EXPERIMENT FARM ASKED FOR AREA

THIS CITY MIGHT BE LOCATION FOR 5 COUNTY PROJECT

Possibilities were boomed this week for the establishing of an agricultural experiment farm for the sandy belt—perhaps near Cross Plains—by the state government. The farm would be secured by five counties and be placed under the supervision of Dr. A. B. Conner, of the A&M College experimental station.

A delegation of citizens from this locality, including: Charles F. Hemphill, of Cross Plains; Fred Roberts, M. O. Hood and C. O. Wilcox, of Rising Star; and Chester Harrison, of Brownwood; met before committees of the House of Representatives and Senate, at Austin, Tuesday, and are reported to have received favorable consideration from both bodies for the establishing of the farm. Mr. Hemphill pointed out to the Review in an interview Wednesday night that the measure would have to be approved by both houses and by the governor before a definite toward the farm would be made.

The five cooperating counties would collectively purchase a suitable tract of land containing 200 acres, to be turned over to the experimental department of A&M. A model farm would be established with laboratories and scientific equipment to determine the potentialities and most suitable crops for the various types of sand.

ASTOUNDING HOAX ENDS IN TRAGEDY

One of the most sensational hoax kidnapping cases is pictured in Damon Runyon's amazing story, "Million Dollar Ransom," coming to the Liberty Sunday for three days.

While all persons of wealth and prominence are taking extra precautionary measures to insure themselves and their families against the ruthless means employed by racketeers today, here is the highly unusual instance of a young millionaire who voluntarily has himself kidnapped.

What happens when this hoax is discovered by a gang of unscrupulous men and when they turn it into the real thing, makes this film one of the outstanding ones of the year, full of intrigue and daring. "Million Dollar Ransom" is coming to the Liberty Theatre Sunday.

B. H. FREELAND ATTENDS COMMISSIONERS PARLEY

B. H. Freeland, County Commissioner from this precinct, attended the regional meeting of County Judges and Commissioners at Brownwood, Friday and Saturday of last week. Mr. Freeland's chief object in attending the convention he told the Review, was "to get first hand information on the federal relief program and projects which might be put into use here."

Porter J. Davis was a business visitor in Coleman Tuesday evening.

J. F. Kelly Jr. visited his father in Fort Worth Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Underwood of Nimrod visited here Saturday.

School And City Votes Arouse Little Interest

TRUSTEE ELECTION WILL BE HELD HERE SATURDAY; ELECT 2

Two school trustee places will be filled at the annual election to be held here Saturday. Voting will take place in the Anderson Chevrolet Company. Candidates, who had been duly nominated Wednesday night were E. I. Vestal, W. J. Carpenter, both for reelection and Jeff Clark. Two are to be elected.

The Review was told, however, that the "ticket" would not be closed until Friday at noon and that other candidates might possibly be nominated.

Citizens from the Sabanno district will be transported to the polls here by school bus.

Interest in this year's election is regarded by those familiar with the situation, as slightly below average. As in past elections, however, there may be a last minute display of enthusiasm and F. R. Anderson, election judge, is making plans to accommodate a record vote with accuracy and efficiency. Results will probably be available shortly after the polls close.

RECORD LIGHT VOTE CAST HERE TUESDAY

In one of the lightest votes ever polled in a municipal election here, T. D. Little was unanimously elected to the City Council Tuesday. He was unopposed. Only 24 votes were cast. All were for Mr. Little. The balloting was held in Anderson Chevrolet Company, with F. R. Anderson and C. S. Martin serving as election judges.

'BORROWED MONEY' IS SCHEDULED TONIGHT IN COTTONWOOD 'GYM'

The Kottonwood Comedy Klub will present, "Borrowed Money", a three act comedy at the Cottonwood gymnasium, Friday night, April 5. Music between acts will be furnished by a string band from Cross Plains.

Those having parts in the play are: Mrs. Sam Moore, Mrs. Norman Coffey, Mozelle McElroy, James Strahan, John Ivy, Mrs. Leo Thompson, Junior Ivy, Wyatt Robinson, Leo Thompson, Juanele Sparks, Edith Coppinger, Miss Missouri Strahan, Mrs. Thelma Peavy and Miss Hazel Respess.

There will be a small admission charge.

EMMARIE HEMPHILL ELECTED SECRETARY COLLEGE BODY

Miss Emmarie Hemphill, who is attending Daniel Baker College, Brownwood, received a majority votes over her two opponents for the office of secretary of the student body, in a recent election.

Miss Hemphill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hemphill of Cross Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Don McCall, Elizabeth and Martha Nan McAdams, Moreland Baldwin, Cheryl Lutgens, Jimmie Settle and Bobbie Westerman attended a choral club contest in Breckenridge Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Cutbirth, Mrs. Howard Farmer, Mrs. Otho Lydia and daughter of Baird were visitors here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burgin had as their guests over the week end Mr. Burgin's brother and wife of Lometa.

LOCAL ACTORS DEFEY JINX TO WIN SECOND IN "BRECK" TOURNAY

"They're troupers, three Cross Plains high school students who represented their school in the one act play tournament at Breckenridge, Saturday.

Although it was the first appearance on the stage for one member of the cast and an early exhibition for the three others they defied "jinx" and experienced acting to win second place in the eight county competition.

Just before time for them to "go on" Miss Novalyn Price, the director, became critically ill with acute indigestion and had to be rushed to a Breckenridge hospital, yet the cast—Dixie Little, Jenna Laura Jackson, Jimmie Settle and Melvin Plaek—went through the parts as though every mannerism was being tutored. When the curtain fell they had not only won second place in the eight county competition but Melvin Plaek, in his stage debut, had copped second place in the best performance for male actors and Miss Dixie Little had taken third in the feminine division.

First place went to Breckenridge, Cross Plains took second and Eastland third. Other schools competing were: Mineral Wells, Knox City, Moran, Dublin and Throckmorton.

MANTON WARREN IS BURIED WEDNESDAY

Manton Warren, about 41, was laid to rest in the Belle Plaine cemetery Wednesday afternoon. He died after an extended illness at a Baird hospital Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Joe R. Mayes, Baird Baptist pastor.

Mr. Warren, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Warren of near Burnt Branch, was a world war veteran. He suffered an attack of typhoid fever in the Fall and never completely recovered. He is survived by his wife, his mother and father, and three sisters and three brothers.

STANLEY CLARK MADE GOODYEAR AGENT HERE

Stanley Clark has been named Goodyear tire dealer in Cross Plains. He told the Review yesterday that he plans to stock a complete line of Goodyear products.

The Review will begin in the near future a year's advertising contract for Mr. Clark, dealing chiefly with the Goodyear line.

Gordon I. Phillips, of Big Springs, visited in the home of his sister-in-law Mrs. George B. Scott this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Autry and family of Coleman were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Rich and family of Odessa visited relatives here over the week end.

Miss Ruth Voyles of Brownwood visited her parents Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Voyles over the week end.

Mrs. E. A. Minton has returned home Houston, where she visited her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Garrett visited Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Abernathy, at Millersview, Sunday.

C. A. Lotief of Austin was a visitor here over the week end.

Alderman Wilson Honors Firemen With Banquet

Celebrating the tenth anniversary of his entrance into the cafe business in Cross Plains, R. E. Wilson, city councilman, entertained members of the local fire department Monday night with an oyster banquet, a custom which he has observed since the organization of the department in 1926.

Fire Chief Ralph Chandler, a charter member and only chief of the company, acted as master of ceremonies; introducing first the four other charter members; Charles F. Hemphill, V. C. Walker, O. T. Laws and Jim M. McMillan.

Mayor S. P. Collins was then presented. He paid tribute to members of the fire department for their indulgent work in the face of no compensation and seldom recognition. He assured the gathering that the city council stands ready at any time to be of any assistance, within its power to promote fire prevention and specifically stated that it would be beneficial for a delegation from the local department to attend the annual firemen's convention to be held this Summer.

Other members of the city council were also in attendance and were introduced for "after dinner" talks as well as was virtually every fireman present.

A roaring vote of appreciation which echoed throughout the business district assured Mr. Wilson that his hospitality was fully appreciated.

Those present were: Ralph Chandler, S. P. Collins, Jody Huntington, Willis Brown, T. D. Little, J. C. Garrett, T. Y. Woody, Riley Shipp, John Browning, C. F. Hemphill, O. T. Laws, C. D. Dixon, Stanley Clark, Frank McGary, V. C. Walker, Ed Schaffner, Jr., Walter Radloff, Jim Settle, Bon Huntington, Ben Pierce, J. M. McMillan, S. M. Buatt and Jack Scott.

FUNERAL SUNDAY FOR MRS. SARAH B. CAREY

Mrs. Sarah Belle Carey, 68, was laid to rest in the Cross Plains cemetery Sunday. She succumbed at her home near Pioneer, Saturday after an extended illness. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. George McQuire.

Mrs. Carey is survived by her husband and 10 children. Higginbothams, Cross Plains, were in charge of funeral arrangements.

LOCAL GOLFERS WIN OVER COLEMAN 14-6

Phil Pe Co country club golfers defeated Coleman, Sunday afternoon 14 to six in the first scheduled match of the Heart of Texas Golf Association, which is composed of five teams. Other clubs in the circuit are: Ballinger, Brady and Santa Anna.

PIONEER P.T.A. HAS DELEGATION PRESENT AT COLEMAN MEETING

Pioneer Parent Teacher Association was represented with a delegation at the district P.T.A. council held at Coleman Wednesday and Thursday. Those attending from Pioneer included: Mesdames, W. B. Gunn, L. C. Cash, C. J. Brooks, Floyd Joyce, Howard Johnson, Wilbur Williams and Miss Lillian Battle, teacher in the Pioneer school system.

MRS. HOMER MOON IS QUITE ILL AT SEALY'S

Mrs. Homer Moon, who is in the Sealy Hospital, at Santa Anna, was reported "worse" Wednesday morning. A group of friends from here left immediately for Santa Anna to offer blood for a transfusion, which attending physicians had stated was necessary.

RADIO EVANGELIST TO TALK ON STREETS HERE SATURDAY

Rev. J. A. Lovell, radio evangelist, will preach on the streets of Cross Plains Saturday afternoon at one thirty, he told the Review in a communication yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garner visited in Brownwood last week.

Mrs. J. G. Varner of Baird spent last week with her mother Mrs. Jim Luce.

Misses Helen Gray and Patsy Need were Abilene visitors Sunday.

The Weather FAIR PERIOD

2 LOCAL MEN WILL OPEN BAKERY HERE IN NEXT FEW DAYS

A new bakery will open in Cross Plains within the near future perhaps early next week. The firm to be known as Modern Bakery will be owned and operated by Forrest Gilbert and Frank McGary.

Machinery is being installed in the Polishuk building, next door to post office. Mr. Gilbert was unable to give any definite information concerning the opening date, when contacted by a representative of the Review yesterday, but said "it won't be long now."

A formal announcement concerning the opening of the new concern will be published in next week's Review.

COUNTY W. M. S. MEET WILL BE HELD HERE

Women of the local Baptist church will be host to the 16 Baptist churches of Callahan county, Thursday, April 11, in an all day session of Missionary societies. Mrs. John Cook, of Putnam, chairman of the county-wide organization informs the Review that a good program has been arranged.

LOCAL PYTHIANS PUT ON DEGREE WORK FOR EASTLAND THIS WEEK

31 members of the local Knights of Pythias lodge attended a meeting at Eastland, Tuesday night and conferred work on candidates. Members of Gorman, Baird, Eastland and Cross Plains were in attendance.

The local Pythians are now in a drive, competing with Gorman, the winner of which is to be feted at a Banquet next month.

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF J. C. GARRETT DIES SUDDENLY

W. L. Halks, 76, a brother-in-law of J. C. Garrett, of this place, who dropped dead at his home near Breckenridge, Sunday of last week was laid to rest the following Wednesday.

Mr. Halks, who married Mr. Garrett's eldest sister, expired suddenly of heart attack while milking Sunday morning. He had not been ill recently. Funeral services were delayed until Wednesday to await the arrival of children from California and New Mexico.

STUDENTS OFF TO DISTRICT MEET TODAY AND TOMORROW

Cross Plains high school students who won first places at the county meet at Baird, two weeks ago will participate in district competition Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Worthy and baby and Miss Webb of DeLeon visited Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Worthy, Sunday.

Orian Williams was in Rising Star and Cisco Sunday evening.

Sidney Ratcliff visited in Tyler Sunday.

HOME TOWN GOSSIP

Many people like the game of golf and many do not but most anyone would enjoy seeing what this rural pencil pusher saw on the Phil Pe Co country club links Monday afternoon.

Together with Fred Roberts, Rising Star banker; Rev. M. C. McCord, the golfing Methodist pastor at Pioneer and Cottonwood; we saw J. T. Hammett, youthful Phil Pe Co ace, traverse the local course in only 29 strokes, seven below par and two below the all-time course record. And but for a very slight deficiency on two greens his card would have read 27.

Now to those who are not particularly interested in golf these figures may not mean so much but this comparison should: there is probably no other golfer anywhere—professional or amateur—who could have matched strokes with J. T. on the Phil Pe Co nine Monday afternoon.

Because he is so steady under pressure and not effected by success, this column predicts a brilliant future in golf for J. T. And believe it or not, he's one "hot shot" who still enjoys playing with a "dub".

Add to oddities: Dave Smith by mere coincidence has the same number on his automobile license plates this year as last. And Cecil Lotief has the lowest number tags in the county, his are 000-071.

C. W. Kemper was once a rail road sign painter.

The sinewy gent who inspired Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "Village Blacksmith", was perhaps not half as muscular as Jody Huntington, Cross Plains forge artist. That man has biceps that could choke an ox. But he's a rotten story teller.

Orba Booth should be a good subject for a breakfast food testimonial. He seems to bubble over with pep.

Cree and Company is this department's nomination for the busiest firm in Cross Plains.

Who remembers when John Moore was Sheriff of this county?

The first real shirt (the kind with a tail) we ever owned came from Higginbothams in 1916. It was bought with a 50 cent piece, which Fred Cutbirth had given us to "take in Cross Plains" on our first visit here.

Nat Williams is perhaps one of the most widely known young men in Callahan county.

J. F. Coffey, pioneer Cottonwood merchant, owned the first automobile in this "neck of the woods".

And speaking of Cottonwood, the city has a public well which has quenched the thirst of every office holder in this county for more than three decades.

J. W. Cockrell, publisher of the Gorman Progress, is the only minister we ever knew to edit a country newspaper.

Although Benton Jones spells like Noah Webster, he missed the simple little word, arrangement, the other day. And when that man mis-spells a word it's news (the man bite a dog type).

We've reached the end of this column. From the first few paragraphs, bet you thought we never would.

The London Zoo has a tigon, an animal which had a lioness for a mother and a tiger for a father. It was bred and presented to the Zoo by the Maharajah of Nawanganar.

Certified Sweet Potato Plants

Many sweet potato growers have asked what Porto Rico certified plants will cost per thousand and in answer to that question a portion of a letter from Joe Justiss will answer fully. Quote "I can deliver Porto Rico plants in 5,000 or more lots to Baird for $1.50 per thousand for the State Certified and the State approved for $1.25. I can deliver trailer loads at a better price."

"I have found the hill selected seed to be an improvement to any in an experiment last year. I have only disease free plants. They will not be ready for delivery before May as I have just finished bedding 500 bushels."

Yours very truly
Signed Joe Justiss

This office is much interested in seeing the Sweet Potato come back into its own in Callahan County and in order to assist growers in ordering plants will accept orders from all interested parties who sign a request for same and it may be found that enough orders will accumulate to get the trailer load rate. Any interested should drop a line to the county agent's office and state the needs.

Wheat Measuring Started

Wheat land is being measured in time this year. Three supervisors went into the field Wednesday and hope to be through measuring in 6 days.

W. R. Williams of Clyde, Claude M. Morse of Oplin, and Norrell Long of Cross Plains are the wheat supervisors from Callahan and have their commissions from the State Wheat Board.

Twenty five second wheat payments on either 1933 compliance or the 1934 1st payment were received and began to be distributed Wednesday. About $625 was being given out by N. M. George, Treasurer of the Callahan Wheat Growers Association.

More Certificate Pool Checks

There were 30 certificate owners who were not included in the first batch of checks received on the Bankhead Pool checks but 18 of this number received the 2 cent advance on Tuesday. That leaves but 12 more to receive the first advance. No time has been given out from Washington as to when the remainder of the money will be paid above the 2 cent first advance. It has been reported that 80% of all certificates pooled were sold. If that be true, there will be something like 1 more cent per pound to be paid less the necessary expenses of handling the pool. Any unused or unsold certificates will be returned to the original owners for use this year. Any unused certificate will be valid for this year's use.

Cotton Voluntary Sign Up Complete

The supplemental cotton form that was to be signed by every 1934-35 signer to state whether 25 or 35% was to be cut has been executed and the County committee composed of Aaron McKee of Clyde, chairman, V. F. Jones, Baird, and Steve N. Foster of Atwell report that most every cotton grower in the county has signed the new 1935 only contract.

The county committee is very busy getting these contracts in form to be sent to the State Review Board.

The committeemen were roundly complimented on getting the job done so quickly this year. They signed the entire county in 8 days this year while it took 3 months last year. This speed has been accomplished by good organization and by requiring each grower to sign the contract with his respective committeeman rather than go to Baird for that purpose.

Her Boy Had Always Been Weak and Puny

"My four year old boy had been weak and puny since birth, and had constipation and indigestion. Nothing did him any good until we tried Milks Emulsion. Since using it, he can't get enough to eat and has outgrown his childhood trouble. He plays out with the children now, and he was never able to do that before." —Wm. Hart, 424 Bundy Ave., New Castle, Ind.

Weak, ailing children usually start eating and getting stronger from the very first bottle of Milks Emulsion.

Milks Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

You are urged to try Milks Emulsion. Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggist everywhere.

Go To Church — Because —

1. The Lord God says: "Remember the Sabbath, to keep it holy."
2. There is no "standstill" in spiritual life. We either become better or worse. There is no better place for you to be found than in church. It stands with the best people for the best things.
3. Your days are hastening by. If you neglect the church while you are alive, what do you expect of it when you die?
4. Church attendance is a "patriotic duty." You owe it to your country. "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach unto every people."
5. The church invites you. It offers satisfaction for man's most ancient need. The inspired record reads: "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." The supreme duty of the church is to preach this word of God.
6. For your children's, country's neighbor's—for your own soul's—sake, COME to CHURCH!

The Following Churches invite you:

- Church of Christ
- First Presbyterian
- First Methodist

The 1935 pennant dash swings into action in leagues all over the land, within the next two weeks, and above are the two great diamond stars who symbolize the game—On the left is Babe Ruth, mighty batsman—On the right, Jerome "Dizzy" Dean great pitching star. Their every meeting, as the Boston Braves play the Saint Louis Cardinals, will be noted by millions of baseball fans, everywhere.

DRESSY

The work on the cemetery fence was a success last Wednesday despite of the fact that we had one of the worst sand storms of the season. The men of the community turned out like a bunch of boys going to a picnic. The women were left at home to finish dinner to bring but the storm got so bad that we did not have the pleasure of spreading dinner. We were disappointed so much that we will have another day soon. The fence looks fine and will look much better when we get the gates, which have been ordered but not received yet.

The women of the Community Club certainly appreciated all the work done and wish to thank each and every one that paid or helped in any way in the work.

Our school will give a party Friday night at the school house and on the play ground; the proceeds going to the expense for the play at the end of school. Every one is invited to come and be sure to bring some money as there will be charges for refreshments.

We were sorry to learn of the death of "Grandmother" Carry who departed this life Saturday. She is the mother of Hill, Vester Carey, and Mrs. Sherman of our community. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Dr. I. M. Howard, who was recently acclaimed "Cross Plains Most Valuable Citizen" in a newspaper poll, conducted by this newspaper, has submitted the following statement for publication.

"To the fine friends, who gave me the nice vote in the "Cross Plains Most Valuable Citizen Contest", to each and everyone of you, let me say, I most heartily thank you. I feel that I merit the honor less than any of those whose names were entered. Nevertheless, let me say, I thank you my good friends and I assure you this expression of yours will serve as an incentive on my part in a greater effort to merit your continued confidence and esteemed friendship."

(signed) Sincerely,
Dr. I. M. Howard.

Sunday School Lesson

By Charles E. Dunn.

The Heavenly Father
Lesson for April 7th John 14:8-24
Golden Text: Psalm 103:13

The lessons of our second quarter deal with a number of the central teachings of the Christian faith. The first of these is the doctrine that God is Father. Jesus put new meaning into this glorious truth. Perhaps the best way to prove this is to say that he made God an absolutely trustworthy channel of unfeeling grace and power for all men. He found a local, tribal deity in the religion of his fathers, a God who limits His parental control to one particular people and place. By his example and teaching he made it clear that the Father is without frontiers in His out-reach, for He embraces within His providential care the poor, the despised the ignorant, and the misunderstood of every land. He found also, in the Jewish tradition in which he was nurtured, a God of physical might and vengeance, and it was his privilege to place a moral meaning at the heart of God.

To many today this conception of divine fatherhood is incredible. "How can God be father," they cry, "when the world is so saturated with disaster and pain?" Our trouble, as Dean Wicks, of Princeton, says, is that we wrongly assume that if God be personal everything else, too, should also be personal. And Dr. Wicks well expresses the Christian idea of God by comparing Him to the high minded editor of a newspaper whose influence is altogether good. On the top floor is the editorial staff, the men who control that paper and see that its policies are beneficent. They, in turn, are dominated by the editor-in-chief, who has consecrated himself, with complete devotion, to the service of the journal and all its employees. Tragic accidents happen in that building on occasion, but the dominant force there is the noble personality of this editor. Even so the universe, at times, reeks with woe, but Gods' paternal love is regnant at its heart.

Eighth Installment

SYNOPSIS: Young Ed Maitland and the hardened gambler Speed Malone became partners on the trip north to the Yukon gold fields in '97, when word of the rich ores there first came down the Pacific coast. Maitland, son of a New England seafaring family, was determined to win back his lost family fortunes. Frenchy, the fisherman who took him and Speed north; Lucky Rose, beautiful young woman who had given Maitland a ring for a keep-sake; Fallon, trail boss of the miners, who resented Rose's attentions to Maitland; Steiner the money lender; young Pete and his drunken partner Bill Owens; Brent old-time prospector; and Garnet, a well-to-do modern one who hired Maitland and Speed to haul his stuff from the beach over the mountains to the Yukon—these were among the crowd that made up the gold seekers. At Liarsville, a camp in the hills. Speed was made trail boss in Fallon's place, because Speed insisted on closing the trail till it could be repaired—it was almost impassable. But the fickle crowd veered back to Fallon. Speed and Maitland took a stand above the pass to keep the miners from breaking through. Pete came to offer his help, but Speed refused it and the boy, after saying his partner had been drowned after a drunken brawl, rode off. But he took a position where he could fire on the miners when they tried to rush the pass, and so helped Speed. Later Brent, with an old deer gun, added his help. Just when Speed seemed to be gaining the upper hand, Fallon called his men with an exultant shout. A cavalcade was coming down the trail.—Now go on with the story.

"You can call 'em soldiers," was Speed's grim answer. "They're the crack trailmen of the cop kingdom and a hard-shootin' outfit. The Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police."

The detachment was the first of the reinforcement sent into the Yukon under order from Major Walsh to police the gold rush. They were passing over American ground and their authority did not begin until they crossed the Canadian line at the summit of the pass, but its extent was not a question in the minds of any of the onlookers.

Cheering and jubilant, Fallon's outfit got ready to parade through behind them, never doubting that Speed's hand had been called.

"When I made that bet about the bridge," muttered Speed, "I plumb forgot to leave out the Northwest Mounted. Get goin' Bud! Slide down the gulch there into the creek and beat up it. Maybe you can overtake Pete. Anyways, get out of range."

"You're mad!" Maitland cried, refusing to move. "You can't challenge their right of way!"

"I'd rather be plugged by the rangers than see that bunch of sure-things gamblers herd through behind 'em. It means checkin' in to a man-size outfit. Will you go?"

For an instant Maitland thought of trying to hold him by force, but something primal and absolute in his decision prevented. The police squadron was now within yards of the turn of the defile into the creek canyon.

"I can't wait to argue with ye, boy," said the outlaw abruptly. "All I can say it, I'm wishin' ye a better run of luck than you've had. The best won't be too good." He wrung his partner's hand in a tight grip. Then as remonstrance froze on Maitland's lips, he leaped over the rock corral and slid down into the trail, with both guns drawn, the red bandage gone from his head.

The police captain halted his troop within a few yards of this surprising challenger, while the crowd banked up curiously behind.

"Gents," said Speed politely, "the trail's barred."

A pair of level eyes covered him in a cool, impersonal study. "Barred till when?" There was the merest hint of irony in the velvet casualness of the officer's tone.

"Until I'm drowned where I stand or a pack of quitters standing back of ye does some chores on it."

Inspector Drew owed his command to certain gifts of understanding which had not been idle on his way from Skagway. His eyes wrinkled thoughtfully, and then with a slow gleam of humor, he asked a surprising question.

"Would it be all right, so far as my men are concerned if we fixed the bridge?"

"By Jingo, Mister," said the outlaw blankly, "if you mean what

"Wouldn't it be all right if we fixed the bridge," asked Inspector Drew.

that listens like, you sure, take my money. But we couldn't leave ye do it."

"Doesn't matter," Drew replied. "Bridges are in my line." He dismounted and gave an order to his men, who unlimbered some axes and other tools and went down to the bridge.

Speed made his partner sit down to rest in the shadow of a rock near the creek. Then he returned to Fallon who stood sombrely quiet under Brent's guard, and told the old trailman to lower his gun.

"You owe me a thousand dollars, Fallon," he said soberly, when the deposited camp boss was uncovered.

Fallon drew out a wallet and counted over the amount.

"Give him his six-shooters, Brent," said Speed. This was done. "The trail's fixed," Speed explained, "and I resign all claims to the job of trail boss. We're talkin' level. I don't aim to tangle with the rangers' law after we cross the summit. But where we stand there ain't a law between you and me and the sky. We don't even know that it's Alaskan ground. You've got a bad arm, so I'll discard my best gun, and we'll settle the feud right here."

"We'll settle it when I've got both hands limber," said Fallon, grimly, as the train, now in movement again, wound slowly by.

Brent back-trailed toward Liarsville with the partners. Maitland felt weak from reaction to the scenes of blood which the other two had accepted so lightly. He was troubled in another way about Garnet's handling job.

This anxiety was relieved, however, in an unimagined way. When they reached the cache, they found that Garnet was gone. A note attached to one of the packs advised them that he had left Alaska, deferring his trip to Dawson till the following spring, when he had learned—steamers would be running up the Yukon. The note, dated two days before, assigned them his outfit and the horses, free of all claims.

It was windy dusk when they emerged from the river canyon and looked down on an astonishing apparition of canvas above the Skagway beach. A tent city had taken shape in their brief absence—a mushroom town of illuminated mushrooms, glowing in the mist and lit by kerosene flares that sputtered garishly in the wind.

Through misted darkness, the camp lights defined a twisted main street whose course had been determined by the accidental camp sites of the first comers.

Avoiding this, the two partners detoured around to the quieter section where they had left the unmoved part of Garnet's outfit. The spot was hard to locate in the maze of tents, and when they did find it, there was no sign either of the cache or the horses.

"I'll skin the 'thievin' polecat who done this," Speed announced in a voice that carried over a wide area.

Though the neighboring tents seemed empty, a man appeared noiselessly in answer to his challenge, from one of the canvas lanes. He wore a dark suit of eccentric but studied fashion, with the collar of the jacket upturned, soft soled shining shoes, and a black deer hat.

"D-did you'll lose somethin'?" he inquired.

said Speed. "Don't get nervous. I ain't specially suspectin' you."

"Well," said the other, "I seen a p-pair of horses like th—like that yesterday. A guy was I-leadin' 'em. 'Know the man?"

"I know where h-h-he hangs out. But I wouldn't want to be seen st-st-st—to be seen steerin' 'em."

This helped allay the remaining doubts in Speed's mind. "How careless would you get for fifty dollars—he asked."

Gem t11 rn'tromy5 shegb "K-keep me in s-s-s-sight," said their informant. "B-b-b—" Leaving the word suspended, he moved silently away.

The recovery of the horses was necessary, but Maitland wondered whether it would be worth what they might be walking into. It was the sociable hour after dusk when saloon door swung inward, and they followed their conductor's weaving course through the tent lanes without being particularly observed. He crossed the street at the other end, near the beach, stopping before a structure that had no sign.

The stranger entered the place and came out a minute later. "G-go in and be havin' a d-a drink," he said, as he paused for a moment beside them, speaking in as rapid an undertone as his tongue would allow. "The party you're lookin' for is liable to b-b-b-b—" And he drifted silently into the dark.

Speed frowned after him; then stepped up to the pool of light under the swing doors and pushed them brusquely open. He nodded to Maitland and they went in.

Speed bought drinks at the bar.

"This don't look like a horse thief's hangout," he said, absently noting the card the dealer was turning. Gambling was the only vulnerable point in him his partner had ever observed.

When some minutes passed without a sign of the man with the deer, he poured another drink and lifted his change off the bar. "This is interestin'," he said, but it ain't catchin' us no horses.

With the glass lifted halfway, however, a sound from outside checked his arm. Through the blended rumble of the camp and

When she saw the men at the bar she stopped with a look of question and smiled slowly. Maitland caught his breath. Neither he nor Speed, who regarded her with a brooding stare, had guessed how beautiful she was, or how her gypsy grace could be heightened by light and color. She was immaculate—which some belles of the mining camps were not.

She drew up before the outlaw with a whimsical look. Her voice was a rich overtone to the dreaming strings.

"I heard you were looking for horses."

"We was goin' to pay your come-on," Speed said. "We'd just as leave pay you and take it out of his hide."

She smiled a little at the inflection his anger had betrayed him into. "Lefty isn't much of a come-on. He doesn't know what it's all about. Only that I asked him to watch and let me know when you came into camp. The horses and outfit were rescued from a thief who was trying to sell them for his passage out. I held them so you wouldn't shoot up the camp and get shot, looking for them. And because I wanted to be sure of meeting you in a quiet place. That makes everything clear, doesn't it?"

"It would be simpler for you, maybe, if Fallon was as dead as Owens?"

She did not answer the reference to Owens. "I'd a lot rather it was Fallon than either of you," she said. "We have that much in common."

Speed shook his head at her grayly: "I begin to feel sorry for this man, Fallon. And him figurin' all the time you're his friend."

"He doesn't," she returned, in a voice that was both sombre and

Henry Hull Makes His Talkie Debut In Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations"

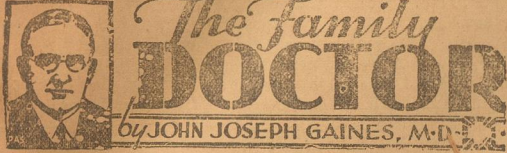

The most noteworthy and outstanding stage star of the past four years to come to the screen is Henry Hull, who makes his talking picture debut in Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations," at the Liberty Theatre on Wednesday.

Hull has had one of the most colorful careers of any actor. He was born at Louisville, Ky., Oct. 3, 1890, the son of a newspaperman, William Madison Hull. Two other brothers later won fame on the stage.

Howard, now married to Margaret Anglin, and Shelley, who died several years ago.

Educated at grammar schools in Louisville, then at the DeWitt Clinton and Commerce high schools, in New York, College of the City of New York, Cooper Union and Columbia University, Hull is one of the most learned men in the profession. He left college to become mining engineer, assayer, mineral-ogist and electrical engineer. His first stage job was with Guy Bates Post in "The Nigger" Company at the New Theatre, New York, in 1911. The following year he joined Margaret Anglin's Greek Repertory company and for the next four years toured with various stock companies. One of his most famous characterizations was that of Henry Parker in "The Man Who Came Back," which ran for years.

Your Complexion

Your complexion is your banner—the flag under which you sail. It announces to all observers the state of health beneath it. A rotten complexion is the herald of some mighty bad blood on the underside of the skin.

Were I to search for a penful of perfect complexions I would go out and visit a country school house with its two acres of play ground, and would watch the youngsters racing in the pure air at playtime; I would see every cheek glowing in perfect health—no prettier picture on earth.

I stood not long ago at a busy street-corner in a crowded city; hundreds of people passed me as I studied their faces; I was thinking of complexions. Some were drab, some sooty, some blazh with chemical tints; all were extremely abnormal.

The BEST remedy for the complexion is DEEP BREATHING. Country people, as a rule, breathe better than their city kinspeople. If you live in the city stop going to bed at midnight and rising at late hours; the fellow that gets up at eight o'clock and begins the day with no breakfast will soon have as bad a complexion as the cartoonist could desire for him.

The city girl should rise at six or seven A. M. and drink a glass of pure water; then she should seek the window that admits the purest air; she should raise this window and take twelve deep breaths, expanding the lungs to their limit; she may hold the inhaled air till she has counted ten, with the elbows eld at the level of the shoulders. Notice the difference in the complexion. Eat regularly—sensibly.

Greatest Flower Show

NEW YORK—At a cost exceeding $2,000,000 in which about 1,500,000 flowers, plants and trees representing nearly every climate, were shown, New York's annual Flower Show this year was declared "the greatest" by the 27,000 who attended the opening day.

Other important plays in which he has been starred or featured in New York are "Lulu Belle," "Ivory Door," "Michael and Mary," "Grand Hotel," and last season he reached the epitome of his long and successful career, as the star of "Tobacco Road." He left this show in June of 1934 to come to Hollywood under a long term starring contract with Universal and makes his bow in the Dicken's classic.

One Act Players Win 2nd Place In Dist. Sports Carnival To Be April 13th

The one act play cast composed of Dixie Little, Jennie Laura Jackson, Melvin Placke, and Jimmie Settle went to Breckenridge Friday to participate in the District Inter-scholastic League meet in which they won second place with the play which they presented.

Dixie Little received third place in individual acting for girls and Melvin Placke received second place for individual acting for boys.

The rest of the district meet events will take place this Friday and Saturday in Breckenridge. Our other entries are W. N. Long, Mary Billingsly, W. J. Mayes, Emma Jean Settle, Bobbie Neel and the Ward School Choral Club. The events starts Friday morning at 9:30.

The sport tournament, which is being sponsored by the Senior class, is progressing as well as could be expected. There have been four baseball games played. The first two were played March 28. The Seniors boys defeated the Junior boys by a score of 9-3. The Freshmen girls defeated the seventh grade girls by a score of 15-11.

On April 2, the Senior girls defeated the Junior girls by a score of 21-6, and the Seventh grade boys defeated the Freshmen boys by a score of 10-5. In tennis only one game has been played, The Juniors defeated the Sophomores by a score of 2-0, in girls division. In volley ball two games have been played. The Sophomore boys defeated the seventh grade boys 3-0. There were other games but the scores were not known at this time. The Seniors appreciate the support rendered in these contests and also wish to thank the teachers for their help in deciding the winners of each contest.

Remember, the big day is Saturday, April 13. Lets all be present to watch these events between several other schools and our own.

HINTS TO THE BOOKLOVER

By Marie McVelia

The library of our Cross Plains High School furnishes us with many interesting books. For instance, have you ever read or heard the story of "Ramona"? It is very interesting. It contains a bit of love, adventure, and mystery all in one. Everyone enjoys it, and I'm sure you would. Nowhere else can you find such stories. Besides this one book, there are many more. The Light That Failed, The Cradle of the Deep, As the Earth Turns, Cimaron and many other interesting books. I'm sure you'll enjoy them, because best books written.

SUCCESS

By Marjorie Steele

The word success is a very large word in meaning. What is success and how is it acquired? There is only one way and that is to work for it. There are many young folks, as well as older ones, who never succeed, because they do not try. They start out all right, but find, to their disappointment, that some foolish pleasure has overwhelmed their desire to work. Often the goal is not reached because of lack of determination to keep pressing onward. Life is a struggle, in which many factors enter to determine the outcome. It is no fair-ways the one who reaches the line first that wins. Sometimes the slow ones succeed, while those who have the opportunity do not take it. The race is not always to the swift. Success is within reach of the poor as well as the rich. Are we going to take it or shun it? These things are determined as much by determination and courage as by swiftness and brilliancy. Make up your mind what you want to do and do it. Do not be a quitter. A quitter never wins, and a winner never quits. Often a group of young people start out to gether to get an education. Some go about it earnestly, while others go about it foolishly, doing everything except the right ones. The foolish ones soon find themselves struggling in the sea of failure, while the earnest ones reach their goal, success greeting them with a welcoming smile. Success is worth the cost, and only comes to those who pay the price in courage and determination. Life is comparable to a path through a beautiful meadow. Those who are wise pick the roses of love and the humble daisies of knowledge as they proceed. The foolish grasp at the unworthy pleasures and find they have picked thorny thistles.

The largest diamond ever found, the Cullinan, weighed over three thousand carats. It was cut into nine large stones and several small ones. These stones all belong to the King of England. The largest is mounted in his sceptre and the second largest is in his crown.

Sports News

By Jay Mayes

The thundering Buffaloes began their Spring practice this week. However, due to detention halls, the herd is small. But in two weeks all the boys will be out to get a dose of what they will get lots of this fall—spring football is very important. It usually offers the best opportunities of making the team the next fall. In fall practice there is not as hard a workouts for fear some player will be injured and be out of the games. Whereas, in Spring practice, you can bit 'em as hard as you want to and gives you a chance to see what you can do against your fellow man. Take this advice and come out for Spring training this year and show 'em what you have in you. Remember the old saying "everybody loves a fighter" whether you make the football team or not, it will help you greatly.

And to those that are coming out, put all you have into it. For its what you do today that counts tomorrow. That is if you work hard in Spring practice there will be a strong team this fall. Buffaloes '35 We want a district championship.

We are all expecting Bobbie Neel our girl singles player, to walk away (or rather ride away) from Breckenridge today with the district championship. This is the second year that she has been our singles player.

For the past few years we have been trying to get some of those big boys from Cottonwood, at last Coach Osburn has succeeded. Both Joy boys, Strahan, and Varner are attending Spring practice. Power to you guys!

Pokes and Jokes

Author Unknown

That one eyed V-8 Ford still continues its westward trips after a certain little incident that happened last Saturday nite.

Thirty one high school students played hooky Monday, April 1. The joke was actually pulled the next morning when Mr. Williams and Mr. Norman called the bunch one by one into room 4, and ask them if they were ready to "take their medicine." Ask some of them what the medicine was.

Oral Ray, "gentleman of leisure and man about Neels," has certainly been free hearted of late. If you don't believe me, Bobbie Neel can vouch for him.

Miss Price became ill during the one act play contests at Breckenridge last Friday and she is still in bed. We really miss her around the study hall and especially in room 4, or in other words, the Public Speaking class. We hope that Miss Price will be back with us soon.

THE BOOK

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures

by BRUCE BARTON

Judas Maccabaeus

JUDAS MACCABAEUS' record falls between the Old and the New Testaments and is told in detail in the books which formerly were printed in the Bible in slightly smaller type and called the Apocrypha.

Alexandre the Great was kind enough to conquer the world at one of the easiest of all dates to remember, 333 B. C. When he was asked, "To whom do you leave your kingdom?" he answered, "To the strongest." In the division which followed, Palestine was under the domination of Ptolemy, who ruled Egypt. He caused the Old Testament to be translated into Greek. The ancient Hebrew was no longer a spoken language and most of the Jews who could read at all read Greek.

In the subsequent redistributions of authority, Palestine passed under the domination of a Greco-Syrian dynasty. Antiochus Epiphanes endeavored to unify his little empire by instituting a kind of emperor-worship, or worship of the state.

Many thousands of Jews accepted this bastard form of idolatry, including most of the priests. But there was one aged priest, Mattathias, who revolted and withdrew from Jerusalem, taking with him his five sons, Jochanan, Simon, Judas, Eleazer and Jonathan. Even that retired country village was not secure from the invasion of the new paganism. To his horror, the old priest saw one of his summer neighbors come to render the detested worship, a priest of God leading him in the new idolatry. Full of wrath, the old man killed both the idolator and the priest, and he and his sons fled to the mountains. There they rallied a band of revolutionists. They gathered strength till they were able to meet the armies of Antiochus in open battle, at first with no faintest hope of winning but only with the determination to die fighting for God and their country.

Never was a truly noble cause more valiantly defended. In 166 B. C., Mattathias died, but not until he had seen the struggle on the high road to success. He counseled his sons to make Simon their political leader and Judas their captain, and they did so.

What followed is brilliant indeed. In 164 B. C., Judas actually defeated the imperial armies and captured Jerusalem. The Temple was cleaned and rededicated, and the worship of God reestablished. For more than thirty years the brothers fought their good fight, establishing again a Jewish dynasty in Jerusalem and making it possible for Jesus to come to a people who still worshipped the God of Abraham. Judas was killed in battle in 161 B. C.

Theory Originated In Store Here Is Made Into Law Says Aubra C. Dodson

Perhaps few of us thought several years ago when we heard much argument in the little dry goods store, between the State Bank and Robertson's drug store, that something should be done to regulate the utilities in Texas, that anything would ever come of it. Cecil Lotief was the fellow in the dry goods store, who between sales, was talking of regulating the utilities. Lotief—now a member of the Legislature—introduced a bill against monopolistic practices which has been passed by both houses and signed by the governor.

You may see a picture any day of Cecil and the Governor in the paper. Their photos were snapped when the Governor signed the bill.

The loud noise that the race horse bill and other caused in the early days of the Legislature has now dwindled to a faint rumble. The race bill has been shelved and so has the bill to submit to the people a prohibition vote.

The right over the sulphur tax bill brought out some bitterness that was just underneath since the Speakership race. Some took a few shots at the Governor, that they had been wanting to get off their chests for months.

The Governor's campaign to close all places selling liquor seems to have the support of a large percent of the people.

Here's the best story I've heard recently (I believe Ed Henderson will like it) "A couple of gentlemen after taking on a pretty good supply of repeal thirst quencher started back to their home about 50 miles away. It had just rained a very heavy downpour and there was a stream to cross on their way home. They got to the stream and saw that it was out of banks. The one, which could walk the better, got out to look the situation over. Coming back to the car, he said to his friend: 'The Bridge is Gone, the water tore it to pieces'.

The other man thought for a while and then remarked: 'My goodness if water will do a bridge like that, think what it will do to your stomach.'

See you next week

During the Middle Ages shoes became one of the most ornamental articles of dress, and one's social position was shown by the kind one wore. It became the fashion for elegant young men to wear very long-pointed shoes, some of them so long that the shoe-tip had to be looped up and tied to the knee.
