

GEORGE'S WIFE

By "Sarah"

In only one issue of the Amarillo Daily News, on the editorial page this week was much discontent and cries for help. We couldn't be an editor, the bright and happy letters are too far apart. We would be at the very depth of despair all the time. The trend now is to holler uncle, when adversity strikes us even if we think we are going to be hurt. This used to be a kid game, when someone twisted your arm, even then you were called sissy. People, organizations, everyone and every thing calls for Federal help at the drop of a hat. What has happened to the boot straps we reach for and are not there? Most of us are prone to still sit back and let George do it, or George's wife. As we have tried to point out all these months, it could be, something has happened to George, else things would have turned out better for us. This letter, title "He Hates Us," seems very unhappy about the type of reporting the paper is doing toward Farmers and Grain Warehouseman. Now we have this book on "Public Relations will make people love me the way I am" says though this is only true if you live lovable, and let people know it.

Friends and acquaintances may not always believe what you and I say, but you can count on it that they believe the things we do. There is no point in declaring to your neighbor that you believe in temperance if he sees you staggering around your yard in the evening, or that your home is tranquil and serene if noisy arguments between you and your wife keep him awake nights.

Agriculture like many other industries, may have skeletons with their toes sticking out of the closet, or off-colored chickens trying to get home to roost. Good public relations is practically impossible until the skeletons are disposed of and the chickens caught and culled. No public relations program can make the public love anybody merely because he longs to be loved.

"Others get subsidies too" is far from being an effective answer to an accusation, this approach constitutes an admission of the charge. It suggests not only the charge is accurate, but that we were conscious of guilt before the charge was made. Now all we gotta do is live lovable, like the book says.

The word "barbecue" is popularly believed to be derived from the French phrase "de barbe a queue," which means cooked from head to tail.

GABIE BETTS BURTON LIBRARY NOTES

EDITH BARNES

Mrs. Goodner sent a check to buy five boy's books for Tom's Memorial shelf, on the anniversary of his passing away, June the 5th.

"A New Home" by Caroline M. Kirkland has been given in memory of Mr. John Blocker. A memorial fund has also been given dedicated to his memory.

A book has been ordered to be placed in the library as a memorial to Mr. T. M. Shaver.

A friend of the library brought in eight new books, all fiction, and gave them to us. Nice folks still give a lot of magazines and while they are still current numbers. Again I want to thank all of them and tell them on behalf of all of us how much their help is appreciated!

We have a little reference material on tornadoes. Now is a good time to come in and trade your fantasies for facts, as we all know that fear thrives on misinformation.

In one of our old reference books they say that it is a well known fact that a waterspout (a tornado over water) is at once broken up by the firing of a cannon. If that is true all we have to do is figure out a way to get a big charge of high explosives near our tornadoes and some brave soul to set it off.

So far there is not a great deal of information on tornadoes but what little there is should be read and studied. Remember newspapers and magazines have to print the sensational and the exaggerated so the reader can't help but get a lop sided picture of a tornado. Some times less than a block away from a row of houses completely flattened out may be a row with hardly a shingle disturbed.

Of course you don't have to read a book to know that it is the fear of storms not the storms themselves that is making nervous wrecks out of folks.

Ten per cent of the 625,000 Americans who visited Europe in 1958 were on escorted tours, according to the American Society of Travel Agents.

NUTRITIOUS MEAT FROM DAIRY BREED STEERS

College Station—The birth of a bull calf has not, as a general rule, been considered a happy occasion on a dairy farm. On the other hand, arrival of a heifer calf has meant another potential milker for the herd. Except for a few superior individuals kept for breeding purposes, bull calves, if raised, have usually been sold for veal.

A. M. Meekma, extension dairy husbandman, announces that recent research has shown that these male calves, especially from the large dairy breeds, can be put to profitable use by raising them for beef when cattle prices are as favorable as at the present.

The research conducted at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, showed that dairy beef feeders six months old can be produced for 16 cents a pound using whole milk. When dried skim milk was substituted for the whole milk, cost per pound of gain to six months was reduced by three cents. During the fattening period, when corn and cob meal was fed free choice with limited hay and silage, feed cost per pound of gain averaged 13 cents.

A taste panel, sampling short- loin steaks, found the meat to be both savory and tender, notes the husbandman. Ranking highest in the taste tests were Holsteins, but all breeds produced acceptably tender beef.

WHAT IS THE MORAL?

Just as a matter of good business, government — national, state and local — should do everything within reason to encourage industry to produce and sell more goods and services.

Government's customers are the taxpayers. Consider typical 1959 annual reports of just three companies out of thousands. One manufacturing concern paid its owners some $174 million in dividends. It paid state and federal governments over $300 million Biggest profits were realized from the larger dairy breeds — Holsteins and Brown Swiss. Jerseys did not offer as much in this respect because of lower grade slaughter. Efficiency of feed utilization did not vary widely among any of the breeds.

A dairyman should consider this enterprise, Meekma adds; if he has the necessary barn space, feed and labor.

in taxes. An oil company paid cash dividends of some $153 million to its stockholders and $141 million in taxes to governments, in addition to collecting and paying over to governments some $485 million in gas taxes. Another oil company paid cash dividends of less than $100 million to its owners, but taxes of over $190 million, not to mention over $450 million it collected in consumer gas taxes for governments. In company after company, governments get a greater share of net earnings than do the owners.

The moral would seem to be that governments should foster rather than discourage ambition and incentive, thereby benefiting all concerned. Too often, unfortunately, politics is substituted for reason in dealing with governments' best customers (taxpayers). Industry could not survive if it used the same tactics.

Thank you, Mr. K., for the introduction to the Real You. Of course we had met you before, even way back in the days when you were only a director in the divide, disrupt, and destroy dynasty of the late dictator Stalin.

We met you again as you took over the ruling whip and proceeded with the Communist idea of selling its brand of slavery to the rest of the world.

We saw you first-hand when you visited our country recently. For several days you were in the middle of our television screens and upon the pages of our newspaper as you smiled and bowed your way across our land. Your eagerness to see our country-side, and your expressions of friendship seemed to be in conflict with the You we had met earlier and some of our people were made to wonder if deep down on the inside there might be some traits in your make-up that were worth cultivating. We Americans are peculiar in that we always want to give everyone the benefit of the doubt.

But, at the summit meeting you introduced us to the Real You. We are sorry that you are like that, but we are thankful for your showing us your true colors before we were any deeper involved in your little game of hiding behind the olive branch.

You showed us plain that in your world there are only two ways; your way and the right way. You made us dead sure that we want to stick closer to that right way. You caused us to value as more precious than ever before the friendship of those who have proved that they are on the right side. You have drawn us closer to our friends. Thank you again for shocking us into opening our eyes and seeing the Real You.

Have you made the trip across beautiful Palo Duro Canyon lately? Since the mesquite trees have added their own special shade of green to that of the cedars. It is for a fact a beautiful sight. Early in the spring when the green of the trees seems so much brighter it makes the other colors like the red of the earth's formation show up with even more beauty.

About this time of the year the wild flowers along the road make the drive even more interesting. If you live in Claude or anyplace north or west and have an afternoon off take the family for a drive across the canyons, on through Tule Canyons, and by all means to Burson Lakes and on around and back on to Highway 287 at Clarendon. Of course, if you live anyplace east or north of Clarendon you can reverse the drive. You will agree that the scenery rivals that of many parts of the country that have been talked about a lot more.

We still think that Claude, Silvertown, and Clarendon need to get going on a booster program for this drive. Canadian has cashed in on their foliage tours in the fall. They are wonderful but here we have a year around drive with a change of scenery with each season.

We always enjoy our stop with the folks at Burson Lakes even though at times we doubted the fish stories. But lately Mr. Taylor has been sending us pictures and names to prove the catches are real. Real photographs show that folks are taking away some real Whoppers. We must try our luck before long.

Growing old is such a blessing; This one reason we are giving—Unless older you are growing. Then your friends sure are knowing.

That you ain't among the living. It is true that unless we are growing older, then we have already passed on. But, there are so many more wonderful thoughts in connection with growing old. A friend whom we often visit is a person who in my opinion is growing old with a wonderful personality and outlook on life. She gave me the following thought from a clipping she had saved as being the basis of her desire about growing old. It is in the form of a prayer.

"Lord, thou knowest better than I that I am growing older and will someday be old. Keep me from the fatal habit that I must say something on every occasion. Release me from craving to try to straighten out everybody's affairs. Make me thoughtful but not moody; helpful but not bossy. With my vast source of knowledge it seems a shame not to use it all — but thou knowest Lord, that I want a few friends at the end.

Keep me from reciting endless details . . . give me wings to get to the point. Seal my lips on my aches and pains. The desire to rehearse them is becoming greater as the years go by. I dare not ask for grace to enjoy the tales of others' pains but help me to endure them with patience.

I dare not ask for an improved memory, but for more humility when my opinions seem to clash with others. Teach me the lesson that I may occasionally be wrong. Keep me reasonably sweet; I do not want to be a saint—some of them are too hard to live with. Give me the ability to see good things in unexpected places and talents in unexpected people. Give me the grace to tell them so. Amen."

The life of this person makes us believe that she prayed fervently this prayer.

CHEVROLET

OUT WHERE THE COUNTRY CAN TEAR A TRUCK TO PIECES—

Chevy middleweights get 1/3 more work done in a day!

Where they used to deliver 2,300 gallons of liquefied petroleum gas in other trucks, Petrolane Gas Service of Long Beach, California, can now deliver 3,500 gallons a day! That's 7 days a week usually, over back trails and up into high rock country with maximum GVW loads. And with Chevy's Torsion-Spring Ride paving every foot of the way! "You don't get any more jolting on washboard roads than you do in a passenger car, or any sidesway on curves," says driver Bernie Stone. "I used to take some rough roads at from 5 to 8 miles an hour. Now I can go 30 over them." Petrolane has over 200 Chevrolets hauling for them.

If you think we're excited about Chevy's independent front suspension, you ought to talk to the truck owners who are profiting by it. They'll tell you Chevy's torsion-spring design is the hottest thing to hit the industry since trucks began. Drive one—that's the proof, short and sweet.

Miss Patricia Owens, daughter of C. B. Owens and the late Mrs. Owens, became the bride of Jimmy McAnear, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McAnear of Goodnight, in a ceremony Saturday evening, June 4, at the Goodnight Baptist Church. Rev. Spencer Sibley, uncle of the bride, officiated.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with greenery and pink gladioli with pink tapers. Miss Inez Blankenship, pianist, played a nuptial prelude and the traditional wedding marches. Miss Fredda Bourland presided at the bride's book.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Don Owens of Amarillo, was attired in a street length dress of white embroidered polished cotton fashioned with long sleeves, fitted bodice, and full skirt. Her veil fell from a matching hat and she carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds on a white Bible.
