THE BOOK SHELF

By
Lexie Dean Robertson

"On this book shelf always look for anything except a book."

*****
Once I met a laughing baby Who was full of pomp and pride— A very stylish lady With her hat perched on the side.
I was asked to go and meet her. I was very glad to go. But if that laughing lady saw me I will never really know.
The next day I met a poet— I was feeling smug and snooty. But the lovely, lovely poet Kissed me sweetly on the cheek!
—Marilee Lee Washburn in Mirage at Dawn.

*****
One of the most touching efforts I have had was the exquisite copy of Mirage at Dawn by Marilee Lee Washburn with the poem above especially inscribed to L.H.R. How sweet that she should remember my picture so beautifully! Mrs. Washburn is the youngest poet I know although her lovely hair is silver with many winters. She lives in Brownsville but for many years her home was in California where she was an educational leader. Mirage at Dawn, published by the Trinity Company, Dallas, is a collection of poems and rhymes that show often the deft touch of the artist and still more often the love of the writer for all living creatures and nature's beauty. I hope that this fine volume of hers will bring a little courage to us all that we should hold fast to our dreams; life offers to the end a glorious fulfillment.

Mr. Robertson's girl friend said she didn't keep that magazine subscription card because her boss told her to "well herself" first and when she tried that on a customer, he grined.

Right here I want to make public acknowledgment of my indebtedness to the girl friend whom you have seen abbreviated in these columns as "the gf." (Thank good now we women call ourselves "girls" even while the youngsters are learning to say "gemma" to us!) Anyway she is Mrs. H. C. Grady who lives on the corner from me and she is secretary of the local study club and Public Safety Chairman of North District T.P.W.C. Without her faithful, untiring and rapid assistance the Book Shelf would long ago have tumbled from its precarious perch on numerous newspaper walls. She is the who fills proof sheets, fills a lamp, addresses hundreds of envelopes, brings my mail, chauffeur me when I sleep late, and even has been known to wash a sink full of dirty dishes in many an emergency.

Real poets may sing of fair beauties, or praise some heroic leader. My song and my praise are for

R. ELLIOTT BRYANT AND ASSOCIATES FIND POOL

R. Elliott Bryant of Cross Plains, Dick Reeman of Cross, and J. W. Cromwell, of San Antonio, have placed a shallow well in Thrackerton county in the vicinity of the neighborhood of 10 barrels daily. The well is located at 700 feet. Plans call for the drilling of several other wells, offsetting the producer.

The well is believed to be the first in a new pool.
Bryant: "She's got what it takes when I need her!"
For a few days I was afraid the dignity of my new position in the world of Texas literature might get the better of my sense of humor, but from the above diary, I believe the old-school thinking apparatus is still working in its accustomed parks and playgrounds! Last time everything to have become as prim as a folded napkin! Irresistible delinquency!

"Behind the Eight Ball" in the Brownwood Banner comes out with a list of suggested designs—mostly fashions—for Texas automobile license plates, and that reminds me: Why can't we Texans have some of those colorful stickers for the cars of summer visitors in our parks and playgrounds? Last time I was driving up Yellowstone way it made me downright peevish every time I saw a windmill all broken out like monies, with fancy posters because I didn't have a big red Texas to stick somewhere on our own car. An outline map would be just grand for this. Will everybody please mark this paragraph and mail it to the authorities at Austin or whose job it is anyway to advertise our state?

Funeral for the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Varner was held at Cottonwood Wednesday. The child succumbed shortly after birth. Mrs. Varner is yet in the Hendrick Memorial Hospital at Abilene. Her condition is somewhat improved. The Review learned shortly before going to press.

SONJA HENIE STARS IN "MY LUCKY STAR"

A book of magic written 75 years ago provided Hollywood movie makers with one of their most important camera tricks in the filming of Sonja Henie's latest 20th Century Fox triumph "My Lucky Star."

The big skating number in the picture—when opened Tuesday at the Liberty Theatre for two days is the "Allow in Wonderland" ice ballet. Director Roy Del Ruth wanted to show Sonja, as Alice, going through the mirror into Wonderland—and have the camera follow her.

The stunt could have been done by double exposure, split-screen or stop-camera methods. But the camera was required to keep moving, the mirror had to be a real one. It had to show Sonja's reflection and still allow her and the camera to pass through it.

It was cameraman Johnny Messral who found the solution in a rare volume of theatrical illusions of magic, published in 1890, and the trick—with modern variations—has now as yet in the late Houston's famous repertoire.

Sharing top honors with Sonja in "My Lucky Star" is Richard Greene, last seen in "Four Men and a Crayon." The supporting players include Joan Davis, Oscar Brown, Buddy Ebsen, Arthur, Truesher, George Barber, Louise Horvick, and Harry Joe Brown as associate producer.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Plagiarism? A restaurant in Round Rock (which is where Sam Bass was shot to death) proclaims, "Neckless, wingless, backless fried chicken." Another cafe there asserts, "Original neckless, wingless, backless fried chicken."

Another feud in food: Side by side on the Fort Worth highway just north of Waco are two stands, one advertising "Fried chicken, California style"; the other, "Fried chicken, Texas style." Guess which had the bigger crowd?

Will W. Lee O'Daniel run for the United States Senate next year? A seat in Washington would give the hill-billy philosopher a national audience.

Austin observers note that, when Bill McDonald was Land Commissioner and a bill was before the legislature to deprive the state school fund of millions of dollars by giving vacancies to oil companies, he fought the bill and had a big part in defeating it—which probably was one of the reasons he didn't get re-elected. The present Land Commissioner has sold nothing against a similar bill introduced at this session.

"That's the way we do it in business," heard last summer, is being quoted by those favoring Senator Clint Small's proposal to wipe out the state deficit by issuing four-year bonds at a low rate of interest and thereby do away with the present situation whereby the taxpayer is paying more for supplies and work because bidders make plenty of allowance for the discount on state warrants.

A radio station recently cut a speaker off the air because he was talking against giving the presidential nomination to John Garner. However, from the same station each week, Elliott Roosevelt criticizes President Roosevelt's administration. Should the Vice President be treated with more consideration than the President?

This is an "off year" as far as an election is concerned so it might be a good time to go into the whole business of "freedom of the air," so-called. Last year, for example, friends of Ralph Yarborough were paying for some time on the air but the candidate for Attorney General couldn't say what he wanted to because attorneys for the station (who were supporting one of Yarborough's opponents) ruled against this statement: "Let's keep the door of opportunity open for every boy and girl in Texas and not allow it to be locked so that it can be opened only by monopoly's key of gold."

Remember the joke about the fellow who played poker every night with some card sharps? He went to their room one evening, found the door locked and threw his bank-roll through the transom, saying, "They'd have won it, anyway." Sight's over Texas!

A blind woman in Fort Worth playing an accordion and singing, "I ain't got nobody and nobody cares for me!"

A reporter's school sponsored by council was held preceding the council meeting. Appleton of the Enterprise club read a news story that was written before the first school and a report that was written after the training school. Robert Young took an unwanted and unexpected bath when Pupchen Joan Crawford's dachshund, tripped him.

Miss Crawford and Young were rehearsing a scene for "The Shining Hour." A fish pond had been built on a sound stage at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and the players were standing beside it.

Suddenly Pupchen got loose and made a mad dash for his mistress. Taking a short cut, he rushed between Young's legs. The actor stumbled, lost his balance and fell into the water. The wardrobe department rushed a new outfit for Young.

Young is one of four stellar personalities appearing with Miss Crawford in the new picture, which opens as a midnight preview and Sunday and Monday at the Liberty Theatre. Others in principal roles include Margaret Sullivan, Melvyn Douglas and Fay Bainter. The drama is based on the stage success by Keith Winter.

Hooked Rugs Is Topic For H. D. C.

"A large rug need not be lined or sized, sometimes a small rug must be lined in order to make it heavy enough to lay flat on the floor. Mrs. J. C. Huntington, president was in charge of the business meeting.

 I was breaking some land with a yoke of oxen and being just a lad and not knowing much about ploughing I was having a pretty hard time one day. I couldn't keep my plough in the ground. Daniel Dadds, who had come here from Missouri saw me and came to my assistance. There was a calf hide on the point of my plough and that was the reason I could not keep it in the ground. He laughed and removed it and I went on with my ploughing.
 In those days I never dreamed that I would live to see the soil cultivated with a tireless machine. I'm wondering if in the future there will ever be a machine invented that will surpass the tractor that is driven by gasoline.
 It was a hard matter to try to plough in heel fly time. As long as we were going south, the steers would go fine, but when we turned north they would break loose and of Christ. He was 70 years of age. Had been in ill health for several months. He was grand father of Mrs. W. H. Coppinger.

MOISTURE RECEIVED FRIDAY AND FREEZE DOESN'T MATERIALIZE

Old man weather smiled upon the Cross Plains trade territory the past week. A two months drouth was broken early Friday morning, and a freeze forecast for Tuesday night failed to arrive.

The rain which began falling in the early hours of Friday morning netted nine tenths of an inch, greatly benefiting grain crops, which were beginning to suffer appreciably. All vegetation was revived by the precipitation and enough moisture was placed in the ground to sprout recently planted crops.

Fruit growers were troubled Tuesday when a Norther swept over this section and warnings were broadcast that the temperature would drop to 28 Tuesday night. Several planned to burn smudge pots in orchards if the freeze arrived, however, about 10 o'clock Tuesday night the weather moderated and lowest reading here was around 38 degrees. Fruit was not damaged.

In addition to Friday's rain, showers were received Monday and Wednesday. In Cross Plains the precipitation Monday measured only two one hundredths of an inch. Wednesday's shower was even lighter in the city limits, however, South of town a hard downpour was received across about a two mile strip.

Crop prospects at present are ideal if more moisture is forthcoming within the next two weeks and freezing weather is averted, say local farmers.

Jane Withers Comes To Liberty In "Keep Smiling"; Her Best

In what is said to be by far the grandest picture she ever made, Jane Withers will come to the screen of the Liberty theatre here Saturday night in a midnight matinee film entitled "Keep Smiling". The picture will continue Sunday afternoon at the matinee showing and Monday night.

"Keep Smiling" affords Jane almost unlimited range for her high spirited talents, and she keeps you laughing, thrilling and living every exciting moment of it.

The fast moving screen play opens with Jane in a fashionable girls' boarding school, selling her entire wardrobe to raise the fare to Hollywood, where she plans to visit her movie director-uncle, Henry Wilcoxon, whom she has never seen. Arriving at his Beverly Hills mansion just as its lavish furnishings are being sold at auction, Jane learns that her uncle is down on his luck. She has taken to drink and can no longer get a job. Whereupon she conspires with Gloria Stuart, Wilcoxon's former secretary—who admits that she loves him—to rehabilitate her uncle.

Jane crashes one of the big studios and after a wild chase with its police force gets into the head producer's office where she makes an impassioned plea in her uncle's behalf. The producer is more interested in giving Jane a chance to play in pictures herself, and the scenes which follow offer an unusually complete insight into the operations of a motion picture studio.

Wilcoxon, meanwhile, appears as an extra on the set where Jane is being coached for star role. When the director, who tries to make Jane look bad, "blows up" on the job, Wilcoxon is offered the pilot's seat—and with Gloria Stuart once at his side, the romantic situation is well in hand.

Maybe it's because there are no candidates to shoot at but it seems that there are never as many rabbit drives in the odd years as in the even ones. By this time last year the Cross Plains trade territory had already had three drives and Hugh McEwen, J. M. McMillan and W. A. Peterson each had a few luck shot stings to prove their presence.
