TAX ON NATURAL GAS FOR ROADS FAVORED

Fort Worth, Sept. 16 - The Texas Democratic Party Wednesday was on record as favoring a natural gas tax to finance rural roads.

Such a levy was recommended to the 51st Legislature by the party's 1948 platform adopted in convention here Tuesday.

The platform is theoretically the one on which Gov. Beauford H. Jester, the party nominee for reelection, runs against his opponents in the November general election.

"But this convention goes on record as opposing a general sales tax for any purpose," the platform specified.

The plank-packed 12-page document also called for:

1. A committee study of the state's entire tax structure. 2. Repeal of "ill-considered laws unduly encumbering labor management relations." 3. Rehabilitation of the entire prison system.

JUNIOR WEDNESDAY CLUB OPENS 1948-49 SEASON

The Baird Junior Wednesday Club opened its 1948-49 season a President's Dinner at the home of Mrs. Dee Young. Mrs. Frank Crow, Mrs. H. L. Ferguson and Mrs. Kenneth George were co-hostesses.

The club colors of green and gold were featured in the floral decoration and place cards.

Mrs. Richard Windham, Club President, greeted the members and thanked each for her cooperation in the success of the club since its organization in February of this year. Mrs. Wilburn Carrico and Mrs. Carl Yarbrough were welcomed as new members.

Mrs. H. L. Ferguson, yearbook chairman, presented the new yearbooks and outlined the work for the coming year. Mrs. Frank Crow read the Constitution and By-Laws. Miss Sue Hooker, who rendered a musical selection, was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kenneth George.

Others present were Misses Gwen Dickey, Ruth Dyer, Evelyn Frazier, Bety Hickman, Mrs. Aubrey Ground, Mrs. Tod Newton, Miss Anne Hill, Miss Ernestine Hill, Mrs. Jimmy Pierson, Mrs. Jack Sims, Mrs. Burl Var-

America is famous for good crops. But finest of all is the bumper "crop" of 11,000,000 boys and girls growing up on our farms and ranches. Trained teachers and leaders are helping cultivate this bumper crop. Vocational agricultural teachers in over 7,000 high schools do their part. Most of these schools have Future Farmers of America chapters. Membership of F. F. A. is 250,000. In their "outside classroom" work they receive additional on the job training from their vocational agricultural on-the-job training from their vocational agricultural teachers. They learn to accept leadership responsibility. On graduation, many go directly into farm or ranch management. Others go on to agricultural

A Crop to Cultivate

County agents and over 180,000 unselfish volunteer leaders do another great job through the 4-H Clubs. Through 85,000 local 4-H Clubs, more than 750,000 boys and girls get invaluable training. Advice, encouragement, know-how from practical experts. Their projects keep them abreast of what is new in agriculture. They learn through doing. Achievement and leadership become habits.

It is well that American agriculture has these leaders and teachers. By teaching the business and science of farming, they are helping make life on farm and ranch rich and profitable for a new generation of Americans. They are showing them the way to economic security and a good way of life. Better farm planning; power machinery; scientific modern methods; control of weeds and plant and animal pests . . . All these our farm and ranch youth are learning. In many ways they are qualifying them-selves to be better managers of land and better businessmen. They are increasing their knowledge of science and selling-of machinery and marketsof costs and conservation.

Swift & Company has always been proud to encourage farm youth activities. We shall continue to do so. We have no doubt or fear for the future of America. For, properly cultivated, this crop will ripen surely into our nation's richest harvest

Livestock and Meat Prices

Livestock is marketed when it is ready. The supply of animals coming to market at any one time is controlled by your decisions as producers. These decisions may have been made months previously, depending on your breeding and feeding program. The weather—blizzards, storms and droughts—also have a bearing on when you market your animals.

Meat packers have no control over the supply of livestock.

The meat packer must sell meat and by-products for what they will bring. When people have to economize, they spend less money for meat. Consumers, retailers and meat packers reduce their bids. The prices of both meat and livestock fall accordingly. But when people make more money, they are eager to buy meat. Then buyers all along the line increase their bids. And the prices of both meat and live stock rise accordingly. For each meat packer and each retail meat dealer knows that if he does not pay a little higher for the livestock or meat he wants, somebody else will—and get the business.

Thus the old law of supply and demand—plus competition in buying livestock and selling meat—forces price changes in meat to be reflected quickly all the way back to the livestock on the hoof. At all times the market price is a balance between the supply of livestock and the demand for meat.

New Idea in Junior Feeding Projects

by T. W. Thompson State 4-H Club Leader, Montani

Boys and girls are trying out a new kind of livestock feeding project. In several states—including Mon-tana, Nebraska, Colorado and Indiana-people are enthusiastic about it. Here is how it works. The boy or girl buys an average lot of feeder steers or lambs, from a uniform herd or band. The number bought is usually 3 or more steers, 15 or more lambs. That depends on finances, feed supplies and equip-

These lots of animals are bought at a central market. They are taken home and fattened. Careful records are kept of feed costs and rates of gain. At the end of the feeding period, they are shipped back to market. They are sold on Junior Marketing Day.

Boys and girls consign their animals to commission firms of their own choice. Upon arrival the animals are penned separately, according to ownership. Each lot is graded and weighed separately. Then all animals are assembled in pens according to grade. They are sold for slaughter in the usual manner used on that market. The boys and girls profit according to the market value of their animals.

Sponsors claim the following benefits: (1) It is practical. (2) It promotes better farm feeding methods. (3) Boys and girls learn about market grades of live-stock. (4) They learn about central markets and their operation. This new idea in junior feeding is not intended to take the place of feeding for show. It is a separate project, to give youngsters practical ex-perience in feeding for market.

FEED, SEED AND FARM SUPPLIES

In my work with farmers and ranchers I have visited just about every part of this country. I can't begin to count the number of times I have traveled out of Chicago and back-to the range country of the West...through the Corn Belt states . . . the wheatlands . . . the cotton country—Florida, Maine, Washington, California and all the other states in between. I do not know how anyone who travels much can help being impressed with the need for team play in America. As farmers or ranchers, your prosperity depends to a large degree on the ability of workers in industry to purchase the food and fiber you produce. Likewise, city businessmen know that your power to purchase their products is equally important to them. And all of us depend on the men in the mines, in the forests, in the steel mills, and oil fields, But what we are apt to overlook is the fact that it is the earning of a reasonable profit which keeps all these businesses going, and all of us at work. Of course, profit rates vary. That depends on many things, including volume of business done. For example, here at Swift & Company we process millions of pounds of agricultural raw materials each year. On each pound handled, we earn an average profit of a fraction of a cent. Few could stay in business on the margin we meat packers earn. But whether one's business volume is large or small, some profit is essential to any individual or any

And here's another thing. Often I hear someone say—"Those farmers are the lucky ones—completely independent!" I can't agree with them. I know, and you know, that you with them. I know, and you know, that you on the land are independent—but only to a certain degree! Of course, cities couldn't exist without the products of farm and ranch. Maybe you could produce your own food, clothing, shelter and fuel. But country living would be pretty grim without cars, telephones, radios, fences, tractors, windmills and modern laborsaving, comfort-giving equipment. It is a twoway road! Our standard of living in America is something we are all proud of. It is the result of the profit system and of good team play.

Yes, We Have It For Less!

More Goods For Less Money

New Light on Profit

Some industrial leaders nowadays refer to that old joker item, "profit," in a new way. Annual reports of corporations are beginning to list profit more properly as that part of the sales dollar spent for "use of the tools." This is an understandable way to designate whatever money is paid to stockhold- and Miss Isadore Grimes. ers or kept in the business for reinvestment or expansion.

they turn out good products at reasonable prices. Without good tools the picture would be different. We do have good tools and good plants, better than any other nation. But these things did not come by accident. These tools have accumulated because all of us have been free to save and invest. We have put savings into tools of production These things are our capital.

Capital at Work A hundred years ago each workman the form of tools. Today more than Mrs. W. A. Taylor and infant 11 times this amount, or about $6,000 worth of tools, is back of the average American workman in his productive efforts. In terms of purchasing power our average workman's wages have increased about five fold, even though he works only half as many hours as he did then. Tools, then are important to all of us. Where do they come from? The price of these better tools (sometimes they're expensive tools) has come from people able to save from their incomes a little surplus to invest. Most of these folks today are in the income bracket of $5,000 or over. But through life insurance and bank savings, nearly everybody in America participates in these purchases of tools. .

Danger Signs

Obviously, we have a high standard of living partly because of the laboraiding tools we have accumulated. That is fine. But we must not forget that it is possible for America to have such national policies that tool investments are not forthcoming. In fact, during 1930 to 1940 when our account in tools (capital) slipped downward 19.4 per cent, we found that our economy went backward rather than forward.

Looking at the record, we see that most of our tools were accumulated in the generation prior to 1929. From 1920 to 1930 new capital flowed to in-Elsworth Clark, Putnam, was dustry at the average rate of 6 billion to 1945 were dangerous years. During that period a yearly average of less than half a billion dollars went into

What was the trouble? One trouble was that government had entered the away from the capital market, Tool money was turned into taxes. New tools became scarce. People were afraid to invest. Even after the government had spent its part of the savings taken in taxation, depression remained and millions were still unemployed. We needed money turned to tools and incentive, not to taxes.

Unsound taxation policies must not be allowed to get in the way of good tools and incentive investments. To smaller profits that may be turned into tools. In 1946, though it was the best year on record, manufacturing establishments averaged only 5 cents profit (use of tools) out of the sales sident Charles Seymour of Yale University declared recently that his university wants no part of federal grants for educational purposes, it seemed to me high time that educators in general should wake up to the dangers inherent in federal aid to education. The public, too, seems entirely too complacent regarding this "let-Washington-do-it" attitude, an attitude far too many educators have been fooled into accepting.

It was President Seymour's idea that direct federal grants to his institution would "imperil the independence of the university." Indeed, sooner or later they would. Public school educators could tear a leaf out of President Seymour's notebook. If federal aid would bring interference and control at Yale, so also would federal grants to public education bring control by Washington over local educational

Pocketbook Power

As far as I know, nobody has ever argued that control over the finances of an undertaking fails to bring with it full control of that project. Surely where the pocketbook is, there goes the authority. None of those arguing for federal aid will admit they would welcome federal control of education. Everybody wants to avoid federal control (except the Communists).

Yet, it amazes me that folks would accept measures that lead to control, as surely as dawn precedes day. We work hard and spend tax money, to promote decentralization, local responsibility, and local self-government in Germany. We still believe that Hitler and his Nazis built a dictatorship by concentrating power into hands that no one dared oppose.

Local Rights

Why then, should America ever take a step in the same direction? Federal aid to public education is socialized education. All the dangers attendant to the centralized government would be magnified under any plan that would permit federal control of the education of children.
