Deep In The Heart Of Texas

Texas Longhorn Cavern, the world's third largest cave, is one of the nation's most impressive natural wonders. Over eight miles of its labyrinthian splendor have been explored without an end being reached and the lowest point on the guided tour is a crevice 120 feet below the surface. The cavern is a popular attraction for tourists and sightseers, especially in the summertime, because it is a real cool cave. The temperature inside remains at a comfortable 64 degrees even in the hottest summer weather. Longhorn Cavern is located off U. S. Highway 281 four miles south of Burnet.

City Issues Warning

The men on the City Garbage Truck have complained that people are putting dead animals in their trash barrels. These include dogs, cats, chickens, etc. At this time of year they become very offensive and are also producing a great many flies. The City is trying to keep down the fly hazard, and besides this, there is a City Ordinance against the putting of dead animals in trash barrels. It is a $25.00 fine, and if this does not stop, we intend to prosecute anyone guilty of this offense.

LOCALS GO FISHING CATCH BOBKITTENS

Ray Briggs brought back proof of a good catch last Wednesday from a fishing jaunt but no fish. His catch was three bob kittens that were about three or four weeks old. Ray and family took off Memorial Day to do a little fishing northeast of Lelia Lake and while looking for a spot to fish, Briggs noticed the kittens in a mass of jumbled wire. The old cat ran off leaving the three kittens without a scrap of any sort, so Ray took advantage of the opportunity and brought the kittens to town where he readily found homes for all three. Dogs were used to try to track down the mammy cat that night but the search was futile.

Lee Cockrell Defeats Champion In Roping Event Here Sunday

Sunday afternoon the Clarendon Roping Club sponsored a matched roping contest between Toots Mansfield of Big Spring, the unquestioned champion calf roper living today and Lee Cockrell of Pampa, one of the world's best young ropers. It was a superb exhibition of roping skill and one in which a champion was beaten. Lee won the match by a margin of 20.4 seconds, nearly 2 seconds per calf. Each contestant had about an equal share of bad luck as each was assessed a barrier penalty of ten seconds. Lee required two loops to catch one calf thus giving him a total time of 37.4 seconds on his bad luck calf. Toots had one calf get up after being tied and this animal cost him a total time of 41.9 seconds. Best time of the match was made by Lee with 12.2 on one calf. Toots best tie was done in 13.4 seconds. "We feel particularly fortunate in having been able to get these two men to rope here as there is little doubt but that we not only saw the present champion in action but also a man who is soon to take his place," stated a local Roping Club member. "We feel that Lee is an excellent roper with wonderful possibilities," he added.

The first load consisted of 21 1/2 bushels, tested 15 1/2 moisture and 61 pounds per bushel. Risley & Cook paid $1.95 per bushel and a $15 premium for the wheat. The first load of wheat received by Frank White Jr. at the Clarendon Grain Co. was brought in Monday by Glen Adkins. His first load consisted of 97 bushels for which he was paid $2.50 per bushel. The wheat tested 58 pounds per bushel. Adkins has around 40 acres in wheat which is averaging around 15 bushels to the acre.

Poles Set For Softball Field

Six poles have been set as a beginning on the lighting of the soft ball field for local youngsters but the project is bogging down for lack of funds. Reflectors and fittings for the poles and wire for backstop, etc., are the items that are calling for more money at this time. In fact, approximately $400 will complete the job as all labor this far and that anticipated will be donated. Billy Jack Land, local REA manager, and other helpers set the poles and will help with the rigging when the fixtures become available.

Ray Moore, chairman of the lighting projects, is hoping that donations will come in fast and in sizeable amounts so this job can be completed within the next two weeks. If we can get the field lighted within this time, we can get a good program of soft ball started this summer for our youngsters. Mail or hand your donation to Mr. Moore at the Postoffice. This is a very worthwhile project and the money you donate will reap dividends by helping our youth.

J. R. Porter, county savings Bond chairman, announced this week that sales of Bonds so far this year in Donley County had exceeded the quota at this time. At the end of April $96,117.00 in bonds had been purchased which represents 53.4 percent of the years quota of $180,000. GABIE BETTS BURTON LIBRARY NOTES

By May L. Prewitt

This week has been a busy one as the children crowd the Library daily.

A friend gave us "Honey Moon for Seven" by Alfred Tombs. It is quite amusing. Our books from the Sears Book Club are "Ten North Fredric" by O'Hara and Edison Marshall's "The Gentleman." You will discover that both of these are fascinating stories. "Ten North Frederick" is a best seller.

There are very few books of interest being announced. John Hersey's "A Single Pebble" seems from the book sketches to be of interest. I'll order it. "Comfort Me With Apples" is a best seller, and I ordered it, but the story is crude. I left it on the "doubtful shelf." I have ordered "Guestward Ho!" by Hooten & Dennis, but it may not be worthwhile. It is on the non-fiction best seller, and was recommended by the Librarian of a Boston Book Shop where most of my orders are filled. The girls and boys are my problem as they read so much I can scarcely supply them.

My mothers are wonderful to help me with recent magazines

Summer Tips For Poultrymen

Broilers, replacement pullets, and layers easily adjust to cool temperatures but hot weather presents a problem.

In summer an abundance of fresh, cool water helps keep hens in production and young birds growing. One hundred 8-week-old birds need at least 8 feet of drinking space and 100 layers need 7 gallons of water per day, and more when temperatures are high.

Arrange waterers so that confined birds travel not more than ten feet to the supply. Place range water pipes in furrows and cover with earth and place shades over waterers to keep the water cool.

Water is the most important yet the least expensive item in poultry production.

Ventilation and insulation are key factors in beating the heat. Aluminum roofs and roofs painted white reflect the sun's rays. Open houses to provide plenty of ventilation and check it several times daily.

Deep litter prevents the birds from coming in contact with cool floors and removal of part of the litter will be helpful.

To prevent wasted feed, fill hoppers not more than one-third full and keep them level with the backs of the birds. The hanging-type, round, tubular feeders allow the poultryman to feed once daily. Feeders are easily filled from fifty-pound multi-wall paper feed sacks which do not break over, and the feed empties out easily and completely from paper. There's no wasted feed. In addition the paper is rain repellent, an advantage when filling hoppers or spreading feed on range directly from a moving truck or trailer.

Another labor-saver is a raised platform for feeds. By building the platform near the automatic feed hopper or pen entrance, the fifty-pound sacks of feed are easily emptied directly into the hopper or feeders. The raised platform permits cats to patrol the feed room, eliminating possible damage by rats and mice.

Bare ground reflects heat more than grass-covered soil. Move range shelters frequently to encourage good use of pasture, to get birds away from possible contamination, and to keep them cool. Good range reduces the cost of raising pullets. Frequent clipping of the range stimulates growth of forage high in vitamins and minerals.

Starch And Shape Hats

Be your own hat designer! Make summer hats out of any fabric that takes starch. It's easy! Cut the fabric in a circle, soak it in liquid starch and use kitchen utensils for the form over which you shape it. The starch stiffens it so the hat holds its shape. The depth of the crown and the width of the brim determines the size of the fabric circle you need. For this hat, made of burlap, use a 16-inch circle of the fabric, saturate it in undiluted Sta-Flo liquid starch, and mold over a salad bowl set slightly off center on a frying pan. Hem by turning edges under while still wet. Hair clips can be used to hold the fabric in place while the hat is drying. Lift off the form and allow to dry thoroughly. Then remove the clips and tack on contrasting rope and flowers for the finishing touch. Many different style hats can be made this starch-and-shape way using various shapes and fabrics. Left over materials, liquid starch and your own creative sense are all you need!

A Boost For Texas Poultry Products

John C. White, Commissioner

Texas Dept. of Agriculture
 The Texas Department of Agriculture is laying groundwork for a new and important marketing program aimed at helping the Texas poultry and egg industry.

Plans are for inauguration of a marketing service intent on improving quality of Texas poultry through inspection and grading, boosting the Texas egg industry
 through a grading and standards program, and thereby expanding market outlets for Texas poultry products.

Since there are at present no
 state laws which regulate quality or set standards for the sale of poultry or eggs within the state, Texas producers often run into marketing problems both in local and national trade. Lack of standards often causes Texas to be used as a dumping ground for produce from neighboring states which fails to meet proper standards.

For lack of poultry inspection and egg standards laws, Texas cannot compete successfully on the national market with graded and inspected produce from other states.

Trade sentiment is strongly in favor of state laws providing for such poultry and egg inspection programs, and chances are excellent for their eventual passage. However, until such legislation is adopted, the proposed self-help program is needed to help promote Texas poultry products as quality merchandise on the national and home markets.

Such a plan, properly executed,
 could put thousands more dollars
 in the pockets of Texas growers.
 Through information and demonstration programs showing proper grading, handling, shipping, display and storage methods, poultrymen would learn how to market quality produce at a minimum cost.

Research would be made to determine causes and cures for seasonal gluts and shortages of certain products with special emphasis on balancing the over-all supply-demand situation.

Texas has long been a leading state in poultry production. In fact, the U. S. commercial broiler industry had its first beginning in the heart of the South Texas broiler area. In order to meet growing competition from other areas, highest standards must be maintained to protect Texas' interests in this big and important industry.

Wildlife Planning Needs Trained Young Men

AUSTIN — How demands for wildlife and fisheries management personnel are creating vast opportunities for trained young men is explained in the current issue of Texas GAME and FISH Magazine by Dr. W. B. Davis, chief of the Department of Wildlife Management at Texas A&M College.

"Wildlife is big business in Texas as it is elsewhere in the nation," he wrote. "And opportunities for conservation-minded young men are expanding and will continue to do so as the American public comes to realize more and more the value of managing its vast natural resources for both recreational and economic purposes."

Slanting his treatment directly to any budding talent, Dr. Davis wrote: "If you are a young man who likes the out-of-doors, who is not afraid to work hard, who has a keen interest in wildlife, and who is endowed with the ability to work with people, opportunity awaits you in the field of wildlife and the fisheries science."

The Executive Secretary for the Texas Game and Fish Commission qualified Dr. Davis' appeal by saying there is an actual shortage of qualified personnel for specialized assignments on the Commission staff.

"This is a highly complex field and it calls for handling by only those scholastically qualified," he said. Our own routine projects of today, as we compete with assorted handicaps imposed by increasing hunting and fishing pressure in the face of shrinking habitat, points up the fact that we are merely in the formative phases of scientifically conducted game and fish management."

Dr. Davis specifically listed the tasks for a wildlife research man:
 "He may be called upon to work out the life cycle of any of the animal species involved in natural relationships, even a non-game species, so that its most vulnerable phases may be learned and its controls made easier. For example, he may be asked to determine to what extent rodents compete with small game for food, or the importance of minnows as food for game fishes.
 Consequently, the research man must have a profound knowledge of basic sciences, which is usually achieved only by graduate work leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. This man is comparable to the research doctor in the medical field who may be trying to discover a means of curing cancer. Both must be highly trained in the basic sciences of chemistry, physics, mathematics and biology."

 But what we give

 Of the lives we live.

A friendly spirit with an old fashion hand shake was a highlight of the day. I'd like to bring a few Echos from the picnic. To ride on the excursion train from Childress in 1906, present were Mrs. C. F. Stout of Memphis. She wore the same black silk stocking she had worn on the train in 1906. Mr. Grose Close of Childress and Bill Harris of Hedley were on the train. Charley Shaw of Hedley pitched the ball game. Giles won the double header over Childress and Clarendon. Charley was the official fighter if he thought his team needed defending. He kinda enjoyed a good scrap. Several were present who attended all the picnics at Giles. Mrs. Ella Cline of Hedley, 83 years, was the oldest lady; came to Giles in 1900. Mitch Bell of Clarendon was oldest man - 94 years young. Mrs. J. P. Alexander, a pioneer mother of Giles, now living in McLean had the honor of having four generations present - Mrs. Alexander, her daughter Mrs. Maggie Ruth Johnston of McLean, her daughter Betty Johnston, west of Groom and her three beautiful daughters, Alice, Shirley and Marguerite west of Groom. Eck Roberson of Amarillo played as only Eck can. He played old tunes like Great Big Taters, Buffalo Gals and Pop Goes the Weasel. He was wonderful. Milt Mosley danced as the old tunes were played. Bob Ayers did a fine job as master of ceremonies. Bob looked out down the trail and said here is W. Lee O'Daniel. Sure enough here came a candidate for Governor of Texas. He asked if we were not breaking one of Texas many laws by having so much good clean fun? Eck Roberson said "I don't know about the law but we are shure having fun and a lot of it." O'Daniel made a short talk. Then he joined into the friendly hand shaking that started early in the day. Old fashion singing was enjoyed. The old creek rang out as the good old songs were sung by all. This will be an annual affair, May 30th. Mrs. Boyd Rodgers was elected president. Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Houston were elected vice president and secretary. Only a doctor can diagnose cancer. "Tax Alternatives For Texas"

AUSTIN—"Tax Alternatives for Texas" are examined in the current issue of Public Affairs Comment, bi-monthly publication of the University of Texas Institute of Public Affairs.

Dr. Carey C. Thompson, assistant professor of economics, analyzes the present Texas tax system and points to "growing indications that such a pattern can no longer be drawn upon for any considerable additions to Texas tax yields."

Sources now accounting for more than 90 per cent of Texas tax revenue he lists as: severance taxes on oil, gas and sulphur; the selective sales tax on motor fuel; selective sales and gross receipts taxes on tobacco products, alcoholic beverages, insurance premiums, motor vehicle sales, public utilities, cement, radios and carbon black; license taxes on motor vehicles, corporations in general, chain stores, and minor levies of that type.

"The desirability of broadening the base of taxation in Texas, especially for necessary additions to tax revenue, is generally approved in principle," Dr. Thompson notes. "It does not seem to be so generally recognized that there are only three broad bases from which tax revenue may effectively be drawn—net income, consumption expenditures or wealth."

Since local governments have exploited the general property tax until its possibilities "are strained to the limits," the state government is left to choose between "some kind of tax based on income and some kind based on sales," he concludes.

how state authority can stop the Federal Government's destruction of their freedom and their race.

Haley said he is the only candidate for Governor who is on record without compromise for continued segregation of the white and negro races in the public schools of Texas and all other public places. He believes continued segregation is best for both races.

"Texans and citizens throughout the entire south are witnessing complete destruction of their liberties," Haley said. "I believe in returning government to the people and I am the only candidate in the Governor's race pledged to use the full authority of Texas Government to halt the stamped segregation."

"If Washington can fix the price of gas at the well-head, in keeping with the Supreme Court decision," Haley continued, "it can fix the price of cows, corn, cotton and human labor."

"If the Government can control our public schools and force mixing of the white and negro races it can control every other phase of human life."

Haley cited the Federal Government's attempt to socialize medicine and destroy the state's splendid private medical profession. He said he believes Texans are becoming increasingly aware of the "Federal Government's despotic tyranny upon human rights."

Haley, a native of Belton, Texas, is a grandson of Confederate veterans; a great-grandson of James Evetts, veteran of the Battle of San Jacinto. He ranches on the Pecos and Canadian rivers in Texas. He has won wide distinction as a historian and is the author of ten nationally recognized books of history and biography, including "The XIT Ranch of Texas", and "Charles Goodnight", Cowman and Plainsman."

A graduate of the University of Texas, Haley later served several years as a member of the university's faculty. He then became General Manager of some of the largest ranch properties of the southwest and is a member of the Board of Directors of Texas Tech. The plain spoken candidate is a member of the executive committee and a trustee of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

THE LION'S TALE

By Carl Allmond

Another meeting without air-conditioning; what happened from the directors discussion on the project?

After the clean-up on fried chicken, Boss Lion Lowe asked for announcements. L. T. Shelton was on hand to thank the club for their support of other 4th of July celebrations, and asked for our continued help. Mr. Shelton emphasized the fact that this is a community-wide project. Under Mr. Shelton's leadership, we think last years celebration was one of the best, and with his experience, this year should be greater.

Lion (Mayor) Burton had a couple of announcements; first, he and the water department know it rained, second, there is a $25.00 fine for throwing dead animals in the trash barrel. If this is continued, some one is going to get fined.

Fred L. Rowe was accepted as a new member, sponsored by John Gillham.

All doubt as to Dr. Geo. W. Smith coming to Clarendon was erased Tuesday. Dr. and Mrs. Smith and family have been in and out of Clarendon since Sunday, house shopping. About 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the final arrangements were completed with Bud Knorpp for the purchase of his home. Mr. Knorpp is moving into the Knorpp home place; Dr. Smith and family will move into Bud's home the last of July, or 1st of August.

Everything working as it should, the hospital will be ready to open Sept. 1st. Due to the possibility of obtaining surplus material from Lubbock, work has been slowed down somewhat. However within the next two weeks, work will be resumed. Along with other improvements, Clarendon is taking steps forward.

On account of this being election year, Drennan was saved again. Paul Spillman, candidate for District Attorney was on hand, and could talk. Mr. Spillman did not go into local politics, but did give the club information regarding his objection to UNESCO.

Paul Spillman and son Skipper, Wellington, Art Williams, Denver, L. T. Shelton, C. Huffman Jr., Steve Miller, and Keith Schollenberger, Clarendon, were guests Tuesday.

Mrs. Jessie Wallace of Amarillo spent Thursday and Friday nights with Mrs. M. L. Pittman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loper of Dallas spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Estlack.

WHEAT QUOTA VOTE SET FOR JULY 20

Marketing quotas for the 1957 wheat crop have been proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

This proclamation does not automatically put quotas into effect for the crop. The announcement also set July 20 as the date for a referendum when wheat growers who are affected by the quotas will vote on whether or not to put the quotas into operation. A two-thirds vote favoring the quotas is necessary if the quotas are to be in effect.

Growers who are affected by the quotas, and therefore are eligible to vote in the referendum, are those farmers who will harvest more than 15 acres of wheat as grain in 1957.

In his proclamation, Secretary Benson said: "This makes the fourth successive year that abnormally large wheat supplies have required the proclamation of marketing quotas for the next wheat crop. It is the third successive year for which the national acreage allotment has had to be set at 55 million acres, the minimum specified by law."

All the wheat we are likely to need from 1957 production, determined according to the formula in the legislation, could be produced on an acreage of about 12.4 million acres. If it were not for the legal 'minimum' the national allotment could have dropped to that level.

The plain fact is that, in spite of valiant attempts to channel more wheat into exports, we still will have enough wheat for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1956, to take care of all our domestic and export needs for more than 2 full years.

This situation points up the need for the Soil Bank, which farmers can use to bring about additional adjustments in production without further reducing their incomes.

and we'll just break our neck doing things, and sometimes even get so excited that we do slip and fall on our ego.

Our friend Cotton John told his radio audience the other morning that one of the biggest sermons could well be preached by a little sign that we very often see alongside our highways. It simply says: "Keep Right." Cotton John frequently quotes from our column for which we are grateful for the compliment.

Someone has said that; "Like tea, some of us do not reveal our real worth until we get in hot water." Maybe, they should have said not until things in the way of hardships come up before us. Anyway, it is a fact that we glide along when things are rosy, never taking time to be our best. job of living under stress and strain than when everything is rosy.

Just to live life as God has given it to us, leaves us with the following thought; Life is so wonderful that it leaves most of us filled with wonder.

The following is our own analysis of one of our very common human problems. We believe that if we think that we have a lot more trouble than anyone else, then we certainly have a lot more trouble than we think that we have. Do you agree?

There is one thing that we have found to be true from our own personal experience more or less; if we try to help someone less fortunate than we are, we will soon find that we are more fortunate than we thought.

Speaking of those less fortunate, we hope that many of you remembered to do something special for someone who was more or less handicapped or shut-in on the First Sunday In June this year. This day which was started by Clarence E. Power, 301 Cherokee St., Marietta, Ga. has become pretty well known across our country. Clarence who suffers from the same disease that took the life of Lou Gehrig has been in bed practically all the time since 1926. But like many many more of the wonderful Christian folks who suffer he has given of his all to the making of a happier life for others with some ailment and in bed. If you are a shut-in write to Clarence for sure. If you just want to encourage him in his work write to him whether or not. If you would like to have the name of other Shut-In folks write us and we will send you a name or names.

DONLEY COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Two of the most common grasses in the Mixed Prairie area of Texas are buffalo-grass and curly mesquite. In most of this area their growth habits, habitat, abundance and general appearance are similar. For this reason these two short grasses are commonly thought of as being the same and known simply as mesquitegrass. However, curlymesquite grass is not adapted in the Donley Soil Conservation District, so what is commonly called "mesquite grass" here is really buffalo grass which grows further north and at a higher elevation than the curly mesquite will stand.

Curlymesquite and buffalo-grass are perennial, summer grasses, that spread by stolons or above-ground runners. Curlymesquite has a tuft of silky hair at the nodes, or joints, of the runners, whereas, the nodes of buffalo-grass are devoid of hair. This is an easy way to distinguish between the two. Buffalo-grass is dioecious, which means that male and female flowers are located on separate plants. The seed are enclosed in a bur very close to the ground. Buffalo-grass is a good seed producer and will make several seed crops each year if sufficient summer moisture is available. Curlymesquite rarely produces viable seed, its propagation depending solely upon vegetative spread.

The short grasses are short-rooted and do not resist drought like the medium and tall grasses. For this reason the short grasses are generally dormant at some time during the summer. They do, however, revive quickly and spread rapidly following summer showers. To maintain a short grass pasture, the grazing plan should be based upon this recuperative characteristic, also, the seeding habits of buffalo-grass. Short periods of deferment of six to eight weeks throughout the growing season seems to be the best management practice for short grasses.

Most of the mixed prairies originally contained scattered plants of buffalo-grass and curlymesquite. Under heavy grazing, after the taller grasses were reduced in stature and numbers, the short grasses spread very rapidly. A bulletin published in 1899 from a U. S. Department of Agriculture Station located in Abilene, Texas, at that time, gives some very interesting information on our early day grasslands. These writings state that the wild herds of game disappeared in 1873 and the Indian tribes in 1874. The years from 1874 to 1884 were known as the "golden period." There were also abundant rains during this period and the seasons were favorable to the full development of the grasses. In the absence of fires and grazing by wild herds, the grasses grew and thrived, reseeded themselves, and increased rapidly. Grass was high as a cow's back, not only along the river bottoms, but also on the uplands far from the creeks and rivers. There were sections where the native grasses would support 300 head of stock per square mile.

In 1883 the railroads were built through the heart of the range country and the stock industry developed rapidly. The result was a rapid and exhausting overstocking of every available square mile under a free-range system. Weedy species, which were present before, but which had been held in check by the better dominant sorts, immediately increased in numbers. The carrying capacity declined to 30-40 head per section.

Perhaps this was when, and why, of our grassland change from excellent condition to fair and poor condition. Good range management practices that will feature the desirable plants on our ranges today can swing the condition class and stocking rate up again. It will take time, but beneficial results can be expected.

TAXES

I have just returned from a luncheon at the National Press Club which was addressed by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey. At meetings of this kind, the speaker usually makes his speech and then subjects himself to a question and answer period. This was the procedure followed on this occasion. However, the Secretary almost turned the tables. He figured out some rather searching questions concerning the fiscal policies of this Administration and directed these questions to himself, and then proceeded to answer them. This was a novel approach, and it appeared that the Secretary might have gotten himself out of the line of fire for some embarrassing questions. He took up the question about the possibility of a budget surplus, and admitted that it was conjectural, but that they felt sure that they could have a budget surplus of around 1 billion, 8 hundred million dollars. He pointed out that since this government is spending 1 billion dollars every 5 days, which is being collected along as it is being spent, a hitch or delay in the mails could upset the fiscal apple cart.

The Secretary also asked himself whether or not there would be a tax cut if there was a budget surplus. He then proclaimed an emphatic "no" (that is, if his recommendation should be the determining factor). He explained that before a tax cut would be in order, there must be some measurable space between the income and the outgo, in favor of the income.

He also treated the discussed fuss between the Federal Reserve board and the Treasury and undertook to point out that whatever disagreements might be present between these two agencies they were not serious but matters of honest disagreement that would and could be resolved to the ultimate benefit of the country.

He spoke at length of paying our way as we go and not burdening our children and grandchildren with further indebtedness. However, he failed to state that the national debt today is greater by several billion dollars than when he took office. In fact, when he took office the law prohibited the national debt from exceeding $275 billion. Today the debt is $276 billion, 296 million, or over 1 billion dollars more than was allowed by law at the time Mr. Humphrey took office. He states that he wanted to make payments on the public debt rather than to use the budget surplus for tax cutting. If he used every dime of the budget surplus that he claims will be available for such purposes, the public debt today would still be several billion dollars more than it was when he took office.

When the question and answer period arrived, one of the reporters asked him what he thought of T. Coleman Andrews' proposal to do away with the income tax. You could tell by the expression on the Secretary's face that the proposals of his former Internal Revenue Commissioner, Mr. T. Coleman Andrews, did not have Secretarial approval. As a matter of fact, Secretary Humphrey was visibly flushed and started his answer by saying that he thought the public trust assumed by a public official when he took a high office did not cease with termination of that office, but continued on thereafter. The general appearance of the Secretary under the circumstances indicated to me that he thought Mr. T. Coleman Andrews was engaging in quite a bit of demagoguery. Not being a mind reader, I would not want to leave the impression that the Secretary so felt, but his general demeanor and his statement that the proposals of Mr. T. Coleman Andrews were very unfortunate did lead me to believe that Mr. T. Coleman Andrews should not apply for a reinstatement in his former position or in any other position that might be under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Treasury.

IT'S SWITCHCRAFT

— that's what it is!

You'll see when you try Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflow!

IT TAKES a new word to describe the magic at your command when you drive a '56 Buick—with the newest transmission of them all.

It's full power go-ahead on the instant. You can get where you were just looking in a shaved second's time—with the most modern and most thrilling surge of safety acceleration in the land today.

It's smoothness, too. Complete freedom from the "bump" and lag of gears shifting. Only with Dynaflow can you go winging away with so smooth a sweep.

And only with a '56 Buick can you enjoy Dynaflow's newest marvel. It's something the engineers call "double regeneration." Lets you start off like an Olympic sprinter, with the pedal pressed just an inch or less. (And driving that way, you get better gas mileage.)

There's more big news, too, that goes with this new Buick magic. And that covers a lot more than styling.

Sure—you'll like the graceful new beauty of the V-shaped prow and sweep-ahead look. And you'll like the extra room inside.

But as you drive you'll find that this Buick responds with the new might of a big, record-powered V8 engine of 322-cubic-inch heft.

It handles easy as butter to a warm knife. Tracks the curves like a plane on the beam. Makes any road seem paved with pillows.

And what's responsible for all this are more new engineering advances than Buick has ever made in one model year.

So why not come in and see—and feel—the difference they make? You'll soon know why owners find it's the best Buick yet—and the best buy yet, by far.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

ed in 1950 by a heavy majority, and is one of the youngest men ever to serve on the high bench.

It was felt by most seasoned observers that Wilson would have been re-elected without opposition had he desired to continue as a member of the State's highest tribunal.

Wilson served as Assistant Attorney General of Texas under Gerald Mann and Grover Sellers in 1941-42.

Ike's Visit—

Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit to his native state, planned long ago, by chance came three days after the Democratic State Convention. There, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson was endorsed as favorite son candidate for President.

Thus, Texas has two native sons in the race for Chief Executive of the United States.

Gov. Allan Shivers, who has said he will support the presidential nominee whom he considers best for the nation, regardless of party, didn't attend the Dallas convention at which Johnson was the main figure.

As Texas Chief Executive he did, however, welcome President Eisenhower at Waco, where Ike received an honorary degree from Baylor University.

Eisenhower leaders, including National Committeeman Jack Porter, and other Texas Republican notables, conferred with the President briefly in Waco. Also present was Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, late of the President's cabinet and now co-chairman of the national Citizens for Eisenhower organization. Governor Shivers did not take part in the conference.

Johnson's Goals

Senator Johnson gained his personal goals at the Democratic convention. But his control of the convention was shaky all the way through.

Near the end, his personal requests were turned down. His reported choice for Democratic National Committeewoman, Mrs. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. of McAllen, was sidetracked for Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston. She replaces Mrs. Hilda Weinert of Seguin. Also replaced was National Committeeman Ben Ramsey. Elected in his stead was Byron Skelton of Temple.

A new state executive committee is not to be named until the usual time—the September convention. Meanwhile, the May convention is not adjourned—merely recessed. This is interpreted as a "foot in the door" to keep watch over the present committee during the summer.

Defeated conservatives say that Shivers conservatives and Johnson conservatives soon will be back in the same camp. They think it can happen in time to shift party control again in the September convention.

New Tax Suggested

When the 55th Legislature convenes next January, the biggest bugaboo will be a familiar one—need for more money.

Budget estimates indicate at least $25 million more a year will be needed for 1957-59 appropriations.

Campaign platforms of legislative candidates show that many think existing tax sources are paying as much as they can. Many suggest that new revenue sources should be found to equalize the load. Few are very specific.

A concrete suggestion came last week from a University of Texas economics professor writing for "Comment," the Bureau of Public Affairs monthly. A "business activities" tax was proposed by Carey C. Thompson.

Such a tax, said Thompson, would be based on value added to a product by manufacture and hence would hit "only newly-created wealth hitherto untaxed." Michigan, he said, collects about $30 million a year by this means.

Alternate proposals, such as income or sales taxes, widely used in other states, have always met strong opposition in Texas.

Leukemia, a leading cause of death among children, is a type of cancer that involves the blood-forming organs. Cancer kills more children in the United States than any other disease, the American Cancer Society says.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH?

In a few score years, all who read these lines will have vanished from the earth.

Every day, almost a hundred thousand human beings finish their earthly span and pass off into the vast beyond. Our turn will come we all know, but when, where and how we cannot be sure.

No merely human being ever has been able to look into eternity and tell us what it is like. No scientific knowledge or instruments can pierce the curtain that divides this world from that into which all of us must eventually journey.

All we know about God's eternal plans for us... all we know about what lies beyond the grave... comes from the God Who made us and to the extent He has seen fit to reveal it to us.

But we can face eternity without fear. For we have a definite answer to the mystery of death. With the facts God has put at our disposal through the inspired books of the Old and the New Testaments, the Catholic Church always has given, and gives today, a definite answer to the important questions raised by the fact of death.

Man's life in this world, the Church tells us, is a preparation for the world to come... a testing-time which ends with our death. What happens after that depends on whether death finds us loyal to God, or opposed to Him and the way He expects us to live. "... it is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27).

Christ gave us (Matt. 25:31-46) a description of God's judgment which leaves no room for doubt that our worthiness of everlasting reward will be judged solely according to the way we have lived our lives on this earth.

Death does not bring merely a long, unconscious slumber, but rather a quick awakening to the irrevocable judgment of our Creator. Nor does it bring us a second chance to prove ourselves or to amend our erring ways. In our own hands rests the opportunity... and upon our own heads the responsibility... to determine if death shall be the threshold to everlasting life among the blessed, or among the lost.

Men blessed by youth and good health often feel that death for them is far away—something to be worried about only in the twilight years. Some scoff at the suggestion that an everlasting hell could be permitted by a merciful God. Others seem to think that God will treat them kindly if they live reasonably moral lives, even though they pay Him no special honor which is His due.

If you would like more information on Heaven, Hell, Purgatory, the end of the world and the resurrection and judgment of all men... we shall be happy to send you an interesting pamphlet, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Write today for your copy of Pamphlet No. KC-14.

Go forth, young man

... we can't use you here

Is this the word to our young people - able and beloved - when they've finished school and are ready to start making their own living?

COPYRIGHT 1956 D. E. SCOTT

Too often it is, in the smaller communities like ours.

Why don't we have more job opportunities and more business opportunities right here, so that more of our sons and daughters can establish their homes and be happy and prosperous here at home?

It's partly circumstance. Partly the natural limitations of the economy of our area. Partly because we haven't been quite aggressive or enterprising enough to build and grow more.

But it's also partly because many of us have let ourselves get into the habit of spending too much of our money somewhere else.

Every dollar that we spend away from home is a dollar less to circulate among us and to account for 2 or 3 or more dollars of added trade volume as it moves from hand to hand.

Keeping more of this easily available trade volume at home is one way by which we could create and sustain more local opportunities for our young people. And for ourselves.
