High-speed chase goes through Hedley

A Memphis man remains in custody in the Hall County Jail this week after he led officers on a high speed chase in two counties before being shot and eventually captured in Donley County last Wednesday, November 24.

Donley County Sheriff Butch Blackburn said his office received a call at 10 a.m. that the Hall County Sheriff's Department and Memphis Police were pursuing a white four-door car into Donley County on US 287.

The subject, Terry James Mackie of Memphis, had fled from officers at the Hall County Courthouse as he was being arrested on a warrant to revoke his probation for burglary, Blackburn said. Mackie reportedly assaulted a Hall County Deputy before fleeing in the car. He led officers on a chase around Memphis before leaving town on SH 256.

Blackburn said Mackie then came back into Memphis, got on US 287 toward Donley County, and rammed the Hall County sheriff's truck at a blocked intersection.

Donley County Deputy Mike Spier tried to stop the subject at County Road 26 on US 287 by shooting the suspect's tires. Mackie was hit by one round in the low back, the sheriff said, but he continued to flee into Hedley.

The sheriff said his officer was justified in shooting at the suspect.

"The subject had already committed aggravated assault on a peace officer, and he was disregarding public safety, running at speeds over 100 miles per hour," Blackburn said. "We did not want him entering a populated area, and we were not going to let him into Clarendon due to the fact that we did not want an innocent bystander getting killed."

Blackburn and State Trooper Chad Simpson were set to intercept the subject west of Hedley, but Mackie turned north on SH 203 toward Wellington. About one mile outside of the McKnight community, Blackburn said Mackie's car was rammed and knocked off the roadway by Memphis Police. The subject then took off on foot across some CRP land where he was apprehended by officers from the Hall and Donley County sheriff departments.

Mackie was transported to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo where he was treated before being returned to the Hall County Jail.

Blackburn said Mackie is now facing charges of Assault on a Peace Officer, Aggravated Assault on a Peace Officer, and Evading.

Local sales tax revenue falls

Clarendon's sales tax revenue for the month of November dipped nearly nine percent, but the city is still running ahead for the year-to-date according to figures released by Texas Comptroller Susan Combs.

The city's sales tax rebate this month totaled $34,500.38, which is down 8.7 percent from the same period one year ago; but Clarendon's sales tax revenue for the calendar year is now $289,154.97, which is an increase of 1.44 percent.

Howardwick and Hedley also were down for the month but ahead for the year.

Howardwick was down 27.64 percent at $943.13 for November but was still 12.93 percent ahead for the year-to-date with $7,040.42.

Hedley sales tax revenue for November was down 25.66 percent at $1,167.33 but the year-to-date figure was up 4.06 percent at $12,460.92.

Combs said state sales tax revenue in October was $1.62 billion, up 6.6 percent compared to October 2009.

"Total sales tax collections have now exceeded year ago amounts for a seventh consecutive month," said Combs. "Once again growth was posted in major sectors like the oil and gas industry, retail trade and construction. We will need to keep monitoring revenue from these and other sectors to see if tax collections maintain an upward trend."

Combs sent Texas cities $367.2 million in sales tax allocations, up 7.2 percent compared to November 2009. So far this calendar year, city sales tax allocations are down 0.2 percent compared to the same time period last year.

November sales tax allocations to local governments represent September sales reported to the Comptroller in October by monthly tax filers and July, August and September sales reported to the Comptroller in October by quarterly tax filers.

The Comptroller's December local sales tax allocation will be made on Friday, Dec. 10.

US has been duped on North Korea

By Dr. Paul Kengor

North Korea is not an easy issue. I've dealt with it since the early 1990s, beginning at the Center for Strategic & International Studies. I had few answers then, and I still have few today.

It also is not a partisan issue. For over 60 years, Democrat and Republican presidents alike have suffered the daunting challenges posed by this belligerent dictatorship. Some responded weakly, some hawkishly, with neither party characterized by a single response. The first president to deal with North Korea, Harry Truman, a Democrat, was anything but timid, sending massive U.S. troops into a major war on the Korean peninsula, one that killed tens of thousands of American boys. It was just the start of a 60-year nightmare.

What is interesting, however, has been the long battle within the American left over North Korea. The left has suffered two threats in particular—call them “internal.” First, there was the deception and manipulation by the communist left, which, by its nature, refused to acknowledge it was serving the Communist Party line. Second, there was dangerous self-delusion and gullibility among some leading Democrats. As to the first, consider the instructive example of Frank Marshall Davis; on the second, consider Jimmy Carter.

As I've written before, Frank Marshall Davis was a mentor to Barack Obama, and an actual member of Communist Party USA. (Click here to view documents.) He did pro-Soviet propaganda work, particularly in his weekly Honolulu Record column. I have all of Davis's columns for 1950, the year Korea erupted into war.

Many American liberals/progressives were unsure where to stand on U.S. involvement in Korea, even as President Truman, a Democrat, sent troops. For communists, however, this was a no-brainer: They wanted no U.S. involvement because they wanted all of Korea to be communist. This was the Stalinist line, the Maoist line, and the worldwide communist line. Thus, American communists ridiculed the very idea of U.S. engagement as paranoid, excessive anti-communism, as an “inordinate fear” of communism, as U.S. imperialism, as capitalist exploitation, as ... well, whatever worked.

For Frank Marshall Davis, this stance was evident in a February 9, 1950 column, where he accused Truman of “manufacturing crises” for the sake of Big Business and U.S. imperialism, with Korea merely the latest example. America, claimed Davis, wasn't really “endangered” in Korea. This was a bunch of baloney by Truman, a phony “propaganda barrage.” “We manufacture crises so rapidly,” argued Davis, “that a new one is shoved in front of us before we can examine yesterday's or the one rushed in this morning.”

Korea, insisted Davis, was another such case. How many liberals/progressives fell for this communist line? A lot of them. How many Americans communists pushed the line? All of them.

The communist left didn't stop pushing until the north was firmly in communist hands. It has been a murderous dungeon ever since, run by two lunatics from the Kim family.

These two men, of course, can't be trusted, which brings me to my second case, involving Jimmy Carter. In June 1994, Carter visited North Korea, hosted by Kim Il Sung. For the impressionable ex-president, Kim provided the full Potemkin village treatment. To say Carter was fooled is an understatement. Carter reported:

People are busy. They work 48 hours a week.... We found Pyongyang to be a bustling city. The only difference is that during working hours there are very few people on the street. They all have jobs or go to school. And after working hours, they pack the department stores, which Rosalynn visited. I went in one of them. It's like Wal-Mart in American stores on a Saturday afternoon. They all walk around in there, and they seem in fairly good spirits. Pyongyang at night looks like Times Square. They are really heavily into bright neon lights and pictures and things like that.

Of course, in truth, North Korea is draped in darkness, as well-known satellite photos attest (click here). Worse, within just one year of Carter's incredibly gullible appraisal, 10-15 percent of North Korea's population (two to three million people) starved to death, the worst famine in modern times.

Adding insult to injury, a few years after that, North Korea announced it was a nuclear state, a direct violation of the “Agreed Framework” brokered by Carter in 1994. Then, Carter had triumphantly assured “the crisis is over”—words headlined by the New York Times and Washington Post.

Needless to say, the crisis was far from over. I don't have the answer for resolving the North Korea situation, but I do know what hasn't helped. Jimmy Carter hasn't, and neither did the communist left, embodied by the likes of Frank Marshall Davis.

In both cases, America has been poorly served. Delusion and deception have exacerbated an already complex situation.

Time to restrict government functions

By Howard Rich

As the European economy grapples with yet another bailout of a bankrupt sovereign state, a storyline is emerging that seeks to frame this latest instance of government interventionism along deliberately disingenuous lines. According to this misleading narrative, Ireland's abysmal fiscal condition did not come as a result of chronic state overspending, but is instead due to the island nation's comparatively-low corporate income tax rate.

Sound like a familiar song? On both sides of the ocean there appear to be plenty of Keynesian apologists who believe that economic downturns are always caused by greedy capitalists—never by greedy politicians and government bureaucrats.

Now several European nations—led by France and Germany—are insisting that Ireland raise its 12.5 percent corporate tax rate as a prerequisite for receiving a Eurozone loan that would pump tens of billions of Euros into its banking system. Such a tax increase aims to bring Ireland in line with corporate tax rates in France (33 percent) Germany (30 percent), Spain (30 percent) and Great Britain (28 percent)—but it would also stifle productivity and job growth at a time when Irish citizens need their economy to be firing on all cylinders.

While it certainly makes sense for Europe's sovereign nations to minimize their financial exposure—it would make even more sense for them not to expose their taxpayers to such risks in the first place. Of course under “continental rule” it is often difficult for these nations to distinguish their own interests from those of the “collective.” This creates an additional disincentive for sound sovereign financial management—as if European governments needed another excuse to act in a fiscally reckless manner.

But consider this: Why would one nation watch out for its bottom line when it can simply pass the buck—or in this case, the Euro—on to another nation's taxpayers?

Obviously, the solution that makes the most sense in all of this is for sovereign governments to confine themselves to a very narrow list of core functions on behalf of their own citizens—and then to perform these functions with maximum efficiency and transparency. Clearly such a rational view of government was long ago abandoned by Europe's welfare statists, just as it has been cast to the curb in recent years by socialist-leaning politicians in the United States.

Yet while America's own Keynesian interventionists—led by U.S. Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke—continue to blame other nations' debt crises for the ongoing sluggishness of the global economy, very few are willing to “call a Shamrock a Shamrock” as it relates to the Irish debt crisis.

One analyst willing to do so is Daniel J. Mitchell, a tax expert at The Cato Institute. In seeking the real culprit behind the Irish implosion—and for that matter the broader European debt crisis—Mitchell examined nearly three decades worth of Irish government expenditures and tax receipts. In doing so he found that from 1983-2006 both expenditures and receipts in Ireland were on similar upward trajectories—a regrettable result of the Irish government's insistence on spending every new dime that came into its coffers. Beginning in 2007, however, these lines began moving in opposite directions.

“When the financial crisis hit a couple of years ago, tax revenues suddenly plummeted,” explains Mitchell. “Unfortunately, politicians continued to spend like drunken sailors. It's only in the last year that they finally stepped on the brakes and began to rein in the burden of government spending. But that may be a case of too little, too late.”

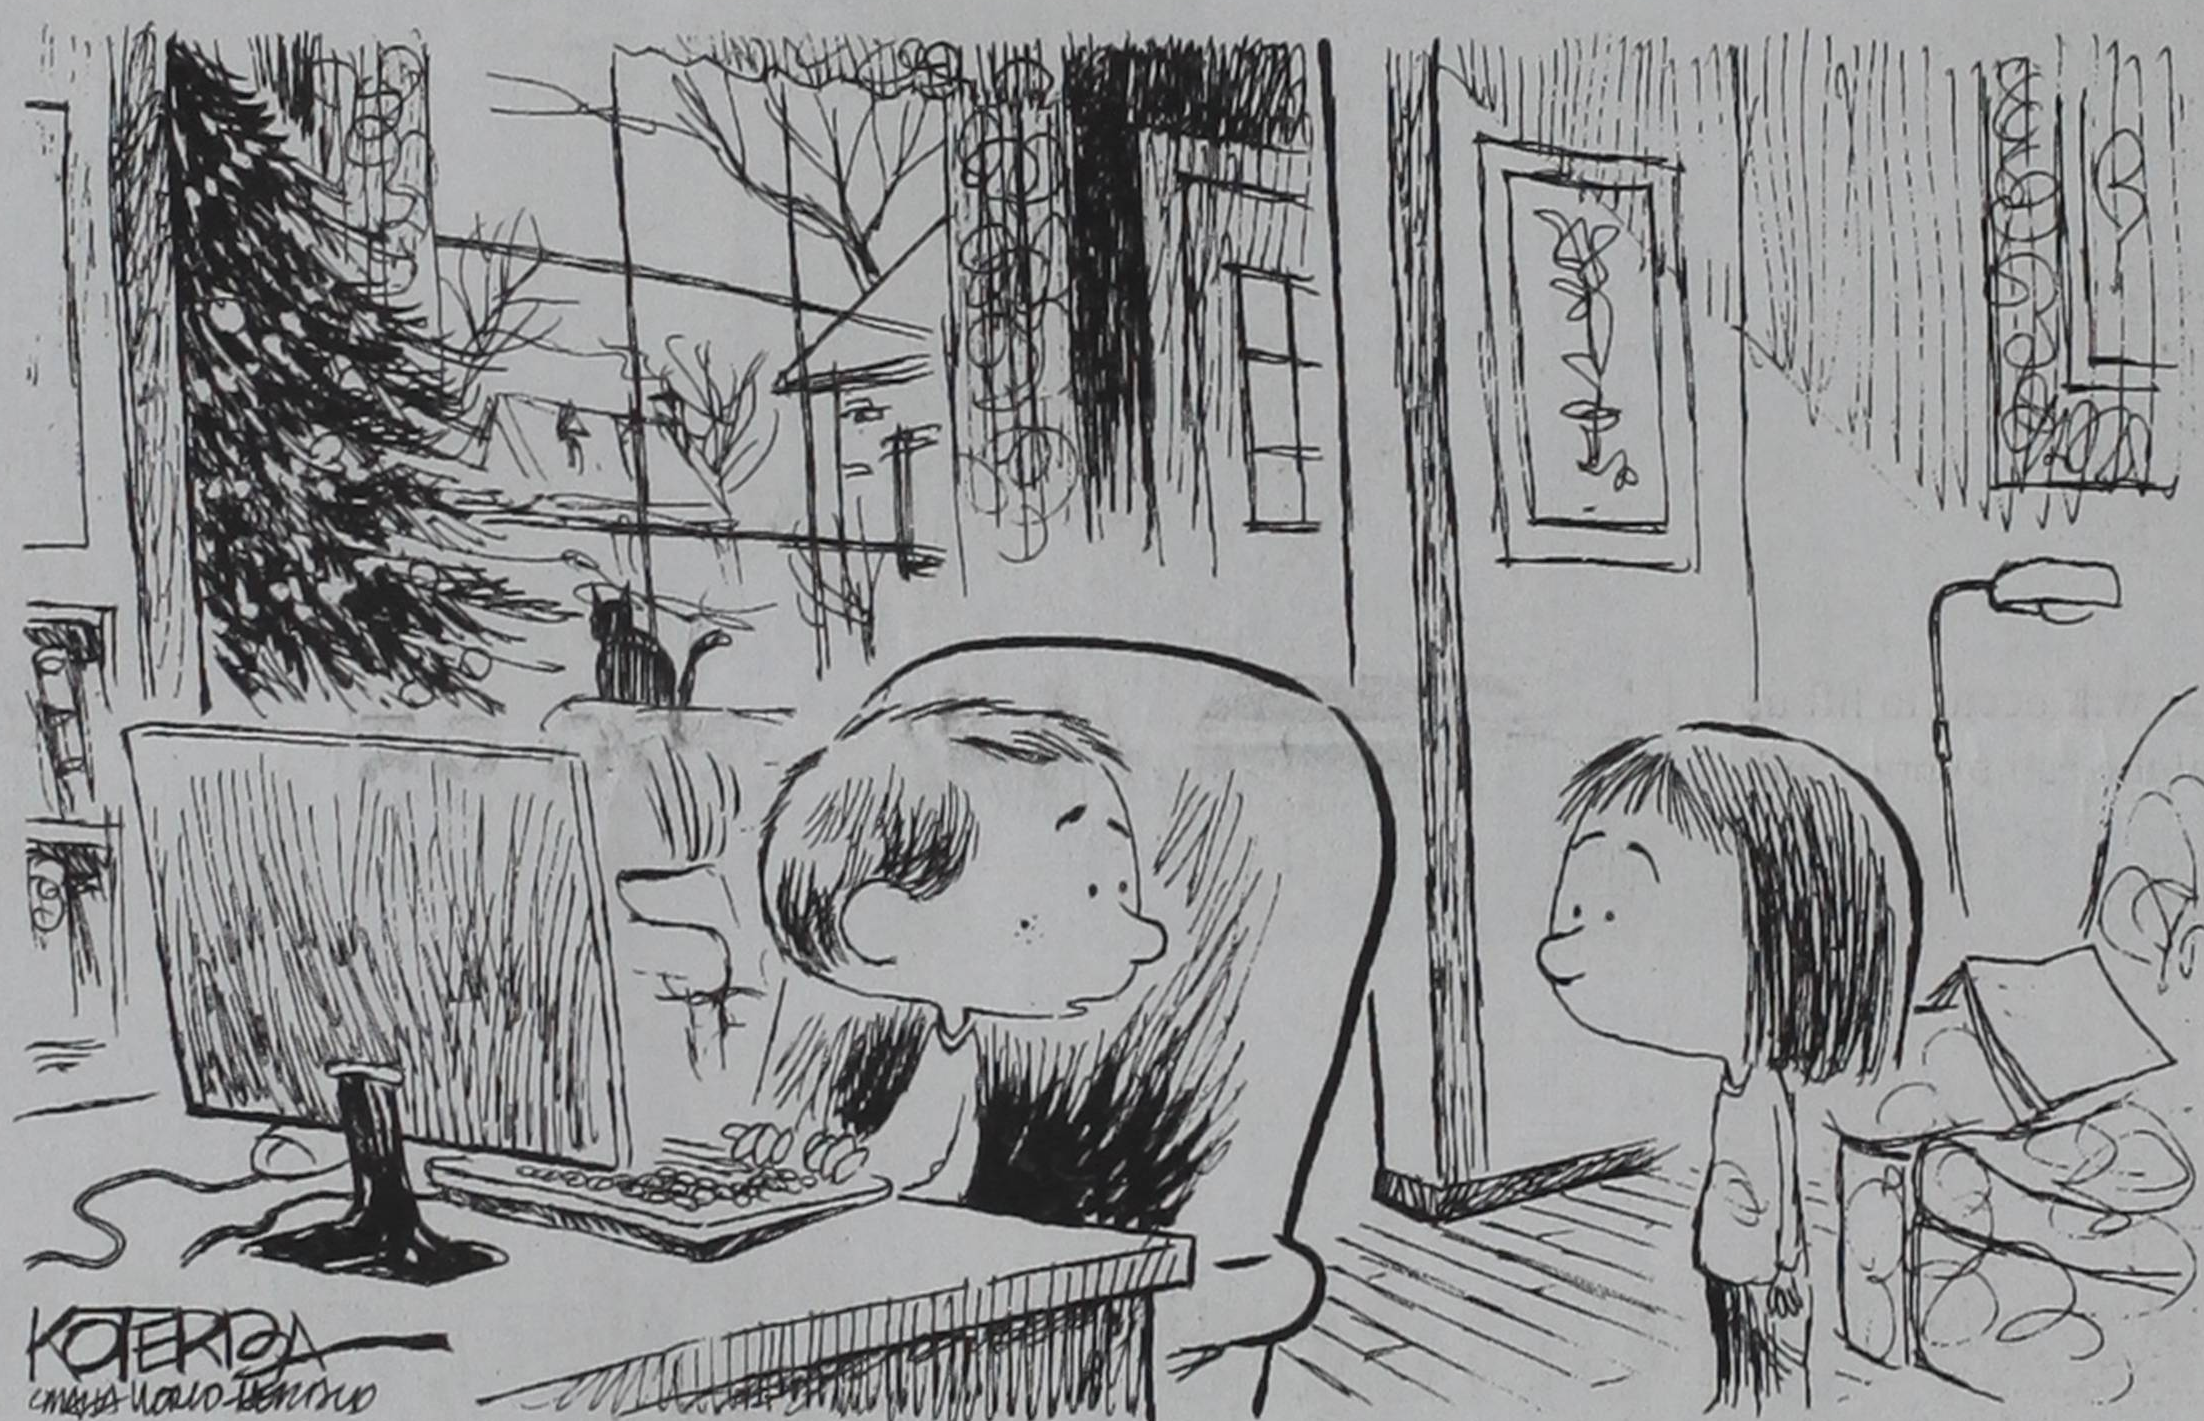

In addition to profligate spending, Mitchell points to the adoption of the Euro as another contributing factor in Ireland's decline.

“The one thing we can definitely say ... is that lower tax rates did not cause Ireland's problems,” Mitchell concludes. “It's also safe to say that higher tax rates will delay Ireland's recovery.”

Irish negotiators are holding firm thus far against European demands—making the case that if Germany and France want to recoup their investment in Ireland, they will not choke off the nation's economic growth.

Frankly, no European taxpayers—Irish or otherwise—should be forced to pick up the tab for this disaster. Similarly no European taxpayers should have been forced to bail out Greece earlier this year. Governments on both sides of the Atlantic must learn the hard way that they are to restrict themselves to core functions—a process that starts with telling the truth about how they landed in their current predicaments.

TSA must balance security, privacy

Thanksgiving marks the traditional start of the holiday travel season when millions of Americans from across the country will have firsthand experience with rigorous new security procedures that have been put in place by the Transportation Security Administration (TSA). The enhanced security consists of the use of Advanced Imaging Technology machines and aggressive pat down procedures as part of TSA's risk-based and multi-layered security system. But these invasive new security procedures have also caused a groundswell of controversy from the traveling public because of the privacy concerns they raise. During a recent oversight hearing, I expressed to the head of TSA, John Pistole, that there must be a way to improve the airport security screening process to address these privacy concerns and improve the security partnership between TSA and the traveling public.

Several recent incidents and reports from across the nation have shown a great need for a commonsense approach at screening checkpoints. Based on various press reports, passengers who ultimately decline to receive the new enhanced pat down procedures are potentially subject to detention at the airport, further investigation, and a significant fine. Actions and policies like these defy logic, and they rightly raise Americans' objections to government agencies trampling on personal privacy rights.

I was pleased to see TSA's leadership recently acknowledge that it may need to adjust its new security procedures in order to find the proper balance between protecting our nation against real threats and safeguarding individual privacy. Even the President has agreed that TSA's security mission must constantly evolve to assure the safety of the traveling public while being less intrusive to individual Americans.

At the same Commerce Committee hearing where I pressed Administrator Pistole on these screening procedures, I raised another issue that I believe poses a threat to TSA's ability to keep America safe: collective bargaining for TSA screeners. All previous TSA Administrators have maintained the policy that allowing TSA screeners to join together and collectively bargain for pay would have a negative impact on the agency's fundamental security mission. It is crucial that TSA maintain that existing policy. The TSA workforce must be able to react quickly to emerging threats like the one last Christmas when a terrorist bound from Amsterdam to Detroit attempted to ignite explosive material covertly sewn into his clothing. In less than twelve hours, TSA was able to identify the new threat and institute new guidelines to combat changing terrorist tactics.

capitol comment
by sen. kay bailey hutchison

While federal law would prohibit screeners from striking, collective bargaining would insert a middle man in what should be a direct line of communication from threat assessment to those at the airport checkpoint. Any form of work slowdown would be very dangerous. If TSA's leadership does decide to allow for collective bargaining among its workforce, a very serious effort would be taken by Congress to prohibit implementation of this misguided decision.

Make no mistake, the mission of the Transportation Security Administration is crucial to the safety of our nation. Americans understand that we still face the grim reality of terrorist threats. Ultimately, terrorists are going to continue to adapt their methods to try to circumvent our multi-layered system, and we look to TSA to stay ahead of those threats and to keep the public safe. TSA must fully utilize all the tools at its disposal and remain vigilant, agile, and alert while being mindful of the important freedoms it is trying to protect.

The Classy Class, Part 8

Finally the best in the junior high, 1956-57

Editor's Note: This is a continuation of the class history of the Clarendon High School Class of 1961 as compiled by Jo Shaller. Visit the Burton Memorial Library to read the complete, unabridged version of the history.

Here we are the big kids of Clarendon Junior High. And what a difference a summer made. Talk about growing up. Some of us were so grown up, we could hardly sit still. An announcement in the September 1956 newspaper said 60 eighth graders were registered.

It also mentioned that "the Colored school has been in operation since July 16th so they can turn out for cotton picking."

The Stewart twins, Marilyn and Karilyn, moved to Dumas that summer, but they never left our hearts.

They remained a part of our class by attending class reunions regularly. Never able to take the twins' place, but making a darn good showing were four new gals, Nancy Huff, Barbara McBrayer, Glenda Wilson, and Lavonne Patterson. Never one to miss out on being around good looking women, Jerry Gray came on board also.

Glenda and Alice Johnson were quickly elected 8th grade cheerleaders along with Donna Estlack and Shirley Mann. Little Linda Pinkerton and Jim Risley were Pep Club Mascots.

Cheerleader uniforms were toboggans, white sweaters with a maroon C, and full corduroy maroon skirts.

Alice said that years later her skirt yielded three little shirts for her baby, Larry.

Phillip Abel and Glenda Wilson were Class Favorites.

Bill Hermesmeyer moved down to the 7th grade so he could be their Class Favorite along with Andra Pinkerton.

Neel Carter and Ronnie Hall were football captains. Unfortunately, I don't have newspaper clippings about the team's exploits.

I have included a picture of the Cafeteria staff because they included Bobby Hutton's mom, Ruby, and his little sister, Gayla Sue.

Gayla Sue grew up to be a looker who Bobby proudly brought to one of our class reunions years later.

However, in the 8th grade, eating in the cafeteria was not considered cool. Instead we would walk across the softball field and across the little bridge downtown to Pud's or some other eating place for lunch.

For thirty five cents, a hamburger and a coke could be purchased, quickly eaten so we would have time to stroll back to school in hopes of seeing and being seen by some hunky older guy.

Please realize that I am only speaking from an eighth grade girl's point of view. I am not inferring that any of our guys were interested in other hunky boys.

The girls team has played several games so far and have a perfect record.

They recently won first place in tournament play. Their starting line-up is: forwards, Barbara McBrayer, Alice Johnson, and Sharon Moore; guards, Jackie McClellan, Janie Smith, Martha Jo Risley and Sherry Montgomery. Alice Johnson is captain and Barbara McBrayer is co-captain.

What grade were we in when we got the trampoline? Wasn't that fun! We would circle up around it to catch anyone who might bounce too far.

Seat drops, stomach drops, and jack knives were standard fare. Did anyone actually do flips? I said "actually" because I know many of us imagined ourselves doing all kinds of wonderful acrobatics with the proper instruction.

And dodge ball was also a hoot. Perhaps it was more so for those of us who were too skinny to be hit very often and were speedy little runners to boot.

Several ex-Broncho cheerleaders, football players, and friends had to collaborate to remember even this version of one of our favorite songs.

You are welcome to change it back to the way you remember the words.

"HOT TOWN IN THE OLD TOWN TONIGHT"

Beer, beer for old C.H.S.

Come on, you Bronchos, listen to this

Send those Freshmen out for gin

And don't let a sober person in

We always stagger, but we never fall

We sober up on wood alcohol

And all those royal saints go marching

Back to the bar

For more, more, more

There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight.

Give a cheer, give a cheer

For the boys that drink the beer

In the cellars of old Clarendon High.

They are brave, they are bold

And the liquor they can hold

Is a story that will never be told.

For it is guzzle, guzzle, guzzle

As it drizzles down their muzzles.

Clarendon will never go dry

So it is drink more and more

As the cops break down the doors

In the cellars of old Clarendon High.

There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight.

Janie remembers that one of our rather cranky, over involved mothers finally realized what we were actually singing and went to the authorities to get those disgusting, provocative phrases changed or eliminated completely.

Years later when beer was considered a mild, even sissy form of substance abuse, Clarendon students had never heard of this, our favorite scandalous song.

Have you ever eaten hamburgers that turned into fried chicken? Well, our class did that very thing on Valentine's Day.

On Wednesday, February 13, 1957, the class met, discussed, and fully decided to enjoy a lunch of hamburgers and potatoe chips the next day.

Did we ever get a surprise when we came into the room at 12:00 O'clock and found fried chicken instead! And with all the trimmings, of course!

We spent a wee bit of time "Ohing" and Ahing" over the valentine plates of tasty food, and spent the next thirty minutes in devouring same to a "run-over" capacity.

The next thirty minutes was spent enjoying our Valentine Party. When the bell rang, at one o'clock, we were dismissed for our science the lion's tale by roger estlack

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting November 30 with Boss Lion Roger Estlack conducting the meeting.

We had 13 members and two Sweethearts - Ashlyn Tubbs and Annie Patten - this week.

Lion Carey Wann led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Lion Larry Capranica returned thanks.

Lions Bill Auvenshine and Ashlee Estlack updated the club on activities going on at Clarendon College, and Lion Mike Word discussed upcoming events at the public school. Lion Capranica said three churches are working together to put on a children's music program in the near future, and Lion Bobbie Thornberry reminded the club that the Museum Christmas Party is this Saturday.

With no further business, we were adjourned.

Howardwick ready for Christmas

Everyone I have visited with had a nice Thanksgiving and ate too much. The same was true at my house.

There were no cooking disasters to add to the list and that is good.

The Good Thanksgiving Fairy was watching though because we woke up Thanksgiving morning with a broken hot water heater, and it would have been tough cleaning up that mess heating water on the stove. We spent the day at my daughter's and let her clean it up.

It's beginning to look like Christmas in Howardwick. Del Essary and a group of volunteers put up the Nativity scene and other decorations in the park and at City Hall.

Christmas has crept up on me. Maybe it was the warm weather that kept the spirit away. I hear it is supposed to be colder this week. Then I will use that as an excuse.

Remember the cookbooks for sale at the library; they make nice presents.

Lady Broncos swat Hornets

By Sandy Anderberg

December 2-4.

The Lady Broncos used a lot of determination and intensity to send Highland Park packing Tuesday night. Playing in their home gym, the ladies stopped everything the Lady Hornets tried and defeated them, 54-38.

Highland Park opened the game with an advantage, but the Lady Broncos worked through their struggles to lead by three points at the break.

A huge third quarter worked in Clarendon's favor and they were able to put the game out of reach in the early part of the final period. Lydia Howard led the Lady Bronco on the scoreboard with 14 points, but the scoring was spread fairly evenly through the team.

"The girls played much harder this game," head coach Molly Weatherred said. "I really fell they competed from start to finish."

Scoring: Howard 14, Anna Cenicerros 9, Marqueda Gaines 8, Jency Burton 6, Jentry Shadle 4, Danielle Ford 4, Trevela Dronzek 4, Cheyenne Kosechata 3, and Emily Clark 2.

The Lady Broncos will play at Paducah November 30 and participate in the River Road Tournament

Lady Bronco JV smash HP

The Lady Bronco junior varsity pulled out all the stops against Highland Park at home Tuesday night and breezed to a 58-19 win giving them an undefeated season.

The ladies pulled out in front early in the game and never looked back. They had a scoring frenzy in the second quarter to go up by 20 at the break.

Clarendon gave the Lady Hornets more than they wanted on both ends of the court. Inside post player Ryann Starnes led finished in double figures and led the ladies with 11 points.

"The girls played hard and worked the ball around on offense," coach Kasey Bell said. "They played well as a team."

Scoring: Starnes 11, Savannah Topper 6, Glory Bryley 6, Camra Smith 6, Phara Berry 5, Audrey Shelton 5, Deborah Howard 4, Haley Ferguson 4, Lynzee Bryley 3, Jessica Cenicerros 2, Maci White 2, Jacy Hill 2, and Shantel Harris 2.

The ladies will play at Paducah November 30 and participate in the Arbor Academy Tournament December 2-4.

Coming through!

Colts succumb to Sky Rockets

The 7th and 8th grade Colts could not get any offense going against Wellington at home Monday night. The 7th grade lost 14-30 and the 8th grade was stopped 15-41.

The 7th grade Colts only trailed by two points in the first quarter, but they failed to execute their offense in the remainder of the first half and fell behind. After the break, the Colts hustled a comeback, but it was short-lived as Wellington caused several turnovers.

Scoring: Bryce Hatley 5, Johnathon Taylor 4, Cable Cobb 3, and Ray Jaramillo 2.

The 8th grade struggled from the tip and could never find a rhythm offensively. A scoreless second quarter was disastrous for the Colts and Wellington went on to win the game.

"The kids played hard," coach Brad Elam said. "At times, both teams looked good, but we were not able to put it together for long spurts. We will continue to work to improve."

Scoring: Charles Mason 8, Cedric McCampbell 4, and Montana Hysinger 3.

The Colts will be at home Monday, December 6, when they take on Wheeler beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Wellington defeats Lady Colts, 9 - 62

The seventh grade Lady Colts struggled against a good Wellington team on the road Monday night in their 9-62 loss.

The game began slowly for the ladies early in the first quarter as they struggled to get anything going offensively. Wellington held a big lead at the break and went on to win the game.

Scoring: Shelby Baxter 4, Kendra Davis 2, Damara Brown 2, and Sterling King 1.

Play went a little better for the 8th grade Lady Colts, but they were defeated 16-37. After a slow first quarter, the Lady Colts rebounded and put up seven points to gain on their opponent at the break to cut into the Wellington lead. A slow-shooting third quarter proved to be too much for the ladies to overcome.

"Wellington had good teams," coach Shanna Shelton said. "We still have a lot of room for improvement."

Scoring: Taylor Gaines 9, Abby Johnson 3, Skyler White 2, and Reanna Jackson 2.

Both Lady Colt teams will travel to Wheeler December 6 beginning at 5:00 pm.

'Is He Dead?'

to open Dec. 2

Amarillo Little Theatre presents the outrageous new comedy "Is He Dead?" by Mark Twain.

Twain wrote the comedy in 1898, but it was never produced in his lifetime. "Is He Dead?" was discovered in Twain's papers and adapted by playwright David Ives in 2003, and enjoyed a very successful run on Broadway in 2007.

This show is a sheer delight; a comic confection of mistaken identities, mixed signals, and hilarious misunderstandings topped off with a happy ending. In 19th century Paris, the painter Jean-Francois Millet had not yet been recognized as a genius. In debt and desperate, Millet, having realized that the only successful painters are the dead ones, fakes his own death and passes himself off as his sister, the Widow Tillou. Millet's scheme makes him rich and famous. Now he just has to figure out how to stop pretending to be a woman, come back to life as a man, and win the girl he loves.

ALT has assembled a terrific cast of actors for this production. They include Jonathan Mobley starring as Jean-Francois Millet/Widow Tillou. He is joined by John Bernard, Amber Burton, Devin Dennis, Decker Dyess, Travis Johnson, Kara Leimer, Justin Loe, Shannon Mashburn, Melanie Sanders, Jace Sluder, Shawn Walsh and Don Washburn. Artistic Director is Jeff Jamagin. Ramona Weaver is Assistant to the Director.

"Is He Dead?" promises to be one of the major hits of the season.

Show Dates are December 2, 3, 4, 9, 10, 11 at 8:00 pm and December 12 at 2:30 pm.

Tickets are available at the Amarillo Little Theatre Box Office at 2019 Civic Circle or by calling (806) 355-9991. Tickets may also be reserved by e-mailing jeff@amarillolittletheatre.org.

Cattle conference to be held in Lawton

LAWTON, Okla. - The newly created Cattle Trails Cow-Calf Conference, a joint effort between Texas AgriLife Extension Service and the Oklahoma Cooperative Extension Service, will be held Jan. 7 in Lawton, Okla.

The vision of the conference planners is to create an annual conference that will provide cow-calf producers the most up-to-date information on topics that influence cattle profits, said Stan Bevers, AgriLife Extension economist based in Vernon. In effect, the conference will assist producers in "driving" their cattle to profit.

The conference will alternate between Texas and Oklahoma each year, Bevers said.

This year, it is scheduled from 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Comanche County Fairgrounds Coliseum, 920 South Sheridan Road. Registration is $20 per person and includes educational materials, a copy of the Cattle Trails Cow-Calf Conference proceedings, a noon meal and refreshments. Additional information can be obtained at <http://agrisk.tamu.edu>.

The conference is named to represent the vast area of agricultural production between the Chisholm Trail and the Great Western cattle trails of the late 1800s, both of which started in south central Texas and drove north through central and western Oklahoma, Bevers said.

The keynote speaker for the event will be James Henderson of the Bradley 3 Ranch near Memphis. Bradley 3 Ranch has bred Angus cattle for more than 50 years. Their cow herd runs in some of the Texas Panhandle's roughest country, Bevers said. Henderson will be discussing fitting the cow herds to the country. In this time of price volatility and rising input costs, his expertise of matching cows to their environment can be effective in maintaining low input costs, Bevers said.

Additional speakers include Extension specialists from both Oklahoma and Texas. Reproductive efficiency, surviving in the new cattle paradigm, marketing and forage utilization will be covered. Industry sponsors also will have their products on display during the event.

Producers can register by contacting their local AgriLife Extension county agent, their Oklahoma Cooperative Extension county educator, or by contacting Bob LeValley at 580-255-0546 or bob.levalley@okstate.edu.

London up for Best Historical Novel of the Year

French Letters: Engaged in War, by Jack Woodville London, has been selected for judging as the Best Historical Novel of the Year as well as Book of the Month and Author of the Month by the Military Writers Society of America. It was recently first in Good Reads, an Internet site for reader-to-reader recommended literature.

Engaged in War is the second novel in the French Letters trilogy. The first novel, French Letters: Virginia's War, set in 1944 in the fictitious Panhandle town of Tierra, was met with critical acclaim. Engaged in War is the story of Will Hastings, a Tierra boy fresh out of medical school. Isolated from Virginia Sullivan and the events taking place at home, Will faces the demands of combat surgery under fire and the losses of his brother, friends, and his connection to home. Historically precise, it covers events in his life during the same time frame as the events in Virginia Sullivan's life in the first volume, but without him knowing what has happened in Tierra in his absence.

A Good Reads review stated, "Engaged in War is a novel of the will to survive when war, distance, loss and the uncertainty of the future separate a couple far beyond the breaking point." From Dear Author: "It kept me riveted to Will's tale of survival and finding that perfect someone- even if they can barely communicate with words. Not necessarily a 'war' story, but more on how the war affects people. A well researched story, with accurate historical details about one of the most devastating of wars."

Jack Woodville London is a graduate of Groom High School and West Texas State University. He was a quartermaster officer in the United States Army and a graduate of the University of Texas Law School. His mother, Emalea Myers London, grew up in Mobeetie and was a popular high school teacher. His father, Dr. John V. London, grew up in Wheeler and was a well-known country doctor in Seagraves and in Groom.

Clarendon Church of Christ
NEW TESTAMENT CHRISTIANITY

Sunday night worship service, we were privileged to witness a person become a child of God. A young lady by the name of Maci White made the decision to be baptized for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38) and to put Christ on in baptism (Gal. 3:27). What made Christians in the first century will make a Christian today!

Take your New Testament out this week and study the 2nd chapter of Acts. Peter preaches the first gospel sermon and at its conclusion (Acts 2:36) he tells his audience that they had crucified Jesus Christ, the true Son of God. In verse 37, the scriptures tell us that the message "pricked their hearts". Former unbelievers of Christ are now believers and are convicted of their sins. In this same verse they ask, "Men and brethren what shall we do?" Peter answers in verse 38, "Repent and let everyone of you be baptized in the name of the Jesus Christ for the remission of sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

In verse 40 Peter urges others to be saved: "And with many other words he testified and exhorted them saying, 'Be saved from this perverse generation.'" In the next verse we see the effect of his preaching and their answer. "Then those who gladly received his word were baptized; and that day about 3,000 souls were added to them." Who were "them"? The church of course! Look at verses 46-47: "So continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, they ate their food with gladness and simplicity of heart, praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily those who were being saved." Those who were being "added to the church" were those who obeyed the word, repented, and were baptized. There is nothing in the scriptures about a vote or any other man-made creed. God added to the church those who were being saved; the same people Peter told in verse 40 to save themselves. God's grace coupled with man's obedience = a New Testament Christian.

Please study your Bible on this subject. The 2nd chapter of Acts is so simple when discussing what it takes to become a Christian. If God added them to the church, then anyone who follows that example would be added also. Matt. 16:18 tells us whose church it is and who built it. His name was Jesus Christ and by no other name can a person be saved.

If you would like to become a New Testament Christian as defined by the Bible, not by me or anyone else, give me a call and let's study and talk. We will look at scriptures, not creed books or any other man inspired book. The Bible will be our guide and the words of God will rule. May God bless you and give you strength and courage.

Consumers tips for holiday shopping

AUSTIN - Many Texans will do some, if not most, of their holiday shopping on the Internet. According to the National Retail Federation, 50.8 percent of Americans will make at least one holiday purchase online. But as more consumers turn to the Internet to shop, so do the fraudsters with their scams.

"Some people like to shop online because of the convenience and others like the exclusive sales available only on the Web. Whatever the reason, we all have to take steps to protect ourselves and our financial information," said TBA Chairman Jeff Austin III, vice chairman of the board of Austin Bank, Texas in Jacksonville.

The Texas Bankers Association offers the following tips:

- If you're not sure, don't share. The Better Business Bureau has a list of about 70,000 safe websites. Check it out at: <http://www.bbb.org/online/consumer/default.aspx>
- Is the site secure? Look for the "s" in https:// and a small padlock at the bottom of the screen before entering any payment information.
- Know the terms of your purchase. Is the product returnable and if so, who pays the shipping fees? How long will the product take to ship? What does shipping cost? Read the fine print. If it's not clear or you don't agree, make the purchase elsewhere.
- Print & Save. Be sure to print and save the transaction receipt, the order number, a customer service phone number, and any other information you can just in case there's a problem with your order.
- Check the privacy policy. Find out what they're doing with your information by reading the privacy policy. If it's too complicated to read or they don't have one, choose to do business with a more consumer friendly website.
- TMI. Don't divulge too much information to anyone on the Internet. If a website is asking for your bank account number, social security number or driver's license number, don't share it.
- Know your rights. If you suspect you are a victim of fraud, you can contact the Federal Trade Commission at: www.ftc.gov/complaint. You can also contact the Texas Attorney General at: www.oag.state.tx.us. Be sure to report it to the Better Business Bureau, too.

Aspirin Benefit in Prostate Cancer

Researchers are now reporting that aspirin may extend the lives of men who suffer from prostate cancer. Anticoagulants (drugs used to prevent blood clots) such as warfarin and aspirin have been shown to decrease the spread and growth of cancerous tumors. Dr. Kevin Choe of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School conducted a retrospective study of 5,275 men who had localized cancer of the prostate gland. Of this group, 1,982 men who received anticoagulant therapy experienced less metastasis (spread of cancer) and were determined to be less likely to die from cancer. The benefits were primarily seen in those who took aspirin. Study participants treated with an anticoagulant other than aspirin were twice as likely to have prostate cancer related death in seven years. The same study participants were more than three times as likely to experience prostate cancer associated death at ten years versus those taking aspirin. Prostate cancer is the third most common cause of cancer related death in men.
