A. Spaniards, led by Lieut. Farmer Is Stabbing Victim

A verdict of suicide was rendered by Justice of the Peace, Joe Wilson in the fatal slaying of J. B. Cochran, 61, his farm home one mile west of Nimrod some time yesterday night.

Cochran and a brother, C. B., lived together for about 14 years, operating the farm on which the house stood. The brother died the body lying on a pallet in a southwest room of the house. He went to summon the dead to breakfast about 6:30 Monday morning.

There was a stab wound in the left hand and the outstretched hand a pocket knife, its two half inch blades stained with blood, lay just as if it had been used from grasp.

Cochran said that his brother had been ill and despondent over his condition for a long time. He was married but had lived with his wife in many places, the two brothers residing on the farm. C. B. was about years older than he.

Jim McMillan Resigns As Watchman

CHARLIE TAYLOR IS NAMED BY COUNCIL TO START MAY 1ST

Jim McMillan, night-watchman and City Marshall here for the past five consecutive years and a local peace officer for a much longer period, has tendered his resignation to the City Council to take effect May first. Charlie Taylor has been named as his successor.

Members of the city council last week agreed upon a retirement program, reducing salaries of several city employees. McMillan was out almost a third.

It was explained at the city office that reason for the deep retirement is that collections, both for taxes and utilities, are far below normal.

Charlie Taylor who is to become McMillan's successor is quite well known here having moved here three years ago from Colorado. He has been plying his trade as an electrician.

176 Aged Callahan County Citizens See Their Pleas For Pension Help Refused

There are 176 old people in Callahan County whose plea for old age assistance has been denied. In the entire State 68,432 have met a similar fate while no decision has been announced regarding 33,697 other applications. One person out of every three seeking relief has his or her application denied outright. Seven of every ten applications denied are because of "no reflected." These and many other interesting facts are contained in the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission's Analysis of Applications, Grants and Denials of March 31, 1937 which may soon be made public. Other enlightening facts revealed are: Harris County leads in the number of old people who have been denied old age assistance. The number disproved is 4,851 while the disposition of some 1,560 more has not been announced. Dallas County, with 6,832 has the largest number of approved applications but 1,981 have been denied and no decision announced in 1,188 cases. In the entire State 22,800 old persons have applied for pensions. Of this number 121,771 have been approved with 192,909 denied or still pending.

In several counties the number of denials exceeds the approvals. In this group are Austin, Bee, Irigola, Burnet, Duval, Harrison, Fayette, Gillespie, Jim Wells, Kennedy, Kleberg, Lampasas, McMullen, Scurry, Webb and several other counties.

In order to pay every person who has applied for old age assistance $13.00 per month, 12 months in the year, an outlay of forty million dollars will be required annually. Legislative leaders concede that no other source of revenue except a retail sales tax is capable of such productivity. A three per cent sales tax will yield $12,000,000 and a two per cent levy $28,632,000 annually. Strong opposition has developed both in the Legislature and among property owners throughout the State to apply the sales tax revenue exclusively to old age pensions. There are 375,000 home owners in the towns and cities and 185,000 owned farm homes, making a total of 558,000 home owners in Texas who outnumber the old age pension applicants two and one-half to one. These property owners will contend that a substantial part of any sales tax revenue be applied to reducing burdensome property taxes.

In High School Play

BILLIE GRAY

JANE RAE LOWE

Pictured here are three of the players appearing in "The Missing Witness," a courtroom melodrama to be presented by students of Cross Plains high school April 30, in the high school gymnasium. Miss Novalyn Price is director.

The play is said to be based on a real trial which was a newspaper sensation in New York several years ago. Color is lent to the presentation by the fact that James Beach, the author, was himself a top-notch reporter for several years and covered many famous trials for his paper.

Miss Price told the Review yesterday that proceeds from the play will be used to pay expenses of the annual Junior-Senior banquet.

MUST RAISE $2,500 TERM AS PER PLANS TO FINISH CURRENT

In the endeavor to raise $2,500 to conclude the present school term along budget plans, all interest and penalties are being remitted on delinquent school taxes for a limited time. Superintendent Nat Williams is making personal calls and had raised close to $1,000. up to noon yesterday.

Delinquent tax payers, it is pointed out, will confer a great favor upon the school district by making special effort to pay at least a part of the overdue obligation at this time.

The shortage of funds at Cross Plains is no different from hundreds of other districts in Texas, scores of which are in this immediate section. An extensive drive for the collection of back taxes is general over the state.

Tax collections here are reported to be at the lowest ebb in recent years, however, the action of the board of trustees in remitting interest and penalties is said to be having a very stimulating effect.

Due to the fact that it has been impossible to contact all delinquent tax payers, Nat Williams told the Review yesterday that he would be happy to send an itemized statement to anyone so desiring.

To curtail expenses at the local school T. M. Stutford, building superintendent, was laid off for the remainder of the year. Other retrenchment measures may be necessary, the Review was told.

$2,500 is necessary to conclude the fiscal year according to budget plans. To date Mr. Williams has collected about $1,000. of that amount.

Prizes of four theatre tickets were also presented to the following school children for their manifestation of interest and cooperation in the campaign: Billy Mack Smith, Adell Verda, Verda Marie Gray and Helen Huckaby.

COMPETITION FAILS TO DAUNT AMBITION OF NOVICE ACTRESS

Fresh out of dramatic school, no one realized better than Claire Tixer that, while New York was filled with theatrical companies, it was even more filled with attractive young women wanting to act.

Cast in her most interesting and diversified role this far, that of a woman lawyer in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Career Woman," at the Liberty Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday Claire reveals with a slight glimmer her Cook's Tours of theatrical agents' offices.

Knowing that finding work would be difficult for a novice, Claire carefully devised a background of experience in several stage plays, and probably would have gotten away with it, too, save for the unhappy accident of meeting the former director of one of the plays in her "experience."

Featured opposite Michael Whalen in "Career Woman," Claire plays a feminine lawyer, defending, in her first case, a downtrodden girl, portrayed by Isabel Jewell, against the bitter prejudices of her kind.

Also featured in the cast are Eric Linden, Virginia Field and Gene Lockhart. Executive Producer Sol M. Wurtzel selected Lewis Sells to direct with Milton H. Field associate producer. Lamar Trotti wrote the screen play based on a story by Gene Fowler.

RANCHMEN MEET AT BAIRD FRIDAY

One hundred ranchers are to meet at Baird at 10 o'clock Friday morning, April 30, with range inspector Everett H. Williams and County Agent R. B. Jenkins, to learn the details of the federal government's ranch program.

They will be given the method by which the grazing capacity of the ranch is determined and in the afternoon will actually visit the ranch and make their own estimates of the density and degree of vegetation found on the land. All the ranchers in Callahan County have been invited to the meeting.

May eighth has been designated as clean-up and beautification day for Pioneer cemetery, and all who have relatives and friends buried there are being urged to make plans now to come and work the entire day. The cemetery is reported to be in need of a thorough cleaning and it is the desire of the community to make one day suffice, the Review was told.

ZONE B. T. U. MEET AT COTTONWOOD SUNDAY

The B. T. U. of the Baptist church of the East Zone of Callahan County will meet at Cottonwood Sunday afternoon, May second at 2:30.

Cross Plains BTU will render the regular program as found in the quarterly of that day Patman will render musical and reading parts.

Spud Tatum and Daisy Marie Graves were Abilene visitors Sunday.

WILL DEDICATE NEW CHURCH AT BURKETT

Dedication services will be held Sunday morning at the newly completed Baptist church at Burkett. Luncheon will be served on the ground at noon. Guest speakers for the day will include Drs. M. E. Davis and Todd, of Howard Payne College in Brownwood.

"All former pastors, all who have contributed in any way and friends of the church are cordially invited to be present at the dedication observance," the Review was told.

Miss Fern Berry and mother of Hollywood California visited with Virgil Graves in Cross Plains Sunday.

VARNER RETURNS TO COTTONWOOD SCHOOL

H. S. Varner, dean of Callahan county school teachers, was elected to head Cottonwood schools next year by the board of trustees in session this week. His return to the Cottonwood system will mark the culmination of a year's absence from classrooms. Mr. Varner having taught in Callahan schools 21 years, is the oldest person in the profession in this county, from the standpoint of years of service.

Other teachers elected at Cottonwood for the ensuing year are: Vincent Leewright, I. L. Suddeth, Miss Edith Coppinger, and Mrs. Vincent Leewright if the enrollment justifies.

Miss Blanche Burkett, who taught in the primary grades at Cottonwood this year, resigned her position to accept a place at Denton.

COLEMAN GOFFERS COME HERE SUNDAY

Philippo goffers with a batting average of exactly .300 in the Mid Texas Golf Association will be host Sunday afternoon to an invasion of the Coleman country club maulie welders. Reports early in the week were that the Coleman county contingent would bring about 20 for the match.

In a meeting of the two clubs at Coleman two weeks ago, the locals lost by a score of nine to seven, however, several of Philippo's ranking players were absent from the line-up. This coupled with the fact that a team is always stronger on the home links is expected to give the domestics the necessary advantage for victory Sunday.

Claude Hammett, secretary and caretaker, has urged that every member of the local club turn out Sunday prepared to accommodate as many visitors as make the trip here.

ELECT LOCAL BOY DISTRICT OFFICER

At the district meeting of F. E. A. boys held at the Brownwood Junior high school building Tuesday night, Harold Barclay, of Cross Plains, was elected reporter of the district organization. Three local students and V. A. Underwood were the representatives of the Cross Plains Chapter.

Lost Your Check Book
What Of It?
There's no need for concern when you lose a check book—your funds remain in your bank account and your bank readily supplies another check book.

count at this bank. Carrying a check book instead of cash provides, in addition to safety, the convenience of making payment in the exact amount, the efficiency of complete records of each transaction, the protection of legal receipts for each payment, and the prestige that goes with paying by check.
If you haven't a checking account now, start one this Spring—it will assist you to progress faster.

JOAN CRAWFORD AND CLARK GABLE STARS
FOR SUNDAY'S FILM

Production of a Broadway musical comedy from the inception of its first chorus rehearsal is shown in intimate and colorful detail in "Dancing Lady," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular new picture which opens Sunday at the Liberty Theatre with Joan Crawford and Clark Gable co-starring.
First backstage scenes show all the jumble and confusion of preparing a big show, chorines practicing in sketchy costumes of all sorts, the stage here of scenery, principals and producers wrangling and tangling in temperamental rows. As the story unfolds the show is gradually whipped into shape and, eventually, the complete performance with gorgeous scenery and costumes is presented just as it would be in a big Broadway theatre.

BEAUTY'S DAUGHTER

By Kathleen Norris

Herronden's surprised stare sufficient answer. "But of course!" she said. "Vicky, look at them! They're all don't!" Vicky muttered, "I hate so much talk about it, and I hate the idea that it's the most important thing in the world!" Vicky presently said, with feeling, "But it is the most important thing in the world," her mother assured her seriously.

Victoria shook her head, frowning. She fell into thought, and her mother, idling in her favorite fashion on a couch beside the fire, was silent, too. Later that evening Victoria asked Quentin if he thought sex was so important.

"Sex?" he echoed in surprise. "I don't mean in youth, when flirting is natural and right. But afterward—does it have to go all through life, men tempting women and women tempting men to throw everything else over, decency and home and honor and obligation?"

"Often," the doctor said slowly. "It is that way. They tell me about it." "How do you mean, 'it is that way'?"

"I mean that a man who really loves his wife and kids, who is perfectly satisfied with his home life—'Perfectly satisfied!' the tame phrase affronted her, and she laughed. 'Well, perhaps what I mean is that his new affair has nothing to do with his—his organized life. He needs some woman who appeals to him tremendously—irresistibly—'Physically!' Vicky put in, scornfully, as he hesitated for a word. He accepted it simply, unsuspectingly."

"Yes, primarily that. She has some trick of using her eyes—some note in her voice, something that set him on fire just as definitely as if a fuse were lighted." There was a pause. Victoria was studying his face attentively. "Yes, but suppose all that," she presently said. "Grant all that! I—he then to tear up his whole life, kick his wife out, deprive his children of their father?" "It's usually the wife who does that, Vicky."

"A man might expect his wife to forgive him," Vicky said, after thought. "But then how would she know that it mightn't happen again?" "She wouldn't," Quentin said, widdly, unsmilingly. "Ha!" Vicky exclaimed, out of deep thought. Quentin laughed. "It would seem that it takes you by surprise," he observed.

"Well, it does. I've always felt—I've always hoped—that a man liked a woman for other things—her being sweet-tempered, and a good sport, and making him a comfortable home, and loving—" She stopped short in her catalogue so much in earnest that tears were near her eyes.

"He does, Vic. A man who has a wife like that is lucky, and he knows it. But that doesn't mean that—oh, well, that the look some woman gives him over her shoulder as she goes out of his office won't—won't stay with him for days." "Oh, Quentin!" Victoria exclaimed in surprise and dismay. And irresistibly she added, "Does that happen to you?"

"Sometimes!" The doctor admitted, laughing. "But—but there's no sense to it! Look what it leads to. Look at Mother, and so many others—the mess they make of it! In the end—in the end—" "In the end it's the Vicky who show them what fools they were," Quentin said, teasingly. "Quentin, have you—since we were married, I mean—ever had that feeling about any other woman?"

"I'd tell you if I had, would I?" "I think you would." "Well, I don't know but that I would! I believe you'd be very understanding about. You'd pity the sinner and forgive the sin. But a man with five kids, another coming, a new stove to put in, bills unpaid, and an operation at eight to-morrow morning has a swell chance at that sort of thing!" Quentin yawned. "I'd be afraid of your mother, anyway," he laughed.

CHAPTER VIII
Serena, wife of Spencer Ashley George Morrison, was by birth part English and part Dane; she had been married to this, her third husband, for only a few years, and was in her early thirties when the Morrises came to California in search of sunshine and health. Not that Serena herself was not glorious in health and strength, and her child, Gita, seven years old, as strong as a little bullock, but her husband had been seriously injured in a hunting accident and would never be whole and well again.

There was a good income somewhere. The little family could afford to choose what place and what climate it preferred. Menlo Park—some eighteen to twenty miles down the peninsula from San Francisco—finally had seemed to be the ideal place, and they had bought the Tracy house, right next door to Dr. Quentin Haristy's big place, in the week when Madeleine Haristy was a year old.

Spacious, plain, comfortable, the Morrises' residence was quite new, and lovely in plastered Spanish patios, tiled ornaments of shaping roof, oaks, peppers, roses, flagged paths, Little Gita Stewart the three laughed together. Then Phyllis went away, and Victoria could study at her ease the extraordinary beauty of the flower-like face in the clear shadow of the parasol. Exquisite womanhood; those were the two words that Serena suggested.

There was a silence filled with faint distant sounds and the click with flowers; there were stretches of green lawn beneath the trees; the sun shone warmly. "There, who's that?" Serena suddenly asked, with the first sign of animation in voice and manner that Vicky had seen her.

"Which one?" "The brown man—the square one, in white. With that other man." "That's my husband—Dr. Haristy," Vicky said, pleased at her interest. "Run get him, Gita—yes, go along, Susan, you can go!" "Your husband?" Serena asked, not moving her eyes from the distant figures of the men.

"Yes—well, trot along with them, Kenty," Vicky said bracingly. "Don't cry because they're ahead of you, Quent," she added welcomingly, as he came up with the children hanging on his hands, "we're all ready to go—we'll be just in time!"

Quentin and Mrs. Morrison were looking at each other, smiling. "You'll have to introduce me, Vicky." "Oh, I do beg your pardon! I always think that everyone knows everyone else. Mrs. Morrison, my husband, Dr. Haristy, Quentin, do you remember who this is?" "I do," Quentin said, smiling down at Serena, his white teeth and white clothes in almost startling contrast to the Indian brown of his face and skin. Serena looked up from the lavender shadows of the white parasol that was slowly turning behind her golden braided head. "You were on your way to China?"

"It was before my husband's accident—yes, we had a wonderful trip!" the woman said, smiling lazily with sea-blue eyes, raising heavy dark gold lashes. "And they're neighbors," Vicky told him. "They are the people in the Tracy place?" "Next door?" Quentin's face broke again into his own pleasant smile.

"You have six children?" The beautiful voice could not be said to have even a trace of Norse accent, and yet there was a charming little lilt in Serena's words now and then, a slight clinging and lingering that marked her as not all English-born.

"She always tells everyone that instantly," Phyllis said. "I have. And they make it hard for me ever to get away." "But do come and see me. Except for Phyllis here," Serena said, completely expressionless in voice and face, "I am quite strange in California."

"We were in school in Paris together, Serena and I, but I didn't know they were here until last week!" Phyllis explained. "If you know Phyllis you know everybody; she's the special minister between Europe and America," Victoria said. "We were in the 'Assomption' in Rome together, too, but we had known each other before that."

"You were at the 'Assomption'?" How I hated it!" Serena said, in her calm, emotionless way. "Gallo coming to take us driving on Sundays," Phyllis put in, and

Mrs. W. J. Gray and Mrs. George E. Scott were Clyde and Baird visitors Sunday.

Mrs. Bob Bryan and daughter of Corsicana spent the past week here visiting her husband.

County Agent's Column

4-H Pig Club to Meet Saturday

The 4-H boys who intend to grow pigs this year as their 4-H project will meet with the county agent at 2:00 p.m. Saturday afternoon to draw up plans and discuss details of that program. A pig club boy is required to accomplish a definite number of steps in the development of his program.

Every boy must select a credible pig and grow it out. All boys that intend to receive credit for the year's work will grow a Hampshire gilt; will be able to show her in September at the first annual pig show to be held at Baird. Each boy will build a hog pasture and plant in it sudan or peas, he will build a water trough and a slop trough. This work is to be done during the Spring and Summer. In the Fall he will plant oats, barley, wheat or rape for pasturage. He will build a self-feeder. His gilt will be bred in November. He will feed the required ration to his pig. He will farrow the litter then raise the litter to weaning time. In addition to that the club boy will grow a sufficient amount of surplus grain feed to feed out the litter.

Some boys are feeding grade pigs at this time but will soon sell them out in order that they may purchase the pig according to the other members of the club. Until, at least, 20 boys are growing Hampshire no other breed will be grown but as soon as 20 boys desire any other type of hog that one will be voted upon and grown but it is necessary to have this number in each club in order that a registered boar may be kept for each type grown.

Fallow Land in Lieu of Soil Conserving Crops

Many farmers do not have land so situated where the planting of sudan grass or other crops can be of much value to them and have asked if some other plan might not be found whereby they could comply with the 1937 program without the planting of an excessive amount of soil conserving crops. A recent ruling from the State Board now enables a farmer to plant grain sorghums in strips with fallow strips in between of not less than ten feet in width and receive credit for the fallow strips in place of sudan, peas, or other soil conserving crops. Many farmers are planning to plant two rows of maize then skip four three feet rows which will be slightly over ten feet between the growing crop and thereby take advantage of the fallow strip. This strip will be kept clean of vegetation during the year but as some have pointed out these two rows will make far more grain than any other feed planted otherwise.

Some Farmers Have Misunderstood

the classification of saccharine and non-saccharine sorghums. If maize, feterita, ajax, or Jerusalem wheat is used as a soil conserving crop it must be planted solid or broadcast but if saccharine sorghums which include amber, red top, and orange are planted they may be grown in rows. All of the crop of the above mentioned, however, must be left on the ground and plowed under. They cannot be grazed, hauled, nor cut for forage. Sudan grass may be planted in rows or broadcast and it may be 1937 signers in line for application for a grant. Mr. Foster expects better than 700 farmers to be included in the sign up by the time the dead line is reached, May 15th.

Farms are to be Mapped

All farms that have been signed on a work sheet for 1937 will be measured by the government starting May 1st. The men who will carry out this program are John White, C. E. Burwell, Clifton Thomas, and B. P. Pillars who will be responsible for drawing and making the maps and this work will be done under the supervision of James C. Asbury, who is the supervisor for the county. These maps will be plane table measured according to the army style and will be very accurate and of great value to the farmers. Mr. Asbury acquired the necessary information relative to this work while in the army. All the men attended school at Breckenridge Wednesday and Thursday of this week in which minute details were given on how the work is to be done.

County Committee in Session

The Callahan County Committee composed of Steve Foster, Chairman, Lester Farmer and Chas. D. Straley are in session this week end and will be probably for the next two weeks making the necessary adjustments and placing the new

PIONEER

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Lawrence and daughter, Mary Frances, Geneva Rose Marshall and Beatrice were Brownwood visitors Thursday.

Mr. and J. F. Hassel entertained the F. E. A. boys with a party at their home Friday evening. Each boy invited a guest. The evening was spent playing games and roasting winners and marshmallows.
