A contrast in horsepower was presented at the Chrysler Corporation's "New Worlds in Engineering" show at the Kansas City Auto Show when this French thoroughbred brought his mistress, Madam Claude Yalois, in to see the Chrysler K-310 experimental engine. The engine develops 310 horsepower using premium fuels without supercharging. "New Worlds in Engineering" has been seen by 3,500,000 people throughout the United States during its tour which will take it to major U. S. cities this year.

EDITH CARLILE WINERICH, NATIVE OF WEST TEXAS, STEEPED IN HISTORY

WASHINGTON. — Edith Carlile Winerich, born and raised in West Texas, has no college degree but she is steeped in American History. Her knowledge has come straight from the original documents from which history books are written, in the massive National Archives building on Pennsylvania Avenue. Mrs. Winerich, whose formal education ended with the public schools in her native Roscoe, is in charge of one section of the Archives building, where millions of original documents and letters are preserved for posterity.

In her section are all the files of the Treasury Department—and these includes much, much more than just documents about financial affairs.

Mrs. Winerich went to San Angelo after graduation from Roscoe High School to take a job with the Retail Merchants Association. She stayed with that organization for 16 years, then came to Washington. She worked for the Army in the Pentagon from 1943 to 1946, handling records, and since then has been with the Archives.

Lyle J. Holverstott, director of the division including Mrs. Winerich's section, says she spends much of her spare time in browsing through the old records.

"I'm an Ohioan", he said, "but she is sure making all of us Texas conscious around here."

Not long ago she uncovered an original ship manifest showing that Stephen F. Austin landed in the Port of New Orleans on Aug. 1, 1835. He was aboard the Brig Danderer, which had sailed from Vera Cruz. When he landed he listed his personal effects. These included one trunk, one carpet bag, arms, bedding and one bag of beans for seed. Austin was described as a planter. The 170-ton vessel was built in Maine and registered Sept. 23, 1833, in Baltimore.

The manifest forwarded to the Treasury here by the Collectors of Customs at New Orleans, also showed that other passengers in the cabin with Austin included John Henchman, a botanist, and a "Mr. San Angelo, lady and servant," who brought with them two trunks, three clothes bags, a guitar and case, and bedding.

She also found in Light House Division records that the first such service maintained by the United States in Texas after she joined the union was a light ship anchored inside Galveston bar in 1849. She had a light 48 feet above the water which could be seen for a distance of 12½ nautical miles.

Moored in 28 feet of water, the vessel served to guide ships across the bar. The records contain this note:

"Strangers should not approach Galveston bar from the eastward without a pilot in less than seven fathoms of water. They may anchor with safety in seven fathoms of water with the light ship bearing west by north."

The first light houses in Texas maintained by the government went into service in 1852. Three of them were listed in the records as being put into operation that year: one at Point Bolivar (Galveston); one in Matagorda Island at Pass Cavallo, and one at Point Isabel, Brazos Island, near Brownsville.

A fourth lighthouse was established at Pass Aransas in 1855. It was 60 feet above sea level and cast a beam visible 13 nautical miles in the Gulf.

The Point Bolivar light house reflector was 117 feet above the water and visible 16 miles at sea. In the files was an original deed, signed by the then Texas governor J. Hansbrough Bell conveying title to the U. S. Government of land on which it was built.

The Matagorda bay light was 91 feet above the water and visible for 15 miles.

Also in the records was a map filed with the U. S. Government by Texas officials soon after the state joined the Union. Among other things, it identifies the present site of San Angelo as Fort Concho.

Mrs. F. C. Newton and daughter, Delma Jean, were brought to their home here on Tuesday of last week after having received treatment for several days in a Gorman hospital. Both are reported to be improving.

Early Detection Aim Of Cancer Crusade

One-third of the cancer deaths during the past year could have been prevented if the disease had been detected early, Frank C. Smith of Houston, president of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society, told state Cancer Crusade leaders on the eve of the 1952 drive.

The Crusade for funds to fight America's number two killer began in Texas Wednesday, April 2, with a special "kick-off" broadcast from the State Capitol.

"The April Crusade is not just a drive for money", Smith, a cancer survivor himself, said. "The Crusade offers an opportunity for extensive education. Remember that every solicitation made is a chance to save a life."

Smith urged Crusade workers to distribute pamphlets giving the danger signals of cancer as they seek funds for the American Cancer Society's programs of research, education and service.

"The greatest weapon we have to supplement the doctor's work is education of the public," Smith said. "We must drive home the fact that early cancer can be cured . . . that the rate of cure declines with the progress of the disease."

This year the state goal is $600,000, of which 60 per cent will be spent in Texas and another 25 per cent spent nationally on research. Of the remaining 15 per cent, a considerable part will be spent in Texas on educational material. The drive will be sparked by the theme, "Cancer Strikes One In Five. Strike Back!"

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hill, Jr. visited her parents in Brazos last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Falkner and family of Oil Center New Mexico are spending their vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Falkner, and other relatives.

Mrs. A. J. Mathis was released from the Rising Star Hospital Saturday morning after receiving treatment for several days. Mrs. Mathis is slowly improving.

SHE'S THE SAFEST LADY ON THE ROAD

With Chrysler POWER STEERING plus Chrysler POWER BRAKES

At the wheel of a new Chrysler, you have quicker, surer control of motion than you've ever had in a car. You can't imagine what it's like till you drive it! With this full-time power steering, hydraulic power does 4/5 the steering work at your gentle pull on the wheel! You also turn the wheel 1/3 less distance. And on rough roads, soft shoulders, snow or sand, "wheel fight" just doesn't happen. Your hand actually has five times the usual steering control, through every minute of every mile . . . with the same sure "wheel feel" at all times!

With this safer way to steer, power brakes make stops at all speeds safer and easier, too. Power from the engine "boosts" every touch of your toe. Actually you stop with up to 2/3 less foot pressure than non-power brakes. You can bring your Chrysler to a halt from full speeds in many feet less distance than other cars of comparable size can stop. See your Chrysler dealer soon. Feel for yourself why thousands of owners say Chrysler offers the two greatest advances in many years in driving safety and driving ease!

Do You Remember?...

Taken From The Files of The Review, 15 and 25 Years Ago

APRIL 23, 1937

The residential section of Cross Plains has taken on a new aspect this week as householders have been cleaning and beautifying their premises in cooperation with a city-wide campaign under the sponsorship of the Junior Study Club and the City Council.

At a special meeting of the board of trustees Friday night Lewis C. Norman, high school principal for the past eight years, was elected superintendent of Cross Plains schools, succeeding Nat Williams, who will leave July first to head the Baird schools.

With a grade of 97½, Mildred Browning, freshman, posted the highest average in Cross Plains high school for the fifth six weeks period. Josephine Harris, senior, claimed second honors with only one point behind.

Cross Plains ward schools May Queen will be crowned at the May Pete April 30, on Williams Field.

Philpeco Club golfers lost to Coleman Sunday afternoon by a score of nine to seven. The match was a scheduled engagement in the Mid-Texas Golf Association.

Grain prospects throughout the Cross Plains trade territory were brightened considerable early Tuesday morning when rain measuring three-fourths of an inch blanketed this section.

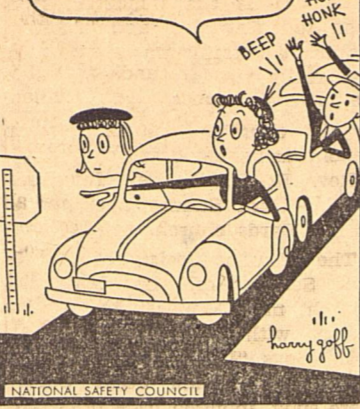

Funeral services for Mrs. R. P. Odum, 73, who died at her home in the south part of town Monday, were conducted from the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon with Rev. P. L. Shuler, pastor, officiating.

Holden and Tyler plan to drill another well on their lease west of Cross Plains, the Review learned in an interview with T. S. Holden Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Childers of Burnt Branch are parents of a baby girl, born Monday afternoon. Mrs. Mark Adair of this place

Veterans ? Box

Q—I bought a house with a GI loan, and I now find I'm to re-enter military service. Do I have any protection against foreclosure, just in case I can't meet my payments while in service?

A—Yes. Under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, you and the lender may agree to reduce the loan payments during your military service and for 90 days thereafter. Provided, of course, you're unable to make the full payments because of being in uniform.

Q—I interrupted my GI Bill schooling to go back into military service. I expect to be discharged soon, and I want to know when I have to resume school again.

A—You must resume your GI Bill studies within a reasonable period after your separation from service. The length of this period will depend on the circumstances of your particular case. Factors considered are availability of training, family conditions and the like.

Q—I need an automobile to travel to and from work, since there are no public means of transportation available. May I get a GI business loan for the car?

A—No. GI loans for automobiles may be approved only when necessary for the veteran in conducting his own business or in fulfilling the requirements of his job. The use of a car to travel to and from work does not qualify a veteran for a GI auto loan.

Q—Are Korean veterans eligible for VA grants for wheelchair homes, if they meet all requirements?

A—Yes. Grants are available to seriously disabled veterans of all wars and peacetime service, so long as they meet requirements of the law.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kendel and baby, of Williamsburg, Kansas, are here for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Booth, and with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dunn of Cottonwood.

C. E. TENNISON BROUGHT HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Ed Tennison, who underwent major surgery in Harris Memorial Hospital, in Fort Worth, several weeks ago, was brought to his home here Saturday and is reported to be doing as well as can be expected. Mrs. Leota Moore, of McCamey, is here helping care for her father.

SOUTHWESTERNERS MAY SOMEDAY HEAT HOMES WITH BOTTLED SUNSHINE

AUSTIN.—If hopes of a University of Texas scientist come true, Southwesterners may some day heat their homes with bottled sunshine.

The university has announced that Burnett Forrest Treat, an engineer, has begun "initial tests on the possibility of harnessing the sun's rays for heating in this section."

As part of his experiments, Treat has installed a testing apparatus comprising a maze of water pipes set in a flat, four-by-six foot, concrete rectangle atop the university's main engineering building. The whole gadget is painted black for maximum heat absorption.

Solar Equipment Only Cost
If Treat's experiments prove successful, Southwestern homes, farm buildings and businesses may be warmed in certain ways for generations, with the only cost being the original outlay for the solar equipment.

The idea is based on the general theory of gathering heat from the sun during the day and using it at a later time—at night or during a cold spell.

The theory offers particular advantages to ranchers whose property is often far removed from conventional heat sources. Large barns and stock sheds could be heated economically and safely, it was suggested.

Basis for Idea

The system is based on the idea that the sun can heat water, or some other substance, which can be circulated through pipes in a wall, giving off the heat to warm a room. Heat is stored in about the same way soup is kept hot in a vacuum bottle. The sun-warmed water is run into insulated storage tanks. Treat is now running daily tests, measuring the amount of heat given amounts of water will absorb. In a year, he is expected to have a fairly accurate idea on how much warmth Southwesterners can hope to capture from the sun. After that will come further experiments on storing heat, as well as testing of heat carriers.

Motorists Urged to Have Vehicles Inspected Soon

"Get your vehicle inspected and avoid the delay and inconvenience of having to wait in line", said Chief G. W. Busby, Motor Vehicle Inspection Division, Department of Public Safety, Austin, Texas.

The 2,700 official inspection stations licensed in Texas so far are inspecting some 50,000 cars per week and in order to inspect all the cars in this State by the deadline, September 6th, the number of cars inspected per week will have to be doubled.

There can be no further extension of the deadline and operators of vehicles not inspected on September 7th will be subject to arrest. The law provides a fine of not to exceed $200.00 for any person guilty of operating a vehicle after September 7th when such vehicle has not been inspected and approved. More and more stations are being licensed in Texas daily and the operators of these stations are waiting to faithfully and honestly inspect your car at your earliest convenience. Take your car to the inspection station of your choice and get your approval certificate while there is plenty of time and no waiting.

When you get your approval certificate on your car, you will take pride in knowing that your car is safe to operate and that you are helping to contribute to a safer Texas.

Hunters Are Urged To Be Good Sportsmen

AUSTIN.—The February issue of Texas Game & Fish magazine quotes an editorial from the Tyler Courier - Times - Telegraph about sportsmen's obligations to wildlife.

After reviewing the relationship of land ownership and wild game, the newspaper states:

"What we need more than anything else is a wholesome observance on the part of the hunters themselves of the laws we now have. To them, hunting is a game just like baseball or football—and, as true sportsmen, they should observe the rules of the game as set out in the law of their state. "A hunter who kills more than the legal limit should lose caste with other hunters, just as a boxer who strikes below the belt loses standing in the world of sport. This should be so much the general attitude of hunters that he who exceeded the bag limit would no longer brag about it and some of the hunting clubs would so discipline their members that hunting law violations with them would become extinct.

"The number of hunters is increasing each year. This makes it all the more necessary that the hunting be done legally. Many of the law violations are by the younger hunters, men, in the usual course of things should have many years of hunting ahead of them—if they observe the season date limits and the bag limits better. If they don't, they will continue to find hunting worse instead of better each year.

"After all, there are not enough game wardens to enforce the law adequately. Observance is largely up to the hunters themselves and whether they still have game to hunt in the years to come also is up to them."

Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Gaskins and baby of Fort Worth spent the week end here in the home of his sister, Mrs. Exal McMillan.

Mrs. Jack Aiken had guests from Lamesa Sunday.

MISS SUNSHINE

Beaming her smile of approval for the new romper suit she is wearing is little Miss Sunshine. Made of sturdy washable cotton seersucker that is gay and charming, this sun and fun playsuit is neatly fastened with a Talon zipper. The National Cotton Council reported the pattern is available for children six months to one year.

Burkett 4-H Girl To National Camp

Barbara Golson, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Golson of Burkett, is one of the four Texas delegates to the 1952 National 4-H Club Camp June 18-25, at Washington, D. C.

Floyd Lynch, state 4-H leader for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, made this announcement after Barbara completed eight years of 4-H work, with her demonstrations including clothing, bedroom improvement, home management, poultry, gardening, sheep and beef cattle.

Barbara has made 113 garments and 83 articles for her home; prepared 2,019 meals; canned 293 quarts and froze another 142 quarts of food; improved her bedroom; and her livestock demonstrations have involved the feeding and showing of nine calves and 14 sheep.

Buys Piano

The profits from her livestock demonstrations have been used to buy a piano and cornet and to pay for music lessons. She maintains her own bank account and buys her own clothing.

Barbara is interested in recreation. She has served as recreation leader for her local club and as vice president and president of the county 4-H recreation group. She has attended the Longhorn Recreation Laboratory three times and has taught recreation at district camps and assisted with recreation activities at the State 4-H Round-up.

She is a junior leader in the Burkett Club and under her supervision the group removed hazards that could cause accidents from the school grounds and at home. The members raised money for their club by selling quilts, coat hangers and Christmas cards; sponsoring ice cream suppers and domino parties and selling food at ball games in the community. They remembered the sick and old folks of the community by sending them gifts and fruit baskets.

Her big reward for outstanding achievement and leadership in her work came last year when she was selected as a delegate to National 4-H Congress, Chicago.

Barbara says, "With this marvelous experience of 4-H in democratic living, I realize how much I should do to live up to the 4-H ideals. Throughout my life I want to remember the 4-H motto—To Make the Best Better."

Coleman County Home Demonstration Agent Marialyce Smith supervises Barbara's 4-H program of demonstrations and activities. Her mother is local leader for the Burkett 4-H Club.

Her trip to National 4-H Camp will be financed by the United Gas Pipeline Company, Inc. Other camp delegates are Jack Harris, Hale County, Wilma Dell Strickland, Nacogdoches County and Benno Luensmann, Bexar County. They will be accompanied by Lynch and Miss Erma Wines, assistant state 4-H leader.

L. F. Foster and Bill Button, of Rising Star, visited in San Antonio Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Plowman and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cook spent the week end in Fort Worth and attended the Ice Capades.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wetzel returned home from Leesville, Louisiana the first of the week. Mrs. Wetzel had spent several weeks with her daughter and family and Mr. Wetzel drove to Leesville for a visit and Mrs. Wetzel accompanied him home.

labor needed to produce the crop. Harvest the crop as soon as the peanuts are mature, especially when southern blight is present. If winnowed, thresh as soon as the plants are sufficiently dry to reduce kernel splitting when the peanuts are shelled. Cure them in sacks, either in ricks or artificially. See that a good threshing job is done, says Miller, for the grower is docked for the dirt, sticks and trash left in the nuts.

Clean well filled nuts bring the most money. Know the grade and value of the product and sell on grade, says Miller. Following the seven-step program will help solve many of the peanut production problems, increase incomes and at the same time improve the soil on the farm.

Miller points out that peanuts should be grown in combination with other crops, pastures and livestock for balanced farming. One crop peanut farming leads to poor distribution of labor, depleted soil fertility and organic matter and increases wind erosion hazards.

Land on which peanuts are to be planted can be improved by using legumes in the rotation, applying barnyard manure, by leaving on the land or plowing under all crop residues and using commercial fertilizers. Steep or badly eroded lands should be returned to permanent pastures, says Miller. High yields—they are the profitable ones—are produced from fertile and well managed soils.

Only the best seed of the recommended varieties should be used for planting. Fertile soil, well prepared seed beds and use of the best known cultural practices will not produce maximum yields when low quality seed are planted. Chemical treatment of shelled seed is recommended. Good stands are necessary for high yields, and Miller says from 35 to 40 pounds of shelled seed should be planted per acre. Tests made at the Stephenville Experiment Substation show that seed treatment improved stands by 50 percent and increased yields from seven to 12 bushels per acre. This, says Miller, is cheap insurance.

The specialist suggests that growers confer with their local county agent on disease and insect control measures that should be followed for maximum yields and quality nuts.

He says any practice that will increase yields will lower production costs. Using modern machinery will also reduce the amount of
