Hedley students tour Bar H Feedlot and Dude Ranch

The Panhandle Duro Pioneers, a Chapter of the Texas Cattlewomen, helped support National Ag Day by sponsoring a tour of Bar H Cattle Feeders and the Bar H Dude Ranch. Mrs. Shelia Wade's first graders from Hedley Independent School came out to the feedyard on Friday morning.

The kids took a tour of the feedmill, where they got to see milo being processed inside the mill. They also got to go outside to look at some flaked corn, milo, ground alfalfa, cottonseed burrs, and meal which was all used together in a ration to feed the cattle at Bar H Feedlot. It was explained to them the importance of these in the growing of the cattle to produce beef for the public.

The kids went from the mill to the hospital barn where they got to see first hand cattle being processed. They saw the new cattle receiving shots, ear tags, being branded, and dehorned. They were told the importance of this procedure which was to produce healthy cattle which produce healthy nutritional beef. They stressed the importance of educating children how good beef is for them despite the negative advertigement beef receives.

After the tour of the feedlot, the facility on Kearney Street, and the core electronics classes that transfer kids went to Bar H Dude Ranch to enjoy beef hamburgers.

Dear Editor,

Thank you for documenting your problems with Lone Star Gas. Ever since that company closed their office here, their service has gone downhill. There have been two instances of inadequate gas pressure during cold weather, causing pilot lights to go off all over town. When this happens many residents must pay $20 or more to get their pilots relit. I know of no instance where Lone Star Gas has offered an apology for the inconvenience caused by their poor service.

To add icing to our cake, there are now rumors flying that West Texas Utilities is contemplating closing their office here. Once again we would be sending our money out of town, with no guarantee of good service.

I believe we have only one GTE repairman here now. That company is notorious for being about 30 years behind AT&T and Ma Bell in technology and service.

Perhaps there should be a law that a utility company must maintain an office in any community that they service. Any ideas?

Billie Shaffer

You're certainly right about the need for better service from our local utilities. One solution may be to have competition in the market for local phone, gas, and electric service. When one company has a monopoly on a service, the people have no choice but to do business with them.

Hopefully, phone service will be improving this year as GTE is in the process of upgrading their local equipment.

We called the regional West Texas Utilities office in Childress and asked them about any plans for the Clarendon office. WTU business operations manager Steve Teichelman assured us that he knows of no plans to close any of their offices.

Among other reasons for WTU not closing local offices, Teichelman mentioned the company's large appliance resale division. "If we close those local offices, we can't sell those appliances, so that's our incentive to keep them open," Teichelman said.

Archaeology Exhibit

This year the Texas Archaeology

Saints' Roost Museum has been assured that a significant portion of excavation will eventually be displayed in the Saints' Roost Museum. But it will take a little time for the material to be catalogued, studied, and assembled so it will probably be a year before the traveling exhibit is ready. If is also a definite possibility that some of the uncarthed artifacts will be given to Saints' Roost for permanent display.

A Roosting Owl

A full grown screech owl has taken up residence in the trees that flank the Museum, although it will probably move if the number of visitors keeps disturbing its daily naps.

The owl joins the covey of blue quail, the crowd of crows, and the squad of squirrels that call the museum home. The owl should fit in with the ghosts who have been up to old tricks, turning lights on and off, and rattling things in the locked store-

It's sort of ironic. In the early days of Clarendon, the "Owlhoots" nicknamed it "Saints' Roost." Now the "Saints" have to share the roost with an owl.

To all of you who are ready to get involved in more good fiction, wonderful stories with unforgettable characters in whose lives you can become absorbed. I highly recommend authors Rosamunde Pilcher, Maeve Vinchey, and Janette Okra, whose storytelling is enticing as well as wholesome.

Rosamunde Pilcher's writings take place in her native Scotland. Many of you are acquainted with one of her first novels, Shellseekers, which sold over three million copies in the United States and Canada, and almost four million worldwide. This was quoted as being a "publishing phenomenon," and was on the best seller list for two years. She followed this novel with September, another best seller. Since then, she has written several works including two books of short stories and her latest novel, Coming Home.

Taking place in Irish settings, are best sellers, Light a Penny Candle and Echoes by Maeve Binchey. In Burton Memorial Library, you'll find several other novels written in her appealing style.

Janette Okra, born of Canadian parents in Champion, Alberta, has written a series of books which take place in the Canadian West. However, her settings are not limited to this area. There are four books which are combined into a series call Seqsons of the Heart. Another series, Love Comes Softly, contains eight novels. Other series are available on the library shelves. More will be said about Janette Okre in another article.

An understanding of human feel-ings seems to be portrayed by these novelists, bringing love, joy, and teartbreak into ordinary lives. Why of check them out?

The Sunday Big Bass Tournament at Lake Baylor was an exercise in diate hurdles with a time of 35 sec- perseverance. At sunrise, twenty-three anglers from fourteen Panhandle towns blasted off into a moderate 20 mph westerly wind. By eight o'clock the winds increased to 30 mph, and by nine an old fashioned dirt storm was fueled by a sustained 40 mph gale with gusts up to 55 mph.

How tough was the fishing? Only four keepers were caught, and JAY FRIEMEL of Canyon caught three! His big (?) bass tipped the scales at 3.23 lbs., thereby becoming the smallest bass to win at Lake Baylor. Jay's winnings for the day totaled $535, and his secret lure was a black/blue jig and pig.
