HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Thurman Armstrong, former local banker who was once very good "copy" for this department, breaks into print again this week as a result of his marriage Saturday night to Miss Margaret Lewis, of Arp, Texas, where Thurman is now an assistant bank cashier.

To the new benedict and "victimized" young lady goes this department's proverbial blessing.

A very good bath tub story was being told on Wilbur Williams about town last week but lack of details—and no means of securing them—forbids publication here.

Fire Chief Ralph Chandler and John Westerman returned last week from the annual State Firemen's Convention at El Paso, where according to the former the hospitality of two countries—U.S.A. and Mexico—was extended visiting delegates.

Ralph is on the job as usual this week but John the former Chisholm trail cowhand, is conspicuous because of his absence from the streets the past few days. Could there be a reason?

Before this column appears again Miss Lucille Burkett and Arthur Carmichael, both former residents of this place, will be "as one", if our oft-repeated prediction runs true to form.

J. T. Hammett, Philpoco's gift to goldom, is competing this week in the annual Ballinger invitation tournament; as is Wayne Middleton, who also received his kindergarten training on the local links but is now of Fort Worth. Both boys are dangerous contenders for any competition they enter. Either may come through for a championship.

It can never be said that farmers of the Cross Plains trade territory are not enterprising and unwilling to try a new idea. When repeated rains thwarted grain cutting activities this week and placed them far behind with their work, several groups came in and purchased supplies of lanterns in order to run in 24 hour shifts.

Such a bulldog—"never say die"—spirit is deserving of success. And here's hoping our local farmers receive a full measure of it.

Playing Hulan Barr's miniature golf course on South Main Street is interesting enough but not half as much as watching a match between Benton Jones and Tommie Holden. Those boys go after it in serious fashion, and as Tommie states, all friendship ceases when he meets Benton with a putter in his hand.

Another match we enjoyed witnessing was that of Wilburn Walker and Leo Baum, when those boys dig in with their boot heels competition gets keen.

Charlie Hemphill has long been a strong booster for Cross Plains but Tuesday night he turned to a specific angle and told 29 local

Vacation Bible School For Children Is Underway Here

A vacation Bible School is being conducted at the Methodist church this week and next for children from the ages of five to 12 years. Children from all churches are urged to attend. The school at 11 A. M. Study consists of Bible stories, Missionary stories and craft work. On the night of June 30, a commencement exercises will be held at the church to award diplomas.

Local Cannery Open Week To Producers

BEGINNING MONDAY PEOPLE TO DO OWN CANNING AT PLANT

For one week beginning Monday morning Cross Plains cannery will be available to producers, who will be permitted to come in and do the work themselves with all equipment, cans, spices, sugars, and similar ingredients furnished, the Review was told Tuesday by Mrs. C. M. Garrett, Supervisor. A fee of only 40 percent will be assessed the producers for use of the cannery facilities, during this week, whereas the customary assessment—with cannery employees doing the work is 60 percent.

Mrs. Garrett will remain in supervision of the cannery during the "Producers Week" and lend counsel in the handling of equipment, recipes and etc. "Any person who has grown vegetables, fruit or etc. and desiring the facilities of the cannery to preserve them is thoroughly welcome and invited to take advantage of this offering," Mrs. Garrett stated.

Due to the fact that the cannery might be overcrowded on some particular days and partially idle on others, Mrs. Garrett urged that all persons intending to use it next week contact her within the next few days and make appointments concerning the time.

All facilities of the cannery including cookers, sealers, utilities, labels for cans, and ingredients of canning will be furnished at no cost to the producers who are to do the work themselves, save the fee of 40 percent of the canned goods. The customary fee when cannery employees do the work is 60 percent.

Since the cannery was established in Cross Plains last year it has turned out more than 130,000 cans. Reason for turning the cannery over to producers for one week is that the fund from which it is supported is exhausted and will first be replenished until after the first of the month, the Review was informed.

PLANS GOING FORWARD FOR CROSS CUT PICNIC

Plans were going forward yesterday, according to G. M. Martin, for the celebration of a community picnic to be held July first and second on the Lon Edington ranch, three miles South of Cross Cut. Entertainments will include a basket dinner, public speaking and concession attractions.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Gaines and daughter Connie returned home from Claremore, Oklahoma, first of the week where they were forced to halt because of high water, while enroute to Wisconsin to visit friends and relatives.

Frank Robertson, of Rising Star, was a business visitor in Cross Plains Wednesday.

Picnic Plans Are Launched Tuesday Night With Naming Of Ralph Chandler "Top Kick"

Plans for Cross Plains fifty-third annual picnic were launched this week with the naming of Ralph Chandler, local Fire Chief, as general chairman. Tentative dates have been set for August 14 and 15.

The celebration will be held under the auspices of the fire department with local business men and interested individuals cooperating.

THURMAN ARMSTRONG AND ARP GIRL WED SATURDAY EVENING

News has been received here of the marriage of Thurman Armstrong, formerly of this place and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Armstrong of the Liberty community. The following news item was prepared by an Arp, Texas, newspaperman.

The marriage of Miss Margurite Lewis to Thurman Armstrong took place Saturday evening, June 15th, at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia Lewis. The double ring ceremony was performed Reverend B. N. Merchant, former pastor of the Methodist Church of this city. Only relatives and close friends of the couple attended.

The marriage vows were said before an improvised altar of evergreens and floor baskets of pink roses and carnations.

The bride wore a dusty pink crepe jacket frock with blue accessories. Her corsage was pink sweetpeas. She selected a navy sheer suit with white accessories for her traveling costume.

Both of these young people are quite popular and have a host of friends who congratulate them and wish them happiness. The bride having been employed at Harman's Drug Store for the past three years, the groom was formerly employed at the Cross Plains State Bank before taking a position with the Arp State Bank in 1932 of which he is now assistant Cashier.

They left immediately after the ceremony for Carlsbad Cavern and other western points, returning by San Antonio and Corpus Christi to be at home in Arp, July 1st.

YOUNGBLOODS ARE PARENTS OF 10 LB BOY

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Youngblood, of this place, are parents of a 10 pound baby boy born Tuesday afternoon—June 18—at one p. m. The Review had not learned the name given the child at "press time" yesterday.

10 POUND GIRL BORN TO MR., MRS. R. B. ATWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Atwood are parents of a 10 pound baby girl born at three thirty five the afternoon of June fifth. Both mother and babe are reported doing nicely.

MR. AND MRS. T. C. WEISS PARENTS OF BABY GIRL

A seven pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Weiss, of this place, June first, the Review is informed by the attending physician who reports both the mother and child "doing nicely."

Mrs. Leo Tyler and sons of Baird visited her mother, Mrs. W. C. Adams here Tuesday.

Should We Overlook The Girls In Our School Set - Up ?

(An Editorial)

The Review has been reliably informed that the Cross Plains school board has under advisement the instituting of a home economics department in the local school system. The plan the trustees are said to be considering is that of securing a P. W. A. 'loan-grant' to finance the project. Should the idea be agreed upon by the board and approved by P. W. A. officials, 45 percent of the money borrowed by the school district would immediately become an outright grant leaving only 55 percent to be paid back and that is financed at a three percent rate of interest.

Of all the subjects taught in schools, few, if any, are more practical than home economics. For as you know the subject is that of teaching girls—or boys if they are domestically inclined—to cook, sew and scientifically carry on the duties of a housewife, which 98 percent of the girls become in later years.

The board has apparently realized—and rightly they should—the advantage of teaching boys Vocational Agriculture, since such a large percentage of them are going to become farmers, but as yet little has been done toward equipping girls for the field so many of them will enter. A survey of high school girls has revealed that virtually all are more interested in home economics than any curricular activity.

In justice to the trustees, it should be said, perhaps the only reason a home economics department has not been installed in the past was because of the initial expense. At this particular time, however, P. W. A. help could be secured to finance a cottage which would have to be built to house the equipment and classrooms.

The time is particularly opportune to undertake this work, due to the fact that the cottage could be built, equipped and everything placed in readiness for next year's school term.

Cross Plains schools lack but this one thing to be thoroughly modern and efficient. Our girls want this instruction, certainly they should not be deprived of the privilege; for in after years they will remember the rudiments of home economics long after algebra, chemistry, and other allied subjects are forgotten.

As citizens every individual should be interested in the schools. If you think the plan of installing a home economics department in your school is wise, begin telling the members of the board of trustees about it. They are soliciting your sentiment. If you think it is bad, likewise, give them your opinion. The board is endeavoring to be democratic and carry out the wishes of the people. Be sure to let them know what you think of the idea.

For years we have heard from the orator's stump, frequently the pulpit and often through the press, the cry: "Youth Has Lost Interest In The Home" Now if you think this is true just ask some of the Cross Plains high school girls what they think of the prospect of studying home economics—a subject that deals entirely with the future homes of America—and you will receive a unanimous answer "We Think It's Great."

CITY GAS WILL BE CUT OFF ONE HOUR FRIDAY AFTERNOON

City gas customers are notified by Lloyd McMillan that gas will be cut off Friday afternoon—June 21—at three o'clock, in order that repairs may be made on the lines.

The fuel is expected to be withheld no more than an hour and a half and patrons are requested to keep the time in mind in order that all fires may be extinguished.

BOB YOUNG MOVES BARBER SHOP DOWNTOWN TUESDAY

Young's Barber Shop, formerly located on the highway East of town, was moved this week to the downtown district and is now housed in the Wilson building, between the West Texas Utilities Company and Neeb Produce.

Remodeling was done first of the week, prior to the moving in of the barber supplies and fixtures. The shop opened for business Tuesday. An advertising message concerning the new location of the shop appears in the advertising columns of today's Review.

VANDALISM CAUSE OF INTERRUPTION IN LIGHT SERVICE

Interruption of power service in Cross Plains as well as scores of other West Texas towns Tuesday night was due to sabotage (acts of vandalism) said a statement issued from the general office of the West Texas Utilities Company at Abilene, Wednesday morning.

The service was interrupted twice during the night from 10:39 to 10:41 and from 10:50 to 10:55. H. D. Austin, district manager, said:

"The interruption was due to a guy wire being cut and pulled over the 66,000-volt line about three miles east of Baird in the long 2-100-foot span at the B-2 ranch, with similar acts of sabotage directed against the 132,000-volt line of the Texas Electric Service company extending from Eastland to Sweetwater and interconnecting with our line.

"This is the first act of vandalism we have had on our system from a gang of disgruntled I. W. W. linemen from California who are going through the country making trouble. Three of these traveling reds were detained by police in a neighboring town, and others are being watched 18 are in the group, that about 18 are in the group. They try to approach loyal linemen with their propaganda, and, getting nowhere, commit vandalism."

JURORS FOR THIRD WEEK OF DISTRICT COURT ANNOUNCED

Hemphill Points Out Why Cross Plains Is Worthy Of Boosting

In encouraging citizens to be loyal to Cross Plains and boost their home town "more and louder" Charles F. Hemphill read the following paper at a meeting of business and professional men in the dining hall of the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. His paper follows:

"Our schools are the best; our superintendent and teachers are the best. Our churches are the best and our pastors are okeh.

HOT, COLD, WIND, RAIN AND STORMS ON WEEK'S DOCKET

Despite a "bag full of weather freaks" the past week, harvesting got underway in the Cross Plains trade territory Tuesday and if weather remains favorable through Saturday most grain is expected to be cut and shocked.

The weather man's "jokers" which started with spasmodic showers early last week grew into a near deluge late Saturday, when rain fell hard and fast for more than an hour swelling all streams throughout this area and greatly damaged grain in some localities

Traffic Is Halted
Jeff Clark, who lives two miles East of town, lost a complete crop of oats when water flowed through his field so rapidly that the shocked grain was washed away. A mile further down the road East, the "county line bridge" was impassable for more than an hour. Water flowed nearly three feet over the bridge. Several other bridges, culverts and crossings in this precinct were greatly damaged by the water, the Review was told by County Commissioner B. H. Freeman.

Freak Wind Storm
The biggest weather "freak" of the week came late Monday afternoon, when a windstorm raged across this section leaving a havoc of damage in its path. Although the storm lasted less than 45 minutes its effects are noticeable in all parts of town. Trees were twisted and snapped in many lawns; one large tree on Eighth Street was popped by the breeze. A large plate glass window in the W. D. Smith Piggly Wiggly Grocery was carried by the wind, however, no other damage was done at the store and the wreckage was replaced Tuesday afternoon.

Regardless of nature's "odd deal" the sound of busy binders was general in the Cross Plains trade territory this week and most of grain is expected to be cut, shocked and ready for the thrasher by Saturday night.

he TTER BOX

n writing this letter for publication purely in the interest of a fair play. I notice in Cross Plains Review that when it comes to Baird, fromington, for the farmers of this county, for a few thousand dollars $5,977.00—it is given from two columns of space in paper with a grand total headline. You know that out of money, I expect that if it is divided equally among all the farmers of this county it will buy them a new neck-tie and a pair of socks each.

Just want to say that I do not think it is quite fair to the benefactors of our county to show for the unsuspecting farmers; when people on relief are getting the above mentioned amount every month, and not a bit more given to the display of Yes sir, they are bringing into county from $10,000 to $13,000 a month and not a word of publicity and no big headlines. There are some things in their favor; we have not had to pay from two to three times as much for food and clothing on account of the processing tax in order to raise the relief money. In their name we have not helped destroy the South's greatest export trade and caused corn in its natural state to be imported into this country by the millions of bushels from Mexico. No doubt, we have imported in the last fifteen years many million gallons of corn; but that was not because the government unconstitutionally stopped the production of it in this country, but because we were dumb enough to change the constitution trying to stop the use of it, thinking Uncle Sam could do something about it.

As above stated, purely in the interest of justice, I think that the people on relief are entitled to at least, twice as much space in your columns, as the fellows here mentioned, in which to be lauded for the great things they are doing for our country, by sucking the above described amount of good cash out of the national treasury, and I want to go on record here and now as championing their cause. I want to state right here that I do not wish any salary of fifteen or eighteen hundred a year for this work I give it in the interest of fair play. The modern way of gauging a great Senator or Congressman is by the amount of cash they are able to filch from the U. S. treasury for their state or district. He who grabs the most in the crowding genius, therefore it is my candid opinion that the relievers should have honorable mention.

Sincerely,
Cleve Callway.

Items of Interest From COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

By Ross B. Jenkins

Instructions for Staking Rented Acres

There seems to be some confusion relative to the staking of the rented acres for cotton. Of course, this has reference to those acres that are taken out of production in the reduction program and rented to the government. The cotton section wants this done and no supervisor will measure the farm until this is done neither are the Tax Exemption Certificates allowed to be given a producer until this has been done as the producer must have finished his compliance before the certificates can be delivered.

There are some very good reasons for this requirement. First of all the rented acres as well as the actual acres in cotton are to be measured this year. Last year only the cotton acres growing or having been planted were measured. The restrictions on much of the work was removed in that year because of the drouth. It doesn't seem that any drouth exists this year. The supervisors also go to a farm and some times fail to find the farmer home. If the rented acres are staked off it will be easy to find and measure even if the producer is not around. Then the government feels that any person co-operating with it should have some extra mark of distinction to designate to the world that he is a co-operator.

The men who do the measuring get $3 a day flat and they pay all their travel expenses and furnish their own board. They surely can't be charged with profiting at the expense of the cotton section. Further more the parity payments were increased this year from one cent per pound to one and one fourth cents which means an additional out of money. Expenses in administering the act had to be cut down to meet this extra money to the farmers as no additional tax has been placed on the cotton that is processed.

With these reasons given and also the requirement out, it is hoped that all farmers co-operate and stake their rented acres because the supervisor will not measure the farm and no further payments will be advanced if the requirement is not met. It was stated that farmers have been in this plan for three years and should be acquainted with the requirements by now. The contract required this procedure when it was signed in 1934 and has not changed.

Division of Rentals to Landlords

Many persons have asked the question again this season if the landlords are to share in the rental from the government rented acres. The answer is the same as last year and that was no. The producer who has the land under his control is to get the rental and that only in case he needs it besides the land that he ordinarily has had in feed. In no case is he allowed to sell the feed from such lands and is not permitted to shift his feed lands so as to let the rented acres take place of feed lands that he might wish to liberate for sale. Read sections 4 and 5 of the contract.

Excess Pigs May Be Given To Relief

Those farmers who are under a corn-hog contract and have farrowed more than their allotment are permitted to give them to the Relief Administrator who may give them out to those persons who may be able to feed a pig.

In connection with hogs a news item from the USDA Press says there are fewer hogs in the major hog producing nations this year than last year. Those mentioned are: Germany, Denmark, Netherlands, Czechoslovakia, and Poland. We are already decreased in the United States by the reduction program and drouth so that hog market are up to parity as was intended when the government entered the control program. The question now is how to successfully hold this production in line with enormous yields of feeds coming up that are certain of making this year.

Wheat Prospects

If the present wheat seeded acres are harvested and the yield is according to the latest government estimate there will be more than 65,000,000 bushels made. There is an annual consumption and sale of about 625,000,000 bushels. There is about 160,000,000 bushels that will be carried over and with the 25,000,000 surplus bushels coming up this year there will be a carry over of about 185,000,000 bushels which is more than is normally needed to be in reserve. In other words if from 125,000,000 to 140,000,000 is on reserve there will be a fair price paid to the farmers and above that amount runs the price of wheat down.

TIRES MAY LOOK ALIKE ON THE OUTSIDE ON THE INSIDE THEY ARE DIFFERENT

HEAT on the inside created by friction is the main cause of blowouts. Firestone tires are different on the inside—they are built with the patented extra process of Gum-Dipping that soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped.

Firestone performance records again emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof, but give greatest protection against skidding. There are three questions and answers that will solve the problem of what tires to buy:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

ANSWER—Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes. For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

QUESTION 2—"Are they blowout-proof?"

ANSWER—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Not one of the 33 drivers had any tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles at 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER—Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile due to the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This rugged tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread, a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

You Always Get Better Quality at No Higher Price when You Buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone Name and Guarantee

1 University tests show Firestone tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires.

3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.

The DIVORCE COURT MURDER

Second Instalment

SYNOPSIS—Six persons are in an inner office of the law firm of Dawson, McQuire and Locke at Philadelphia. A master hearing in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland is under way. Mrs. Rowland, represented by her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard; Mr. Rowland, the defendant, and his attorney, Mr. Trumbull; the court clerk and Mr. Dawson, the master, are the six persons. There is a new development in the case. After failing to defend himself against the charge of adultery in earlier hearings, Mr. Rowland digs up evidence and asks the court's permission to produce witnesses and resist the suit. Judge Dawson overrules the heated objections of Mr. Willard, and orders Mr. Trumbull to bring in the first witness. Mr. Trumbull has just gone to an outer office to bring the witness.

NOW, GO ON WITH THE STORY

As they waited the door opened and Mr. Trumbull reappeared. But he was alone, a different man from the shrewd, vigilant attorney who, only a brief time before, had felt the office. He had difficulty finding his tongue.

"Good God, come quickly, all of you!" he managed to gasp out. "I don't know what's the trouble, but something is seriously wrong in there—I—"

He grasped the back of his chair to support himself, and Mr. Dawson cut in sharply.

"Something wrong, Mr. Trumbull? What do you mean—what's the matter?"

Allen Rowland was the first to spring to his feet.

"What's happened, Trumbull?" he demanded, in a voice filled with anxiety. Mrs. Keith's all right, ing up in distress. "It's really serious," he whispered swiftly. "Mr. Dawson, isn't there a doctor in the building?"

The lawyer followed him to the woman's side, grim lines of worry changing the more genial aspects of his countenance. He took her right wrist, and as he felt for her pulse, he became still grave and serious.

He shook his head. "She isn't just ill or unconscious; she's already dead."

isn't she? There's no reason to worry about her?"

The other shook his head solemnly. "I'm afraid she's very ill, Rowland. She's unconscious—completely out; she shows no animation and I can't get any reaction or rouse her. And she looks dreadfully white. —We had all better hurry."

—We had all better hurry." His excitement and agitation conveyed themselves to his listeners, as they hastened from the office. In his concern, Mr. Rowland pushed ahead, the lawyer immediately behind. Mr. Dawson came next. Mr. Willard made way for his sister, in whose eyes gleamed a light, had it been observed, that suggested an emotion more powerful than mere interest; while his own lips curled in a smirk.

In this order, they all passed through the chamber adjoining Mr. Dawson's office, an anteroom into which his door opened. It was also the law library of the concern. Two other doors led from the library, the one in the left wall opposite the windows, into the main office of the suite, where the employees—stenographers, telephone operator and law clerks—worked. The second door opened directly across from Mr. Dawson's.

It was ajar, and, led by Rowland, the group crowded through it into still another office. It contained a dark oak table, oak chairs with leather seats and a plain, dull green carpet. From the hall, the inscription read, "1505. Law Offices. Dawson, MacQuire & Locke. Entrance at 1507."

A woman sat in the swivel chair, but in a peculiar position that promptly revealed something was wrong. She slumped rather than rested in it, her weight pushing it back on its pivot. Her head, barely protruding above the rear support, was thrown back as against a cushion, so that she stared at the ceiling. Her left leg stretched out straight while the right one was bent at the knee, drawn against her body. Her mouth was open, but strained and thin, rather than loose, in a suggestion of mortal agony.

The sight of the recumbent, motionless figure caused the group to pause on the threshold for an instant. Anxiety was written in every face, except Mrs. Rowland's.

"First I thought she had just fallen asleep," Mr. Trumbull remarked. "I spoke to her, and when she didn't respond, I tried to wake her. Then I discovered that—she wasn't well."

"But what is it? What's the matter with her?" the clerk queried breathlessly. "She looks so strange—so pale and stiff."

In two quick strides Allen Rowland crossed to the swivel chair. He placed trembling hands on Mrs. Keith's shoulders.

His voice sounded tense and appalled. "Barbara! What is it, Barbara? Answer me—" Receiving no reply, he recoiled visibly, look-

"Yes, we should call a doctor," he agreed, after a moment of utter stillness, painful and pregnant, "but I fear it's too late to do anything for her." He shook his head. "She isn't just ill or unconscious; she's already dead."

It was four o'clock that same Wednesday afternoon when Tommy Rankin, at the Central Detective Bureau in City Hall, received instructions to proceed to the law offices of Dawson, MacQuire & Locke. Captain Thomas took the message and relayed the assignment to Rankin. The detective had just reached the Bureau with the completed report of his most recent case, an investigation of the gem robbery at the aristocratic Wentworth home in Mount Airy.

"Here's a new job for you, Tommy." The captain informed Rankin. "It was old Henry Dawson himself who phoned, and he was worried; and everyone in the city knows his reputation for keeping his head in almost any crisis."

"Say, captain, why don't you let some one else handle it?" Rankin protested, without too much emphasis. He shrugged in comic helplessness. "Oh well, I suppose it's all in a day's work, Thomas. Where do I go?"

Primarily because of his youth, he fitted in few respects the typical conception of a detective. Only thirty, he looked twenty-five. In appearance considered handsome, he had a high forehead, surmounted by curly dark brown hair. His lips were thin, and usually set together beneath sensitive nostrils; he had a determined chin and dark piercing eyes, constantly alert. He was broad-shouldered, of medium height, and powerfully built.

As usual, when the captain knew Rankin was about to undertake a fresh inquiry, he could not resist his customary quip.

"Who would you like along with you in this case, Tommy?" he inquired, his smile thinly veiled. "You'll probably need plenty of help before this business is over."

For he was aware that ordinary it was Rankin's policy to work as a lone wolf. He preferred to have exclusive charge of an assignment even of its routine features, until compelled by its complications to enlist outside aid.

Recognizing the captain's jibe Rankin grinned, but his reply brought a stare of amazement to his colleague's stout features.

"You're probably right, captain," he said; "that's why I think I'll lug Jenkins along, and a couple of cops."

He collected Jenks and two uniformed officers and set out. Rankin located on the directory board the firm of Dawson, MacQuire & Locke; and they boarded an express elevator to the fifteenth floor.

The offices they sought were directly opposite the cage, as they stepped from it. Three doors fronted the corridor, marked respectively 1505, 1507 and 1509, and the glazed front of 1509 also instructed visitors to enter at 1507, the central door.

Entering the main office of the firm, 1509, the detective and his companions at once realized the substantial size and prosperity of the lawyers' practice. Several people waited in the chairs lined against the inner wall, on both sides of the door. Six desks were arranged behind the rail, with as many employees—stenographers, law clerks and students. But extraordinarily enough, no one worked, nor was the usual clatter of typewriters heard. They all watched the new arrivals silently, with bated breaths, from which Rankin sensed their anxiety and suspense.

He noted all details before an elderly man came forward and greeted him in obvious relief.

"You've come from Headquarters of course?" He extended his hand. "It's good of you to be so prompt. I'm Dawson—Henry Dawson. I think we had better step into the library, where we'll have greater privacy."

The detective posted his two uniformed men at the main door, 1507, then ordering Jenks to remain outside as well, he followed the lawyer into the library. Two other men awaited them there.

Mr. Dawson introduced them. "This is Mr. Simpkins, clerk of Common Pleas Court, Number Three. Dr. Samuel Clark, whose offices are on the twelfth floor of this building; we summoned him immediately, although it was too late for medical aid. Mr.—"

"Rankin, Thomas Rankin," the detective supplied, and shook hands "Glad to meet you. Then it is a matter of death, requiring the attention of the police."

Gravely nodding, the lawyer proceeded to explain. "I regret it's quite serious enough for that. Briefly, here is the situation. I have been holding a series of hearings in a divorce action in my office, in a contested case. This afternoon, the first testimony for the defense to prevent the granting of the divorce was to be presented. The complaining party offered some opposition to the introduction of Mrs. Barbara Keith, the first witness for the defense. And when Mr. Trumbull, counsel for the defendant, went to bring her in, he found she was dead.—There are indications that her death was neither normal nor accidental."

Rankin's eyes widened in interest and he asked sharply:

"Not normal? That leaves only murder or suicide? Where was she when she died, Mr. Dawson?"

The lawyer inclined his head toward the door leading from the library into 1505, adjoining.

"In that office," he replied, "where I understand, she was waiting until she would be called to give her testimony. On being informed by Mr. Trumbull of his discovery, we entered and naturally assumed she had suffered a stroke or heart attack or something of that sort. But Dr. Clark's examination suggests she met her end by violence.

"I believe she was chloroformed to death," the physician volunteered.

Rankin focused a penetrating gaze on the doctor. "Chloroform, Dr. Clark? Are you positive of that? What evidence supports your diagnosis?"

"The woman's eyes were dilated, which is a dependable sign of death by some such irregular means," Dr. Clark returned. "I've had no opportunity to examine her blood, but I don't doubt it will be darkish and fluid. In addition, there are red marks on her arms and wrists as if some one had a powerful grip on them."

"Then your opinion of what occurred is that some one seized her and forcibly administered chloroform through her nose until she succumbed?"

The physician nodded. "Yes, the symptoms, her position, pushed back like that in the chair, and the rough handling she must have received all point to it."

"Well, unless more than one person was concerned, Rankin commented, "a man was probably responsible. Dr. Clark, how quickly does chloroform act to prove fatal?"

"The time is uncertain, and varies with the person," the doctor responded; "perhaps two minutes, and at most, a few seconds longer than that. On the other hand, it might kill in even less time than a minute. Administered with a saturated cloth or cotton, it would be very efficient."

LOST FAT, Because She Heeded Doctor's Advice

And Didn't Listen To Gossiping Neighbors!

Mrs. H. H. Long of Clarinda, Iowa, writes: "Kruschen was recommended to me by my doctor. Weight when starting was 226. Weight now after 3 jars is 208. Doctor says I'm doing fine."

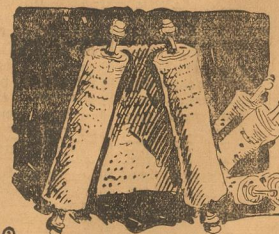

When Kruschen Salts is prescribed by reputable physicians to safely take off fat and greatly improve health—why listen to gossipers who don't want you to be slender? Envious!

Have a mind of your own—get a jar of Kruschen to-day (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle). Take a half teaspoonful in a cup of hot water every morning—tastes fine with juice of half lemon added. If you don't lose 2 lbs. and feel years younger—money back.

Through the American principle of private initiative in business, electric rate reductions have been continued along with improvement in service. According to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, electric service costs for the United States as a whole are now 39% lower while the cost of living now is 38% higher than in 1913.

According to the National Industrial Conference Board, food is now 25% higher than 1933, clothing 22% higher, and rent 8% higher. Total taxes, including the numerous Federal taxes the consumers pay indirectly, have increased at an alarming rate and for the average family now amount to more than ten times the cost of electric service.

Net average rate for all the 160 communities served by the West Texas Utilities Company is today more than 60% below that of 1923.

Law Has Eyes On "Securities"

What is a security?

Under the new Texas law regulating the sale of securities, the term includes any form of stocks, bonds, mortgage certificates, any form of commercial paper, any certificate in or under a profit sharing or participation agreement, lease or royalty interest in an oil, gas or mining property. In addition there are many lesser known forms of securities.

The Texas Securities law which replaced the Blue Sky law, on May 23, 1935, is broad in its definitions of what constitutes a security, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

Before purchasing any form of security, such as those named above, the buyer should determine if the person doing the selling has registered with the Secretary of State. Emphasis is placed on the fact that in no case does the State guarantee or endorse any security.

But registration is not the extent of responsibility on the part of the seller. Under the law he may be held accountable for representations as to fact made in the sale of a security.

When Is A Newspaper Right

The responsibility of a newspaper to its community is too often misunderstood if it is not in timid hands, subjected to commercial considerations and gradually robbed of character and value. There is more to the business of running a newspaper than merely writing articles and selling advertisements. A newspaper to command prestige and respect as a medium for such information, must have character. And character is forged of principles on an anvil of courage. It does not consist of slapping people on the back, writing flatteringly of others and in general performing the part of a good fellow. It is made of sterner stuff and it is much better if it has a little hell salted into its fibre.

The business of a newspaper is not to be against, but for. Knute Rockne expressed the genius of football quite tersely when he said that football pays dividends going forward, not backward. The same is true of a newspaper. It must have a destiny. It must be going some place. And to go some place it must necessarily be positive and stand for something, rather than be a negative influence planted across the path of progress. To stand for something requires that it define its policy, defend its place and oppose that which is inimical to its platform.

Many people look upon a newspaper as a medium of power and influence to rule or ruin. They hold it in respect of a certain character of tyranny. Some publishers of newspapers have been tainted with that view, and in their hands a newspaper has become an injustice. Such rarely survive, because the influence that they command is not inherent but derived from the part they play in relation to public opinion. Their failure to serve public opinion in respect to that relationship destroys them.

The service that a newspaper performs to a community does not necessarily consist in the newspaper being right in its opinions. It may be dead wrong on certain issues, and yet perform as meritorious a service as if it has been right. Like the people who operate it, it is fallible and subject to error. Its rightness consists in stimulating public opinion upon an issue. By presenting the issue and offering a fair medium of dealing with it, the newspaper performs an invaluable service. It may take a stand upon the question and find itself defeated by a majority of public opinion, but because it took the stand and stimulated opposition it was the agency through which a proper and democratic solution was achieved.

One of the benefits of being part of a machine is that one learns that one doesn't matter.—The late T. E. Shaw (Lawrence of Arabia.)

Women must be more active politically, must fearlessly fight if our country is not to be controlled by special interests and powerful lobbies.—Grace Morrison Poole, prominent clubwoman.

Cut out the dole. Cut out the spending of billions of dollars. Cut out the NRA and let American business bring happiness back to these millions of miserable people.—Nathan Hale, descendant of the Revolutionary patriot.

Loyalty of all the people to the president is the country's only answer to the president's loyalty to them.—Mary E. Hughes, NRA executive.

The ideals of the average American may be summed up in two sentences: "A full dinner pail" and "the ability to show a full garbage pail."—Dixon Ryan Fox, president, Union College.

Do The People Have A Right To Know The Condition

As a friendly suggestion, we would like to bring to the attention of the mayor, the county judge and the administrative heads of all subdivisions of the city and county government that sufficient time be taken during the current season to work up for publication financial statements covering receipts and disbursements during the past year. As a matter of fact it should be compulsory that such statements be given the public periodically. To be frank about it, taxpayers and the public in general are entitled to such information.

It is not a question of there being any fear of irregularities. The men we have at the head of the city, the county and district governments are all gentlemen of honor and integrity and the people have confidence in them. Moreover, those who have been assigned the detail of making collections and disbursing of the various funds are likewise held in the highest esteem. But that does not alter the fact that the financial statements need to be given out. In many sections of the country a move has been under way for two or three years seeking to have the statements published by every division that collects tax money.

The information that has been given this newspaper indicates that the city is in excellent condition, financially, at this time. We have been informed that the city water department is now free of debt, at least as far as current accounts and warrants are concerned. Of course, there are outstanding bonds that are being voted by the taxpayers and will be retired in due time over a period of years. However, this one department of the city has made lots of progress yet there's enough human interest in all of us to read official reports on what is being done by this great department of the city government. It is also reported that all divisions of the city government are in just as good condition.

Several years ago, or since the city was incorporated fifty years ago, Stephenville established a record for paying its debts that has been outstanding. There have been no defaults on either principal or interest payments, and most of the time it has been possible for every obligation to be taken care of promptly as it was presented. It is true, as is the case with most all other small cities in the country, that there are not so many items for the city to pay for, but during the course of twelve months taxpayers remit in round numbers more than $30,000 for the operation of the business of this business of this municipality. The fire department, which has no more than two paid employees, and the office of the city secretary where three are engaged, are the principle items in the way of salaries. One of the employees in the office of the city secretary is in charge of the park department and perhaps this salary could not be charged directly to the secretary's expense.

Salaries of the mayor and members of the city council are nominal and amount to virtually nothing. The water department takes care of its salaries and expenses out of receipts, and not from tax money. These are mentioned merely to show some of the city is lalled on to make for its operation. But coming back to the original of every item of expense, etc. If our memory serves us correctly there has been no financial statement published by the city within the past year. Therefore, while there is a lull in the business office of the city government it seems a fine time to give out in an official statement.

The same thing applies to the county. Being a larger organization and collecting much more tax money than the city, the county business concerns almost every person in the county. The county treasurer makes up a quarterly statement and presents it to the members of the commissioners' court for approval, while the county clerk makes an annual statement. Added to these the four commissioners have transactions that the people would like to know about. The county has not published a statement of its financial affairs in several years and certainly those who are paying the bill would appreciate this information.

None of the records of the city or county governments are secret. They are open for inspection at any time, and ordinarily the officials in charge of these records are always glad to aid those who desire to see them. The average citizen, however, some times finds it embarrassing to go in and inquire about this or that. He would much prefer to have the facts before him in printed form so he can take plenty of time to read them.

What goes for the city and county also goes for the school districts. Every agency collecting taxes should publish statements at least annually showing what has been paid out. It would go far in satisfying disgruntled taxpayers, if there are any. It seems to us that it should be the desire of these officials to render this service—a service that would be welcomed by all the people. And this is not a solicitation for advertising revenue. It is a matter that has been brought to the attention of this department by hundreds of people in all parts of the county. They want it and should have it.—Stephenville Empire-Tribune.

Since when has it become lese majeste to criticize the president? Like the rest of the millions of government employees, he is just a hired hand.—Representative Eckwal of Oregon.

I would like to live in San Francisco if the public would quit treating me as though I were the Gold Dust twins or the Dionne quintuplets.—Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow.

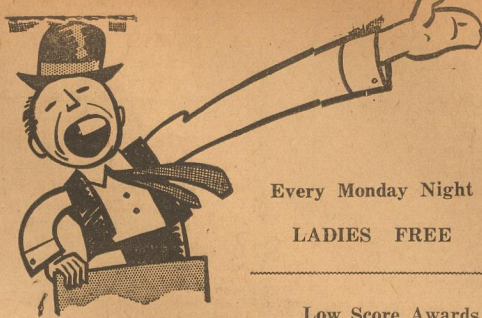

Children need less coddling and more lickings. The woodshed may be gone, but we have the garage, and it is used too little for chastisement of the erring child.—The Rev. J. B. Hubbard, addressing woman's club in Chicago.

Civilization is the history of surmounting difficulties.—Hoover.

The Bethany Sisters

THEY lived a little way out of Jerusalem in a sheltered suburban home which Jesus loved to visit for refreshment and rest. One of them, Martha, was the practical house-keeper; the other, Mary had the soul of a dreamer and the eyes of faith.

Martha was not lacking in faith. Hers was one of the most beautiful of all confessions. Jesus asked her if she believed in a doctrine, and she said, "Yes Lord; that is to say, I believe in you." (John 11:27.) As for the theology of it, she was bewildered. Her brother was dead; she did not see any way out of that sorrow, but she believed in Jesus, and He accepted that faith at its full value. Millions of people who are perplexed by the creeds ought to read the story of Martha and be comforted.

But Mary's was the inventive love that knew how to do the unusual thing and do it beautifully.

Then Jesus six days before the Passover came to Bethany, where Lazarus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

There they made him a supper; and Martha served; but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

Then took Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

Then said one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him.

Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

Her love was prophetic. She had no inside knowledge of the plots to kill Jesus. She simply had apprehension of coming evil and she knew that the time to do the beautiful thing is now, "against my burial."

Much of our extravagance at funerals is horrible, not because of the waste, for love demands an expression beyond the calculation of cold economy, but because it mocks the penuriousness of the years that have gone before. Mary knew that the time to be extravagant is when love can express itself in an appeal to life and not in a costly and useless libation after death. So she made her gift of three hundred pence, and Jesus said:

Verily I say unto you, Whosoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall also this that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.

In 3 minutes his misery is over—excessive, offensive perspiration disappears, the burning sensation vanishes, cracked itching toes heal—he will shout for joy and bless you for telling him about Zeeta.

But be sure he asks for and gets Zeeta—there's nothing else that works so sure, so fast.

Doctors, chiropractors, athletic trainers recommend Zeeta for aching feet, water blisters, also for chafing and sunburn.

Your druggist or department store guarantees Zeeta to relieve you in 3 minutes or your money back!

EARLY SETTLER OF EULA COMMUNITY INTERRED TUESDAY

W. B. Ferguson of Eula, one of Callahan county's earliest settlers, died in a Baird sanitarium Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Although his health had been failing for two years, Mr. Ferguson was seriously ill only 10 days. He was 82 years of age.

The funeral was held from the Methodist church at Eula, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock, with Rev. R. H. Williams, Abilene Baptist minister, officiating.

Mr. Ferguson was born near Fayette, in Macon county, Tennessee, May 7, 1853. He moved to Texas in October, 1875, and settled in Ellis county. Three years later he was married to Miss Malinda Darden, near Waxahachie. Five children were born to the union, four of whom survive.

With his family, Mr. Ferguson moved to Callahan county in July, 1883, after having lived for a few months in Taylor county. He established a farm home near Eula, and had lived there continuously since. Until two years ago he was actively engaged in management of his farm.

The first Mrs. Ferguson died in 1892 and Mr. Ferguson was married in December, 1895, to Miss Mattie Jackson of Grady, Ala. She and four children born to the marriage survive him. They are Mrs. R. L. Edwards of Baird, Mrs. J. B. Stevenson of Lockney; W. H. Ferguson of Eula and Mrs. Joe Gibson of New Castle.

Children of the earlier marriage are Mrs. W. M. Jolly of Bakersfield, Calif.; Mrs. J. M. Watts of Eula; R. B. Ferguson of Dallas and John Ferguson of Eula. A son Henry, died at the age of two years.

With exception of Mrs. Jolly, all of the children will be present for the funeral. Two brothers, Joe Ferguson of Ellis county and John Ferguson of Roaring Springs, also survive. John Ferguson was at the bedside when his brother died.

Don't Prolong The Agony!

Next time you suffer from Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, a Cold, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains; That Tired Feeling, That "Morning After" Feeling. Get a glass of water and drop in one or two tablets of

Alka-Seltzer

The New Pain-Relieving, Alka-lizing, Effervescent Tablet Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.

"We have the least cooperation of any place.

"We once had a market second to none. A better market than we now have is our outstanding need.

"We wonder how we do as well as we do when we do when we are so individual in our nature; we believe that better cooperation would pull us out and make us a thriving little city. We have the biggest regard for every worthwhile business in Cross Plains; we would gladly see the best business better and the poorest business good and it is our opinion that this can be had by cooperative boosting and pulling together for business enterprises we have."

In concluding his remarks Mr. Hemphill explained that the above mentioned ideas were merely his opinion and that he might be perhaps subject to correction.
