Farmers Hold Own In 'Hopper War'

DEVISE ODD WAYS TO HALT MARCH OF INVADING MENACE

Although the grasshopper menace is more widespread in the Cross Plains trade territory than at any time in the past 12 years, farmers are "holding their own" in the fight against the pests, declare well informed sources.

Cross Plains Picnic Of 1901 Was Swell Affair, Says Old Rising Star X-Ray

Editor's Note: Printed hereunder is a story of the 1901 annual picnic in Cross Plains, exactly as written by Albert Tyson and published in his Rising Star X-Ray, predecessor to the Rising Star Record. The eccentric Mr. Tyson was at the time editor of the paper, attorney at law and Justice of the Peace at Rising Star.

3RD ANNUAL SPEED BOAT RACES TO BE RUN ON JULY 25TH

Receipt of an unexpectedly large number of advance entries in Brownwood's Third Annual Regatta and Speed Boat Races gives assurance that the 1937 races at Lake Brownwood will be the best ever staged at the big lake.

Either Victory Or Bow To A Finalist Is Hammitt Record

Continuing his sensational play of either winning golf tournaments or losing to none short of a finalist, J. T. Hammitt, Philpico fairway blazer, last week outstroked Billy Bob Coffey, of Fort Worth, for medalist honors in the Cleburne annual invitation affair before losing in a close match to Lobby Reigel, of Beaumont, who advanced on through the finals to a championship.

LOCAL PEOPLE HAIL NEW HIGHWAY; WILL LURE THRU TRAFFIC

Cross Plains people are well pleased with the outcome of the road bond election in Callahan and Taylor counties last week. It not only will provide a shorter route to Abilene for home folks, but the connection with the Cross Plains-Brownwood road will lure traffic from the Brown county town through this place, it is believed.

Q. What tribe of Indians is still in Texas? Are they still near Houston?

A. There are two tribes, the Alabamas and the Coushattas, located on a 3,281 acre reservation in Polk County, about 65 miles northeast of Houston.

Q. When did LaFitte establish his Galveston Island home?

A. At a place he called "Camp Peachy," on the ruins of D'Auury's settlement, and in a house known as the "Red Mansion" around which there grew a settlement of more than 1,000 followers who called him "Lord of the Isles."

J. What were the conditions in Texas under Spanish occupancy when Moses Austin made his colonization proposal?

A. They had changed but little except for the worse, since Spain made its claim to the country some 300 years before. There were only two small settlements of Spaniards—at San Antonio and La Bahia—the missions were in a state of ruin, the hostile Indians preyed upon the few inhabitants, Spain was affording no protection and offering no hope that conditions would improve. The slight efforts Spain had made at colonization had failed most miserably.

Q. Why did Spain fail to realize anything from its possession of A. The Spaniards were militant soldiers who sought gain from conquest rather than from development. They were gold-seekers and cared little for a country that required labor to make it habitable.

Q. How does the $15,000 a year salary, reported to be paid Coach Bible on a 10-year contract with the University of Texas, compare with other salaries of University and State officials?

A. The salary of the president of the University is $8,000 a year; teachers' salaries range from $1,400 for instructors to $5,000 for highest-paid professors; salary now paid Governor of Texas is $12,000 a year; Attorney General $10,000 these being the highest paid state officials.

Q. How many Texans were enlisted in the Confederate army?

A. The estimates are from 50,000 to 65,000, the first figures probably being nearest correct. The merging of battalions and regiments, the confusion of records and the fact that about three-fourths of them were scattered over the Trans-Mississippi Department in Louisiana, Arkansas and the frontier, while the other fourth were East of the Mississippi, make accurate estimates impossible.

Q. When and how was the first Methodist church organized in the McMahan chapel community in Sabine County?

A. Following occasional religious services from visiting preachers, it was organized in July, 1833, by Rev. James P. Stevenson, a son of Rev. Wm. Stevenson, a Methodist "church" with 48 members being organized the following September, as the result of a neighborhood

Q. When and by whom was the first cotton gin built in the San Augustine section?

A. In 1823, by John Sprowl, about two miles east of San Augustine. Other gins were erected by John Cartwright, Eliza Roberts and John A. Williams in the years 1825 and 1826, cultivation of cotton having begun in 1825.

Q. What Jews were engaged in the Battle of San Jacinto? A. D. K. Kokernot, Dr. Moses A. Levy, (who was surgeon general of the Army and who was also with Ben Milam at the siege of the Alamo in December 1835; Dr. Isaac Lyons, Eugene Joseph Chimne, Kohn, and Albert Emanuel.

Q. What were the Indian tribes that attacked Fort Parker May 19, 1836, and captured Cynthia Ann Parker and her brother, John?

A. They were Comanches and Kiowas, commonly classified together by the settlers as "Prairie Indians."

Q. How long and at what time was Galveston occupied by Federal troops during the Civil War?

A. A Federal squadron forced evacuation of Galveston in October 1862, but it was retaken by Confederate General Magruder's troops January 1, 1863, and remained in control of the Confederates during the rest of the war.

Q. How many and what have been the Capitols of Texas? T. E. Anderson.

A. Eight since American colonization began: San Felipe, Washington-on-the-Brades, Harrisburg, Galveston, Velasco, Columbia, Houston, and Austin. The first capitol of the territory that includes Texas was Adas, for about 40 years, under Spanish rule; then San Antonio; and Saltillo, Mex., under the government of Republic of Mexico. Adas was in the present state of Louisiana about 10 miles from Natchitoches.

A. Where is Dawson Monument and what does it commemorate?

A. On the courthouse square at La Grange, erected to the memory of Capt. N. H. Dawson and his command, massacred at the battle of Salado Creek, near Antonio, September 18, 1842.

Q. Who did the printing for the provisional government of the Republic of Texas?

A. Gail and Thomas H. Borden, New Yorkers who came to Texas in 1829 and were publishing the Telegraph and Register at San Felipe when the Texas revolution began in 1835. When Santa Anna's army approached San Felipe, they escaped with their plant to Harrisburg, where they were captured March 14, 1836, and imprisoned by Santa Anna, and their press was thrown into the river. They escaped to Galveston Island and later bought another press and began publishing a paper at Columbia, August 2. Gail Borden became world famous for his discovery of a process for condensing milk and for canning meats and other foods.

Q. You state that England, France and the United States established embassies or consulates in the Republic of Texas. Did any other countries formally recognize the Republic?

A. Yes, Holland and Belgium.

Q. Did David Crockett ever live in Hood County?

A. No, but his widow, Elizabeth Crockett, came to Texas and in 1856 settled in Hood county on land granted her by the State. She died there in 1890 and was buried in the Austin cemetery, where a tall monument was erected to her memory. Ashley Crockett, the only surviving grandson, lives at Granbury and edits the Hood County Tablet.

Q. Where was the town of Nashville, Texas? Tell me something about it.

A. It was founded in 1834, by Sterling C. Robertson as headquarters for his colony, named for Nashville, Tenn., on the Brazos about three miles below the mouth of Little River; first county seat of Milam county; once a prosperous town of some 2,000 it was gradually abandoned after Cameron became the county seat in 1846 as Centennial at Dallas?

A. The route there from Dallas is through Austin and San Antonio, almost direct by south. Get road maps and information at Dallas for that and other attractive roadways.

Q. Is there any law in Texas against cousin marriages?

A. No.

Q. Please tell in your column something of the life of Col. John S. Sutton, for whom this county was named?

A. He was born in Newswindle County, Delaware, fought through the Texas revolution; was among

Q. Who were the pioneer Lutheran missionaries in Texas?

A. Revs. T. Kiles and A. Sauer headed a group of eleven who came from Europe and began their church labors at New Braunfels and Victoria early in 1850. These were soon followed by Rev. G. Hoelker from South Carolina, Rev. G. Trasher from Switzerland, and Rev. C. Braun from Pennsylvania. The first Lutheran synod in Texas was organized in 1851.

It is a cold cream and does not require a check on compliance. Many farmers had not finished planting at the time the plane table crew visited the farm, therefore, their land was turned into the office and if no crop was shown growing at the time of measuring. Compliance supervisors will visit these farms to ascertain the number of acres that have been planted to the various commodity crops and to check conserving crops. Those farmers who are planning to do ter-

ring cannot complete their compliance until the terracing has been done. The time limit for such work is October 31st.

farmers, who in the beginning thought they would not be able to make compliance are finding that they have land that may now be planted to sudan, peas, or grain sorghums if it is done before August 15th. It must be remembered, however, that merely planting the land will not make compliance by itself. The crop must make reasonable growth which ordinarily takes about two months. This year has not experienced a drought in this year that will be accepted as excuse for not getting the crop planted. Cotton, corn, and grain sorghums are doing the best that has been noted in a number of years and the supervisors know that if sudan grass or peas had been planted in as diligent a manner as were those commodity crops that they would have made a good profit. If such crops were planted in a reasonable time and the supervisors have destroyed a plan to feed them for 100 days on silage they would consume 600 pounds a day or 600 cubic feet or 100 days would be 60,000 pounds or thirty tons. The ordinary acre of beargrass will make from five to ten tons per acre. Some have estimated that a bundle will weigh a out 30 pounds. Trenches should not be made so wide but rather make them deeper, narrower, and make more of them. Mr. Williams stated he would rather have a number of small silos than one large one such as he constructed last year. His silo was built 300 feet long, 12 feet wide at the top, 1 feet at the bottom, and 6 feet deep. He stated he had rather have two silos and probably build them 100 feet wide at the top and 5 or 6 feet deep. Grain should be ripe before placing it in the silo. The fodder should have three to four leaves showing brown to dead at the bottom. The bundles be laid in single like in the trench; that is the butts of the second layer should come about half way of the length on the first layer, etc. The bundles should be cut after the bundles have been laid in order that the feed might settle closely together so that no spaces may be left where air would pocket.

A minimum of three barrels of water should be poured on the feed. There is no danger of putting too much water in the trench. After the trench has been filled a foot higher than it is expected to settle to then about 1 1/2 feet of dirt should be placed on top. No straw or any other materials is recommended to be placed on the feed as it will permit air to reach the first layer and thus spoilage would be the result.

Persons should not be guilty this year of stacking large stacks of dried feed about the farms when more than 6000 farmers in Texas have demonstrated that silage is far better than the same amount of feed placed in a stack. It will not burn, decay, be stolen, washed away, or infested with insects. No dust will mar the value of the feed. It is simply a canned pasture that is at the disposal of the farmer at any time he needs a silage feed. For further information talk with the county agent or send for a bulletin treating on all phases of trench silos.

County Agent's Column

AAA Compliance Soon to Begin

Supervisors are beginning to be prepared about when compliance will be checked for their farms. County Agents were called into a meeting at Eastland on Thursday, July 15th, and were given instructions on how to certify compliance for 1937.

It should be borne in mind that the measuring of farms which has been done recently by the plane table crews does not in itself constitute a check on compliance. Many farmers had not finished planting at the time the plane table crew visited the farm, therefore, their land was turned into the office and if no crop was shown growing at the time of measuring. Compliance supervisors will visit these farms to ascertain the number of acres that have been planted to the various commodity crops and to check conserving crops. Those farmers who are planning to do ter-

Persons should not be guilty this year of stacking large stacks of dried feed about the farms when more than 6000 farmers in Texas have demonstrated that silage is far better than the same amount of feed placed in a stack. It will not burn, decay, be stolen, washed away, or infested with insects. No dust will mar the value of the feed. It is simply a canned pasture that is at the disposal of the farmer at any time he needs a silage feed. For further information talk with the county agent or send for a bulletin treating on all phases of trench silos.

AAA Compliance Soon to Begin
Producers are beginning to be concerned about when compliance will be checked for their farms.

It should be borne in mind that the measuring of farms which has been done recently by the plane crews does not in itself constitute a check on compliance.

Farmers, who in the beginning thought they would not be able to make compliance are finding that they have land that may now be planted to sudan, peas, or grain sorghums if it is done before August 15th.

Mr. Everett Williams, rancher from Putnam and range supervisor for the northern half of the county, appeared on a radio broadcast over KRBC on July 7th with the county agent and gave to those listening a very thorough discussion of his experiences with a trench silo this year.

Trench silos should be used to store all the surplus forage and feed that will be used on the farm. Mr. Williams says that if the grain is left on the stalk and the whole bundle placed in the silo that both the heads and the fodder keep in a perfect state of preservation.

To figure the requirements for a year it has been found that if a trench were six feet wide at the top, five feet wide at the bottom, and four feet deep the square area would be found by adding five and six which equals eleven, divided by two which equals five and one-half, multiplied by four, equalling twenty-two square feet.

mat that a bundle will weigh about 30 pounds. Trenches should not be made so wide but rather make them deeper, narrower, and make more of them.

Every farm will be visited again to certify compliance. More farmers are looking this year to trench silos than ever before and they are realizing more fully the great importance of conserving the abundance of feed that is indicated for Callahan County.

SIMONE SIMON STARS WITH JAMES STEWART IN "SEVENTH HEAVEN"

The tenderest romance of our time lives again on the screen when "Seventh Heaven," the Twentieth Century Fox production of Austin Strong's immortal love story, opens Tuesday at the Liberty Theatre, with Simone Simon and James Stewart in the starring roles.

Adapted from the stage play produced and directed by John Golden, "Seventh Heaven" re-creates for screen audiences that star-crossed pair of Montmartre, Diane and Chico, two lovers who lift your heart to the stars.

As the little street wail, Diane, Simone Simon surpasses all hopes expressed for this sensational French screen find, touching the deepest places of your heart and emerging gloriously as the screen's newest and greatest star. Opposite her is James Stewart—tall, laughing, gray-eyed—as Chico of the valiant spirit and the shy, yearning love.

Coleman County F. F. A. Boys Leave On 14 Day Sightseeing Tour Of Three States

Members of the Coleman District of Future Farmers will leave Friday for a tour of about 3,000 miles and will include points of special interest in West Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

On the first day out of Coleman the youths will visit the springs at Fort Stockton, on the second day they plan to visit Carlsbad Cavern and the bottomless lakes near Roswell.

The third day will be one of driving with the group going through Lincoln National Forest, over the El Capitan mountains, visiting the Carrizozo lava beds, Socorro, White Rock profile, Datil mountains and stopping near the continental divide for the night. Pictoria, near the divide has an altitude of 8,300 feet.

On the fourth day the youngsters will visit the Petrified forest and the Painted desert, stopping for the night between Holbrook and Flagstaff. The ice caves at Flagstaff, Eldon Pueblo ruins, Sunset Crater, Grand Canyon National park Phoenix, Roosevelt dam, Coolidge dam, Las Cruces, El Paso, Jaurez, Balcones, the Davis Mountains, the McDonald observatory, the big band country, Del Rio and Sonora also will be visited.

The tour will be from ten to 14 days, probably 12 days will cover the trip. It was stated by one of the youngsters who is planning to take the trip.

The group does not plan to rush from one place to another, but rather to take plenty of time to visit the places of interest, Chambers of commerce, Lions clubs and vocational-agriculture teachers along the route have promised to furnish guides at many of the places to be visited.

Members of the party will take along bedding and will sleep in the open each night. They will cook breakfast and supper each day. Cost of transportation is estimated at $8 per boy with other expenses to depend upon each individual. Entire cost per youth is estimated at between 15 and 20 dollars.

Schools that will be represented in the tour include, Coleman, Santa Anna, Talpa, Dodele Lohu, Buffalo, Novice, Burkett, Centennial, and Monella.

WASHINGTON NEWS FROM CONGRESSMAN CLYDE L. GARRETT

This Column is initiated in an effort to present to constituents of the Seventeenth Congressional District a picture of developments in the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial branches of the National Government. I shall avoid presenting controversial issues other than to give their status. I am led to believe that the readers of this paper are interested in these occurrences because of the inquiries received in my office through the mail.

Farmers Favored—That more than 100,000 cotton growers who purchased in excess of $3,500,000 in cotton tax exemption certificates under the Bankhead Act are entitled to recover their payments, was ruled by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. Many of our farmers come under this decision and they should investigate their rights.

Mining Bill—Senator Thomas, (D-Okla.) has introduced a bill providing for the leasing of lands within an Indian reservation or owned by a tribe or group of Indians, for mining purposes by authority of the tribal council or other spokesmen for such Indians if the Secretary of the Interior approves. Leases, for terms not over 10 years and renewable as long as minerals are produced, could be made. The bill was referred to Indian Affairs Committee.

Financial Report—With the exception of the Civil and World War periods the Government has followed a "pay as you go" policy. This is shown by the budget history of the U. S. up to 1930. July 1, started a new fiscal year. Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, reports that at the beginning of this fiscal year, the deficit of $2,707,000,000 is about $150,000,000 above the revised budget estimate made April 20. It is the smallest, however, of any of the four fiscal years the present Administration has been in office.

Transit Labor Problem—President Roosevelt has been asked by Rep. H. Jerry Voorhis (D-Cal) to give Federal cooperation in solving California's transient labor problem. He specifically asked that additional resettlement camps be established in the State.

New Labor Laws—The President recently sent a message to Congress asking legislation concerning recommendations adopted by the 20th session of the International Labor Organization at its recent conference at Geneva. The following points were outlined: "The regulation of special system of recruiting workers," the "progressive elimination of recruiting," the "reduction of hours of work on public works," and "annual holidays with pay."

Ratification—The Senate has ratified the eight treaties negotiated at Buenos Aires in a conference of American Republics in January. President Roosevelt opened the conference in person. The chief interest of these treaties from the Latin American viewpoint, is the fact that the Monroe Doctrine is defined in terms of the common interest of all the countries.

Locomotives to China—The Export-Import Bank will participate in sale of American locomotives to China, was announced by Jesse Jones recently. The orders which total approximately $1,500,000 have been received by two large manufacturers.

Appropriations—A bill to appropriate $99,880,000 for the Railroad Retirement Board and $350,000,000 for the CCC during the new fiscal year, were approved by the House Committee on Appropriations, and passed by the House. Included in the Resolution was $50,000 to finance the tax evasion inquiry and it sets up a $500,000 revolving fund to pay losses on any government shipments.

Increase in Employment—Employments by close one railroads in the past twelve months has increased from 1,049,725 to 1,311,030 reports the Interstate Commerce Commission. Payrolls in the same period

PICKED STAGE OVER POLITICAL CAREER: NOW A CINEMA STAR

One of the most difficult decisions for a young man to make, that of choosing between two promising careers, was the lot of Charles Quigley. His uncle, a mayor, offered a political career to him, while an aunt, the founder of a famous N. Y. dramatic school, offered a stage career. The stage won. Quigley, now appearing in Columbia's "Find The Witness," opposite Rosalind Keith, showing Thursday at the Liberty Theatre, is happy now that he made this choice. He made a success in his first major role playing opposite Mary Astor in "Lady From Nowhere," and his present picture establishes him well on the way to stardom.

Those present were: Miss B.P. Phillips, Ben Riffe, D. C. Foster, S. N. Foster, G. T. Brashear, Lila Nie Brashear, M. A. Tatum, C. E. Foster, R. N. Brashear, Pauline Stanbury, Juaneta and Juanell Foster.

There's only ONE SOPHIE KERR

I expressed a tremendous interest in you so different, so much better than she had ever had. The way Rachel had asked the questions she had and their implications—all stirred Anne with apprehension. What was behind all this? She was going on in Rachel's flow far away and strange as it seemed. It wasn't much more than a week ago that Rachel suddenly began to inquire a big parents the people of her kind, and had insisted on the truth about them, not more than a week, and at the time when their usual easy round had been broken in preparation for leaving the island and for Anne's journey to the States and the separation it entailed her daughter.

She looked like a child! "I don't know if I can remember what we said, but I'll try to be in a wheeled chair before I was still weak, and she wheeled me into the ward, as sitting up in bed, she had a blue-checked common hospital—cheap, woolly stuff but a deep, like her eyes. Her hair was very dark against the white—she looked at me with a bit of curiosity and she said "She looked like a child!"

"Nothing," said Rachel, twitching at a look. "I know better. What's it at a look."

"Bob, listen. I wouldn't tell anybody else in the world about this, but I know you won't spill it around. Mother was telling me a bout my real mother. She's always said she would when I was twenty-one, but a little while ago I got thinking about her being over to France and if anything happened to her I might never know. So I've been trying to get her to tell me and finally she gave in. I can't tell you how it makes me feel. I'm not quite sure myself. I seem to be someone else. Maybe I'll wear off, but right now now—you see I keep on puzzling about them, my real father and mother in relation to myself. What did they give me that was in their natures, what did they have to give? How much am I theirs and how much am I—"

"Why do you think about it at all? You've known all the time you were adopted, everyone's known it. You used to brag about it discreetly the first summers you came here and make all of us kids feel as jealous as the devil because we'd never been born. What's all the sudden uproar about? She hasn't written to you or anything, has she your real mother?"

"No. She's never shown the slightest interest in me, apparently doesn't care whether I'm dead or alive."

"That's what's burning you up, you always did hate being ignored." Rachel tilted her head cockily. "I never am ignored," she said.

"You rose to that one like a blue fish. Go on, get those lines over and stop heeling. How do you get this way? Look out, that one's twisted."

Rachel applied herself to paying out the lines with perfect calm. "What's burning you up is that we're talking about me and not about you," she said amiably. It had caused her tension to tell Bob. "No. She's never shown the slightest of the strange bitterness she'd felt was gone. Proportion was coming back to her life."

They stayed silent, absorbed in their catch. At the tenth fish Bob dropped the lines. "That's enough two for you and one for me and two for the Kreebs and five for Mrs. Duffy's boarding-house. Look, Rachel, you steer around the light-house into the lower bay and I'll get out my frough and clean these fish right now. How's that all up, word?"

All right. You can come along up and eat with mother and me, there won't be much, for Ada's brother is sick and she hadn't been working for us for three days, just when we needed her most, of course, with all the packing. But there'll be enough, with the fish."

"I'll have to stop in my home and wash and put on clean clothes. Your mother would throw me out if I showed up in these stinking rags."

"Bob, I do think it's dumb of you what? You need a shave to stay on here running a town. It's your goal and your brary and doing carpentry and woodwork on the after a pause. "That's your the Nevertheless I'm try to convert over doing it. It only sh it's no good and themselves up."

woodwork on the side," said Rachel after a pause.

"That's your theme song isn't it? Nevertheless I'm going to stay there. There's only one had spot in the program, Rachel, you won't be here. I wish you'd stay with me."

"Oh, Bob, are you going to begin on that again?"

"I certainly am and I shall keep right on till you give in. You think it's dumb for me to stay here in this perfectly grand place and keep on with my work and be independent and not worry about money, but you're the dumb one, going back to New York and racketing round with that crazy crowd, gin and hot jazz and wisecracks and a lot of cheap foolishness."

"My heavens, you're full of purity and virtue all of a jump. Don't be one of those tiresome people who find something odd to do and then try to convert everybody else to doing it. It only shows they know it's no good and want to bolster themselves up."

"That's not fair."

Rachel smiled. They had almost reached the pier, first of a row of half a dozen that made the mooring place of Rockboro's fleet. "It's as fair as saying my friends are gin and jazz babies. They're not and you know it. Anyway, I'm going to get a job. And mother thinks it's all right." The boat slid alongside the pier and Rachel climbed out. "Going to tie up?"

"Yes, catch." He threw the rope and turned to put a tarpaulin over the engine, then set the bucket of cleaned fish on the pier and leaped out beside Rachel. "Six o'clock," he said. "Heaps of time."

They sauntered the length of the pier and up from the water front and into a row of small houses and stores to Rockboro's main thoroughfare.

At length they came to a shabby mansard house. "Here's Duffy's. Take out the fish you want to give me and I'll go on with the rest."

"Come into the shed a minute and look at my drawing for a mantel swing I've got some new wood, too, best pine I've had this year. I'll go through the kitchen and meet you round there." He picked out five fish and disappeared down the side path.

Just beyond Mrs. Duffy's and set well back in her yard was a building which had once been a woodshed and was now Bob Eddis' living quarters and workshop. He had put in windows and painted the outside white with a red roof and red trim, but its original purpose was still obvious. Rachel always felt a tinge of curiosity when she entered the place, it made her see a man who was not in the least like the one who ragged and joked with her, fished with her, danced with her and took her to the movies. This was an austere and ascetic man with his ideas and philosophy organized to his satisfaction. The living room was as bare as a room could be, with white walls and a black floor, two splint chairs, a black oak table and chest and small bed, this last covered with an exquisite white quilt, the plumed design and fine stitching a marvel of ancient taste and skill. One entire wall was a cupboard in part of which he hung his clothes; in the other the cooking stove and sink, his few pans and dishes were kept compact and hidden. As Rachel looked round it she had an instant's vision of herself living there with Bob, serene, contented, a life without stress, leisurely, thoughtful, tender. "No," she thought, "it's too—adult for youth. This isn't any place for youth."

Bob came bursting in from the outside door. "Now look!" he said and pulled down a long elaborately drawn design of a swag in fruit and leaves. "How's that?"

"It's grand. But it'll be awfully hard to carve."

things that happened to her, and go on calmly. Both she and Rachel were up too early and were restless with this extra time and nothing to do. Bob was to come for their baggage and take it to the station and they would talk. The bare house got on Anne's nerves. "Let's take our coffee out on the terrace and watch the sea," she said, "It's a divine day."

Mr. Kree appeared as soon as they did, anxious and eager. "You haven't changed your intention about the radio, have you?" he asked.

"That was the idea. Anybody can do easy bits." He smiled at her. "You think I'm just a nut, don't you, Rachel? You don't see how I can get such a kick out of a piece of wood and a bunch of tools?"

"If you want to hear it again I'm pleased to oblige. I think you're perfectly crazy about practically everything. Now I'm going home and you skin into clean clothes and come right along."

She saw Anne sitting on the terrace and waved her hand and called to her from the road. "Bob's coming up for dinner and I've brought some fish. I'm going to take a couple over to the Krees."

Anne had been waiting for her anxiously, but now she relaxed. Rachel couldn't have been greatly agitated if she had gone fishing with Bob and asked him to dinner. What on earth they'd give him to eat—she hurried to the kitchen and was investigating supplies when Rachel returned, laughing.

"There's a frightful row going on over there, Mrs. Kree and Sister Susie are raving about our letting Mr. Kree use the radio. He ought never to have let them know it. My heavens—" she looked at Anne's rummages—"nothing but bread and potatoes and that crumb of cheese."

"I'll bake the potatoes and toast the bread," said Anne. "There's a can of asparagus, that'll do for salad, and a can of apricots for dessert. There's enough coffee for tonight and some in the morning before we start."

Through this homely patter Anne had been listening to Rachel, watching her to discover if there had been any change, any ferment of feeling since their talk on the beach. She could detect nothing. The barrier which had been high between them before she had told Rachel what the girl demanded to know seemed to have gone.

Bob arrived before the meal was ready, bringing cocktails in a paper container and a package of salted nuts. "They're probably stale," he said. "They were bought for the summer folks and as you're the last to leave it's right you should have them."

Rachel had put on the yellow crepe dress she'd saved to wear the next day, she had tied a velvet ribbon about her head and pinned a knot of floppy velvet roses at the point of the plain collar. "Decorations for the party," she explained.

Bob poured the cocktails with ceremony and the cheese canapes looked smart and professional. "Inevitable assurances, girl friends!" he said, lifting his glass. "And am I going to miss you?"

"You could come to New York," said Rachel.

"So you mentioned." You know, Mrs. Vincent, I've been doing my best to persuade Rachel to marry me and stay here this winter. Instead of leading the wild life in the great and wicked city. She won't listen to me. I wish you'd use your influence with her."

"Mother wouldn't want you for a son-in-law," declared Rachel. "Look at her struggle between her truthful feelings and her kind heart."

"That's a shameful lie. Your mother has known me a long time and thinks I'm marvelous. Don't you, Mrs. Vincent?"

"In some ways you're certainly marvelous," Anne agreed.

"But seriously—about Rachel marrying me—"

"Rachel will decide that for herself," Rachel said. "Anne deliberately, 'will decide everything important in her life with myself without advice from anyone. And I believe that she'll strike a pretty fair average of deciding right."

"There, you see, Bob! Mother thinks I ought to decline your flattering offer."

"She didn't say that," said Bob.

"She implied it," returned Rachel. "What's more, mother isn't bothered about my living in New York with Pink and finding a job for myself. Are you, mother?" She did not wait for an answer. "And what would I do here all winter? Bob, you've got the library and your wood carving, but I'd have nothing to do except cook your meals and wait for you to come and eat them."

"I could lend you improving books from the library and teach you a little wood carving, angel. We could walk on the beach and back in the hills and go fishing and sing sometimes and talk and on very stormy days sit by the fire and spin."

"The excitement would be too much for me," said Rachel. Then, as if taking some secret resolution from her spirit and declaring it openly to define and clinch it for her own satisfaction, she added with emphasis: "I've got something I must do this winter, something of my own."

Another Reason Why FIRESTONE GIVES YOU SO MUCH Extra Value at No Extra Cost

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

Before leaving on your vacation trip, join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires—today's top tire value.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES DO YOU KNOW

That last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children? That a million more were injured? That more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

Q. What is meant by the term "Fishing rodeo"?

A. They are fishing contests rapidly attaining National notice at Texas coast points, notably at Port Aransas, the favorite game being tarpon.

PICNIC

(Continued from page 1) The music for the occasion was furnished by the Rising Star W. W. Brass Band, which was very well executed considering that it was the second time it had appeared in public, and had but little practice before appearing there.

The old soldiers, a great many of them, told some of their war experiences from the rostrum, which was very interesting to all.

Upon the whole the picnic was an overwhelming success—a successful success! It could scarcely have been otherwise, with such enterprising and hospitable characters as Gilbert Kaufman, Ragsdale Hull et al, who quit their various businesses got in behind it to make it a success.

The old soldiers, who were there, went away feeling 19 years younger, and with many sweet and pleasant memories of things good to eat, of things social, and of things pertaining to their war experiences, which will be a pleasure to them while they live; the Jolus and Samlies (sweethearts), who were there will never forget promenading 100 or 500 miles around over that picnic ground,—will not forget how they shook those number 5 shoes, in practicing the terephorean art; last, but not least, will not forget the gastronomic feats which they performed together; how sick they got at the stomachs from riding the steam hobby horse, and how it made them sweat (not perspire) to throw up all that beef, bread, lemonade, ice cream, soda pop, etc.—these things will be bright and green oases in the garden of their lives while they live!

Cross Plains, you did the Royal thing on the 4th and 5th.—Editor.

Mrs. Amanda Ford of Oakland, California is visiting here with her sister, Mrs. C. A. Kent, and other relatives this week.

The Oogala Club wishes to extend their thanks and appreciation to the citizens of Cross Plains and vicinity for their cooperation given during the picnic. Your consideration can never be estimated. To those who assisted in making our plans a success—THANK YOU. THE OOGALA GIRLS.

BRUNE PLANTS IN GARDEN--JENKINS

At this stage of vegetative growths in gardens, it is necessary that certain steps be taken for improvements, which closes Sunday night. A number of additions have been made to the church.

Large crowds are attending both services daily in the annual Baptist revival here, which closes Sunday night.

Preaching is being done by Rev. J. Perry King, Clarendon pastor, and music is under the direction of Rev. H. Virgil Reynolds, of Abilene Services, are being held at 10 o'clock morning and eight each evening.

The Rev. Mr. King is receiving wide praise by members of not only the local Baptist church but other denominations as well, for his ability in the pulpit. "He's one of the most gifted gospel speakers ever to pass our way," said the pastor of a nearby rural church, to a representative of the Review Thursday morning.

Topics for the closing services of the meeting Sunday were announced yesterday morning as follows: Sunday morning, "How We May Have All of the Things We Need"; Sunday night, "The One Sin That God Will Not and Can Not Pardon"; An invitation is being extended to all church people throughout the Cross Plains territory to come and have part in the closing days of this revival.

A high spot of the musical part of each service to date has been miramba selections by the Rev. Mr. Reynolds, regarded as one of the denomination's most talented musicians in West Texas.

Each team will prepare a leader, pitting a man and lady against a mixed duo of the opponents. Play will be in Scotch for some—each side playing a snail, with the players alternating strokes.

An effort is being made to, as many as 80 players, 40 women and 40 men. Only requirement to enter are payment of the 50-cent fee and registering at either of the newspapers or at the clubhouses.

A gala party is being planned for the culmination of the tournament for participants and their families. Losers in the event are to receive ice cream and otherwise act as hosts at the function.

Deadline for registrations is Friday noon of next week. Play are reminded to put their names in the pot as soon as possible in order that none caring to play be left out.

About 20 girls of the Oogala are making plans to attend a week's encampment which is to be held at Canyoncito Camp in F. Dura canyon, beginning August fifth.

Mrs. Orba Booth and Miss Don McCall will act as chaperones. Such games as swimming, basketball, soft ball, volleyball, camp fire songs, Indian cerecials, and inspiring devotionals, vesper services will be held.
