CLEAN - UP DRIVE IS BIG AID TO CITY

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Nothing but the United States mint can make money without advertising.

Rev. Bob Sheppard, district secretary, will begin a revival at the Cross Plains Baptist church, Friday, April 23. The meeting will last eight days. Everyone will be welcome. Rev. D. Van Pelt, pastor of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Garrett returned Tuesday from J. M. N. M. They have been visiting with Mrs. Rollo Davidson.

Lewis Norman is entitled to our hand of fellowship and unmeasured good wishes upon his election to the place of Superintendent of Cross Plains schools. Having been in command for the past eight years he has gained experience which should contribute to his administration an increasing success.

On voyage and the best of luck, the folks are all for you.

A neighboring town recently had an old time man of section. Over coffee cups he tried to get every inhabitant of his little city and as to the city of the oil industry.

He asked us to ask him a question: "Do you think deep wells could be located near Cross Plains?"

His answer was: "I firmly believe the oil is there but it may not be found in the next hundred years."

His explanation ran something like this: Cross Plains has had a bit of oil excitement, people were led to believe during the time that average should bring a price. It should have been, however, that average isn't worth a cent now to anyone except some speculator who is willing to let his last dollar go in a hole in the ground. Well, the independent can't get the acreage and the companies have long since abandoned. For this reason there is a good many years before the underground wealth is to be seen.

While home this scribbler has pondered over what the old man in the crude industry had to say. We were reminded of what the neighboring cities are doing to promote oil development.

Cisco, Hico, Devola and Hamilton citizens are treating with oil men to get tests drilled. Such a plan will revive Cross Plains. We'd like to see it tried.

You noticed Bill Anderson's "The Missing Witness" the past few days? It is due to the fact that he was busy with a golf match at Coleman Sunday. While he was losing by 10 strokes, Bill was turning in one of his best decisive triumphs of his golfing career.

Sunday's occurrence happened in the morning. There will be four sets of golfing parades for sale cheap here. John will tell you, however, that the best golf is played about the old and not along the fairways.

You notice the unusually crowded in town trades days as though the old time Monday is coming back into prominence.

It would take but very little of the Cross Plains to become the cleanest town of its size. The current clean-up plan has been responsible for improvement.

Setting beds for files and most have been destroyed, lawns beautified. Let's keep the work going.

BY GIRL ARRIVES AT J. C. CHILDERS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Childers of Branch are parents of a girl born Monday afternoon. The child weighed four and one-eighths.

A. G. Crabb of San Angelo visited here Sunday. Miss Gattgens returned home with a week's visit.

Mr. J. Gray had as her guests Mr. and Mrs. G. Q. Armistead and family of Clyde.

O. Randall and children of Anna City are visiting here this week.

Principle Job Open At High School

LEWIS C. NORMAN NAMED SUCCESSOR TO NAT WILLIAMS

At a special meeting of the board of trustees Friday night Lewis C. Norman, high school principal for the past eight years, was elected Superintendent of Cross Plains schools, succeeding Nat Williams who will leave July first to head the Baird school system.

Norman came to Cross Plains in 1929 from Coahoma. He is completing his eighth year as high school principal and had been elected for another year before the resignation of Mr. Williams.

The promotion of Norman to the Superintendency leaves a vacancy in the place of high school principal. Members of the board of trustees have already received numerous applications, however, they have delayed making a choice and it may be at least a week more before Norman's successor is known.

Election of Norman to the place of Superintendent came as welcome news to patrons of the local school system, a representative of this newspaper learned in conversing with probably a hundred or more people.

GRAIN PROSPECTS BRIGHTENED AFTER TUESDAY'S RAINS

Grain prospects throughout the Cross Plains trade territory were brightened considerably early Tuesday morning when rain means three fourths of an inch blanketed this section. Additional moisture fell late Tuesday afternoon. The Review learned in a check up with farmers yesterday that wheat, oats and barley are offering unusually good promise at present and if additional rain is forthcoming within the next week or so a bumper grain crop may be harvested in a few months.

Indications were that the rains Tuesday were general. All towns within a radius of 50 miles reported nice precipitations.

CROSS PLAINS WINS THIRD IN DISTRICT

Cross Plains schools copped third place in the district interscholastic long jump meet at Breckenridge last week.

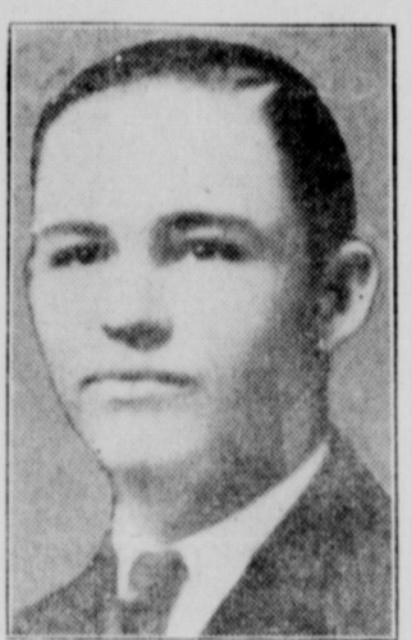

Places were won by the following local students: Henry Henrich first place in junior boy's decathlon contest, Emma Jean Settle, second junior girls decathlon, Emma Jane Williams, third place in ward school ready writing contest, B. W. Huntington third place in senior ready writing contest, B. W. Huntington third place in senior boys high hurdles, Billy Gray second place in javelin throw and fourth in discus, one not played second place, Bruce Stralman, who played the part of "John in the one act play won first place for individual acting ability for boys, Eloise Lane, who played the part of Mary, won third place in individual acting ability for girls.

Other local participants included: Billie Loving, S. R. Jackson, Gene Blitch, Fatsy Ruth Mitchell, W. L. Armstrong and the ward school choral club.

TOM HOLDEN STARTS WELL WEST OF TOWN

Holden and Tyler plan to drill another well on their lease West of Cross Plains. The Review learned in an interview with T. S. Holden Monday. The test will probably get underway within the next few days. It is to be drilled to a depth of about 1,000 feet.

Legislature Grinds Into Closing Days With Nothing Done And $500,000 Spent, Dodson

By Aubra Dodson
Hello friends:
It sure is a relief to get the of Cross Plains Review these days and read about something other than pack or unpack the Supreme Court and sit down strikes.

You know, these sit down strikes remind me of marathon dances. Remember how crazy we were about them a few years ago?

Did you see the picture in the papers of the fellows sent down to Texas to organize the oil field workers. They looked more like a bunch of movie stars than anything else, their hands were perfectly manicured and clothes fitted to such precision that each must have had his private tailor. I'll bet the only all these fellows ever feded with came in little bottles and was labeled: "Hair Tonic". But of course they're not supposed to know anything about the oil field or working conditions; their only duty is to get the boys to pay dues to the national organization.

Well, the legislature is grinding along. The race horse repeal bill has been neatly folded and put away. An old veteran here told me the politicians had no intention of ever repealing the law, but that they were just throwing a scare into the race horse boys to get them to enlarge their lobby and sweeten the ante. It now looks as if the old veteran were correct for the race horse boys did plank down quite a bit of cash and the bill will not be voted on this session.

Supporters of a sales tax have been getting along pretty well, and it is quite possible that you may be paying a few cents extra on the next pair of baby's shoes. The special interests have been doing some shrewd maneuvering to effect the passage of this bill.

The legislature took a holiday Wednesday to go down to Houston and celebrate the one-hundred and first anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto.

Don't expect much to happen in the closing days of the present session of this legislature. The boys are now delaying everything important in the hope that an extra session will be necessary. You know there's nothing a Solon likes better than an extra session, unless it's a couple of them.

Four months have elapsed, and despite my constant observation I fail to find one constructive thing done during this session, which will wind up at a cost of $500,000.00 to you good people.

SCHOOL PLAY WILL BE STAGED IN GYM NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

With presentation of the play, "The Missing Witness" scheduled for Friday night of next week—April 30—rehearsals are going forward daily in the high school gymnasium where the production will be staged.

The play has a courtroom setting and instead of lowering the curtain after each act a brief recess of the court will be called. Leading parts are taken by Eugene Cross, the prosecutor; Billy Gray, judge; Billy Welch, defense attorney; Jane Rae Lowe, defendant; Virginia Neeb, the missing witness.

Proceeds from the play will be used to pay expenses incurred in staging the one act play in county and district competition and of the annual junior-senior banquet card set in May.

Miss Novelyn Price, director of "The Missing Witness", says its most interesting play she's ever presented in Cross Plains.

FORMER LOCAL COUPLE PARENTS OF BABY GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. Robbie Stephens, formerly of Cross Plains, are parents of a nine and one-fourth pounds-baby girl born April 18. Gretchen Gall is the baby's name. Mother and baby are doing well.

Mrs. H. O. Wheatly and daughter of Corpus Christi were visitors here Tuesday.

Eloise Lane, Dixie Little and Mozelle Atwood were Cisco visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Archie of Pampa is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. W. Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Harvey were Brownwood visitors Monday.

COLEMAN GOLFERS OUTSHOOT LOCALS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Philpean country club golfers lost to Coleman Sunday afternoon by a score of nine to seven. The match was a scheduled engagement in the Mid-Texas Golf Association. The reverse was the first suffered by the locals at the hands of Coleman in four years. A return match will be played at the local links the first Sunday in May.

Results of the individual matches follow (first named players are from Philpean):

Hammett defeated Nevill five up with three to play, Wright lost to O. Gibson six and five. Tunnell was subdued by A. McKinney two and one, Sellers beat D. Gideon two up, Harrell lost to Moore one up, Thornton won over Lowe one up on 19 holes, S. Milwee was defeated by M. Gideon two and one, Rutherford bested Gilliland two up, Ramsey lost to LeMay two up, F. Tunnell was defeated by F. McKinney one up, Scott was trimmed by R. Gideon four and three, Joyce defeated Gordon two up, Baum lost to Durham eight and seven, Anderson beat Browning four and three, Sipes was defeated by Harbour nine and seven, E. Milwee won from Dalton one up on 19 holes.

Mrs. Billie Gray and son of Odessa were visitors here this week.

IS WELL TO BEWARE OF TRAMP PEDDLERS WHO SELL AND LEAVE

The old adage: "You can't get something for nothing", was proved again here Monday.

A slick tongued transient salesman stopped at the trading grounds and gathered a part of the third Monday crowd about his auto. By selling a few inexpensive items and giving the purchasers' money back, several were led to believe that he intended to continue his generosity. The stranger then quickly sold a bed spread, several fountain pen and pencil sets, tie clasps and etc. to his awe-stricken patrons for about five times the actual worth of the merchandise. His net profit for the few minutes of "superior salesmanship", was estimated to have been about $10.

One man was victimized of $10.00 another for $4.00 and a third for $3.00.

Mrs. H. D. Lawrence of Denton was the guest of Mrs. Craig McNeel this week.

RESIDENTIAL PART OF TOWN TAKES ON IMPROVED ASPECT

The residential section of Cross Plains has taken on a new aspect this week as householders have been cleaning and beautifying their premises in cooperation with a city-wide campaign under the sponsorship of the Junior Study Club and the City Council.

A survey will be made this week end to determine what place in each of four sections has made the most improvement during the clean up campaign. The four winners will be awarded free gas by the Municipal Gas System for the months of June, July, and August. Judging is to be done by a committee.

Householders who have cans or rubbish to be hauled away may get them removed without cost by notifying the city office today on Saturday. Trucks will be employed to pick up the rubbish and convey it to the city dump yard. It was explained, however, that the truck drivers will not have time to collect the cans, they must be sacked or stacked in an accessible place.

School children have been cooperating in the campaign by cleaning alleys in several parts of town. Prizes are to be given the most industrious youths, the Review was told by Mrs. Orba Booth, chairman of the movement. The prizes will consist of a number of complimentary tickets to the Liberty theatre.

At the close of the campaign a committee, from the city council and the city health officer will make an inspection tour of the residential district to see if there are unsanitary conditions in the corporate limits. "If such conditions are found we will be compelled to enforce our health laws," said Mayor S. P. Collins.

WILL CROWN MAY QUEEN NEXT WEEK

Cross Plains ward schools May Queen will be crowned at the May Fete April 30, on Williams Field. A contest has been held in the ward school this week to determine which grade will have the honor of being represented by the king and queen. The representatives from the other grades will appear as Dukes and Duckesses in the Queen's court. No one will know who the King and Queen are until the night of the May Fete.

Princess and Princesses from ward schools of twelve surrounding towns have been invited to appear in the Queen's court. There will be representatives from the four classes of the local high school as Lords and Ladies in Waiting.

The entertainment for the Queen includes dancers and singers representing many foreign countries. The merry month of May will be welcomed in by the proverbial May pole dance.

The May Fete is scheduled to begin at sundown. There will be no admission charge.

Sales Tax Now Proposed Would Cost Every Person In County $3.08 Per Year

Callahan County merchants do a total retail business of $1,970,300 and a two per cent sales tax as now proposed in the Texas legislature would yield $39,406 from this county while the sales tax burden to be borne by each resident of the county would amount to $3.08 per year.

These figures are based on a recent census of the United States Department of Commerce. A two per cent sales tax will yield $38,632,390 in annual recurring revenue to the State of Texas.

The yearly volume of business done by the 70,000 retail establishments of Texas is approximately $1,432,000. Under a 2 per cent retail sales tax each inhabitant of Texas would be required to pay $4.72 per year. Sales tax collections per store under a 2 per cent levy would amount to $147.30 annually.

"Forty-five per cent of the sales tax revenue would come from 10 counties in Texas in which the largest cities are located."

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McGowan spent the week end visiting in Clyde and Baird.

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Underwood and son spent the week end visiting in Tolar.

THE STATE OF TEXAS: COUNTY OF CALLAHAN: I, Mrs. S. E. Settle, County Clerk and Ex-Officio Clerk of the Commissioners Court of said County do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the Quarterly Report of County Treasurer, covering period from July 1st, 1936, to and including September 30th, 1936, as appears from said original report on file, together with the foregoing order approving said Report.

Given under my hand and seal of office, at Baird, Texas, the 15th day of April A. D. 1937.

MRS. S. E. SETTLE, Clerk County Court, and Ex-Officio Clerk Commissioners Court, Callahan County, Texas

By STELLA GILLILAND, Deputy

County Agent's Column

No more beautiful nor more valuable piece of land can be found than that containing a well kept and sufficiently watered garden, whether it be flowers or vegetables.

In order that Callahan garden lovers may grow just that kind, the N.Y.A. boys have constructed some 2000 feet of garden tile under the direction of the county agent and it is being sold at only the cost of materials to any person needing it. The tile costs 2 cents per foot. If labor was paid for by the payer the tile would cost 5 1/2 cents. This tile is strong and heavy and will last indefinitely. 100 feet in a garden will supply all the tomatoes, carrots, and radishes, not to mention the beautiful flowers that will be needed, for a family of five. One line of tile xxxv v v vvvvvvxxxxxx line of tile will provide moisture for 6 feet of soil.

Dairy Cows Need Protein Supplement
Milk cows need a grain ration during the latter part of April, All of May and June are usually months during which we have our best pastures. However, good cows should have some grain feed, otherwise they will go down in flesh and later in milk production. Cows not giving more than two gallons will not need any grain on good pasture. The good cow should have 2 1/2 lbs. of grain mixture per day for each gallon of milk produced per day. The kind of grain mixture to use will depend upon the kind of feed available on the farm, and upon the kind of pasture. If the cows are grazing on green bermuda grass, mesquite grass or native grass, a good grain mixture would be:

150 lbs. ground ear corn or grain sorghum heads.
150 lbs. ground oats or barley.
100 lbs. cottonseed meal.
8 lbs. lime flour.
4 lbs. salt.

All dairy cows need plenty of mineral such as suggested on this ration.

May 15th Last Day For Soil And Range Sign-Up
The state Agricultural Conservation Committee has set May 15th as the last day on which to accept the sign up on work sheets for 1937, A.A.A. farm and range program. This allows 24 more days time for each farmer who has not entered the program to do so. It might be stated again that every farmer who signs a work sheet does not obligate himself to the terms thereof but places himself in position to comply if he desires to. If no work sheet is on file, even though the crop was ruined, by hail, insects, or floods, there would be no way that compliance could be made since the rules require the work sheets be on file by the closing date.

It might also be pointed out that one may enter the range program without entering the farm program or he may enter the farm program without entering the range program or he may enter both programs on the same farm. The range program is designed to help ranchmen eradicate mesquite, prickly pear, bull-dams and defer grazing on portions of the grass.

One-Third Allowance May Be Earned in Cash
Ranchmen who withhold grazing on one-fourth of the ranch lands from May 1 to November 1 may receive in cash one-third of the allowance set up for the ranch. This will enable the grass to grow high to seed and then re-seed the unsold portions of the pasture. Every ranchman knows that after November 1st he would have a real pasture then for wintering his cattle. The farm program insures a man against any of the risks known to farming.

Wright Tells About Trench Silos
Twenty-one 4-H club members from an enrollment of twenty-six met in regular session April 6th at 7:00 A.M. at the Opalin High School building. Three visitors, Olester Wright, Tomie Morse, and Loyd Steakley, were present.

After the roll call a discussion of projects was made. Milton Morse made an interesting talk on his Hampshire pig. He said he fed his pig a balanced ration by hand of 90 pounds ground maize, 5 pounds ground maize, 5 pounds cotton-seed meal, 5 pounds tankage, 2 pounds lime flour, 1 pound salt and that he was receiving a gain of 2 pounds per day.

Robert Boston made a talk on his Rhode Island Red chickens. He told about feeding them laying mash and unground maize and received 4 to 7 eggs per day from 8 hens. He also told about keeping the pens clean and keeping plenty of clean, cool water out at all times.

Olester Wright, who joined our club at this meeting, related the story of his fathers trench silo. He said the trench was about 5 feet deep, 12 1/2 feet wide at the top 10 feet wide at the bottom and 50 feet long. It was interesting to note that much of the silo was filled with maize stalks that had the heads removed before placing in the trench. These stalks were wet down with 3 barrels of water to every 5 loads of feed. When the silo was opened this winter the horses and cattle ate all the stalks, whereas they refused to eat the dried stalks that are in the stack.

Tommie Morse also enrolled as a club member and his project is wheat growing.

"FAIR WARNING" TO BE AT LIBERTY THURSDAY

When pretty Betty Furness and handsome John Howard Payne arrive simultaneously at the fashionable resort of Death Valley, love strikes at first sight, but at the same instant unseen death strikes, once, twice and again, in the thrilling Philip Wylie mystery story, "Fair Warning." Twentieth Century-Fox film adapted by Norman Foster, will be at the Liberty Theatre Thursday only.

A story of secret murder and sudden romance in Death Valley's millionaire playground, the film features J. Edward Bromberg as the world's most embarrassed detective, faced by a startling crime and just sure he can't solve a thing. Victor Kilian and Billy Burrud are featured in the cast, which includes eight millionaires, the latter guests of the resort which served as background for the story.

1937 Ford V-8

• If you think that "all low-price cars cost about the same" — forget it! They don't.

Ford makes a car — a 60-horsepower economy Ford V-8 — that sells from 30 to 60 dollars under the prices asked for any other car of comparable size. The lowest Ford prices in years!

Check delivered prices in your town and see for yourself.

• Of course, first cost doesn't prove "low cost" — you must consider operating cost also.

The "60" has definitely established itself as the most economical car in Ford history. Ford cars have been famous for economy for 34 years, so that means something!

Owners who have driven it thousands of miles report that the Ford "60" averages between 22 and 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

You can prove those figures — on the open road — in a car provided by the nearest Ford dealer.

• When you've finished your personal check-up, ask yourself:

"Do I want to save money the day I buy my car and every mile I drive it?"

"Do I want a safe, roomy, comfortable car of advanced design — created from the finest materials to the highest precision standards?"

There's only one answer, of course — the 1937 Ford V-8.

Ford V-8 $529 at Dealer's Factory. Prices. Transportation charges. Begin at $529. State and federal taxes extra. This price is for the 60-horsepower Coupe equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wipers, non-vision glass compartment, and ash tray.

$25 A MONTH, after usual down payment, lease any Ford V-8 Car, from any Ford dealer, anywhere in the U. S. — through Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Co.

BEAUTY'S DAUGHTER

By Kathleen Norris

Mrs. Herronden assured her daughter that she would be asleep in ten minutes and must be awakened in the morning—unless somebody'd bring me just the simplest breakfast?—but Vicky was not so fortunate. She lay awake most of the night trying to fit her mother into her so completely changed life. Wondering what would happen now, disturbed by a hundred vague impressions and fears of she knew not what. Her poor faded mother, so gallant in the laces and frills, the outworn, badly worn finery! There was no alternative; Mother must be made a guest of honor in this already crowded house for as long as she chose to stay. But even tonight's glimpse of her had made Vicky feel upset and unsure of herself.

"If I had any character I wouldn't do this!" she reproached herself. "Things always look different in the morning; nothing is as bad as it seems at night!"

She really knew very little of what her mother's life had been in the last ten or eleven years. Victoria had been too much absorbed in her own affairs to think much of her mother's, and Mrs. Herronden had not written very often. In the beginning, Vicky remembered, there had been a long, luxurious explanation, certainly not a confession, but there at least had been a long explanatory letter, gay and confident, unashamed, unapologetic. Magda and her Lucius had been in a lovers' paradise in Tahiti then, and their escape had seemed to them justified by their complete happiness.

After a year of that they had traveled, first to South America, and then to Europe, and finally had found themselves "divinely placed" in some tiny German town with Rosa taking care of them. "It costs us exactly nothing," Magda had written her daughter, "and that is the main consideration with beggars like ourselves! Lucius can point to his heart's content, and I can at last catch up on some reading and go on with my French, which these hectic years have sadly interrupted. Paris is near enough for an occasional spree."

That had been the last heard from Rothenberg. Just why or how this ideal arrangement had terminated Victoria never had known. But her mother's next letter had been from Biarritz, and not in that per in any subsequent letter had she ever mentioned that she had been with "delectable friends," or she had a "tiny ditzies" in Paris. In Florence, in Monte Carlo. And always the cramped note of money shortage had been there. Once she had been "selling darling Sibyl Hoderstrom's divine things—giving them away, rather!"—and more she apparently had some sort of agency for pos-excited she gave no sign of it. "That's Joe Younger—that stonny fellow with her," Quentin said, laughing down his glasses after a frank inspection. "By gosh, she is beautiful!"

"Oh, Quentin, you know him!" Vicky said eagerly, leaning forward in her old chocolate lace to have another look. "Couldn't you slip over and meet her?"

"No time now—I will in the next entr'acte!" Quentin whispered as the house lights fanned down and the footlights went up. But before the next act there was the familiar whisper in the back of the box. Vicky had resignedly expected it; it always came somehow when they were daring enough to go to the theater.

"Dr. Hardisty?" the whisper said in the dark. "The hospital on the telephone, Doctor. Dr. Bruce. He said it was urgent."

And then Quentin was groping in the gloom for his hat and coat, and off in full evening regalia for some hot, odoriferous, wild scream interrupted half way. It was too bad, but it wasn't the first time and wouldn't be the last. Vicky reminded her on other philosophical, when they were in the car going home.

"And lucky for you, too," Magda responded.

"Lucky?"

"Well, he was perfectly mad about that blonde woman, whoever she was. He was going over to that box just to meet her. But I thought you handled that very cutely, Vicky, Magda said.

"Handled what?" Vicky was genuinely amazed.

"Oh, saying she was lovely and you'd like to know who she was. That was smart, Vicky."

"There was nothing smart to that," Vicky laughed, in generous amusement. But she felt just a little chilled, nevertheless. A black breath of wind from an almost-forgotten country seemed to touch her cheek. "Quentin admires beauty," she presently said. "But that's as far as it goes."

"Just the same I'll bet you something, Vicky, that he finds out tomorrow who she is."

"Mother, you're incredible!" They were at home now, yawningly dragging themselves up the long stairs. "I'll bet you a chocolate bar that he never mentions her again!"

"They were in the house the following afternoon when Quentin came in to smile wearily at Keaty and Susan, who were chattering about in pajamas, and to discuss the products of the Argentine with Gwen. Magda was playing solitaire by the fire.

"Oh, listen, Vicky, remember the blonde Venus in the box last night? Quentin presently asked Magda looked up, and Vicky turned with a little color in her face from a minute inspection of Susan's reputedly burned finger. "She's an English Mrs. Harrison or Morrison or Robinson or something," Quentin said.

"I telephoned Joe Younger today—I wanted to ask him something about the golf club anyway. Her husband is an English officer attached to the foreign office or something—they left today for China." He fell to musing a half-smile on his face. "That was certainly one Quentin, you ought to—well, flirt with him!" Magda said.

"Flirt with my own husband?" "Something like that. Not flirt exactly, but—interest him," Magda said, a little at a loss for the exact words she wanted. "Keep him busy. Unless a man is kept busy he gets into mischief—especially a shiek like Quentin, with a voice all the women fall for."

"I don't know that all the women fall for his voice," Vicky said, unalarmed. "And as for keeping him busy, I don't know what would keep a man busy if an exacting profession, five children, four servants, a wife and an other don't!"

"Oh, Lord, not that kind of busy!" Magda scoffed. "I don't mean worrying about the furnace or if the new electric light bulbs came. And I don't mean curvatures of the spine, either. A man's got to have some play. Vicky, the sensible thing for a woman like you to do is to cut out all this nursery stuff, have a hair-do every week, get a new lipstick and some 'peau de jeunesse' and lie around in his morning's reading fashion magazines!"

"I don't know where you'd be today if you'd cut out all this nursery stuff!" Vicky wanted more than once to say good-naturedly. But she never did.

"Men have always liked me, and yet I've never had any character and I never do anything I don't want to do," the older woman explained simply. "I sleep late, I wander downtown in the afternoon to a movie; I never assume the slightest responsibility, and I am altogether unwise and idle and useless!"

In the beginning Victoria would laugh at such whimsicalities. But her mother had not been long her gest before she discovered that they were partly true; Magda really never did make any effort, or assume any responsibility, except to interest and please men. She would not be left alone at home at night with the children, even though they were all asleep in their beds. "One of them would do something on fire, and then you'd think I deliberately killed the lot!" she pleaded, and the mere suggestion of this calamity prevented Victoria from ever urging the arrangement.

For the rest, it was astonishing to discover that Magda's self-respect had suffered no whit by her long and exciting career.

In the beginning of the European experience, Lucius Farmer had become "strange." He had been a delightful person in Tahiti and Mallorca, but somehow southern Germany had affected him badly. "It wasn't his fault, but he didn't really have quality, Vicky," Magda explained it, generously. "He wasn't a gentleman; it simply wasn't there! Perhaps I was to blame for thinking that it ever was."

Victoria listened on, scrambling as she did so along the line of the sitting-room bookcases, taking out children's books, matching sets, stacking the volumes neatly. Now and then she sat back on her heels, smiling at her mother. Magda busy with a nail file and a tiny pair of scissors, occasionally in her turn raised her eyes from her hands and looked seriously at Vicky, while without anger or resentment she recounted the strange actions of Lucius Farmer. After all she, Magda had done for him, he had been unappreciative enough to desert her.

As the days went by, and Vicky found herself drawn more and more under her mother's influence, affected more and more by her mother's point of view, she found it increasingly difficult to maintain her own standing; the solid earth rocked a little sometimes beneath her feet. Poor faded Mummy with nothing to show for all the flattered, romantic years, the presents and the checks, the beautiful face and the beautiful gowns—Mummy couldn't be entirely right in her preposterous ideas and attitudes, but there were moments when Victoria felt unasily that perhaps she wasn't entirely wrong, either.

Mummy, for one very important thing, thought that having more than one or two children was a mistake. It was a forgivable mistake. "For you have them so easily, Vicky, and you do adore them so. But I tell you it's selfish. You'll lose him!"

Victoria felt that she could afford to laugh at this. According to Mummy every man between the ages of sixteen and eighty was interested in and reasonably pretty woman, anywhere, everywhere, at all times and seasons. No wife was safe!

But Magda was not to be laughed out of her position. She said thoughtfully: "Women must go crazy about him. He's stunning!"

"It's forty-three," Vicky laughed. "And he has a large family and the hardest surgery practice in the city."

"Forty-three. He's not at the dangerous age yet," Magda mused. "Is anyone specially crazy about him?"

"There's always some woman telephoning," Vicky answered unalarmed. "I know the signs. But he doesn't take them seriously."

Magda was hardly listening; her eyes were narrowed in speculation.

"I don't think any woman gets hold a man," Vicky submitted, comfortably relaxed in a big chair now, with her feet stretched out before her. "I don't believe any woman loses her husband because some other woman wants him," she submitted, beginning again. Her mother regarded her in astonishment.

"What do you think," Magda demanded.

"I mean I think the wife has lost him first," Victoria explained.

"Ah, yes, but it all depends upon what you mean by losing him," the other woman said. "It doesn't always mean that they're quarreling, that they've made up their minds to separate! It may mean that they've drifted apart—perhaps they don't realize it themselves—"

"Mother, do you really believe that all married women are waiting for affairs with other men to come along; that all married men have an eye out for other women—fresh, young women?" (Continued next page)

State Agricultural Leaders Meet With Farmers Of Oplin Area Saturday Night

Cliff Day, vice-president of the Texas Agricultural Association, and Andy Bourland, one time president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and a member of the State Cotton Board, during the earlier AAA met with the Oplin Agricultural Association Saturday night for an organization meeting.

R. L. Russell opened the meeting with few reminiscences of the days when he had known Oplin before it was dotted with farms but on the contrary was covered only in grass and a few mesquite trees. Bourland told the farmers that so far Texas has not done anything in the way of farm organizations to uphold the hand of the President in getting more for agriculture. He pointed out that for the lack of concerted effort among the cotton farmers that the rice growers, who control about one-fourth of as much land as the cotton farmers, receive one-third as much benefit checks as did the whole of the cotton growing section. The rice growers are organized to the man. The cotton growers have so far done nothing but take what's left.
