HIGHWAY MONEY IS APPROPRIATED

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

How to get rick; Devise a practical, inexpensive means of keep-cool.

A number of local boys are waiting expectantly for C. I. "Judge" Powell's next visit to the ol' home town. He's now a proud father and they've got hands out for the proverbial cigars.

A match that's taking on the aspect of "supreme seriousness" is that of W. A. Williams, Jr., and Miss Wilma Pratt, of Brownwood and formerly of this place. Your guess is as good as ours but we'd say, it may not be long now.

Porter J. Davis has long been noted for his integrity but Wednesday afternoon he was repeating a fish story that has the earmarks of moonshine. The fact that his yarn was vouched for by Edwin Baum adds nothing to it's authenticity.

The story goes like this: A grocer friend of Porter's has just returned from a fishing trip in which he caught a fish every five minutes for three hours and the smallest weighed 20 pounds.

Believe it if you like but we're among the doubters.

J. R. Prater's rodeo at Cross Cut will be held Sunday. It promises to be a "cracker-jack." The only possible feature we might suggest to add to it's attractiveness would be Cecil Lotief clowning in the arena.

Phil's first news of the nuptial titude of late is probably due to the fact that an old sweetheart of his marched down the aisle last week and recited the "I do's."

Phil's first news of the nuptial came in reading the Clyde items in last week's paper, which goes to show printers read their own paper.

Little items of interest: Spurlin Freeman will leave next week to accept a position with a large grocery system; Snip Caton has been intending for weeks to ask a certain local girl for a date but as yet failed to muster the necessary courage; Mrs. Elliott Bryant is visiting her parents in New York City and her spouse appears as lost as a sheep-herder at a gentlemen's convention; Burkett annual picnic has been set for July 26 and 27.

The case of the City of Cross Plains before the supreme court to validate nearly $100,000 worth of city bonds has been postponed until at least September. The court adjourned for Summer recess Wednesday before taking any action in the matter.

The airplane you hear zooming overhead these afternoons is that of Ralph Carnes. Most always accompanying him in Harlie Neel.

Ralph's reputation as a pilot is good and his ship is right up to scratch in modern aircraft, but it was without a moment's hesitation that he refused his hospitality of the skies the other day.

Like an old timer of these parts once said, we don't care how high we go just so long as one foot is on the ground.

Fire Chief Ralph Chandler has devised a scheme for increased enthusiasm among the members of his brigade.

The department is beginning a drive to raise funds and from time to time will appropriate from the treasury money to buy suits of clothes for several members. The plan is to award the gifts according to seniority but not until all of the fire fighters have been compensated will the plan start to revolve again. Members who miss meetings will be docketed from the "suit fund" according to the number of meetings skipped.

Cross Cut Girl Drowning Victim Tuesday

LOSES LIFE WHILE SWIMMING IN TANK ON NEWTON PLACE

Miss Ophelia Rose Smith, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zolar Smith of Cross Cut, who was drowned in the Louis Newton tank about six thirty Tuesday evening was laid to rest in the Cross Cut cemetery Wednesday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist church there, with Fred McClung, Church of Christ evangelist who is now in a meeting at Pioneer, officiating.

The young girl was drowned while in swimming with J. W. Newton, 10 years of age, and Ferrell Newton, eight. She had gone to the Newton home to spend the day. The small boys said they saw Ophelia Rose go down and realizing they were unable to rescue her rushed to their home for assistance. She was drowned, however, before aid could be secured.

Ophelia Rose would have been a senior in Cross Cut high school next term. Pall bearers at the funeral and interment services Wednesday were: Clois Clark, Edward Newton, Hollis Kellar, Charles Jackson, Clifton Chambers and Gene Rhodes. Others school-mates were honorary pall bearers and flower escorts.

The deceased girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zolar Smith, who came to Cross Cut about two years ago from Eastland. Mr. Smith is employed with Root and Rhodes. Aside from the parents, surviving is an eight year old brother Tom Love.

The funeral service was held from Cut Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, with friends crowding it beyond capacity. Others waited outside and at the cemetery to pay last respect.

Scores of Cross Plains people, whose names the Review had not learned at "press time" attended the services. Funeral arrangements were handled by Higginbothams, Cross Plains.

The body was recovered from the water about 40 minutes after Ophelia Rose had drowned. In the rescue group were: J. T. Prater, Arvel Pickett and Dub Stone.

BOYS TOLD WHAT TO BRING TO A & M FOR SIX DAY TRAINING

County Agent Ross B. Jenkins is in receipt of a letter from E. C. Martin, state boys' club agent, in which attention is called to a number of items which all attending the 4-H Club short course at A&M are required to bring. The short course will begin July 28 and last through August second.

The letter, which should be of interest to boys planning to make the trip follows:

"Have boys bring their own sheets, pillows, towels, and soap. Those in camps as well as those in dormitories will be charged 25 to cover night entertainment, newspapers and other incidentals. Suits and bathing caps will be required of all who use the swimming pools. A state-wide band is to be organized and all boys who play are urged to bring their instruments."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stoker of Breckenridge and Mrs. J. P. Mahan and sons, J. C. and J. P. Jr., of Kilgore were visitors in the H. H. Nash home the first of this week.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McGowen visited in Cisco July fourth.

BLAZING SUN SOARS HEAT TO SEASONAL HIGH HERE TUESDAY

A blazing sun rocketed mercury to a seasonal high here Tuesday, when an average temperature of 103 1/2 degrees was recorded by three thermometers. The following day—Wednesday, moderated but very little.

Continued heat waves were predicted for the remainder of the week with probable thunder showers in many sections.

HAMMETT ANNEXES THIRD IMPORANT TOURNAMENT TITLE

J. T. Hammett, Philpeco country club's ace golfer, annexed his third important tournament championship of the season at Ranger, Thursday of last week, when he defeated Houston Cole, medalist, one up at the twentieth hole. Hammett's other championships are Hamilton country club and Philpeco country club.

Hammett drew a pass in the semi-finals when H. G. Agnew, of Ballinger, forfeited in order to leave for his home course where he had qualified for another tournament.

Cole went to the nineteenth hole before winning his semi-final match from James Phillips, in what was considered the closest match of the tourney.

James Smith of Ranger won the first flight consolation from Tim Barnett of Eastland; Ray Trower was winner of the second flight consolation over Bill Tunnell of Philpeco; Elmer Norris of Ranger won from W. A. Dishroon of Ranger for third flight consolation honors and Clyde Davis won the fourth flight consolation when Morris Leveille of Ranger defaulted.

After his conquest at Ranger Hammett went to Abilene, where he staged a brilliant display of golf before being defeated at the eighteenth hole one up by "Shanty" Hogan, who breezed through his two remaining matches for the championship. Hogan sank a 20 foot putt on the eighteenth carpet to eliminate the Philpeco ace.

Tom Anderson, of San Antonio, visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Anderson in Cross Plains Friday and Saturday.

C. C. Neeb, F. R. Anderson and son and B. B. Bond visited in Palo Pinto Sunday.

Ralph Carnes and Harlie Neel were in Brownwood Tuesday.

Highway, Farm Markets And Experiment Station, 'Talked' At Loyalty Club Meeting

26 were in attendance at the regular weekly luncheon of the Loyalty Club in the dining hall of the Methodist church Tuesday at noon. Chief business transacted included the ratification of a constitution and by-laws, reports of progress on highway 36, possibilities of establishing a farmers market in Cross Plains and developments on the government experiment farm to be located in this section.

Reports were heard from Jesse McAdams and F. R. Anerson concerning the development of highway 36, the proposed route of which would come through Cross Plains enroute from the Gulf coast to Abilene. Both McAdams and Anderson, who were with for mitted which met with the Commissioners Court at Baird Monday,

Amusement Spirit Prevails As Circus And Shows Visit City

People lined the streets, cars were compactly parked—it looked like a Saturday afternoon crowd—when the first circus parade in years promened through the downtown district here Wednesday afternoon.

Hamiter Brothers Circus, which showed here that day, was strutting it's best; lions, tigers, monkeys, shetlands, trained canines, clowns, bands, et cetera. The parade started directly in front of the post office, proceeded one block North then one East before turning South and going to the other end

CARNIVAL BOOKED FOR CROSS PLAINS 53RD CELEBRATION

The Valley Shows under the personal management of Ed Stritch, with four rides, five shows and 18 concessions have been engaged to "play" the Cross Plains fifty third annual picnic, which is to be held in the City Park August 14 and 15.

Mr. Stritch is reported to have a thoroughly modern carnival, one of the most attractive and interesting on the road. He comes to Cross Plains highly recommended for the cleanliness of his entertainment. His troop has played some of the largest celebrations in the state already this year.

Other attractions for the annual picnic were being arranged this week. Mayor S. P. Collins formally invited Governor James V. Alford and a communication was received from the Light Crust Dough Boys, radio entertainers over several Texas stations, stating that they would probably be here one of

LOCAL GOLFERS ARE LEADING CONFERENCE

Philpeco country club golfers appear certain winners of the Heart o' Texas Golf Association as a result of their 11 to four triumph over Brady on the local links Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lewis Norman has returned to Abilene after a weeks visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Truitt Lovelace were visitors in Brady Thursday.

of Main and from there up the full length of the business district.

Further proof of the fact that Cross Plains has been amusement minded the past week comes with the report from W. A. Beavers, manager, of the Liberty theater, who states his firm is enjoying improved business, attributed by him, however, to the fact that the recently installed cooling system is making the theater a rendezvous for the heat.

The crowd in town for the circus parade was the largest for a Wednesday afternoon, according to business men, since December.

At present he is teaching mathematics in connection with his student activities at the college.

Young Voyles will occupy the pulpit again Sunday, the Review was told Thursday morning.

SISTER OF LOCAL MAN IS INTERRED AT BAIRD MONDAY

Funeral service for Mrs. Noah Cook, 28, member of a pioneer Callahan county family and a sister of Arthur Mitchell manager for the West Texas Utilities Company in Cross Plains, were conducted from the Baird Methodist church Monday afternoon. Rev. P. E. Yarbrough, pastor, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Joe R. Mayes, Baptist minister. Interment was made in the Ross cemetery at Baird.

Mrs. Cook, whose home was in Henrietta, Oklahoma, succumbed in an Oklahoma City hospital after an extended illness. The body was brought to Baird by Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wylie, Baird funeral directors, accompanied by Mrs. Cook's sister, Mrs. Sam Gilliland of Baird, her two brothers, Arthur Mitchell of Cross Plains and Irving H. Mitchell of Shreveport, Louisiana, and Mrs. Arthur Mitchell.

Mrs. Cook, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mitchell of Baird, had been ill since September. She had spent several weeks here with her parents, returning to Henrietta four weeks ago. A week later her condition became serious and she entered a sanitarium in Oklahoma City. Death occurred at 1:15 p. m. Saturday.

Antra Mae Mitchell was born December 26, 1906, and was married to Mr. Cook in 1926. Survivors are her husband and a five-year old daughter, Joyce Jean; her parents, the two brothers, Mrs. Gilliland and another sister Miss Irma Della Mitchell of Baird.

$13,500 VOTED BY COMMISSIONERS IN MONDAY'S MEETING

Callahan commissioner's court unanimously in regular session Monday afternoon to enter a refinancing of the county's indebtedness and appropriated $13,500, to be used for the purchasing of right-of-way from Cross Plains west to the Taylor county line for state highway number 36.

A delegation of 10 Cross Plains citizens attended the meeting of the court and urged the appropriation of the right-of-way money; they were C. S. Martin, C. C. Neeb, Jesse McAdams, Porter J. Davis, F. R. Anderson, W. S. Ramsey, Cleve Callaway, S. C. Barr, Cecil A. Lotief and Chas. F. Hemphill.

The money for the actual buying of right-of-way is expected to be available when the Commissioners court holds it's first meeting next month, however, the bonding company has an option of 30 days longer in the event more time is desired.

The local delegation, which attended the court meeting, returned highly optimistic regarding the road's possibilities. The consensus of opinion was that the highway is now certain to be completed. The chief delay heretofore, the Review is informed, has been Callahan county's inability to secure the right-of-way.

Settlements will be made with land owners on the basis of the jury of view's estimate of value where such terms are satisfactory. Where the terms are not satisfactory legal controversies are expected to be waged, the editor of the Review was told by a well informed source.

The highway has already been designated from the Gulf coast Northward through Cross Plains. Construction contracts are expected to be awarded shortly after right-of-way deals are closed.

The DIVORCE COURT MURDER
BY MILTON PROPPER...

Fourth Instalment.

SYNOPSIS—Six persons are in an inner office of the law firm of Dawson, McQuire and Locke at Philadelphia. A master hearing in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland is under way. Mrs. Rowland, represented by her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard; Mr. Rowland, the defendant, and his attorney, Mr. Trumbull; the court clerk and Mr. Dawson, the master, are the six persons. There is a new development in the case. After failing to defend himself against the charge of adultery in earlier hearings, Mr. Rowland digs up evidence and asks the court's permission to produce witnesses and resist the suit. Judge Dawson overrules the heated objections of Mr. Willard, and orders Mr. Trumbull to bring in the first witness. Mr. Trumbull has just gone to an outer office to bring the witness.

NOW, GO ON WITH THE STORY

"If you don't mind, Mr. Trumbull," said the detective, "I'd first like to straighten out what occurred this afternoon. I understand you also summoned Mrs. Rowland's companion—the man with whom you claim she is involved?"

"Chiefly because the law requires he receive due notice of the libel, so he may be represented if he desires to defend himself. I don't need his evidence and hardly intended to call on him. Naturally, he'd be a hostile, difficult witness; he'd never willingly confirm Mrs. Keith's story and admit an illicit affair with my client's wife."

"Is he here? Did he answer the summons or disregard it?" Rankin asked.

"I noticed him in the outside office, after Allen and I both arrived," Mr. Trumbull stated. "But I've had no reason to speak with him. If he didn't leave before I—before the tragedy was discovered, he should still be there."

The detective absent-mindedly drew lines on a sheet of paper. "And who is he, Mr. Trumbull?"

"I know little more about him than that his name is Hugh Campbell. He isn't a Philadelphian; he comes from New York and has some sort of connection with night clubs. I believe he supplies talent and produces entertainment for them."

Had he been watching Rankin carefully, he might have observed that he gave an abrupt start. "Hugh Campbell?" Abruptly he changed the subject. "With regard to Mr. Willard and his sister," he queried; "as far as you're aware, did either of them enter fifteen- or five before the meeting, if only for a minute?"

Mr. Trumbull pondered. "Not while Mr. Rowland and I remained with Mrs. Keith, I'm certain. Of course, I can't say what happened after we left the library and Allen went below. As I recall, Mrs. Rowland preceded us into the main office and talked briefly to Mr. Campbell. Then she returned to this room for about two minutes, I suppose to rejoin her brother. And while I was phoning my own office out there, she came out again and rather hurriedly left the suit altogether, by the center door."

"She went into the corridor? Have you any idea how long she stayed away?"

"More than five minutes, certainly—closer, perhaps, to eight," the lawyer replied slowly. Mr. Rowland had rejoined me over three minutes before she came back. Then she spoke to Mr. Campbell again and re-entered the library. Mr. Willard stayed in here throughout and did not come out."

Rankin pushed back his chair as a signal to conclude the interview. "Thank you, Mr. Trumbull, that will be all now," he dismissed him. "Will you please ask Mr. Rowland to come in next?"

A brief space after Mr. Trumbull departed, his client dropped into the chair he had vacated. A bronzed giant, still under thirty, Allen Rowland had the broad shoulders and stalwart physique of an athlete. He had silky and blond curly hair, a broad nose and full lips, which with a twist might easily relapse into sullenness. Attractive though his virility was, thick hands and a heavy neck betrayed a natural crudeness and uncouthness. He was fully cognizant of his pleasant appearance.

He carried himself with perfect ease, yet Rankin sensed that his poise was acquired. He was not "to the manner born". Mr. Dawson introduced them; and appreciating the gravity of the situation, he acknowledged the detective's greeting somberly. Then, his face pale and anxious, he lighted a cigarette, and waited for the first question.

Rankin opened sympathetically. "I realize this is a most regrettable affair to you, Mr. Rowland. But I must ask you to bear with a few inquiries, mainly about Mrs. Keith's movements this afternoon. You accompanied her to the meeting, didn't you?"

"Yes, I called for her at the Aldwick Apartments at two o'clock," Allen Rowland answered. "We drove to town in her car, with Mr. Keith's chauffeur; the trip took us about half an hour."

"Did Mrs. Keith ever say anything, either then or before, to suggest she anticipated any danger to herself? Or that she had reason to fear some one?"

"No, I had no warning anything so terrible might happen. Naturally, she was a bit anxious about the hearing; but otherwise she seemed perfectly normal."

"And after you arrived," Rankin queried casually, "did you remain with her the entire time until the hearing started at three o'clock?"

Mr. Rowland's answer accorded with that of the lawyer. "Oh, no. Mr. Trumbull and I both left her in that empty office next door, after about ten minutes. She wanted to be alone and preferred not to wait outside. Then I went below to dismiss her chauffeur, since Mr. Trumbull had consented to escort her home in his car; I didn't return to her again."

Rankin was satisfied at this check, through Rowland, of Mr. Trumbull's account had movements.

"I think that covers the points I'm interested in at present," he said. He turned to Mr. Simpkins: "Be good enough to request Mrs. Rowland to come in."

With a nod, the court clerk rose to do his bidding. Adele Rowland followed him from Mr. Dawson's chamber. She was a large woman, in both body and features, yet perfectly proportioned; and, without being beautiful, was extremely handsome and striking. Willful and dominating Rankin clearly perceived she was accustomed to command.

"I only wished to ask, Mrs. Rowland, if you entered the office where Mrs. Keith met her death, after Mr. Trumbull and your husband left her there?" asked Rankin. "Taken unawares, at the abrupt query, as though to gain time to recover her poise, she repeated it slowly.

"Did I enter that room? No, I never went near Mrs. Keith; they had closed this door between, and I stayed in here with my brother, waiting for Mr. Dawson."

"How about the outside door in the corridor, when you quit the suite altogether? That was unlocked; why did you go out?"

Mrs. Rowland caught her breath nervously. "I went below to the stand in the lobby to purchase a newspaper," she answered.

"That was the only place you went?" the detective asked incredulously. "That little errand took you the eight minutes or more you were gone?"

"No—on the way back, I stopped in the lady's retiring room on this floor."

Though the reply came too glibly to be convincing, Rankin appreciated her self-possession in producing an excuse he could neither investigate nor disprove.

"I believe you are acquainted with Mr. Hugh Campbell. Before you left these offices, you spoke to him and then returned to the library. Could you tell me what you talked about?"

Haughtily and disdainfully, the woman drew herself to her full height.

"That is none of your affair, Rankin," she replied scornfully, her mouth curled. "I don't care to discuss my connection with Mr. Campbell, which is wholly private and has nothing to do with Mrs. Keith's unhappy death."

Rankin nodded, unabashed. "As you wish, of course," he agreed unpleasantly amiable. "Then I may as well have Mr. Campbell in next and question; perhaps he will be less reticent."

He observed a sudden flash of alarm and fury illumine her eyes. They hardened and she had to bite her lip to restrain a resentful retort, as Rankin stepped to the office entrance, still smiling provocatively.

"Jenks!" he called, and when the detective approached, he said, "I think there is a Mr. Hugh Campbell waiting out there; ask him to join us, please."

For a moment, his assistant's features puckered in a puzzled reflective frown. "Hugh Campbell?" he repeated. "There's no one—" Abruptly, his eyes lighted. "Oh, yes, the phone clerk did say a Mr. Campbell arrived for the hearing just around two-forty. But he isn't here any more. A few minutes before three he got a phone call; he left the joint right away and hasn't come back."

Tommy Rankin was more than ordinarily interested in Hugh Campbell. For he was a power to be reckoned with in the bootlegging business, commanding an organization to import liquor from Canada to a chain of roadhouses and "joints" in Connecticut and Long Island. Though he had never met him, Rankin knew he was no gangster; on the contrary, urbane, shrewd and well-bred, he traveled in good society, a picturesque and somewhat mysterious individual. He had influence in political circles and never personally participated in the aggressive activities of his agents. But it was his audacity and ambitious management that developed an effective and profitable smuggling ring, controlled the racketeers in his employ, arranged for the acceptance of his wares and paid the necessary protection.

Then this was the man Adele Rowland had chosen, her husband claimed, to be her lover. If she contemplated a fresh marital venture, her new choice, the detective reflected in grim amusement, was certainly more romantic and exciting than either the late Tom Marshall or her present incubus.

He received quietly enough Jenks' announcement of Campbell's departure.

"Did he leave any message to explain the call," he inquired, "or indicate where he was going?" "No, he didn't," Jenks replied. "All I learned is that some chap rang the office and inquired for him; and the phone clerk summoned him to her desk, where there was a connected instrument, to take the call."

Rankin's interest quickened. "At her desk? Then she might have caught some of the conversation."

"Yes, she could hardly help hearing several things this Campbell said, he spoke so loudly and—well, violently. First he shouted, 'What?' and then, very much alarmed, 'Oh, my God!' Next he cried, 'You fool!' and said he'd join him; he hung up, greatly upset, and hurried out without a word."

"Perhaps Mrs. Rowland," Rankin turned inquiringly toward the woman, can't offer a reason for his disturbance or has an idea where he went?"

He could not judge, from her dif-

ident manner whether she was believed or troubled by Campbell's absence.

Thoughtful parents, who have observed and experienced the wisdom of thrift in recent years, now realize that it is very important to direct children's thoughts in constructive channels. Most important of all is the appreciation of the rewards of thrift. To teach the child the value of material thrift, there is no better method than establishing a saving account for him, his to direct, control and build.

We Surrender A Deep Conviction; May We Help In Your Work

A newspaper that fails to champion the best interests of the people it serves has no right for existence. Simply to record the happenings in a news fashion is not enough; a newspaper should have a voice in every important objective concerning its community.

Right at this time an important highway is being boosted to traverse the Cross Plains trade territory enroute from the Gulf coast to Abilene. This editor has felt for a great number of years that highways were the ruin of small towns, that they tended to steer local business to the metropolitan centers.

As a man, the Review editor has endeavored to convince others that Cross Plains did not need highways just at this time, but instead more lateral roads from the farms to town. Our energy has been expended extravagantly toward this end, virtually to no avail.

To surrender a deep conviction is no easy sacrifice. Yet to succeed in anything a community can not be divided with opposing factions tugging at either end of the rope. So, here and now, we announce to all interested our burial of opposition to highway 36—both personal and professional—and urge all others to step out and join in the work of getting this important highway completed.

There are those in the Cross Plains trade territory who have labored untiringly for the highway. They have visualized great beads of traffic coming through this city, greater markets for farm produce, outside business being attracted this way. Would that we might publish the names of each of these men and women here, but for the fear that some might be overlooked, so simply say: The Review believes you have had uppermost in your minds the betterment of this little town, the things which would be of benefit to the greatest number of people.

The LETTER BOX

Editor Cross Plains Review, Cross Plains, Texas, Dear Editor;

I am proud to note, that my letter in your paper, has been instrumental in stirring some one to thought. Elbert Hubbard says: "If what a person says or writes causes some one to think it has not been done in vain." The comment by Mrs. Jackson I think is intended to be derogatory to the ideas set out in my letter. After reading her letter and the editor's comment several times, in an effort to get her point of view, I can only conclude that my letter was not read very carefully, or understood very well. The Good lady says "in refutation of the erroneous and ridiculous statements made." Regarding the people on relief not getting their share of the publicity due them for bringing money to this County, I merely expressed an opinion hardly to be classed as a statement. The people referred to as sucking the money out of the U.S. Treasury were the Farmers not the relief workers at all. She further says that I am "ignorant of the feelings and attitude of the people on relief." I may be but I did not think they were much different from the rest of us. I will not be surprised if I am on relief myself soon, if Government regulation of the individual's life and business continue to be forced on us.

I thought that publicity was the most sought after thing on Earth the Golden Fleece or the Holy Grail not excepted. Publicity makes heroes out of criminals, great stars out of ordinary girls and boys, elects fools to office, and then fosters their fool ideas on the public, keeping the people convinced all the time that those ideas are good even after one fifth of them are on relief. If it is good for the farmer, it certainly should be good for the relief worker for the most of them in this County were farmers before the Government started the farm subsidy. I believe that I am the fellow that should have my sensibilities hurt (I think that Mrs. Jackson intended to take the part of the Relief Workers) I made no distinction of class between the relief and other people placing him in the same class with the farmer and our Congressmen and Senators, and I am certain the latter think they are the best on earth, and I believe that "Civilization begins and ends with the plow." She says that those on relief are ashamed and afraid of the light of publicity, and we should say nothing about them, he is not able to pay the light, gas, and electric bills and enjoy the conveniences of life. Now Christ was born in a horse trough, and I am certain that he never paid an electric bill in his life, or gas bill, or a dental bill, not even a barber bill. However he has been the most publicised man on Earth without which we could not have known him, and those facts regarding his humble birth and surroundings are some of the things we are proudest of in his life's history. Interesting Trial

Those interested in the relationship that exists between lawyer and client will take deeper interest in the trial of two lawyers at Oklahoma City. They are charged with accepting and even directing the disposal of the Ureshel kidnaping ransom. Many laymen have felt that this relationship of which we are speaking needs re-stating. Perhaps it has never actually been stated. We are all agreed that an attorney must look after the interests of his client and that every person charged with crime is entitled to counsel. But there are limits beyond which even legal council is not expected to go and should not be permitted to go. Frequently, it seems to us, we forget the purpose of courts, which is to interpret and to apply law to the end that justice may prevail.

The lawyer at the bar is a part of our system. When he manufactures evidence, misstates his case or directs his client to violation of law or to further violation of law, he has gone further than the ethics of his profession or our own laws will permit. But proof is often lacking in such cases and at times, we suspect proof is not sought. In holding that a man charge with crime is innocent, until proved guilty, we have placed the burden of proof on the state, and that is where it should be. But it is quite possible to make proof of guilt so difficult that the ends of justice are defeated. We feel that we have gone entirely too far and that too much freedom is permitted defense attorneys, perhaps the prosecution as well.

At times one feels that there should be some way to brush aside court procedure as we have it, to cut short delays granted astute criminal lawyers, to reduce concessions, and thereby go by a more direct route to a determination of guilt. The present trial is an instance of what does at times happen and suggests the need for some kind of change or reform—News, Ponca City, Okla.

Building County Roads

Under the new set up of the work relief plan there will be a large amount of work done on county roads. Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, has ruled in favor of those projects requiring a large amount of labor rather than larger projects on which a great deal of material would be used and a small amount of labor. That will meet with general approval of those who are familiar with actual conditions in rural areas throughout the country.

In our own county farm to market roads are needed much worse than additional highways. That statement may be easily verified by those who have traveled over the roads of Parker county during the past months. Many of them have been impassable at times and practically all of them need either repair work or rebuilding at this time. If you wish to know the importance of these roads consider the traffic that moves over them. Three of the main traffic items are rural mails, school buses and mail trucks. These must go in all kinds of weather and keep moving as long as the roads are passable. In addition farmers are constantly marketing their own products and making trips to towns and cities for various purposes. They require vital and essential services, especially those of physicians in times of illness.

Farmers need and should have all weather roads to schools and to churches. Roads used for rural mail delivery should be kept in passable condition every day in the year. With hundreds of miles of graded and gravelled roads in the county now it should be possible to build a unified road system in a few years to meet these requirements. A road is like a chain, as strong as its weakest point. This fact should be kept in mind and the bad stretches should be repaired or rebuilt first. There is a rural route in this county sixty miles in length that has five miles that is impassable in wet weather and a few miles additional that is very bad. The cost of putting the entire route in good condition will be comparatively small.

In addition to the benefit from taking care of the unemployed Parker County should benefit very materially from the government work program during the next two years. (Weatherford Democrat).

It is not the fast tempo of modern life that kills, but the failure to grow that destroys—Dr. Harold Willis Dodds, president of Princeton.

THE BOOK

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures by BRUCE BARTON

The Widow Who Gave The Mite

RECKONING up the great givers of the world, the Carnegies with their libraries, the Rockfellers with their universities, the Smithsons with their gifts to learning and research, the builders of hospitals, and the doers of great deeds of mercy, whose name stands as the one whose gift has produced more hard cash than any other? Without question it is the widow who gave the mite.

The scene took place on Tuesday in Holy Week, and rather late in the afternoon. It had been a day of controversy, and Jesus, wearied and dejected wath leaving the temple. He and His disciples had been within the third court. The first was the court of the Gentiles, where any well-behaved person might go unhindered. The next was the court of the women, so called not because it was exclusively for women but because it was as far as women were permitted to go. The next was the inner court, the Court of Israel, as far as a layman could approach. Beyond that was the Holy Place, where only the priests had admission, and still beyond, the Holy of Holies, where the High Priest went once a year.

Jesus and His disciples were all laymen. They went to the inner court but not into the Holy Place, much less into the Holy of Holies. And as they withdrew they passed through the court of the women. There were thirteen chests around the walls, with gold-plated trumpets into which contributions were dropped.

There came a poor widow slipping silently to a trumpet-throated receptacle near a corner, and cast in two copper coins so small in value that we have to reckon in mills to get an approach to an equivalent.

Obligation is commensurate with ability. From the throne of God down to the depth of the lowest hell there is one rule—every moral being is under bond to do his best. God being perfect in goodness is no better than a good God ought to be. Christ's gift of Himself on the cross was not more than Christ ought to have done. Even Christ did no more than the Son of God ought to have done. In some way we must do our best or fall below God's measure. The poor widow gave her all.

And she has inspired millions and millions of people who, except for her, would have thought their gift too small or have measured it by too unworthy a unit of devotion. If we were to reckon up the sums that have been given for charitable causes by reason of her gift we should know that she was first among all philanthropists. We do not need to reduce the words of Jesus to cold arithmetical prose, but if we insist on that still it is true.

This poor widow hath cast in more than they all.

Mr. And Mrs. Charlie Neeb Return From South-Texas Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Neeb returned Sunday from a trip to South Texas, where they visited scenes of their childhood and in the homes of relatives and friends of other years. They were accompanied on the tour by three grandchildren: Bill and Winnie Ruth and Fanoria Neeb.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Neeb visited their childhood home places in New Braunfels. The house in which Mrs. Neeb was born nearly 80 years ago is still standing and is occupied today. It has been modernized, however, and enlarged.

Visiting in New Braunfels Mr. Neeb encountered a school day friend, with whom he told the Review he "greatly enjoyed reminiscing". He also witnessed while there a July fourth exhibition by the New Braunfels fire department. "It looked like they could shoot water half way to the moon," "Uncle" Charlie relates.

Another interesting visit during the trip was at the home of Mr.

Neeb's aunt Mrs. Christina Papa, who is 94 years of age but not too old to yet smile very sweetly, the Review was told.

Among the towns visited aside from New Braunfels were: San Antonio, Seguin, Lockhart, Fredericksburg and Austin.

At Lockhart the group visited in the home of Mr. Neeb's brother L. H. Neeb.

MYSTERIES OF "ONE IS GUILTY" SOLVED BY MODERN SCIENCE

How the modern scientific detective unravels tangled clues, clearing the innocent of suspicion and pinning the crime on the guilty is one of the features of the new Columbia police detective drama, "One Is Guilty," on the program of the Liberty Theatre for tonight and Saturday.

Ralph Bellamy is seen as Inspector Trent, a character he created in the first of the series, "Before Midnight." He is called on a homicide case, finds a man dead in one of the vacant suites of a big apartment building. A girl falls into his net. In her possession is a pistol containing one discharged shell; near the body is a lip-stick stained cigarette stub; the bullet from the pistol is of the same caliber as that which killed the man. The girl can offer no convincing reason why she is in the building. Though the chain of evidence seems strong enough to convict the girl of the crime, Inspector Trent's deductions through the employment of the latest scientific aids clear the girl of all suspicion—and fasten the guilt upon the proper party.

MRS. STRICKLAND IS HONORED AT SHOWER

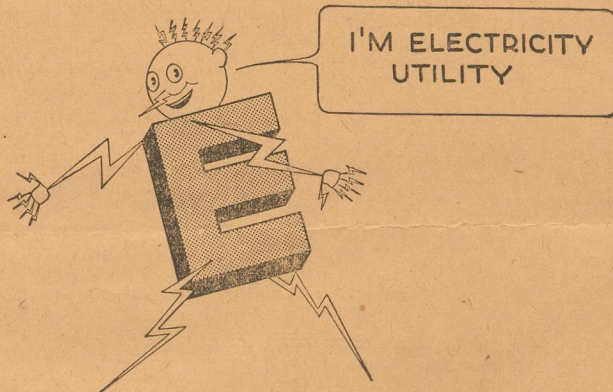

Mrs. James Cross and Mrs. Truitt Lovelace complimented Mrs. Curri Strickland with a miscellaneous shower at the home of the latter Monday afternoon.

As guests arrived they were asked to register and to write their

Misses Margaret Wagner, Sara Chapman, and Rosa Van Lane sang after which fruit punch and wafers were served to the following guests: Mrs. Walton Wagner Jr., Mrs. Walter Wagner, Miss Geneva Atkinson, Miss Ava Walker, Miss Sara Chapman, Mrs. Billie Ushery Mrs. J. As Advertised -

How many times have you seen those two words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised."

Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality, its utility; you know how it fits into your needs. And when you buy it you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented.

It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised," creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day and month after month. You know that they have been approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. And above all you know from experience that buying goods "as advertised" is the best investment you can make.

Looking Into 1935 Farm Programs

The future of the American farmer, especially that of those in the United States, has probably never been so hopeful and secure as it is today. The eyes of the Nation have been focused upon the benefits of national legislation that have helped to lift him from the bottom of the pit of hopelessness and despair and lift him to a place in the business world that has witnessed a gain of more than 4 billion dollars income over the previous year and which started the wheels of industry to rolling. With this new wealth at his disposal, he has bought new cars, new farm machinery, new refrigeration, and other commodities that could not be enumerated that has helped re-employ thousands of men so that now business leaders everywhere proclaim the depression has been whipped and we are on the upward road to prosperity. This has been done in spite of one of the most severe droughts in the history of the nation.

To show how the farmers are reacting to this kind of protection they voted in round numbers 7 to 1, to sign 4 year wheat production control contracts with the government in exchange for benefits and parity payments and the confidence of higher prices for their new products. Soon the wheat farmers of the nation will begin signing these new contracts that will last until 1939. Secretary Wallace announced this week that the parity price for 1935 payments will be 33 cents a bushel or a gain of 4 cents over that of 1933 and 1934. That means approximately an increase of $1500 more for the wheat cooperators for this coming payment in Callahan. The new wheat plan is a little more flexible than the present plan which will end this year.

The new peanut program is to be drawn on a 4 year plan and has some very good improvements embraced in its body. Each producer will be responsible for the land during his tenure and the following producer will remain the same as this year.

The landlords will have a protecting clause relative to their share in the benefit payments. Probably the base for group farms will be the average for the two years 1933 and 1934.

Compliance Measurement In Progress

Men from every portion of the county met with the County Agent Tuesday and got instructions on how the measuring of cotton and peanut acreage was to be done.

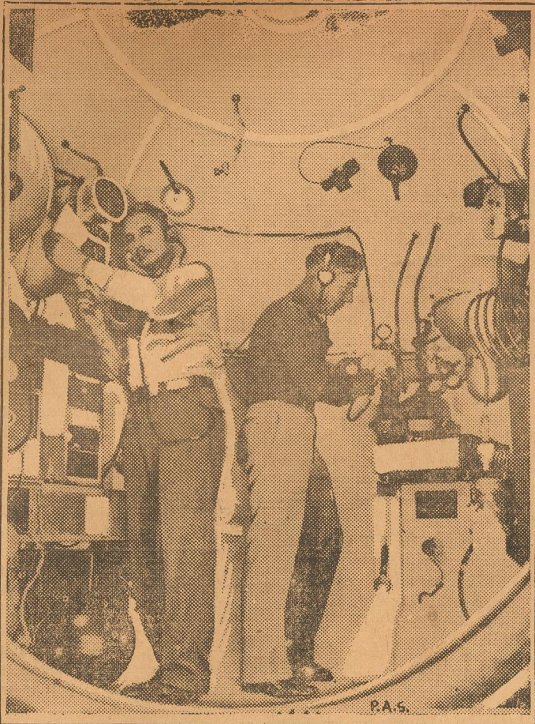

They took the field on Thursday and will rush the work to a speedy conclusion. Those selected are:

C. T. King, Lanham, John Estes, Fairview; Edward Houston, Clyde; W. A. Collins Lone Oak; L. M. Farmer, Jr., Euia; T. N. Minix, Denton; E. N. Hecton, Dudley; A. D. McWhorter, Oplin; (North); Clint McIntyre, Oplin; Ed Henderson, Dressy; V. A. Underwood, Cross Plains; W. R. Thompson, Cottonwood; Buck Harris, Admiral; Fred Heyser, Putnam; B. P. Pillians, Atwell; Doyle Gunn, Union; Eugene Green, Erath; O. F. Henderson, Rowden; Jim Barr, South Cross Plains; Joe Pittman, Enterprise; Durward Varnier, Cottonwood; E. K. Coppinger, Cedar Bluff; L. E. Allen, Iona; J. A. Conlee, Midway; R. A. Bourland, Lone Oak; Warren Price, Belle Plains.

The work this year is a little more complete than previously done inasmuch as the rented acres are measured also those acres growing cotton known as the nonsigners. As soon as these compliance papers are complete the second rental payment will be made and the bale certificates will be sent to the County Agent. Rented acres must be staked before compliance will be made.

INSIDE THE STRATOSPHERE LABORATORY

RADIO CITY, S. Da.—Captain Albert W. Stevens (left), commander, and Captain Orvil A. Anderson, pilot in the instrument filled gondola of the National Geographic—U. S. Army Stratosphere balloon as they awaited favorable weather for the planned 13-mile-high-flight from the Black Hills natural bowl, near here.

Extension Service of Texas and of other states were shocked this week to learn of the death of the State Director of Extension Service, Mr. O. B. Martin. The eyes of the nation have been focused upon the excellent organization found in the Extension Service of Texas and much of this credit has been given to the wise guidance of Mr. Martin.

Mr. Martin has served in the Texas post since 1927. He came here from Washington where he had been director of the Southern region comprising the cotton growing states. In 1909 Mr. Martin went to Washington with Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, the father of the extension work, where he joined the Department of Agriculture where he assisted in the development of boys and girls club work. He was credited with playing a large part with the development of the national extension work program.

He received his education at North Georgia Agricultural College and Furman University. He was a Baptist and a Democrat. He is survived by his wife.

The Callahan County Agent owes much to Mr. Martin because it was through his aid and that of his good wife that he was able to remain in A&M, the last year thus finish his education. Mr. Martin was always mindful and thoughtful of the young men who entered Texas A&M and always was ready to help them in any way possible.

Final Pool Checks Received
2,785.00

Callahan farmers who pooled excess certificates last Fall received final settlement this week on their checks. 503 agreements were sent to the national pool and 503 checks were received in the County Agent's office this week. The cotton surrendered was 393,515 pounds the pool sold 269,139. This left a balance of 124,376 pounds which the owners may either sell or receive able certificates that may be used this year.

All notices to the producers have been mailed out and the checks are being called for this week. Anyone wishing to sell his tags back to the government is informed that they will be sold at not less than five cents a pound according to a letter from Mr. E. L. Deal, manager of the certificate pool.

Non Signers' Cotton Acres Will Be Measured

As soon as the proper committeemen are selected and instructions in the measuring of cotton land this year all cotton in the county will be measured which includes those acres planted by non signers.

The County Agent was informed this week that he would be held that he would be held responsible for issuance of certificates to the non signers and therefore the actual acres grown in cotton must show the same as the acres stated as planted on the application.

The cotton being grown by contracting farmers will be measured at once so as to speed the second volunteer contract payment. The cotton section hopes to be able to make the payment as soon after the acres have been certified to by the county agent.

It is again important to call attention to the fact that all acres that are rented to the Government must be staked before the supervisor will measure the farm and since no bale tags nor second rentals will be issued until the same is measured it is most necessary that these fields be staked out as before requested through the columns of this press.

Bankhead Applications Forward To State Board
Callahan County has an increase of about thirty Bankhead Appli-ations this year over that of 1934. There were 120 applications forwarded to the State Board and there are some seven or eight late and pending applications still in the office.

July 6 Closing Date for Bankhead Applications

All Bankhead Applications that have for any reason not been submitted to the county Agent's office must be in by Saturday, July 6, as absolutely no other applications will be forwarded from this office after that date. This is done only because of an extended grant by the Cotton Section necessitated by excessive rains over the cotton belt causing delay on the part of some farmers in making these applications. It is thought all have made such applications in Callahan.

TIME RIPE TO MAKE SCHOOL TRANSFERS

"Those who reside in one district and plan for their children to attend school in another district should make transfer before the first day of August", said Nat Williams, Superintendent of Cross Plains schools, to the Review Tuesday.

Those desiring to make such transfers may receive blanks or have such arrangements made by contacting V. C. Walker or Mr. Williams in Cross Plains, or the County Superintendent.

A Fact Worth Considering

The cleaning of delicate dresses, such as are worn in Summer, demands an intricate, thorough process if satisfactory results are to be obtained without injury to the fabric.

It is with complete assurance and much satisfaction that we say we are equipped to clean even the sheerest garments and guarantee no injurious effects, which come from acids or strong cleaning fluids. Our process is scientific and thoroughly modern.

Gene is a real business man and is representing an Association that is lending money to farmers and stockmen at a low interest rate, which is attractive to anyone in these times. His business is growing rapidly and the writer predicts that in time Associations like this will reduce the interest rate to farmers and stockmen until 5% money will seem high.

The rust hurt the grain a lot more than it was expected around Clyde, evidenced by the low turnout they are getting when the thrasher gets through. It seems that something worse than the rust hit the market as it takes about three bushels of oats, when the farmer sells it to bring as much as he paid for one when he had to buy it.

"CONVENTION CITY, IS HERALDED AS RIOTOUS ALL STAR COMEDY HIT

Comedy, that is said to be the most uproariously funny that has come out of Hollywood in many a long day, will be forthcoming on the screen of the Liberty theatre when the new First National picture, "Convention City," with a splendid all star cast is shown Sunday.

The story by Peter Milne, presents an extraordinary unique idea, dealing with riotous happenings during a salesman's annual jamboree at Atlantic City. Friend wife is likely to sit up and take notice if her husband happens to be one of those who attends conventions without her.

The action is said to be fast and furious, beginning with the assembling of the salesmen and following them through a week of riotous escapades to a smashing climax in which a hotel as well as reputations, is nearly wrecked. The dialogue by Robert Lord is said to be lively and sparkling and the situations hilarious with its multi-plot entanglements.

There is an all star cast headed by Joan Blondell as a gold digging chorus girl who dotes on conventions. Others include Adolphe Menjou, Dick Powell, Mary Astor, Guy Kibbee, Frank McHugh, Patricia Ellis, Ruth Donnelly, Hugh Herbert, Hobart Cavanaugh, Grant Mitchell and Gordon Westcott.

Like "Union Depot," "Central Park" and "Grand Hotel," the scenes take place in one central location, practically all the sequences occurring in the Atlantic City hotel, the headquarters of the convention-uttered comedy, for while the lists. Unlike them it is pure, unadorned situations are dramatic and heart rendering to the characters involved they are rib crackers for the spectator.

Archie Mayo, ace comedy director handled "Convention City."
