HOW LONG IS TEMPORARY

"Motorists Pay More Than Their Share of Highway Costs." That's the title of an editorial in the February 21 issue of The Saturday Evening Post. And it deals, in large part, with the "temporary" federal taxes that have been progressively applied to gasoline.

The first "temporary" federal gas tax, the Post observes, was imposed in 1932, and made permanent in 1941. Then, in 1951, a "temporary" increase of the tax to the two-cent-a-gallon level was imposed, to help finance the Korean War. It was never abandoned—instead, the rate was raised to three cents in 1956, because of the super-highway program. Now the rate is four cents — of which one cent was added in 1959 on the same old "temporary" basis. And there is a plan to add another half-cent to the load.

The Post makes the basic point—that it is manifestly unfair to charge highway users alone with all the hosts of highways. The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads is authority for the statement that "there are real and extensive beneficiary groups, other than highway users as such, that reap the advantages of highway improvement." The Defense Department is one of those—almost a billion dollars has been added to the cost of the superhighway program to raise bridge clearances to meet this Department's standards.

The Post urges that Congress "stick by its 1959 promise and let the Federal gas tax go back to three cents." But that won't happen unless Congress is made to realize that public sentiment is solidly behind it.

PROPERTY OWNERS — WAKE UP

Local taxing units are scratching for money and the people are paying. In the State of Oregon property taxes for the 1960-61 tax year have reached a record-breaking $200 million. And that amounts to $113.76 for every man, woman and child in the State. The right of private property ownership is the strength of the individual in a free society. Property taxes in wide sections of the country are reaching a level which limits the opportunity of the individual to own land and other property. The "munificent benefits" included in the ever-expanding programs financed by public treasuries are thus exacting a high toll.

WANTED

Kids just naturally grow up . . . and they do it fast. The kids the age of the little girl in our picture will be wanting a home in 1981. We hope she has a home (run by electricity, of course) in 1981 and that her home life is a happy one. We also hope she has something else as well — a strong, free nation — where she has a right to get ahead under her own steam and will always be secure!

Investor-owned companies, like West Texas Utilities Company, are working hard to see that this little girl's "wants" come true in 1981. Each year, WTU spends thousands of dollars and uses thousands of man-hours planning ahead to be sure we can supply the ever increasing demands for electric energy. In a private enterprise nation, this is our job! We are going to do a good job for our little girl.

AT HOME TODAY

In our little girl's home today, she can enjoy electric living at a very economical cost. For instance — the average family, served by WTU, can cook a complete meal for less than 3c with a modern electric range. If you are not using an electric range, you owe it to your "little girl" to investigate this modern method of cooking today.

BLOWIN' Out the CORNERS

By Uncle Zeb

At the Press Convention . . .
Before anyone starts asking what we were doing at such a get-together let me explain that we didn't hold any claim to being a full-fledged member. Not owning or having any part in the publishing of a Panhandle paper kind of drops us down to the "Kissing Cousin" class.

It was however a thrilling experience to be there, and for one thing we could say a sounding Amen from the sidelines as Rep. Tom James spoke on the Newspapers' Role in Law Enforcement. Without our free press, things would soon be dark indeed.

When people fail to know what is happening in the world about them, there will be little chance for their doing anything about what happens to them. The Bible tells us that people who are evil choose darkness rather than light. Applying this truth to our everyday life the Press can be the instrument that throws the Light of Truth on the evil in any community. When this is done not only do the wicked ones hunt a darker corner in which to operate, but the aroused and enlightened public urges them along their way.

Speaking as a reader, we take off our hats to the editors. To those who day after day and week after week speak out in editorial opinion on the problems of the day. There is a noble and exalted position and with it goes a terrifying responsibility. People's actions are based on what they know, and according to the late Will Rogers, "All I know is what I read in the papers."

Just so long as we can know the truth will there be hope left that life will continue to be the best for us. Thanks Fellows.

Still Thinking About the Press Convention . . .

Listening to Rep. Tom James of Dallas speaking to the editors would make even the most skeptical believe that there is still hope for the cause of right. This young and courageous member of the much discussed House Investigating Committee deserves the best compliments we have to offer. The only trouble is that when we have listened to the alarming reports of corruption in both high and low places most of us will not do anything about it.

We are all conscious of the dangers lurking in the Communist camps, but few know that graft and corruption in local politics as well as state and national are knawing away at the other side of our way of life. According to Rep. James, "Unless we recognize it and take aroused action at the very grass roots of the thing we are in for serious trouble. Recent activities of the House Investigating Committee tended to bring to light only some of the alarming conditions."

This inspiring talk made one realize anew that our government whether local or national does not represent all of the people. On the contrary it represents only those who take part in politics. Those who take part in breaking the law are concerned that the right thinking people remain unconcerned about their government. By doing so we are serving their purpose.

Several have asked us for more information on organizing local groups for better government. If you have helped start such a group in the Panhandle we would appreciate some information to pass along to those requesting it.

TEMPER properly applied to a piece of steel makes it more useful . . . Temper properly controlled makes a person more likeable. "The quickest way to cook one's goose is with a boiling temper."

It is said that "The mark of a real man is the size of the thing that gets his goat." Another proof would be our ability to forget little injuries and to long remember each kindness that we receive.

A bad temper is seldom accompanied with an open mind. And: "Minds are like parachutes, they function better when open." An open mind usually means a receptive heart.

Losing our temper usually leads to a chip on our shoulder. A chip on our shoulder means there is wood higher up. This is sometimes called hard-headedness. Funny thing about our temper,

LIBRARY NOTES

Memorial fund has been given to the library to be dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Frank Lyle.

For our nature lovers and students of natural history we have Walt Disney's "Worlds of Nature" and William Burn's "The Natural History of the Southwest."

The text of both books is written in a style that is interesting to all ages, even to the children who are too young to read but are lucky enough to have moms and pops who read to them. No one can describe the photographs used in the illustrations to you. Each of you will have to see them to believe what some people can do with a camera.

The readers of this country

it improves more if we don't use it. There is another saying to the effect that, "Hot-heads and cold feet go together." We remember from our school days a young fellow who was always losing his temper. For awhile he believed that he had an uncontrollable temper. Finally another boy called his hand and we found he was only a bluffer. Not only that but when someone stood up to him he became a quitter.

Holding our tongue is often easier than asking someone to hold our coat. The smaller we act the bigger our problem grows. Getting mad may not get our way. "Fanned fire and forced love never did well yet." "The tongue is in a wet place, be careful it doesn't slip."

GAME AND FISH COMMISSION PLAN NEW PROJECTS

AUSTIN — This is the time of the year when the inland fisheries division of the Game and Fish Commission plans new projects for the coming year, according to Marion Toole, director of the division.

These new projects will include everything from taking inventories of the fish populations in waters where virtually nothing is known about their contents, to resurveying impoundments and other waters to maintain a current knowledge of these waters.

The fisheries personnel will evaluate the various techniques used in 1960 and years past to determine if the methods were effective. New techniques will be discussed, many of which will be used in 1961.

One of the important projects for this year will concern vegetation control. New chemicals will be tested in representative areas to determine the ones best suited for each individual area.

"This planning is a must," said Toole. "We don't just go into a proposed job blindfolded. First we plan the work for the coming year. Then, with the aid of trial and error of past years, we write up our projects."

According to the director, 1961 will be a big year for inland fishery biologists. They have lots of work planned, all of which will immediately or eventually benefit the fisherman of the state.

The railroads may have to discontinue a few of their runs for lack of patronage but as the Association of American Railroads continue to serve 50,000 communities over 218,000 miles of railway, carrying almost as much freight as all other forms of transportation combined.

Don't eat that last roll because, "Any adult obviously obese might just as well wear a placard saying, 'I haven't any self-control,'" declares Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz, Washington, D.C., internist, "Ninety-nine per cent are the result of overeating; one per cent are the result of other disorders."

Shirley Carmichael and children left for Denver Sunday where they will make their home. Bob is employed there at the missile base.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

The Narcotic Problem
A number of doctors had discussed with me the possibility of a Federal law providing free clinical treatment for drug addicts. Their point was that by doing away with the huge profit to illegal dealers, the narcotic problem could be substantially reduced. They explained to me that the actual cost of the drugs was infinitesimal. Hence, they argued that if the hopeless addicts and those who were still within the realm of being cured, could obtain free treatment, the cost to the government would be far less than the present cost of enforcement of criminal laws applicable in such cases. They further argued that such a program, by destroying the illegal and high profits, would leave these illicit dealers without customers and therefore destroy them. Other points raised were to the effect that such a program would help to solve much of the crime that was being committed by addicts for the purpose of obtaining sufficient money to pay the high prices exacted for the illegal drugs. Also, that once the program got under way the present addicts would not be trying to get new customers for the dealers who were supplying them.

These doctors felt that the more rigid criminal laws which have been adopted in recent years would not get to the root of the problem because it was primarily a health problem.

I wrote to the American Medical Association and asked for the views of that group on this subject. This organization advised me on March 29th that its Council on Mental Health did not believe that the problem of narcotic addiction could be solved merely by removing "the profit to the dealer," and that such approach to the problem by some physicians was mistakenly interpreted as that of the American Medical Association. The Association advised that a study was being made of the possible substitution of civil actions rather than criminal actions with relation to the commitment of addicts. It recommended that where civil commitment procedures could be used, criminal sentences for addicts who are guilty only of illegally obtaining and possessing opiates, marijuana and cocaine should be abolished. It also recommended that criminal sentences for illegal sale of narcotics should be retained but persons who are addicts and who ADD-TO THE PEOPLE are sentenced for such offenses should have the same opportunity for probation and parole as is afforded offenders against other laws.

it was discovered in selective ex-

A joint committee of the American Bar Association and the American Medical Association studied the problem and this study was the subject of an editorial in the January 31, 1959 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. In that editorial it was stated as follows:

"The situation in Europe differs from that in the United States in at least three ways: the number of known addicts is much smaller than in the United States, so the problem is far less acute; the penalties provided for persons convicted of violation of the narcotic laws are far less severe than those provided by our recent laws; there is more disposition on the part of the legal authorities to regard the problem as a primarily medical one and to turn a larger portion of it over to the doctors."

This observation was the result of a study of the European situation which was, no doubt, prompted by the fact that proponents of the clinic plan had argued that the United Kingdom has only a very minor problem of opiate addiction, primarily due to the fact that there was no artificial barrier between the physician and the addict; that in England it is possible for a physician to maintain an addict on narcotics under certain circumstances.

The joint ABA-AMA report was clearly skeptical that there was an easy solution along the lines of clinical distribution of drugs, but indicated that they were tempted by the possibility of a limited experiment conducted by experts to shed more light on this important aspect of the

Will Writes From Austin

Rep. Will Ehrle

AUSTIN — A very ugly head reared itself in the Legislature this week. The issue was separation of church and state.

I was shocked, surprised and disappointed when Representative Tom Shannon of Fort Worth was asked to resign his church positions and membership for supporting legislation contrary to his pastor's wishes.

Shannon voted for the bill allowing the Carling Brewing Company to establish a new 20 million dollar brewery at Fort Worth.

Though Shannon's church is an independent one and is not affiliated with a conference or convention, this action revives one of the key issues of the past presidential election.

Some people were concerned with John F. Kennedy's religion. Not that they denied his right to be a Catholic, but they feared his religion might interfere with his charting the course of the nation from the presidency.

We've seen our President stand up for separation of church and problem. The editorial referred to in the Medical Journal advocated an extension of the medical attack on the narcotic problem by the establishment of outpatient clinics devoted to the problem in the centers of population where addiction is prevalent.

There is much more that could be said on this subject, but time and space will not permit here. I did want to call it to your attention because of its gravity. It is a responsibility which we in this country must face.

state and as citizens we must trust the integrity of elected public officials to carry out the process of government without fear of retribution from the church. I don't believe that the President's church should excommunicate him for failing to follow its dictates; neither do I think Shannon's church should kick him out.

Opposed Bill
I vigorously opposed the brewery bill in the Liquor Regulation Committee, but I cannot condemn those who were sincerely in favor of its passage.

It should be known also that Shannon does not drink alcoholic beverages. He voted for the bill because he believed the majority of his constituents, the people he represents, want the new brewery in Fort Worth. This took courage on his part because he knew the majority of his church board opposed the measure on the grounds that increasing alcoholic beverage production is undesirable.

The Church's Role
This unfortunate incident brings us again to think where the roles of church and government begin and end.

I have always been in accord with my religion regarding legislation, and I feel sure it will never become necessary to clash with my church.

The role of the church is, I believe, concerned with the salvation of sinners and not to sit in judgment of a man's action or decision.

If Shannon was wrong, his church should draw closer to his side in order to offer future help — not kick him out because he erred.

And it is the duty of government, as set forth by the founding fathers, to protect each citizen's rights in pursuing whatever religion he may choose.

GEORGE'S WIFE

By "Sarah"

Of all the earth shaking news story of an El Paso youth gave us more hope in the future than any other.

We are not sure if this is the correct spelling of his name, it was in print no doubt, although we missed it somehow. He was on "the Today Show" Friday. Richard Lopez is without a doubt the Boy of the Year. With all the accomplishments to his credit, the invitation to attend the first baseball game of the year with the President made him newsworthy enough to appear on the show, I suppose.

As far as we could tell, he was not even using an idiot sheet when he spoke, but he spoke thoughtfully, and with the wisdom of age.

When asked about the youth of today, here are some of his answers. "I'm proud to be a youth of today; we need more responsibility, more leadership, but I have no fear of the future." Since he cared for two younger brothers, he knew what responsibility meant. His very presence on the largest network, shows he has had leadership. His having no fear of the future could be the attitude of us all at that age, he projected a much deeper meaning than that.

Noticed in the paper where the "Red Family Plan" runs cheaper by the dozen. They pay so much for each child up to the fourth, then it's 500 marks for the rest. From the 7th on, the communist party chief is an honorary godfather. All these children being cared for by trained supervisors so the mothers can work, in East Germany.

Texas cares for their children and old-folks also. Washington tells us we spend more for welfare than on higher education. Dependent children running second only to old age assistance. Our welfare set-up pays mothers not to work. Maybe the difference in our future depends on this, although the communists take care of their children on the place of individual care. wholesale basis, nothing will take Donley County Leader, $5 a year in country.

Study Grain Program Before You Sign

Grain producers should carefully weigh the advantages and disadvantages of the recently announced feed grain program and apply them to their own situations before making a decision on whether or not to participate. According to County Agent H. M. Breedlove, there is only one best way to make the determination — take a pencil and paper and do some figuring. Figure the gains and losses that might be expected to result from participation or non-participation in the program.

The county agent pointed out that the effect of the program on net farm income may depend on several factors. The farmer who participates may earn extra income from some or all of the following sources: payments for diverting corn or grain sorghum acreages into conservation uses; higher support prices for grain sold under the program and earnings from labor saved and put to other uses. In addition, there may be savings in out-of-pocket costs which would have been spent for producing and harvesting corn and or grain sorghum from the diverted acres.

On the other hand, they say farmers going into the program should take into account such losses as the costs of plowing up corn or grain sorghum already planted; costs of maintaining acres diverted to conservation uses; costs of extra livestock feed which might have to be purchased to replace production from diverted acres or sold under the program and the reduced income from corn and or grain sorghum as a result of the reduced acreage.

The county agent suggests that every grain farmer do some checking on the items listed and others which may apply to his particular farm to see how his earnings might be affected. The expected gains from participating in the program should be totaled along with losses in income that might occur. Simple subtraction will show the net gain or loss that can be expected. The county agent points out that only cost and return items affected by the feed grain program should be considered and these may involve other items of the farm business besides the corn and or grain sorghum enterprises.

Another advantage which should be seriously considered, says the agent, is the insurance phase of the program. Participation in the program will insure income even though the corn or grain sorghum crop is a failure. There may also be savings in production credit needed because of the advance cash payments allowed under the program and future crop yields may be improved as a result of conservation practices carried out on the diverted acres.

Breedlove emphasizes that no corn or grain sorghum grower should pass up an opportunity to get the facts on the program, and in turn, urge that the information gained be used in making a thorough analysis of their own situation.

Information on the feed grain program may be obtained from County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices. They can also assist in figuring your forms. Also by attending meetings which are now being held or soon will be in most grain producing counties of the state.

FARM NEWS

from the County ASC Committee

THE 1961 FEED GRAIN PROGRAM

The program will provide for the voluntary reduction of corn and grain sorghum acreage from the 1959-60 base for these crops on individual farms. Farmers who make the reduction will receive payments for diverting the former corn or grain sorghum acreage to conservation uses.

For most farms, the payment will be higher than the probable net income from these acres if they were in production. The payment assures a farmer of a reasonable net income from the cropland taken out of corn or grain sorghum production regardless of drought, hail, excessive moisture, or other crop damage.

In addition, producers of corn and grain sorghum who take part in the program will be eligible for price support on 1961-crop corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats and rye.

Producers of corn and grain sorghums WHO DO NOT cooperate with the program will not be eligible for price support on any of the 1961-crop feed grains they produce.

The minimum acreage for diversion from either corn or grain sorghum or a combination of both, to qualify as a cooperator and to be eligible for price support, is calculated from the established base for a farm. The minimum reduction is 20 per cent of the base.

The maximum acreage that can be diverted to conservation uses varies, depending upon the size of the farm base:

1. If the farm base is 25 acres or less, the base becomes the maximum diversion.

2. If the farm base is in excess of 25 but not more than 100 acres, the maximum diversion is 20 acres plus 20 per cent of the base.

Each cooperating farm will have a permitted acreage for corn and grain sorghums after the farm operator decides on how many acres he wants to divert from corn and grain sorghum production. The permitted acreage is figured by subtracting the diverted acreage from the base determined for the farm. The permitted acreage becomes the largest acreage of corn and grain sorghum that can be produced on the farm in 1961 for the farm to continue as a cooperating farm.

Each county will have two county average rates of payment per acre established for corn and two for grain sorghum. One of these rates will be based on 50 per cent of the county normal yield per acre times the county support rate. The other rate will be based on 60 per cent of the county normal yield per acre times the county support rate.

Each farm participating in the program will be assigned a productivity index indicating the relationship of the productivity of the farm in relation to the county average yield. Farm payment rates will be the county rate times the farm productivity index. The rates for each farm will be a part of the notice mailed to each farmer who has filed an acreage report with the county ASC office if he has a record of corn or grain sorghum acreage for 1959 or 1960.

At the time he filed his intention to participate form, he may also make a request to the county ASC office for an advance payment not to exceed one-half his estimated total payment for participation in the program. If he takes an advance payment, he will receive the balance of his payment when performance on the farm has been established.

Mr. Breedlove, assisted by the ASC County Committee and office force, will explain the New Feed Grain Program at the following meetings:

Hedley — Monday, April 24, 7:30 p.m., School Cafeteria, Hedley High School.

Clarendon — Tuesday, April 25, Court Room, County Court House.

It is important that you attend one of these meetings. Bring
