The Cross Plains Review

(SERVING THE LARGEST SHALLOW OIL FIELD ON EARTH)

Without offense to friends or foes we sketch Cross Plains exactly as it goes.

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

After riding the bench for a week and seeing Hugh McDermitt star in our position, it is indeed a pleasure to be back in the harness and pound out this column again.

Hugh's version of a Home Town Gossip column last week was well received. He illustrated very clearly that his gift of gab is not limited to the confines of cow trails.

In view of the fact we did not contribute this department last week, there is a natural libel for our failure to forecast two weddings which happened in these parts over the week end.

Miss "Judge" Ara Eager, one of the ol' home town's most efficient stenographers, surrendered to the wooings of Huey M. Wiginton—with whom she has been keeping company for three or more years—and was married at the Presbyterian church, Saturday night.

Right at this time it seems fitting that we tell readers of this column where the bride first got the nick-name "Judge", by which she is known to virtually everyone here.

Several years ago, when she was serving an apprenticeship in book-keeping under Bill and Ross Wagner, at Higginbothams, they gave her the name of "Judge", because she always had so many cases coming up. And too because of her stoutheaded appearance.

Then there is the wedding of Claude Harrell and Mrs. Ivery O'Hara, which occurred Thursday night.

Here's felicitations of best wishes to each of the bridal couples, along with this column's choice blessing.

Charlie Barr, who has been reading this newspaper ever since it was called the Herald, gets no little kick out of our "Million Dollar Rain" headlines.

There is one thing certain no one can prove we are wrong (or right) for who knows the value of each rain-drop?

"Doc" Sellers, recorder in chief of the Rising Star Record, has for a number of years been calling us Horace Greely. Will some one please tell us just exactly who the said Mr. Greely was (or is). The only thing we know of the gent is that he is reputed to have said: "Go West young man, go West." And too, was he speaking of Mae West, toward the setting sun, or was he using the "Go West" phrase in the same sense as did the Allies in the same sense as did the Allies? Really we don't think "Doc" knows a great deal about Horace Greely or the other illustrious characters of history, but that he gathers an inkling now and then from his son Wayne, who is perhaps the foremost boy journalist in Texas. In proof of our point we cite you an article, "In The Land of The Kingfish" by young Wayne on an inside page of today's Review.

Our nomination for one of the most sought after young bachelors in Cross Plains—Ralph Carnes, A&P manager.

Cottonwood has always been noted for it's kindness to the youth. And now, endeavoring to make something out of this rural newspaperman, the community has invited us there to deliver the commencement address the night of (Continued on page 8)

Farmers National To Pay First Dividend Soon

TWO AND ONE HALF PERCENT TO BE PAID DEPOSITORS OF BANK

A dividend of two and three tenths percent will be paid depositors of the defunct Farmers National Bank within the very near future—possibly 10 days—the Review was told yesterday by Miss Ellie Tames, secretary to John A. Best, Receiver for the institution.

The payment will be the first made since the bank closed it's doors June 11, 1931. At that time there was on deposit approximately $100,000, according to Taylor Bond, Cashier. The dividend to be paid within the near future will therefore be in the neighborhood of $2,500. Other dividends are expected to be paid by Mr. Best at a later date.

The final dividend will be paid depositors of the defunct First National Bank of Rising Star next week. It will be one half of one percent, which will make the total dividend paid depositors of that institution 30 and one half percent.

Mr. Best and Miss Tames are expected to be in Cross Plains perhaps the latter part of this month to begin the dividend payment here.

PHILPCO WINS 4 OUT OF NINETEEN AT BRADY SUNDAY

Winning four out of nineteen matches the Philpco golf team is credited with a good showing at Brady Sunday afternoon in their first meeting with the Brady Country Club team this season. In their first match of the season Santa Anna won only one match out of nineteen at Brady. On the account of the fact that Brady has the only cottonseed green layout in this section of the state there are but few golfers who know anything about playing them which always means defeat to the team playing Brady on their own course.

Visitors to Brady Sunday, however, were more than compensated for the trip by the hospitable treatment at the hands of the Brady club members, who left nothing undone to show their visitors a good time. Many of the local golfers took their families and enjoyed a picnic dinner in beautiful Richards Park or on the attractive club grounds at Brady.

Results of the individual matches are as follows, the first named being Brady players:

- Griffin defeated Hammett one up (19 holes).
- Newman took out Johnny Gregg 4 and 3.
- Harkrider was defeated by Bill Tunnell 2 and 1.
- H. Adkins defeated Nicholson 4 and 3.
- Calliham defeated R. Bucy 5 and 3.
- Ballou defeated W. A. Wright (Continued on back page)

LOCAL GIRL NAMED ON COLLEGE PAPER STAFF

Clara Nell McDermitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McDermitt of this place, and a student in John Tarleton Agricultural College, at Stephenville, has been named associate editor of the student publication the "J-Tac" the Review is informed from the college publicity office.

Miss McDermitt was, while in high school here, editor of the Bis on two consecutive years.

Steve Foster May Represent Callahan Farmers In Conference With President Franklin Delano Roosevelt At Washington

An appeal to the people of Callahan county is made this week by Ross B. Jenkins, County Agent, for funds to send a local farmer in the Texas delegation to Washington, to confer with President Franklin D. Roosevelt on agricultural matters. Steve N. Foster, of Atwell, has been chosen to represent Callahan farmers in Washington and will make the trip if the necessary $100. for expenses is raised.

All interested in seeing Callahan farmers represented at the Washington conference are urged by the County Agent to submit contributions to Mrs. R. C. Corn, at Baird. In the event that enough funds are secured, another Callahan farmer will be chosen to accompany Mr. Foster on the special train, which leaves Texas, May 12.

County Agent Ross B. Jenkins' statement to the Review concerning the proposed trip and the benefits to be derived therefrom appears hereunder.

"May 12th is the second anniversary of the A.A.A. and is the birthday of the greatest piece of legislation ever enacted for the farmer. It has given him rental and benefit payments on his crops that has enabled him to make reductions in acres thereby helping to reduce the burdensome surpluses that had piled up in the United States. The A.A.A. also guaranteed to him a crop insurance, without which many farmers in Callahan would have been ruined this past year. The wheat farmers of the North have had millions of dollars paid to them through the A.A.A. which has enabled them to stay on their farms and look for a change in climatic condition that would have been forced to have gone on Relief had they not been paid these benefits. In addition the price levels of cotton, wheat, corn, peanuts, and cattle have been raised to double and more since the program was put on for these commodities.

"Now there are certain selfish interests that are termed industrialists who live mainly east of the Allegheny Mountains who are now clamoring for the repeal of the processing taxes which, of course, would practically end the A.A.A. since that is the means of getting money to pay for the program. They claim the farmers are getting the most from the New Deal. Those same people have had the protection of Tariffs on the things they sell to the farmers for so many years that they seem to take the position that the measure is inherent to their good interest. President Roosevelt wants to keep the processing tax and wants to keep the benefit payment coming to the farmers and in his address Sunday night asked all the people to help him carry on his constructional measures.

"Texas is going to send a special train to Washington on May 12th composed of farmers and the administration wants a farmer or more from each county to be on that train. I hope Callahan has at least one in the group. We can if the men who have been benefited by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will give just a little bit to the program. The banks have been helped farmers have sold their cotton higher and have received benefit payments so (Continued on page 8)

A. C. C. STUDENTS TO PRESENT PROGRAM IN AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

A variety program including music, motion pictures, and gymnastics will be presented by entertainers from Abilene Christian College sponsored by the Wednesday Study Club Friday, May third in the high school auditorium here.

The A.C.C. program has been produced at many schools in this region this spring and has some unusual numbers. A tumbling team from the department of physical education has a feature place on the program. Motion pictures of the Fort Worth Stock Show track meet will be included in the entertainment, and the feature race in which Delmer Brown, famous Wildcat sprinter, defeated "Chink" Wallender of the University of Texas in 100 meters is one of the "shots."

Readers from the speech arts department, the college set, a one-act play by the Melpomenean Players of A.C.C., and the Wildcat band will be other groups on the program.

This Football District Is District Cut In Two Parts

Football district 14-B in which Cross Plains played last year, was revised at a meeting of the executive committee at Cisco, Monday night, to accommodate 12 teams during the coming season. The loop will be divided into two distinct sections and the two winners will meet Thanksgiving day and play for the district championship. The number of the district has also been changed to 17-B.

In section one will be Cross Plains, Albany, Rising Star, Baird, Clyde and Putnam. Section two will be composed of Pioneer, May Carbon, Olden, Moran and Woodson. There is a probability that Desdemonia and Williams may also be added to section two of the loop.

The classifications were made by estimated strength.

Winner of this district will play the winner of the Coleman-Santa Anna conference for the bi-district title.

The executive committee drafted a recommendation to the state board requesting that Caddo be suspended from league play for a period of one year, for having played a man under assumed name.

LOCAL MAN OPERATED AT BROWNWOOD MON.

P. L. Rankin, of this place, in the Medical Arts hospital at Brownwood, after undergoing an appendix operation first of the week. He was reported yesterday to be convalescing normally.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McDonald are parents of a nine pound baby born Wednesday night, May first (May Day)

SMALL BOY HURT WHEN HIT BY PASSING AUTO

The four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Youngblood, who live on North Main Street, was badly bruised and lacerated Wednesday morning, when struck by a passing automobile, driven by W. R. Smith, an implement salesman.

J. C. Boyles of Burkett was a business visitor in Cross Plains Wednesday.

PROMINENT LOCAL GIRL AND RISING STAR MAN ARE WED

Culminating a romance of more than three years, Miss Era Eager, of this place, and Huey M. Wiginton, of Rising Star, were joined in marriage at the Presbyterian church here Saturday night at nine o'clock, with Rev. S. P. Collins officiating. Mrs. Eunice Starr, sister of the bride, was the only attendant.

Mrs. Wiginton, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Eager of Cross Plains, is well known in business as well as social and church circles, having been employed in a secretarial capacity at McAdams Motor Company here more than a year; prior to that time she was connected with Higginbotham Brothers and Company and other automobile dealerships.

The groom, a resident of Rising Star intermittently most of his life, is also known in Cross Plains having visited in the Eager home here on many occasions. He is at present employed with the Butler Chevrolet Company at Rising Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiginton will make their home in Cross Plains. At present they have an apartment at Dr. Mary Shelman's residence. A bridal luncheon commencing the couple was held at the Eager home Sunday.

CLAUDE HARRELL AND MRS. IVERY O'HARA ARE WED WEDNESDAY

Claude Harrell, of this place, and Mrs. Ivery O'Hara, of Byrds, were united in marriage Thursday night, April 25. The ceremony came as a surprise to the many friends of the couple throughout this section.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis, of Byrds, and is well known in Cross Plains having visited here on numerous occasions.

The groom is a well known ranchman. He is manager and joint owner with his brother Paul of the Harrell ranch, South of Cross Plains. The couple will make their home at the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Benton Jones visited his mother in Stephenville Sunday.

George R. Neel was a business visitor in Rising Star Friday afternoon.

MANY NEW TESTS ARE GOING DOWN; LEASES IMPROVED

Oil field operations in the vicinity of Cross Plains have taken on new life within the past few weeks and now virtually every lease in this locality is now undergoing a process of improvement as well as a number of new tests going down.

Successful acidizing of a number of strippers in the Pioneer pool has boosted production there appreciably and other acidizations are expected to be made within the very near future.

A check up on the activities throughout this section revealed the following information yesterday.

Gunn Production Company et al spudded Wednesday on a new test to be drilled on the Mrs. T. S. Williams tract—Rushing survey—four miles Southeast of Cross Cut. The contract calls for the reaching a depth of 1,200 feet, where the Cross Cut sand is expected to be encountered.

McNeal Brothers on the W. R. W. Smith—near Pioneer—estate are cleaning out a test which was just recently completed with rotary equipment. They are reported to be at the top of the Pioneer sand, a depth of approximately 2,400 feet.

Forester and Mann are moving in and rigging up prior to beginning a 2,800 foot test four miles North of Sipe Springs. Their objective is the Ranger sand, a depth in the Sipe Springs area of about 2,800 feet.

C. R. Cox et al has just completed a three and a half million cubic gas well, two and a half miles East of Rising Star.

J. T. Anderson is moving in to drill South of Romney. The tract on which the test will be located is not known. It is expected, however, to be adjacent to the Mossman tract.

E. M. Howard is cleaning out a gass well on the A. O. Angel tract in the Blake area.

The Sher-Rit Oil Company is completing a well believed to be a producer on the Leatherwood tract in the Blake area.

The Saunders et al have taken over the Whealock & Collins wells on the Smith tract near Grosvenor and are cleaning out to endeavor to hike production.

Caprito et al have taken over the property formerly operated by the Shell on the Smith tract, near Grosvenor, and are cleaning out the 14 wells on the property.

Thompson and Barnwise have just completed a producer, estimated at 30 barrels, near May.

E. M. Howard announces "wonderful results" in a well recently treated with acid and reconditioned.

A shallow test is going down on the Strahan tract near Cottonwood. Indications are regarded favorable.

An unverified report has it that Nebraska parties will drill two wells on the King tract between Cross Plains and Pioneer. The Review was unable to get authentic confirmation of this item, however.

CROSS PLAINS CANNERY REMODELED IS READY FOR SEASON'S CANNING

Cross Plains canning plant has been remodeled and equipment installed. Anyone wanting vegetables canned may see Mrs. Merlin Garrett and she will arrange to open the plant for their convenience, the Review was told Tuesday afternoon.

W. S. Ramsey was a business visitor in Baird and Abilene first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. will leave this week end for a visit in Oklahoma.

Largest Independently Owned Supply House In Area Opened By E. M. Howard

One of the largest independently owned oil field supply houses in this section opened its doors for business in Cross Plains Wednesday. The firm is owned and under the personal supervision of E. M. Howard, veteran pipe and oil field supply broker; and succeeds the Oil Well Supply Company here, occupying the same building—adjacent to the M.K.&T. rail road tracks on South Main Street.

Mr. Howard, whose entrance into the oil business dates back more than 25 years, is well known in petroleum circles throughout the Southwest. He came to this locality in 1919, and was active in the Pioneer field. He located in Cross Plains in 1925 and the first year did $450,000 worth of business. The following year his sales passed the half million mark.

In enlarging his stock here and moving into the Oil Well Supply Company's former quarters, Mr. Howard laid plans to serve approximately 50 counties in the oil area. His stock of new materials will be complete within the next few days of virtually every standard necessity for crude production. The firm style was also altered from "E. M. Howard" to "Howard Supply Company."

Arrangements have been made by the company to accommodate another industry, which has heretofore been served chiefly from distant markets. The industry is natural gas systems. Mr. Howard has stocked hundreds of items needed in this business that heretofore were not obtainable in this section. In the past he has supplied material for several municipal and privately owned gas distributing systems but now, he is in position to install complete system at attractive prices.

A number of years ago Cross Plains was known as headquarters for the oil industry in this section due to the fact that official forms for all phases of the oil business were available here, a large tool repair and manufacturing concern, as well as valuable information at the various supply houses or drilling operations. Mr. Howard, with the cooperation of Cree and Company and other leading allied industries located here, plans to revive this service for the convenience of his customers. He has stocked and will distribute free of charge official forms for any type of oil field activity, such as drilling permits, permits to shoot, plug, monthly reports and etc. He will also endeavor to have desired information on all wells drilling in the field. "In general, I want to make my store and Cross Plains again the headquarters for the oil belt", he said to a representative of the Review yesterday.

Scores of operators have already pledged support and cooperation to the new independently owned supply house and this week several hundred additional copies of the Review are being mailed operators in other sections, to acquaint them the concern and it's many types of services.

Mr. Howard also pointed out to the Review that his company will have a testing process for tubular goods, the only one of which is located in this section.

B. D. Montgomery will be store manager for Mr. Howard.

Twelfth Installment

SYNOPSIS: Young Ed Maitland and the hardened gambler Speed Malone became partners on the trip north to the Yukon gold fields in '97, when word of the rich ores there first came down the Pacific coast. Maitland, son of a New England seafaring family, was determined to win back his lost family fortunes. Frenchy, the fisherman who took him and Speed north; Lucky Rose, beautiful young woman who had given Maitland a ring for a keep-sake; Fallon, trail boss of the miners, who resented Rose's attentions to Maitland; Steiner the money lender; young Pete and his drunken partner Bill Owens; Brent old-time prospector; and Garnet, a well-to-do modern one who hired Maitland and Speed to haul his stuff from the beach over the mountains to the Yukon—these were among the crowd that made up the gold seekers. At Liarville, a camp in the hills. Speed was made trail boss in Fallon's place, because Speed insisted on closing the trail till it could be repaired—it was almost impassable. But the fickle crowd veered back to Fallon. Speed and Maitland took a stand above the pass to keep the miners from breaking through. Pete came to offer his help, but Speed refused it and the boy, after saying his partner had been drowned after a drunken brawl, rode off. But he took a position where he could fire on the miners when they tried to rush the pass, and so helped Speed. Later Brent, with an old deer gun, added his help. Just when Speed seemed to be gaining the upper hand, Fallon called his men with an exultant shout. A cavalcade was coming down the trail.—Now go on with the story.

hands were trussed behind him with a rope; his ankles were bound; he was gagged and lying on dry ground.

Gradually a murmur of low voices in the tent became articulate. He recognized Fallon's and lay motionless.

"—so we didn't find the kid through the winter till Chik Holter located a camp on the Teslin a ways above where we camped on the Lewes. An outfit was cuttin' timber there for a raft and Pete had a job cokin' for them. Holter picked up the mare's trail headin' west, alone. Picked it up and lost it."

"How?" another voice inquired. "The blizzard, I reckon. But I figured the kid was making for the coast. We had to come down for some gear anyway, and we'll head Pete off here at the same time."

Speed's ear caught sharply at

With a terrific driving smash to the jaw he sent Fallon spinning.

some hidden implication in the man's voice.

The other voice murmured an interruption. "Seems to me like your prisoner's ears is awake."

"I'm speaking to him," growled Fallon. "He likely knows plenty. It always looked to me like he had somethin' figured about Pete, and about Owens too."

"Well, if he won't explain himself, it'll be tough. He shot and killed a man in this camp, and was charged, legal. He busted jail, stole a gun, and would have done plenty more if the gun had been good. He ain't a Canadian. We tell the 'mounties' we don't figure they'd choose a man of this character to run their mail. We suspect he stole it; he was seen gamblin' in a joint with the mail in his pocket."

Through this talk, Speed's mind had been shutting swiftly, trying to weave the full pattern of what it implied. The picture that began to emerge made him writhe at his bonds and at the gag in his mouth.

"The Golden Pass" at Skagway, under the protection of Soapy Smith, was a lathering vortex of carnival. It had a slick and spacious floor lit by hanging lamps which depended from the cross-beams of the lumber roof. A piano banjo and accordion were in the swing of what sounded like a musical steeplechase. But they made a spirited noise, and served to indicate that the romping riot on the dance floor was socially intended.

In attire, the crowd was variously informed mixing corduroy rough flannel and heavy miners' boots with the "sore clothes" of newcomers.

The bar had it down supporters with somehow remained audible. In their rumble of talk there were echoes of a rumor that a dangerous gunman had broken jail and tried to shoot up the camp.

In the tumult no one, therefore, immediately noticed that a group of armed men had entered, pushing before them a hatless captive whose hands were tied behind his back. The leader of the posse commanded attention by the simple means of sending a bullet into the rafters.

"Where's Soapy Smith?" Fallon demanded in a voice that made the quiet absolute.

No one answered or seemed to know. One glance at the posse and the prisoner had sent through the crowd, drunk and sober, an sober, an electric sense of what was impending. There was a low drone and buzz of excitement. They pressed in for a closer view of the prisoner, who was looking at the rafters.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said Fallon, "the character of this murderous desperado is known to ever' miner who was on the trail in the first stampede of '97. He returns with erroneous ideas of terrizin' the camp. Jailed for murder and mail robbery, he breaks jail, steals a gun, and is the cause not only of promiscuous bloodshed, but of holes being shot in your tent roofs. We've brung him here because this roof has a strong cross-beam. With your kind attention, this ceremony will take about three minutes."

As the crowd looked on in dead silence, Speed was pulled across the floor to the further end of the dancing space, near the orchestra, where he was lifted to a table under one of the traverse roof beams. Standing there, his feet were quickly bound. One of the posse expertly fashioned a halter loop with nine winds around the shank of a stout pack line; the other end was thrown over the beam, and the noose fitted to the captive's neck, with the hondoo against his ear.

Speed watched these preparations with apparent resignation. His roving glance came to rest on Fallon, who stood ready to send him clear.

"Still figuring a play?" his captor taunted.

"Pes," said Speed. "One. They say a man's last look sees clear, Fallon. I ain't never tried to figure what lies over the line, but if that's so, maybe you don't check me out, complete. If you frame a deal against the boy, my partner, or lay hands on Pete, by God, I'll follow you—dead!"

"Damn it Fallon," said an old miner, "I've seen men hung before but never in your cold-blooded style. At least they're given the offer of a last drink or a smoke. Why don't you do it regular?"

Some of the old-timers voiced approval of that.

"All right," Fallon growled. "You can ask him. I'm damned if I will."

The man put the question. "If it's a choice," said Speed. "I'd like to roll a cigarette. I've got the makin's."

His hands were untied and the bartender told to, "Bring a glass of the special, Soapy."

Gratefully flexing his wrists, Speed rolled a cigarette and was lighting it, when the drink arrived in a well-filled tumbler. "I take this kind, Soapy," he said, "but I never liked to drink alone. You can use my name freely in urgin-drinks on the house. The marshal has my wad."

This sentiment was most favorably received by a number of the revelers whose thirst had outlasted their means. The discovery that the condemned man's credit was still good with Soapy created a generally good impression. Fallon gnawed his cheek.

Curious newcomers were jamming in through the doorway, and Speed paused with the glass half-drained, at sight of one of them. Lefty, wearing a look of strongly mingled triumph and discomfiture, answered his stare by touching one bulge in the side of his coat and another in his pocket. Speed resumed his drink with a twisted grimace. So Lefty had his guns and the mail. The money would office. With the deft trick of his kind in worming through crowds, the dip drew nearer. The forward press of the crowd had brought Rose nearer too. Speed met her clouded eyes again in a long study, as he emptied the glass and lowered it.

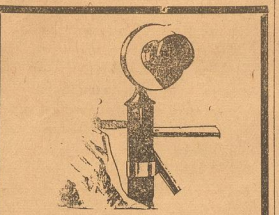

Fallon jerked it from his hand. "Any other little thing you'd like?" he inquired sardonically.

"They's one other thing," acknowledged Speed, still looking at Rose. "I ain't heard no music for some time. If the lady will play a song while I finish this cigarette."

Fallon wheeled, but Rose did not see his wheel.

A chord as clean and sweet as the tinkle of the wind at twilight through a desert canyon flowed from the strings under her touch, and shed an almost instant lull on the crowd. Then her voice dissolved into the music—a clear, exquisite contralto, plaintive, strong, and deep, like the shore wash that sounded through it, sustaining the rhythmic lapses of the song.

In that beguiling, fluently riding spell of sound, the prisoner forgot everything apparently, but the singers' magic. But his eyes drifted to Lefty's with a sidelong glance at the accordion which dangled in the hands of its owner in the orchestra. Fallon, watching Rose and waiting for the end of her song, did not notice the invisible prompting. Eyes and wits less sharp than Lefty's would never have perceived the look nor interpreted it; but the dip quietly detached the instrument from the listless fingers, and before he was aware of what had happened, tossed it to Speed. The pass was hardly observed before Speed had chimed the accordion with the closing bar of Rose's song.

She looked up in wonder, but continued playing an accompaniment as the accordion repeated her melody. The sudden unexpectedness of the gesture took the crowd's breath no less than the perfect choring of the two instruments. He lured Rose's song into a lighter, brisker measure which she instinctively matched with the guitar until the melody itself was subtly changed.

Here was dance music such as few camps have heard, played by two artists who had music in their hearts and fingers. And as Speed swayed slightly with the playing, his eyes evading the smoke that curled up from the shortening cigarette butt, his feet were just visibly weaving too—as it seemed, to the infection of his own music, but with a crafty, studied strain against the rope. "Come on, boys," he chanted suddenly. "Take your partners!"

The crowd was almost swept off its feet. In another moment the miracle might have been done. Lefty with a gaze of awed admiration, caught the meaning of Speed's strategy.

But Fallon came alive with a roaring curse.

"I'll make you dance, you jiggin'—!"

He made a stride for the table to kick it over.

The kick, however, was not completed. The crowd had buckled and swayed inward from the door, cleaved apart by a dark, youthful biting head which Speed had never hoped to see again. It was Maitland.

There was a sharp crack of fist against bone, and Fallon was stiffened to his toes by a terrific driving smash to the jaw.

He rocked and went backwards but saved himself from falling by lurching into the piano keys with a loud discord.

To the crowd it was like a song. A lynching was one thing; this was something more; the challenge laced their blood with a strong intoxicant. The night had a head of steam.

Fallon shook his head groggily. A movement of one hand to his belt brought a roar of protest from the crowd—on their own account no less than that of fair play. But Fallon had no intention of shooting. He pushed the gun tight in the holster, and bracing himself against the piano, leaped for his antagonist.

The crash when they met sounded like an impact of bulls. Both men were magnificently strong, and toughened by the snow trails, though weight and matured experience were in Fallon's favor. He drove in a pounding barrage of body punches. Maitland closed in, trying to smother the assault, but taking meanwhile a thrashing rain of jack-hammer blows to the head and body. The instinctive balance which a sailor learns on heaving decks must have steadied him now; he thrust back of a sudden, and Fallon's foot, less sure of the glassy floor, slipped a little. The boy lashed up with a short left that cut the other's upper lip, and then, drove home a full-shouldered right, as Fallon's head snapped back. He came back with a spring that tore through Maitland's guard by sheer weight and fury. They slipped and came up in a swaying grapple.

Items of Interest From COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

By Ross B. Jenkins

In an address at Atlanta, Ga., April 13, Secretary Henry A. Wallace outlined the progress of the AAA as related to cotton. Space will not permit that his speech be quoted in full but these were the highlights of the address.

1. The processing tax and benefits are the only effective tariff the farmer ever had.
2. The number of people on the farms in the South increased 1,250,000 from 1930 to 1934.
4. There is no way to evade the truth that trade is a two-way affair.
5. The controlling factor in our cotton export trade is the number of American dollars in the hands of foreign nations wanting our cotton.
6. The processing tax is not collected on cotton shipped out of the U.S.A.
7. The processing tax has no material effect on cotton consumption.
8. The textile industry would have nothing to gain but a great deal to lose if it contributed to the dismantling the cotton farmers' program.
9. If the cotton program goes by the board, the corn, wheat, tobacco, and other programs will follow. The unity of the farmers will be broken.

Any one desiring the entire address will be given a copy upon the asking.

Farm Sales Increase

During the sixth month period ending February 28, 1935 the 12 Federal reserve banks disposed of 3,664 farms compared to 1,968 farms during a similar period a year earlier, Mr. W. I. Myers says this reflects a renewed interest in farm ownership. Sales were almost double in January and February this year over that of last year.

Reduced Rates for Shipping Cattle

The following letter is self explanatory for cattlemen.

Ross B. Jenkins,
County Drouth Director,

A new Emergency Drouth Tariff No. W.T.L. 328 publishing drouth rates on livestock shipments from points in Texas to pasture, has been issued effective April 22.

The rates authorized under this tariff are: 85 per cent of the commercial tariff rates on out bound movement to be made within 90 days after April 22. The return movement of cattle will be on the basis of 15 per cent of the commercial rate, the return to be made any time up to and including June 1, 1935.

The reduced rate may be obtained by the issuance of certificate by the county agent at shipping point.

If any producers in your county want to ship cattle to pasture, please advise this office and certificates will be furnished you immediately.

Tariff No. 315—a covering interstate shipments of hay and roughage will be continued through May, 1935.

Yours very truly,
Signed Geo. W. Barnes
Ass't Drouth Director.

AAA Rental and Benefit Payments

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration on April 8 issued an analysis of disbursements totalling $630,606,962 in rental and benefit payments to farmers participating in adjustments, and expenditures of $214,651,202 in connection with removal, utilization and conservation of surplus agricultural commodities. The total expenditures of the Administration since organization, May 12, 1933, including the above amount of rental and benefit payment, surplus removal and utilization expenditures, and $42,254,090 in cost of administration, up to March 1, 1935 amounted to $887,512,255. Callahan has received about $510,000 of this amount.

Clyde and Soc Walker students in Daniel Baker College at Brownwood visited here past week end.

It's queer how games come in fads. For instance, when school started, basketball was the favorite sport. Then came indoor baseball. After that some sap invented a game called spit-ball, or something like that, and it was the rage for a few days. Then some fool decided he could play tennis, and now all are trying that so-called sport. In fact, they even constructed another court a few days ago. But the game has died down enough now till there is only one court running. We predict a complete failure of that game in another three weeks. Then what next? And the little boys—in about the fourth grade—have also had variations. Here a few weeks ago every little tot was carrying a pair of forty-five-rubber guns. They had some of the most terrific battles one could imagine. Then they became ranchers. Now they are riding each other around and roping at the strays, who happen to be other little boys. What will they do next? Will there yet be time for the top craze and the marble fad?

Soon graduation will be over, and another crop of seniors will be thrown out of high school into the wide, wide world—alone in the world for better and for worse. Some will go east, some west, and perhaps some north and south, but wherever they go, there will be something calling them back. Perhaps some will rise to glory, others may go wrong, but in every one's mind will dwell a picture of the old school house where those first seventeen years were spent—where those seventeen years that seemed like an eternity were whiled away in slow, but unwavering, cycles—summer and winter, summer and winter; eternally progressing and pushing onward through time; on through the years, time waiting for no one. There are many who have fallen along the way, dropped out of life's school into the school of life. But there are nine who have pulled along through the ages, and now stand ready to receive diplomas on May 31. Here they are: Foister Pittman, president; Clifton Chambers, vice-president; Lavonia Clark, Estelle Looney, treasurer; Norris Chambers, Andy Melton, Guy Cole, Guy McDonough, Bille Clark. May they rise up in the world and loom like a colossus of knowledge, and forever and forever remember with unflinching memory those first long years of life—those seventeen summers and winters where there was nothing but routine; rise, eat, go to school, study, come home; go again, go again; rest two days; go again; rest three months; at it again; Nothing but routine and work—finally success, out of school life into life's school. And the motto; be square. If we be square with ourselves, our friends, and our business associates, we are doubly assured of a successful and happy existence for the average thirty-five years we have yet to live, prosper, and study.

The seniors are intending to go to the program at Howard Payne Friday night. Having never been to one, they seem to be anxious to experience the sensation.

Senior day has not been set aside yet, and we suggest that something be done about the matter before school is out. Where are we going? Austin, San Antonio, or Alaska!

In The Land of the Kingfish

NOTE—This story was written by the author upon the return of a group of Texas Tech journalism students who attended the Southern Congress of journalism students at Baton Rouge, La.

By WAYNE C. SELLERS

Louisiana, political stronghold of Huey P. Long, and land of southern plantations, bayous and intriguing old-world cities, has much to offer the visitor who has never thought that there was anything of interest on the eastern side of the Texas line.

Almost as soon as one crosses the Texas border and enters the state of Louisiana he realizes that he is in a state quite different from Texas; the pine trees seem taller, the farms take on a different look and the profusion of liquor signs along the highway convince him that it is not his own bone-dry Texas.

Except for the larger towns of Shreveport, Alexandria and Baton Rouge, the northern part of Louisiana has a very backward look. There are a few imposing old houses of the type made famous in stories of southern plantation days, but for the most part the houses are wretched hovels. The fields are poorly cultivated and the farms seem poor indeed in comparison with those in this section of Texas.

In the distance of 200 miles from Shreveport to Baton Rouge there were only four or five towns of the size of Rising Star or Cross Plains and one town the size of Abilene.

The southern part of Louisiana presented a different picture. It is the section of rice farms, and from New Orleans to Orange, Texas, the country has a very prosperous appearance and there are a number of good towns. Southern Louisiana is dotted with bayous, most of which are navigable and which are used extensively for the transportation of freight on barges.

One thing quite noticeable about Louisiana is the large number of negroes, the colored element constituting a large per cent of the population.

Baton Rouge Interesting

Baton Rouge, the state capitol of Louisiana, is one of the most interesting cities in the state. It is the home of Louisiana State University, the State School for the Deaf and Dumb and other institutions. Situated on the bank of the Mississippi, it lays claim to being the seventh port in the United States, and big steamers come right up the Mississippi from the Gulf to Baton Rouge, which is a hundred and fifty miles away.

Louisiana State University, with an enrollment of 5,000 students, is one of Huey Long's pet projects. In 1925 the school was moved from a location close to the state capitol to the edge of town where it would have a chance to expand, and every building on the campus has been erected since that time. There is one building now in the process of erection and construction is to start on several more in the summer. The campus is beautiful, being thickly covered with grass, and dotted with trees.

Long takes special interest in the affairs of the students and came out unexpectedly to watch a review of the cadets corps during the celebration of Louisiana State's seventy-fifth anniversary. His arrival was marked by demonstrations on the part of the people watching the review. Later in the day he went over to the Huey P. Long Field House, student union building, and gave away everything behind the cigarette counter to the students.

The school combines the A. & M. college of Louisiana and the state university. Military training is compulsory for the first two years and it is Long's boast that he is reducing the expenses at the college to the level where it will be within the means of every student in Louisiana to attend it. However, expenses at Louisiana State University are still higher than those in Texas colleges.

Skyscraper Capitol

The State capitol buildings at Baton Rouge is one of the show places of the city. It was erected in 1923 and is thirty-three stories high. It resembles a modern office building much more than it does a capitol building. The furnishings in it are magnificent. The capitol affords quite a contrast to most of the other buildings in Baton Rouge, as the city is very old. Most of the buildings are dingy in appearance and show the influence of the French in their architecture.

Baton Rouge was laid out by the French and their streets would be a revelation to those who thought that Brownwood had narrow and crooked streets. Several of the main thoroughfares are only wide enough to be one way streets.

New Orleans, sixty miles from the Gulf of Mexico and second largest port in the United States, seems to any visitor to be a city in some foreign country. New Orleans has few skyscrapers due to the fact that good foundations for the buildings are impossible. There are not many modern buildings in the city, and the old buildings with their balconies on each floor present an appearance that no other city has.

Narrow Streets

With the exception of Canal street, one of the widest in the United States and New Orleans' main thoroughfare, the streets are narrow and in some instances only wide enough to allow one-way traffic. Out in the residential districts of the newer part of the city the streets are wide and there are many boulevards. Canal street got its name from the fact that it was once a canal. In its earlier days New Orleans was known as the Venice of America and many of the streets then were Canals. The city of New Orleans covered the Canals and built streets over them. There are but two open drainage canals in the city now, but many covered ones. It is necessary for the city to operate an artificial drainage system to keep the city from being submerged in water.

What is no doubt the most interesting part of the city is the Vieux Carre, or Old Orleans, as sightseeing guides term it. It is the portion of the city on the east of Canal street which was settled in 1718 by Bienville. The St. Louis Cathedral, erected in 1794, the Pontalba apartments, built in 1845, and first apartment houses in America, and the Cabildo are the most interesting parts of this section.

The Cabildo, an old Spanish government building, has been converted into a museum. It was at Cabildo where Jean La Fitte, the pirate was imprisoned, and from where he made his escape. Next to the Cabildo, the old St. Louis Cathedral stands. It is still one of the principal churches of the city. The Pontalba apartments were built by the Baroness Pontalba in 1845 and are of red brick with all kinds of iron work and grills on the balcony, and adjoining the front of the building. It was said that when the building was erected the aristocrats who occupied it had their coats of arms worked into the grills in front of their apartments. Now the apartments are occupied by artists and other people who lead a Bohemian existence.

Cypress Log Foundation

The United States Custom House in New Orleans was built in the early part of the 19th century before engineers had perfected methods of laying foundations for the building. It was built upon cypress logs and one end of the building has settled 36 inches.

Another interesting building in New Orleans is the building erected for Napoleon. Back in the early days of the city a rich mayor conceived the idea of rescuing Napoleon from the island of St. Helena and had gone so far as to erect a building for him to live in and equipped an expedition to go after Napoleon. Napoleon died before the expedition was under way, and correspondence of Napoleon's found after his death indicated that he knew and approved of the plan.

Unique Cemeteries

A feature of New Orleans which would probably not be seen in any other city are the cemeteries. In New Orleans the land is so low and marshy that it is impossible to bury bodies and consequently all of them are interred in vaults and mausoleums on top of the ground. The Metairie cemetery, which is built on the site of one of the most famous racetracks in the country, contains many fine Mausoleums, some of which are large enough to live in, and which cost thousands of dollars. The story is told that Metairie cemetery was started by a man who was refused membership in the Metairie Jockey Club, and who bought out the club and turned it into a cemetery. The other famous cemetery of New Orleans is the old St. Louis cemetery. When the city was first founded it was the cemetery of the aristocratic class of people, but now the poorer class are buried there. It is down almost in the business section of the city and contains thousands of bodies. The walls about eight feet high, around the cemetery are storage places for the bodies, which is $8 per year, the bodies are dumped out into a pit, the casket burned and room made for another body. The cemetery is full of Mausoleums, but they are not as fine as those in the aristocratic Metairie cemetery.

New Orleans is the home of Tulane University, Loyola University, and Sophie Newcomb school for girls, all of which are located out in the same part of town.

Reaction Toward Long

Upon asking several people in Baton Rouge and New Orleans what they thought of Huey Long the answers received were, for the most part, favorable. Students in Louisiana State University consider him a clever politician and realize that he will have to pay the fiddler some day. The less educated class look upon him as a Godfather, who is going to lead everyone in the State from financial ruin. One policeman in New Orleans said that Huey P. Long would bring him through, even though this salary had been cut in half by the city. He said that Huey would educate his boy at Louisiana State. One reason for Long's popularity is, it is said, he gives the people what he promises them. He is now building a bridge across the Mississippi River, which politicians had been promising the people for thirty years. He has built a magnificent system of roads, and made many other improvements in Louisiana, but in so doing he has run the public debt from $12,000,000 up to $160,000,000.

In general, the people of Louisiana do not seem to be as progressive and as well educated as the citizens of Texas. To the casual observer it would not seem that the state has traveled far since the Civil War days for the fields are full of negroes at work and the rural class seems to be very poor, with the exception of a few rich landholders.

Go To Church Sunday

Go To Church—Because—

1. The Lord God says: "Remember the Sabbath to keep it holy."
2. There is no "standstill" in spiritual life. We either become better or worse. There is no better place for you to be found than in Church. It stands with the best people for the best things.
3. Your days are hastening by. If you neglect the Church while you are alive, what do you expect of it when you die?
4. Church attendance is a "patriotic duty." You owe it to your country. "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach unto every people."
5. The church invites you. It offers satisfaction for man's most ancient need. The inspired record reads: "The supreme duty of the church is to preach this word of God."
6. For your children's, country's neighbor's—for your own soul's—sake, COME TO CHURCH!

The Following Churches invite you:

SCHOOL PAGEANT TO SHOW COLEMAN COUNTY'S HISTORY

Depicting the early history of Coleman county, a cast of nearly 200 ward school students is to present a pageant at the high school auditorium Thursday evening May 23 under the direction of Miss Vernelle Stimson of South Ward and Helen Norvel Joiner of West Ward.

Approximate and colorful costumes, music, dances and scenery are to be used in the presentation which is to trace the history of the county from the first settlers to the present day and give a glimpse into the future. Texas rangers, trail drivers, cowboy, early citizen and frontier amusements will all have a part in the pageant.

Efforts are being made by those in charge of the classes to reach all of the old settlers in the county in order that a special invitation may be extended to attend the exercises.

The pageant is to be given by a cast made up of students of South ward and West ward schools, as the closing activity of the school year.

The Nervous Patient

Let us hope and pray that you may never encounter one! I am not assuming that you may TREAT a nervous invalid; but I can imagine that you may have a neighbor man or woman that has an attack of acute nervous collapse—and that you are privileged and expected to call around in neighborly courtesy. Let the doctor do the treating.

But, my advise to YOU is most important—for you may, with the best intentions possible, make the patient most miserable by your illtimed attentions, and make a lasting enemy of the poor physician.

To illustrate: I was calling recently on a collapsed nervous man in that small bed room, I found four blood relatives in a circle around the patient! They were of all ages and occupations; and they were all conversing about all the deaths that had occurred in the family for the last six or seven years! Can you imagine the effect on the poor, distraught nervous system—the man lying on the bed?

I found the patient in a most distracted state of mind; true he was among his loved ones, but they were heedlessly driving him nearer and nearer to the verge of despair. And they had been visiting—and torturing him for several hours, prior to my arrival!

Your conduct with the nervous patient should be regulated by the Physician in charge. You should NEVER call to see an extremely nervous invalid, unadvised; never make a long call—and, if you cannot carry a helpful manner and smiling face, please—Please stay out of that sick-room!

I never really wanted to commit murder; but, my blood sometimes arrives at the boiling-point when I find my nervous patient torn assunder by well-intentioned neighbors or kin-folks.

Coleman Editor Gets Threat Note And Replies By Publishing Letter

(From Coleman Democrat Voice)

By Joe B. Pouns

A threat and a charge were included in a letter received by Joe B. Pouns, editor of The Coleman Democrat-Voice, Wednesday noon.

The threat was a "promise of revenge" upon the newspaperman provided the name of a certain family should be used in reporting a news story. The charge was that the name of a certain person had been used unnecessarily in The Democrat-Voice.

As for the threat, this newspaperman has received some face to face that would make the letter received this week look like a sick kitten in comparison. Further, the news stories in the past were printed just as news stories will continue to be printed under the same circumstances.

Who is the author of the letter? We don't know and we care less. It was sent to the "D-V" office during the lunch hour and the messenger was a negro. Further than that it was signed anonymously.

Strong denial is made by this newspaper that unnecessary publicity has been given to any person and particularly to the one mentioned in the threatening letter. As a matter of fact this reporter only slightly knows the person mentioned in the threatening letter. As a matter of fact this reporter only slightly knows the person mentioned ed therefore could not possibly have any reason for writing about him any more than any other person.

This newspaper's aim is to print news. We cannot control the news and if a person does a thing, or is accused of doing a thing, which he had rather not see in print we can only sympathize with him. We cannot hold our self-respect and give our subscribers a good newspaper by suppressing news.

Why didn't the writer of the threatening letter sign his name? Probably the threat in that event would have been effective. Why did he send it to this office by a negro boy?

"Mr. Joe Pouns, "D-V Reporter.

"You have unnecessarily stressed the publicity point of Howard Brewer. So first I am asking as a favor that you don't put anything else in your paper concerning the Brewer family, and to stop anything that might have come to the office.

"I am fully aware of the fact that you can do this and if you don't I will promise faithfully personal revenge. That should clearly sufficient and enough said. I am depending on this—I want (for your own good) that you do this one thing.

"Sincerely, "A friend (of the family)."

BURKETT SCHOOLS TO CLOSE LAST OF MAY

NEWS OF CROSS PLAINS HIGH SCHOOL

Editor: JIMMIE SETTLE Staff: Entire Student Body

THE ORANGE AND WHITE PARTY

Coach Osburn decided some few days ago that we should have a football game. He divided the squad up into two teams known as the Whites and the Oranges. Wednesday morning the rest of the school as divided up into two sections, one to back each team. Wednesday afternoon a contract was drawn up which said that the losing side should give the other side a party in the gym Saturday night. The Oranges on by a margin of 1 point.

Saturday night the White team and its backers gave the other side the party which the contract called for. The persons attending the party were again divided into teams to compete against each other. Several games were played in which all entered. The games were about equally on and enjoyed. (You should have seen Miss Gwathmey hopping across the gym on one foot) It looked like Jimmie Lusk was the star of the night; playing the role of lover, stooge, and athlete at the same time.

Refreshments were served to about 75 persons. Ice cream cones, cookies, blow gum, and candy were served. It seemed that Bobbie Lee got her share of the ice cream which consisted of 8 double dips and four cones.

SPORT NEWS

Cross Plains High School witnessed the best football game, since the Albany—Buffalo game, last Friday. The entire squad was divided into Orange and White teams, and believe me they scrapped. However, the Oranges won by the small margin of 7-6.

The starting line up for the Oranges was: Varner (re) Smith, (le) Mac Mellan (rt) Flahie (lt) Bob Joy (rg) Usery (lg) "Tiney" Cross (c) Blitch (h), Joy (h) Hemphill (qb) Gray (fb). Gene Blitch was their leader and John Lackey the coach.

The starting lineup for the Whites was: Jackson (le) Bertan (re) Barr (rt) Stanley Pierce (lt) Henderson (lg) Atwood (rg) Huntington (c) Boone (h) Coulter (h) Cross (qb) Childs (fb) Cross was the White leader and Jay Mayes the coach.

The first part of the first quarter the Orange side scored with Varner receiving one of Billy Grays' beautiful passes. To score the first touchdown of the day. Blitch converted from placement with a beautiful kick. To make the Oranges 7 points. The Whites scored their 6 points in the second quarter with Cross receiving a beautiful pass from Childs. His try from placement was ruined by Varner. The remainder of the game was uneventful. However, the Whites threatened several times only to meet bad breaks as penalties, fumbles, and dropping of passes over the goal line. Both teams fought hard throughout the entire game. The Orange team used the double wingback formation and the Whites the single wingback. The prettiest playing of the Oranges was the circling of ends and side stepping of Weedy Joy along with Blitches power drives at center. However, most of his line plays to either side met the hard hitting White Tackles Pierce and Barr. The most outstanding linesman for the Oranges was the small smashing guard—Albert Usery. He came over, under, and around and tore up the majority of the Whites plays. The most outstanding back performance of the Whites was crosses of tackle plays, Childs beautiful and accurate passes which netted many yards, also his beautiful punts. Billy Gray of the Oranges threw some nice passes and got off many nice kicks.

The Pep leaders were active in getting their sides to yell. The yell leaders for the Oranges side Jimmie Lusk, Lloyd Bryan, Mozelle Atwood, and Eloise Lane. The leaders of the White side were Bobbie Westerman, Roma Young leaders of last year, Jimmie Settle and Mr. Harry Ward. A model "T" was decorated and they followed it in marching down the field at the half, with a large pole with a white flag fluttering at the top. Also, another pole with a mustered up Orange flag flying at half mast. Something that the Oranges didn't appreciate. However, the Oranges followed a Donkey pulling a cart, the donkey was decorated in white and the cart in orange. With signs reading "down the Whites".

POKES AND JOKES

Author Unknown

That Atwood Relic "spirit of '89" made a three point landing here Monday morning about one o'clock, with Sir Buster Atwood as pilot, Sir Oral Ray as co-pilot, James Settle as steward, and that famous American crooner Phil Bingham. The trip was made alright going to Cisco but the ship hit an air pocket on the way back which caused all the shipmen and headaches of the crew and passenger, Monday.

John Lackey was seen with a very charming young girl (much too charming for Johnnie) last Sunday afternoon. She lives at Burkett and her initials are B. W. Send in your guesses who she is to the editor of your school paper, and he might arrange to print her name next week. (If luck holds out, the writer of this column may be able to print it himself, that is if John doesn't see him first).

Two high school romances almost went on the rocks this week and two others actually did. Well, I suppose this will get over it and better luck next time.

Hints To The Booklover

Another new book has been added to our Library. "Living Authors" is the title and it gives the lives four hundred men and women. Poets, dramatists, newspaper, magazines, books, publishers and authors have been consulted in preparing this book.

Posterity, no doubt will forget many of these authors, but we need not be apologetic for our interest in them today. As Samuel Taylor Coleridge, one America's leading authors said "The great works of past ages seems to a young man things, of another race" But Coleridge need not have restricted his observation to youth.

An effort has been made in this book not only to publish a possible likeness each author, but also to describe his appearance, for there is nothing about which the reader is more curious, so each of the 400 authors have their picture before their life.

The book is very interesting to everyone who enjoys reading at all, and is a very good subject, for broadening the mind on lives of men who have helped to make the world a place to live.

MOVIES "BAD MAN OF WEST" WAS ONCE NEW YORK SOFTIE

Menacing villains have long been a specialty with Arthur Vinton, noted New York stage actor, but despite his many heavy roles both in the east and in Hollywood, it was not until he was cast in the character of "Burk," a dangerous outlaw, in the Columbia production "The Man Trapper," showing tonight at the Liberty Theatre, that he was given an opportunity to portray a "bad man" of the West. In New York Vinton gained prominence through his delineation of suave villains immaculately dressed in dinner clothes, and given to lapse into an Oxonian accent, but ready to "do wrong" by the heroine at any opportunity. Since his appearance in Hollywood with the New York stage company of "Whistling in the Dark," Vinton has found the casting offices unusually anxious to make use of an experienced villain.

In Memoriam

By Mrs. F. M. Haddock

In memory of Brother Charles Manton Warren, who departed this life April 2nd, 1935, being 39 years 4 months and 27 days of age.

He leaves to mourn his going, a wife, father, mother, three brothers and three sisters.

I can't understand, why he had to go and some times for just a moment.

I forget to sing his praise

My voice is low and husky and I wonder at his ways.

I forget for just a moment that my dear brother is only sleeping and not dead.

My heart is filled with longing and shadows round me creep.

Some times my eyes grow dim.

For the time will seem so long and I find a wistful minor cord, has crept into my voice.

But if I stop for just a moment E're my eyes have grown too dim.

I can see that all is well with you dear brother and that you are only sleeping and n't dead.

Then I close my eyes and wonder for just a moment at the end of time.

And then I see the sun has risen and chased the mist and I am given a vision of that bright and happy world so lift your heads dear ones and lay aside all tears.

For our dear brother is only sleeping and n't dead.

But if sometime you feel lonely and your eyes are filled with tears.

Just think for a moment it wont be long till we to will be sleeping to wait the end of time.

Then we will all be one happy band.

His Sister, Mrs. F. M. Haddock

You're The Loser

WHEN you allow Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains to keep you from work or pleasure. You can't go places and do things when you are suffering—and the work or good times won't wait for you.

Why allow Pain to rob you of Health, Friends, Happiness, Money?

DR. MILES ANTI-PAIN PILLS have been used for the relief of pain for more than forty years. They taste good, act quickly, do not upset the stomach, nor cause constipation, leave no dull, depressed feeling.

Thousands have used them for twenty, thirty, forty years, and still find that nothing else relieves pain so promptly and effectively.

Why don't you try them? Once you know how pleasant they are to take, how quickly and effectively they relieve, you won't want to go back to disagreeable, slow acting medicines.

You too may find quick relief. Why wait forty minutes for relief when Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you in ten to twenty minutes?

As a household remedy I have never found anything that equalled Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills.

Mrs. Silas D. Keller, Fenfield, Pa. I never found anything that was so good to stop pain as Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. I have told many about them and I find they are all using them.

Mrs. Martha Lacy, Davenport, Iowa I have been using Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for years. I keep them on hand all the time. I can certainly recommend them for pain.

Miss Audra Seybold, 2417 W. 2nd St., Dayton, Ohio Your Anti-Pain Pills have been a wonderful help to me. I have used them for three years and always keep them on hand.

Mrs. E. Pierce, Lapwai, Idaho I have used quite a lot of Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They are fine pills to stop pain.

STEVE FOSTER TO SEE PRESIDENT

they were helped; the cattlemen were enabled to sell their poor and distressed cattle before they lost all so they were helped; the merchants enjoyed a greater sale of their wares and received cash to a greater extent than for many years previously. Surely they were helped.

"I feel then, that these groups of men will want to send in this fund that we may send a man to Washington from Callahan. I have never asked for one single dime before but I do want this farmer to go on this trip. Other counties round about us are going to send a representative so I believe the citizens of Callahan are as public minded and will want to have their farmer in the group. I would love to see two men go but will be proud to be able to send one. It is up to you.

"Mr. Steve N. Foster of Atwell has been recommended to represent our county. He is a farmer who grows cotton, wheat, corn, hogs, peanuts, and cattle and has been on the cotton board since it started. He knows what the farmers are up against and he has their interest at heart. He said he would go if the farmers and farmer-friends want him. It will cost about $100 to send him.

"We have an agricultural council organized in this county but do not have a president elected at this writing. In absence of such I am going to appoint Mrs. R. C. Corn, of Baird, as temporary secretary, who will receive all donations sent for this trip and will publish this list at a later date. If you wish to send checks, make them to her and you will receive a receipt for same. If you care to hand your donation to one of the committeemen in your community, do so and he will send it to Mrs. Corn. If farmers are to keep their interest before the Congress they must do something and show them they want action, otherwise the monied interest of the East and North will whip our ears down.

"Remember this is the first time the farmers of this state and this county have had a chance to show their President they are for him. Let's show him by sending a representative to tell him direct. Send your donation today. Mr. Chas. Yost of Oplin made the first donation.

"We have 1000 cotton contract signers; 204 corn-hog signers; 257 peanut signers; 80 wheat signers; and have 939 cattle contracts sold in 1934 and 1935."

Sincerely yours

K. P. LODGE IS HOST TO 100 IN FESTIVAL

Cross Plains Knights of Pythias were hosts to ladies and guests Monday night, when they entertained with an "open house" for more than 100 people. An informal program and banquet were high spots of the evening.

Theo Yarbrough, of Weatherford, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals, delivered the principal address of the evening. The program consisted of readings by Miss Navalyn Price and Miss Janita Hughes, Spanish songs by Misses Louise Nelsch and Lettie Harlow Pythianism's friendship charge by Jack Lacy and music by a 10 piece string band. Stanley Clark, Chancellor Commander of the lodge, acted as master of ceremonies and delivered the introductory speech. Sandwiches, cake, coffee, and punch were served cafeteria fashion to more than 100 people.

ST. PAUL

IN the lists of names for in this series, the very highest name next only to that of Jesus was Saint Paul. Practically every ballot was marked for him, as well it might have been.

Paul was born in Tarsus, a university town in Asia Minor near the northeast corner of the Mediterranean. He knew something of classic literature and philosophy but whether he attended the local college we do not know. He was sent by his parents, who were Jews of the strictest sect of the Pharisees, to be trained by the famous teacher of the Pharisees, Gamaliel.

We first meet him at the stoning of Stephen when he is "a young man named Saul." We last seen him in prison, "Paul the aged," waiting for the sword of Nero. Unconquered by his imprisonment and peril, he towered triumphant over circumstance in the assurance that he had fought a good fight and kept the faith and finished his course.

His conversion must have followed within a few months after the stoning of Stephen. That ardent young friend of the Gentile element in the infant church left a greater successor than he could possibly have suspected in one of the men who voted for his execution.

He was "not disobedient to the heavenly vision," says the story of his conversion. Starting to preach in a preliminary way at Damascus, he seems to have felt almost immediately the need for a quiet time when he could think things through and evolve his own message. He retired into Arabia.

Almost by inadvertence he reveals the ambition which he cherished on that first visit to the capital city, that of having an honorable place in Jerusalem near the head of the apostolic group, and of his sorrowful discovery that he was persona non grata to the disciples and must seek a field of work afar. (Acts 22:17-21.) It must have been a heartbreaking disillusionment but it was one of the greatest blessings that ever happened to the world. For if Christianity had stayed only in Jerusalem it would hardly have survived beyond the lives of the men who saw it start.

Paul made three notable missionary journeys beyond the borders of Palestine. He was arrested in Jerusalem in April, 56, at the time of the Passover, that his fifth visit to the city since his conversion a quarter of a century before. For two years he was in prison in Caesarea (Acts 24:27), was nearly half a year on his way to Rome, being shipwrecked, and two years in prison in relative comfort at Rome. Afterward there was apparently a release followed by another and fatal imprisonment, recorded in Second Timothy.
