Lacking That Man Was Not Descended From One Line—More Than One Specimen Produced.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Dr. Charles Hill-Tout, Ph. D., of the executive committee of the American Institute of Research, member of the Archeological Institute, fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain, is preparing a report to be submitted to the Royal Society of Canada containing what he asserts is evidence that man is polygenetic instead of monogenetic in origin, as evolutionists have long thought.

Dr. Hill-Tout says he discovered his proof in a survey of the skulls of apes and anthropoids. He contends that his report will show that nature, when man was in the making, turned out more than one specimen, as science always claimed, in the case of the anthropoids. Hitherto evidence has been lacking that man was not descended from one line.

Dr. Hill-Tout believes the discovery eliminates completely two links in the chain of the pedigree of man, who, developing along opposite lines, has perpetuated his ancestral characters and attained a brain expansion which has given him the sovereignty over all other forms of life.

Theory Based on "Dawn of Man,"

"This theoretical conception of hominidus precursion, the ancestor common to man and the apes, is shown to be founded in fact by the discovery of the most interesting of all our fossil human remains, eoanthropus, or the 'dawn man.' Dr. Hill-Tout says: "This ancient man roamed over the southern downs of England when the British Isles were a part of the mainland of Europe, at the close of the Pliocene period. It probably antedates by some thousands of years pithecanthropus erectus. Unlike the latter, eoanthropus is relatively higher developed in its cranial characteristics.

"Its cranial capacity is greater than that of many of the men of the backward races of today. Most of its cranial characters are remarkably modern in type, having much the same contour as that of the young anthropoids. That it is a primitive type we learn, for while it possesses a well developed head, it also has the chitinous jaw and the canine teeth of the anthropoids.

"Indeed, it differs from the young anthropoids only in its larger cranial capacity. It is clear from the evidence, both of the humanlike characters of the 'dawn man' and the young anthropoids, that the low-browed pithe-

Washington.—The "shimmy" music produced by the modern jazz bands, with their wailing saxophones, acrobatic drummers and muted cornets, may have taken the country by storm, but it has no appeal to a man here in Washington whose opinions on many subjects are earnestly listened to by 105,000,000 people.

His opinion on the question of music is worthy of consideration, for he used to play in a band out in New Caledonia, Ohio. He is the President of the United States.

Not for him are the braying trombone, clashing cymbal and all the do the adult members of the species the actual ancestral type from which they spring." A large collection of photographs will be used by Dr. Hill-Tout in illustrating his theories.

CHINESE BALK AT INCOME TAX

Province of Kiangsu Fails to Obey Demand of the Peking Government to Pay.

Shanghai.—Chinese commercial interests of the province of Kiangsu through the first weeks of the new year were unitedly opposing payment of an income tax levied by the Peking government and payable beginning Jan. 1.

In February it was believed in Chinese circles in Shanghai that any serious effort on the part of the government to collect the tax would be delayed indefinitely.

No reply had been received in the first part of February from the Peking government to a notification that was served upon Peking early in February by the associated Chinese chambers of commerce of Kiangsu. The government was informed in this notification that unless it complied with eight conditions which were given the new tax would not be recognized in the province of Kiangsu.

Diamonds, valued at $3,000, which Mrs. Henry J. Shaw had dropped into a drain by accident, were recovered recently by a city drain man. BUT ONE HAREM LEFT Frenchman Now Has Only One Remaining in Constantinople.

Disaster Which Carried Down Turkish Empire Has Left Its Mark and There is Little Gayety.

Constantinople.—There is only one harem left in Constantinople and that is owned by a Frenchman.

A French correspondent, who spent several weeks here, thought that his visit would not be complete until he had visited a harem. He asked one of his Turkish friends to arrange it.

"But there is only one harem left," replied the Turk. "It is maintained with very strict discipline and according to the best traditions. But perhaps you would have a chance to seeing it, for this last harem belongs to one of your compatriots, the Baron Durdeau Bey. The last real Turk is a Frenchman."

The women of Constantinople have been emancipated, it is true, but in the streets they wear what appears almost like a uniform. The cut of all the street costumes is almost the same, the only difference being in the colors.

Many women who still have some respect for the old costumes wear small veils to hide their faces. In the mosques and even in the street cars and railway trains special compart-

Washington.—Dr. Erich W. Doctor Zimmerman will make a close study of the fuel supplies available in the Northwest, the characteristics of these fuels and the prices obtained.

Detailing of Doctor Zimmerman to this work marks a further advance in the investigation regarding the possibilities of increased utilization of the northwestern lignite, for which the sum of $100,000 was appropriated by the Sixty-fifth congress,

BOBBY WANTED THAT AGATE IN YOUTH'S GAY SPRINGTIME

If Persistency Could Have Got It for Him, We Must Admit He Deserved It.

The older boys were playing marbles. Three-year-old Bobby wished some agates like his brother had and asked father for two cents to buy one with. The money was given to him and he immediately wished to go to the store to make the purchase. So persistent did he become that father said:

"If you don't keep still about that agate I will take those pennies away from you."

"What will you do with the pennies if you take them away?" he asked.

"Why, I'll put them back in my purse."

"Will you take them uptown when you go to the office?"

"Yes; I will."

After a few moments' reflection, Bobby came back with:

"And will you buy me an agate with them?"

WAGE COMPROMISE IS SOUGHT BY RAIL BOARD

WITHHOLDS DECISION ON PAY CUT PENDING PARLEYS ON BOTH SIDES

EXPECT REPORT BY JULY 1

Agreement Between Workers and Chiefs Expected to Prevent Arbitrary Rulings

Chicago, Ill.—An early announcement by the railroad labor board of its decision on the application of the 93 railroads for wage reductions will depend upon the success of a move to effect a general compromise of the wage and working rules questions, it is learned.

The wage issue is now in the hands of the board and the only obstacle in the road of early settlement is the fact that roads and the employees will not be effected until July. Each railroad and representatives of each classification of labor are now holding conferences on working rules and each will report to the board by July 1. Shortly after this time general working agreements will be announced.

It is now contended by labor, and the contention is upheld by the three labor members of the board, that new wage schedules could not be announced before the rules question is settled because the men would not know what they could expect in the way of overtime, bonuses, hours of labor and other important issues. The board has asked to delay its wage decision until this matter is adjusted.

Other members of the board favor a wage decision by June 1. If this was done without some kind of agreement on rules, the three members of the board representing labor will vote against any wage reduction, it is learned. The hope of influential board members is a compromise which will insure a unanimous vote on both the wage and rules decisions. If the 16 fundamental points on working rules contained in the decision of the board abrogating national agreements are included in the rules decision in July, as interpreted by the rail union leaders, then a unanimous decision granting the roads a reduction in the wages of common labor from 10 to 20 per cent can be reached, it was stated by one competent authority.

AIRPLANE FALLS AND TWO ARE KILLED

Ablene, Texas.—A mechanic named Carson and Miss Margaret Pearson were killed and Lieutenant E. A. Locking was seriously injured Sunday when an airplane piloted by Carson fell at a local aviation field.

Lieutenant Locking is said to be in a serious condition. He served during the world war in the British Royal Air service and has 2,000 hours of air service to his credit. The aviator had made his home in Temple and Ablene since coming to America from Yorkshire, England.

The cause of the accident has not been definitely determined, but witnesses believe the plane went into a tail spin.

E. T. Akin, local aviator, who examined the wrecked airplane, said he believed the control lever jammed and that Carson lost control of the machine. Carson is said to have been a student aviator.

NOTED WOMAN EVANGELIST TO HOLD MEETING MAY 22

Dallas, Texas.—Mrs. Aimes Sempie McPherson, the greatest living woman evangelist, will launch an evangelistic campaign at the coliseum, Dallas, Texas, May 22. Mrs. McPherson has conducted wonderful meetings in Philadelphia, Pa., Alton, Ill., Dayton, Ohio, Montreal, Canada, San Diego, Cal., and many other large cities. Mrs. McPherson is now in a meeting in Moolah Temple, St. Louis, Mo. One meeting in San Diego was held in Balboa Park and was attended by over 10,000 people, the meeting lasting from 10 o'clock in the morning until sundown. She is a forceful speaker with a strong personality, and works along interdenominational lines.

Jockeys Given $3,000 Each Louisville, Ky.—Jockey C. Thompson, who rode E. R. Bradley's Behave yourself to victory at Churchill Downs in the Kentucky Derby, which carried $50,000 added money, Saturday afternoon, received $3,000 from his employer for his winning effort. Lawrence Lyke, who had the mount on Black Servant, a stable companion of the winner and second companion in Saturday's race, beaten by a head, was rewarded with a like sum.

Disorder on Joan of Arc Day Paris.—There was considerable disorder Sunday in Paris and in other places during the celebration of the anniversary of the lifting of the siege of Orleans by Joan of Arc in 1429. Fourteen policemen and 23 communists were wounded and many arrests were made when communists tried to enter the gates of Paris in protest against the celebration. There was hand-to-hand fighting between the demonstrators and mounted guards who barred the way to communists.

FRENCH WITHDRAW IN UPPER SILESIA

ALLIED TROOPS ARE MUCH OUTNUMBERED; ADOPT NEUTRAL ATTITUDE.

Berlin.—Outnumbered by the Polish "irregulars" swarming into Upper Silesia, the French troops have withdrawn from Kreuzberg, Rosenberg and Lublinitz.

Telephonic dispatches from the allied headquarters at Oppeln Friday declared that the withdrawal had been carried out without casualties.

The situation is somewhat more serious than on Thursday, when the strength of the "invaders" had not become wholly apparent.

The Polish forces outnumber the allied troops by perhaps 70,000 men, and all reports to the foreign office agree that the allies are absolutely unable to cope with the situation.

Reports from non-German sources say that the French are not fighting, but have adopted an attitude of neutrality.

It is apparent that, with Friday's advance, the Poles are seeking to seize the entire territory, and then, secure in their positions, dare the allies to deliver Upper Silesia to Germany under the terms of the plebiscite.

The invaders' lines now reach toward Oppeln and Rosenberg.

A new list of Italian casualties issued Friday shows sixteen dead and a number wounded. The French losses have been slight.

Serious industrial losses are incurred through the general stoppage of labor in the affected district, particularly in vital industries, such as the blast furnaces of Lenhoff, now completely idle.

Entente leaders report having found a number of Polish regular troops participating in the movement.

ALLIED INVITATION IS ACCEPTED BY HARDING

Two Ambassadors Will Sit Also With Supreme And Envoys' Councils.

Washington.—President Harding has decided to re-establish the American government in the allied councils created to effect settlements under the treaty of Versailles.

Henceforth, George Harvey, U. S. ambassador to the court of St. James, will sit in the allied supreme council as the personal representative of the president. Henry Wallace, U. S. ambassador to France until relieved by the newly appointed ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, will resume his seat as an unofficial observer on the council of ambassadors; Roland W. Boyden, Boston lawyer, will resume his work in an unofficial capacity as the American representative on the reparations committee.

Official word to this effect has been communicated in a formal note from Secretary Hughes to Premier Lloyd George, president of the allied supreme council. Acceptance of the urgent request of the council that the United States once more participate in the deliberations carries the American position back to where it was under the Wilson administration, until Wilson, to relieve Harding of any possible embarrassment, ordered all unofficial representation on the allied councils discontinued.

The action of President Harding, as forecast in these dispatches, was taken on the advice of leaders in his cabinet.

TEXAS GINNERS NAME PLANO MAN PRESIDENT

Dallas.—The Texas Cotton Ginner's Association closed its twelfth annual convention Friday with the election of officers and the adoption of the reports of committees.

An unusual departure was made in the adoption of the report of the legislative committee, which recommended that the legislature amend the warehouse and marketing law to provide that "a lien for the benefit of the ginner follow every bale of cotton; that the purchaser of said bale become liable to the ginner for the charges for ginning and wrapping, unless the ginner's ticket descriptive of said bale, including charges for ginning and wrapping, show that the charges already have been paid and receipted for."

Olely Davis of Plano was elected president, Louis Troutwein of Slinger vice president and S. S. Frazer (re-elected) secretary.

The new executive committee consists of J. W. Woodridge of Paris, William Bowers of Robstown, B. F. Wilkinson of Ferris, Mrs. Ed Hilman of Runge and John Donigan of Ablene.

The convention will meet next year at Dallas, as the meeting place is fixed.

ULTIMATUM OF ALLIES IS GIVEN TO GERMANY

NATION ALLOWED A WEEK TO SAY IF OBLIGATIONS WILL BE MET.

London.—The conference of allied premiers, described in commons, by Lloyd George as "the most momentous meeting since the drafting of the Versailles treaty," has come to an official end with the dispatch to Berlin of a final reparations demand.

German now has until May 12th in which to resolve whether to accept the prescribed formula or reject it and invite occupation of her vital industrial centers.

British officials, relaxing after their arduous labors, will not predict the outcome. They are hoping and the hope is shared by the Italian delegates, that Berlin will accept, or at least find a government willing to accept. France, on the other hand, urging framing of terms so strong that they would meet immediate rejection, is hoping and praying that Berlin's answer will be "No."

The three important points in the document are:

1. The annuities will be variable, equivalent to 25 per cent of Germany's total exports, "or alternatively an equivalent amount reached by any other index of German prosperity."
 2. It is officially stated that the total of the first five annuities can, and probably will, be less instead of greater than under the Paris terms.
 3. The real rock upon which the London conference of February broke down disappears with the elimination of the large fixed annuities of the Paris and Boulogne conferences for the later years of payment.
- It is pointed out that the Germans themselves accepted the Paris proposals, but that Von Simons vetoed the acceptance and thus burned his bridges behind him.

WOODMEN OF WORLD FIELD FORCES ARE REORGANIZED

Dallas.—Complete reorganization of the field force in Texas of the Woodmen of the World by dividing the state into eleven districts, with a manager for each, was effected here Tuesday in a conference called by Robert H. McMill, state manager of the organization, and attended by the men who will be the new district managers.

The district managers under the new plan were tendered to and accepted by the following, whose headquarters for the district designated will be in the town given after the name of each: District No. 1, E. Z. Crowds, Dallas; No. 2, W. S. Lemly, Temple; No. 3, Eugene Worden, Farmersville; No. 4, S. A. Taylor, Palestine; No. 5, O. D. Baker, Gause; No. 6, C. C. Chaffe Sr., San Antonio; No. 7, L. ITALY STANDS WITH U. S. ON YAP ISSUE

Paris.—Count Sforza, the Italian foreign minister talking during the journey from the supreme council meeting in London of the American government's note concerning the Yap mandate, said it had not been discussed formally in the supreme council meetings, but that he had occasion to talk of it with Earl Curzon, the British foreign minister.

"I said to him," continued Count Sforza, "that without the United States the war would not have been won. She asked for nothing and is entitled to have her way about Yap. She ought to have it and the Italian government desires her to have it." Asked if he had any objection to the publication of his views, Count Sforza replied: "None whatever. I shall be glad for Americans to know how the Italian government feels in this matter."

HOOVER ISSUES WARNING OF TEUTONS' INROADS

Washington.—Declaring that several lines of trade already have been driven out by German competitors, Secretary of Commerce Hoover told the house ways and means committee that there was imperative need for protection of American industries against the inroads of revived German commerce.

The commerce secretary told how optical glass makers of the United States had gone out of business "almost entirely" in the two years since German manufacturers had again become active. He said that in neutral markets German bids of steel were averaging $12 a ton under American selling prices and that in many instances markets which had been wholly American lately were in control of the Germans.

"I believe American industries must have protection of a very large order," said Mr. Hoover. "There is no guess as to how long Germany can continue to grind out paper money and indirectly subsidize her industries. Meanwhile, however, those industries are striving to capture the markets of the world and are having a profound influence on American prices."

What Must I Do to Be Saved?

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved.—Acts 16:31.

Our eternal destiny does not depend on what we do with certain things but what we do with a certain person and that person is the Lord Jesus Christ.

Men continually try to find salvation by doing various works which they think are sufficiently meritorious to bring what they seek. But after a man has done all he can do he finds himself convinced that by his own work he has not obtained what he sought. Do what he will he cannot find salvation until at last, like the jailer, he cries, "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30). The answer today is the same as when this question was first asked, viz.: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved" (Acts 16:31).

The sense of condemnation rising from conviction of sin is the common heritage of all men. To find relief from this sense of condemnation man turns to various expedients, but the more he tries to rid himself of it the more he feels condemned. But when he turns to the Word of God he finds written in Jno. 3:18, "He that believeth on the Son is not condemned."

The possession of eternal life comes over the same pathway, that of faith in Jesus Christ. It is not for the man who works but, "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life" (Jno. 3:36).

If it be a question of justification before God, it is simple faith and not works of any kind that brings it, for we are told in Acts 13:39, "By Him (Christ) all that believe are justified from all things from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses."

No wonder, then, we hear Jesus saying to those who asked Him what they should do to work the works of God, "This is the work of God that ye believe on Him whom He hath sent" (Jno. 6:29). Faith in Christ is the only medium by which we may secure gifts from God, but He has no gift that may not be ours in answer to our faith in this great object of faith, Jesus Christ. It is not therefore my good life or works, not my church or religion, not my integrity of character or honesty of purpose, nor anything that I can do, which is the object of my trust, but it is what Christ has done and is, that must become the object of my faith.

Many have vague ideas about faith and think of it much as a pagan might think of some fetish. But it is not the faith but the object of faith that holds the power and brings the blessing. Noah's faith took him into the ark because he believed that safety from the judgment about to fall was to be found only there. Thus it was the ark, the object of his faith, that saved him. So the believer today finds his faith takes him to Christ, the object of his faith, who saves him.

A man may have splendid faith, but if the object of his faith be unworthy the faith is useless, however good it may be in itself. For illustration: A man may place his money in a bank and by doing so prove he has splendid faith in that bank. If the bank fails and the man loses his money, it is because the object of his faith was unworthy, and not because there was anything wrong with his faith. Again, a man may have good faith in a boat and prove his faith is good by entrusting his life to that boat. But if it goes down at sea and the man loses his life, it is not because his faith was not of the right kind or that there was not enough of it, but simply because the object of his faith was bad.

Today there are many men and women trusting their future welfare and their hope of salvation to good works or upright living or honesty of purpose or sincerity, who will lose their souls not because there is anything wrong with their faith, but because any of these things, however good in themselves, is an unworthy object for faith. All of them put together could never save a soul. Nothing but Christ can be a worthy object for faith which brings salvation.

A man may be a moral, praying, church-going man, as Nicodemus was, and not be saved; may be an upright, clean, almsgiving man, as Cornelius was, and not be saved; may be a zealous man, blameless before the law, as Saul of Tarsus was, and not be saved; but none can be a believer in the Lord Jesus Christ and not be saved, because the Word of God still declares, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved" (Acts 16:31). It is Christ, the supreme object for the sinner's faith, who can and will and does save all who put their trust in Him. The aviator in the air has no other stay or hope than the machine in which he rides. If the machine proves good the man is safe, but if the machine is bad it is just the reverse, for he has no other stay—he has put his faith in it. So to be a believer on Christ means that a man has no other help or stay or hope than the Lord Jesus Christ.

SUFFERING OF A LIFETIME ENDED

"Words Can't Express Gratitude I Feel Toward Tanlac," Says Mrs. Burrington.

"From childhood until I got Tanlac, I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble," said Mrs. J. A. Burrington, 340 Stanford Ave., Los Angeles.

MRS. J. A. BURRINGTON Los Angeles, Calif.

Calif., "and that's been a long time, for I'm now in my sixty-eighth year. "I remember when I was a child I was kept on a strict diet of lime water and milk for weeks and I have been in constant distress all these years. I suffered terribly from bloating and had to be very careful of what I ate. I became so weak and nervous I could hardly go about my housework and was in a miserable condition.

"About two years ago my husband got such splendid results from Tanlac he insisted on my taking it and the medicine wasn't but a little while in ridding me of my troubles. It gave me a splendid appetite, and I could enjoy a good hearty meal, even things I hadn't dare touch before, without any fear of it troubling me.

"Then I had the influenza and became dreadfully sick and weak, but my stomach kept in good order and it only took four bottles of Tanlac to build me up again to where I'm now feeling better than at any time I can remember. I have gained eleven pounds in weight, too, and words can't express the gratitude I feel toward Tanlac. I keep Tanlac in the house all the time now, for I know it is a medicine that can be depended upon."

SUFFERED SEVEN LONG YEARS

Finally Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ravenswood, W. Va.—"For seven long years I suffered from a female trouble and inflammation so that I was not able to do my housework. I consulted several doctors but none seemed to give me relief. I read in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I decided to try it, and before the first bottle was gone I found great relief so I continued using it until I had taken eight bottles. Now I am very well and can do my own housework. I can gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA LIERING, R. F. D., Ravenswood, W. Va.

The ordinary day of most housewives is a ceaseless treadmill of washing, cooking, cleaning, mending, sweeping, dusting and caring for little ones. How much harder the tasks when some derangement of the system causes headaches, backaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness. Every such woman should profit by Mrs. Liering's experience. Remember this, for over forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring health.

Secured Lasting Relief From Bad Case of Indigestion

Dallas man suffered for years, yet Ware's Black Powder brought quick and lasting relief, he says.

The remarkable value of Ware's Black Powder in the treatment of indigestion is shown in the case of Mr. G. M. Anderson of Dallas, who writes, under date of Sept. 25, 1926:

"I suffered from indigestion for many years, and not in such condition I could not work at times. Ware's Black Powder was recommended to me, and I started taking it. After using two or three bottles I was permanently relieved. I believe Ware's Black Powder is without an equal for its recommended use."

This wonderful remedy is sold by all druggists for 50c and $1.25 the package. Not a purgative. Contains no harmful drugs. Forty years in use. Send for Dr. Ware's free booklet on digestive trouble. THE WARE CHEMICAL CO., Dallas.

A few months ago, when writing a letter to a girl I had recently met, I placed it in the desk drawer unsealed and later mailed it. About a week after I received a formal note, thanking me for a little file I had inclosed, and adding that really she saw no reason why I should go to such trouble when she already had a complete ivory set. Apologies were in order, and I tried to be as diplomatic as possible in explaining that in the drawer I temporarily put the letter I have any number of trinkets and, unknowing to me, the file must have slipped in.—Chicago Tribune.

Secretary to the President

GEORGE B. CHRISTIAN, JR.

W ARREN G. HARDING is probably the hardest-working man in the United States of America these days. He is the head of the biggest business concern on earth.

And probably his secretary, George B. Christian, Jr., is the next busiest. Moreover, Mr. Christian is as important as he is busy. Really, you know, there are few more important jobs in Washington than that of the secretary to the President. Some people go so far as to say that the President's secretary is in reality a more important official than any member of the cabinet. They argue that if the executive departments were left without heads they would run along just about the same, whereas without a secretary a President could not get along at all. This is the kind of picturesque exaggeration that we Americans like—because it is mighty near the truth.

Anyway, the discriminating reader will have noted that the press of the country gave Mr. Christian's appointment quite as much space as it did some of the cabinet appointments. Mr. Christian has been with Mr. Harding quite a long time—long enough to have gotten well acquainted with his chief and to have proved his own abilities. As secretary to Senator Harding, he had a chance to learn Washington. And he won his spurs during the trying days of the campaign.

The President's secretary is the mouthpiece of the President. When he speaks it is ex cathedra. If a communication is to be made to the public on any subject not so important as to require a formal proclamation, it is the secretary who utters it, usually through the medium of the newspapers.

Every letter that reaches the White House, is read and a rule requires that to everyone a courteous reply shall be made. A dozen clerks attend to this business. They even read and answer the letters addressed to the President's wife; for multitudes of strangers write to her also. Private letters, "recognized as such by a sort of instinct," alone pass unopened.

His future? That remains to be told. Many of the presidential secretaries graduated from the White House office to fame and riches.

Simply "White House."

The official residence of the nation's chief is called in the laws the President's house, and with this name much of the old silver and china belonging to the establishment is marked. When Mr. Roosevelt arrived on the scene he found large stacks of note-paper and letter-paper stamped with the words "Executive Mansion"—a title adopted by Mr. Cleveland, who delighted in big words. "Throw out that junk!" said he to his secretary; and, by his direction, all of the stationery was thereafter headed simply "White House."

Up to Mr. Roosevelt's time the business offices of the White House were in the mansion proper, directly over the East room, so that visitors came in at the front door and climbed a flight of stairs to reach them. Across the main corridor on the second floor was placed a screen to shut off the offices from the private quarters of the President's family.

The arrangement was certainly deplorable. Sofas along the walls of the corridor, into which the President's own office opened directly, provided seats for persons anxious to see him or his secretary. The secretary's room adjoined that of the President, and on the opposite side of the corridor were rooms for clerks and the telegraph room.

Mr. Roosevelt tore the mansion literally to pieces, spending for the purpose $555,000, or nearly twice as much money as it originally cost. As one result, the former office quarters in the White House are now five bedrooms, and all executive business is transacted in a small one-story annex a couple of hundred feet to the west

Fly's Wonderful Tongue.

The so-called tongue of the fly is not truly a tongue, but a tube with an expanded end, which the scientists term a "ligula." Through this ligula the fly obtains its nourishment. The fly does not need to get down to its food, but draws it upward by means of this trunk or proboscis. Nature recognized the fact that the insect had many enemies and that it must therefore take up in the shortest incipal of preparatory schools for four years. He then entered public life as the secretary of several public officials. When he was fourth assistant postmaster general he was called to do some shorthand work for President Cleveland, who held on to him and made him executive clerk. President McKinley made him assistant secretary, and then appointed him secretary. President Roosevelt made him his private secretary.

Cortelyou made a most efficient secretary. A man of suave and graceful manner and gifted with exceptional tact, he was a born diplomat. It is said of him that he never refused anybody anything. Someone once called him "the great American promiser." Even if the person calling on him was a total stranger, he would listen politely, write "special" on the person's card and indicate that the matter should receive immediate attention.

Anyway, Roosevelt liked him well enough to make him a member of the cabinet, where he filled three places in quick succession: Secretary of commerce and labor, postmaster general and secretary of the treasury. Later, the erstwhile shorthand reporter accepted a job at $75,000 a year as head of a big company, and today he is an important man in the world of finance.

William Loeb, Jr., began his public career as private secretary to Governor Roosevelt in 1899. He followed the Roosevelt fortunes and was his private secretary in Washington 1903-09. Roosevelt made him collector of the port of New York. Now he is with a big smelting and refining corporation. He lives at Oyster Bay.

Taft's Three Secretaries.

President Taft had three secretaries. The first to serve in that capacity was Fred Carpenter, who was succeeded by Charles D. Norton. The third, Charles D. Hilles, served as Taft's political manager during his unsuccessful campaign for re-election. He was an assistant secretary of the treasury before he became Taft's secretary. He was chairman of the Republican national committee, 1912-16. He is in business in New York.

Joseph Patrick Tumulty, President Wilson's secretary, is a college man and a lawyer. He was a member of the New Jersey legislature, 1907-10, and then became secretary to Governor Wilson. President Wilson appointed him, just before the change in administrations, a member of the international joint commission between the United States and Canada. Mr. Tumulty declined the appointment. He is now practicing law.

An interesting prediction is that sooner or later we shall have a president who will appoint a woman as his private secretary. It is argued that it is exactly the job for a woman, because it involves the handling of an immense number of details. Women are the great systematizers of detail; in this respect men cannot compare with them. For this reason it is that nowadays the heads of huge corporations and other big business concerns commonly have women secretaries.

George Bruce Cortelyou, after his college course, began life as a shorthand reporter in New York in 1883. After two years of this he was prinpossible time the food it might discover. For that purpose the tongue is fitted at its free end with a curious pad-like modification of the ordinary tracheal structure, which has puzzled some of those who have studied its uses. Much discussion has arisen in regard to the reason for this peculiar formation of the fly's tongue, but it appears to be generally conceded by entomologists that nature has provided these singular ramifications of the instrument to assist in quickly taking up the drop of sweet or other liquid material. These narrow strips of horny substance that form the proboscis are curved, and are united to one another by a membrane that forms a tube split along the border of the tongue where it comes in contact with the food.

Another Reason for Smiling. "It requires," says a scientist, "sixty-five muscles of the face to make a frown and only thirty-three to make a smile." Conserve your energy.—Boston Transcript.

Perforating Envelopes. Perforation around the return address of an envelope enables the receiver of the letter to use the crozier card as the address for a return letter. By tearing off the perforation the name and address of the sender may be taken from the envelope and pasted on the answering letter. Such practice, according to Popular Mechanics, will insure correct addressing.

ROOM FOR YOUNGER CRITICS

They Have a Place in the World and a Duty That is Well Worth Performing.

The younger critics, says Heywood Brown, are the lineal descendants of that little child in Anderson's fairy tale who, when the emperor was being made a spectacle of and all the world was being fooled by the sharp tailor, refused to be quiet and cried out, "He hasn't got anything on." These young enthusiasts who have no positions to lose and no dignities to live up to go about pointing to all our literary emperors and calling attention to the scantiness of their attire of greatness, and refuse to be silenced by their scandalized or terrified elders. Good sense bids us welcome their honest gaze at even the sacrosanct persons. It can't hurt anything really fine, and it's about time we came out of some of our illusions. William Allen White sized it up about right from the conservative point of view when he said in praising "Main Street": "Of course, I'm on the other side of the street myself, but that's just the reason why I like this book. It gives us fellows something to answer."

REALLY FLOWERS OF SPEECH

Sayings, Witty and Wise, That Are Worth Being Preserved in an Anthology.

Prof. Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, in the course of his lively lectures "On the Art of Reading," gives some examples of Irish peasants' sayings with the large simplicity, the cadence, the accent of Scriptural speech. The best is the benediction bestowed upon one of the two authors of the incomparable "Irish R. M." by an old woman in Skibbereen: "Sure ye're always laughing! That ye may laugh in the sight of the glory of heaven!" The writer once thought of making an anthology of such wild flowers of wayside speech. He would have included in it some far-traveled sayings, such as that of the freighter in the alkaline districts of Alberta, who said, pointing with his whip to an intensely blue lake on the horizon, "Bitter as a dying man's sweat is that same water," and the perfect definition of a ghost implied in the words of a Newfoundland fisherman, "There I sees 'em warming themselves in the moonlight."

One Hopeful Feature.

Christopher Morley repeats in the New York Evening Post the following "full-page sable-ruled advert." in a "garment weekly": "You will share our deep sorrow at the death of Mr. —. He was the founder and organizer of the company, which will continue to bear his name. Due to the discontinuance of business for a week, there has accumulated an enormous stock of suits and coats which we will dispose of at an unusually low price. This is an opportunity which you cannot afford to miss."

Saw Both Sides.

Little Roy doesn't care for dancing and at the party the other night he held aloof as much as possible. His sister said: "Roy, don't you realize that every time you don't dance there is some little girl not having a good time?" "Yes," said Roy, "and don't you realize that every time I do dance there is a little boy who isn't having a good time?"

"My God!" she exclaimed. "What a nasty liar you are!"
It was not ladylike but, at that moment the lady was temporarily absent.

"Mother, I'm glad you say that," the girl answered still very calmly, although her fingers trembled a little as she felt the violets, and her voice was not quite steady. "It shows that I am not so stupid at home as I am at school."

The girl rose and threw down the violets and her mild and listless manner. A look of defiance flitted her face and her figure. Mrs. Bing arose, her eyes aglow with anger.

"I'd like to know what you mean," she said under her breath.

"I mean that if I am a liar, you taught me how to be it. Ever since I was knee-high, you have been teaching me to deceive my father. I am not going to do it any longer. I am going to find my father and tell him the truth. I shall not wait another minute. He will give me better advice than you have given, I hope."

The words had fallen rapidly from her lips and, as the last one was spoken, she hurried out of the room. Mrs. Bing threw herself on the couch where she lay with certain bitter memories, until the new maid came to tell her that it was time to dress.

She was like one reminded of mortality after coming out of ether.

"Oh, Lord!" she murmured wearily. "I feel like going to bed! How can I live through that dinner? Please bring me some brandy."

Phyllis learned that her father was at his office, whither she proceeded without a moment's delay. She sent in word that she must see him alone and as soon as possible. He dismissed the men with whom he had been talking and invited her into his private office.

"Well, girl, I guess I know what is on your mind," he said. "Go ahead."

Phyllis began to cry.

"All right! You do the crying and I'll do the talking," he went on. "I feel like doing the crying myself, but if you want the job, I'll resign it to you. Perhaps you can do enough of that for both of us. I began to smell a rat the other day. So I sent for Gordon King. He came this morning. I had a long talk with him. He told me the truth. Why didn't you tell me? What's the good of having a father unless you use him at times when his counsel is likely to be worth having? I would have made a good father, if I had had half a chance. I should like to have been your friend and confidant in this important enterprise. I should have been a help to you. But, somehow, I couldn't get on the board of directors. You and your mother have been running the plant all by yourselves and I guess it's pretty near bankrupt. Now, my girl, there's no use crying over spilt tears. Gordon King is not the man of my choice, but we must all take hold and try to build him up. Perhaps we can make him pay."

"I do not love him," Phyllis sobbed.

"You married him because you wanted to. You were not coerced?"

"No, sir."

"I'm sorry, but you'll have to take your share of the crow with the rest of us," he went on, with a note of sternness in his tone. "My girl, when I make a contract I live up to it and I intend that you shall do the same. You'll have to learn to love and cherish this fellow, if he makes it possible. You and your mother believe in woman's rights. I don't object to that, but you mustn't think that you have the right to break your agreements unless there's a good reason for it. My girl, the marriage contract is the most binding and sacred of all contracts. I want you to do your best to make this one a success."

There was the tinkle of the telephone bell. Mr. Bing put the receiver to his ear and spoke into the instrument as follows:

with soiled garments and lowered head. It had suffered derision and defeat. It could never be the same again. Sneed and Snodgrass recovered, in a degree, from their feeling of opulence. Sneed had become polite, industrious and obliging. Snodgrass and others had lost heavily in stock speculation through the failure of a broker in Hazelmead. They went to work with a will and without the haughty independence which, for a time, had characterized their attitude. The spirit of the Little Shepherd had entered the hearts and home of Emanuel Baker and his wife. Pauline and the baby were there and being tenderly loved and cared for. But what humility had entered that home! Phyllis and her husband lived with her parents, Gordon having taken a humble place in the mill. He worked early and late. The Bings had made it hard for him, finding it difficult to overcome their resentment but he stood the gaff, as they say, and won the regard of J. Patterson, although Mrs. Bing could never forgive him.

In June, there had been public meetings in the town hall addressed by Judge Crooker and the Reverend Mr. Singleton. The judge had spoken of the grinding of the mills of God that was going on the world over.

"Our civilization has had its time of trial not yet ended," he began. "Its enemies have been busy in every city and village. Not only in the cities and villages of France and Belgium have they been busy, but in those of our own land. The Goths and Vandals have invaded Bingville. They have been destroying the things we loved. The false god is in our midst. Many here, within the sound of my voice, have a god suited to their own tastes and sins—an obedient, tractable, homeless god. It is my deliberate opinion that the dances and costumes and moving pictures we have seen in Bingville are doing more injury to civilization than all the guns of Germany. My friends, you can do nothing worse for my daughter than deprive her of her modesty and I would rather, far rather, see you slay my son than destroy his respect for law and virtue and decency."

"The jazz band is to me a sign of spiritual decay. It is a step toward the jungle. I hear it in the beating of the tom-tom. It is not music. It is the barbaric yelp of sheer recklessness and daredevilism, and it is everywhere."

"Even in our economic life we are dancing to the jazz band with utter recklessness. American labor is being more and more absorbed in the manufacture of luxuries—embroidered frocks and elaborate millinery and limousine and the landaulets and rich upholstery and cord tires and golf courses and sporting goods and great country houses—so that there is not enough labor to provide the comforts and necessities of life."

"The tendency of all this is to put the stamp of luxury upon the commonest needs of man. The time seems to be near at hand when a boiled egg and a piece of buttered bread will be luxuries and a family of children an unspeakable extravagance. Let us face the facts. It is up to Vanity to moderate its demands upon the industry of man. What we need is more devotion to simple living and the general welfare. In plain old-fashioned English we need the religion and the simplicity of our fathers."

Later, in June, a strike began in the big plant of J. Patterson Bing. The men demanded higher pay and shorter days. They were working under a contract but that did not seem to matter. In a fight with "scabs" and Pinkerton men they destroyed a part of the plant. Even the life of Mr. Bing was threatened! The summer was near its end when J. Patterson Bing and a committee of the labor union met in the office of Judge Crooker to submit their differences to that impartial magistrate for adjustment. The judge listened patiently and rendered his decision. It was accepted.

When the papers were signed, Mr. Bing rose and said, "Your honor, there's one thing that I want to say. I have spent most of my life in this town. I have built up a big business here and doubled the population. I have built comfortable homes for my laborers and taken an interest in the education of their children, and built a library where anyone could find the best books to read. I have built playgrounds for the children of the working people. If I have heard of any case of need, I have done my best to relieve it. I have always been ready to hear complaints and treat them fairly. My men have been generously paid and yet they have not hesitated to destroy my property and to use guns and knives and clubs and stones to prevent the plant from filling its contracts and to force their will upon me. How do you explain it? What have I done or failed to do that has caused this bitterness?"

"Mr. Bing, I am glad that you ask me that question," the old judge began. "It gives me a chance to present to you, and to these men who work for you, and to these men who have grown out of impartial observation of your relations with each other."

"First, I want to say to you, Mr. Bing, that I regard you as a good citizen. Your genius and generosity have put this community under great obligation. Now, in heading toward the hidden cause of your complaint, I beg to ask you a question at the outset. Do you know that unfortunate son of the Widow Moran known as the Shepherd of the Birds?"

"I have heard much about him," Mr. Bing answered.

"Do you know him?"

"No. I have had letters from him acknowledging favors now and then, but I do not know him."

"We have hit at once the source of your trouble," the judge went on. "The Shepherd is a representative person. He stands for the poor and the unfortunate in this village. You have never gone to see him because—well, probably it was because you feared that the look of him would distress you. The thing which would have helped and inspired and gladdened his heart more than anything else would have been the feel of your hand and a kind and cheering word and sympathetic counsel. Under those circumstances, I think I may say that it was your duty as a neighbor and a human being to go to see him. Now, he never needed money. In the kindest spirit, I ask you if that money you sent to him in the best of good-will was not, in fact, a species of bribery? Were you not, indeed, seeking to buy immunity from a duty incumbent upon you as a neighbor and a human being?"

Mr. Bing answered quickly, "There are plenty of people who have nothing else to do but carry cheer and comfort to the unfortunate. I have other things to do."

"That, sir, does not relieve you of the liabilities of a neighbor and a human being, in my view. If your business has turned you into a shaft or a cog-wheel, it has done you a great injustice. I fear that it has been your master—that it has practiced upon you a kind of despotism. You would better get along with less—far less business than suffer such a fate. I don't want to hurt you. sult and I can help you only by being frank. With all your generosity you have never given your heart to this village. Some unkind people have gone so far as to say that you have no heart. You can not prove it with money that you do not miss. Money is good but it must be warmed with sympathy and some degree of sacrifice. Has it never occurred to you that the warm hand and the cheering word in season are more, vastly more, than money in the important matter of making good-will? Unconsciously, you have established a line and placed yourself on one side of it and the people on the other. Broadly speaking, you are capital and the rest are labor. Whereas, in fact, you are all working men. Some of the rest have come to regard you as their natural enemy. They ought to regard you as their natural friend. Two kinds of despotism have prevented it. First, there is the despotism of your business in making you a slave—so much of a slave that you haven't time to be human; second, there is the despotism of the labor union in discouraging individual excellence, in demanding equal pay for the faithful man and the slacker, and in denying the right of free men to labor when and where they will. All this is tyranny as gross and un-American as that of George the Third in trying to force his will upon the colonies. If America is to survive, we must set our faces against every form of tyranny. The remedy for all our trouble and bitterness is real democracy, which is nothing more or less than the love of men—the love of justice and fair play for each and all.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR MAY 15
WORKING WITH OTHERS.

LESSON TEXT—1 Cor. 12:4-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.—1 Cor. 12:27.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—1 Kings 5: 1-12; Neh. 3:1-32; 4:15-23.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Helping One Another.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Team Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Co-operation or Competition.

This Scripture pictures the church, the body of Christ, under the figure of the human body. The topic "Working With Others" can only have application to Christians working with each other; for it is as members of the body of Christ that this relationship and obligation are set forth. The church is an organism, not merely an organization. As such it is:

I. One Body (vv. 12-20).

As a body it has many members, each with a definite ministry or function. Many members are essential to a body or organism. So it is with the church. Each member has its own gift and office. The proof of this oneness is that by the sovereign act of the Holy Spirit all believers are constituted one body (v. 13). A multiplicity of organisms does not make a body, but a multiplicity of members with their separate functions. There is no room for jealousy or discontentment among them (vv. 15, 16). It would be as reasonable for the foot to complain of its lot and refuse to function as a foot, as for one member of a church to envy the place of another. A deacon who is such by the appointment of God should not complain that he is not a minister. The church needs its foot-members, that is, those who are swift to run on its errands; it needs its eye-members, who are quick to perceive opportunities for service; it needs its ear-members, who are quick to hear the call to duty; it needs its tongue-members, who can speak forth the message of truth; it needs its hand-members to perform its many deeds of kindness. Each member of the church has its place by the sovereign will of God (v. 18). If this were realized there would be the most efficient co-operation among the members of the church. The pastor would faithfully do the work of a pastor; the minister, the work of a minister, the teacher, the work of a teacher, etc.

II. The Mutual Dependence of the Members of the Body (v. 21).

They must co-operate for the life and service of the body. As the foot cannot dispense with the hand, the eye with the hand, etc., so in the church, even the most highly gifted are dependent upon those of the lower order. Self-conceit and pride are as much out of place on the part of the highest in ability as of the lowest. In fact, a sober realization of this will do away with selfish pride.

III. The Least Attractive Members Are the Most Necessary (vv. 22, 23).

In the human body the heart is of more vital importance than the tongue. So in the church prayer is of much more importance than the gift of eloquence. Many examples could be given of those who wrestled with God in the closet, doing more for the cause of Christ than those who shone forth most conspicuously in the public eye. The lungs are never seen or heard, yet without them the tongue could not utter a sound.

IV. The Different Members Have Been Adjusted by God (vv. 24, 25).

So perfectly has this been done that if each performs its own function there will be harmony in the body. All schisms in the church is due to failure of one member to perform its duty because of envy of the position of another. By considering Christ the head and obeying Him all strife and division in the church will be eliminated.

V. Members Are Sympathetically Related (vv. 25-27).

One member should have the same care for the other as for itself. The eye has the same concern for the foot as it has for itself; so the most eloquent has the same solicitude for the humblest member as for itself. This is true because the suffering of the one is the suffering of the other; the honor of the one is the honor of the other; the sorrow of the one is the sorrow of the other; the property of the one is the property of the other; the shame and disgrace of the one is the shame and disgrace of the other. This is true because there is a common life which is derived from and directed by its head, Jesus Christ (Eph. 5:23).

VI. Things.

God made us to do things, and there is no tonic like that which comes from doing things worth while. A clear conscience and a clean life are far more to be desired than money. Real happiness without the achievement of something is unthinkable.

More Valuable Than Gold.

A good disposition is more valuable than gold; for the latter is the fortune, but the former is the life of nature.—Allison

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

TEMPUS FUGIT.

The traveler raced his fastest to the one-horse railway station and missed the train by the most vexatious of narrow margins.

"When is the next train in that direction?" he asked, pointing to the receding cars.

"Tomorrow," answered the station agent.

"At what time?"

"Just one minute sooner than right now."—American Legion Weekly.

He Paid for It, Though.

Mrs. Myles—That's an awfully shabby suit your husband is wearing.

Mrs. Styles—I know it.

"Doesn't he ever buy any new clothes?"

"Why, certainly he does."

"Why don't you make him wear 'em, then?"

"Don't be silly. How do you think he'd look in my clothes?"

Unreasonable Suggestion.

"What will prevent your wife from going through your clothes at night?" asked the citizen who is always telling his troubles.

"Have you ever tried going home without 'em?" asked his unsympathetic friend. "There are no pockets in B. V. D.'s or union suits."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Contemplative Mood.

"Do you think the world is growing better and wiser?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Growcher. "All I'm afraid of is that the world will become so completely interested in abstract questions of morality and wisdom that it'll neglect the plain ordinary industry necessary to keep it going."
