Broncos Win Bi-District Title

Clarendon overcomes Spearman Lynx, 59-53

Four Clarendon roundballers Thursday converted 12 of 17 free throws in the final period in Pampa's McNeeley Fieldhouse edging, Spearman 59-53 in the Broncos' first bi-district win in two years.

The varsity boys basketball squad met Idalou in an area contest Tuesday night in Canyon. Detailed results were not available at press time, but Clarendon lost to the Idalou team, 71-54, after leading at the half, 26-22.

In the bi-district game, Clarendon hung onto a 50-48 lead at the 3:28, mark having fought back from a 46-45 third quarter deficit.

Brent Gaines scored the Broncos' only field goal in the final period, but the Broncos, who shot 68 percent from the free throw line began the first of 10 trips to the line.

"That was the difference in the ball game," head coach Jimmy Avery said.

Both teams were held scoreless from the 5:00 mark until the clock ticked down to 2:37. That's when sophomore Scotty Elliott took control and converted two free throws after he was fouled.

The junior Gaines made a big block at the defensive end of the court, but after a missed Clarendon free throw Spearman got within 52-50 off a Lynx field goal. Dean Stanzione converted two free throws, and the Broncos led 54-50.

Kareem Abdullah, who had a strong first quarter, struggled with Spearman for the ball and forced it out of bounds, giving possession back to Clarendon with 34 ticks left on the clock.

Elliott set a screen and rolled off Abdullah before catching the inbound pass from Stanzione. He was fouled and converted two free throws, and Clarendon stretched the lead to 56-50.

Spearman missed their next shot, and Elliott grabbed the rebound and passed to Stanzione, who was fouled and made one free throw for a 57-50 lead.

But the Lynx would not play dead, shooting a trey for a 57-53 advantage. Spearman went to the line for the final time when Abdullah fouled out but missed the front end of a one-and-one, and Stanzione grabbed the last of his team-high 12 rebounds.

Stanzione made two free throws for the final 59-53 score.

"Free throws won it for us, and so did defense," Avery said. "We switched to a zone in the fourth quarter because we were in foul trouble. Also, the big posts were hurting us inside.

"We got in the zone and double-teamed the posts, and the guards didn't shoot the ball real well.

"We also spread the floor out and milked the clock out the last couple of minutes. I said shoot a lay-up or a free throw," Avery said. "I told them if we couldn't make our free throws, we didn't deserve to win. We made our free throws, and we won it."

Clarendon started out the game on fire as Abdullah made a trey, two field goals and two free throws. Stanzione knotted a 3-pointer, a basket and was 2 for 2 from the charity stripe as the Broncos led 22-16.

Gaines and Abdullah made two baskets apiece while Stanzione connected on a bucket for a 32-25 advantage at halftime.

"We played with a lot of energy the first quarter, and we made a lot of baskets and got a big run going, going up by 11 or so," Avery said. "We ran out of energy the second quarter, and our defensive effort went down. We ran out of gas a little bit. They (Spearman) got some momentum, but we hung on.

"I told them (at halftime) that they were going to have to keep up that pressure. We were winning that ball game because of defense, and we couldn't let up."

But Spearman stepped it up in the third period, putting the ball inside to its two big men as they rattled off 21 points. Clarendon went cold in the third quarter, scoring 13 points.

"When (Abdullah) went out with (four fouls in the third period), I thought that was a pretty big compliment to him that they immediately started pressing us. The pressure rattled us, so I felt like I had to put him back in and take a chance and hope that he would be smart enough to keep out of foul trouble. As soon as I put him in, they dropped out of the

Lady Bulldogs win three more, look for National Championship

Clarendon improved to 22-4 on the season with one game remaining before the March 5 National Small College tournament in Salina, Kan.

Oklahoma Christian University's Junior Varsity fell victim to the Lady Bulldogs for the second time this season, dropping a 61-34 contest Feb. 17 in Clarendon.

The Oklahoma school trailed 29-14 at halftime.

Sophomore Brandy Thomas of Wellington took advantage of a hot streak, dumping in 12 points in the opening period. "We played really good defense," head coach Joel Zehr said. "We created a lot of turnovers, and she scored off them."

Sophomore Angie Kepley, who competed at Knox City High School put in all of her 13 points in the second half, hitting one 3-pointer and four field goals.

Clarendon has had to rely on its defense, Zehr said, because their offensive game has struggled lately.

"Our defense is great, but we're not playing well offensively. We have to step up the defensive pressure when we get in situations like that."

Scoring for the Lady Bulldogs were Thomas, 17; Kepley, 13; Tiffany Wilcox, 7; Maxie Flores, 6; Charmaine Alfred, 4; Jeanene Tubbs, 4; Jodi Card, 4; Maria Hernandez, 4; and Rebecca Seto, 2.

Otero Junior College posed a much bigger threat to Clarendon Saturday in the Clarendon College Gym. The last time the two squads met, Clarendon walked away with a 21-point win.

The heated rivalry between the two squads went up a notch when one official didn't show up and they were forced to play under the supervision of one referee.

Despite the strong, physical play Clarendon held onto a slight 23-21 lead. "The first half was pretty brutal," Zehr said.

"We only had one referee. There was a mix-up in the time. It was hard to play the first half with one official. It got real physical.

"Any time we play Otero, it's like that. It's just a big rivalry thing."

Clarendon again relied on their defense to pull out the 61-53 win as they continued to struggle offensively, Zehr said.

"We did not play very well offensively. Overall, we played really good team defense."

Clarendon pulled away the last six minutes of the game when they started scoring and moving well, Zehr said.

"It was a team effort. We had a bunch of players take control." Alfred stepped up her game putting in 11 points in the second half."

Thomas - the team's leading scorer - was held to four points for the game. "(Otero) really concentrated on her," Zehr said.

Scorers were Alfred, 18; Hernandez, 14; Flores, 8; Tubbs, 7; Thomas, 4; Card, 3; Trish Castillo, 3; Kepley, 2; and Wilcox, 2.

The Lady Bulldogs blew away the visiting women from Redlands College in the CC Gym Monday night. The final score of 73-53 improved the Clarendon women's record to 23-4 as they set their sights on a National Championship. Details of the Redlands game will be in next week's newspaper.

Thornberry working to repeal inheritance and gift taxes

US Rep. Mac Thornberry held a news conference recently at an office supply store in Amarillo to talk about a bill he introduced last week that would help family-owned farms and small businesses by repealing the federal inheritance and gift taxes.

"Part of the American dream has always been to work hard and leave a better life for our kids," Thornberry stated. "But in America today, the federal government has set up a roadblock by imposing a tax which stands in the way of making the American dream a reality. It's called the inheritance tax, and it works like this.

"When a person dies, the IRS places a tax of up to 55 percent on everything that person owns that's valued at over $600,000. This includes land, equipment, and anything else a person has spent a lifetime working to achieve. The results can be devastating. More than 70 percent of all family-owned businesses do not survive through the second generation, while 87 percent never make it to a third generation.

If the inheritance tax makes little sense as a family policy, it makes even less sense as a federal one. Taken as a whole, inheritance taxes account for just one percent of all federal revenue. Studies have also shown that nearly three-quarters of the money collected through the inheritance tax never makes it to the treasury. Instead, it goes to pay overhead and administration costs at the IRS.

"Inheritance tax produces too many headaches for too little return. Studies show that repealing them altogether would pump more than $80 billion dollars into the economy, create 250,000 new jobs, and boost private savings by $640 billion over the next eight years. It would also help bring down the deficit because of the added economic output such an action would produce.

"In short, repealing the inheritance tax is an idea whose time has come, and something that would produce tremendous benefits for people in Texas and elsewhere across the country, especially farmers and small business owners who want to leave their businesses to their family."

Thornberry noted that abolishing the inheritance tax is something that has been of interest to him for some time. As a youth, Thornberry wrote to then Senators Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower, and then Representative Jack Hightower urging them to support repeal of the tax. "I had heard my father and grandfather talking about how we could keep the ranch in the family," he said. "Thousands of small businesses still face that problem, which is one of the reasons I've introduced this bill."

Should We Amend The Constitution?

The Republican majority in Congress has brought it up again for consideration — the Balanced Budget Amendment. It is designed to force the Federal government to live within its means.

But is it really necessary? No, not really. Consider for a minute that it takes a two-thirds majority of both houses of Congress to propose an amendment. Once proposed, three-fourths of the States have to ratify an amendment before it becomes law. In short, a lot of political capital has to be spent to pass the thing.

A balanced budget on the other hand requires only a simple majority of each house and the signature of the President. (Yes, I know that's what Pres. Clinton said in the State of the Union, but in this rare instance, he is right.)

It's a simple matter of fish or cut bait. Don't wait for the amendment. Don't wait for seven years. Just pass a balanced budget.

My objection to the Balanced Budget Amendment is two-fold. First, what happens if the Tax-Happy Democrats get back in power? They might have a Constitutional mandate to raise taxes. "We don't wanna do it, but we gotta. Constitution says we have to be in balance, and there simply isn't enough revenue."

Second, I just don't believe we should amend the Constitution just to suit the demagoguery of the season. One of the main problems with the Constitution today is that it's been junked up with some really silly amendments in the last 80 or 90 years.

Witness these enlightened changes to the Founders' work: Amendment XVI — Congress empowered to lay and collect taxes on income (1913). Hello, IRS.

Amendment XVIII — Prohibition of Intoxicating Liquor (1919). This one is so bad we had to pass Amendment XXI in 1933 to repeal it.

Amendment XXII — Two-Term Limit on the Presidency (1951). Passed due to Republican anger over FDR being elected four times, this is a direct violation of the American people's right to self-governing democratic-republic. We have term limits already for the President and for Congress — they're called elections. Just look at 1994.

Proposed amendments to limit congressional terms, prevent flag burning, pass ERA, and require a balanced budget would all be added to this list of constitutional clutter.

Personally, I think our Constitution needs two changes. First, we need the "Stupidity Amendment." This would simply say that if you do something stupid, it's your own fault. Spilled coffee on yourself in McCoffee's drive-thru? Sorry, you're stupid. That not McCoffee's fault.

The second thing we need is the "That's Life Amendment." It would read simply, "Congress shall make no law requiring that life be fair. Life is tough, sometimes it stinks. Get over it."

But the best thing for America right now would be enforcement of the Constitution as it already exists. Doing that would solve a lot of our problems with the Federal government, and funding only those functions specifically mentioned by the Constitution would bring our budget into balance overnight.

Kudos To The Lady Bulldogs, Anti-kudos To Clarendon

Ditto to Christy Ross' column this week regarding attendance at the Lady Bulldogs' games.

True, the Broncos are a hot item in town. But there were no Bronco games Saturday afternoon or Monday night, so where were the people? Locals and CC students alike were AWOL.

I was a student at Texas Tech University when the Lady Raiders won the NCAA Championship. I know that women's sports can generate a lot of unbridled enthusiasm and draw dedicated fans. And I know the pride and excitement we felt when they won. It was like the entire city of Lubbock had sat on a live wire -- we were charged up!

By contrast, Clarendon's battery appears drained.

The clock ticks down 3 - 2 - 1 ... and the Clarendon College Lady Bulldogs win another game. The CC fans applaud and yell kudos to the tired and sweaty players. You see their eyes scan the stands - and then you see the disappointment cross their faces. The nation's #1 small college women's team easily defeats another foe before a sea of empty seats.

I, too, couldn't help but notice the small crowd on hand for Monday night's game against the ever-tough Redlands College. "What else could be going on tonight?" I asked the lady sitting next to me.

"It's always like this," she said. "Clarendon College has the best team in the nation, and look at the stands; there's maybe 75 people here for our team. Heck, count all those behind the visitors bench." I did as she said, and sure enough, she was right. Redlands College, being in El Reno, Oklahoma, had almost as many fans present Monday night as the Lady Bulldogs did.

Sad, isn't it? Is it because this is a women's team? Is it because their games always start earlier than the men's? All through the game, I silently kept asking myself these questions. Do our own students and local residents not realize that Clarendon College women's basketball team are the best in the nation and this was their last home game of the season?

Our own Clarendon, Texas, can be compared to Lawrence, Kansas, or Storrs, Connecticut. Both are home to nationally ranked teams - Lawrence has the Univ. of Kansas Jayhawks, and Storrs has the UCONN Lady Wolverines. Clarendon, in some sense, is a smaller version of these two towns and their nationally ranked basketball teams. In other ways, Clarendon is better - students, staff and faculty get in free while all others get in for a very affordable two dollars... and that's only if someone is there to take your money at the door. Affordable - yes, but that's not packing the 'Dawg House, either. So, what could it be? Is it the seating or game times? Or is it that some of the players are not local kids? But, to tell you the truth, I'm dumbfounded why people just don't support the Lady Bulldogs.

Community colleges, such as Clarendon College, are the "feeder schools" for powerhouse programs like UCONN, Kansas and Texas Tech. Did you know that Sheryl Swoopes first played for South Plains College before she was a star at Tech? She has even played in the 'Dawg House against CC. The talent and potential is evident with the Lady Bulldogs. Many of our women will be recruited to play at major universities. So, you've had your chance and now it's gone. It has been an exciting season for the Lady Bulldogs and their coach, Joel Zehr. I wish more could have experienced their jubilation.

Our team — the nation's number one team — will travel to Salina, Kansas, next week to play in the National Small College Athletic Association tournament. I wish the best of luck to our wonderful ladies - and I just pray that someone will be there to witness their moment of glory when they win the national title.

Amarillo Opera's local debut dubbed a singing success

A crowd of approximately 150 fine arts enthusiasts attended Amarillo Opera's Sunday performance of "Sophie's Saloon" at Clarendon College.

The two-act western opera was well received by the audience, perhaps due to the actors encouraging the crowd to support the good guys and heckle the bad ones. Both young and old alike cheered and laughed with the actors.

Set in the 1800s, "Sophie's Saloon" was a humorous musical which described the life of a robust female bar owner and her beautiful and naive daughter.

Sophie protects her young lass with metal and fire. em hem... a rifle and her deadly good aim. When a worldly poker player visits Sophie's establishment, Lucinda, Sophie's young daughter, becomes enamored with the rogue. Lucinda's secret admirer, Johnny, decides to defend her with his little-used gun and eventually gets shot. A saloon piano player by nature, Johnny thinks he has died and gone to heaven and is amazed that heaven is just like Sophie's saloon. Through the humorous chaos, everyone from the barmaid and the poker player to Lucinda and her mother find love.

"Sophie's Saloon" is the original work of long-time "Texas" actor, Gene Murray. His creation gave the audience a bone-tickling view of pioneer life in a remote, small town. In the end, loneliness and the persuasion of a rifle can lead one into the arms of love and marriage.

The actors commented on how well the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Auditorium projected their voices and amplified their singing, truly a compliment from these seasonal professionals.

This performance was brought to Clarendon by Clarendon College's Cultural Affairs Committee. Comprised of community and college representatives, the committee is dedicated to supporting fine arts in Clarendon.

Make plans to attend the next Cultural Affairs activity, "Always... Patsy Cline" on Saturday, April 12, 8 p.m., in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Auditorium.

Relive the life of the famed songstress with the Amarillo Little Theatre's presentation of "Always...Patsy Cline."

Tickets will be $5 and are available in advance by calling Clarendon College at 874-3571. This upcoming performance is expected to be a sell-out; therefore, advance tickets are recommended.

Bulldogs prepare to play in NSCAA tourney

Clarendon College improved to 16-7 on the season with a 94-83 win over Oklahoma Christian Junior Varsity Feb. 17 in the Clarendon gym.

The Bulldogs remain a few tenths of a point out of fourth place, which determines the seeding for the National Small College Athletic Association Tournament March 5-8 in Salina, Kan.

The top four seeds get a first-round bye in the 12-team tournament. "If we win out (Feb. 27 against Panhandle State), and if someone else loses we'll get the (first-round) bye," head coach Joe Mondragon said.

Clarendon hung onto a 49-40 lead behind Bryan Shed's 10 points and 12 from freshman Corey Fields against the Oklahoma school.

"(Shed) had some good offensive rebounds and putbacks," Mondragon said. "He was hitting the boards real well. (Fields) had 12 (in the first half). He was penetrating. He ended up with seven assists and eight steals."

"We're hoping he's peaking. He's really starting to play better now."

Mondragon continued to shuttle players in and out, and Shed continued to have the hot hand with eight points. Marlon Green knocked in 10 as Mondragon said the pair carried the squad in the second half.

The last time the two squads met, Clarendon beat Oklahoma Christian University by 30 points.

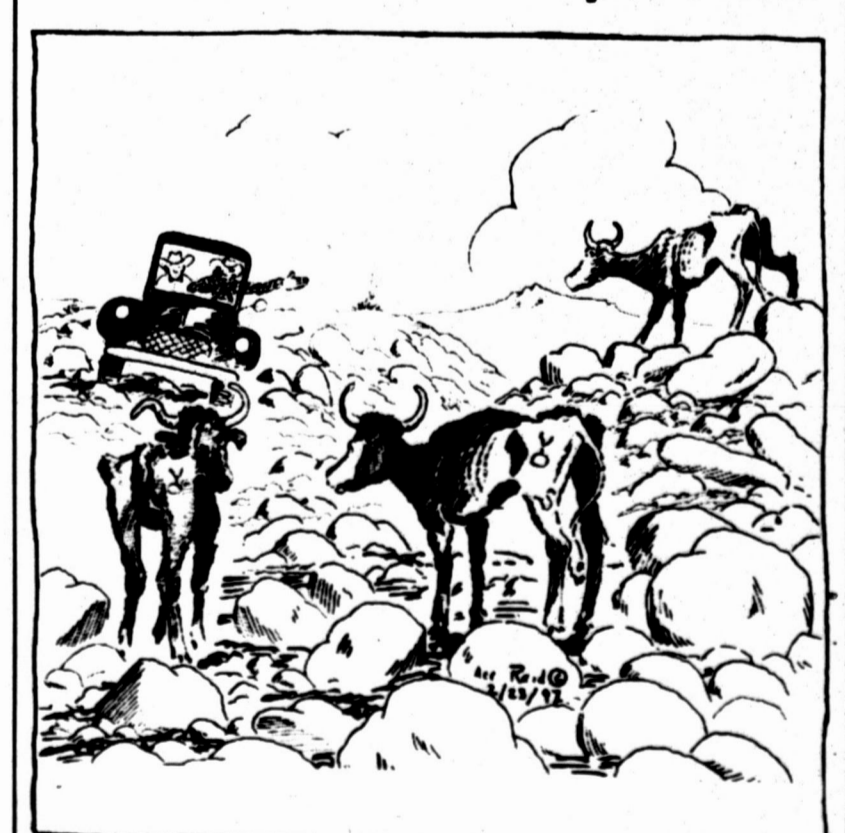

"We're really struggling right now," Mondragon said. "They're ready for the national tournament. It's a long season that started at the end of August. We've had 74 practices and 3 scrimmages and 24 games."

Scorers for the Bulldogs were Shed, 20; Fields, 18; Green, 15; Jason Kinney, 10;

Wendell Harris, 6; Angel Otero, 4; Tony Williams, 3; Ryan Ross, 3; Angel Otero, 4; Kedrick Monson, 4; Sam McLeod, 3; Lawrence Bailey, 3; Josh Minkley, 3; and Jamie Carter, 2.

Clarendon travels to Goodwell, Okla., Thursday for a 6:30 p.m. tip-off against the Panhandle State University Junior Varsity.

Jeffreys provide alternate source to the windmill

Through continuous determination in testing and development, a Wellington father and son team have manufactured a solar powered pump that is a definite alternative to the wind mill powered source of providing water needs to livestock.

Roy Jeffrey, Jr., and Jacen Jeffrey, co-owners of Solar Wind in Wellington, said, "A great effort went into making this project into a very viable option in the lifting of water for livestock at a more cost effective means."

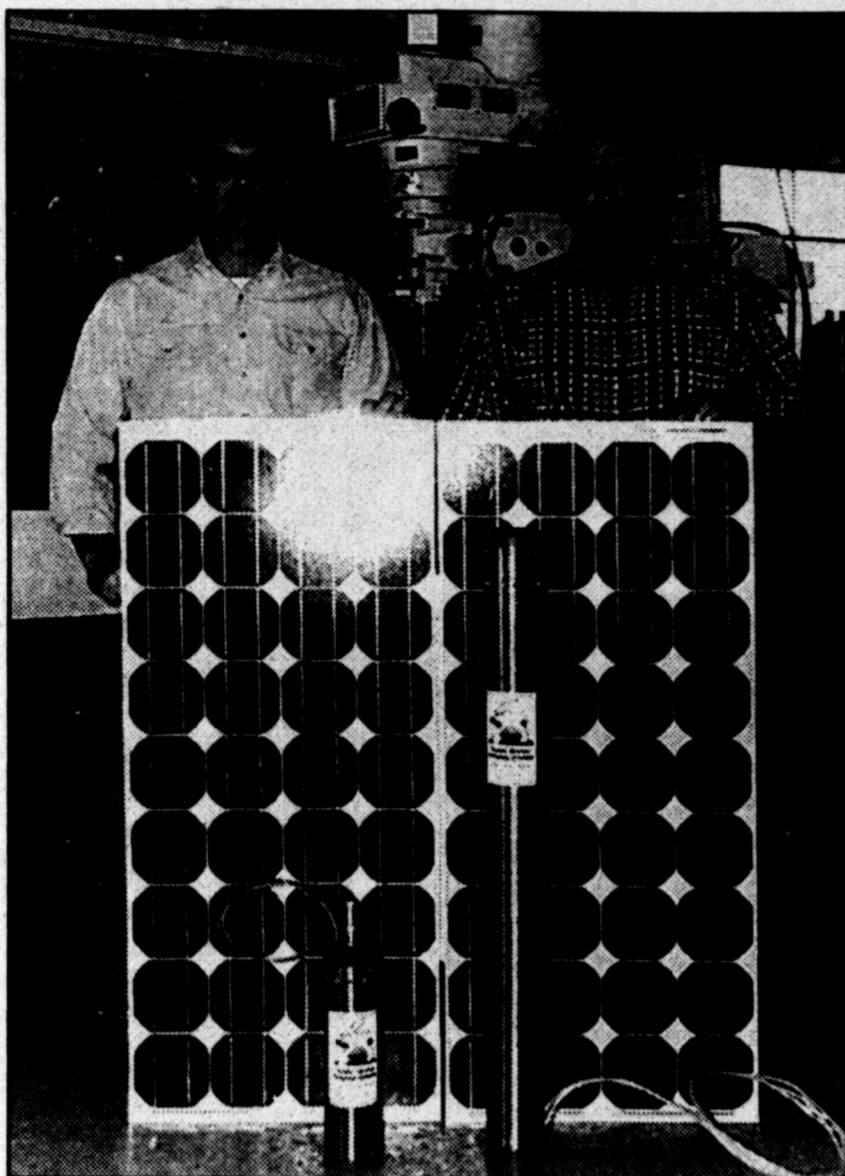

The new solar pump business has been in the making since 1994, bringing its first refined product to the test in 1995. The Jeffrey men applied for the patent in 1995, and the product went on the market January, 1996.

The family business was originally established as an Amarillo machine shop by Roy Jeffrey, Jr., in 1958. Formally known as West Texas Engine, the shop moved to Wellington in 1966 where the family continued in the machine shop business until their initial development and beginning stages of solar powered pumps in 1994.

"Compared to the cost of new windmill that could run in the neighborhood of $6,000, our starting cost in $1,880 with other units capable of lifting water from 300 ft. and can pump up to 4 G.P.M.," explained the duo.

One of the key features includes a five year warranty on the solar pumps and control panels, with an added feature of a 10 year warranty on the solar panels. The pumps are portable, dependable, and easy to install.

Wellington and Collingsworth

Roy Jeffrey, Jr., and Jacen Jeffrey, co-owners of Solar Wind in Wellington show the solar water pumping system they invented and now manufacture in Wellington.

County is just a fraction of the depth of anticipated trade areas for the product. There are solar pumps up and running in Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico.

All of the manufacturing is done in Wellington with all American made parts. Each pump is tailored to fit whatever the buyer requests, whether it be the amount of water or the depth.

"The solar water pumping system's main purpose is to provide an option in replacing the windmill and its costly maintenance," concluded Jeffrey. "With the consumer in mind, we wanted to provide a solar pump that is cost effective and virtually maintenance free."

Anyone seeking information to this alternative power source can call Solar Wind at 806-447-5507 or 800-348-7637.

C of C working on events calendar

The Clarendon-Donley County Chamber of Commerce office is preparing a county wide calendar of events to prevent scheduling conflicts between groups as well as to help promote the events. The chamber office receives requests from individuals and groups asking for information about what is happening in our area.

Any group or organization that schedules events, especially those held at the same time annually, is asked to mail a list of those events to the chamber of commerce office. The events will be placed on an annual calendar of events list that will be available to tourists and residents of Donley County. Types of events should include banquets, fundraiser dinners, graduation exercises, school functions, little league try-outs, or anything that affects the general public of the county. If the event has a specific annual date or day, such as July 4 or the last Saturday in August, be sure to include that information. This will help to keep the calendar current from year to year.

Mail your list of events to the Clarendon-Donley County Chamber of Commerce office at: P. O. Box 730, Clarendon, Texas 79226. Deadline for publicity about your event is 60 days prior to the event. The sooner your event is placed on the calendar, the more likely there will be fewer scheduling conflicts.

Silent partners shield livestock, decrease winter loss

Silent partners to cow/calf producers in Donley County are shielding livestock while increasing profits.

Livestock windbreaks, multiple rows of evergreen and deciduous trees and shrubs, are increasing cattle weight gains and reducing mortality rates by buffering cattle from harsh weather conditions, according to Robert Fewin, Texas Forest Service (TFS) area forester, Lubbock. During winter months, cattle hidden in an "L" or "U" shaped multiple row windbreak are allowed to utilize their energy to continue gaining weight rather than expending it to keep warm. And as a result, the amount of feed afforded by the producer is reduced as well.

These living cattle shelters also provide livestock shade during the hot summer months.

Three to four row windbreaks containing two rows of evergreens and a windward side shrub row will enhance the overall performance of the break, Fewin said. Depending on the number of cattle using the barrier, the planting should be at least 750 to 1,000 feet in length.

M&F Feedlot owners and operators, Frosty and Margaret Freese of Plainview, planted two livestock windbreaks, a three and four row break, to prevent a repeat of the past and prepare for their future in cattle.

"Blowing snow out of the northwest blinded our cattle for three to four days. We had to do something if we were going to be in the cattle business," said Frosty Freese, who along with his wife Margaret, feed Holstein replacement heifers, Holstein calves, mother cows, and steers in their feedyard.

To ensure maximum performance from a livestock windbreak, it is essential that it be fenced in from the cattle, according to Fewin. He said fencing prevents cattle from browsing and breaking the lower branches and compacting the soil over the tree roots, which can result in tree mortality.

The partnership between the windbreak and the producer is not limited to livestock protection. Depending on the species planted, these living fences provide recreation as well. For example, evergreen rows of Eastern redcedar concerted with a shrub row of Nanking cherry create habitat attracting wildlife for the hunter or the observer. And if planted near a water supply it will often sustain wildlife populations.

"Trees add to the beauty. They're a good place for cattle to get in the shade and good for game," said a Hutchinson County landowner, Wes Balentine. Balentine owns a four row livestock windbreak north of Stinnett.

To create a livestock windbreak this spring, seedlings produced by the TFS West Texas Nursery, are available for order through Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District. Order quickly. Inventory is limited and planting season is approaching. For more information or to place an order, come by the NRCS office at 321 S. Sulley or call 874-3576. For assistance in designing and planting a multiple row livestock windbreak, contact the TFS WTN at (806) 746-5801.

No Man or His Bird Dog Is Safe

Yes, the 75th annual Session of Texas Legislature is meeting in Austin, and hidden among the more than 5,000 bills that will be introduced are several that will directly affect those of us who enjoy fishing and hunting in the great outdoors. If you harbor hopes that taxes will actually go down, there will be less governmental interference in your daily activities, or those fine folks in Austin will leave us alone, I have some ocean front property in Randall County that should interest you.

Thanks to Alan Allen, the executive director of SCOT (Sportsmen Conservationist of Texas), for supplying information about some of the lesser known bills that are under consideration by our legislators.

HB 205 by Rep. Burt Solomons of Carrollton - This bill will affect an issue that already has a bunch of Texas fishermen upset - the creation of "no fishing" zones on Texas lakes. Currently there is no authority for towns or other local governments to create such zones.

This bill would allow the governing body of an incorporated city or town to prohibit by ordinance "fishing, bathing, swimming, or other water activities" in chosen areas on lakes the city or town owns, as well as in public waters within corporate limits. HB 205 would allow a county commissioners court, any water district, and any river authority to do the same, regarding public waters within the territorial limits of a county that are outside the limits of an incorporated city or "political subdivision."

A major problem with this bill is that is almost certainly would create a crazy quilt of local regulations that waterfowl hunters, anglers, and boaters would be subjected to: local government could pass ordinances for a multiple of reasons, ranging from safety to the simple fact that marina owner doesn't like hunters or anglers traveling near his marina. However, sportsmen wouldn't have to be advised about such ordinances. Even though the water is publicly owned, visitors would have no opportunity to voice an opinion on an ordinance before it is passed.

HB 203 by Solomons would make it an offense, with a fine of $50 to $500 for an individual to operate a vessel (boat) without proper lights, having proper life preservers, and fire extinguishers. Would make it a TPWD felony if a person, at the time of a collision, accident, or other casualty that results in death or injury to another person: (1) is the operator of a vessel involved; and (2) violates any one of the above.

If you want more information or you want to join a great conservation organization, contact SCOT, 807 Brazos #311, Austin, Tx 78701. The dues are only $25, and you get a great newsletter.

Sec. Glickman announces sign-up dates for 1997 Conservation Reserve Program

Sign-up dates for the 1997 Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) are March 3 through March 28, 1997, as released by Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman.

"CRP is a voluntary program designed to encourage producers to plant long-term, resource-conserving vegetation on eligible cropland to improve soil, water, and wildlife resources," said Harold Bob Bennett, State Executive Director of USDA-Farm Service Agency (FSA). "If eligible, producers may receive annual rental payments and cost-share assistance to establish the approved cover," Bennett added. He stated that the length of the contract is 10 to 15 years and that certain activities which have long-term environmental benefits may qualify for incentive payments.

"Those who wish to apply must have owned or operated the land being offered for at least 12 months prior to March 28, 1997, and meet several other FSA requirements," concluded Bennett.

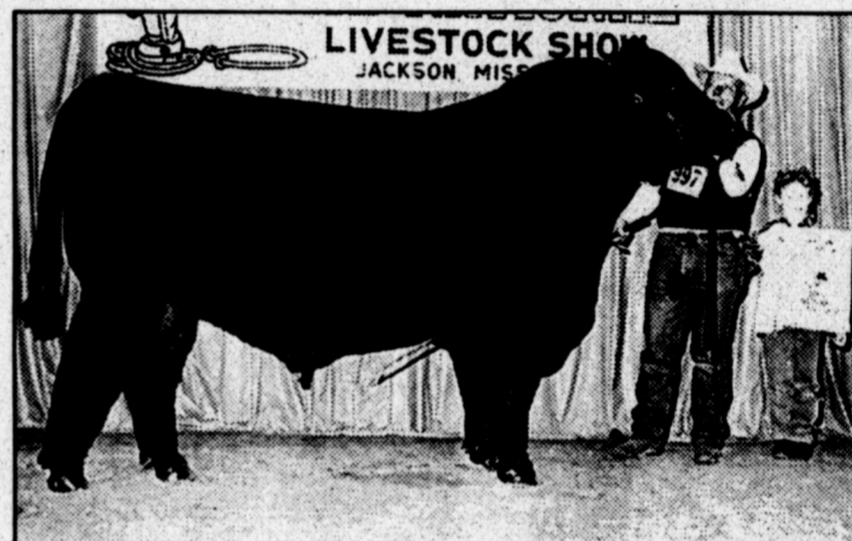

"In addition to FSA's requirements, the cropland also must meet additional requirements administered by the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS)," said John Burt, NRCS State Conservationist. "Factors such as the erodibility of the land, evidence of scour erosion, and the land's proximity to noncropped wetlands are a few of the eligibility factors

"Also considered in determining CRP eligibility are practices which are highly beneficial to the environment. Practices like buffer strips on riparian areas, grass filter strips, grass waterways, shelter belts, and the protection of areas around well-heads all have long-term benefits to the environment long after a CRP contract expires," concluded Burt.

To sign-up for the 15th CRP, contact your local FSA office for an appointment. Absentee landowners interested should contact the FSA office in the county where their land is located.

According to Bennett and Burt, both FSA and NRCS are working closely to insure a successful sign-up. For more information, contact your local FSA or NRCS office.

Elliott hit a big three and a field goal while Stanzione made a troy in the third quarter. Gaines made a basket and a free throw, and senior Scott Bivens connected on a bucket as Spearman led 46-45.

That's when Clarendon began its fourth quarter heroics.

"They all stepped up and played real well," Avery said. "(Elliott) played really well the second half and stepped up and made a 3-pointer late and made four free throws."

(Stanzione) made his free throws.

(Stanzione) and (Elliott) made a big difference down at the end making those free throws.

"(Gaines) held his own real well against their 6'7" guy. He didn't back off of him at all, and that game was very physical. (Scott) Bivens had a really good defensive ball game. He beat up on their posts Dillon Miller and Jamie Townsend. They both did a good job of guarding those guys."

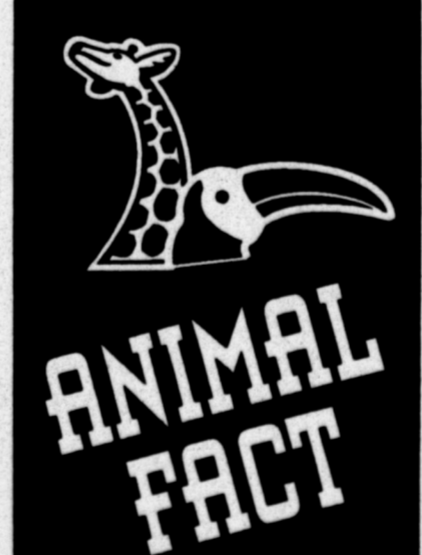

Scoring for the Broncos were Stanzione, 18; Abdullah, 14; Gaines, 13; Elliott, 9; and Bivens, 5.

Moore promoted in US Marines

Aaron Shawn Moore has recently made Lt CLP in the US Marine Corps. Moore has done extremely well. He had to beat out twelve other Marines for the title, and he has not been in a year until May. He also earned the expert medal on M-16 on the rifle range.

Moore is a radioman and received his training for that as well as communication in Palms, California, where he ranked fifth in a class of 80. He also acquired his Humbee DL Lic. and got into the artillery unit.

Moore is stationed at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, exactly 150 miles from where his parents started out 26 years ago. He is the only son of Phillip Terry and Sherry (Shaw) Moore.

For Valentine's, he drove 1,500 miles, 20 hours non-stop to spend two days with his parent and fiancé. He will be back home on May 1 for a 15 day leave. Then he will fly to Japan on June 1 for a 6 month overseas duty. He will be home for Christmas.

Shawn has one year of college at West Texas A&M in Canyon prior to enlisting. He plans to get his criminal law psychology degree in the Marines.

Moore has one sister and brother-in-law, Billie Jo and Wayne Pierson of Farwell. His local grandparents are H.C. and Joan Shaw; and his great aunt is Jane Hillman, all of Clarendon. His other grandparents are Billie Jean and Ronnie Roberts of Streetman, Texas, and he has one great grandmother, Trixie Roberts, also of Streetman.

Girl Scout Cookies to be delivered soon

Girl Scouts will be delivering their Girl Scout cookie pre-orders until March 6. If you haven't ordered your Girl Scout Cookies yet, it's not too late. Contact your favorite Girl Scout or call 1-800-687-4475 to get your Girl Scout Cookies.

The Texas Plains Girl Scout Council conducts the Girl Scout Cookie sale as a program activity for girls. After the bakery is paid, all proceeds from the sale remain in the Panhandle. Troops decide how to use their earnings for a variety of Girl Scout program activities, including troop trips, visiting local sights like the Discovery Center, Wonderland Park, or local museums. As girls learn to set goals and present themselves and their product, they gain not only valuable life skills, but self-esteem and a sense of responsibility that will stay with them for a lifetime. "The important part of the Girl Scout Cookie sale is what girls learn, and that is what makes the sale possible. We don't think people buy cookies because of price, but rather because they want to support Girl Scouting in their community said Suzy Compton, product sales manager.

This year's theme is 'Blaze Your Own Trail,' because the Girl Scout Cookie Sale embodies the resourcefulness and creativity Girl Scouting encourages in girls. Girls build self-confidence through the cookie sale as they develop skills in setting goals, meeting the Public, handling money and following through on a commitment.

Two new cookies, Five Worlds Cinnamon with Sugar and Reduced Fat Iced Ginger Daisies are making their first appearance this year. Five Worlds Cinnamon with Sugar is a savory cinnamon sugar confection stamped with Girl Scouting's Five Worlds of Interest. Reduced Fat Iced Ginger Daisies are delectable reduced fat ginger cookies, lightly spiced and topped with a delicate sugar glaze. Other favorite varieties returning are Thin Mints, Peanut Butter Sandwich, Peanut Butter Patties, Shortbread, Lemon Pastry Cremes, and Caramel Delites.

All proceeds from the Girl Scout cookie sale stay in the Panhandle and are used to help fund troop activities, council programs, camps, volunteer training and materials. Individual girls also earn Cookie Currency, which they may spend on troop activities, council programs, camp fees, uniforms, national registration fee, handbooks and other items from the council shop. Cookies are still $2.50 a box, and girls will deliver them February 18 - March 6.

Texas businesses have April 14 deadline for filing local property tax renditions

By John Sharp, State Comptroller

AUSTIN - In accordance with state law, Texas businesses must render their property with county appraisal districts by April 14. To render is to list the taxable property that businesses owned or managed as of January 1, 1997.

While state law requires business owners and operators to render, any property owner, including homeowners, farmers and ranchers, may also list their property with county appraisal districts," State Comptroller John Sharp said.

"Property owners who render are in a better position to exercise their rights as taxpayers," Sharp noted. "They are ensuring that the appraisal district has their correct address so they will receive notices of any actions that affect their property or tax bills."

If the tax collector cannot deliver a tax bill because of an incorrect or old address, the property owner is responsible for paying the taxes, plus late payment penalties, Sharp added.

State law requires anyone who owns or manages income producing personal property on January 1, to render with the local appraisal district. An exception is a business that receives the freeport exemption for managing cotton stored in a warehouse.

"For example, businesses must report their inventories, furniture and fixtures, machinery and equipment, and other tangible personal property by filing this annual report," Sharp said. Appraisal districts use the reports to set business property values. When a business owner doesn't render his or her property, the chief appraiser estimates the value."

Sharp also announced that property owners who had property damaged by a storm, flood, or fire last year may file a special decreased value report that could lower their final tax bills. Property owners may file the decreased value report about their property's condition on January 1, 1997.

Property owners may ask the chief appraiser for additional time through April 30 if the owners can demonstrate good cause. The chief appraiser must grant owners of property regulated by the Public Utility Commission or the Railroad Commission an extension to April 30 to file the reports and may extend the deadline another 15 days if the owners request it in writing and show good cause.

On the renditions, property owners can record their opinions of their property's value. By stating their opinion, property owners make sure that the appraisal district sends them a notice before placing a higher value on their property. This notice allows property owners the time to gather information to protest the appraisal if they believe the appraisal districts value is too high.

If more than one appraisal district appraises a property, the property owner should render in each appraisal district office. Taxpayers may contact the county appraisal district office for the rendition forms, or they may call the Comptroller's property tax hotline at 1-800-252-9121.

Bronco powerlifting squad to travel to Sundown for regional meet

Clarendon's Powerlifting squad participated in its final tune-up before the March 8 Regional Powerlifting Meet in Sundown.

Saturday's Demon Powerlifting Classic gave the Broncos one last chance to qualify for the regional meet. The top 10 lifters in each classification in the region are invited to participate, according to head coach Darryl Cash.

A lifter's best meet results are used to compile the rankings.

Results of the regional rankings will not be available until Feb. 27. As of the last ranking, Clarendon's Jeremy Shelley was sitting in third place.

The top two in each division at the regional meet advance to state competition.

Clarendon placed sixth in the Dumas meet that attracted 12 schools and 120 lifters. Only three Class 2A schools participated - the rest were from Class 4A.

Junior Jeremy Shelley won the 132 lb. class by lifting 30 lbs. more than his nearest competitor. He lifted a total of 860 lbs, which was below his best effort but good enough to win, Cash said.

Shelley lifted 300 lbs. in the squat, 175 lbs. in the bench press, and 385 lbs. in the dead lift. Twelve lifters participated in his division.

Robert Bertrand placed sixth out of 30 lifters in the highly competitive 165 lb. division. His total weight lifted was 930 lbs. The senior, who has competed in power lifting for three years, squatted 330 lbs., benched 200 lbs., and dead-lifted 400 lbs, beating his previous best by 20 lbs.

Experts see survival rate increasing for kids with cancer

HOUSTON - Long-term survival rates for children with cancer are increasing dramatically say pediatric experts. With one in 900 young adults estimated to be a childhood cancer survivor by the year 2000, there is a growing hope for successful treatment of an illness that is relatively rare in children. "Today, childhood cancer survivor rates exceed 65 percent," said Dr. ZoAnn Dreyer, an assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "But as the survivor population grows, we are beginning to see a number of delayed effects caused by previous cancer therapies." Dreyer, director of the Long-Term Survival Clinic at the Texas Children's Cancer Center, says the clinic provides diagnostic, education, and treatment resources for patients who are survivors of childhood cancer and have been off treatment for at least two years. Possible effects of cancer treatment can include heart problems from chemotherapy or radiation, learning disabilities, infertility, growth/hormonal disturbances, the development of second malignancies, and psychological issues. For most long-term cancer survivors, life is not centered on worries about reoccurrence of the disease, but rather on learning how to remain healthy. Survivors of childhood cancer, including those who received their primary cancer treatment at other hospitals, are eligible for evaluation at the Texas Children's Cancer Center's Long-Term Survivor Clinic. For more information, call 1-800-CANCER 9.

St. Jude Novena
 May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved, and preserved throughout the world, now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus pray for us. St. Jude help the hopeless, pray for us.
