It's Right.
"Capital punishment is according to God's command: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." This was in force before the days of Moses, and by him was incorporated in the law. If the safety of society then demanded the death of a murderer, it is no less demanded now. It is no argument against the death penalty to say that the pardon of the murderer or the commutation of the death sentence encourages the taking of human life. Life imprisonment would not deter the murderer even though the

OUR WORST ENEMY.

IS THE STORM CENTER.

Saloon Hostile to Good Citizenship and Clean Manhood.

Sixty years ago whisky, at 25 cents a gallon, was pure; today, at $1 to $16 a gallon it contains fusel oil and other poisons enough to kill a steer. The harder the hand of license presses, the greater the temptation to adulterate the drinks. The intoxicants of former time were as spring water compared with the infuriating cup of the modern saloon. As the quality of the liquor is debased, the character of the public house has sunk with it. The saloon has come to be the storm center of all that is hostile to good citizenship and clean manhood. It is the nest of crime, the club-room of the "boodler," the rendezvous of thieves, the incubator of riot, the snake, which warmed in the bosom of liberty, is sinking its fangs into that vital virtue which alone makes liberty live. Sixty thousand corpses corded up annually by the dragon, to say nothing of the incomputable broken hearts and blighted hopes—Searchlight.

The Preacher's Opportunity and Responsibility.

If judgment must begin at the house of God, and it must; if every reform must begin with the church, line. The preachers must line up first. "Like priest, like people."

E. L. FRAZIER.

Take a Stand.

"At last we have arrived at a place where something must be done to thwart the combined efforts of the liquor power to multiply the growth of intemperance in every city, town and village in our land, or bow our heads in humble subjection to its accursed work, while it ravishes the civic virtues of our land, consumes the flower of our nation and drags down to death and everlasting torment, the very loved ones of our homes.

"The past work of this merciless destroyer is beyond the power of pen or brush to portray. Terrible as its work has been, it is not a shadow of what will follow, if the accursed thing is not banished from our land before it has an opportunity to clinch its merciless fangs upon the rising generation. The dense cloud that now hangs like a pall over our benighted nation was, thirty years ago, no larger than a man's hand; today it almost obscures the heavens. A few years hence our doom will be irretrievably sealed. What we do must be done now. There is no time to trifle with this abominable curse. We must strike the death blow to it or let it smite us.

"The fiendish plot of the saloon league to throttle and control our government, and flood our nation now, Mr. Editor, they say whisky won't hurt you if you let it alone. What about the lonely, broken hearted widow? What about the fatherless baby boy, who will never know anything of the love of a child for a father? What of the broken hearted wife of the sheriff, who is almost frantic with grief, for the wife of the dead man was her special friend, almost like her sister. Oh, you drinkers, oh, you that sell and you that make, and you party politician, who by precept, example or by silence, you have disgraced this fair land of ours with the awful curse of drink. It is you that have murdered this man, it is you that have broken these hearts, it is you upon whose souls the blood of this man lies. Oh, you want revenue. Yes, the revenue of broken hearts, revenue from the damned in hell, revenue from the fatherless child. Any man or party that will plead for such revenue for the individual, county, state or nation, I say all such men or parties are so rotten they are for no place but hell.

This county, like many other counties of the Panhandle, is all divided and discord, bickering and all such hurtful things which belittle the man, dwarf the intellect and damn the soul is the result. And now some say the sheriff could have managed to have kept the peace and not have killed the man. Others say no, he only did his duty. This matter I will not attempt to settle. But there is one point on which all agree. All without an exception

Clarendon, Texas, May 4, 1899.

If people live right, even to the dictates of their own conscience, they would find much to endorse and little to condemn in our paper we believe. We raise our standard for right living—"Be sure you are right and then go ahead."

SOME people lack discriminating sense, or else are wilful. If you call attention to violations of moral or state laws and they are guilty they at once cry out that you have personated them. We are led to believe in many instances that it is more wilful than ignorant and that "the hit dog does the howling."

As a religious newspaper we shall continue to battle for the right and against the wrong as we see it. We do not expect to get all to see as we do, neither do we expect by our efforts to entirely stop the work of the devil in our community, but with the help of the large number of good men and women that are endorsing and willing to help us we believe we shall at least slow the speed of his satanic majesty in our community.

Clarendon College.

We want our friends over the Clarendon district to rejoice with us. After many disappointments and delays the building is sufficiently completed to be occupied. Last Thursday night a public entertainment was held in the auditorum and on Saturday the school desks were moved

We clip the following from the grand jury report of Hill county and dare say every grand jury in Donley county would give the same testimony. We need to agitate against this growing evil.

"Perjury is the prevailing crime with which we have had to deal and we are forced to the conclusion that a great majority of those who participate in gambling and patronize the gambling houses and blind tigers or hopale joints would rather shield the violators of the law by swearing false than to reveal the truth, and it is alarming how young the boys of the town and country will come before us with a trained mind to fail to remember and, thereby, shield the violators. This question has become a serious problem to us during our deliberations. While we have not found but one bill for perjury it is due to the peculiar wording of our statutes and the construction of it by the higher courts."

Our Public Schools.

The following named gentlemen were elected as the new school board for Clarendon independent school district last Tuesday.

President of the board,
Geo. F. Morgan,
The trustees are:
A. B. Ewing,
R. A. Chamberlain,
D. Barnhart,
John Hoffer,
J. P. Casey,
A. C. Barrett.

By the votes of a majority of the qualified voters voting, they are to direct our public school affairs for the next two and four years. The position of school director is neither a pleasant or profitable one, but it is a very important one. Now let every patron of the school give their moral support to the new board in their efforts for the best interests of the public school. Without a first-class public school here our colleges

"I Would Be Patient for a Little."

These were the words which I heard a poor wife, who was an invalid, saying to a husband who was cross and impatient with her. She felt that she could not last long with her racking cough, and quietly remarked: "If I were you, I would be patient for a little." We should be more patient if we reflected that the state of things to which we object is generally a transitory one.

Do you not get on well with your husband or wife? All too soon will death separate you. Is your child tiresome? It is the effect of immaturity; the tree will soon be grown up. Are you in pain? If severe, it will not last long; if it last long, it cannot be very acute. Are you unable to suffer fools gladly? You would be enabled to do so if you reflected that we poor fools cannot become wise in a moment; you must give us time. Is the world all wrong? The Lord is at hand to set it right, and He is only not in a hurry because He is eternal. "If I were you, I would be patient for a little."—The Quiver.

The business men of New York have taken the initiative in a movement that has been expected, that of substituting office girls for office boys. In a recent examination held under civil service regulations for such positions, a number of girls passed very creditable examinations. The naked truth stares us in the face, that the boys of the coming generations must be forced to a proper application of their mental, moral and physical faculties to keep pace with the opposite sex. The vices which so easily beset boys, and under whose influence girls rarely come, namely, profanity, tipping, and use of tobacco, must be discarded or the supremacy of man will be a back number. Thought rules the world, not mechanism.

Beyond this beautiful rippling stream, just over on the edge of the grassy knoll there blooms a rare and richly tinted flower. They tell us it is so rare and beautiful that it might have blushed to life at the touch of an angel's kiss, and caught its rosy flush direct from a burning star. Beyond the pathless mountains that lift their blue peaks in the fading distance they tell us there is a charming valley that drinks the diamond dew of the morning and bathes in the liquid sunbeams, clad in a verdure of everlasting green and dotted all over with flowers of every hue and shade. Beyond the blue waves of the "pathless ocean" they tell us there is a clime from which the mellow sunlight of spring never departs—that is laden with the songs of birds of note and plumage, and where tropical fruits ripen daily for whoever wills to gather, and peace, ease and plenty rule the lives of a people that never heard of war or pestilence.
