THE POCKETBOOK of KNOWLEDGE BY TOPPS

RECRUIT WILL BE JUST ABOUT THROUGH, TOO, WHEN DAY ENDS

The army will introduce many a young American this winter to the full meaning of Sunday, the day of rest.

It will be the one full day of rest the citizen soldier will get each week, and if he doesn't actually use part of it for that purpose, the army will think the 24-hour day it has mapped out has failed in its purpose.

On four days each week, at least 11 hours will be active or working hours, with time out only for eating and catching your breath. On Wednesdays and Saturdays, most of the boys will get an afternoon off from strenuous training.

Back of this schedule lies the idea that men must be honed up to fighting by hard work and hard play. In most other nations, armies get two years to pummel their civilian manpower into fighting units. Our training period is only a year.

From 6 to 5 So usually, it will be up at 6, and one darn thing after another until about 5. Then supper, a movie or boxing bout and bed, preferably at nine. Not later than 10.

At first there'll be a lot more drill than flabby civilian muscles will like. Aching, creaking and groaning will last one month. The army will call it basic training. Most of the recruits will figure it's basic torture.

But after a month the draftee will be hard enough to leave his reception center and go either to the regular army or the national guard for specialized training. In modern armies, specialists are the rule, not the exception. More than 1,000 skills are required.

Classed as to Skills The army will find these skills with a punch card system. A man's skills will be listed when he comes in. After basic training, skills opposite holes in the cards will be run through a machine. It will auto-

EGGS 25,000 YEARS OLD ARE LOCATED

The University of Texas has a dozen aged eggs—and is very proud of them.

They were laid 25,000 years ago apparently by a water bird similar to the crane, and are the first ever discovered in Texas.

Found recently by a university WPA field crew near Aransas Pass, they were packed in plaster of Paris and brought to the school for cleaning.

The bird probably laid them in the sand near a water hole and forgot them. Dr. E. H. Sellards, director of the University's bureau of economic geology, said.

Fossilized, they are white and slightly larger than chicken eggs.

Good Highways Important To U.S. Defense Program

The influence exerted by roads has been a dominant factor in determining the outcome of armed conflicts. Just how important good transportation arteries have proved in military campaigns down through the ages is being emphasized as a part of the observance of "Texas Highway Week" which is being sponsored by The Texas Good Roads Association.

Emphasis on the feats accomplished by the mechanized legions of Germany in the recent European campaign through the Low Countries brings home to Texas her own strategic position in the scheme of the United States' present defense program which will require adequate highways over which to transport this nation's own mechanized legions.

The recent maneuvers in the Sabine River area bore out the previous claims of military highway adherents that the highways of Texas and the nation are of no means adequate to serve even normal peaceful commerce, much less are they adequate to bear the strain of transporting both civilian and military movement as would be required in event of war.

Strategic Network Set Up Some realization of the inadequacies may be gained from an examination of the condition of the strategic mileage in Texas. The U.S. Army has set up first, second, and third priorities. These priorities account for 27 per cent of the Texas state system; 18 per cent of the total state mileage, or 4,154 miles, being first priority roads.

A complete picture of how this strategic network stacks up, mile for mile, with the type of modern highways needed immediately to serve our armed forces, shows: A total of 5,100 miles of this system does not measure up to the minimum standards. A total of 4,478 miles has less than the minimum 22-foot surface width demanded for military transports, 163 miles have less than the nine inch flexible base required; 419 miles are classified as "unsurfaced earth"; 39 miles are classed as unimproved gravel.

Official military reports also point out that if military movements are to be expedited with the least possible delay to industrial traffic, much of the mileage on the military network must be provided with stable shoulders parking and congested major industrial areas should be bypassed. The provision for industrial traffic is as important as provision for military traffic since military operations, generally speaking, are only as successful as their supply and communication system.

RACING WOULD AID FARMERS, RANCHERS, ADVOCATES CLAIM

FORT WORTH—Many Texas ranchers and farmers hope that this State soon will have legalized horse racing for two reasons—first, to improve the breed and increase the number of thoroughbred and fine stock horses, and, second, to give them additional revenues from the part-time breeding business.

Such is the belief of the Thoroughbred Horse Association of Texas, which has received reports of large benefits in California for ranchers and farmers there because of legalized racing in that State.

Officers of the Texas Association point out that, in California, racing has resulted in the investment of about $40,000,000—in grazing lands for the production of thoroughbreds, building of barns, purchase of fine stock. Feed and grain growers have been selling their products on a large scale, as dozens of breeding farms are spending about $10,000 each a year for hay and grain.

Small and large breeders throughout Texas are convinced, too, that legalized racing will give impetus to the program of producing not only better thoroughbreds but also better stock horses, by occasional cross breeding of a good stock horse with a thoroughbred. If racing comes back to Texas, the ranchers and farmers also will benefit on a plan modeled after the one in use in California. There, any time a California-bred horse wins a race, the breeder receives a share of the purse, even though he may no longer own the animal. Also, there is one race a day—throughout each meet—for California-bred horses only and, in addition, there are several big feature races such as the California Futurity, in which the winning horse recently won $15,000. Similar races in Texas, for Texas-bred horses only, would do much to reward farmers and ranchmen who engage in producing thoroughbreds to round out a program of livestock raising and farming.

SINGING CONVENTION TO MEET FEBRUARY

G. A. Caraway president of the Callahan county singing convention, has authorized this paper to announce that on account of the bad weather last Sunday the singing convention did not meet at Bell Plains as announced; but will meet Sunday, February 2, but will meet Sunday, February 2, at two o'clock. Everyone is invited to come and take part. There will be a number of good singers present at this meeting.

Fires take a toll of around 10,000 deaths every year in the United States. Speaking, are only as successful as their supply and communication system. It is pointed out that the phenomenal task of providing this adequate military network for Texas will require the expenditure of millions of dollars—approximately $80,000,000, to be more exact. Despite this fact the authorization for roads in all states for the federal fiscal years 1942-43 was reduced from $283,000,000 as recommended by the House and Senate road committees to $178,500,000 at the current session of Congress.

The Texas Good Roads Association believes that it is a matter of concern to the public that the federal government, while condemning the states for diversion of highway taxes to non-highway purposes, engaged in this reprehensible practice to the tune of some $200,000,000 last year. While highway users have indicated a willingness to contribute their pennies and their dollars to further improvement of highways, to serve in time of peace or war, they should not be called upon to stand idly by and see the money they pay in direct taxes diverted to other governmental uses in the face of an unprecedented crisis.

Offhand Observations

The Rising Star Record makes the following statement:—What will the European nations use for money when they spend everything they have killing people and destroying property? Not only will the public treasury be empty, but every individual will be broke. European poverty will be spelled in capitol letters.

We have thought of that and also, at the rate our own country is spending where will we be? As to England, some have said if she is whipped in this war we will be the only democratic nation left in the whole world. Will that be a calamity for us or not? Remember we were at one time the only democratic nation and our own constitution was written by men well acquainted with despotic conditions in Europe at that time.

Now don't get us wrong, we believe in helping England, but not to the extent of breaking our own country. It is to be earnestly hoped we all keep calm and our heads clear to be able to think things out in the right way and especially our congressmen, who hold the destiny of our nation in their hands and if they delegate many more powers to the President we will have no need of a congress. Whither are we drifting? It is up to congress, not the President.

Germany, because of its leather shortage, is constantly searching for substitutes to fill this gap. Experiments are being conducted at the present time to tan into leather certain portions of the stomachs of cattle. It is claimed that leather produced from this source is softer than sole leather and somewhat similar to the leather produced from sheepskins.

Under the title, Queer Grounds for divorce, we learn that some judges are very, very sympathetic human beings. "Judge" said a Tennessee woman who was seeking a divorce from her husband, "He never bought me a box of snuff, and he knows I love snuff better than anything."

Thrusting aside a charge of non-support as unimportant in comparison to this he granted her her freedom, evidently agreeing that such an oversight constituted a monstrous breach of the marriage contract.

John Garland Pollard, former Governor of Virginia has collected a number of maxims which he calls Wise and Otherwise. Here are a few of his definitions:—Diplomacy is the art of letting some one have your way.

Peace, a blessing that can be made perpetual if nations will agree not to make new wars until they have paid for old ones. A temperamental person is one who is ninety-five per cent temper, five per cent mental. Anarchy, where every one is so free, that no one can do as he would like to do.

We find there are more brave women in the world than we had considered. Every week almost nowadays we read in the papers where some brave woman has done some brave deed.

Here is one we read about some time ago, but stays with us because of the woman's calmness. The lady of the story is Mrs. Katharine Phelps whose home is in Wisconsin, and she owns a delicatessen. One busy day Mrs. Phelps was surprised when a man walked up to her and demanded her money. Calmly, Mrs. Phelps asked the amount he wanted. Now it was his time to be surprised, so he answered, "Not less than ten dollars." In a business like way she laid a one dollar bill on the counter and told him that was all she could spare. In a gruff voice, accompanied by a look that would ordinarily have frozen any other woman to the spot on which she was standing, he burst out that was not enough. So she reached into the drawer and calmly handed him another bill which matched the first one exactly and turning about went on calmly with her work. The man sullenly walked out.

Imagine, if you can, how a young man feels when he is forced to leave his home land, mother, father and other loved ones, probably to never see them again. "Who are these people that are cheering," asked recruit, as the soldiers marched to the train. "They are the ones who are not going, was the veteran's reply. General Sherman had it right when he gave his definition for war.

TIPS GIVEN ON HOW TO WASH STOCKINGS WITHOUT DAMAGING

Perfection of nylon has added another to the list of hosiery types requiring delicate laundering, says Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, Extension Service A. and M. College. Makers of the new fabric stress that it should be handled in the wash in the same way as silk, rayon and wool. Nylon, however, has two individual peculiarities; the soil washes off rather than out, and it usually dries very quickly.

For all types of stockings, excepting cotton or mercerized cotton, the rule is to dissolve mild soap in hot water, then let in enough cold to reduce the water to lukewarm or body temperature. Wash the stockings around gently after immersion, rubbing only lightly if rubbing is needed. Turn the stockings inside out and repeat the swishing. Squeeze out the moisture without twisting and rinse repeatedly in water, of the same temperature as the original suds.

"Stockings will look much more attractive when dry if they are eased back to shape before drying," the specialist advises. In drying, it is advisable to hang them from the reinforced part of the foot, unless the often used method of drying them flat upon a towel is preferred.

Cotton and mercerized cotton stockings, which are having a revival, especially for sports wear, may be washed in warmer water without detriment.

NOTICE IS GIVEN TO NEW COTTON GROWERS

Any farmers who do not have a cotton allotment for 1941 and who intend to plant cotton in 1941 should make an application for a new Growers allotment before February first, as all reserve for new growers cotton allotment will be used up on that date, announces E. SILT FROM AMERICAN FARMS KILLING FISH

The silt that has washed off American farms in recent years, taking the nation as a whole, has done more damage to fish, shell fish, animals and plants than stream pollution by factories, says H. H. Bennett, chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service. Dr. Bennett is the man who took in hand rehabilitation of the "dust bowl" several years ago with headquarters at Amarillo.

The pollution of streams, lakes and beaches by industrial waste disposal offers more spectacular examples of destruction than usually results from silt in stream, he adds, but on a nation wide basis, erosion does more damage to aquatic life.

HIGH RENTS GIVE CITY BLACK EYE

High rents, which have given Brownwood a statewide black eye through publicity in Texas papers of large circulation, are now giving the city a nationwide shiner. The current issue of Collier's magazine contains, on page 21, the following short article about Brownwood.

"The Southwest: Brownwood, squatting complacently on a rolling, red, mesquite-clad plain, is Texas' newest military capital, the site of Camp Bowie. Six months ago the camp was nothing at all. Today Brownwood is booming and has broken out with a rash of cheap dance halls and barbecue huts and a nightmare of tourist cabins and hastily built apartments. But the town blows few alcoholic breaths into the Texas sky. Even beer is taboo. The boys in Bowie came up against the "dry county" system and discovered that to buy a bottle of liquor you must first get a prescription, at fifty cents, from a licensed physician.

"Rents are high. Five-room plain houses cost about $100 per month. Before the boom the price was $25."
