TO SPUD BY FIRST OF FEBRUARY 1938 IF BLOCK SECURED

If efforts to block acreage North of town prove successful, Cross Plains will get a 4,000 foot oil test in the vicinity of the Vestal gusher, which caused wide excitement in the early twenties. J. V. Howell, of Wichita Falls, who is blocking the acreage, told the Review yesterday that if the desired tracts are obtained he will drill to the Ellinger or 4,000 feet. The test would be the first to that depth in this immediate section, with the exception of the old Vestal well which quickly went to the bad after producing nearly 20,000 barrels in only a few days. If the block is completed drilling is to begin on or before February 1, 1938, according to lease agreements being worked up. Asked where he planned to make location of the well, Mr. Howell said: "I have no more idea about that than you do, we will secure the services of an outstanding geologist and abide by his recommendations. I can only tell you it will be somewhere in the vicinity of the original Vestal test." Virtually all land owners in the block had agreed yesterday to enter into the agreement. There are, however, a few minor irregularities to be ironed out before the test will be assured.

Local Methodist Church Sends Pastor To Conference With Splendid Record

Cross Plains Methodist church wound up the fiscal year this week with all salaries and benevolences paid, the first perfect record in a good many years. Rev. and Mrs. P. L. Shuler left Wednesday morning for the Central Texas conference in session at Fort Worth, where he will be a delegate with a lay-delegate from the Cisco district. Contacted by the Review a few minutes before his departure the Rev. Mr. Shuler said: "I am indeed happy to be going to conference as the pastor of a church with such a record as Cross Plains Methodist has been able to make this year. I am deeply appreciative of the fine support of every member and the entire community."

HOG THIEVES WILL FACE TRIAL MONDAY IN COURT AT BAIRD

Judge Milburn S. Long, Tuesday recessed 42nd district court until Friday morning, after hearing 14 criminal cases this week. The cases follow: Joe Brooks of Oplin was acquitted of a charge of cattle theft. The jury was out only 15 minutes before returning a verdict of not guilty. M. W. Copeland of Big Spring was found guilty on each of eight forgery charges. He was sentenced to two years in each, with the terms to run concurrently. He will be returned to Big Spring to face other charges of forgery. Edward Willingham of Ranger was found guilty of burglary and given a three-year suspended sentence. Willie Ellison, negro from Caldwell county, was found guilty of theft and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Carl Mauer of Baird sentenced two years for theft. Luciano Mindez, Putnam Mexican, given two-year suspended sentence for driving while drunk. His driving privileges were revoked for six months. Ted Winn of Baird was given a one-year suspended sentence for chicken theft. The case of O. W. Killman of Durant, Okla., who is charged with robbery, was continued until the next regular term of court. A hog theft case will be heard Monday. Charged with the theft of two hogs from Ed Henderson's farm three miles west of Cross Plains are W. C. Freeman, N. F. Freeman and Leo Welch.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION ... Once again the time has come for our community to demonstrate its concern for maintaining a very necessary part of our civic welfare program. The work maintained by the Cross Plains Chapter of the American Red Cross. It is not necessary for me to remind citizens of our community that the work of the Red Cross is a vital contribution to our community welfare. We have all seen, during the past year, how effective Red Cross work is, both from the standpoint of the year-round program and that done during times of great national emergency. Perhaps never before has the work of this great national agency been so universally endorsed as in this year during the gigantic relief operation in the devastated floods in the Ohio and Mississippi River valleys. It was a great work, done in an efficient manner, and truly deserves our most sincere commendation. Our community, I am pleased to say, carried its full share of the responsibility for making this great relief work possible, through contributions of our citizens. The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, through which such fine work is supported, is from November 11 to Thanksgiving Day. Memberships enrolled during that time will support the work for the year ahead of us. The Red Cross asks little from the community, yet contributes much to the general welfare of our people. It gives me great pleasure, as mayor of Cross Plains, to set aside the designated period as the time when all members will be asked to renew their memberships and those who have not enrolled before are urged to add their names to the ranks of Red Cross members in our community. (Signed) S. P. Collins, Mayor

CROSS PLAINS WINS FROM COLEMAN 6-0 HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

SYNOPSIS
Before she leaves to spend a winter in France, Anne Vinco tells her adopted daughter, Rachel, that Rachel's mother was a girl named Elinor Mallory, before marriage to Rachel's father, who was killed in the World War. Anne goes to New York, where she meets Anne in person. After Anne leaves for her job, Rachel, bent on seeing her mother, looks up her number. Rachel learns the Caynes are in town. Pink takes Rachel to dinner at Tom and Rhoda's where she meets Oliver, a shabby genteel young man of work who suggests that she go for a job as a photographer's model for advertising illustration, and to introduce her to the manager of an agency. Rachel is so fondly believing her mother would not have left home, she is not entirely happy with Pink Matthews. Her detour to see Elinor Cayne increases when Oliver Land she meets Vincent, is hired as a photographer on an assignment. Rachel is so fond of Vincent, a young man that he is a country newspaper man spending a year in New York. For experience he takes a job of different jobs, planning to return home later to edit his father's paper. That evening she receives flowers from her mother. Mrs. Cayne's name is rebuffed because she does not give her name. Rachel reveals that Vincent received an inquiry from a private detective for a girl to go into a family and act as lady's maid. She is amazed when she learns the name is Cayne. Without revealing her relationship, she gets Vincent to persuade Vincent to let her see Terriss, the detective.

down with them in the kitchen.
"Anything happened since I went out?" Rachel asked casually, sip-ping her coffee.
"Nothing special. The family's out to dinner and going to the theater. There now, I forgot to turn back the beds, you always doing it, Rachel, puts it out of my mind."
"I'll do it," said Rachel. "Sir still, Mr. Towers. I'll do it right off."
She hurried through the work in the rooms of the elder Caynes, but in Holbrook's she lingered, looking round it carefully, wondering when and how she should begin the promised search. The desk, she must go through that, and the bookshelves.
"I suppose I ought to open everything, I could pretend to be dusting"—the dresser, the high chest where the boy kept his huge collection of shirts and ties and fancy pajamas, the night table, drawer, behind the pictures—there's nowhere else, yes, I'll turn up the rug and tear the bed to pieces. Oh, it is comic, it's crazy. And it's horrible."
On an impulse she ran a finger behind each picture, her reward was streaks of dusty grime on her hand and a slight relaxing of her apprehensions. Nothing but dust.
But she could make that an excuse to give the room an ostensible cleaning. Towers would be glad to have her take that duty, the old chap wasn't very brisk, he didn't see distinctly but hated to wear his glasses. Mrs. Cayne went to the beauty establishment on Friday for limbering and general massage, a facial, a shampoo and wave set, and usually had a few extras, a pedicure or a change in the color on her nails, or an elbow oil-bath.
Those took time and would give Rachel an opportunity provided young Holbrook also went out. No one could predict his vagaries, he liked to lie in bed until noon, with his radio going, or playing his phonograph. On other days he went out early and stayed late. His habits were regular only in irregularity.
The next morning, though he didn't go out very early, Holbrook did leave the apartment about eleven and told Towers that he wasn't coming in for lunch, whereupon Rachel, with Towers' permission, went into the room with a full array of cleaning implements and set to work. She pushed a chair against the door to guard against too sudden interruption and first searched the bed. Under the springs she found the same sort of dust as behind the picture frames, but nothing more. Then she took the night table, but its one drawer held nothing but an extra handkerchief, two Parisian photographs, a flashlight, a lead pencil and a trick box made of an old book and opened by a hidden spring. Rachel had seen such boxes before and knew how to open them. This one revealed a flask of Mr. Cayne's best whisky.

"The brat," thought Rachel, replacing this treasure.
Now she attacked the dresser, dumping out the contents of each drawer, putting everything back in order. Holbrook's underwear, in color and variety, was something to marvel at. He favored lavender and pastel green, everything was silk, custom-made. There was so much it took time to handle. Rachel glanced at the clock. Better get done with the more suspicious jobs, if he came in she didn't mind being found cleaning the closet or the books. So she went at the desk.
This took longer, but not so long as she had feared, for it held little but writing paper, many sorts, to be sure, with various styles of monograms and addresses, and books of sketches and a few harmless old letters and invitations and lists of art exhibitions. Rachel ran these through and stuck them back. There was no account book, but behind a sheaf of florid correspondence cards she found several unpaid bills. She noted the shops, the date and amount of purchases and put these back too.

PROP MEN BURN AS PRESIDENT SMOKES

At a meeting of President McKinley's Cabinet for a sequence in "This is My Affair", the Twentieth Century-Fox film starring Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, which opens Saturday midnight at the Liberty Theatre, the property department had to supply 38 hand some cigars for the Chief Executive.

Because the President, played by Frank Conroy, was required to smoke constantly throughout the meetings which consumed three film days, a number of cigars were needed for each "take."

This bit of "business" was added to the film about a dramatic episode in the nation's affair after Alvin Karpis and Lamar Trotti, who wrote the original screen play, discovered in their wide research that McKinley was an inveterate smoker.

B. Varner Saves Hogs With Mineral

One month or so ago Mr. W. B. Varner of the Cottonwood community began notifying that his hogs were making the gains and becoming nervous. Soon one hog got down with some kind of ailment in his hind quarters. Since an outbreak of cholera checked in that community Mr. Varner feared that his hogs might be subject to the disease. He wrote the county agent a letter telling of the ailment of his hogs and stated he had fed some of them a mineral lye. He further stated that this hog so fed seemed to have recovered for a few days then died. Since these are symptoms that go along with cholera the county agent advised that rather than vaccinate for cholera that they feed containing bone meal, flour and salt. The ration recommended was 50 lbs. of corn, maize, or barley, 10 lbs. of cottonseed meal, and 5 lbs. of tankage, if no milk is available. Milk will take the place of tankage. To this 100 pounds of feed should be fed, at least, one pound of bone meal or lime and one pound of salt. Mr. Varner phoned a veterinarian and was told that he could not give the opinion that it was cholera deficiency rather than cholera. Accordingly a sack of mineral was purchased and the hogs were turned out of the pen and allowed to range over some green grass pasture. Dr. Frank Porter, a hog cholera specialist of the county agent last week together they made a visit to the farm of Mr. Varner and found that the hogs had fully recovered and were not being bothered with the weakness in their hind quarters and were eating well.

Some farmers have come into the county agent's office this year complaining that their hogs had been affected above as indicated above. In some cases the county agent has advised that if some bone meal, mineral is supplied that the hogs will rapidly return to normal. There is little danger of cholera outbreak if the farmers trade for hogs from other areas but if hogs are purchased they should be vaccinated and all hogs on the farm against cholera as a precaution that should be overlooked.

Type Farm Meetings
 Department of Agriculture and the Extension Service of these United States to the farmers a new type program in which the farmer's side of the question of agricultural situation is satisfactory. These programs are finished by November 20th. In them the county agents and the home demonstration agents have been given some very pertinent facts that the farmers everywhere are interested in knowing. These discussions are naturally leading up to the new 1938 program that is expected to be released about December 1st. Part of these programs will have been discussed by the time this paper is printed at Denton and Eola. On November 12th, Friday night, a meeting will be held at Midway and all farmers in that section and their wives are especially invited to attend. On Tuesday night, November 16th, a like meeting will be held at Putnam. Thursday night the last of these meetings will be held at Opdell. All meetings will begin at 7:00 o'clock P. M.

Mr. Virgil Underwood, vocational agriculture teacher at Cross Plains will assist the county agent in that section of the county and will hold three meetings, one at Cottonwood, one at Cross Plains, and one at Dressy. Mr. Underwood attended a training meeting held at Baird Saturday, November 6th, and will take the same type of program as is being given in the other communities to the farmers of that section. Vocational teachers are as interested in the farming trends as are the Extension Service employees and cooperate wherever their services can be used. At the same time they will be able to help the county agent get the information to the farmers within the time prescribed, November 20th.

Wild Life Preservation
 Some months ago a group of ranchmen and farmers who had become conscious of the value of birds to their farms circulated several petitions over the county which received many signatures of men of the same thinking and placed this petition before the Legislature which acted upon it by passing a law prohibiting quail being shot in Callahan County for the next three seasons. Along the same line the county agent started the new demonstration that is being sponsored by the Extension Service. It is known as Game Preserve Demonstrations in cooperation with the state and natural wildlife conservation forces. Almost 100,000 acres have now been signed up by the various farmers and ranchers in the county in order that people may know that they are protecting their wild game. Many of these have purchased markers which the county agent has been able to have made at 25 cents per board. Some have asked when does this demonstration end or if it can be entered into now. These demonstrations are continuous. When one places his membership in the Wildlife Association he is a member until he withdraws. It is a continuous and growing association and designed to grow until every owner and tenant in the county is a member. It should be apparent that this organization does not intend to prevent hunting and fishing on the lands of this county but that such wildlife as we now have will be protected from unscrupulous, unsportsmanlike hunters until a sufficiency has been grown so that when friends do go out to hunt they will find game in abundance but will be cautioned to leave plenty for the next year's crop.

 More than ninety millions of dollars are being realized by the farmers and ranchmen of Texas yearly from hunting and fishing fees plus the amounts received for pelts of the fur bearing animals. These men selling hunting rights value such as any other portion of their crops and it is the aim of the Association to foster this understanding among all men so that good fishing and hunting may come back to our lands and stay when it gets back. If you are not a member of this Association you are most cordially invited to become one. It costs nothing to cooperate with your neighbors.

The LETTER BOX
 I haven't started playing a banjo, or making talks over the radio yet, but I was just reading Aubra Dodson's column in the Cross Plains Review, which was headed, "solons ridicule pension session by playing dominos on the floor of house." And that awful; the way those Representatives does? Yeah—and to think of those harled, fellows trying to take the circus tickets away from the little children. Beside playing dominos on the floor of the house, when they could have borrowed a table. Aubra Dodson mentioned a few soft drinks such as cocktails and liquor, which reminds me of the time that my cousin Step and Half and I had twelve bottles of liquor in his cellar and his wife made my cousin and I empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink, so we proceeded to do as his wife desired and withdrew the cork from the first bottle, poured the contents down the sink with the exception of one glass, which I drank.

He extracted the cork from the third bottle, emptied the booze down the bottle, except a glass, which he drank. I pulled the cork from the fourth sink and poured the contents down the glass when I drank some.

He pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it and threw the rest down the bottle.

I pulled the sink out of the next cork and poured the bottle down the contents, all but one drink, which I sink.

He pulled the bottle from my throat and poured the sink down the bottle and drank the cork.

When he had them all empty and I steadied the house with one hand he counted the bottles, which were twenty-four, so I counted them and I had seventy-four, and as the houses came around we counted them and finally we had all the houses and bottles counted and we proceeded to wash the bottles, but I couldn't get the brush in the bottles, so he turned them inside out and washed and wiped them all, we then went upstairs and told his wife the other half about what I did, and oh boy! he's got the wife. I'll nice in the world.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES COMPANY
EVERY MAN WHO EVER LOVED HIS FAMILY—is invited to participate in this $40,000 NATIONAL CONTEST
 ON THE
Electrical Standard of Living
HAVE YOU ever thought how little the Pilgrims actually had for which to give thanks? How infinitely more blessed are we of today! But it was those brave souls who, through love for home and family, made Thanksgiving Day a national institution—a day for reflection on our domestic bliss. And our blessings have increased year after year until 1937 finds many thousands of West Texans possessed of all-electric homes... enjoying the Electrical Standard of Living. It is a mode of life—comfort and ease—undreamed by the Pilgrims. Its adoption has been swift in West Texas, so swift that this Thanksgiving finds a larger percentage of West Texans living in electrical security than do average Americans. We live better because every man who ever loved his family has sought to provide the advantages of Electric Service.

and advanced the leather to Coleman's eight. From that point Hall picked up three and then Flahie bruised through center for the remaining five and center for the winning touchdown. Childs' attempt to convert from placement was barely wide.

Then, in the last period, Coleman made two stats that nearly tied the score. After advancing to the 12 yard line on one series, the Bluecoats were held on four successive plunges by the Cross Plains line.

As the game ended, Coleman had just completed a 38 yard pass that put the ball on Cross Plains' 14 yard stripe. Coleman led in first downs 9 to 6, Cross Plains gained 162 yards rushing against 124 for the Bluecoats. The visitors threw 13 passes, had one intercepted, and completed three for 50 yards. Cross Plains threw three incomplete passes.

Best man on the field for Coleman was Gideon, tailback James Hall played a good backfield game for the Buffaloes, with Usery outstanding in the line.

Home Town Gossip

It is about an even bet than any stranger you see in town the next few days will be a new Methodist pastor for one of the churches in the trade area. Cottonwood, Seranton, Burkett, Cross Cut, Pioneer, Victoria, Dressy, Burnt Branch, and Cross Plains each received a new Methodist pastor.

WACO MINISTER IS SENT HERE; SHULER GOES TO ALVARADO

Cross Plains trade territory received a shower of new Methodist pastors this week, when assignments were announced by the Central Texas Conference in session at Fort Worth. All changes were being made this week and newly appointed pastors are to be in their respective pulpits Sunday morning.

Rev. Floyd Thrash comes to the West End church at Cross Plains, replacing Rev. P. L. Shuler who is transferred to Alvarado. The Rev. Mr. Thrash comes here from the West End church at Waco. He is not unknown in Cross Plains, having conducted a revival meeting at the Pioneer Methodist church two years ago.

The Pioneer charge, composed of Cottonwood, Victoria, Burnt Branch and Pioneer, will be served by Rev. Lloyd Sanders, Supply. He succeeds Rev. Raymond M. Burton who was transferred from the Cisco district to the Waco district and will pastor the Big Hill and Ben Hur churches.

From Hamill comes word that Stanley Carmichael is still going with her husband despite the tightening letter concerning the second benedict's character and reputation, mailed her by about 30 dependable citizens of this up-and-coming little city.

A nice little quib we had written appear in this column concerning Star's marriage was lost last week when printers crowded this department out of the paper. Cautious, we believe one of the boys was really sympathetic.

Tele Gray and Wilda McClain, who embarrassed more than a little yesterday morning when their motor car attracted a sizable audience. With beautiful girlish bluntness they finished the task hurriedly, never, it is rumored confidentially that several articles were snatched from the "dummy" at the time.

One of the best football games class B gridiron is to be played Friday afternoon, when the powerful Putnam Panthers, comparative dope stacks even but the guess is that the county seat eagles will emerge victorious by very narrow margin. Being athletic, however, Nat Williams is spot you a few points.

Joe and Joe McAdams returned Tuesday night from Dallas, where they attended a premier showing of 28 model Fords. The new cars are expected to go on display in Cross Plains about December fourth, this column learned yesterday.
