PETTY THIEVES FOIL OFFICERS

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Spurce up girls and look your best, there's going to be a beauty contest in town Monday night and no one is barred. The prize is a big silver loving cup.

Think what a help that trophy will be in keeping the boy friend devoted. It will be a constant ax over his head. Yes suh, there's nothing like advertising one's fine points.

One of the old home town's charming maidens has returned, after an absence of more than a year, wearing a big sparkling diamond on that significant finger. Its really a prize and she don't deny the seriousness of the affair.

These big town sheiks may know their "stuff" but they're just as clay to a potter, when these Cross Plains "gals" corral them. Congrats little one.

It is always a pleasure to announce something that is going to go Free. Here's one that promises a bit of good entertainment "gratis", perhaps.

Plans are underway to stage several basket ball games on Main Street, in the near future. If permission of the city council can be obtained the block between the Farmers National and the Citizens State Banks will be lighted up; and on nights of games, temporary goal posts moved in and the block roped off.

We might have a pretty nice time down there on evenings when there is nothing else to do. Bandmaster A. O. Lively states that his organization will be glad to furnish music for the contests.

A fellow from Pioneer informed this scribe last week that he was tired of reading about the alleged romances of the Cross Plains "school marm's" in this column. He declared that Pioneer really had something to boast about in that line. As proof, he pointed out that three of last year's faculty had launched matrimonial sails and that last week another embarked.

The situation in the Orient has apparently enlivened youthful hearts about Cross Plains with a spirit of adventure. Each is prepared to say what branch of the service he or she will enter. Yes, women too, they're got the idea from somewhere (picture shows perhaps) that "entertainers" are as necessary in War as nurses and as a result they'll all be in demand.

Since the conflict is extremely one sided there is indeed very little chance of the United States entering it, and certainly there is no cause for alarm.

But it is "kinda" funny to think of Eddie Priest barking out military commands to a squad of infantrymen—"Doc" McGowen as the chief dentist in stable number 9 for the Calvary—Elliott Bryant serving beans and bacon to a regiment—Mary Massa making pep talks to the boys to drive away their blues—Leta Neeb chauffeur-ing a Red Cross ambulance—"Slim" McNeal telling the officers that the thing is all wrong that he did it different in the World War—"Pancho" Vilha looking for little Chinese girl about the size of Dorothy.

If the thing really gets ripe, however the Cross Plains Review will send its "star" reporter to the Far East to keep subscribers informed of the conduct of local boys and girls "over there."

Loot 2 Places Here Sunday Of $65. Worth Of Tires And Ninety Five Gallons Gas; Again Active

A group of prowling petty robbers caused local officers no little worry the first of the week. Sunday night they broke into the Magnolia Petroleum Company's storage tanks, near the railroad station, and took 95 gallons of gasoline. They also entered the Sin-Clair Service Station, on South Main Street, the same night and made away with tires and tubes—a loss estimated at $70. The lock on the door at the Conoco storage tanks was twisted apart but nothing was taken from there except a gasoline can.

INFLUENZA RAGES HERE MANY ABSENT AT SCHOOL

The epidemic of influenza which has been raging the entire south west for the past few weeks has settled to a certain extent in Cross Plains. Numbers of absentees at school this week were accredited to that illness.

"UNCLE" JOE EUBANK IS QUITE ILL AT BROWNWOOD

"Uncle" Joe Eubank, formerly of this place, was said to be quite ill in a Brownwood hospital the first of the week. He is suffering from kidney trouble. Doctors say his condition is critical.

S. F. and Taylor Bond were in Baird the past week.

The next rampage, of what local officers believe to be the same "gang," came Tuesday night. Prowlers were seen about a garage in the East part of town but before nightwatchman O. Lackie could answer the call they had left. A searching party of officers and citizens revealed nothing.

Although they refused to commit themselves officers Lackie and Peterson intimated that they were prepared to arrest three men on sight. "We have a good description of the car that they were driving Tuesday night and I believe I will recognize the outfit if I ever get a good look at them" O. Lackie told the Review. He said that he had seen three men about town before the depredations began and was now of the opinion that they were the petty robbers.

The robbery at the Magnolia storage warehouse was the second in three weeks. The time before they took five gallons of transmission oil.

Will U. S. Go To War With Japan?

Most prevalent among present day discussions is the situation in the far East. How it will eventually culminate, is a problem in which the entire civilized world is vitally interested.

In the mind of this writer, the situation is indeed serious but in regard to the United States entering the conflict there seems no cause for alarm. The orientals may dispute among themselves until the middle of summer but neither Japan nor China is apt to take official action against the United States.

Too, there are no reasons to believe that America will enter the war unless driven to it by "self-preservation". The aftermath of the great World War is vivid in our minds and even the scrapping veterans of 1917 and '18 are cautioning to be sure there is no other alternative before we declare ourselves.

The chances are great that American will not enter the Orientals conflict but let's stick by our country fellows, as we would our Mothers. If as a last resort we are pushed into the war, there's but one thing to do, rally "round" the stars and bars with the same spirit that the boys did back in 1776 and 1918.

WITH ELISSA LANDI LIONEL BARRYMORE

BY W. A. (Red) Huckaby

Buddies just have a few more weeks to show your appreciation for what the Legion has done for you; each one that has not payed his dues ought to realize that we need your name on the dotted line regarding the payment of the balance of our Bonus.

Look at it this way, if every ex-service man joins the legion and his name is on the final list that is presented to Congress it would be hard to turn us down, but if you "buddies" stay out they will look at it this way, there's some of them that don't want it if they did they would surely express themselves in some way. Think this over and be one of us we need you.

I seen a clipping in the legion monthly that appealed to me regarding membership. It seems that some post was call to order by its commander in their meeting; he asked the adj., was he satisfied that all present were legionaires. The Adj., reporting 19 members present including 4 visitors and 11 members which I'm sure were full "pledged" Legionars before the close of that meeting. Now ex-service men don't be just a prospect; bring in your chickens, turkeys, potatoes, corn, pigs or anything that has a market value, and some legionare will be glad to help you in this way our Adj., has cald every day for these things.

It's really amazing to all ex-service men when these now ready young fellows ask us about the conflict with the far East. Hundred of questions are asked everyday. Now some wishing that they could go and others expressing themselves as being newly weds. And even others as candidates expressing themselves if that would keep them out of war they were ready to consider some worthy young lady. That's just different one's expressing themselves to the writer.

Our open house party was all it was meant for. Good talks were made by several invited guests and our local Commander and our district committeemen, Mr. Benefield of Brady were the principle speakers. Forty-two and dominoe games were enjoyed by all. Coffee and doughnuts were the refreshments.

Our Post has ordered trees to be set out at the school grounds, February 21th, in honor of our Buddies that has passed on. We are to have a dedication and program at 2:30 P. M., and we invite you all to attend the dedicating tribute.

This day was selected that all the Legionnaires and ex-service men would be sure to attend, rather than on Monday, which is Washington's birthday and really the day designated for the tree planting by National headquarters.

Each Legionnaire expressed

THAT although the Canada lynx is sometimes confused with the bobcat or bay lynx of the east, he is an entirely different creature? He is to be distinguished from his meaner relatives by his lighter gray color, tuft of long black hairs on the tips of his ears and his large, hairy paws. His feeds chiefly on rabbits though he also favors grouse and other game birds. It has also been reported that he sometimes kills deer and caribou. himself as approving of the stand that the Review editor took last week in regard to the payment of soldier's bonus. This is something to really think about, since it will affect everyone in our community to the extent of eighteen dollars. That much money brought in here from an outside source, would do much to elevate the depressing conditions at present.

One Man's Guess

New York has been so thick with gloom that we have had to carry flash-lights at mid-day. Men talk about "thirty years of bad business" and "the collapse of the capitalistic system" and "the end of the gold standard," etc. Millions of dollars in cash are hidden in safety deposit vaults.

Since all the authorities have proved wrong, and one man judgment is as good as another's. I venture to publish my little guess as to what is and what is not going to happen.

It has been the record of history that times of great tribulation is the removal of great abuses.

Said Lincoln in 1864: "At the end of three years' struggle the nation's condition is not what either party, or any man, devised or expected. God alone can claim it. Whither it is tending seems plain. If God now wills the removal of a great wrong, and wills that we of the North, as well as you of the South, shall pay fairly for our complicity in that wrong, impartial justice will find therein new cause to attest and revere the justice and goodness of God."

If the Civil War had ended quickly it would have settled nothing. It dragged through four weary years, but it abolished slavery.

If the present depression had been easily cured no good would have come of it. It is so bad, so world-wide, that it is compelling the peoples of every nation to realize the two fundamentals which were set forth convincingly in Sir George Paish's book. The Way to Recovery.

1. We are compelled to realize that the old time insular, nationalistic thinking is out of date in a world which has been shrunk to a neighborhood. No nation can prosper unless all nations prosper. Tariffs and reparations and international jealousies are shackles on trade and mean less

2. If trade is once freed from these shackles, including the worst, which is international suspicion, the future has possibilities beyond our wildest dreams. The consumptive power of humanity is unlimited. Even in the most advanced nations the standard of living is still low. There are potential markets enough to keep all our resources employed, and to make all of us well to do.

I, therefore, am optimistic, not because this is a minor depression but because it is so very serious, so world-wide, so packed with suffering for everybody.

Before it is finished we shall be compelled to effect international economic reforms that we never should have considered in prosperous times.

And when we do get business going again our prosperity will amaze us.

CASE NOTES

A very robust lady, weight 262 pounds, wife of a farmer in the West, came with a backache that disabled her, and which no medicine seemed to relieve more than temporarily.

A thorough examination of this lady revealed no organic lesion. Evidently her spinal muscles were suffering from over-use. Just muscular overstrain. She was a most perfectly built woman, almost a giantess. She had borne eleven children, most of them weighing 12 or 13 pounds at birth. And, no pelvic injuries of any kind. Her age, 46.

My treatment, rest, and DRY HEAT applied daily; the infra-red ray over the zone complained of. Six treatments, with REST, cured the woman; she left yesterday for her home.

This was not "rheumatism," nor any part of it. All remedies aimed at rheumatic infection would have proven futile. I have seen such patients treated with intravenous injections and the whole array of salicylates—only to record failure.

Another case is on hand now, her tenth, and last treatment comes tomorrow. She has synovitis in the right knee-joint. Perfect health otherwise, but this disables. Same age as the first patient. The knee is failing from overuse. But the disease is not over six months standing. She will be symptom-free tomorrow—is so now, but she wanted to be sure to take treatments enough. Weighs 206.

The treatment was the same—infra-red rays, 25-minute sittings daily. I gave her no medicines. She walks two and three miles every day. This article is to emphasize careful, intelligent diagnosis, and common sense in treatment. It may warn women approaching the 50-year mark to be careful not to over-work the delicate structures that line the joints.

Thrift does not mean hoarding money away, where it does nobody any good. It is thrift to buy or build a home or to put a little money away every pay day for a life insurance or old age fund. Running into debt is not always thriftless, provided the debt is for something of actual value and the regular payments on principal and interest are not too heavy to be borne out of fixed incomes. The people who are in the worst trouble today are the ones who went into debt in boom times on the notion that their incomes were never going to be less and probably would be more.

Benjamin Franklin was right when he said, "A penny saved is a penny earned."

The little one room school house is slipping away at the rate of 4000 a year. The trend is toward consolidated schools. When good, all weather roads become universal, the one room school house will give way altogether to consolidated schools. Many localities are clinging tenaciously to the one room school, but its fate is inevitable.

The next time we are pushed into a war we are in favor of collecting up all of our political job holders through out the country, forming them into an army and turning them loose on the enemy. No other nation could supply an army of that size.

RAPTURE BEYOND

by
KATHARINE NEWLIN BURT

Seventh Instalment

Fresh from French convent, Jocelyn Harlowe returns to New York to her socially-elect mother, a religious, ambitious woman. The girl is hurried into an engagement with the wealthy Felix Kent. Her father, Nick Sandal, surreptitiously enters the girl's home one night. He tells her he used to call her Lynda Sandal. The girl is torn by her desire to see life in the raw and to become part of her mother's society. Her father studies her surroundings.

Lynda visits her father in his dingy quarters. She finds four men playing cards when she arrives. One of them, Jock Ayleward, her father tells her, is like a son to him, but warns the girl he is a trifter.

Lynda pays a second visit to her father and Jock takes her home, on the way stopping with her at an under-worldly cabaret. Jock asks her to dance.

Jock gets into a fight with a gangster who insists on dancing with Lynda. He then takes Lynda home. Later Ayleward's face displays his extreme hatred of the millionaire.

Jock tells Lynda that Felix caused him to be sent to jail unjustly by fixing up his report on a mine. Lynda says she doesn't believe his story. She pays another visit to her father and goes to a cabaret with him and dances with Jock, who suddenly stops and tells her he is going to take her right home. He had seen Felix dancing with another woman.

Felix tells Jocelyn that Jock is a worthless scamp. Later tells Jock she does not believe in his innocence but will try and find, through Felix some letters Jock claims will clear his name.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"And you were going to leave without a word to me? Nick was going too.

"It was my plan."

I'm sure of that. From the beginning you've tried to separate us. Can't you see how wicked that is! And how selfish. I can help him, save him.

Jock who has now on his feet stood looking down at her. Save him—from what?

She flushed but went on bravely. From you, Jock Ayleward. From this life of his with—you."

Jock began to move up and down the littered room. With rough hair and in his shirt sleeves he looked younger than she remembered him—so many years younger than Felix Kent. Scared, yes, by life; but so much younger and more flexible.

The eyes in his spent face began unwillingly to flare, to widen, as she told him of her ride with Felix.

Ask Kent about your father now. Tomorrow. Tell him about me. Put him to the test.

"I will." Her heart labored. Yes. I will. I've already asked him about you."

The young man turned to stone. Gray stone. He wet his lips and asked slowly, not looking at her. "Did you ask him to prove his case?"

"Why should I? To me it's proved by his word."

"Then ask him to give you his correspondence with Algernon Talley during the summer of 1920."

"He would have none."

"And if you find the letters?"

If I find even a scrap of paper that has anything to do with your case, I promise you that you shall have it. I am going now. I won't wait for Nick. I don't believe you will be cruel enough now to take him away from me. Let me go, Jock." He had seized her hands in a fir mgrip.

She fled from him. She heard herself laughing breathlessly as she ran down the stairs.

That night after she had finally fallen asleep with her last memory of Jock on her mind, she was awakened early by Marcella.

"The jewels are gone. Get up and help me. Tell me where you've hidden them."

Her mother's hands tore her dreams to pieces, hurting her. They were trying to wring something out of her.

"Mother, Mother, please! What is the matter? What have I done?"

"My jewels." Marcella faltered close to Jocelyn's ear. They're not where they should be. You've taken them?"

It was spoken, Jocelyn now realized, in hope.

"I don't know anything about them, Mother."

But she was remembering her father's silent visits—the visits she had called fruitless.

She loved Nick. Even now she loved him; this knowing climber-in at bedroom windows, this, beaten man whose friends had hard faces and quick eyes—Here pain took her heart in both its hands and squeezed it. Jock-in the box, Boxy." What creatures went about under such, sobriquets? A hideous clamor came to her mind whose ears she tried in vain to close! Thief! Stop, thief!

She had herself admitted these men into her mother's house with her own hands.

He had not come himself that other night. He had sent Jock. She had admitted Jock herself. He had stayed a long time. He had not been watching her while she played. He had busied his eyes elsewhere. He had quick eyes. Her wrist watch was gone—He had light-fingered hands they had held her own—Kent's diamond upon them—against his face.

Now she knew what name her father and Jock Ayleward carried on the shrewd implacable tongue of the law. She knew the secret of their quick wealth, their sudden poverty. Of their laughter. Felix became aware of her presence in the inner office, cut short his tongue-lashing and hurried to greet her.

"Jocelyn, darling, you here?"

"Yes, I tried to get you on the telephone at your apartment, and then here, Miss Deal said, you'd be in. I want to lunch with you."

"Splendid."

"Some quiet place, Felix."

On their way, in the back seat of the limousine, Jocelyn spoke quickly.

I want to marry you sooner, Felix. How soon can we arrange it?

He sat straight, visibly excited.

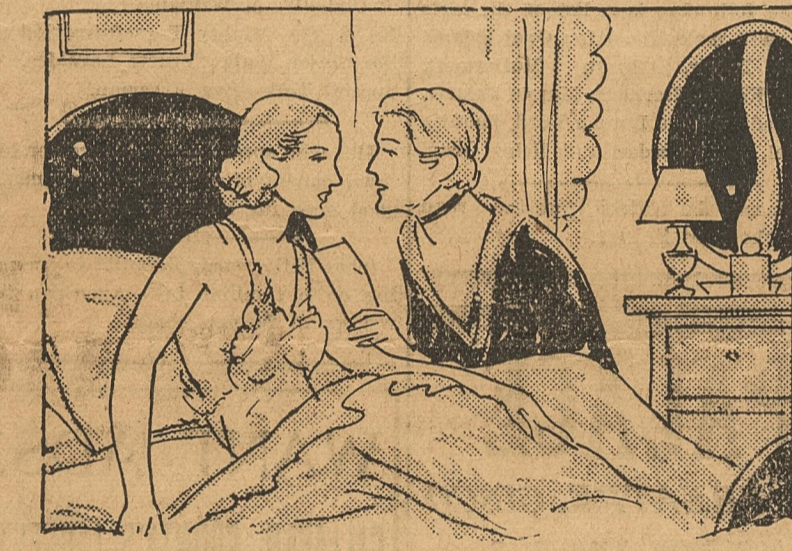

"Dearest—my darling—this goes through me like lightning. How soon? Today!"

"Next week, Felix? If Mother can manage it? That's not too soon?"

He smothered her—the people on the sidewalk now withstanding—and let her go.

"I am married to him now," thought Jocelyn, now I am really married safely to him," and she sat there as still as a trapped mouse in her gray fur with her chin bent but with that look of somber June thunder in her eyes.

When she returned home she found a small thin man with horn rimmed spectacles, his hair very closely cut, leaning forward from the sofa toward Marcella, who, rigid and white, looked an apparition in her carved high-backed chair. The man was in the middle of a long speech. His voice lifted itself for an instant into her hearing:

"My Jewels," Marcella faltered, close to Jocelyn's ear, "You've hidden and sordid homes that changed and changed.

hidden and sordid homes that changed and changed.

The next morning Marcella had recovered her self-possession. She came to Jocelyn's room early.

"I will take steps to discover the thief, Jocelyn, very quiet and private steps. There are reasons which you can't know, ah, she did know, too many reasons—why I must move very carefully. I will engage the services of a private detective. Meanwhile I command you—to say not a word, not so much as a breath about the jewels and my loss of them.

"I promise you, Mother. On my honor."

"Not a word to anyone, not even to Felix Kent."

Felix Kent; the name flourished in her ears with the sound of salvation. He rode life proudly with quirt and spur, knight errant. A warm current of reassurance flooded her chilled heart.

She would marry Felix Kent. At once.

She controlled her nervous sobbing and went to summon him.

Felix Kent had already left his Park Avenue apartment. She rang his office. Miss Deal's voice came with a brisk authoritative clicking.

"Mr. Kent's office, yes—Yes, indeed Miss Harlowe—No, he's not here. He will be back—Yes, Miss Harlowe, he said positively that he would be back about noon. Why, yes, Miss Harlowe, of course you may come here and wait for him. Why, naturally, that's entirely up to you."

After a time the two women heard Kent enter the outer office.

Kent was speaking in a low hard tone and the clerk's own young voice lifted in reply piped such a tune of abject cringing contrition that Jocelyn's blood came to her face in sympathy.

"What do you suppose he has done?" she whispered.

Miss Deal, unsmiling, balefully replied, "He forgot the scabbasket."

Jocelyn threw back her head and laughed.

At that raining of golden careless

It can hardly be a mistake. I think Mrs. Harlowe, she has been seen twice by two different people."

"Going in by the alley entrance?"

"Once, ma'am, yes. And once again just leaving a taxi at the corner of this block: a conspicuous-looking young woman with a big bush of hair under a tam and a full pleated skirt with a tight jacket."

Miss Jocelyn Harlowe, turning to the mirror, sleeked her hair and fitted down upon it her small felt hat. No nun had ever looked paler. She came into that room quickly with her proudest grace.

Marcella said, "This is my daughter, Mr. Catring. She has been told of—my loss."

The horn-rimmed spectacles were turned and rested, shining, upon her face.

"May I search your bedroom?" he asked her.

"Why certainly, if mother wishes you to."

Jocelyn went along the hall. For a merciful twenty minutes the inspection of her own room was delayed. Catring stayed first to examine Marys quarters.

During that twenty minutes Jocelyn took down her skirt and tam-shanter and jacket from the closet, hanger and hook, folded them as flatly as she could and hid them between her mattress and the springs.

Mr. Catring came in at his leisure and made a quick and sharp examination of her closet, her bathroom, her window and her fire escape. He looked down for some time at the court below with its opening into the alley.

An hour later she breathed easier when she heard the detective take his leave.

Jocelyn thereupon studied coldly and fiercely what must now be done before her wedding day.

She said to Lynda Sandal, "You must find Nick, if he is to be found, and persuade him to return the jewels."

She said to Jocelyn Harlowe, Before you marry Felix Kent you must prove to Ayleward and to yourself that you do not fear the contents of that safe."

And speaking in the character of Mrs. Felix Kent she said to both these girls. "You must be very careful and you must not be afraid."

A small number of church invitations had been sent out, an even smaller number of invitations to a breakfast afterward, a larger number of announcements went through the mails and the papers had their information and their photographs.

To these matters Marcella, with the speech and movements of a marionette had carefully attended. Jocelyn had stood for the first and second fittings of her wedding gown and the apartment began, surprisingly to her, to fill itself with gifts.

"You're giving me everything, Felix," she murmured late one evening, the wedding day just sixty-two hours ahead, except one thing and that is what I want most."

He had been about to say good night, one of those lingering good nights that taxed her patience and tormented all her nerves. They were seated together on the small brocaded sofa. Felix sat back in the sofa corner and held Jocelyn close against him.

"It's just—" the pale girl faltered, lifting her eyes to him and letting them fall again with a convent child's timidity or shame, "your confidence."

Felix stiffened, then drew her even closer.

"All right. You shall have it. What do you want to know? Ask me for a secret."

There fell a silence which Felix pleasantly employed, stroking her hair touching her warm cheek. Jocelyn whispered. I wish—you will think I'm worse than a baby!—but I do wish I could tell Miss Deal that I knew the combination of your private safe."

Felix threw back his head and laughed heartily and tenderly the laughter of an indulgent elder.

"Little goose! What good would that do you?"

"No good of course: No practical good. But—spiritually—"

Thou life on the earth.
So brief and so happy
With sweet childish mirth.
Thy life was all purity
Thou dear little child
But the master has called thee
Come home from the wild.

From the earth's weary trials
Its heartaches, its pains
Thou has passed through the portals
With no blemish or stain.

Sleep on in thy beauty
Thou mothers heart grieves
Some sweet day shall meet you
Beyond life's troubled seas

Sad hearts were left weeping
Oh! Father we pray
Guide, Guard and direct them
On life's weary way."

Significance Of Leap Year

As 1932 slowly dawned upon the scene, a number of people rejoiced over the coming of the new year because it had been rumored that 1932 would be the cure for the depression. But there was a greater number who rejoiced for an entirely different reason. These were the females who had been very "impatiently" waiting for the coming of Leap Year, which might prove to be a year of opportunities for their sex.

All males from the "collar add" man to the Prince of Wales will now be on the look out, for they have no sympathy for women. You men would be surprised how well women have learned to economize since the depression. If you knew, perhaps you would again cling to the belief that two can live as cheaply as one.

So, men, if a female pounces upon you with a nice little proposal of marriage do not be astounded. Be merciful with her, for the women simply must take advantage of the only chance. Leap Year. And you may feel assured that you would not be cheated; you might even receive the best part of the bargain.

Meaning of Your Birthday

If you were born between: January 1 and January 20 you are seldom influenced by others and never permit impulse to over-ride reason. You are easily offended and do not easily forgive. If you are a woman, you are not inclined to fall in love at first sight. Haughty and exclusive, you do not make friends readily and it is not indicated that you will become socially popular. If you are a man, you are calm and deliberate and capable of much success. March and November are your favorable months and Saturday is your favorable day.

January 20 and February 18: You are progressive in thought and action. You are inclined toward the fine arts. You readily warm to people and are always willing to sponsor their cause. You overlook the faults of others and place trust and faith in friends and strangers alike, however, your faith in some people often wavers. This is caused by drawing your own conclusions, which often causes misunderstandings. You must learn to overcome any gloomy spells, for they will work to your disadvantage. Your general health is good and a strong constitution promises long life.

February 19 and March 19: You have an appreciation for beauty and purity, you are morbid and temperamental with a deep feeling for religion and convention. You have an inborn love to roam. If you are a woman you dislike conspicuous dress and display of any kind. Your appearance always reflects exquisite taste and delicate beauty. You are a natural home-maker. You are easily discouraged. May and June are your fortunate months and Saturday is your fortunate day.

March 20 to April 18: Your highest ambition is eating, which results in excessive weight. Your nature is stormy and precipitate. You are logical and positive in your thoughts and are easily influenced by others. You have a great determination to succeed in anything you undertake. When crossed in your opinions you become angry and irritated. Your inquiring mind leads you to probe deeply into matters you do not thoroughly understand. You are proud, self-confident, and think well of yourself. June and July are your favorable months and Tuesday is your fortunate day.

April 19 to May 19: You are firm in will, of a generous disposition, and simple and unaffected in manner. Your sincerity wins for you many friends. Socially, you are adaptable but not overly talkative or imaginative. You are inclined to have a long life, free from grave ills. May and June are your favorable months and Friday your most fortunate day.

Duty Of The Voter On Next Election Day

(An Editorial)

Each voter should put forth an effort to fulfill his duty in the next election. He will only do justice to this country by going to the polls and voting. Every persons who is of the required age, should form his opinion of certain candidates that he thinks will be capable of exercising the power necessary in the specified office and let his vote add to the greatness of his country. A person should not vote according to some notable man in the community, but he should learn to solve and formulate his own opinions to make his life a success.

The value of having faithful citizens in a country is necessary for a powerful and successful government. No country can progress without the co-operation of its citizens. The government of any country should be of much importance to all its people, for its foundation will greatly aid in forming the nation.

I think that a person interested in the welfare and development of his country will gladly study about the election and will willingly come forth with his aid in the election. Each person has his portion of the universe to serve and occupy. It depends upon you and me to develop our mental ability and follow the rugged or peaceful path of life.

Experience of a small community near Schulenburg demonstrates the benefits of proximity to a milk plant. The small group in the community is and has been all this year receiving $1,000 cash a month from its milk sales and the members have found individually that they are receiving more income from their cows than from their cotton.

Fred Long of Dressy made a business trip to San Angelo past week end, he purchased two truck loads of sheep.

To The Voters Of Callahan County

In entering the race for Tax Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries of 1932, I wish to state that I am 35 years of age, have lived in the County practically all of my life, attended the school of the County, and have, I believe, a practical knowledge of property valuations, both personal and real estate property, that would be helpful in handling the work, should I be your choice for this important office.

And I want to assure you, one and all, that your favorable consideration, and your influence and votes, will be appreciated. During the campaign I intend to see every voter, and submit my candidacy before you in a frank, courteous and business like manner, all of my life, attended the schools of hoping that I may receive this favor at your hands.

I want to promise you now, that if I am your choice, I will at all times endeavor to be prompt, courteous and careful in assessing taxes and in making the tax rolls, and in attending to the other duties of the office.

Again, hoping to see all of the voters, and wishing to have your favor in my race, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
VERNON R. KING

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS MONDAY AND PLANS BOOK STUDY

The Methodist Missionary Society met at the Church Monday afternoon for a short business session. Mrs. Robert Cunningham presided.

Plans were made for the Lions Club luncheon, Tuesday and afterward the society heard discussions of a new study book—"Methodism and World Need". Mrs. George Neel spoke on the crisis in our missionary work and the pressing need for funds in the far East. She gave glimpses of the book so informatively that members were eager for more.

The challenge of China, Japan and Korea was discussed with Mrs. J. A. Caton and Mrs. Robert Cunningham as leaders. The worship period was ably led by Mrs. C. C. Armstrong.

The society is very anxious for all ladies of the church to join in the study which will be sent out by the church for the whole church. Join us next Monday and through February. Let's get better acquainted with the work of our great church.

Callahan County ginned 10,348 bales of cotton from the crop of 1931 prior to January 16th, 1932, compared with 3,814 bales for the same period last year.

Use only sound and clean fillers and cup flats in the cases. Pack all eggs with small end down. Do not pack extra large or weak shelled eggs, say poultry specialists.

Dressy

The regular fifth Sunday rally of the Dressy Charge met at the Cottonwood church, Sunday, January 31, for its regular fifth Sunday meeting. It was generally agreed that this meeting was one of the best that has been held on the charge. All the communities were represented except Burnt Branch.

There were something like 175 people at this meeting by actual count. The Sunday Schools put on a splendid program of recitations and songs consisting of solos, duets quartets, quintets and the congregational singing was very good. The pastor the Rev. O. C. Stapleton brought a very helpful message just before the noon hour on the subject of "The Christian Home."

Dinner was served at the church and most of the people stayed for this interesting part of the program. A majority of the people stayed for the afternoon program. The activities of the evening was a continuation of recitations and songs with the reports given by the Sunday School Superintendents of the different Sunday Schools on the charge. The pastor was asked to talk on the subject, "The great responsibility of the church for the religious training of the people in its territory."

After all the program had been rendered the President Mr. Fred Staey asked "Where shall the next rally be held." Mr. George Baum nominated "Victoria" and it was duly seconded and it was unanimously decided to go to Victoria.

The pastor brought a very helpful message at the evening hour at the Cottonwood church on the subject "Am I my Brother's Keeper."

There will be preaching by the pastor at Burnt Branch Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. In the afternoon he will preach at Victoria at three o'clock and again at 7:30.

The pastor Rev. O. C. Stapleton conducted chapel at the Dressy school Tuesday morning. He talked from the scripture Phil. 4:8 on the subject "Purity of Life."

Wedlong—My dear, it's no use for you to look at those hats; I haven't more than a dollar in my pocket.

Mrs. Wedlong—You might have known when we came out that I'd want to buy a few things.

Wedlong—I did.

First Stude—Wasn't that a juicy lecture by Professor McCullom on "The Culture of Prunes?"

Second Stude—It surely was. He was so full of his subject.

Miss Highhat (introduced to man she loved 20 years ago) —I beg pardon, sir, but I did not catch your name.

Old Bach—I know you didn't but that is not your fault—you tried hard enough.

Ennice—Has the doctor you're engaged to got money?

Jennie—Sure, did you think I was getting married for my health?

Mrs. Crankshaft—Hurry up, dear, we're late. What on earth detained you?

Mr. Crankshaft—Dart it all, why can't you put things back where you find them? It took me 20 minutes rummaging about the garage to find our Austin."

No Fountain of Youth

They say old Ponce de Leon wandered around all over the earth, hunting for the Fountain of Youth, but he didn't have much luck. The fountain was a fizzle.

If the old Spaniard had remained at home and put his money in sound income securities, he would have been a lot happier and would no doubt have lived longer. Youth is only a relative term anyway. Some are old at 38, others are young at 60. Avoid worry and discouragement by building up an account at our Bank.

IN MEMORY OF

Billie Jean Purvis, 3 years 3 months and 17 days old; whom the good Lord saw fit to take from us to a better home above.

He was loved by all and a bright boy. Thursday, January 28, was kicked by a mule and only lived about an hour. He was a son of Otis Purvis and wife, and a grand-son of J. P. and Fannie Purvis and a great grand-son of A. G. Foster, the writer. I would say to the bereaved ones that God is caring for Billie Jean and let our Hearts be comforted with this sweet thought, that Jesus who is always watching, caring for his own, and who never sleeps nor slumbers. He saw and knew the danger that hovering near and He whoes power is quicker than human, reached down and snatched His sweet little spirit from the jaws of death and wafted it home to Glory where He in the resurrections will sing redeeming Grace as big as you or I. Blessed thought there will no difference if we are fortunate enough to meet Him there. We will be one family. The God Giveth and the Lord Taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.

Written by his great-grand-father, A. G. Foster.

Murdered at Cisco!

Mr. All Cash and Mr. Low Price are charged with killing Old Man Depression. Dr. W. L. Ghormley, Optometrist, 1503 Ave. D, Cisco, Texas, is charged with being accessory to the crime. Dr. Ghormley is charged with fitting glasses for $12.80 All Cash that faithfully represents the same service for which he received $30.00 during the years of 1919 to 1929. All other prices for his services reduced in proportion. He is also charged with the promise to allow One Dollar off for gasoline used by any person coming over thirty miles to have glasses fitted. Dr. Ghormley is doing this as his hit toward the resurrection of that popular citizen known as Prosperity. He makes the positive assertion that he is fitting glasses now cheaper than at any time during his twenty-nine years experience in his chosen profession. This is the fourth reduction in prices in the last two years and he believes it will be the last. Dr. Ghormley has moved his office to his residence, 1503 Ave. D, where parking space is plentiful, and has cut Office Expenses to the minimum. He declares he will pass this saving along to the patient, and that he is going to stay in his office all the time now, that he can be found there day and night. His telephone number is 337—Adv.

WHY NEEB'S OIL AND GAS SELLS FOR LESS MONEY

You may have wondered how we could sell a higher grade product for less money than the Major Companies. Well here are the reasons why we can.

1. If you buy right you can sell right.
2. We use no courtesy cards and take no losses.
3. We pay no auditor. We pay no collector.
4. We pay no rent, we own the station.
5. We save railroad freight by having the refinery in the middle of the oil field.
6. We are not dictated to by some hook nose Jew in a foreign city.
7. We are not ruled by an iron hand.

5 Gallons Superior Lub Oil $2.00
A higher grade than any on the Market.
It is backed up by a money back guarantee.

Our first grade gasoline sells at 14c while the Major Companies get 19c for it.

Our Second Grade is 12c while the big boys get 16c. We have no third grade. Don't be mislead.

We claim our grades to be as good or better than the Major Companies.
